Peking's edict coupled the charge with an offer to negotiate with India in a peaceful settlement of the bloody border conflict which Prime Minister Nehru said Monday threatens his country's independence.

As fighting was reported continuing on the fourth day of hard battling which pushed the Indians steadily back, an Indian spokesman repeated Nehru has rejected a Liberian proposal of mediation by Afro-Asian powers.

China made the charge that Indian troops crossed the McMahon line in a new attempt to place the blame on India for the current fighting. India has charged repeatedly that the Chinese, not the Indians, launched a large-scale assault four days ago.

The Chinese statement said the Indian government, although it made clear repeatedly it did not recognize the McMahon line, nevertheless has followed a policy of not crossing the line which India considers the border with Tibet.

However, said Peking, "taking the greatest restraint of the Chinese government as a sign of weakness, the Indian government pushed further and further ahead and has brazenly crossed the so-called McMahon line, invaded and occupied large areas of Chinese territory and launched large-scale attacks on Chinese frontier guards."

Because of this, said the broadcast, "the Chinese frontier guards fighting in self-defence no longer need to restrain themselves to the bounds of the illegal McMahon line."

The McMahon line was drawn by Henry McMahon, in negotiations with Tibet in 1914, when India was under British rule.

The Chinese statement, attributed to the Chinese defence ministry, said "even under the present circumstances the Chinese side will decidedly not rule out the possibility of seeking an end to the border conflict and reopening peaceful negotiations."

Before the current outbreak of fighting India had refused to negotiate unless the Chinese first withdrew from disputed territory. So did Nehru in a broadcast Monday in which he "must carry on the struggle to the end" against what he termed aggression or domination of India by "powerful unscrupulous" foe. He appealed for national unity, hard work, no slackening and "possibly more reverses in what may prove to be a long crisis.

Council Reverses Decision On Granting Station Permit

After passing a recommendation two weeks ago calling for amendment to the zoning regulating bylaw changing the permissible number from 55 to 65, city council yesterday cut an about face and turned down the bylaw by a 7-5 vote.

The decision means that Gordon Chalmers, Dundas Street West, will be unable to obtain the service station permit promised him by council.

Yesterday a delegation of service station operators, headed by their association president Goldie Hughes, appeared on council protesting the proposed bylaw amendment.

Mr. Hughes told council that with the city by-passed by 401 highway, service station operators were in need of more transient trade and that the present 55 stations were sufficient.

Again yesterday the issue resulted in spirited discussion on the part of councillors.

WOULD BE FAVOR

Ald. Jack Ireland said that with the high level of population only large gasoline companies were able to afford new stations and suggested that council would be doing Mr. Chalmers a favor by turning down the by-law.

Even now four or five gas stations were being operated, he said.

Deputy Mayor Ben Corke saw this as a way out for council, suggesting that when a gas station ceased to function its permit should go back to the city, that is that the bylaw there would be no need to amend the by-law, he said.

But Alderman William Larish urged council to pass the by-law.

"How many times is council going to bow before pressure groups?" he asked. Council had reversed its decision on the cancellation of the gas station permit on Canniffon Rd., when the oil company made a promise, said Ald. Larish, and we're objecting, he said.

SHOULD PROTECT CLAIM

Alderman Arthur Shaw claimed, however, that council should protect the interest of gas station operators the same as that of the downtown merchants.

Alderman Walter Elliott asked to be excused from voting because of personal interest in the issue.

This brought a retort from Alderman Whalen, who said Ald. Elliott was a bit late asking to be excused after voting on it.

"If the alderman had asked to be excused two weeks ago when the recommendation carried by only one vote, the matter would not be before us now," he said.

Voting for the by-law amendment were: Aldermen Bailey, Corke, Hyde, Jarvis and Temple. Opposing were: Aldermen Elliott, Harrison, Ireland, Lowery, Rayeroft, Robb and Whalen.

City Youth Committed For Trial

An 18-year-old Belleville youth, Robert Ernest Clapp, was committed for trial at the next court having criminal jurisdiction in Magistrate T. J. Wills in city court here this morning when he appeared on a charge of breaking and entering the Club Ganara on Bridge Street last week.

Evidence heard in the case revealed that police Constable F. H. Davidson, walking in the area on the morning of October 7, noticed the drapes in the window of the club in different position to what they were when he walked past on earlier that morning.

The officer said he heard a noise within the club being closed and he went back to the cruiser and requested assistance.

Constables Armstrong, Marcin, Hird and Brown arrived on the scene and took up various positions. Constable Davidson then entered the establishment led by a club executive member.

Entering the club they found it had been ransacked. Davidson began a search, searching the premises and as he entered the exit he observed a youth, the accused, leaving the building. Thomas H. Keck, 21, was at first apprehended. He was sentenced in connection with the same offence by the magistrate here.

Constable Davidson alerted his fellow officers to watch the door as one of them was leaving the building.

As Clapp dashed around one corner of the building he was tripped by Constable Martin, Clapp was wearing a pair of socks over his hands, the constable testified.

LAST STREETCAR

GLASGOW (CP)—This city's streetcar service — the last in Britain — has been withdrawn. Crowds defied heavy rain to watch the last "tram" make its farewell journey. Buses will take over the service.

Hydro's Mobile Display Coach To Visit City

Highlights of a Medallion home are featured in Ontario Hydro's mobile display coach which will arrive in Belleville on Thursday, Oct. 25.

On display until Saturday, the gold and white coach will be located at north end of the Belleville Plaza.

A wide variety of electrical appliances—all features of a Medallion home—will be shown plus the most recent models available and the latest trends in modern electrical living.

Whether planning a new home or remodelling an older one, everybody will find something of interest during a visit to the display coach.

For the homemaker, one section has been planned as a typical kitchen working area, with an ultramodern wall oven and counter-top elements. An automatic dishwasher, never frost refrigerator freezer, an automatic washer and a clothes dryer, are part of the major equipment in the kitchen area. On display nearby are portable appliances including the colorful food mixer, fry pan, saucepan and coffee maker. Each helps to make the preparation of meals easier.

Another highlight of Medallion living in the mobile coach is a dual element fast-recovery electric water heater which is designed to provide an abundance of hot water whenever required. Hydro representatives will provide information on this installation, and explain the rental, purchase and service plans available to customers.

The latest trend in all-electric living—central heating—is explained in one area of the display coach. A number of operating models are shown and they would be in a home, and are wired for operation. Colour photographs show typical home installations of electric heating. An air-conditioner on display demonstrates how enjoyable cool comfort in the home can be during the summer.

Attractively lighted for the benefit of visitors, the mobile display coach at the same time illustrates practical lighting applications for the home. In the kitchen area, for example, a recessed plastic ceiling shows how fluorescent light fitting of this type can be diffused to give a pleasant, adequate illumination without glare.

A 100-ampere main service panel—heart of the Medallion home—is also displayed with explanatory material.

The display coach is staffed at all times during exhibition hours with personnel qualified to provide visitors with general information regarding Hydro, and to discuss the electrical equipment on display in the exhibit.

Fluoridation Issue Will Go to Electors

Although city council last year approved of the issue and the bylaw, Belleville ratepayers will be asked to decide whether or not they want fluoridation of the water supply.

Council yesterday approved of the by-law to have the question go to the people at the December municipal elections.

The fluoridation issue last year was discussed on several occasions although council finally gave it the go-ahead signal, installation of the necessary equipment was held up by the utilities commission because of the cost factor.

10 'Clear Cut' Enquiries From Prospective Industries Received by Commission

The Belleville Industrial Commission since the first of the year has received 10 "clear cut" enquiries from prospective industries and negotiations are now being carried out which could see two medium-sized industries locate in the city.

This was the report of Alderman Jack Ireland, council representative on the Industrial Commission who yesterday reported on the Commission's activities for the year.

He noted that the 10 bona-fide enquiries from prospective industries were three times the number received in the previous three-year period.

The city industrial survey conducted last year by the Lake Ontario Development Association had drawn there was considerable property for industrial development in the city.

Such properties are already established," enjoined Alderman Jack Ellis.

A committee of Aldermen Ireland, Whalen and Lowen was named as a committee to look after the purchase of gifts for the team.

GOLDFISH VARIETIES

There are about 500 different kinds of goldfish ranging from tiny and sleek ones to comically fat and lumpy types.

City Will Honor Senior Ball Champs

The city will recognize the Belleville Kenmore senior baseball team which this year won the Ontario championship and will purchase them gifts to the amount of $200.

The above amount was voted yesterday by city council but not before the question being asked whether the move would establish a precedent.

"How do we know that someone else will not come along and ask the same thing?" Alderman Sid Robb asked.

Deputy Mayor Corke said it was policy that the city recognized any team which has won a provincial championship.

"It is merely continuing a procedure already established," enjoined Alderman Jack Ellis.

A committee of Aldermen Ireland, Whalen and Lowen was named as a committee to look after the purchase of gifts for the team.

Awards, Dinner Closes Season For Golfers

TRENTON — Golf's closing day, locally, saw 165 members of the golf club and their wives out to the special buffet dinner and dance in the club house and spectators at the presentation of annual prizes ceremonies.

For the men, the winner of the Siddall Cup was club champ Carl Charlton; the Valchar Cup went to the runner up to the club champion, Clarence Hickey.

Jim Walsh came through for the Whittier Consolation trophy; the Barker cup was won by Carl Charlton; the Farnsomb ringer trophy was won by Mr. Charlton also and the Pregent Memorial Cup went to George Burgess.

Junior Club Champ, Ron Beale was given the Howard Axic Cup.

For the ladies, Huda Chivas walked away with the McClung ringer trophy; the Bentpost Challenge Cup and the Nugent Challenge Cup.

The Andrews Trophy was won by Dorothy Axic; beginners' cup went to Judy Telfer; the McLean Trophy was won by Audrey Herrington.

Mary Wilson came through for the booby consolation trophy.

The men's prizes were presented by Doug. Bannon, assisted by club president Jim Duncan and Mrs. Duncan. Ladies prizes were given out by Fran Bannon, president of the ladies' golf division and the games captain, F. J. Axic.

Results of the Idiot Golf play for the day were: men: Joe Valchar of Stirling; Doug. Bannon of Belleville; Evan Bovay of Toronto; Tom Fraser of Belleville and Bill Long of Trenton.

Ladies: Mrs. Bill House of Trenton; Fran Bannon of Belleville; Ella Hunter of Point Anne; Lois Rictor and Jane Long, both of Trenton.

In all, 80 people played Idiot Golf. D. Bannon and Bill Long entertained the club members for a two and a half hour stint.

Business Women Close Season

TRENTON—On Sunday, Miss Marion Baker and Miss Lucy Baker entertained members of the Business and Professional Women's Club at a luncheon in their home, 75 Byron Street. This event marked end of special B.&P. club activities, locally, designed to continue with functions of an international nature.

Will Probe School Fire

TRENTON — A fire in the science physical education department at Trenton High School, discovered by the caretaker, Wilfred Bonter on Sunday, will be investigated by Ontario Fire Marshal's Office personnel from Belleville.

Two rooms received smoke damage but there was very little damage otherwise.

Woman Gets Lost Purse, Watch Back

A year ago last June Miss Dorothy Stapley, of 28 Dundas on Street, lost a change purse containing a sum of money and a white gold watch in Eaton's Belleville store. It was advertised on the successive nights in the local newspaper, but without results.

Yesterday, Miss Stapley received a telephone call that a purse had been delivered recently to a Mrs. Butcher, nee Stapley, who resides on Byron Street, in the Hillcrest district, who eventually contacted Miss Stapley's sister, Mrs. Jim Bailey, who then called Miss Stapley (reporting same).

Needless to say Miss Stapley was thrilled to get back her prized watch as well as the contents of the purse, and is most grateful to the unknown sender.

Be Prepared

Human inadequacy has been making a good part of the news for the past week. A Toronto policeman stood by helplessly, watching a child drown. A woman in a Memphis, Tenn., munitions factory found a training bomb that was smoking, panicked, and threw the bomb onto a production line, where it set off 600 other bombs. Two men and a boy drowned, in a Northern Ontario Lake, because the men were foolish enough to put three men, a boy, camping equipment and an outboard motor in a boat fit to carry no more than two persons and no equipment, without a motor. The one man who survived waited on an island, with two lifejackets, for two days while the boy, clinging to the boat, shouted for help before he slipped off and drowned.

People are people, and must be assumed to be fallible. The Toronto police constable is not to be blamed for his lack of swimming ability, as an individual. That he found himself in a position he was unable to cope with is the fault of his training. The Memphis woman should not have been working near munitions, if she was not level-headed enough to think and act quickly when faced with an emergency such as a smoking bomb. The men in the boat should not have been allowed near a boat, but who was to stop them?

But the simple fact is that if humanity were to demand all persons entrusted with responsible jobs were worthy of the trust, society would be faced with vacant jobs and unemployed people. Of the men interested in police work, for instance the chances are small that enough are free of all phobias to man the police forces needed. One might demand that police officers be able to swim, but acrophobia, claustrophobia, pyrophobia or any of a hundred other factors might just as easily render them incapable in other circumstances.

Hiring only women who could think straight while holding a smoking bomb, munitions factories might be understaffed, and would certainly find other problems among their employees.

The simple fact is any person who expects another to look after him is looking for trouble. People who venture near deep water should either have learned to swim or be resigned to the possibility of drowning. People working in munitions factories, or in any industry, should be prepared to ensure their own safety in spite of the worst their fellow workers can do to endanger it.

The idea of people helping other people out of trouble, for disinterested motives, is relatively new to the human race, and is still not yet gained universal popularity. Even among people who will risk their lives for others, incompetence is the rule rather than the exception. The only safe course, today as in the days when our ancestors swung through the treetops, is for the individual to be ready to help himself.

Of Mugs and Con Men

In Hamilton, swindlers have developed a new technique for separating elderly people from their money. The latest swindle hinges on the victim agreeing to help a supposed new employee in a plot to catch a "dishonest teller."

Amongst the dishonest fringe of society, of course, the "con man" or swindler, is the elite, the man looked up to, in prison or out, by the less articulate mugs. He is even tolerated within society for his "virtue" of not resorting to physical violence.

But the swindler should, in the light of history, be taken as seriously as the back alley lead pipe artist. The mug may be brutal. He may kill or maim several people before he is caught. But his method does not present a new peril.

Man dragged himself out of the woods and into towns, eventually building them to cities, by taking a club to prospective meals or prospective dangers. The mug who waits in the shadows with a lead pipe is a throwback, dangerous to the individual, but not fatal to society.

The confidence man, waltzing with a pen and a blank cheque, is a different problem. His kind came into being since man arrived at the city stage of development, and he is developing along with honest men. His techniques, slightly modified, have invaded "respectable society" to become sales techniques, and he himself makes his living by being able to pass in almost any social circles.

The mug is a man using the techniques of the ape for dishonest purposes. The confidence man uses the education and manner of a man for his purposes. He poses a real problem to society.

Ottawa Offbeat

Nasty Name-Calling Common In Ill-Mannered Parliament

BY RICHARD JACKSON
(From The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — While this Parliament may be the most talented in many years, it is also the worst mahnered.

There are a lot of sharp minds in the Commons . . . with tongues to match.

In a Chamber where the customary form of personal address has been "My Honorable Friend," or "The Honorable Member," it is a bit startling to hear MPs tossing off words like "clown . . . liar . . . buffoon . . . communist . . . fascist . . . a idiot . . . comic . . ."

To read 'way-back copies of Hansard, and to hear the veterans of Parliament Hill tell it, the Communist Community conducted its afaire with a studied almost Old World courtesy.

Debate was spirited — as it is at least in the personal between-Members sense — as a minuet.

True, the going was often rough, politically, but it was impersonal. With each other, the MPs were considerate on personal sensitivities. They were polite, always courteous.

TOUGH OLD TRADER

The war, and tough old C. D. "Trader" Howe brought something of a change.

The insult was stock-in-trade stuff with crusty old "C. D." but he was also, on occasion special, a sort of bon appetit with a touch that ever really got very buffed when the "Trader" gave them the back of his hard hand.

He once called the then Opposition Conservative MP George Hees, "a consumptuous young punk", but it was just his rough bull-in-the-China-shop way of doing business, so nobody — not even George Hees — objected.

Old "C.D." was that way with the press, too.

You never knew, when you went to see him, whether he would put his arm on your shoulder and say, affectionately, "What can' I do for you, son?" — or stand back, glaring and snarling and roar an "NO!", chew you out like a drill sergeant, and then tell you what you wanted to know.

He was tough and rude, but seldom, if ever, nasty in the mean personal sense.

It is different these days in the Commons.

When one "Honorable Member" calls another "Honorable Member", it is a clue on how any other of those names being tossed around so lightly, he means it.

It springs from the slum-dwelling distaste that both the Liberals and the New Democrats have in common of the Social Credit group — a bitter, acid dislike that is reciprocated in full and extra measure.

PIG, PIG

It is getting, in the Commons, to the point that there is a civil war, on the personal level, between the French-speaking Socreds and the Quebec Liberals.

They hate each other continuously, fighting their own private little war, often quite regardless of and oblivious to what might be going on in the rest of the Commons.

And yet, it is probably the least of the insults they exchange.

The Socreds have called the New Democrats "Socialists" — which, of course, they are, and proud of it — and they have called them "Communists".

On the tit for tat basis, the New Democrats have called the Socreds "Fascists", and referred pointedly to Social Credit Co-leader Real Caouette as admiration for Hitler and Mussolini as economists.

The Liberals have called the Socreds "liars", among other choice things, and the Grits in turn have been told by the Social Credit as "clowns" and "idiots".

There are cynics among the observers and bystanders who will tell you that all this insult is a matter of straight party policy . . . with each of the three Opposition parties convinced that individually and collectively they get and remain mad enough at each other that they cannot and will not, even by accident, vote together to overthrow the Government.

Interesting to note that they were so busy with their interOppositition sniping that they have little time and few insults to spare for the Government.

"Frankly, I would've been disappointed if you hadn't asked me to play after I brought this instrument with me."

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

October 23rd, 1942

One of the outstanding engineering feats, the laying of a 224 mile twelve - inch pipeline from Portland, Maine to Montreal, Que., was shown to the Belleville Rotary Club on Monday through the medium of a highly interesting motion picture film.

The film was brought here by the representatives of the Imperial Oil Company and the machine provided through the courtesy of the Stewart Warner Alemite Corporation of Canada. Mr. Jack Warner of that organization was the operator. The film showed the laying, welding of the joints, the various methods of coupling were seen. Six powerful pumping stations relay the vital fluid from source to destination.

On behalf of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers of Canada, Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner, presented a medical trolley kitchen unit to the London Railwaymen's Canteens Association. Belleville has an active branch of this organization and members had a share in arranging the fine gift which is greatly appreciated in Britain.

Another type of drunken driver was apprehended late Monday night when a local citizen was found riding his bicycle along Station Street in such a zig-zag manner that his antics attracted the attention of police on patrol. More for his own protection the man was taken off the bicycle, and later charged with intoxication.

Mr. D. Conklin of Huff's Island, Prince Edward County, offered a fresh crop grown strawberries for sale on the market on Saturday and they sold for 25 cents per box. The berries were uniform in size and quality and this is the latest for home grown strawberries to be offered for sale on the local market for a number of years. Mr. Conklin has been picking strawberries all fall in his garden.

Eggs soared in price until they sold at 35 cents per dozen on the local Saturday market. This is the highest price paid this fall. Butter sold at 22 cents per pound.

Miss Maude Campbell is spending a few days in Toronto on business.

STOCK QUOTATIONS

TORONTO (CP) — Profit-taking weakness gripped the stock market amid unusually heavy morning trading today.

Reacting to the U.S. - Cuba crisis situation, industrials dropped more than five points on index in the first hour. Trading topped the 1,000,000 - share mark.

In the main list, losses of a point or more went to Bankeor points of Montreal and Nova Scotia, Distillers Seagrams, Walker-Gooderham and Abitibi. Investment syndicate A took one of the steepest drops, falling 3½ to 40¾. Other losers included Steelwinpaa, Bell Telephone, Algoma Steel, BA Oil and Consolidated Paper, all off ½ to ¼ in ½ range.

On the exchange index, industrials fell 5.43 to 222.50, golds 31 at 90.51, base metals 15 at 170.34 and western oils 8.18 at 108.20. The 11 a.m. volume was 1,069,000 shares compared with 673,200 at the same time Monday.

Among base metals, International Nickel dropped ¼ and Consolidated Mining and Smelting ¼. Denison dipped 10 cents to $3.30. Speculative saw Northgate decline 35 cents to $4.30. In western oils, Dome dropped ¼ and Home B and Pacific Petroleum each ¼.

Prices firmed slightly in the afternoon session.

In mid-afternoon, industrials showed a drop of more than five points on the index; they closed with a loss of almost three points. Western oils fell two points and base metals one —the metals hovered all day near their lowest level in 30 months.

Among industrials, Interprovincial Pipe Line fell 3¼ to 74¼ and Power Corporation 1½ to 59½.

Trans-Canada Pipeline, Bank of Nova Scotia and Walker-Gooderham all declined ¼, Moore Corporation, Aluminium and Imperial Oil ⅛ and Algoma Steel and Bell Telephone ⅛ each.

On index, industrials were down 3.84 to 222.89, golds 31 at 90.53, base metals 1.20 at 170.39 and western oils 2.48 at 110.86. The index volume was 3,074,000 shares compared with 3,491,000 Friday.

Conservatives Monday night an hour after President Kennedy's dramatic statement on the Cuban crisis.

WINS SUPPORT

The prime minister won general support from all opposition parties.

He appealed for calm resolve to meet the crisis. This was no time for panic, but one of those grave occasions when normal differences between political parties dissolve, he said.

Opposition Leader Pearson endorsed President Kennedy's decision in bringing the Cuban issue before both the United Nations and the Organization of American States. He said that although Canada is not an OAS member, this country should seek to play a role in its deliberations.

Mr. Diefenbaker told reporters outside the chamber later that he did not think this was possible. Canada could attend an OAS meeting only as an observer.

INSPECT INSTALLATIONS

Mr. Diefenbaker's proposal is that the eight non-aligned members of the United Nations Geneva disarmament conference be invited to conduct an on-site inspection of military installations in Cuba. The eight members are Brazil, Mexico, Ethiopia, Nigeria, Sweden, India, Burma, and the United Arab Republic.

If Russia and Cuba have not been building up their offensive weapons potential in Cuba, they should have no fear from such an inspection, Mr. Diefenbaker said.

His proposal was reminiscent of his suggestion to Russia in the United Nations in 1958 that the United States and Canada exchange areas of arctic lands for inspection. "If you have nothing to fear, you fear it!" he asked Russia then.

Speaking slowly and feelingly in the Commons, Mr. Diefenbaker described the Kennedy speech as sombre and challenging, and said the revelation that Cuba has Russian missiles "constitutes a threat to most of the cities of North America, including our major cities in Canada."

He based this assessment of the neutral on-site inspection on his belief that "what people all over the world want and what they want is a full and complete understanding of what is taking place in Cuba."

SITUATION SHOCKS

Mr. Pearson said what must be done is to bring home the shock of the situation from resulting in "either a feeling of despair and helplessness on the one hand, or panic on the other."

"In any steps the government of Canada takes in order to prevent this situation from deteriorating into the indescribable horror of nuclear war, we will role it, if it is possible for the government to play, it will get the full support of every member on this side of the House."

Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson said Canada had a moral obligation to make its stand clearly understood.

Not only was Cuba a crisis point, but the Berlin situation was serious, and the Red China-India border fighting probably "has been used as a convenient smoke screen."

New Democratic Party House Leader H. W. Herridge expressed confidence in External Affairs Minister Green to the general applause of the House, said Canada should use "to the very limit" the friendships it had with other nations so that "the cause of peace will be well served by Canada in the very serious and fateful days ahead."

Baptist Church 89th Anniversary Addressed by Former Pastor

The members of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church celebrated their 89th anniversary last Sunday.

The Reverend L. Keith Dancy, of Brampton, former pastor of the church was their speaker guest and speaker for the day.

Mr. Daniel gave two inspiring messages. In the morning he used as his subject "The revelation of God" as revealed in action and word, stressing that actions speak louder than words and our religion true, spiritual and ethical. Our forefathers used these principles as they laboured to lay the foundations of our church and these standards must be held to continue the work.

At the evening service, "The Cross - the central theme of Christianity" was chosen by Mr. Daniel. Calvary is the pledge of God's love; the measure of God's agony for our sins, and the evidence of the eternal love of God."

The choir, under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Reilley, with Mr. William Connor at the organ, rendered appropriate selections. Mrs. Gordon Orr and Mr. Orville Malcolm.

After the evening service, a reception was held in the Sunday school auditorium for Mr. and Mrs. Daniel when the members and friends had the opportunity to renew acquaintances and to enjoy meeting Mr. Daniel's two negro spirituals. The pastor, the Reverend Gordon Woodcock closed the happy occasion with prayer.

Captains of the teams are Jack Jury (Globetrotters), Murray Hamilton (Generals), Ken McCabe (Celtics) and Dave Anderson (Steelers). Any lads interested in playing in this league should contact physical director Joe Ruddy at the "Y".

Dussek Street Property Will Be Repurchased

The city will recommend to the 1963 council that it buy back from the National Grocer Company property fronting Dussek Street which it previously sold that company.

The city will pay the original purchase price of $10,700 plus $1,340 paid off for taxes and $269.40 legal fees, making a total of $11,179.40.

Several councillors objected to the city paying any more than the original $10,700 figure paid to the city, but the majority prevailed and the motion to repurchase the property at the $11,179 figure was passed. ure was passed.

The purchase price will be included in the 1963 budget.

Mediator Will Meet Trainmen, CPR Officials

MONTREAL (CP) — Representatives of the CPR and the railway's 6,000 trainmen to meet at 10 a.m. EDT today with federal mediator William H. Dickie in a bid to head off a strike scheduled to start in six days.

The talks were adjourned Monday night after more than 10 hours of secret bargaining amid speculation that the issues separating the two parties had been narrowed considerably. There was no immediate official comment from either side.

The brotherhood of Railway Trainmen (CLC) has threatened to strike the CPR Monday—more than could tie up all traffic on the railway's 17,000 miles of track.

Mr. Dickie, a Toronto conciliator, was appointed Friday by Labor Minister Starr after talks ended in a complete deadlock last Thursday.

Basic issues in the dispute are a series of complicated work rules that the railway is seeking to revise. Both the railway and the union regard the work rules as important principles on which they cannot afford to back down.

Both sides apparently have agreed on an eight-per-cent wage increase. The trainmen now earn an average of between $4,600 a year for yardmen and $7,000 a year for conductors.

PLANS FOR CUBA

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Communist East Germany plans to build 25 factories in Cuba at a cost of $30,000,000, Havana radio said Monday. The broadcast said the plants, to employ 4,000 technicians and workers, would include installations to manufacture fabrics, brushes, cement, sewing machines, vegetable oil, tanks, wood products and chocolate. All are scheduled to be finished some time in 1965.

made IL-28 jet bombers—submarine planes with a range of about 750 miles.

These bombers had been introduced into Cuba in the last 10 days.

The spokesman indicated the United States would challenge any Russian cargo planes.

And in Ottawa the Canadian government disclosed that it has banned Soviet planes from Canadian bases on flights to Cuba. External Affairs Minister Green said the order forbidding Cuba-bound Soviet planes from landing at such bases as Gander, Nfld., for rest and refuelling was given a few days ago.

WILL STOP SHIPS

The main focus, for the present at least, appeared to be on stopping Cuban-bound ships.

Asked whether "You are prepared to sink Soviet ships," the defence spokesman replied "Yes."

If weapons considered to be of a defensive nature are found on the ships, the spokesman said, they will be allowed to move on to Cuba. However, he added that "we may expand that category of prohibited goods as time passes by."

What are defensive and what are offensive weapons?

The spokesman mentioned rifles and anti-aircraft missiles as defensive and said a sub-sea medium-range missile is "almost certainly, by anybody's definition, offensive."

FORCE PREPARES

A task force of 40 warships—including destroyers, frigates and submarines—left about 100 planes aboard, 15 destroyers, a helicopter carrier and other ships—has been in the Puerto Rico area for more than a week on an amphibious-anti-submarine warfare exercise.

The navy armament from San Juan that this group had sailed to conduct the blockade was directed by the Pentagon.

The U.S. Atlantic Fleet numbers 450 ships, more than 100 of them auxiliaries and more than 200,000 men.

Many units were on the move.

Special Committee Will Investigate Ambulance Service

A special committee of city council members, plus the medical officer of health and the respective chiefs of the fire and police department has been named to investigate the ambulance service in the city.

The request for the appointment of the committee came from the Board of Health, following various incidents said to have taken place on the morning of October 17th, following the fire at the Bakelite plant.

TO REDUCE STRAYS

NEW PROVIDENCE, N.J. (AP) — The borough council passed an ordinance Monday night requiring cat owners to identify their pets either with a collar and tag or a tattoo-or-indelible ink stamp. The council said the legislation was designed to help reduce the number of stray cats in the community.

Evidence of Long Delays To Cancel Charters Given

By JOHN LEBLANC

TORONTO (CP)—Evidence of long delays in cancelling the social club charters of some major Toronto gambling houses was given to the Ontario royal commission on crime Monday in questioning of Provincial Secretary John Yaremko.

The commission heard of one club—the Orange Lodge of Toronto police first recommended cancellation in 1954 and which had its licence only in 1961.

Another—the Bellevue Bridge and Social Club—was recommended formally by the provincial-secretary's department in 1959 that its charter was to be cancelled but the case has dragged out until now because of legal technicalities.

Cancellation proceedings also are pending in the case of the Somerset Club, linked by police with a group estimated to be worth up to $6,000,000 and said to be making business and recommended for charter revocation by Metropolitan Toronto police in July.

NEED MORE 'TOOKS'

Mr. Yaremko said one reason for delay in action on the Somerset was to get "more books" on which to base a cancellation order. The club itself has not been convicted of anything, although members have.

Evidence came to the commission from Mr. Yaremko and through his departmental files under examination by Liberal party counsel William Estey and New Democratic Party counsel Patrick Lawlor as the commission resumed the case of its public sittings.

Conclusion of Mr. Yaremko's testimony today ended a day of hearings—hay being an end to public hearings. However, the commissioner, Mr. Justice W. B. Roach, took under advisement a request by NDP chief counsel Andrew Brewin that oral arguments of the various lawyers be made publicly instead of in private as the commission has planned.

The commissioner also reserved decision on a second request of Mr. Brewin that it make public at least part of the testimony given by ranking police authorities concerning that part of the inquiry dealing with Ontario crime generally.

The police officials are being heard in private sessions.

Mr. Yaremko's evidence Monday consisted for cross-examination by the opposition party lawyers on earlier testimony by the minister in charge of the department's administration of social club charters, a major point of attack by Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer's speech of last November which touched off the police inquiry.

EXPLAINS DELAY

In explaining delay in closing the Somerset, Mr. Yaremko said he had to find sufficient cause for cancelling a charter, and he was unable by law to suspend it. Also, preparation of material for the royal commission had sidetracked some projects.

Missing Boys Walk Home

SUDBURY (CP)—Four small Sudbury boys lost overnight in a swamp in 33-degree weather walked to safety Monday in the midst of an extensive air, land and water search for them.

Steve Pyne, 8, and his big brother Dennis, 9, Jean Gauthier, 9, and Roland Labelle, 9, said they spent the night huddled in a blanket within 150 feet of Highway 69 north of here. However, a creek lay between them and the highway and they were reluctant to wait until dawn to cross it.

Actor Against Being Private Cigarette Butler for Women

VANCOUVER (CP) — Austin Willis has a pet peeve: Women and cigarettes.

The Canadian star of stage, screen, radio and television has a "thing" about acting as a private cigarette butler.

"Ladies who assume the personal habit of smoking should acquire the necessary smoking accoutrements and keep them with them," Willis said here during a personal appearance tour.

"I am going to spend a prolonged period of time with a lady, I will gladly go to the expense of giving her a carton of cigarettes and a box of kitchen matches, just to avoid the nudges."

Nudges? That happens when the woman at a party discovers herself out of cigarettes.

"Cigarette," she says, poking her escort. He leaps up, proffers the pack, then returns to the conversation.

"Light," she demands. Another interruption.

TYPES

"With women smokers, there are two types," explains Willis. "The independent ones — bless them — and the Buddhist ones. The Buddhist smoker will sit with an unlighted cigarette in her mouth almost indefinitely unless someone lights it.

"All around her, people are lighting. At her elbow is a table covered with lighters and matches, yet she sits there, waiting.

"You know the sniff. It means, 'you haven't lit my cigarette, yet.'

Cigarettes also have to be put out.

"I think it has something to do with nail polish or the upkeep of their hands, but women are forever stubbing out a cigarette out-deign to bend the cigarette slightly, with a result that it never will smoke rises, and rises and rises.

"This provides, of course, an extra hazard for me. It might yellow my hair."

This is not to be taken as a plea for wholesale feminine independence. There's little enough reliance on men nowadays, Willis says.

"Men have become so sedentary that just about all we can contribute in the way of manmalade jar. We no longer go out and hunt, kill, skin and bring home the bear. So when I'm handed a jar with a well-tightened lid, I look at it like a bear and feel fearless and masculine."

They were attended by the bride's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gooding. After the reception the bride and bridegroom left by plane for Nassau. the Bahamas. On their return they will reside in Toronto.

Women's Institute

WELLINGTON W.I.

WELLINGTON—The regular meeting of the Wellington Women's Institute was held last Tuesday evening in the town hall. There were 13 members and 21 visitors present. Guests were the district president, Mrs. Earle Onderdonk, and the Redneersville W.I.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Tripp, who extended a hearty welcome to all.

A discussion in the 'Night School Courses' then took place.

The 4-H Club leader, Mrs. J. Springings, gave an interesting talk on their project for the year. It was decided to give the 4-H club a donation of $10 to help buy supplies. Also that the Board of Directors see about purchasing some new dishes. The sick committee was given $10 for their work.

Mrs. Tripp presented the following program: current events by Mrs. W. Callow; poem of the month, Mrs. Laura Wight; a baton number by Miss Margaret Bailey, was enjoyed followed by a sing song. A quartet from the Redneersville W.I. rendered a lovely musical number. Miss Linda Thompson, and Margaret Bailey gave another baton number.

Mrs. Onderdonk, district president, gave an interesting report on the convention in Belleville and hoped every Institute would donate to the Foundation Scholarship Fund.

Mrs. Tripp thanked her for coming to the meeting.

Lunch was served and an enjoyable half hour was spent.

Poland Still Pretty Well Man's World Says Girl

By JIM PEACOCK

VANCOUVER (CP)—If they visited they met many more. And they had numerous social events at which they met many more Polish students but youths from other Communist countries.

The youth of the country love jazz, she said, "and they like it loud." Some of the smaller city clubs have jazz combos "all over the place" and they often have theatre groups "all over the place, too."

POLES CHARMING

Wendy Noble has seen much more conscious of talent than we are," Wendy said. "The students are particularly politically minded."

Miss Noble, accustomed to the attentions of men after a year as one of three women in her office, found she met many Polish men at dances and other social events held for the seminar groups.

"They're very charming," she said. "They'll kiss your hand at the drop of a hat. Canadians are a great sense of humor and can laugh at themselves and the system.

"But much as I like them, I'll take a Canadian any day."

The reason? Miss Noble explained that the Poles remain strong family people whose poppa is head of the family.

"There's lots of opportunity for the women," she said, "but it still is pretty well a man's world."

Weddings

WAMBOLDT — SMITH

A lovely fall wedding was solemnized on Saturday, October 20th at 2.00 p.m. in the RCAF chapel, Bagotville, Quebec, when Rhoda A. Smith of Falmouth, Nova Scotia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith, was united in marriage to James Gilbert Wambolt, of Belleville, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Wambolt, by Padre, Flight-Lieutenant Pocock, of the RCAF Station, before a lovely background of autumn flowers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her Dresden blue wool suit, with white feathered hat and accessories. She carried a white Bible crested with red carnations.

Mrs. Thomas Usherwood, attired in a bronze and yellow silk suit with matching flower hat and corsage of white carnations, was her only attendant.

Mr. T. Usherwood of the RCAF, Bagotville, Quebec, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Fred Davis, also of the station, ushered the guests.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held at the Recreation Hall of the Station in Bagotville, Quebec.

The bride's table was appointed in the traditional manner with white damask and a three-tier, all-white wedding cake topped by a cluster of pale pink Sweetheart roses and misted about the base with white tulle. Tall white and pink candles in triple candelabra and the bridal bouquets completed the setting.

The bride's mother received, wearing a blue crepe dress, brown hat and accessories with white carnation corsage, assisted by the bridegroom's mother attired in grey and white, with white feather hat, mink stole and corsage of carnations.

The happy couple left by plane for Montreal and district. Upon their return, they will leave for Germany where the bridegroom has been stationed at the RCAF.

Several functions honoring the bride and groom pre-marriage, were held at the Bagotville Station, Quebec.

Guests were present, from Nova Scotia: Belleville and Bagotville, Quebec.

ALLIN — KEEGAN

A quiet evening wedding took place recently in Christ Church, Belleville, when the Rev. Everett, F. Smith, assisted by Rector of the church, united in marriage Donna Maxine Keegan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Keegan, and James Howard Allin, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Allin, of Belleville.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Mr. Noel Larouche, was charming in a floral blue suit, white feather hat, black accessories, and corsage of pink carnations.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Jean Larouche, of Belleville, attired in a red sheath style dress, black accessories and white carnation corsage.

Mr. Larry Gray of Rochester, N.Y., attended the bridegroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Allin are residing in Belleville.

Night School Classes Begin November 21st

WELLINGTON — A special meeting of the W.W.I. was held in the town hall for the purpose of seeing whether the night school classes were to be held. Present were: Mr. Bellamy, Belleville, representative of the Department of Education; Mr. Ivan Bell, agricultural representative; Mr. Snider and Mr. Wilmot Cooley of the W.C.C. board.

It was decided to call the night school "The Wellington Rural Community Night School," and the classes are to be held on Wednesday night, beginning Nov. 21st.

A committee consisting of Mr. Wilmot Cooley, Mr. Bob Quick, Mr. Snider, Mr. Murray Wilbee, Mr. Gordon Nelson, Mrs. J. Callow, Mrs. J. Bannerot, Mrs. S. Tripp and Mrs. Ogilvy, were chosen to work along with Mr. Bell and Mr. Maddocks. The time was set for 8 p.m. to 10 p.m.

The courses are leathercraft, copper tooling, upholstery, motor mechanics, welding, woodworking, typing, sewing, dressmaking, oil painting, millinery, public speaking, bookkeeping, needlecraft (smocking).

The meeting closed, after which the committee met to make further plans.

LOST CHILDREN

Children should be taught to ask policemen or storekeepers for aid if lost, never people on the street or in cars.

QUINTS' NINTH CHILD—The centre of all this attention is Eric Allenie, who will be born to three of the famous Dionne quintuplets who are married. Admiring the baby after his christening in the Montreal suburb of St. Bruno are three quints, left to right: his mother, Annette (Mrs. Germain Allard); Yvonne, and Marie (Mrs. Florian Houle).

Mt. Pleasant Rawdon U.C.W. Hold Fine Tea and Bazaar

RAWDON — On Thursday October 18th over 100 women from 15 organizations joined the U.C.W. of Mount Pleasant-Rawdon for a successful tea and bazaar.

The day was ideal with bright sunshine. The church was decorated with bouquets of autumn blooms. Mrs. Mac Sharp provided soft organ music as the guests were arriving.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen and Mrs. Earl McAdam were in charge of the finances and the registration book. The ushers were Mrs. Burton Sharpe, convener of the tea and Mrs. Robert Merrick. Those in attendance from St. Paul's, Stirling; English Line Tabernacle; Rawdo; Wellmans Burnbrae; Eggleton; St. Andrew's, Stirling; St. John's, Stirling; Springbrook; Carmel; Salem; Bethel; West Huntingdon St. Andrew's; West Huntingdon United; Grace Chapel and Wooler.

The guests were welcomed at the door by the president, Mrs. Milford Wrightman and the regional vice-president, Mrs. Kenneth Weaver.

At 2 p.m. the president officially welcomed the guests from the pulpit and sang, "Take Time to Be Holy". The two vice-presidents, Mrs. Donald Knight and Mrs. William McAdam conducted the devotional based on the theme "Friendship". The guest soloist, Mrs. Sidney MacDonald of St. Paul's Stirling, with Mrs. Harold West as accompanist contributed a solo to close the devotional period and rendered two other selections.

Mrs. Weaver introduced Mrs. Gregory Brownell of Rawdon and Mrs. Harold Morgan of Wooler, both are officers of Quinta Presbyterial and they presented a most informative panel discussion on the work and responsibilities of United Church Women. By way of questions and answers they pictured the ideal of what could be and synopsized what is available. They outlined many helpful ideas of what could be accomplished if all the women of the church worked together in one large group.

Mrs. Burton Sharpe voiced appreciation and thanks to all who had contributed to the success of the afternoon. She invited the visiting Mrs. to the tea room for the bazaar and refreshments.

The hall was decorated with autumn leaves and bouquets of flowers. The southwest corner was arranged as a "County Store" under the direction of Mrs. Lena Line, Mrs. Frank Spencer and Mrs. Carleton Potts. The central theme was large display of homemade candy in cellophane bags and baskets. There was maple cream, chocolate fudge, peanut brittle, divinity fudge, some plain and others decorated with nut meats, popcorn balls. Also for sale were citrus squash, pumpkins, eggs, pots of babytears, crab apples, jars of jam and pickle relishes, potholders and numerous other articles.

The balance of the west wall was set with long tables for the sale of home goodies. Mrs. Herbert Smith convened the homecooking booth and the central theme was a large white cake lettered in pink and decorated with a yellow rose. There were chocolate cakes, white layers, rolled jelly cakes, angel food cakes, tarts and pies of all kinds with pumpkin and apple predominating, a variety of tarts. Cheese buns and other delicious foods. All of these were sold rapidly. The assistants here were: Mrs. Lindsay McKeown, Mrs. Allen Reid, Mrs. Harry McAdam, Mrs. Clarence Scott, Mrs. Oscar Merrick and Mrs. Norman McConnell.

The last booth was the apron table under the direction of Mrs. Donald Knight. There were approximately 35 aprons, coveralls, robblers, and half style spons. The materials were gifts, gingham, and organdy for those special occasions, bordered prints, Turkish towelling and other materials. The assistants here were: Mrs. Will Jeffs, Mrs. Irvin Potts and Mrs. Thomas Sarles.

The east half of the hall was arranged most attractively as a tea room with rows of long tables covered with long white cloths and centred with small bouquets of autumn blooms. The serving table consisted of a salad plate luncheon with each plate arranged in readiness. Mrs. Ross Jeffs was assistant of cookies, all daintily arranged on the glass plates and tea were served.

The kitchen and refreshment convenors were: Mrs. Douglas Campbell and Mrs. Ross Jeffs. Their assistants were: Mrs. Robert H. Hoard, Mrs. James Hoard, Mrs. Ralph Jeffs, Mrs. Ross Williams, Mrs. Harvey Couch, Mrs. Garth Joslin and Mrs. A. Farnham.

The bazaar and tea was most successful and those in charge are appreciative of the co-operation of all. Approximately 150 ladies were in attendance.

Women's Activities

ST. MARK'S W.A.

BONARLAW — The monthly meeting of St. Mark's W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. Jack Fraser, on a recent Thursday afternoon.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. W. J. Barlow.

The Bible reading was given by Mrs. Everett Heath.

The president welcomed all present and thanked Mrs. Fraser for the use of her home.

Correspondence was read, including the board letter and an invitation to Gladstone Stagwood to attend a tea in October, and Christmas Tea, Mrs. Gladys Stirling, to attend their 60th W.A. anniversary on October 30th and their bazaar in November.

Mrs. Barlow also announced that the members were invited to Marmora on October 29th to the fall rally in conjunction with the new study book.

Mrs. Discussion was held regarding the bazaar and also modelling the kitchen in the basement of the church. A committee was formed to attend to this matter.

It was decided to hold the annual bazaar and turkey supper the latter part of November.

The meeting was closed with prayer by the president. The hostess served a lovely lunch.

Women's Activities

U. C. W.

WELLINGTON — Unit 3 of the Wellington U.C.W. met last Thursday evening in the Centennial Parlor of the United Church. Mrs. E. Lake presided and opened the meeting with a poem, "Hands".

The devotional was given by Mrs. Lume accompanied by Mrs. C. Burr at the piano. The theme of the devotions was "God's Geography". Since God made the earth and all its fullness, it follows that the earth in its entirety belongs to God, and all its people are His children and possessions. They must do their bit for God as Moses and the rest of did did.

Scripture was from Psalms 19: 1-3-7 and Psalm 24: 1-2-6.

Mrs. J. Darr, was in charge of the Bible study which included three books of the Bible. The basis to Christian life is the success of a strong understanding of trust.

Group discussions followed.

Roll call was answered by 12 members and two visitors. There were eight hospital and five home calls made.

Christmas parcels for the church are on sale and can be obtained from the Unit leaders.

A film, "On the Road of Tomorrow," was shown which is in connection with the new study book.

Misses Elaine Bishop and, Sharon McNeil favored with a song and played their guitars, which was enjoyed by all. This completed a nice evening of fellowship.

A social hall hour followed by lunch served by the committee in charge.

The following ladies are responsible for the November meeting: devotional, program and lunch: Mrs. Doug Thompson, Mrs. Doug Marvin, Mrs. Dunca McKenzie and Mrs. Tom Nash.

EGG PRICES DROP

LEAMINGTON, Ont. (CP)—The sharp drop in egg prices has not made many an axe taken closer to the chopping block. Tom Robson, president of the Ontario Poultry Producers' Association, said Monday that in the last week, the price of eggs has dropped from 55 to 40 cents a dozen. He blamed manipulators for "beating down the price."

Would Like Breakfast Ideas

DEAR DORIS—I have a problem. Breakfast is the most important meal of the day. Our Mom goes to work before eight in the morning. She doesn't make breakfast and doesn't provide us with breakfast food.

We are too lazy to fix any breakfast, because breakfasts are uncolorful, unattractive and not mouth watering. I say this about bacon and eggs, toast, boiled eggs or corn flakes.

Is there any suggestion for new, delicious, easy-to-fix breakfasts? We have a charge account at a grocery store. We can pay for good food, so money is not the first barrier.—ROBERT, Grade Twelve.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR ROBERT—Bravo! If you tackle it now, you'll make a capable Romeo for some lucky girl.

I know a man whose best accomplishment is a poached egg. Golden, smooth, white just right; garnished with parsley or quarter of tomato. Perched on crisp toast. This starts his day off many side up.

But there are other mouth waterers. It's a matter of learning how. . . There are waffles, fluffy scrambled eggs, pancakes, raising toast, sausages, porridge. Sliced bananas over prepared cereal.

I don't pose as a cook; just a gal with an appetite. For ideas which even you can follow, write to the Consumer Section, Canadian Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, Canada, and the Dairy Foods Service Bureau, 409 Huron Street, Toronto, Ontario.

DEAR DORIS—I am 21. I cannot get along on $65.00 a month (the old age pension). I spend too much on medicine, and at that, don't get as much as the doctor says.

Who ever said a balanced meal? I have forgotten what it is like. I cannot buy clothes. As I suffer from arthritic pains down my left side, I have bought men's long underwear as it keeps my knees warm. I've tried to keep it a secret, but I found other women doing it too.

Believe me, I thank God every day for my eyesight, my hearing, my clear mind. Please help me.—STILL ALIVE AND KICKING.

DEAR STILL—Your list of expenses shows that drugs are eating that hole in your pocket. For practical help, get in touch with the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society. In Belleville write to Miss Anne Dugmore, Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society and/or Rehabilitation Centre, 169 Union Street, Kingston, Ont.

DEAR DORIS—Since May I have been dating a fellow who is 18. I will be 16 shortly. The trouble is that my mother doesn't think I am old enough to go steady yet, although she has told me I act more mature in some ways than other girls. I don't want to go any reason but I do simply because usually when you start to date someone fairly regularly, no one else will ask you out anyway.

Also, my parents do not like the idea of us going to a drive-in. I can see their point here as I know many kids don't go to drive-ins to watch the feature. But I know this boy is not the type that would try to get fresh.—NEARLY SIXTEEN.

DEAR NEARLY—If you are exceptional, going steady may be all right. I can't tell from here. Do you want to declare loyalty to One, and thus ban yourself to?

I'm not partial to drive-ins. Nice boys do not set out to be fresh; but nice girls do not put themselves in a position to make it easy. The urges of nature are strong at 18.

DEAR DORIS—I have found "the girl of my dreams." We love each other very much and have never ever had a heated argument. But she is having trouble with her mother.

At home my girl is little better than a maid. Even when I go there for a quiet evening of fun at her house, she has something to do. When we try to go for a walk or play some games in peace, her mother gets mad because she has to mind her own small son.

After school ended she just about had a nervous breakdown from being overtired, and overworked. If her father hadn't interfered and ordered her to bed for a few days, her mother would have had her up working. This was no laughing matter because she fainted a few times.

When she doesn't work all out, her mother gets mad at her and tells her all about how useless and unhelping she is. It just about makes me cry when my girl breaks down and cries on my shoulder. Sometimes I'm afraid her mother will drive her crazy. She begs me not to let her be domineering (like her mother) when we get married, and also begs me not to let her spoil our children the way her mother is spoiling the younger brother—and boy is he spoiling him! —NEARLY NUTS.

DEAR NEARLY—It's not mother love but smother love; possessive, demanding, disencouraging. No use urging your girl to stand up to her right now; the strain would tell on her.

Be her staunch support and marry her soon. In a home of her own your subordinate "mother's little helper" will gain self-confidence and begin to live.

Popular Plaid

By ALICE ALDEN

Here is real blazer bravado — a handsome greatcoat of imported mohair and wool, designed by Marquise.

Shown in black and natural vicuna, the coat points up the importance of plaid and the popularity of furry, fuzz-type fabrics.

The knee-length saddle-like and cuffed sleeves add to the general picture of practical good looks.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Ida F. — I wish Gwen would mind her own business and not look gorgeous, too.

Gwen C. — I'm not lack of money, it's meanness that spoils her looks.

Ida F. — Iwish Gwen would stop inviting me to her parties if all she's going to do after wards is bawl me out for the way I look.

I can't sit in beauty parlors all day like her. I don't have a husband to support me, so I can't show up at Gwen's home in a Paris creation exactly. My income is from a small piece of property where I have one apartment for myself, and rent out the others. So I'm busy sweeping stairs and halls, and keeping my own place in shape!

When Gwen asks me to join the family, I change my dress and go. I have other things to think of besides false eyelashes and that junk.

Gwen J.: I like that! I haven't stepped into a beauty parlor since last June, before a wedding. I'm not criticizing Ida because of her hairdo or her dreary dresses. All I ask her, whenever I see her, is to look more cheerful, to get rid of the sourpuss expression. She could well stop spending her days gossiping about her tenants and everyone else who passes her window.

She's my sister-in-law, my husband's oldest sister. Using daily we include her in family celebrations. She's the same age I am, and it's painful to watch her aging so fast, growing so unattractive, because she's so grouchy and narrow. She should get out more and broaden herself.

The Council: "Looks," as a woman grows older, becomes the result of what's happening inside plus what's slapped on outside to hide it! While what's slapped on outside is usually determined by money, time and inclination, what's happening inside is usually the result of "breaks" over which we have no control.

Take Ida and Gwen, two women of the same age. If Ida looks older than Gwen, no one can say exactly why. Perhaps life has been easier for Gwen. On the other hand, Gwen may have had a greater ability to "roll with the punches," and thus avoid that beat-up look. Poverty, sickness and deprivation add very lines, but so do inner inner grievances. Also, there's something in our stars and in our genes which makes one face wear well, while another (of the same number of moons) fades early.

That's why we can't chime in with Gwen who claims that all Ida needs to make herself look younger is a better philosophy. She'd need a few more of the above-mentioned breaks. If she has received them, however, and still is shrivelling up prematurely, then it's her frame of mind and Gwen is right to focus on it as a beauty-destroyer.

The petty mind brings on the pursed lips, the holier-than-thou sniff brings on the frown and the woman with love in her heart has a radiance that suffuses every feature. Even her wrinkles when they come, are laughlines instead of worrylines. Her eyes and lips and skin reflect the alchemy wrought by nothing to do with hairdressers beauticians.

But we're realistic enough to know that telling Ida to change, to stop "passing remarks" about anyone who ventures into her ken, isn't worth much. What anger makes Ida pass unkind judgment on so many? Why is she sneer at a lighthearted woman as silly," a middle-aged dance as childish? Does she enjoy them secretly? If Ida can't probe the Why of her narrowness, she needs outside help . . . and not from a make-up artist!

Ham Can

By Mary Moore

My contrary streak is conspicuous, I suspect, by its absence.

I neglect obvious subjects, often because I expect you to be past the elementary stage of cooking.

Today I am putting aside contrariness and neglect and plainly talking about the virtues of a can ham.

As you know, the manufacturers of large canned hams usually direct you to keep them refrigerated. Most of us can do this with ease. Many of us do do it once per year at least when we are at summer cottages.

But my enthusiasm today grew after I opened a canned ham on Thanksgiving week-end.

Dinner Menu

TUESDAY

Fruit Juice Cocktail; Braised Short Ribs of Beef; Rich Gravy; Fluffy Mashed Potatoes; Casserole of Green Tomatoes and Onions (see Monday); Cottage Apple Crisp with Rich Milk; Coffee.

I was surrounded by my family who were in and out of the house two or three times per day because Marianne and Sue and Danny were home.

For four nights in a row we had dinner parties. Three nights in a row we had guests for lunch.

The groceries we bought for the holiday period were simply the lovely things that were available all, and filling every [illegible] storage space in [illegible]use. By Tuesday night there was one [illegible] of frozen [illegible] left in the freezer compartment.

But that canned ham was like the old dogpatch dependable. I baked it with fresh frozen orange juice concentrate and baked it to heat it through. I served it hot, sliced thickly and cold-cut for breakfast; or sliced thinly and used as a delicious and colorful item on a luncheon salad plate. Or if your little granddaughter gets hungry about 10:30 and comes to the side door saying "Grandma, I want a little treat," give her, of course, a hunk of the ham!

We did the usual things with it for lunches on the following days but what made the biggest hit was when Danny, one year old and walking like a soldier — grabbed a piece from my plate. With his six teeth he somehow chewed and swallowed it. Then we of course, had to have him scrape instead of a can of Comet at his face for 45c. I cut it very small and he enjoyed it. That night he slept for 12½ hours without waking. This was a change for he often wakes and wants food at 11:30 p.m.

The doctors in the family nodded their heads approvingly over this turn of events saying all he needed was concentrated protein to carry him through the night.

Question: Would a hostess appear impolite or unpracious if she asked a guest to take his foot off the rung of a chair? I have a couple of decorated Hitchcock chairs which I bring in from the bedroom for extra seating in the living room when we have a number of guests. Invariably men, especially, plant one foot on the floor and the other on the front rung of the chair. I've just had one chair repainted because the finish was worn down to the bare wood. Would it be permissible to say something the next time a guest uses the rung as a resting place for his foot? — R. W., Stamford, Conn.

Answer: The three-year-old may be reminded that he should keep his feet off the rungs of a chair, but it would be very embarrassing if a hostess said this to a guest, who should know better. The tactful alternative would be to get the guest on his feet — ask him to help pass something or come meet someone across the room — then try to deposit him in a chair on which you've put his feet. A hostess often has to shrug off minor lapses on the part of guests. It's a big part of her task for dropping crumbs or tipping over an ashtray would certainly be rather vaspish and inhospitable. If it's getting impossible to overlook the marks guests are leaving on the rungs of the chairs, others should be notified to eliminate the problem entirely.

MILK MAY RISE

KINGSTON (CP)—The price of milk here may increase one cent per quart from Nov. 1, a spokesman for Kingston dairy distributors said Monday. The increase would be asked at an Ontrio Milk Industry Board order to distributors to pay producers a additional 10 cents per 100 pounds of their milk from Nov. 1.

Community Honors Couple With Gifts

FRANKFORD—A community shower was held recently at Trinity Anglican Church Hall, Frankford in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Garry Jolce.

Mr. Ernest Anderson was chairman for the evening.

Misses Jolce and Elaine Sharp and Rhonda Wickson favored with two musical trios and community singing was enjoyed.

A set included a tri-light lamp and two table lamps which were presented to the happy couple.

The charivari gang from Port Hope presented the couple with a tree lamp and a woollen blanket.

Refreshments were served by the community ladies.

ATTEND ZONE MEET

Mrs. Percy MacMullen, president of West Hastings District Women's Institutes and Mrs. George Heasman, District Director of River Valley W.I., attended the Federation of Agriculture zone meeting in the IOOF Hall, Stirling, on October 15th. The president, Mrs. Shirley Johnston, was in charge. Mr. John Dalrymple of Kemptville gave an excellent commentary and slides on his recent trip overseas.

Mrs. E. C. Hay-Ellis will be hostess at her home at Glen Ross along the Trent River on Thursday, November 1st, for the regular meeting of River Valley Women's Institute. The district president, Mrs. Percy MacMullen will pay her official visit. Convener, Mrs. Charles Wilson will centre her program on current events and "Your oldest kitchen gadget."

Ten members of River Valley W.I. were guests of the Trent River Bridge W.I. in Peterborough on October 11th. The guest speaker was the Rev. Gwynn Whitehorne of Seymour United Church circuit. He told of the work carried on by the Campbellford School for the Retarded Children. Those who attended were Mrs. Kenneth Brown, Mrs. George Heasman, Mrs. Roy Bush, Mrs. E. C. Hay-Ellis, Mrs. John Kane, Mrs. Alex Bush, Mrs. Don Tucker, Mrs. Clarence Chard, Mrs. Charles Wilson and Mrs. MacMullen.

Eldorado

ELDORADO — The community was shocked to hear of the sudden passing away of Mr. Stanley Sanford.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Chambers, of Toronto, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Post and Mrs. Manley Post.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton McCann, of Peterborough and Mrs. C. D. McCann, were Sunday afternoon callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Wilson of Thomasburg.

Mrs. Roy Holgate and Miss Barbara Sine have both returned home from Belleville Hospital where they were patients for the past three weeks.

Mrs. Carl Fitzgerald, of Remington, spent Monday afternoon with her mother, Mrs. Roy Holgate.

Mr. Don Fox of Toronto, spent the weekend with his father, Mr. James Fox.

The funeral of Mr. Stanley Sanford was held on Monday afternoon with service in Fox's Church, with the Rev. J. Milley in charge. Interment was in Fox's Cemetery.

These days most people work under pressure, worry many, sleep less. This strain on body and brain may develop Stress easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest, "tired-out" feeling often follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep and work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter. 44

London Store Sells Only Food Produced by Mother Nature

By ALAN WALKER

LONDON (CP) — Next time they serve that blue-plate special, pause and ponder one man's complaints about Canadian food.

He is Stanley Amor, manager of a store run by the Organic Food Society, and he says of Canadian products:

Bread is soggy and tasteless; cheese is waxy; eggs are feeble. Shaving boldly from behind a desk cluttered with samples of food produced entirely by Mother Nature, a verbal lashes out at Canadian methods.

"Canada uses more artificial fertilizer per acre than any other country in the world. Cadmium rob the soil of everything it has."

Amor, 45 - year - old ex-publisher, elbowed his way among customers crowding into his store and slashed off a piece of heavy, brown bread.

"Try it."

It tasted rich, healthy, like the smell of an autumn wheat field. Tomatoes tasted like tomatoes. Cold roast pork tasted like cold roast pork. This was stereophonic eating.

The world was all right until man started mucking about with it," Amor said.

The society turns down food for which there has been any use of artificial fertilizer, chemical insecticide or, in the case of animals, hormone injections. Lord Kitchener and Yehudi Menuhin were among the backers of the society two years ago.

The store lost money until a year ago. Now customers from every social class flock to buy "organic food" although prices average 10 per cent above those in other stores.

The search for taste leads Amor up and down many garden paths. Production methods must be checked to keep out chemical processes.

Fruit and vegetables are especially hard to come by in winter. Amor's tale of the Tasmanian apples typifies his cares and cunning:

"I finally found suitable apples in Tasmania by devious means and ordered several cases. Then our analyst found traces of arsenic on the skins. I knew the grower didn't use spray insecticides, and finally I traced the police to the wrapping paper."

The society differs from health food groups and gourmet clubs that offer exotic dishes. Amor said he stresses baked goods, fruit, vegetables and dairy products.

"Everybody said it was impossible to make sponge cakes, tarts and fruit cakes from a whole - wheat flour, but the Queen's baker, Madame Floris, came through for us."

He proffered a dark brown slab of cake with raspberries and rich cream oozing from between the layers. It looked uncomfortably like bread but tasted better than any cake this reporter could recall.

The society's milk is not pasteurized "because if you kill one germ, another will get you." Only sea salt is used. Mined salt "is all chemicals, isn't it?"

Amor painted a pastoral picture of contented hens running wild and eating wholesome grain spread on naturally fertilized soil.

"Ordinary hens are cooped up, filled with antibiotics, deprived of their sex life, and naturally they produce feeble eggs."

SCALDED TO DEATH

TORONTO (CP)—A child accidentally kicked on a hot water tap Monday while climbing out of a bathtub and his 18-month-old sister was fatally scalded. Dead is Brenda Petroff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Petroff. Her 2½-year-old brother Daniel accidentally turned on the tap after their mother had left them in three inches of warm water for a few minutes.

Girl Bullfighter From Nfld. Has No Qualms in Thrusting Sword to Hilt Into Animal

By PAUL KINSTEAD

TORONTO (CP)—Burly men have been known to cringe at the sight of blood.

Imagine, then, how a pert young girl must feel when she thrusts a sword into a bull for the first time.

"Great!" laughed Carolyn Hayward, "I felt happy."

Carolyn, a black - haired beauty who weighs a scant 103 pounds and says she's 25, is possibly Canada's most unusual athlete, even though she has never performed in her native country.

The native of St. John's, Nfld., in Toronto for a television appearance, is one of the world's few professional women bullfighters.

"Look at it this way," she said, smoothing the skirt of her bright red wool dress, "it's nice for a bull to die that way.

"It's better that he died as a brave animal, fighting to the end, than in a slaughter house somewhere."

In her five years as a bullfighter, Carolyn has helped 120 bulls achieve this happy ending. She rarely does she miss killing them on the first thrust.

GOT AN EAR

The first time she killed a bull she needed two thrusts. "But," she added proudly, "I got an ear."

When a bullfighter has put on a satisfactory performance, the fans wave white handkerchiefs which is a signal that the bullfighter should be awarded the ear of his fallen foe.

"I have many ears," she said. "So many that I've lost count."

Why does she enjoy killing bulls for a living?

"The excitement," she replied, ". . . and, I'm always surrounded by men."

Carolyn, who grew up in St. John's where she attended Bishop Spencer College, later lived in Montreal but left to learn Spanish in Spain six years ago. Her parents now live in Los Angeles.

She ended up becoming the darling of bullfighting fans in Mexico, Guatemala, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru, Venezuela, Honduras and Costa Rica.

"I went to a fight in Spain out of curiosity as any other tourist and I was fascinated."

GOT AROUND LAW

After several more trips to the Madrid bull ring, Carolyn began boasting that she could fight a bull. Finally, a friend took her to a small-town ring for beginners.

"He thought I would chicken out but I couldn't; he was standing right behind me watching. I got a lot of bruises but it was exciting."

Because it is against the law for women to fight bulls in Spain, Carolyn began travelling to small out-of-the-way places to pick up experience. There was no killing—just fighting.

Who taught her to fight bulls?

"Why," she replied, "the bulls did."

A few months later she headed for Mexico, where women are allowed to fight, and practiced on grandfathers—farms or ranches where fighting bulls are raised.

"We practised on cows and if they were brave the ranchers would use them for breeding purposes."

Another method of practising is to thrust a sword into a cape tha wrapped on a contraption built on one bicycle with two handles. The front has bull's horns where the handlebars are supposed to be. A fellow fighter would run at her, pushing the stock bull by the handles.

NO SERIOUS INJURY

One year later she dropped her first bull in his tracks.

"You have to be careful, you know. You have to go over the horns to thrust the sword and if the bull lifts his head suddenly you've had it."

Carolyn hasn't had a serious injury but spent three weeks in a bed once when caught in the stomach. The wind blew her cape up over her head and the bull didn't miss.

She would like to fight bulls in Canada and feels she would be an attraction at the Calgary Stampede in countries such as Canada, where killing the bull is not allowed, it is slaughtered, after the fight and sold as meat.

"They have to kill them. Those bulls know only how to fight and you never fight them twice. If a bull was allowed to fight a second time the matador wouldn't have a chance; the bull would be too smart."

Asked whether she plans to marry and raise a family, she replied: "I haven't time. I'd have to give up bullfighting and I'm really just reaching the peak of my career. It just wouldn't look right to have a bullfighter with children."

LIKES BULL FIGHTING—Carolyn Hayward, one of the world's few women matadors, says she enjoys the excitement of killing bulls for a living. And she believes it's nicer, for a bull die in the ring than in a slaughter house. Miss Hayward, a native of St. John's Nfld., who learned bullfighting in Spain five years ago, has killed 120 bulls so far in contests in Mexico and several South American countries. (CP Photo).

U.S. Condemns China for Aggression

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has condemned Communist China for "violent and aggressive action" in its border warfare with India.

A statement issued by the state department as hard fighting between Indian and Chinese forces raged in the Himalayan borderlands, also expressed sympathy for India. The statement said:

"We are shocked at the violent and aggressive action of the Chinese Communists against India. Our sympathy is with India as it seeks to meet this unprincipled challenge to its national integrity."

State department officials said the statement was purely a declaration of U.S. sympathy and support for India during the present crisis.

Benedictine Abbey Monks Turn Out Million Modern Christmas Cards Annually

By GERRY McNEIL

ST. BENOIT DU LAC, Que. (CP) — Revolt against Santa Claus and the Two-Front-Teeth schools of Yuletide art provides some of the drive for a thriving Christmas card industry here.

"There is absolutely no craving for business," says Rev. Gustave Darjis, one of 72 monks at the Benedictine abbey in this pastoral Eastern Townships locality.

"Our goal is to spread the beauty of art in that necessary evil (the Christmas card industry) and combat the trend of putting Christ out of Christmas."

Nevertheless, Father Darjis obviously is a born business man as devoted to free enterprise as any Yankee steel executive. As director of the Benedictine enterpris, his first axiom is fair competition and his second—competition.

The Benedictine cards are sold at competitive prices, though the absence of labor costs—none of the monks are paid — could slash the retail price.

SOLD IN STORES

To further avoid unfair advantage over competitors, the cards aren't sold through Roman Catholic churches or schools. Even the retailer of religious goods is avoided, though a reluctance to mix the tasteful cards with sugary paintings and statuary is the reason here.

Salesmen—the Quebec wholesaler makes about $6,000 a year on the line—re instructed to place the cards in prestige stores. This is aimed partly at getting the business of people who set trends in buying.

The Benedictine range of about 36 ex - color designs is marketed from the Maritimes to San Francisco in boxes of 10 ranging in price from $1 to $3.50. When not making cheese, raising pork or tapping maple sugar, the self - supporting monks turn out about 1,000,000 modern cards a year.

MUST WATCH TRENDS

This year the abbey has adopted a French technique and a line of expression used in medallions made at a European abbey.

"We have to watch the trends," says Father Darjis. "If all the companies put out red one year, it will be unpopular the next. That's one of the worst competition in business builds quality."

Fresh designs, always close to Biblical themes usually expressed in an almost-abstract way, keep competitors on the jump.

"When people start to copy us, they are two years behind," said Father Darjis with some satisfaction.

The slender monk from Bonnyville, Alta., who is also abbey locksmith and elevator operator, directs the business end but the artist is Brother Alfred Choiniere, a shy man who seldom talks and turns Christmas colors when praised.

"He has a very sensitive soul," said Father Darjis. "He feels color, he feels harmony. Brother Alfred actually is the backbone of the thing.

"If he hadn't existed, the business wouldn't exist."

BEGAN IN 1942

Brother Alfred, a native of Pawtucket, R.I., started designing the cards in 1942, printing them through a slow and laborious silk screen process.

The cards were fine but Brother Alfred's feeling for color and line just didn't extend to markets and commissions.

"All he knew about business was that he didn't have any money in his pocket at the end of the year," recalls Father Darjis.

In 1956, the abbey bought an offset press to bring production to a profitable level. The next year, Father Darjis displayed the line at the annual trade exhibition in New York.

This year the abbey bought a 24-inch press that gives it a potential of 10,000,000 cards a year. Experienced hands after 20 years, the monks could probably corner the lucrative job-printing market in the Eastern Townships but don't touch it.

Again, business ethics steps in. The combination of modern press and low labor costs would make the monastery overlooking Lake Memprenagog an unbeatable competitor.

The monks prefer to devote themselves to their original aim.

"Whose birthday was it anyway?" asked Father Darjis rhetorically. Everyone knows the answer, though it's sometimes forgotten in the Christmas rush.

Tribute To H.J. McFarland

Picton Kiwanis Club Honors Member For Eight Years of Special Service

By GEO. H. CARVER

PICTON — Eight years of unselfish service to the Kiwanis Club, the community and its children, were given tangible and other recognition here last night.

In an aura of complete surprise Kiwanian William (Billy) Strachan was honored by high-ranking Kiwanis officials, municipal and political dignitaries and his fellow clubmen at a presentation dinner in the Royal Hotel.

Kiwanian Strachan was presented with an all-expense trip to the 1963 Kiwanis International Convention at Atlantic City next June; a handsome aluminum boat complete with trailer and outboard motor, a silver tray, and a life membership in Kiwanis.

Astil-climatic was the presentation of a handsome bronze and wooden plaque and county picture to Mayor H. J. McFarland and Mrs. McFarland in appreciation of outstanding assistance in loaning their private pool to Strachan and his children's projects.

TOP KIWANIANS

The story of Kiwanian Strachan's devotion to his service club's projects reached the high places in Kiwanis official circles.

It brought here for the first time in the Picton club's history the governor of Ontario, Quebec and Maritimes district, Mr. Frank Summerhayes, and Mrs. Summerhayes, of Brantford, Ont.

With the governor at the head table were: Lieut.-Governor District "A" Evan Black and Mrs. Black of Kingston; club president Russ Alexander and Mrs. Alexander; past president Jesse Mason and Mrs. Mason; Kiwanis charter president Carl Reid and Mrs. Reid, and charter vice-president Lionel Dockrill and Mrs. Dockrill.

With them were Mayor and Mrs. McFarland; county warden John Fox and Mrs. Fox; wife of the federal member of parliament, Douglas Alkenbrack, Mrs. Alkenbrack; Ontario member Norris Whitney and Mrs. Whitney; Chamber of Commerce president G. Morrison and Mrs. Morrison; the Rev. Don Remble and Mrs. Remble, and guests of honor Kiwanian and Mrs. Strachan.

The element of surprise was complete. The "hero of the hour" was almost swept off his feet by the turn of events. He had assisted in what he thought was a testimonial dinner to Mayor and Mrs. McFarland in appreciation of the swimming-pool and other media of assistance to the club.

The highlight he thought, had been reached when he presented the chief magistrate with the bronze-and-wood plaque, the gift of the club, and Boy Scout David Strachan and Girl Guide Marion Morrison in turn gave Mrs. McFarland a handsome scenic photograph.

But the climax came when club president Rees Alexander presented him with the all-expense air trip to Atlantic City for himself and family.

Surprise followed surprise. Kiwanian Strachan was visibly affected when the gleaming aluminum boat with trailer and motor was wheeled into the dining room prior to its presentation by representatives of the donors.

The boat and trailer was the gift of the county of Prince Edward, presented by Warden John Fox. Mayor McFarland presented the town's gift of the motor and the silver tray from the council.

Kiwanian Strachan was also presented with the active life membership, and Mayor McFarland with an honorary life membership in Kiwania by Governor Summerhayes.

MANY TRIBUTES

Among the many tributes paid Kiwanian Strachan and Mayor and Mrs. McFarland were those from Prime Minister John Diefenbaker and Ontario Premier John P. Robarts.

Touching appreciation paid Kiwanian Strachan was that of Mrs. Jane Scott of Picton, mother of 16-year-old Terry Scott, a special swimming protege of the guest of honor.

Terry was paralyzed after a fall from an apple tree two years ago. The heart-warming story of Strachan's work with the crippled boy appears elsewhere on this page.

Past Commissioner of Boy Scouts Bob Norval said: "You are the Lou Ryder of Prince Edward County. I wish we had a million Billy Strachans."

Commissioner of Girl Guides Mrs. Art Hamblin expressed the appreciation of the Guides and Brownies of Prince Edward. She also paid tribute to Mrs. Strachan and David.

Terry Scott voiced his appreciation. "I have received tremendous benefits from Billy Strachan. All I can say is "thanks"."

Past charter president Carl Reid said: "You are an outstanding example of Kiwania in practice."

Federal member Douglas Alkenbrack was unavoidably absent. Mrs. Alkenbrack spoke for him, presenting the tributes from the Prime Minister.

Mayor McFarland expressed his appreciation of the gifts and of Billy Strachan. "The swimming pool is always open to Billy and the children at the county. We hope they will continue to use it."

"Billy Strachan," he said, "has that old-fashioned stuff that goes to make a man-I cannot express what I feel for what he has done for the children."

Norris Whitney, M.P.P., brought the Ontario premier's tribute and added his own.

Governor Summerhayes and District Governor Scott brought the tributes of Kiwanis as a whole.

The Rev. Don Kemble, Presbyterian minister, spoke of Strachan's fine work as a churchman.

Moved by the sequence of events Kiwanian Strachan expressed the family appreciation of the gifts. Previously he had outlined his work with the children paying tribute to those who had assisted him.

Speaking of Terry, he said, "I did not do this alone. It was Terry's determination to succeed, his courage and desire, that brought him success this far. His brother Don helped us tremendously. I am extremely proud of Terry.

Past President Jesse Mason was chairman of the dinner and presentations with Kiwanian Chris Lockyer providing entertainment. Brownie Debbie Scott and Cub David Evans assisted with some of the presentations.

ONE-MAN CLUB

Kiwanians here claim they have a unique record, a one-man service club within their community-minded ranks. Billy Strachan's name is synonymous with all Kiwanis projects.

Kiwanian Strachan early developed a "K.K.K." complex. It covers "Kiwania, Kiddies and Kommunity". A wide sphere of activities includes scouts, girl guides, underprivileged children, community kiddies, and a specialty, crippled children and others.

He organizes Christmas parties, Kiddies Day in the Fair, bicycle rodeos, add is chairman of the Kiwanis Boy and Girl Scout Committee.

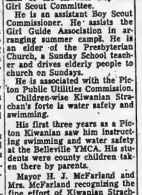
He is an assistant Boy Scout Commissioner. He assists the Girl Guide Association in arranging summer camps. He is an elder of the Presbyterian Church, a Sunday School teacher and drives elderly people to church on Sundays.

He is associated with the Picton Public Utilities Commission.

Children-wise Kiwanian Strachan's forte is water safety and swimming.

His first three years as a Picton Kiwanian saw him instructing swimming and water safety at the Belleville YMCA. His students were county children taken there by parents.

Mayor H. J. McFarland and Mrs. McFarland recognizing the fine effort of Kiwanian Strachan and its value to the community, offered the use of their spacious, private swim ming pool.



Thanks to the generous offer, Kiwanian Strachan's swimming classes have been conducted in it for the past four years.

Now swimming instruction is carried on eleven months of the year, with students at the pool and two at East Lake. This involves 138 evenings a year or roughly 408 hours. Strachan has missed only eight nights, these in emergencies.

In 1961 2,384 boys and girls received swimming instruction with 216 passing tests and receiving Kiwanis crests.

But Kiwanian Strachan has not accomplished his achievements alone. Assisting him in the swimming and other children's projects are Mrs. Strachan (Ethel) and teen-ager son David.

Mrs. Strachan intensely interested in the work assists her husband many nights with his pool activities. David, an accomplished swimmer, now acts as dad's first assistant.

The Strachan-Scott Story

By GEO. H. CARVER

SMILES OF SUCCESS—Terry Scott poses with Mayor H. J. McFarland and Kiwanian Billy Strachan at poolside in the McFarland home.

PICTON — From his early days, altruistic Billy Strachan sought a full-scope outlet for his activities.

During his five-year sojourn in Belleville, to use a figure of speech, he "fluttered his wings" but was unable to reach full flight. He loved children from toddlers to teenagers. He liked, and likes, people of all ages. He likes the community in which he lives.

Perhaps Billy Strachan's greatest asset is his humanitarian instinct. He harbors an intense desire to help others. His record in Picton is a shining substantiation of that statement.

Coming here eight years ago, he felt he could best serve others through the medium of a service club. He joined Kiwania. Seven years of 100 percent attendance tells the story. Kiwania officials here state that Billy Strachan has been and is an important cog in the machinery of their community projects.

He became a Scoutmaster. He assists Girl Guide officials in their efforts. He is an elder of the Presbyterian Church. He drives elderly people to church every Sunday and is Sunday School teacher.

A natural love of swimming and a marked capacity to impart instruction, opened the door to one of Billy Strachan's finest community achievements in the town.

The story of his tremendous success with the children of Picton appears elsewhere on this page.

But another story stands out as a shining example of the man's concept of helping others.

It is the "Terry Scott Story".

Two years ago Terry the 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Scott of Picton fell from an apple tree. The tragic result, complete paralysis from the chest downward.

As of now it would appear that this bright cheerful youngster will be confined to a wheel-chair for an indefinite time.

He has no control over the lower part of his body and his legs are merely appendages. But the accident never affected the youngster's morale. In fact today it is higher than ever.

This, in no small part, is due to the unselfish interest shown in Terry's case by Billy Strachan.

In passing, it might be noted that Billy Strachan is a quiet, soft-spoken man who retreats behind a mantle of modesty when questioned on his community activities.

An interviewer found the other day over a cup of coffee, Kiwanian Strachan and Jesse Mason was an interested listener.

Billy was quite outspoken when talking of the wonderful co-operation given him in his children-swimming activities by Mayor H. J. McFarland and Mrs. McFarland.

"They're wonderful people," he said. "I don't know what I would have done without their sincere interest and generosity in loaning Kiwanis their private swimming pool for 'my kiddies.'

Past-president Mason took up the story at this point. "Billy heard the story of Terry" he said, "and decided he could do something to help the boy. He felt a pool would be the best medium."

"Billy devotes three nights of the week, with Mrs. Strachan and son David, to swimming instruction for the children of the town," Mr. Mason said. "He devotes a fourth night exclusively to the instruction of Terry. He takes him to the McFarland pool, and for two months in the summer to East Lake."

I had to coax Billy Strachan for a progress report on the crippled youngster. It was more happiness in success than in personal efforts that prompted him to tell his story.

It was a slow, painstaking job. But highlighting it was, and is, the bright cheerful attitude of Terry. Hour after hour, night after night, Billy worked with him.

Results began to show, the boy began to make progress. He learned to swim all over again, with the use of his arms and shoulders.

The first spark of progress fired Terry's desire to "make good." "He put," said Billy, "all he had into his efforts and best of all, is his cheery good nature and all-out desire to improve."

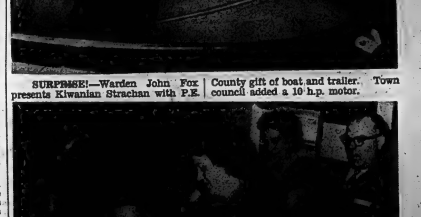
Soon he was swimming in the pool without aid. Each week showed improvement. Today, Terry can swim the length of the McFarland pool fifteen times without stopping. He can swim for two lengths underwater.

"It's quite an achievement," Billy said, "is dropping from the diving board into the water, submerging and turning two complete forward somersaults. Then he surfaces takes a breath or two, submerges again and turns two backward somersaults."

"To say Terry has far," Billy continued, "we placed Terry in a SCUBA aparatus the other day, complete with tank and everything. He stayed underwater for fifteen minutes.

There is happiness in the Scott family today. Terry is happy in a new-found achievement. The Kiwanis Club is collectively happy and proud of a member's fine work.

But the happiest of all is a quiet, calm, 41-year-old "Suffer little children" gentleman by the name of Billy Strachan.



Two Found Dead in Car

GOLDEN LAKE, Ont. (CP)— A man and woman were found dead in a car Monday near the Golden Lake Indian reservation, about 50 miles south of Pembroke. Police said they apparently died of carbon monoxide poisoning.

The couple was identified as William Albert Hanniman, 35, of Deux Jocko, about 45 miles from Golden Lake. Police said an Indian Air Force

Canada Ready to Assist India With Any Equipment Needed for Her Defence

By JACK BEST

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada will give fullest consideration to any request by India for military equipment to defend itself against Communist Chinese attacks, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Monday.

He also indicated in reply to a Commons question that he subscribes to the Indian position that it has been the target of aggression from China.

At the same time, however, he rejected a suggestion that Canada suspend grain shipments to Red China in view of that country's military moves against India.

Mr. Diefenbaker told Herridge, House leader of the New Democratic Party, that India has made no official approach to Canada for military assistance.

The NDP leader had asked comment on Canadian Press reports that an Indian Air Force mission was on its way to Canada to explore the possibility of acquiring Caribou transport planes.

CARE SUPPLIES

They would be used for carrying men and supplies into the mountainous regions of north east and northwest India where fierce fighting has been going on between Indian and Chinese troops.

Mr. Diefenbaker noted that Canada has no formal military commitments to India.

"However, that does not deny us deploring the attacks that are being made against India at this time, and if the Indian government should approach us, in view of its situation and the fact that India is a fellow member of the Commonwealth, we would certainly give such a request the fullest considera tion."

Opposition Leader Pearson asked the prime minister whether the government considers that aggression has been committed against India.

In reply Mr. Diefenbaker cited the Indian viewpoint that there has been a series of aggressive acts. "Our relations and our experience with India in the past have shown that that country does place the true and appropriate facts before us," he added.

ASKS RE GRAIN

Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson asked whether in view of the "invasion" of a Commonwealth country by China, Canada will avoid cuts in Communist China, diverting them instead to India.

Mr. Diefenbaker replied that any time India wants wheat from Canada, "we will be in a position to supply it."

However, the Canadian people should not be asked to break existing contracts for supplying grain to China.

TO HOLD INQUEST

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP)—An inquest will be held Oct. 30 into the death of Anton Kandler, 35, of nearby Riverside, who was shot in the head while duck-hunting.

VETERAN HOCKEY REFEREE — Vic Lindquist of Winnipeg, referee-in-chief in Western Canada for the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, starts his second straight stint of officiating at the world hockey championships at Stockholm next March. Lindquist, 54, thinks his ability to speak Swedish and 43 years as a player and referee helped him land the job. —(CP Photo).

Sports Snapshots

By GRAHAM COX

WINNIPEG (CP)—"Refereeing international hockey is like handling games in Canada 30 years ago," says Vic Lindquist of Winnipeg, a man with the experience to back up his observation.

At 54 he still is considered one of the best minor league referees in Canada and in March, 1963, will be making his second successive tour of duty officiating at the world championships.

In 1961 Lindquist and Lou Magnuson of Guelph, Ont., and worked all 10 days of the championships at Colorado Springs, Colo., although originally only supposed to handle games on five days.

At that time A. H. (Bunny) Ahearne, president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, is said to have asked Vic whether he would consider working the 1963 series in Stockholm.

There was no hesitation on the part of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to send a Canadian referee - in - chief. One reason is that Lindquist is fluent in Swedish. He was born in Sweden, not far from Stockholm.

SPEAKS SWEDISH

His ability to speak Swedish, he says, "probably is one of the main reasons they asked me to go."

Born in Kenora, Ont., Lindquist has spent 43 years in hockey, half as a player and half as an official. He was on the 1932 Canadian Olympic and world championship team and on the 1936 world champion Winnipeg Monarchs.

Prior to the 1935 championships, Monarchs made a 10-game tour of Europe, losing only two games and tying one, the "scrambles with only nine men in action."

Immediately following the championships he was approached by the management of the Swedish national team and asked to coach them for the 1936 Olympic Games competition.

This sounded like a sound offer, so he packed up his wife in and spent the 1935-36 season in Sweden, taking the team to fourth place. England won with Canada second.

When the stocky, CPR assistant ticket agent heads for Europe March 3, he again will be taking along his wife, leaving behind the four of his five children still at home. The tournament is scheduled for March 9-17.

Lindquist is by no means a minor league referee when it comes to ability. He has turned down offers to play for the National Hockey League Chicago Black Hawks and to referee in the NHL.

"All they were offering were one-year contracts at $4,000 a year and I just couldn't afford to give up a secure job. By the time the NHL wanted me to referee, I had five kids. I'm glad now I stayed here.

"I like international hockey. You don't get the high-sticking and roughness you do in Canadian hockey. Ours is still modelled on the NHL.

"But they still can be pretty rough. In one game last year we handed out 22 penalties and had to bring in seven spares. That was between Japan and Australia and the referee was afraid to send half of them off again.

"Those Russian and Czechs know how to use their bodies, too. They can be tough."

As well as his more glamorous international commitments Lindquist is kept busy at home, is refereeing in the Winnipeg Metro and high school leagues as well as the Junior A Manitoba Hockey League.

Next month he will be holding clinics throughout the west, and before leaving for Stockholm is to officiate at a game in Edmonton from the Lakehead to Vancouver Island.

"You'd think after 42 years I'd have seen enough to quit. But I guess I will when I put on the skates, I don't seem to have slowed down any."

The Trots

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Lucky Stone, owned by J. Cecil Stone of Petrolia, Ont., won the first division of the $215 featured pace at Western Fair Raceway Monday night.

Driver Marshall Moore sent the favorite ahead from the start and never looked back winning two lengths ahead of Governor Johnston, owned by Sidney Sheldon of Dublin.

Lucky Stone paced the mile in 2:14 2-5 and paid $3 to win.

The second division of the featured race was captured in the eighth race [by Billy By-O, driven by owner Sheldon At more of Parkhill, Ont., in 2:10 3-5, best time of the rainsoaked night.

Billy By-O took the lead at the half mile mark and finished across the wire 10 lengths ahead of Black Angel C, owned by Rodney Morrissey of Carleton, Ont. He paid $3.20 to win.

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)— For the angler who likes his fighting fish all in one spot, Lake Magantygbi in Quebec's Compton municipality in Townships may long been a lure.

But a crumbling power dam, abandoned years ago, is seriously thinning the lake's stock of salmon, trout, pike and bass. The fish are simply swimming right through the dam — or what's left of it—to die in lakes, brooks or challenge anglers in smaller lakes.

The leaky dam, which spans the lake's only outlet, has caused water levels to drop, exposing spawning beds and interfering with reproduction.

A few years ago hundreds of fine salmon were planted in the lake. Most Massawippi anglers never got a chance at them. They joined the exodus through the holes and cracks in the dam.

The lake has also suffered from lack of a good stocking program.

Now a campaign is present on the lake's fishing reputation has been undertaken by the 81-year-old, 500 - member Massawippi Fish and Game Protection Club.

PROVINCE MAY ACT

Archie Stafford, a "former president," has been struggling on the club's own to get the dam repaired or replaced. The club still never have enough money to do the job itself.

"Now I think something may be done," Stafford says, explaining that provincial engineers have studied the problem and made suggestions to the cabinet.

It would cost more than $40,000 for a dam lock to control the fish flow. The dam itself, owned by the four municipalities through which the lake meanders, would cost considerably more.

The club made a good start this year towards establishing a perpetual restocking program for the lake. It has built four ponds on a 375 - acre farm it bought for $9,000.

One pond is filled with 3,000 fledgling brown trout. Another, in which 1,000 fry trout were placed in the spring, recently yielded 200 full-grown trout—"an excellent average"—which have been planted in the lake for next year. That pond now is empty.

ONE IN RESERVE

A third pond is being prepared for rearing purposes while the fourth, 12 feet deep and the largest of all, is being held in reserve.

The plan is to raise 50,000 to 70,000 trout in the ponds each year. Later, when the program is more advanced, the ponds will be used for rearing salmon and other game fish for which Massawippi Lake has become famous.

"Fishing is still pretty good on the lake," says Stafford. "But it could be much better and unless we get this program cracking it may be too late."

Calgary Makes Strong Bid To Make Colorful Banff Site of Winter Olympics

By BOB TRIMBEE

CALGARY (CP)—Thirty-four years ago a Calgary member of Parliament suggested in the Commons that Canada apply to the International Olympic Committee for the '33 winter games and stage them at the mountain resort of Banff, Alta.

The suggestion fell on deaf ears and the games that year were held in Lake Placid, N.Y.

Today his son, Art Smith Jr., also an MP, is taking a leading role in a bid by Calgary to bring the 1968 Winter Olympics to Banff, 80 miles west of here.

Under the banner of the Calgary Olympic Development Association this city is sponsoring the Banff bid. It will be one of five to go before the IOC on Oct. 22, 1963. The others will come from Norway, France, Japan and a combined Sweden-Finland entry.

It will be the second time CODA has presented the Banff case to the IOC. The first was in 1959 at Munich, when Innsbruk, Austria, won the nod to stage the 1964 games. The Banff bid received nine of the 67 votes cast.

WELCOMED REFUSAL

"Even then we were planning for a more determined bid in 1963," said Ed Davis, CODA president. "We knew our chances of getting the 1964 games were slim. In fact, we were happy not to get them.

"After we discovered just how much preparation has to be done to arrange for the hundreds of tasks in staging the winter Olympics, we knew we could never be ready for 1964."

Davis, like others among the 150 active members of CODA, originally was brought into the association because of his professional talents. He is a consulting engineer.

His original job was to make a capital construction analysis of the physical requirements of the games. He was one of five men sent to the 1960 games at Squaw Valley, Calif., to study methods used there in staging the games.

The men prepared five detailed reports and CODA began to implement the findings or set the wheels in motion to ensure that the requirements would be met.

'NATIONAL CHALLENGE'

Davis, who has travelled across the continent several times to seek information or to meet Olympic or government officials and discuss problems, has many times all but put aside his own personal business career. He has been credited with unifying the efforts and steering CODA on a steady and positive course.

"I was asked to come into CODA just before the Squaw Valley games," Davis said. "I was willing to assist where possible and, like the others joined before or after me, I felt that getting the games to Canada was a national challenge.

"I believed this was just the thing Canada needed as a country. My belief was reinforced when I saw the games at Squaw Valley. They were greater than I had ever anticipated.

"I knew then that no other single event could possibly focus more attention on Canada during her centennial celebrations."

CODA first had to win the approval of the Canadian Olympic Association over four other sites as Canada's representative for the 1968 games.

BALLYHOO WON'T DO

In that campaign, CODA has stuck to a "well thought out, careful and scientific approach," said Davis.

"It hasn't been easy. In Calgary we're used to ballyhoo and gimmicks. Our Stampede is a personality affair. But winning the 1968 games and selling ourselves to the IOC is far removed from the atmosphere involved in the Stampede. We have been very sober about all our efforts. We haven't said or promised anything that we couldn't back up with facts. . . .

"If we get the games we'll have plenty of time to turn on the ballyhoo . . . The people . . . we're dealing with are . . . not interested in gimmicks, but only in what site will do the most to uphold the sanctity of the games and do the most to promote amateur winter sports."

CODA has also had to convince government officials that the games are worth the money needed to stage them.

"I believe there are some government people who still do not realize the magnitude or the potential of the games," said Davis. "But most have come around to our thinking and support us—at least the key ones have.

"The surprising thing is that private interests with a vested financial interest in Banff—the big business people who stand to gain the most if the games come to Banff—have done little or nothing to help get the games. They seem to be content to sit on the fence and do as little as possible until the IOC makes the decision."

GOVERNMENTS HELP

The province and the federal government have agreed to support CODA financially in its preparatory work.

Davis said the federal government will have to assume responsibility for principle costs of the physical structures within Banff National Park. The province has agreed to take on the responsibility of solving communication problems with the cost of building such facilities to be negotiated.

The Banff School of Fine Arts has agreed to rearrange the timing of its expansion plans so that it will be able to accommodate the 2,000 athletes, officials and coaches during the games.

CODA has all but completed laying out the various courses for skiing and bobsled events and has had them appraised by Prof. Friedl Wolfgang of Innsbruk, secretary-general of the 1961 games and chairman of the powerful International Ski Federation (FIS).

Prof. Wolfgang suggested only one minor change in the courses —as a safety measure—during a visit here in late August.

SUPPORTS BANFF

"The suggestions for use of facilities after the games — to promote sports in Canada as a national training centre—is just what the IOC wants," he said. "They do not want to award the games to a country merely as a financial proposition or as a means of increasing tourism.

"They must know beforehand what will be done with the facilities after the games. That is very important.

"You can see that these (CODA) people started early to organize. They took the time to find out what is required and have set out to do the job. Nothing major needs to be altered in their plans, I believe. . . . I personally hope Banff will get the games."

Cost of staging the games has been estimated at $10,000,000.

The major construction involves an Olympic centre, communication facilities, building of a 10,000-seat arena, an outdoor practice rink and 7 speedskating oval, additional facilities to accommodate spectators at Banff and organized transportation to and from Banff by rail and road for spectators living outside the park.

COULD MAKE PROFIT!

Hans Macioj, CODA vice-president and a one-time semi-pro soccer player in Germany, said the Olympic facilities could easily be converted into a Canadian sports training centre after the games. Canadian teams could be brought to Banff for concentrated training. Facilities could be built in such a manner that they could be used for either winter or summer sports.

He believed a profit could be realized from the games and would provide the COA with enough money to finance training programs and send Canadian teams to international games outside Canada for a number of years.

On-site accommodation for spectators would have to be built by private capital and be governed by long-range development plans for the park adopted by the federal government, said Davis. Several investors were waiting for a decision on this matter.

Davis said the cost of staging the games will come equally from government and private sources. He would not detail the amounts. CODA now is in the midst of launching a campaign for funds from private sources.

NEVER HELD HERE

In its bid to the International Olympic Committee CODA will stress many sympathetic points —Canada has never had the games, it is an original member of International Ski Federation, the games would provide a fitting climax to Canada's centennial celebrations and would be correlated with a broad cultural program being planned for Calgary for 1968.

While the cultural aspects connected with the games are compulsory for any bid for the summer Olympics, they are not required when bidding for the winter games. Banff's bid is the only one which has included this facet. CODA already has booked the Jubilee Auditorium and Victoria Park here for this purpose and has discussed with Canada Council officials the prospect of bringing various programs sponsored by the council to Calgary during the games.

Much planning still has to be done before Mayor Harry Hays of Calgary formally presents Banff's bid to the IOC.

Sweeney Tops in AL

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Sweeney of Springfield Indians is the first American Hockey League player to reach double-figures this season and leads the league's scorers with 10 points.

Sweeney accumulated his total on three goals and seven assists. AHL statistics released today show Wayne Larkin of Springfield and Skippy Burchell of Quebec Aces are tied for second place with eight points each.

The leading goal scorers, with four each, are Bruce Cline and Jimmy Anderson of Springfield, Cliff Schmautz of Buffalo Bisons and Roger DeJordy of Hershey Bears. Sweeney is the assists leader.

Tillsonburg, Guelph In Hassle

Charge Junior B Brass Outbidding 'A'

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Hockey Association Junior A teams are finding themselves in a price war—but not among themselves.

The OHA Junior A Council heard Monday that some Junior B teams are outbidding junior A teams for players.

Lou Passador, manager of the Guelph Royals, said four players refused to play with the Tillsonburg Junior B team this year instead of with his team.

The council, after hearing Passador's charges, immediately ordered a hearing Nov. 3 and summoned officers of the Tillsonburg team and four players—Trevor and Gus Fahey, Jim Kennedy and Dan Mahoney, to appear.

Passador told the council the four players attended Royals' camp, three signed A cards, and they asked permission to return to Tillsonburg, where they played last year, to get their clothes. They didn't return.

SIGNED BEFORE

It seems the players had signed B cards at Tillsonburg before they went to the Guelph camp. Last year Tillsonburg was sponsored by New York Rangers of the National League, also sponsors of Royals, but this season severed their agreement.

Passador is not happy. He is also New York's chief scout and claims his organization scouted the players, sent them to Tillsonburg for seasoning, and now can't use them on their A team because the teams are no longer connected.

No boy can be forced to change clubs without his consent.

Passador charged the Tillsonburg team was paying room and board, extra spending money and securing jobs for players.

In some instances, said Passador, players are making more money than the $60 weekly salary limit allowed for A players by the council.

"We'd better do something about it right now," said Passador, "if they get away with this, every other team will hear about it and you'll have the same trouble next year."

URGES REFEREES

Jimmy Skinner, manager of the Hamilton Red Wings, urged that if Tillsonburg is allowed to keep the four players, Guelph should at least be reimbursed for the fares of the Fahey who were brought to Tillsonburg from Newfoundland by the Royals.

OHA vice-president C. G. Patterson told the junior council: "The first thing you know you're going to have them asking for Junior A ratings." I read somewhere that St. Thomas's Junior B team spent $45,000 on hockey last season."

Passador also charged that three of the four players accepted room and board, spending money and expenses at his camp — even after they had signed with Tillsonburg.

BILLS GUELPH

Anl, said Passador, the Tillsonburg team billed the Guelph team for cleaning and room and board for one of the four players.

Patterson and OHA business manager Bill Hanley reminded the meeting that neither the Tillsonburg executive or the players had been found guilty of anything.

"They may have done something morally wrong," said Matt Leyden, OHA vice-president from Oshawa, "but at least we should hear what they have to say.

"This is the worst mess I've seen for years."

Meets Tiger In Frisco

Fullmer Gambles Crown Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Champion Gene Fullmer, the awkward looking heller from Utah, risks his World Boxing Association middleweight crown an eighth time tonight, facing Dick Tiger of Nigeria, a sharp hitter with as much strength as Fullmer.

Neither 160-pounder has set any pattern of action for the 15-round closed-circuit television battle at Candlestick Park with Fullmer's share of the world championship at stake.

"Whatever way he wants to fight me is the way I'll fight him," declares the 33-year-old Tiger whose given name, Ihetu, was discarded long ago when he started boxing with the leaping style of a tiger.

Despite reports that the challenger was having trouble making the 160-pound limit, the odds in his favor have gone the past few days from 7-5 to 8-5.

When the odds were 7-5, Fullmer expressed disdain with the declaration: "If I didn't think I could win, I wouldn't have offered to fight him."

The 27-year-old champion won his title here in August 1959, stopping Carmen Basilio in the 14th round.

While the WBA recognizes Fullmer, Paul Pender of Massachusetts is called champion in his home state, New York and Europe.

The challenger never has been stopped en route to a 48-12-3 record and has won seven straight. Fullmer's record is 55-4-2. The champion has been stopped once—by Sugar Ray Robinson.

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

FICTON — It's a far cry from Ab. Hare's ancient ice idols that housed county hockey teams and rafter-shaking crowds here three decades ago to the modern Community Centre.

As in other communities, time has changed the sports scene but the "Spirit of the Spaniards" remains the same.

It is the same rollicking "back-the-boys" spirit that overflowed the cup pit loyalty in the depression-hit '.30's and .36's" when the tough Fete Gaiet, Rea Churches, Reilly Korks's, Raymie Hudgins and others dared the "county boys" to knock the chips off their puffiest hockey shoulders.

It is the same spirit that fired the fans in .32 when Bloomfield's famous peashpaw "Warpy" Phillips led the Picton baseball squad to the provincial finals against the noted "Lefty" Goldsmith of Southampton.

The heritage of the sports spirit of those days has been handed down and the torch caught by succeeding generations. Crowds, the envy of any city and other district communities, backed softball teams solidly particularly when meeting out-of-town foemen.

Last winter a well-coached junior "C" club carried the town's hockey banner in OHA competition. Fans rallied strongly behind this fine young club as it battled in a tough schedule and down a bumpy playoff trail to its league finals.

The hockey virus spread to the county. The Community Centre was packed, literally to the rafters in playoff battles. The result was the club finished the season well "in the black". In fact I'm told, it had some $1,700 on the right side of the ledger when the books were balanced.

This season hockey will blast off twin barrels of sport and excitement for the town and county faithful.

For the first time in its sports history the town will be represented in two OHA classifications. It premiere's an intermediate "B" club with the junior "C" team will pick up last year's threads of action.

Walter Fraser, well - known ex-one-going marine and sportsman will master-mind the intermediate squad. Picton's popular Mayor H. J. McFarland has got the club off on the right foot financially and it will carry his name and colors.

Chris Lockyer, who when we were in Europe with the 1939 Belleville McFarlands, almost convinced the good burghers of Geneva that Prince Edward carnations should replace the national Swiss Edelweiss, heads the junior squad. His manager is Lionel Hicks with Bob Fawcett in the coaching slot.

The boys, I am told, have a lot of promising players from town, county and district. Two imports have also been reported for training camp. The team is entered in the Eastern Ontario Junior Hockey League with "C" teams, Gananoque, Cobourg, Napanee, and Trenton and "B" squads from Kingston, Belleville and Peterborough.

Walt Fraser is building what he hopes will be a strong contender for Lakeshore Intermediate Hockey League honors. In the four-squad loop besides Picton are Uxbridge, Trenton, RCAF and Bowmanville.

"We should have a good club," Walt told me the other day. "I have received OHA permission to use two ex-Belleville Macs, Lionel Kelly and Davy Jones. Both will be playing coach. Bobby McDonald will play as will, I hope, Ron Hull of Point Anne."

Fraser also has Fawcett, Tom Halloran in goal, Leo St. Denis, Jim Guernsey, The Stacey brothers, Devaard from Wellington, Leo Carriere, Ron Weese not to mention Sam the Man Mulholland and others.

So, my favorite town, internationally famous through the Harmsworth Trophy Races and Hayward Reach should dine on rich hockey fare this winter. Its rafter-shaking random won't lack for arm-chasing excitement nor will it let what appears to be two fine clubs lack for support.

Incidentally this newspaper will carry day-after-game coverage of both junior "C" and intermediate "B" games. An on-the-spot reporter will write the details and highlights. Watch for it on these sports pages.

Bison Player Fined $100

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Buffalo defenceman Ron Ingram has been fined $100 and suspended for the next three games for his part in a fight in the Buffalo-Baltimore American Hockey League game Sunday night, it was announced here Monday.

Referee Dalton McArthur, noting that it took some 15 officials to close Sullivan's wound, imposed a match misconduct penalty, carrying an automatic $100 fine, on Ingram. Balmer added the three-game suspension.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Crafty Lace, a three-year-old gelding, beat an 11-horse field in Old Woodbine's featured $11,800 Fairbank Handicap Monday, finishing 3½ lengths ahead of the trailer horse, Vim.

The winning time of 1.45 3-5 was less than two seconds off the three-year-old Minstrel Jive's track record set five years ago. The lucky Ron Turcotte, 21, leading rider with 73 wins at the recent New Woodbine meet.

The winner paid $5.20.

John Lewis Now Holds Empire Marks

John Lewis, star of the Apollo Bar-Ball Club, of Belleville, has been notified that he is the official holder of four British Empire records for Weightlifting records.

Lewis' records are 776 pounds for the press, 255 pound snatch, 315 pound clean and jerk, giving him an 846 pound total. All marks are records.

Certificates, signed by the secretary of the International Federation, were forwarded to the Apollo Club from England.

The boss, for Lewis and for his club, is up especially high one.

Von Clay KO's Young

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Von Clay scored a one-punch knockout over a disabled Dick Young Monday night in two minutes 38 seconds of the fifth round of a scheduled 10 - round light heavyweight feature at the Arena.

Young, unbeaten in 15 previous bouts and ahead on all three cards Monday night, was doubled over by a stomach cramp in the fifth. He went to his knees for a mandatory eight count in attempting to end the spasm. When he stood up, still in pain, Clay circled him twice, then put him away with a right cross to the jaw.

Clay weighed 177, Young, 170½.

In a scheduled eight-rounder, Stanley (Kitten) Hayward, 150, Philadelphia, knocked out Sonny Forbes, 145, Toronto, at 2:08 of the seventh round.

THEY RE-GREW HAIR!

Hair Specialist Here Wednesday Will Show Men and Women How to Save Hair and Prevent Baldness

OTTAWA, Ont. New home treatment methods for saving hair and increasing its growth will be demonstrated in Belleville Wednesday, October 24 at the Quinte Hotel.

Specialist C. A. Tander will be in charge, representing the dynamic Roberts Hair and Scalp Specialists organization. He will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 1.00 to 4.00 pm.

This new treatment is neither "mail order" nor "store-all". It is adapted to the individual after a personal examination and progress is checked at regular intervals by a Roberts Specialist.

Who Can Be Helped?

Will the new Roberts treatment cure baldness? "Yes" and we cannot help men and women who are slick-headed after years of gradual hair loss. But if you still have fuzz and your scalp is still creasing hair, you can at least save and thicken what you have. Some conditions, such as "spot baldness" usually have complete coverage if caught in time!

Other conditions that usually bring on excessive hair-loss—dandruff, itching, over-oiliness or dryness, follicle clogged with sebum or seborrhea— can be corrected by the Roberts home treatment if caught in time.

"DON'T WAIT UNTIL IT'S TOO LATE"

Baldness won't wait for doubters to be convinced, you are going to keep right on losing hair 'til you're bald —unless you get your scalp in healthy, hair-growing condition again.

Examine You Free

We want to make it clear that you incur absolutely no charge or obligation by coming in for examination.

Your only obligation is to yourself. We do not accept cases that will not respond.

Guarantee Satisfaction

The Roberts Specialists will give you a written guarantee that you must be satisfied within 30 days or it will cost you nothing.

For a free examination and discussion of your hair problems ask the desk clerk for Mr. Tander's room number. He does not make appointments, so come at your convenience.

Examinations are given in private.

NHL Scoring Race

Richard, Pennington Tied

MONTREAL (CP) — Players for the usually under-rated Boston Bruins hold three of the four top spots in the National Hockey League's individual scoring race after the first two weeks of play.

Official NHL statistics released today show Bostonsmooth - forward, Cliff Fenning-ton, picked up six points in three games to tie Montreal Canadiens' Maurice Richard for point - getters last week and move into a first-place scoring tie with Fenny (Pocket Rocket) Richard of Montreal.

Both have nine-point totals, but Richard is ranked first because he has five goals—tops in the league so far—to Pennington's three.

In third position is Murray Oliver of Boston with an eight-point total comprising two goals and six assists. Oliver picked up five points last week and shares the leadership in assists with Pennington.

Another Boston player, Johnny Bucyk, and Alex Delvecchio of Detroit have seven-point totals, but Bucyk is ranked ahead because he has scored more goals. Both have six points are split 3-4 and Delvecchio 2-4.

WINGS HOLD LEAD

The still - undefeated Red Wings hold down top team spot with a record of four wins and a tie for nine points.

Tied for second place are Montreal and Toronto. Both the Canadiens and the Leafs have played in four games, won three, lost two and tied one for seven points.

Terry Sawchuk of Detroit still ranks as the league's top goaltender with a 1.25 goals-against average. He has allowed only six goals in five games and has one shutout.

Chicago is the most penalized team with a total of 89 minutes in the penalty box.

Fluke TD Raises Query

Lively Ball In Football?

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — Has the lively balls come to football?

That's a question being asked by annoyed fans in these parts after the fluke touchdown scored by Ron Stewart in the game Saturday in gaining a 21-21 tie with Ottawa Rough Riders in an Eastern Football Conference game.

And the fans appear a little annoyed with the Riders themselves for seemingly not knowing the rule book well enough to make a protest at the moment the touchdown was allowed.

After the game, Ottawa General Manager George Terlesky sent a protest by telegram to Football Commissioner Sydney Halter in Winnipeg.

With two plays left in the first half, Montreal quarterback Sandy Stephens' threw a 40-yard pass to end Marv Luster. Defensive halfback Whit Tucker and Luster jumped for the ball. It was deflected into the crossbar and dropped into Luster's arms for a touchdown. Riders shook their heads in dismay but didn't question referee Norm Maxwell.

The appropriate rule reads, "A legal forward pass is one that is thrown by any player of the attacking team from a spot behind the line of scrimmage to any eligible receiver or receivers . . . and shall not touch the ground, the goalposts or any other object."

BALL TOUCHED PLAYERS

Hap Shouldice, Halter's eastern representative, says the rule was nullified because the ball touched Tucker or Luster or both before hitting the crossbar.

Riders claim there is no qualification in the rule book to say that a pass is illegal simply if it touches the goalposts.

Shouldice said all officials understand the rule as meaning that the pass is legal if it hits the goalposts after touching a player.

The "lively ball" is one interpretation which has come out of Saturday's ruling.

Some insist that if a deflected pass can strike the goalposts and be legal, why not a deflected pass which hits the ground? Ground and goalposts are mentioned together in the rule.

On this reasoning, a player could bat down a pass, catch the ball as it would be credited with a completed pass. Or why use a basketball instead of a football to make sure of the direction of the bounce?

Any event, football connoisseurs here expect some fixing up of the rule book even if the 21-21 score stands.

America's Cup

Accept British Challenge

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yacht Club has accepted a British challenge to compete for the America's Cup in 1964.

Commodore R. Irving Pratt of the New York club sent a cable notifying Earl Mountbatten, commodore of the Royal Thames Yacht Club of the acceptance for 1964.

In the message, Pratt formally extended the British commodore that the British challenge for 1963 could not be accepted.

The Americans earlier had notified the British club that they would not race in 1963 because of the time and expense involved in preparing and racing the expensive 12 - metre yachts.

The United States' Weatherly defeated the challenging Australian Gretel four races to one in the cup competition off Newport, R.I., last month.

Fumble Sets Up 17-8 Win

Bombers Trim Saskys, Regain Lead

REGINA (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers climbed back atop the Western Football Conference standings Monday night with a 17-8 victory over Saskatchewan Roughriders.

The win gave Bombers 20 points, one ahead of Calgary Stampeders, and left Roughriders in third place with 15 points and their playoff hopes still in doubt.

British Columbia Lions, with 12 points, still could overhaul Saskatchewan and enter the playoffs. A Saskatchewan win or a B.C. loss could end the race for third place in favor of Roughriders and send Saskatchewan into the playoffs for the first time in four years. Each club has two games remaining.

A crowd of 10,320 watched the closely - fought game. The clinching Winnipeg score—a 12-yard touchdown pass to Ernie Pitts from Ken Ploen—was set up by a Rider fumble early in the fourth quarter.

A 24-yard pass from Ploen to halback Dave Hagberg gave Bombers their first touchdown in the first quarter. Fullback Gerry James booted two more other Winnipeg points by converting both touchdowns and kicking a 31-yard field goal in the second quarter.

A nine-yard plunge by Fest Burket of the Roughriders a touchdown that put them into the lead in the first quarter. A single by Burket and a field goal attempt by Steve Myhra that went wide for one point rounded out the Saskatchewan scoring.

WLASIUK FUMBLES

Going into the final 15 minutes of play the score was 10-7 for Bombers and still anybody's game. Then Saskatchewan punt returner Gene Wlasiuk took a kick by Charlie Shepard and tried to lateral it back to Danny Bands. Rick Potter of Bombers came up with the resulting fumble at the Winnipeg 50 and ran it to the Saskatchewan 12. Ploen passed to Pitts for the touchdown that gave Bombers a comfortable 10-point margin.

The Riders kept Bombers at bay most of the game as Burket averaged 43.8 yards on 10 punts. Shepard kicked eight times for Winnipeg for an average of 39.1 yards.

Statistically, Bombers held the edge with 17 first downs on 145 yards rushing and 106 passing. Saskatchewan picked up 114 yards on the ground and 85 through the air for 14 first downs.

Ploen connected on 12 of 18 passes and had one intercepted while Saskatchewan quarterback Bob Ptacek had trouble finding the mark and completed only eight of 19 passes.

The only fumble was the fatal Saskatchewan miscue in the fourth quarter.

The victory gave Winnipeg a clean sweep of its three meetings with Saskatchewan this season. Winnipeg, Saskatchewan and B.C. each have two regular season games remaining. Calgary and Edmonton Eskimos each have one.

Hamilton Loses Goalie

By PAUL RINSTEAD

HAMILTON (JCP) — Buddy Blom is a young man who knows what he wants—a college education—and he's dead serious about getting it.

Blom, 20, is an outstanding young goaltender who left Hamilton Red Wings to the Memorial Cup last season. But, he won't be available this year.

The native of Stratford told the Hamilton team Monday that he has decided to accept a hockey scholarship from Denver University and will report to his new team after Christmas.

"I guess you could say I'm very security conscious," said Blom Monday night in an interview. "I discussed it with my parents and we feel that will be the best for my future."

Last season Blom (pronounced Bloom) was picked for the second all-star team in the Ontario Hockey Association's Junior A series.

REFUSES TO SIGN

"We didn't know about it until he refused to sign a C-Form in training camp," said Syd Bibby, manager of the Hamilton team, Monday night. "It's common practice to sign last year junior players to C-Forms."

Signing it, though, would have made Blom ineligible for U.S. college hockey.

In fact, the structure of his scholarship is such that Blom can't play any league games this year even though he will be in Hamilton until Christmas.

"I'm not positive of the ruling," said Blom, "except that if I play even one league game after the age of 20, I will lose the third 'year of my scholarship. I would have to pay my own tuition the third year and wouldn't be eligible for the team.'

Having 'Dream' Year

Larks' Dixon Looks 'Tops'

TORONTO (CP) — George Dixon, a slim 160-pound Montreal Alouette halfback, is having one of those years football players dream about—and rival teams fear.

Barring misfortune, the 25-year-old native of Bridgeport in Connecticut will be the first player in the history of Bridgeport in Connecticut should make a sweep of the Eastern Football Conference awards.

He's a veritable cinch to break the league's rushing record and has a good change to win the scoring title and player-of-the-year honors.

Dixon has been so effective this season he has accounted for 53 per cent of Montreal's total running record.

Dixon has scored 72 points—12 touchdowns in 12 games and leads the scoring parade by seven points. He needs only 60 yards in the two remaining games to top the rushing mark of 1,407 gained by Dave Thelen of Ottawa Rough Hiders in 1960.

Averaging 30 yards a game for two games shouldn't be a difficult feat for a man who has averaged better than 112 a game so far this season.

Bobby Kunitz of Hamilton Tiger-Cats is second to Dixon in rushing, but is well behind with only 813 yards compared with 1,348 by Dixon.

NEARS RECORD

Moe Racine, Ottawa's kicking tackle, is second in scoring with 65 points, seven behind Dixon. Racine, too, has a chance for a record this season. His 10 field goals are only one short of the record established by Ray Poole of the Alouettes in 1953.

Toronto Argonauts, in last place, have the leading passer and leading receiver, but poorest ground attack. Quarterback Tobin Rote has completed 168 of 306 passes for a net gain of 2,243 yards and Dick Shatto, his favorite target, has hauled in 42 passes.

Joe Hernandez of Toronto is the leading kickoff return man, Ed Learn of Montreal is tops in punt returns and Toronto's Dave Mann and Hamilton's Joe Zuger are battling for punting honors.

Hernandez has returned 20 kickoffs a total of 551 yards, an average of 27.6 yards a carry, and Learn has returned 63 punts, far more than anyone else in the league, for 329 yards.

Mann has averaged 43.7 yards a punt and kicked the longest one 75 yards. Zuger, who has completed 42 of 63 passes as a quarterback, is right behind with a 43.3 punting average.

BC Lineman Wins Trophy

REGINA (CP)—Tom Brown, a linebacker with British Columbia Lions, has been awarded the Becket-DeMarco trophy as the most valuable lineman in the Western Football Conference, it was announced today.

Brown, a six-foot, 245-pound former all-American from Minnesota, is in his second season with Lions.

The trophy was presented six years ago in memory of two Roughrider linemen — Mel Becket and Mario DeMarco—who were killed in an air crash following the East-West all-star game at Vancouver in December, 1956.

Income Tax Explained

Written and designed for the taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax Office.

By C. A. MILLER
Former Supervising Assessor
Income Tax Dept.

Most taxpayers are aware that to claim a child other than their own, the child does not need to be legally adopted. The Income Tax Act defines adoption as either in law or in fact.

Yet many taxpayers enter claims for children who could not be allowed as the child is not adopted "in fact."

A child is considered to be adopted in fact, when the taxpayer has the full custody and control and no other person can remove the child from the taxpayer's home without a court order.

Some taxpayers board children in their home who are from the Children's Aid Society or other welfare organizations and try to claim them as adopted children. Such claims are not in order as the custody and control of these children remains with the organization who placed them in the taxpayer's home. Under these circumstances the child would have to be legally adopted before a claim is allowable on the taxpayer's return.

In other cases, a taxpayer will take in children to give them an advanced education when the child's parents are not in a position to pay the tuition, allow the taxpayer fully supports such children, he cannot claim them on his tax return as he does not have full custody and control. The parents could take such children back home anytime, and is usually found on investigation that the parents of these children have claimed them on their own tax returns. Orphaned children who are ward wards of any welfare organization may be claimed by the person who has them in his custody and control.

Question — My two sons live with my brother who is putting them through University. I do not pay him any money but donate produce from my farm. Who claims these children?

Answer: You should make the claim. If your brother cannot claim them as he has not adopted them in law or in fact.

Question — We have a child in our home from the Children's Aid Society. We intend to adopt it if we can be mutually satisfied. Can we claim this child on our return?

Answer — You have no claim until such time as the adoption papers are signed.

More People Are Taking Their Sports by Television Says Boxing Team Coach

By BOB TRIMBEE

EDMONTON (CP) — Canadians aren't the physical wrecks many people suggest they are, says George Bougie, a 41-year-old city building inspector who sent much energy his building code in favor of the boxing rule book.

Bougie, coach of Canada's British Empire Games boxing team, says more Canadians are eating healthy, living better and participating in more sports than ever before.

"If this is true, and I doubt anyone can prove otherwise, how can you say that physically Canadians are going down hill?

"The improved foods may put a little more weight on people, but that hardly is reason to say we're not fit.

"The thing that bothers me, though, is that as spectators, Canadians would rather watch their sports on television. . . .

"It's a difficult thing to fill even a small park with relatives or friends of the kids taking part in amateur sports. That's what hurts, especially when it involves people who profess a real interest in the sporting activities of their youngsters."

STARTED AT 10

Bougie, who keeps himself in top shape and looks every bit an athlete, has definite opinions too on people who view boxing as a dull-witted sport.

"I'm not talking about the professional boxer. His is a career far removed from amateur standards and objectives.

"Sports in general are great character builders and I see a youngster the rules of the game and help him to fit into society.

"Individual sports, such as boxing, are the best of all. Everyone is on his own at one time in his life and sports that involve individual effort and actions builds into a person the confidence and poise needed to meet these situations.

"When a youngster comes out to the gym, we don't teach him how to fight, we teach him how to box. Often a youngster will come to us for a year before he even puts on a pair of gloves.

"I was 10 when I first started and that's a good age to begin."

In the years that followed, Bougie won the 118-pound Alberta title in 1934 and, as a welterweight took 35 straight decisions while a member of the RCAF team.

SON ALSO BOXES

After the Second World War he turned to coaching. Today he handles about 135 youngsters at three times a week at the HMCS Nonsuch club.

He also corresponds with the coaches of the six boxers representing Canada at the B.E. Games next month at Perth, Australia. In his capacity as a member of both the national and provincial Amateur Athletic Union's boxing executive, Bougie works with other executives organizing the activities of more than 8,000 amateur boxers in Alberta.

Boxing is the big sport in the Bougie family. His wife, Delores, met him at a boxing match and is an avid fan.

His son Ron, 19, won five different provincial weight classifications and in the future hopes to represent Canada at the B.E.G. or Olympics.

But while attending Calgary Tech his gloves are all packed away.

"This is as it should be" said his father. "Parents should understand enough about their boy's problems to ensure sports do not interfere with his education."

FLUENT IN FRENCH

Father and son have won so many boxing trophies between them that it's difficult to find a place to keep them at home.

"We're the only father and son listed in the boxing books as provincial champions," said George Bougie.

He says his ability to speak both English and French fluently went a long way toward his selection as team coach.

"The coach's job is to maintain discipline and to help the boys improve their qualities, not to remake the fighter or change his style a week before the championships.

"I've never been on an international squad before, but I've seen all our boys in action at the Canadian championships and I'm very confident we will do well.

"But if it's gold medals that Canada can't from our boxers we had better change our selection system and we can start at Perth."

"These boys will represent an investment in international experience that will pay dividends since it's almost impossible to win your division.

"What we should do is to try and keep this team together after the games and use it as a preliminary to our Pan-American Games team.

"Many newcomers can be added or replace the boxers who don't keep up their standard.

"I suggested this, but few go along with me. As a coach I know my record is there.

"They all have boxers just a year away from international calibre but they don't put this team. They fear that by keeping the team together it might work against their luck.

"It's a natural feeling, but a mistake that experience in international matches.

"I'm not saying the boys go to Perth can't win gold medals. They are the ones to feel have the best chance from Canada. .

"But experience can mean as much as 50 per cent to a boxer. He won't lighten up before a large crowd, the B.E.G. setting or pressure surrounding the games."

Festival Over Million Mark in Ticket Sales

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP)—The Stratford Shakespearean Festival, which ended its 10th season Sept. 29, has an overwhelming hit at the box office.

For the first time since its inception, the festival climbed over the $1,000,000 - mark in ticket sales.

However, if last season's financial figures are any indication, the festival may show a deficit.

The 2,258 - seat theatre was filled to 94.5 per cent capacity during the 15-week season. The festival had set its sights at 82 per cent minimum.

"Cyrano de Bergerac" played to 100 per cent houses, receiving standing ovations after each of its 19 performances.

The 38 performances of Macbeth recorded 95.9 per cent attendance, while The Taming of the Shrew, with 31 performances, and The Tempest, with 38 performances, both had 93.5 per cent attendance.

In all, the four plays took in a gross of $815,000. The musical attractions grossed an additional $185,000.

RECEIVES GRANT

Total revenues in the 1961 season—for both plays and musical events — was $910,017, but $895,506 of this went for theatre operation and maintenance, administration, box office and publicity expenses. Debt charges, losses on expenses and other costs — including a 13-month fiscal year instead of 12 — gave the festival a deficit.

It was only with the $25,000 Canada Council grant—they are made prior to the start of each festival—that the deficit was reduced to an overall $22,097 loss.

Last year the festival drew 77.24 per cent of its visitors from throughout Canada, while the remaining 22.96 per cent came from the United States and other countries.

This annual influx of moneyspenders not only fills the festival's coffers, but injects about $2,000,000 into the economy of the city. Festival administrator Victor Polley estimates each visitor spends an average $7.50 in the city.

Visitors filled Stratford's three hotels and six motels, not including private homes, and other accommodations for 30 miles around. Polley estimates the city needs another 200 motel units. Lloyd Drummond, real estate man, plans to build a 35-unit motel this fall.

MAY MISS GAME

HAMILTON (CP)—End Hal Patterson of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, recovering from a sprained left ankle, may not dress for Saturday's football game in Montreal against the Alouettes.

Team officials said Monday the sprain is not serious and swelling has been reduced. Patterson could possibly play in a pass from Joe Zuger in Sunday's game here against Toronto Argonauts.

Coach Jim Trimble said Patterson could possibly play in Saturday's game although the team doesn't want to take a chance.

Record by Presley Sells 600,000 Copies in 3 Weeks

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It should come as news to no one that Elvis Presley has another winning phonograph record.

But it should be noted that his Return to Sender has sold 600,000 copies in its first three weeks, according to the Presley mentor, Col. Tom Parker.

"We've played it very smart," says the oldtime medicine showman. "Other singers glut the market. We put out only four single releases a year, two albums. That's it."

What does Elvis have to say? I dropped in for a chat on the set of It Happened at the World's Fair, his latest film.

"Yeah, I heard that Return to Sender had the biggest advance sale of any record," he said. "But I don't pay much attention to those matters. I'm just do the numbers and hope somebody likes 'em."

He doesn't even listen to them afterward. This came up when I asked him if his singing style had changed in his six years in the bigtime.

"I don't think so," he remarked. "I wouldn't change the way I sing, other than to brush up the fast tunes with a ballad now and then.

"I don't really listen to my old numbers, anyway. Once a record's released I forget it. After I've recorded it. I listen to it over and over again to see if there's anything I can improve. But when I've okayed it, I don't want to hear it any more."

Elvis will finish the movie in a couple of weeks and will be heading back to Memphis, Tenn., in his home-bus. He and his buddies drive it to and from Memphis, usually without overnight stops.

"I'm scared of flying and the trains aren't very good any more," he explained. Also, it solves his continual problem of avoiding public places lest he get crushed by a wall of teenage girls.

Tilt-Wheel on Motor Cars An Extra Cost Option

DETROIT (AP)— For almost as long as men have been tinkering with automobiles there have been working on ways to make the steering column less of an obstacle to the driver's compartment.

The urge to stop the columns have changed from giant wood or hard rubber circles to smaller diameters of colorful plastics. Some are more square than round. Centres have been recessed—dropped—to give contrast to the sharp points that were fashionable briefly.

But the column has remained, becoming even more of an obstacle in some cars as the overall height of the vehicles was lowered.

More than 20 different patents have been granted on methods or flexible steering columns since 1900. The 1902 Olds had a movable tiller which preceded the steering wheel. The 1905 Buick, 1916 Cadillac and 1917 Ford all offered some attention to overcome the obstacle of the wheel and column.

But it was not until three years ago, when Ford introduced the tilt-steering wheel on the Thunderbird, that latter-day companies have tried anything new.

The Thunderbird wheel is built so that when the automatic transmission is in park position, the wheel can be pushed toward the centre of the front seat compartment, giving it rest over the centre console.

The idea, of course, is to allow easy entrance and exit from the driver's better and ease.

The swing-away wheel was made standard equipment in the 1962 Thunderbird and in the 1963 model year it is available as an extra cost option on the Ford Galaxie.

Now General Motors has joined the swing—only the GM wheel doesn't swing, it tilts. It is an extra cost option.

The tilt-wheel moves up and down, rather than from left to right. The wheel can be operated in one seven different positions (six on the Cadillac and one Buick model). The positions are five closer to the seat and the rim of the wheel can be raised or lowered five inches.

The tilt-wheel pitch is or flexible steering columns since 1900. The 1902 Olds had a movable tiller which preceded the steering wheel. The 1905 Buick, 1916 Cadillac and 1917 Ford all offered some attention to overcome the obstacle of the wheel and column.

But it was not until three years ago, when Ford introduced the tilt-steering wheel on the Thunderbird, that latter-day companies have tried anything new.

The Thunderbird wheel is built so that when the automatic transmission is in park position, the wheel can be pushed toward the centre of the front seat compartment, giving it rest over the centre console.

Carmel

CARMEL—Mr. Joe Longevin, a patient in Belleville General Hospital, who received severe burns in a flash fire recently, was a former resident of Carmel and friends here wish him a speedy recovery.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. Brintnell and Ruth were: Mr. and Mrs. H. Brintnell, Madoc, Mrs. R. Stapley, Stirling; Mr. Bert Nye, Toronto.

Mr. Joe Brintnell, Millbridge, is helping his father do some repair work.

Mr. and Mrs. Monty McAuley and girls visited her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Garfield Henderson, at Port Credit. Master Carman McAuley, who attends school in Brantford, was also there to visit with his parents.

Mrs. George Downing and son Tommy, of Calumet, Quebec, were recent guests of Mrs. J. Reynolds.

SMOKELESS DEMANDS

LONDON (CP)—British Railways has increased the number of non-smoking cars on trains in the south and east regions "in response to public demand and in the interests of public health".

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As So Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a way of healing substances with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. This amazing discovery has been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In case hemorrhoid case after case, many striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' examinations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some as long as 10 to 30 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores with Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Astrological Forecast

For October 24

By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Avoid going to extremes. Moderation should be key. Chance for added income presents itself. But be prepared, also, for added work. Answer to major problem appears close at hand.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Favorable Moon aspect today stresses change, romance, originality. Your love of fine things, including luxury, comes to fore. You win friends by displaying appreciation.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Strive for leadership. Many may take attitude of, "Let the other fellow do it." But you would be doing a disservice to yourself if you followed suit. Be independent. You can get solid footing today.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) You attract members of opposite sex. You are capable today of presenting stimulating ideas, programs. Much opportunity presented if you read, listen to and discuss various ideas.

Leo (July 22 to August 21) Revised thinking in connection with money matters finally appears in your favor today. Now, let ideas flow. Write, publish, advertise. Visit one you respect. Demonstrate your abilities.

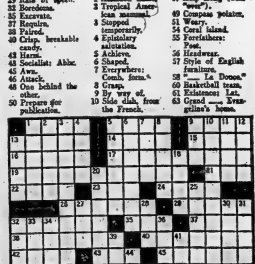
Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Emotional "tug of war" in evidence. You want to "go", but sense of duty causes you to "remain." Best advice is to be cautious, but be on the alert for future opportunities.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Friends encourage fast pace. But you would be wise to remember you have to face yourself in the morning. Be open-minded, but adhere to basic principles.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Desire for self-expression particularly strong. Don't bury it. Write, paint, talk, give of yourself. Superiors take note of your willingness to learn and contribute to overall program.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Person born under Taurus or Libra offers suggestion which "pays off". Listen attentively. What appears to be wild scheme may turn out to be of immense practical value.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Good for adult education class; you make contacts by going places, doing things. Willingness to be a good guest wins added popularity. Show others you are warm, giving individual.



Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Older or more experienced person does have your best interests at heart. Show appreciation by confiding ambitions. Very good for expanding field of activity.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Avoid obstinacy. Try the new, the unconventional. Permit Neptunian sense of daring and adventure to shine. You could meet charming, but deceptive individual. Be on guard.

If today is your birthday you have sense of dramatic which often shows in your everyday activity. Beginning next month, conditions may change your life pattern for the better.

GENERAL TENDENCIES—Cycle up for Leo, Virgo, Libra. Special word to Pisces: Desire to "believe" must be channeled in constructive direction.

U.S. Negro Has Long Way To Go in North and South Toward Equal Treatment

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Negro in the United States has made more progress in the last 25 years—toward equal treatment with whites—than in the rest of the country's history. He still has a long way to go, both in the north and the south.

Only about 25 per cent of Negroes eligible to vote in 11 southern states have been registered to so.

Only about one-third of the public school districts in the 17 southern and border states have been desegregated to some degree. And Negroes frequently complain of discrimination in some northern school districts.

A little more than half the tax-supported colleges and universities in the 17-state southern and border area have been desegregated in practice or principle.

Yet the constitutional provisions to give Negroes undiscriminated equal treatment in voting and the usual spheres of living have been on the books almost 100 years in the 14th and 15th amendments to the U.S. Constitution.

But the Supreme Court in the latter part of the 19th century upheld the meaning out of these protections for the Negro.

In 1896 it handed down a famous decision saying it was all right to segregate Negroes so long as they got treatment equal to that of whites. It was by the doctrine of separate but equal.

It was too much for one justice, John M. Harlan, who protested in a dissenting opinion "our constitution is color blind." It was to be 58 years before the men on the Supreme Court of another day—1954 — agreed with Harlan and reversed the ruling of 1896.

In a momentous decision, it ordered public schools desegregated with a ruling that became effective in the 1956 decision completely by saying separate means unequal. Many other steps followed in many fields, always slowly.

The court has ruled out segregation on buses and trains. The Interstate Commerce Commission has ordered bus lines to desegregate their terminals. Congress in 1957 and 1960, for the first time in this century, passed a civil rights law to give Negroes some protection, especially in voting.

FEW ALLOWED VOTE

Some of the picture as it now is follows in figures provided by the Justice department, the U.S. Civil Rights Commission and private sources:

Voting — About 1,400,000 Negroes, out of 5,045,000 eligible, have been registered to vote in 11 southern states.

Public Schools — About 960 school districts — out of 3,047 with white and Negro students in 17 southern and border states —have been desegregated to some degree. This fall 46 additional districts opened with some desegregation. Only four of them were under court order to desegregate.

Colleges and universities—Of the 265 tax-supported schools on this level in the 17 states about 155 have been desegregated in practice or principle.

Eating facilities — About 115 southern cities have at least one establishment that has desegregated eating facilities. In some cities, desegregation has extended to department stores, chain stores and some restaurants.

Hotels—Many southern hotels now accept Negroes.

Libraries and theatres — Desegregated in some cities.

Employment—X Equal opportunity for Negroes in employment hasn't made much progress.

City police and fire departments—About 560 Negroes are employed in southern city police and fire departments in uniform. There are about 100 Negro detectives in the region, too.

Bus drivers—A number of Negroes have been employed in the south in these jobs.

HUNGRY MILLIONS

One-third to one-half of the world's 3,000,000,000 population suffers malnutrition to some degree.

Australians Getting Richer Say Exports

By HAROLD TILLEY
Canadian Press Correspondent

MELBOURNE (CP) — Australians, say the experts, are getting richer and richer.

The evidence: More cars, more TV sets, more refrigerators—more of practically everything, in fact, except unemployment.

The Institute of Public Affairs, a private research organization, reports that real wages in Australia increased by five per cent during the 1930s and by 30 per cent during the 1950s.

In 1939 Australians used 52 gallons of gasoline a head. By 1950 the figure had risen to 120 gallons.

In the 1930s, the institute says, unemployment in Australia reached a peak of 29 per cent of the labor force and was never below nine per cent. In the 1950s it never rose above two per cent.

In 1950 only 55 per cent of Australian homes were owned by their occupant. By 1960 the figure had risen to 70 per cent. While only 20 per cent of the homes had washing machines in 1950, 60 per cent had them 10 years later.

CRISSIT RUING

The institute admitted, however, that most of the homes and cars are being bought on credit.

The institute also produced figures indicating that Australians are living pretty well in comparison with people of other countries.

It found that the average Australian can earn enough in 2½ hours to buy a unit basket of beef, sugar, bread and potatoes, while to buy the same commodities the average Russian would have to work 10 hours and the average Briton 3½ hours. The prosperous American, however, would take only two hours.

Australia's annual average rate of total production between 1950 and 1960 was 4.3 per cent, compared with 2.5 per cent in Canada, 3.3 per cent in the U.S., 3.1 per cent in New Zealand and 2.3 per cent in the United Kingdom.

LIES PEBBLES

OXFORD, England (CP) — Trish, a four-year-old Labrador, had the habit of retrieving more than her owner intended. A veterinarian found eight large pebbles in her stomach, weighing 1¼ pounds.

Law Restricting Reporting Of Preliminary Hearings in Criminal Cases to Be Tested

WINNIPEG (CP) — A law restricting news reporting of preliminary hearings of criminal cases is about to get its first court test since it went on the statute books three years ago.

The 1959 session of Parliament amended the Criminal Code to forbid reference in newspapers or broadcasts to any admission or confession tendered in evidence at a preliminary hearing.

The Southam Company Limited, proprietors of the Winnipeg Tribune, and publisher Ross Munro have been charged under this statute for a story carried by The Tribune Aug. 22.

The case has been set for Nov. 5 in magistrate's court. The company entered a plea of not guilty.

Defence counsel Arthur Mauro has described the case as of great importance to the Canadian newspaper industry.

CODE AMENDED

Section 455 of the Criminal Code, as amended in 1959, reads:

"Everyone who publishes in any newspaper, or broadcasts, a report that any admission or confession was tendered in evidence at a preliminary inquiry, or a report of the nature of such admission or confession so tendered in evidence, unless the accused has been discharged, or if the accused has been committed for trial, the trial has ended, is guilty of an offence punishable on summary conviction."

Maximum penalty is a fine of $500 or six months imprisonment, or both.

As outlined in the code, the restriction applies only to confessions or admissions tendered at preliminary hearings, not to matter admitted as evidence at actual trials.

The story that resulted in charges against The Tribune was a report on the preliminary hearing of Clarence Richardson, 31, charged with capital murder in the death of his wife, Thelma Richardson, 26, was found strangled in the family home here July 18.

The Tribune Company and Munro are charged on two counts — reporting that an admission or confession was tendered in evidence, and reporting the nature of such admission or confession.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

Richardson's hearing was in adjournment when the story appeared. He subsequently was committed for trial for capital murder at the fall assizes beginning in October.

The Tribune case reflects the legal curbs within which newspapers must operate in reporting cases before the courts.

In addition to statutory provisions like Section 455 there is a wide field into which newspapers may venture only at peril of being held in contempt of court—an offence also punishable by fine or imprisonment."

It is risking contempt, for instance, to publish an accused's criminal record until it has been read in court or to publish anything tending to link him to the crime with which he is charged.

Basic purpose of the restrictions is to prevent publication of anything tending to influence potential jurors.

The restrictions vary at different levels of court proceedings and some newspapermen feel this situation creates anomalies.

There is no prohibition, for instance, or what may be reported at coroner's inquests, sometimes held after charges are laid.

INQUEST REPORTED

In Richardson's case an inquest into his wife's death was held July 30, five days after the capital murder charges was formally read to him. The coroner's jury found the evidence indicated Mrs. Richardson died of strangulation at the hands of her husband. Richardson did not appear.

Inquests are open to the public. So, normally, are preliminary hearings. A magistrate may hold a hearing in camera at his discretion but this rarely happens.

A preliminary hearing is held by a magistrate in criminal cases to establish to the magistrate's satisfaction that there is enough evidence on the face of things to commit an accused for trial before a higher court.

Some lawyers feel all preliminary hearings should be held without press or public present, since often only the Crown's case is presented. They feel the minds of jurors can be influenced by extensive reporting of one side of a case.

There is no barrier to publishing the proceedings of a preliminary hearing except the Criminal Code ban on "any admission or confession . . . tendered in evidence." The code does not specifically define the meaning of "admission or confession." The Tribune published evidence given by police at the Richardson preliminary hearing but did not quote from any written statement by Richardson.

Here's how CONVEXIONAIRE is so different!

In the first place, there is no fan. Convexionaire is the one room heater that doesn't need one. It was designed to heat the whole room faster and more even than any fan-type heater on the market. Cold air is drawn off the floor, heated and forced rapidly out the specially designed front louvres. Convexionaire does the whole job silently and efficiently . . . and without a troublesome fan.

Secondly, Convexionaire isn't a "hot-box" heater. Treat it like a piece of furniture. Double-wall design keeps the cabinet cool and safe. No more scorched walls or burned fingers with Convexionaire.

Look for these features too . . . concealed, front-mounted thermostat and controls and award winning styling that's ideal for home or cottage. Available in wall vent and free standing models for natural gas or propane.

Chinese Reds Push Further Into India

India Rejects Proposal For Peace Talks

Will Not Negotiate While China on Soil

CP from AP-Reuters

NEW DELHI — Chinese communists are advancing into northeast India at four points, and India has rejected Peking's proposal for peace talks on Chinese terms, an official spokesman said today.

Chinese troops have driven to within 10 to 12 miles of the important monastery town of Towang, in northeast India, to the west and also are pushing toward it from the north.

A fresh Chinese attack into India has been launched at Asfila, on the northeast frontier about 100 miles east of Towang.

At the eastern end of the northeastern border, near Burma, an Indian post has fallen and the Chinese are driving down the Lohit River valley.

"Not very cheerful," commented the military spokesman.

CAPTURE POST

At the northwest end of the disputed Himalayan frontier, in Ladakh, the Chinese have attacked for the first time in Changchenmo Zinor Valley and have captured a post.

Although the spokesman declined to comment on the overall Ladakh situation, it appeared to be another dispute China might have overrun all Indian military posts on what the Chinese claim to be their territory.

High Indian officials said a Chinese proposal for a meeting between Prime Minister Nehru and Premier Chou Enlai to settle the border dispute was "pure hypocrisy."

The officials also rejected a proposal Chinese proposal, broadcast from Peking, for a cease-fire under which each nation would withdraw its troops 20 kilometres (12.5 miles) from the border.

A government spokesman, in the first official comment on the Chinese offer, termed it "vague, confusing and deceptive." This was viewed as an indication Peking had rejected the proposal, although the spokesman declined to go that far.

One Indian official said the offer of talks might be considered if the Chinese withdrew to the position they held Sept. 8. This is the day before they crossed what India considers to be her northeastern border with Tibet in the area just east of Bhutan.

CASTRO CLAIMS TOTAL BLOCKADE TO BE RESISTED

Denounces Move Made by Kennedy

By PETER BEALES

HAVANA (Reuters) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro has told the Cuban people "we shall take all necessary measures to resist a total blockade."

Denouncing the United States move to prevent offensive weapons from reaching Cuba by sea, Castro told Cubans in television broadcast Tuesday night:

"We are calm in the knowledge that the aggressors will be exterminated. We are a part of humanity and a very workable part. Those who unleash a nuclear war will be exterminated. I think there is no ambiguity in that."

Before the speech, demonstrators paraded through the streets of Havana shouting "Fidel, Khrushchev, we are with them both" and groups gathered in the city's squares to listen to addresses by local leaders.

FREIGHTERS DOCK

Two Russian freighters docked in Havana harbor Tuesday from the west, apparently en route to other Cuban ports and one British freighter also was anchored there.

Havana airport was closed to all civilian traffic and Cuba's armed forces were on a war footing, called to battle stations a few minutes before President Kennedy's speech Monday night.

In an apparent reference to the proposal by Canadian Prime Minister Diefenbaker that a neutral United Nations inspection team should check United States accusations that Cuba contains Soviet rocket bases, Castro said:

"We reject all attempts at inspection.

"We will never surrender our independence and sovereign right

WASHINGTON (AP)—The defence department released today 14 aerial photographs of what it said were Soviet missile sites, bomber fields and patrol boats in Cuba.

The photographs were made public hours after some of the pictures had been released in London.

Some had been displayed by Defence Secretary McNamara

Synopsis: With temperatures at or below freezing almost everywhere across the province this morning, there is a real touch of winter in the air. Communities in the snow belt to the lee of Lake Huron have experienced most frequent and persistent activity. Little significant change is anticipated Thursday.

when he briefed reporters on the Cuban crisis Monday after President Kennedy announced an arms blockade of Cuba.

Three new versions of merchant ships which the defence department said were Soviet ships bound for Cuba carrying light jet bombers in crates visible on the decks.

One high altitude shot the Pentagon described as of a major airfield and notes in an enlarged print, 24 bomber almost assembled and 18 crates containing more of the IL-28 bombers.

In another, seven Soviet PT boats are pointed out moored near an airfield. The Pentagon said the boats are armed with guided missile launchers.

Among the others were air photos of what the Pentagon described as an intermediate and medium range missile bases, surface-to-air missile sites, a missile assembly depot and MIG-21 jet fighters at a Cuban airfield.

CONSERVATIVE MP AGAINST U.S. BLOCKADE

Asks Neutralist Canadian Policy

OTTAWA (CP)—A Conservative MP who advocates a neutralist policy for Canada jolted a quiet debate in the House of Commons Tuesday night by accusing the United States of "unprovoked aggression" in its Cuban arms blockade.

Terry Nugent, 41-year-old Edmonton lawyer, caused obvious consternation along the government benches when he dropped this bombshell right into the tag end of a drawn-out discussion on financial affairs.

He said Canada ought to tell the U.S. that "we cannot, as a nation with a national conscience, grant ourselves to be associated in an action which constitutes unprovoked aggression."

"I suggest it is the duty of our government to bring this blatant fact to the attention of President Kennedy, to ask him to stay his hand, to not precipitate a fight.

"I am afraid that the other side will not back down in the face of unprovoked aggression —and where it stops, nobody knows."

Mr. Nugent, MP for Edmonton-Strathcona since 1958, spoke for about 10 minutes before he was interrupted by Deputy Speaker Gordon Chown who suggested he was straying from the debate subject.

A procedural discussion followed in which observers were treated to the unusual spectacle of two cabinet ministers arguing against a government supporter, Mr. Nugent, and an opposition MP speaking in his support.

Mr. Nugent never did regain the floor to continue his prove.

Cubana Plane With Technicians Aboard Cleared

OTTAWA (CP) — A Cubana airlines plane carrying two East German missile technicians and five Czechoslovakia technicians to Cuba has been cleared by Canadian customs and taken off for Havana, the national revenue department said today.

David Sim, deputy minister of customs, said the Cuban airliner which landed at Goose Bay, Labrador, to refuel, "has been searched and cleared and now is on its way to Cuba."

He said he has no information on whether any passengers were taken off the aircraft. Other top government officials said they were unaware of any move to detain or hold up the departure of the Two East Germans and the Five Czechs.

The plane, carrying 75 passengers, was en route from Shannon via Gander to Havana. Its stopover at Shannon the two East Germans, who declined to give their names, said: "The money is good and we don't think there will be a war anyway."

The five Czechs called themselves technicians.

Buildup of Missiles in Cuba Issue Before UN Says U.K.

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Britain said today there is no doubt the Soviet Union by "deliberate deceit" is introducing into the Western hemisphere nuclear weapons of mass destruction.

"That is what is at stake here," Ambassador Sir Patrick Dean told the United Nations security council in the second day of an emergency meeting—requested by the United States —on missile bases in Cuba.

Dean said there should be no mistake that the Soviet buildup of missiles bases in Cuba is the issue before the council and not the right of the U.S. government to take such action as it considers necessary for its own defence and that of the free world.

Dean spoke after Venezuela's Carlos Sosa-Rodriguez told the council the weapons "being stockpiled in Cuba are sufficient to annihilate all of us."

The extent of Latin America's worry about the Soviet buildup of Premier Fidel Castro's nuclear power was clearly indicated by the resolution passed by the Organization of American States, authorizing the use of force if necessary to enforce a naval blockade announced by President Kennedy.

Sosa-Rodriguez declared the Soviet weapons in Cuba were no longer defensive but were a threat to the entire hemisphere. He demanded that the council take action to halt the shipment of offensive weapons and to dismantle the missile bases already built.

Dean said:

"We are faced today with a most serious act of recklessness . . . The outcome of our deliberations—here will determine whether peoples of the world can retain their respect for the United Nations . . . Somehow we must rebuild the world envisaged by the UN charter. . . .

"We have never denied the right of the Cuban people to choose their own regime and to take whatever measures necessary for their own defence.

"But no one can fit the missile sites into that picture. No clear missiles that are capable of firing more than 2,000 miles are another thing.

"The Soviet Union has said it

Public Hearing on Crime Ends After 68-Day Session

TORONTO (CP) — With a flurry of a finale, more than a part of the police evidence be made public, but he granted permission for that party and the Liberals to sit in on it through their legal counsel.

The evidence that closed out Tuesday has dealt chiefly with two other phases of the thrice-pronged investigation — gamblers' associations with public officials and alleged commercial government maladministration of social club charters used by gamblers and bookmakers as fronts for operations.

As closing-out time neared, the commissioner declined Tuesday to extend the hearings and set out on the trail of one more of the mysteries that have crossed its path since the sessions began March 20.

This came during questioning

C of C SAYS CREDIT UNIONS SHOULD PAY TAX

Rural Character Lost Is Claim

OTTAWA (CP)—The assault on the tax-free status of credit unions was renewed Tuesday by the executive wing of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and one of the country's leading tax experts.

Both the chamber and Dr. A. K. Eaton of Toronto contended that the credit union movement has lost its rural-Quebec character and has expanded so rapidly across Canada that it has become big business, and as such should pay income tax.

But both antagonists may have been looking up the wrong tree in taking their case to the royal commission on banking and finance. Significantly, the witnesses were questioned at length on matters of their submissions except the credit union issue.

This, related to earlier statements by commission chairman Chief Justice Dana Porter of Ontario, caused speculation that he and his colleagues will decide to drop this contentious subject from the terms of the royal commission on taxation.

RECALLS 1945 STAND

Dr. Eaton, former assistant deputy minister for taxation in the revenue department and now an Ottawa consultant, recalled that the 1945 royal commission on taxation of co-operatives recommended that credit unions be left alone.

It had said credit unions were performing a "highly useful function" for people unable to take advantage of savings and loan facilities provided by other institutions.

This no longer is the case, Dr. Eaton said. Few people now were more than a half-hour by car away from a branch bank.

New Railway Line Proposed

NORTH BAY (CP)—An Ontario Northland Railway interchange at Moosonee, close to Parry Sound which would give the whole of Northern Ontario access to the Great Lakes port on Lake Huron is being considered by the Ontario Northland Transportation Commission.

Allister Johnston, member of the Legislature for Parry Sound and acting commission chairman, said today he supports a proposal for the extension.

There is a $7,000,000 iron ore open pit development at Boston Creek near Timmins, Mr. Johnston said the ONR still requires the necessity to ship the ship-ment of iron ore and other commodities to a seaport from Northern Ontario before it can proceed with the extension.

U.S. Naval Power Converges On Red Cargo Ships

Soviet Embassy Says Craft Won't Heed 'Stop'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Russia approached an armed showdown on the high seas today as Soviet cargo ships moved toward Cuba and American naval power converged on them.

Strung out along the approaches to Cuba were an estimated 23 Russian ships. Some of them quite possibly were carrying offensive weapons to the Cuban Communist aid movement which President Kennedy says must be stopped.

At 10 a.m. EDT, Kennedy's quarantine went into effect and the first warships headed in toward the first Soviet cargo ships.

Combat was possible. A few hours before, the U.S. Navy had broadcast radio warnings to all shipping to stand clear of the area, that it could become dangerous.

There was a report that Russian embassy officials here were claiming that no Soviet ship would heed the stop-and-be-searched signal of any U.S. warships.

The defence department kept secrecy on the exact role of the ships and planes assigned to the quarantine operation and on the precise areas in which they were operating.

All indications pointed to force of a size and type which seemed more than ample for the job. Obviously, the preparations for any events even more far - reaching than stopping merchantmen at sea which might flare up from this first action.

The Washington Post said Russian military attaches spread the word at a Soviet Embassy reception Tuesday night that Soviet ships steaming toward Cuba are under orders not to be stopped or searched.

WON'T DENY IT

Russian Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin declined to deny the statements. Speaking of an assistant naval attache who had made the remark, Dobrynin said: "He is the one who knows what the navy is going to do, not I."

Kennedy signed a proclamation Tuesday night formally invoking the "quarantine" against all offensive weapons. The act said was needed to defend the security of the United States.

Ten minutes later, Defence Secretary McNamara sent the navy's Task Force 136 formal orders to halt all ships headed for Cuba, to examine their cargoes and to turn back any vessels—Russian or other nationality—found to be carrying missiles, bombers and other weapons that could menace the United States or Latin American countries.

Lawmen Search Home of Suspect For Million-Dollar Truck Loot

WEYMOUTH, Mass. (AP) — Massachusetts state police have moved on a pickup order for Thomas R. Richards, 37-year-old electrician, saying he was wanted for questioning in the $1,551,277 mail truck robbery in Plymouth Aug. 14.

As the order went out the rat-tat-tat of hydraulic hammers echoed as shirt-sleeved U.S. marshals and postal inspectors dug into the concrete floor of the patio at Richards' home. The marshals had obtained a search warrant in Boston.

One inspector was Mrs. Richards Tuesday had talked with her husband after the marshals appears at the house and that he agreed to come home. He did not arrive.

At Somerset, where Richards' was working on a construction project, it was reported by his work foreman a phone call and did not return.

The poised across the Atlantic—were told to use the minimum amount of force necessary to enforce the ban, but skippers were given full authority to bring into play "whatever force is required." Clearly, this meant sinking Russian vessels, if necessary.

EXTENDS DUTY TOURS

Shortly after issuing these orders, McNamara announced he has extended the enlistments and duty tours of all navy and marine officers and men for up to 12 months. This is intended to provide the necessary manpower for the blockade and reinforcement of the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay in Cuba.

The freeze will give the navy an increase of about 10,000 men a month and the marines 2,400 men a month. The only exemptions will be granted to men scheduling imminent birthday.

The defence secretary said "We are taking no steps at the present time to call up reserves," although Congress has granted Kennedy authority to call up 150,000 of them if he thinks they are needed.

OTHER DEVELOPMENTS

These were some of the other major developments in the Cuban crisis:

1. As a Havana television address, Prime Minister Castro shouted: "We will know how to defend ourselves." He called Kennedy a pirate.

2. In London, Foreign Secretary Lord Home summoned Russian leaders of placing Soviet missiles in Cuba deliberately to threaten the United States, the Caribbean and South America. He accused them of trying to

Question of Support of U.S. Cuban Blockade Unsolved

By JACK REST

OTTAWA (CP) — Does Canada support the United States blockade of Soviet arms shipments to Cuba?

In the spate of government pronouncements on the Cuban situation during the last two days this question has been left unanswered.

There was no mention of the blockade in Prime Minister Diefenbaker's statement of a Commons Monday night; following President Kennedy's disclosure of a Cuba - based nuclear threat to the Western Hemisphere, or in Mr. Diefenbaker's follow - up statement Tuesday.

The Prime Minister spoke out forcefully against the Communist military buildup Tuesday. But he refrained from commenting on the merits of Mr. Kennedy's imposition of a "quarantine" to cut the flow of offensive weapons to Cuba.

Responsible sources said the government position is not yet clear, though a clarifying statement might come later in the week.

SUPPORT ASSUMED

One official suggested that since Canada has not come out in opposition to the blockade, and in view of the Prime Ministe's unequivocal denunciation of the military buildup in Cuba, it can be assumed that the government supports the U.S. method of dealing with the situation.

The fact that Canada has forbidden further landings of Soviet planes bound for Cuba would tend to support this assumption, he suggested.

But another highly responsible source said Canadian support of the blockade should not be taken for granted.

All kinds of considerations— economic and political as well as legal—have to be taken into consideration, he suggested.

He posed the question of how Canada could endorse such a blockade while maintaining its policy of normal diplomatic relations with Cuba.

CITE BRITISH SUPPORT

The question took on added interest here with the announcement from London that British officially s u p p orts President Kennedy's action.

In defence of continuing to do business with Cuba, Canada has often pointed to the fact that she was in tune with Britain and other members of the NATO alliance.

There is division among Canadian political parties on the subject of the blockade.

Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson said Tuesday he is wholly in favor of the American move. On the other hand New Democratic Party leader T. C. Douglas termed it a breach of international law.

Liberal Leader Pearson is understood to be awaiting developments before committing himself.

Most Important To Get Facts Says Speaker

Facts, opinions and generalities came in for the attention of James P. Nicol, guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Quinte Chapter of the Industrial Management Club of Canada, yesterday evening at Columbus Hall.

The personal co-ordinator for the Canadian International Paper, Mr. Nicol is a lawyer who had experience with the Ontario Hydro before joining them and with a number of Montreal unions before taking up his present post.

He explained that often confusion and friction were generated within a plant by substitution of an opinion or a generality for a fact. People are often fuzzy in their recognition and definition of these three things and this fuzziness can be a detriment and handicap, he advised.

A fact was defined as some thing which could be readily checked or proved and could be appraised by the senses as false or true, Mr. Nicol said. An opinion was defined as a inference from the facts and this could be appraised by the senses as it is a reasonable production from the facts. A generality is much broader in scope the speaker advised.

It is important to firstly get the facts then one is approached by a situation or problem in the plant setting, he said. Sometimes this takes much probing and checking but the net result is that a decision can be made and that much friction can be avoided or reduced. Avoid arguments based on generalities, he urged.

The speaker cautioned that it took a lot of practice to get one's self into this frame of thinking so that the habit-pattern of looking for and getting the facts became automatic.

Mr. Nicol answered several queries, in which the audience participated, to illustrate the principles which he had explained and how they could be applied practically.

SERMONETTE

The Rev. Norman Hutchinson delivered a sermonette in which he dwelt on the qualities of leadership. There were three qualities, he said — prayer, purpose and positive thinking.

Prayer, he explained, was a matter not of talking to, but talking with God. Serious prayer did not involve a series of repetition but did involve a two-way communication with Him which would "take your breath of your being" Mr. Hutchinson said.

By power it was meant that something in a person's personality which could influence others and make them believe in goals for the country, he advised.

At 8.30 p.m. Tuesday evening, six-and-a-half - year - old William Walter Williams of 190 Ann Street, was struck by a taxi cab driven by Arthur John Cornell of R.R. 1, Belleville, Bridge Street West in front of Irvin's grocery store.

Mr. Cornell was driving the cab east on Bridge Street East when, police say, the boy ran out from the north side of Bridge Street from behind a parked car, into the path of the cab.

The Williams boy suffered a bump to the back of his head and possible internal injuries as a result of the accident.

Police say no charges will be laid.

Civil Defence Plan Gets Many Volunteers After Crisis Over Cuba Is Announced

Since early this year, Quinte Emergency Measures Organization has been fighting public apathy, trying to recruit volunteer help, and to recruit volunteers for civil defence program. Yesterday, after the American move to blockade Cuba, headquarters was swamped with telephone calls asking for information, asking how and why the organization was doing more of it. Sixteen people signed up to volunteer their services to work with the organization.

As far as QEMO is concerned, there is no emergency yet, and there will be none until the federal government declares an emergency, or a direct attack is made on Canada. Because of the international interests, however QEMO chairman Mayor A. McLean Haig has issued a statement of the present status of QEMO. Parts of this statement are reproduced below. The area covered by this program includes all of Hastings and Prince Edward counties.

CO-ORDINATOR NAMED

Early in January, a co-ordinator a 'full-time co-ordinator' and a secretary were engaged for Q.E.M.O. They are headquarters in the City Hall, Belleville.

The co-ordinator, Lt.-Col. Angus B. Duffy, has lectured to 26 groups on civil defence. To-val. He is available to address any group on this subject.

An organizational booklet pamphlet', have been distributed to all contractors, building suppliers and architects, concerning equipment fallout shelters for new homes. The booklet, "Fallout On Your Farm," has been distributed to 61 rural area organizations in the two counties of Hastings and Prince Edward. Pamphlets are now in short supply.

A one-day orientation course was held for senior officials of Quinte Area Executive, to give them necessary information to fulfill their duties in EMO, such as planning, etc. Each clerk is to arrange meetings for the officials and employees in their municipalities for a one-and-a-half hours orientation course this to be given by the co-ordinator so that they know requirements in their respective jobs and role they are to play in the municipal plan. Twenton has already carried out such meeting and 96 officials and employees of the town were in attendance. Other municipalities briefed 22 municipal officials (6 mostly clerks) on EMO individuals.

Alderman W. Lowe of Belleville and Councillor E. Todd of Trenton have attended courses at Civil Defence College in Arnprior. Welfare director Mr. George A. Whitney, has also attended welfare' course in Toronto.

It is proposed to run auxiliary police and fire courses in Belleville, Trenton and Picton, also first aid and home nursing courses. A first aid course has started in Belleville with 36 enlicemen, five firemen, five city employees and seven others taking part. The $4.50 fee per candidate is paid by EMO. It is proposed that similar courses be run in Madoc, Bancroft, Marmora, etc., in the spring.

COURSE IN NOVEMBER

Thanks to spirited co-operation of the RCAF Station in Trenton, a radiation and monitoring course was conducted for officials in November.

Commencing November 1st, a five-week (each Thursday night) course on survival will be held in the City Hall, Belleville, for the public. If public acceptance is responsive, similar courses will be run in other municipalities.

A planning guide for each department has been prepared and has been issued. This was done in July this year. The interim Plan for Quinte Area is completed and ready for committee approval.

Operatio- headquarters, welfare and reception centres for all municipalities, Quinte Area, have been selected.

TAKES OVER DUTIES

Mr. Harold Carruthers has agreed to carry out the difficult duties of communications officer. The Quinte Area Amateur Wireless Operators Club has agreed to operate the wireless net and we have the use of their equipment for this purpose. Additional wireless equipment is required.

The program of Quinte Area EMO compares very favorably with other areas. The aim of having "A Plan" and "Courses" previously described by the end of November will be achieved.

In view of the continuing emergency touch voluntary assistance is required.

Citizens of Quinte Area are urged to take every advantage of the opportunity to learn as much as they can about survival and to participate actively in the EMO activities of their municipalities.

Obituaries

JOHN SHARPE

Frankford

The funeral of John Sharpe, R.R. 3, Frankford, who died Sunday in the Quinte Area Nursing Home, was held today from the Rowe Funeral Home, where service was conducted by Rev. Hector Beach. Interment was in Salem cemetery.

During the service Mrs. Wallace Morrow sang "Beyond the Sunset."

The bearers were: Allan Morrow, Arthur Morrow, Albert Zufelt, Gerald Locklin, John Hood and Ferris Crowe.

Born in Percy township, 88 years ago, Mr. Sharp was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alex Sharpe. He had been coming to Frankford 54 years and was in the Colborne area. He was a member of the Baptist faith. His wife, the former Elma Hewitt, died 28 years ago.

He is survived by two nieces (Mrs. Ella Steele) (Mrs. Christine, R.R. 3, Frankford, and Mrs. Ella Ostrom of Warkworth, and a nephew, Stewart Sharpe of R.R. 1, Hilton.

MURREL CALMEN BRANT

Shannonville

The funeral of Murrel Calmen Brant, of Shannonville, who died at Toronto General Hospital Saturday, was conducted at the Bakelite plant in Deseronto, which he held Monday 23 years. Rev. Mr. Hunter, assisted by Rev. Mr. Hutchinson from Christ Church, Deseronto, officiated at the graveside service in Christ Church cemetery. The funeral was in charge of Messrs. Wright, White and Morris Funeral Home.

The bearers were: Donald Spencer, Leonard Marsele, Ernest Sarkonak, Howard Lewis, Charles Maracle and Ernest Maracle.

William Gault Named to OCA Executive

William Gault, first president of the Quinte Curling Club, and active curling worker for the good of the club at all times, has been honored by the Ontario Curling Association. At the recent annual meeting of the Association in Toronto, he was elected a member at large to the executive and also as a member of the committee in charge of the publication of the annual.

Kiwanis Give Address on Money, Women

Kiwanians were given a talk on "Money and Women" by King Merritt, journalist, family food expert on the first subject, and, it would appear, financially on the latter, at their noon-day meeting yesterday afternoon at their regular dinner meeting.

Mr. Merritt advised his audience that more domestic wars were caused by money matters than any other subject.

Advice in how useful to know something about money.

He emphasized the opinion that the dollar was quite a change in the handling of money in the past several decades and used France as an example.

In this country people had only a few years accustomed to investing their money in such things as government bonds and insurance policies which gave fixed incomes. Such was a very thrifty, conservative policy, and few people invested in the industry of the country. Now stocks and bonds were capable of giving a high yearly return.

When fiscal circumstances changed in France the peoples' thrift habits were not revised, until some time later, which is happening now on the way up, he explained, and the Frenchmen were now investing in the country quite a bit.

Mr. Merritt was quite a candidate in the handling of money.

People should make up their minds to take an interest in the country and not just in saving their money, Mr. Merritt suggested. He mentioned that the Canadian Government had provided a chance for the average citizen to participate in the wealth of the country and noted that there were 300 such funds in Canada and 30 listed States.

He said that before the Second World War there had been some 400 million dollars invested in Canadian industry but that this had increased to 23 billion dollars today. This tremendous increase indicated that more and more people were taking an interest in and a share in the country's wealth, he claimed.

There were three items regarding money which a citizen should keep in mind to provide for his future so that he would be financially independent upon retirement, Mr. Merritt suggested. These were a bank account, adequate insurance and a regular investment in stocks.

The participation of the private individual in the production of the country's wealth provided through the mutual investment funds and increased interest by the citizens in the wealth of their country had immensely improved dimensionally since the turn of the century.

Women's figures had also improved dimensionally, the speaker observed. They also owned or controlled 52 per cent of the money in circulation and 40 per cent of the shares on the New York Stock Exchange. By 1970 it was anticipated that half the country's working force would be women, the speaker advised.

He suggested that it was well that men took a deep interest in it...and not a steady improvements which women always desired.

Mr. Merritt's address was extremely well received. He was introduced by Kiwanian Ken Pinder and thanked by past president Dr. Robert Brain. Kiwanian George Hume conducted the meeting.

Sidney Buys Fire Pumper

Sidney township is going into the fire fighting business and will own their own equipment rather than hire all its fire fighting done.

Reeve Harleigh Hamilton reports the township has purchased a new 650-gallon pumper and will house it at the Batawa fire station along with equipment owned by that village.

Batawa fire chief John Aquino and his volunteer fire fighters have agreed to operate the pumper at township fires.

"We will still keep our present fire fighting agreement with the city of Belleville," stated Reeve Hamilton, "our own pumper to be used mainly in the west end of the township."

It is hoped the township pumper will become part of the Batawa fire fighting equipment as it will also be used if necessary to fight any fires at the shoe-making village.

Twelve Drugs Temporarily Controlling Human Cancers

NEW YORK (AP) — Twelve drugs are temporarily controlling some human cancers and represent "a substantial running start" toward ultimate drug control over several kinds of cancer, a scientist said Tuesday.

Drugs have brought control over many bacterial diseases and "so also we shall certainly gain control over some cancers," said Dr. C. Gordon Zubrod of the National Cancer Institute, Bethesda, Md.

"If we only knew enough about cancers to say why the drugs work and why they fail, then curative agents might well be fashioned," he told the annual meeting of the American Cancer Society.

While some drugs bring temporary remissions, at least one, methotrexate, has a permanently cured a rare type of cancer, known as choriocarcinoma, occurring in the lining of the uterus or womb after childbirth, he explained.

But this particular success has "not yet provided a set of principles by which one can systematically extend chemical control to other cancers."

In the case of another drug, nitrogen mustard, which temporarily combatted a n e r r s Hodgkin's disease, a malignant development of 2,000 related compounds has not brought any better results than the original, he continued.

"I suggest that the failure of our methods lies in the fact we have too long been looking at all of cancer instead of breaking off small fragments that can be examined in some detail."

Progress along this line is being made with six drugs which temporarily halt acute leukemia or blood cancer, he said.

Dr. Zubrod suggested better success might be achieved by using combinations of drugs.

Ontario Region Y's Men's Club Hold Rally

Hugh Watson, a past president of the local Y's Men's Club was elected International Director-Elect of the Ontario Region of Y's Men's Clubs at their regional convention held at Sarnia over the weekend.

Approximately 250 Y's Men and their wives attended the two day convention, which was sponsored by the Y's Men's Club of Sarnia. The theme of the convention was "Y'sdom and You . . . in '62. The keynote speaker at the Saturday luncheon was Rev. Denton Massey, O.B.E., rector, St. Paul's Anglican Church, Point Edward, Ontario.

Three excellent work shops were held under the theme of the convention. They were as follows: YMCA Membership Service, which was conducted by Bob Sherry, Flint, Michigan and assisted by Charles Thompson, Kitchener, Ontario and Jason McCoy, Canton, Ohio; Leadership Development, which was conducted by Bill Page, Hamilton, and assisted by Pat McKenzie, Acton, Ontario; and Paul William Alexander Scholarship Fund, which was conducted by Bill Pletcher, Detroit, Michigan.

Jason McCoy, International President of Y's Men's Clubs, was the speaker at the International Director's banquet on Saturday evening. The theme of his inspiring address was "World Brotherhood in Y's dom. Mr McCoy's description of the work done by Y's Men's Clubs in such countries as Korea, Japan, Singapore, Uruguay, Greece, only helped to show what can be done through world brotherhood. Actually, there are almost 700 Y's Men's Clubs in 39 countries of the world.

A special Y's Menettes program was held in conjunction with the Y's Men's business session. Their excellent program and business sessions were organized under their service director, Mrs. Hazel Watson, of Belleville.

Cuban Consul In Montreal To Be Removed

OTTAWA (CP)—Cuban Ambassador Americo Cruz has informed the external affairs department that the Cuban Consul in Montreal will be transferred following departmental objections to his conduct.

An external affairs department official said today that Alberto Boza was recently caught attempting to dispose of three unregistered automatics. He also was found in possession of an unregistered revolver shortly after his arrival in Canada about a year ago.

The official said the matter was discussed with the Cuban ambassador but no request was made that Mr. Boza should leave Canada. However, Mr. Cruz had informed the department that Mr. Boza will be transferred.

Mr. Boza was transferred to Montreal recently after serving as consul in Toronto.

INDIA REJECTS

Bhutan.

Some officials believed the Chinese proposal was made under pressure from Soviet Premier Khrushchev, who wrote Nehru last weekend he hoped the border dispute would be settled through peaceful negotiations.

Nehru was reported to have replied Monday night that India refuses to negotiate with Peking under duress and that "no negotiation is possible or feasible so long as an aggressor occupies our sacred soil."

INSISTS WITHDRAWAL

The Indian government has insisted that the Chinese withdraw not only in the Northeast Frontier Agency area they occupy but also pull out of positions they hold in the Ladakh area 1,000 miles to the northwest. China has refused to withdraw in the Ladakh area where they have built a road connecting Tibet and the western Chinese province of Sinkiang.

Informed sources here said today the Chinese are continuing their advance on Tawang, India's main administrative center on the disputed northeast frontier.

Latest reports said the Chinese were within five miles of Tawang town and its 17th-century monastery in the heart of the Indian salient between Bhutan and Tibet. Tawang, with a population of 30,000, is the largest Indian centre in the desolate frontier area.

It was thought likely the Chinese would strike south in cut the tenuous India. supply line to the whole salient across 14, 000-foot Se La Pass, a track to Tawang negotiable by some motor transport.

A second Chinese column, which began an attack down the Nam Yang River valley west of Tawang Saturday, was reported likely to try to take observers here considered.

Gunmen Rob Bank Manager, Assault Man, Steal Car, Get Away

LYNDHURST, Ont. (CP) — Provincial police were trying to link an unsuccessful armed bank holdup, robbery of a general store and assault on a driver and theft of his car, all early today.

In three separate incidents, two men:

Dragged a local bank manager out of bed at 2 a.m., forced him at gunpoint to try to open the bank safe, robbed him of $45 and left him bound and gagged.

Broke into a general store, stole shotgun shells and a car and unsuccessfully tried to open a cash register and a safe;

Stopped Ossie MacIntyre of Carleton Place, on Highway 7, 50 miles northeast of here, battered him over the head, threw him out of the seat of their car and drove off towards Ottawa in his car.

FAIL BANK ROBBERY

Herbert Nightingale, manager of the Lyndhurst Toronto Dominion Bank, told police two masked men, armed with a pistol and shotgun, awakened him in his bankhop apartment. They forced him to attempt to open the bank safe, but failed because Nightingale knew only one set of the dual-combination figures.

He said the men took $45 from his wallet, bound him with his own neckties, gagged him and left him in the apartment. He later managed to free himself and contact police.

Nightingale's 17 - year - old daughter Anne slept undisturbed through the holdup.

Lyndhurst is 16 miles northeast of Gananoque.

CPR Employees Get Notice Of Layoff

WINNIPEG (CP)—Layoff notices subject to immediate cancellation were sent to Canadian Pacific Railway employees here Tuesday.

The notices are effective at the end of work Friday in the event the threatened trainmen's strike is not settled.

A company spokesman said about 7,000 Manitoba railway employees, 5,000 of them in Winnipeg, will be laid off if the walkout starts as scheduled next Monday.

Except for hotels, telegraph service and merchandise operations that use trucks, the railway would be shut down by a strike.

PRELATE DIES

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—Most Rev. Aston Chichester, a Jesuit archbishop from Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia, died today after suffering a cerebral hemorrhage. He was the third prelate to die since the Vatican ecumenical council opened Oct. 10.

Norman Moore New Manager Of Royal Bank

Manager of the bank branch at Woodstock for the past nine years, Mr. Norman Moore has been named manager of the Royal Bank in Belleville, succeeding Jack McArthur, who has gone to a new position in Toronto.

Born at Chesley, Ont., Mr. Moore has made a life career of banking, starting at Dutton, Ontario. He also served at branches in Toronto, Orillia, in the Ontario General Manager's Department at Toronto, and at Hamilton, Ottawa and Perth.

Married with one daughter —Jacqueline—he is an ardent golfer and curler and has taken a wide interest in community affairs.

Former Royal Bank manager at Belleville, Mr. J. E. McArthur has been appointed the bank's agricultural representative with headquarters in Toronto.

Police Say Thief Not Thug Victim

OTTAWA, (CP)—Frank Watson, who suffered severe injuries in a quarry the day before he was to appear in court here on charges involving theft of federal government cheques, was reported in satisfactory condition in hospital here today.

Ottawa police said Watson, described as being of Ottawa and Montreal, fell into a 45-foot pit near the suburban Rockcliffe RCAF station Sunday night. He suffered a broken back, fractures to both knees and severe neck injuries.

Police discounted an earlier report that he may have been "worked over" by thugs from Montreal before being tossed into the deep excavation.

Arthur Kinnear and other St. Mark's officers and companions.

Special guests were Ex. Comp. Sid Woodcock, presiding officer of St. Patrick's Chapter, Past M. Ex. Comp. R. H. Searle; V. Ex. Comp. L. B. Morrison (permanent Grand Representative to Canada for the National Chapter, Helvetia, R.A.M. of Switzerland); R. Ex. Comp. R. J. Lewis; V. Ex. Comp. J. R. Legacy; V. Ex. Comp. W. E. Pomeroy and Morley Hascock, Past Z of Meira Chapter, No. 7, Belleville (now living in Toronto).

This was the first time some of the members of St. Patrick's Chapter had visited the Trenton district and they were taken on a tour along the Trent River to Frankford. The guests expressed appreciation of the beautiful countryside surrounding Trenton.

During the Saturday luncheon M.E.M. degrees were exemplified on three Trenton members and on one from Toronto.

On Tuesday, Oct. 16, St. Mark's Chapter entertained Rt. Ex. Comp. Frank Hamilton of Brighton, Grand Superintendent of Prince Edward District, No. 11, on his official visit, along with 13 Companions from Presqu'ile Chapter, at Brighton. At this convocation, O. G. (Buster) Alyea was presented with his 50-year jewel. The presentation was made by Ex. Comp. W. W. Miller.

URGE K-K MEET

NEW YORK (AP)—The Communist party of the United States Tuesday urged President Kennedy to meet immediately with Soviet Premier Khrushchev on the Cuban crisis. The telegram from Gus Hall, leading U.S. Communist spokesman, also urged "suspension of all proposals which can aggravate war danger," but did not refer directly to the president's blockade action.

TRENTON — Last Saturday, Mrs. Tom Fletcher of Toronto dropped in to the Trenton Legion Hall to present two pictures of the Trenton Vimy Vets who visited Vimy in 1936, when memorial services were held at the scene of the famous World War I battle, to Trenton Legion branch (No. 110) president, Kenneth Craddock.

Mrs. Fletcher's husband, Sgt. Tom Fletcher, was a former Trentonian, moving to Toronto where he died a few years ago.

Mrs. Fletcher also presented a memorial wreath to the Trenton Legion branch and this will be laid on the cenotaph by the president on Remembrance Day.

Hunter Safety Classes at All-Time High

TRENTON — With the deer season just around the corner, interest in hunter safety classes at Trenton is reported to be at an all-time high, Monday and Tuesday nights, 70 persons, 60 per cent of whom were between the ages of 15 and 18 years, with another 10 per cent between 18 and 40, met in the town hall to listen to safety lectures by Dennis Atkins and Curly Halliday and to view a safety film, prepared by and filmed by Jim Brown.

Demonstrations were given by Sgt. Gordon Steenburg, Trenton's Safety Officer, and Constable Gary Davis of the Trenton police department, and Jim Young, head of the hunter safety provincial group, was on hand to advise. Applicants for licences were asked to write examinations at the end of the two-day course.

Man Injured In Car Crash

TRENTON — Donald McKinnon, 20, of R. R. 6, Trenton, is in Trenton Memorial Hospital with a possible fracture of the skull, following an accident on Highway 401, near the Wooler Road overpass, around six o'clock Monday night.

Provincial Police at Brighton report that the car driven by Mr. McKinnon struck the bridge abutment. Damage to the car was estimated at $500. Full details of the accident are unknown at the present time as Mr. McKinnon has not been in a condition to provide them.

EXPECT NORMAL READINGS — Most of Canada will have near-normal temperatures from mid-October to mid-November, according to the 30-day outlook of the United States weather bureau.

The outlook is based on long range predictions and is not a specific forecast. A change in weather pattern may produce major errors.

Precipitation generally will be moderate during the month except for heavy predictions in Newfoundland and Labrador and in southern Ontario and Quebec. (CP Newsmap).

An Aroused United States

There was a hint of Pearl Harbor in the manner in which the Russian Gromeko's declaration that his nation had no offensive intentions in Cuba was proven false by President Kennedy's expose Sunday night. It was almost twenty-one years ago that the Japanese ambassador at Washington stated his nation had only peaceful intentions toward the United States when at the same time the Japanese navy with its attack planes was nearing Honolulu in the Hawaiian Islands for the infamous attack on Pearl Harbor.

The Russian Government's intentions, according to President Kennedy, were no less than a build-up for an act of aggression which would have been unleashed at a time suitable to the Reds' overall plan of world conquest. The revelation of missile sites in Cuba directed to continental United States has revealed more clearly than ever the need for constant alertness by all freedom-loving nations.

The Government of the United States has embarked on a course which, though it is filled with danger, is the most effective one open to the President. The initiative has now passed to the Democracies for a change and we have every expectation that Cuba will be freed eventually if the United States stands resolute by the policy of aggressive action envisioned so clearly Sunday night by Mr. Kennedy.

Low Makes a Slip

It is not often that one catches David Low, the famous British political cartoonist, in an inconsistency, but we think the Common Market has tempted him into an irrational presentation. Low's cartoon shows a smiling gentleman, obviously Prime Minister Macmillan, talking to "Col. Blimp." Pointing to a "Tory Conference Exhibit A," Macmillan is saying "The idea is to make the Six want us." The Tory exhibit consists of a lazy cat, a smiling "overpaid executive," smiling "overpaid labor" and an "overpriced product."

Now overpaid executives, overpaid workers and overpriced products are all possibilities, but it is very doubtful if one can have all three of them simultaneously. The only thing missing from the picture is the investor, but there is at least a chance that he is overpaid too. If so, then the overpaid investor, executive and workers, producing an overpriced project, would inevitably result in depreciating the value of the currency, in which case the investor, executive and worker would not be overpaid, nor the product overpriced.

Some may object, but this is just the other side of the banner we frequently have waved at us, that higher wages, without increased productivity, inevitably result in higher prices.

Providing all segments of the economy are treated equally, it does not matter whether salaries and wages, or prices, are placed high or low; they will inevitably adjust so that they bear the same relationship, one to the other. At the other end of the see-saw will be the purchasing power of whatever unit of currency is in use. If salaries, wages, profits and prices are raised, the value of the currency will fall, if salaries, wages, profits and prices are lowered, the value of the currency will rise, always providing, of course, that productivity remains the same.

Productivity is the sole yardstick of prosperity for producers, be they equity holders, executives or workers, providing their returns rise or fall in unison. But this is not so for those of fixed incomes, whether the incomes be derived from interest on bonds or from private or public pensions—for them the determining factor is the value of the fixed amount of currency they receive.

Infiltration

According to a former FBI agent, nearly 1,500 of the 8,500 members of the U.S. Communist party are FBI informants. Further, he claims that through its dues paying members, the FBI is the largest single financial supporter of the party.

It seems obvious that is is all part of a deep dark plot, on the part of the FBI, to stamp out the party completely. When the moment comes, the FBI men will confess all to the party, be kicked out, and the party will be bankrupt and without organizers. The scheme is a logical modification of Nehru's "passive resistance."

My one claim to originality among Irishmen is that I have never made a speech. — George Moore.

TV Pictures Often Poor

New York
Television Magazine

During extensive travels in recent months we have watched television in a good many hotel rooms and in the homes of friends in several cities. This sampling may be unscientific, but it convinces us that the quality of TV pictures on the average television set is poor enough to arouse concern in broadcasting circles.

The television world we have been watching lately is peopled by ghosts and freaks. Baseball teams field 18 players as a rule, but they field nine, perhaps in a logical defensive formation to cope with the two men who are at bat.

In passing, forehands expand like balloons in the process of inflation, chins recede, noses flatten. As her lover approaches, the heroine demurely flutters the lashes of four eyes.

In this television world symbols are distorted. The trademark that is found when displayed on a supermarket shelf is transformed by television into a Dali watch or a football seen dimly through a Venetian blind.

Lettering of brand names that look fine in a roving board in upright roman may loom in their full glory on the television screen or ripple as though filmed under water.

It has been our lot, in our recent experience, to see on a home receiver a picture of anything but those that appear on the monitors in master control. We are convinced that the producers, broadcasters, agency people and advertisers who see their television on well-engineered screening systems or on sets that are attended by qualified technicians have no idea of the kind of television that is being seen in homes.

The trouble is that many viewers have been conditioned to accept inferior pictures quality. Many are unopportunistic to make comparisons with receivers that are better than his own, the video apparatus is functioning properly and is adjusted with reference to the point of meaningless sets or disappears.

It is safe to assume that viewer satisfaction is diminished or by poor reproduction on the screen.

We have no doubt that in some measure the present unsatisfaction of television programming has been accentuated by dissatisfaction with the reproduction, with the technical quality of reception.

With certainty it may be said that bad pictures are doing nothing to enhance that be a good audience, to expand the time spent watching or to intensify the satisfaction that the audience derives.

At the late stage of television development it is not realistic to say what can be done to effect a great improvement in reception. Plainly the public must be educated to the technical potentialities of video receivers so the viewers themselves will be discriminating in their purchases of sets and their choice of set repairmen.

This job of education could be done by broadcasters if they have more reason to do it than anyone else.

There isn't much point in their spending nearly $700 million a year to produce television programs and another $230-million on the technical functions of conveying the transmission if the picture that comes out of the home screen makes Mad Dillon look like the hunchback of Notre Dame.

The Toronto Stock Exchange opened 100 years today—in London, when 12 citizens began trading each morning in one of their offices. A group that was formed primarily because London, then financial centre of the world, showed little interest in a country with only 1,300,000 population. The first "seats" sold for $5; in 1929, a seat on the stock exchange sold for $200,000.

1917 — A monument was unveiled to the inventor of the telephone, Alexander Graham Bell, at Brantford, Ont.

The familiar Swastika that the Nazis display as an emblem of the German people, does not belong to Hitler or even exclusively to the "Aryans." It is one of the oldest decorative motifs belonging to mankind and has been found in many lands through countless years. Until recently it was considered an emblem of good luck just as potent as the four-leaved clover but the Nazis have changed all that for the rest of us, says a bulletin from the Royal Ontario Museum, Toronto, issued through the galleries of the museum directors this booked cross on vases that were made about 500 years before the Christian era. The motif was carried on in the art of the Mediterranean world and can be seen on a beautiful embroidered curtain hung made on one of the Greek islands in the eighteenth century. Other examples are to be found in carpets, Indian pottery, and workings in metals and porcelain designs of China.

There is all kinds of luck when it comes to insurance. Mr. Clare Morgan, local insurance adjuster thinks that all that is needed is an accident and a likely locale. He relates that he was driving home from Madoc on Monday when passing over a wooded part of the highway just north of Hoffman, he heard a sharp blow on the windshield. Stopping the car Mr. Morgan saw a partridge lying dead on the highway. He brought the bird home and on Tuesday the Morgan family dined on partridge.

The present level of the water in the local harbor is exactly four feet lower than the highest recorded mark of summer levels ever witnessed by old timers residents of the water front. The lowest mark ever recorded was three years ago; this week it is five inches lower, which is the lowest it has been all summer. The waters in the Bay of Quinte and the harbor reach the highest and lowest with their greatest range. All this was revealed by marks kept on a stake by Mr. Robert Roblin's boat house. "Why does water ebb and flow like that every seven hours?" Mr. Roblin was asked. "That is something," Mr. Roblin replied, "that government engineers have not begun to understand yet. It has about the same proportion that you would give for rabbits in the woods during the next seven years; whatever that is."

The Trade in Belleville Exhibition" under the auspices of the local Chamber of Commerce of which Mr. J. Orme Wills is the manager, is now in full swing at the armouries. The exhibition was formally opened by Col. Cockshutt, the Lieutenant-Governor of this province. There is a great array of goods made in Belleville and the exhibits are attracting the attention of large crowds of citizens and visitors from other points.

The schooner Grace M. Filler which went aground in the harbor a few days ago is still stuck fast. She is loaded with four hundred tons of nut coal for the Schuster Company. Capt. Fagan, who is in command of the schooner, has been bringing boats into the Belleville harbor during the last thirty-five years, but this time he surely ran into trouble.

Hard Work Distinguishes Professionals

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Some of us at dinner were discussing the difference between "amateurs" and "professionals," and we agreed that it was not so much a question of money, nor even so much of basic talent, that distinguishes the one from the other.

The mild contempt that the professional, in almost any field, feels for the amateur is based on the latter's attitude rather than on his ability. This is equally true in the crafts, the arts, or sports.

A professional writer, for instance, is first of all a workman. So many hours a day are spent at his job — as much for pleasure as for profit. Except at rare intervals, "inspiration" to him is a meaningless word.

The amateur writer has to wait until he is "in the mood." The weather has to be right, the time propitious, the exact materials at hand, the Muse delicately nudged at his elbow.

Nothing of any consequence is ever produced this way. The greatest productivity comes many hours each day, whether they feel like it or not; first-rate artists are incessantly sketching or painting; the tennis pro works on his service and his backhand drive on the chilliest, dampest afternoons.

Yet, although the amateur is out for fun, and the professional works grimly, the latter's pleasure is by far the greater — in the sense that a sustained love affair is more satisfying than a series of flirtations. The amateur, because he makes no real investment at his activity, is unable to draw out any deep emotional dividends.

What the professional most resents is the unconscious arrogance of the amateur in assuming that enthusiasm and a natural flair are any substitute for years of hard work, concentration, practice, patience, and the devotion that is gradually able to surmount failure and frustration.

During the flourishing Elizabethan period in the English theatre, for example, dozens of noblemen of great wit and erudition dabbled in writing poetry and plays — and some of them, no matter what natural gifts they may have possessed, succeeded in producing a body of work to rank anywhere near the works of a Shakespeare, Marlowe, Jonson and Kyd.

In the theatre, the attitude of the professional toward the amateur is typified by the French tale of the broken-down tragedian who set himself down on a Paris park bench next to a faded and bedraggled streetwalker. "Ah, madame," sighed the tragedian, "Quelle ironie! The two oldest professions in the world — ruined by amateurs!"

Trade School Not for Dunce

Winnipeg Tribune

By now it's clear that Canada is experiencing a new and queer kind of unemployment. Good jobs go begging while there is a lengthy list of applicants for work at the National Employment Service.

The same thing is true in the United States. The editor of Harper's Magazine remarked recently: "The number of such unemployable seems likely to grow rather rapidly, at the other end of the scale, as increasing number of important jobs will remain amply because there aren't enough men and women to fill them. The assortment of jobs which need to be done is simply out of kilter with the natural distribution of brains."

He argues that distribution of intelligence in most societies is fairly consistent — about half the people fall in the category of "normal" intelligence, about half are either dull or bright or even brilliant, and perhaps about 20 percent are on the dull side.

The Financial Post concluded from this that perhaps the main cause for today's queer economic situation is that this society is running low on brains for dullards. Automation is taking over the jobs formerly done by brawn.

The conclusion leads the Post to attack school boards and what it calls the "high priests" of education. These people, it says, they refuse to accept the fact that there are dullards in this world.

"The official doctrine of the educationalists is that all men are born with an intellectual endowment deserving of the best treatment and finally, more or less automatic BAs for everybody. Don't laugh. It is serious. Here is one of ours."

It would be foolish to argue that our age does not have its share of lunacies. But we feel that the Post is off base in its past with regard to the educationists. The fact is that they have been trying to shake free from the notion that every student who enters school is heading for the universities. The old lunacy that dictated the notion that everyone should take a liberal arts course has been vanishing.

But in our view it is being replaced by another lunacy. What is this — the idea that if a student does not have the intellect to go on to university he should be given technical training; if he is academic dumbbell, he should be given some kind of shop course.

This idea is almost as irrational as the one that everyone should be given pre-university courses. There are thousands of people in this world who are not good with their hands either. Just because a man is not suited for an arts degree does not automatically mean that he should be put in a technical school.

The fact is that there are millions of jobs which do not require either advanced academic training or trade skills. What they do require is the kind of training that will enable their holders to get along with people and to do their jobs well — in other words, a reasonably general education.

Neglect of this area is the real present-day educational lunacy.

To Be a Bore Worst Defect Advantages

Windsor Star

There are unfortunate people in the world who have personality or character defects which makes it difficult, for other people to live with them. The perpetual bore is about the worst.

Usually these are people with a complex. It may be an inferiority complex, a superiority complex, or a combination of the two. They are the conversation and do their utmost to make themselves heard. Often times they aren't interested in the opinions of others but only in their own. They like to talk rather than with one.

Frequently the characteristic is emphasized by the manner of their talk, the quality of their voice and the way they use it. It is not only their perpetual chatter which is annoying but the tone of it.

Sometimes these bores do have something of interest to say. Trouble is, however, by that time no one wants to listen to them.

It is a lamentable defect, separating a bore from the normal friendly relationships with his fellow men. And it causes mental suffering to those who have to associate with such unhappy people.

To Your Good Health

Proper Authorities Should Be Notified of Charlatans

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

I would appreciate any information. — J.S.

They are tiny ulcers which occasionally occur in the urinary bladder, causing frequency and sometimes bleeding. Their control consists primarily of clearing up any infection, either of kidney or bladder, or at some remote site, such as teeth, tonsils or sinuses. Irrigation of the bladder also is helpful.

The ulcers tend to heal and disappear if the infection is eliminated.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is the effect of eating starch? My husband eats about four boxes of ordinary starch a week and enjoys good health otherwise, but he has this craving. — F.S.

This oddity of taste and appetite isn't particularly uncommon, but I know of no reason for it. The only dangers are, first, that the extra calories in the starch make you fat; secondly, if you like starch, you may spoil your appetite for more vital foods — protein, vegetables, fruits, cereals.

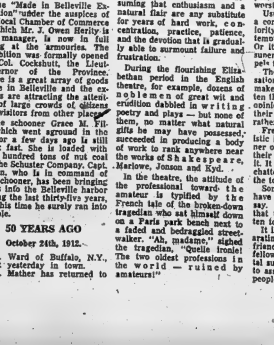
96 Lakes Named Trout

By W. A. Barnard, Ontario Dept. of Lands and Forests

Few areas in Canada or any other country compare with Ontario which, within its area of 412,582 square miles, contains close to 96 thousand lakes, millions of islands, thousands of rivers and other features of interest. One of the biggest difficulties encountered is the indiscriminate use of names of animals, fish, fowl, flowers, trees, and shrubs, even to geographical features, lakes in particular. In persons whose interests and activities have not extended beyond the periphery of their own locality.

Such persons have given little thought to the fact that these species of wild life are indigenous to most of the non-metro continental areas, and that such a name as Trout can be applied to any lake which is the natural habitat of that fish. In Ontario some 96 lakes have been named at one time or another and 18 of these are of considerable size. Twenty-three of the 110 lakes originally named Trout are not shown on maps of provincial areas, having either lost the name which have been known as Clear. And these are only three of the many such names. There are many such as Deer, Pickerel, Mud, Stony, Rock and so on. And you can't just go ahead and change a name; there has to be local acceptance.

THE PACKSACK



By GREGORY CLARK

If our highway traffic police take any pleasure in their work, other than enjoying life in the open air instead of in the confined office or court room, it is nailing the smart alecks who constituted a solid percentage of our road casualties.

"They may be these young squirts in convertibles," said a highway traffic officer to me with whom I shared the lunch counter," or it could be one of these influential executive types in big cars who have a feeling of airy freedom from rules and regulations. But the way my mate and I discover them is very simple. We are on a radar trap detail. After my mate has set up the radar equipment, I go up the highway five miles or so and keep watch on the traffic. It is not difficult to catch somebody breaking the law in some manner or other, and I hail him off to the side.

"I take my time about it. In fact, I like to make it as long be possible, noting down the particulars and questioning the offender at length. Most of us standing there in ful view on the roadside, every smart aleck who passes knows he is now free of cops for some miles to come. And the minute he is out of sight he has to bat out for a little drag racing.

"And bingo! Right into the radar trap."

STOCK QUOTATIONS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market held up fairly well in the wake of Tuesday's drubbing as early losses today were confined mostly to fractions.

Industrials—which fell more than nine points on Index Tuesday—showed a mild dip in the opening hour.

Banks exhibited no weakness with Montreal, Royal Toronto-Dominion and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce all slipping in a ¼ to ¾ range. Bank of Nova Scotia resisted the trend, gaining ¼.

Interprovincial Pipe Line declined 1¾, Alberta Gas and Alabibi ¼ each and Massey-Ferguson ¼.

Losses in a ¼ to ¾ range went to Imperial Oil, Dominion Foundries and Steel, Calgary Power, Distillers Seagrams and Shawinigan.

Gainers included Steel Company of Canada, up ¼, Consumers' Gas, ahead ⅝ and Gatineau Power, ahead ¼.

On the exchange index: Industrials dipped .37 to 317.65, Golds .40 at 82.53 and western oils .35 at 105.19. Base metals fell .45 to 168.60 — lowest this year. The 11 a.m. volume was 1,115,000 shares compared with 1,665,000 at the same time Tuesday.

Among base metals, International Nickel declined ⅛, Noranda ¼ and Falconbridge ¼.

Western oils saw Dome drop ¼, Hudson's Bay ⅛ and Central Del Rio 15 cents to $7.15. Pacific Petroleum advanced ¼.

Golds market was driven lower Tuesday.

Waves of selling in the opening and closing hours drove prices down. Industrials dropped more than nine points. Western oils four and golds and base metals one point.

Key industrials losers included Walker-Gooderham, off 2¼, Interprovincial Pipe Line, off 2½, Alabibi, down 1¾ and Bell Telephone, down 1¼.

Banks were hard hit with Nova Scotia losing 2½, royal 2¼, Toronto - Dominion one point, Montreal ⅛ and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce 1¼.

Among base metals, Hudson Bay Mining dropped ⅛ and Noranda and Consolidated Mining and Smelting ⅛ each. International Nickel gained ¼. Speculatives saw Northgate fall 75 cents to $4.20 and Pamaque 10½ cents to 21 cents.

has sufficient nuclear weapons to destroy the world. Why then did it find it necessary to install such weapons outside its own territory?"

PROMISES TO CONSIDER

In a development outside the security council today, a delegation headed by ambassador Zenon Rossides of Cyprus and representing 45 smaller countries called on acting secretary-general U Thant and urged him to try to prevent the U.S., Russia and Cuba from doing anything that would worsen the situation. Thant was reported to have told the group he would consider the appeal.

The two big powers exchanged insults and resolutions Tuesday night as the council opened its emergency meeting and heard charges and counter-charges of aggression involving Cuba.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin's speech lasted one hour and six minutes.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson, who spoke just one minute short of Zorin, urged the council to act now on Cuba and halt a vast scheme of communism to win world domination by "piecemeal aggression".

Zorin accused the U.S. of playing right with "monocular war" and he introduced a resolution asking the council to insist that the U.S. "invalidate" its naval quarantine of Cuba.

Zorin sought to ridicule a U.S. resolution demanding the dismantling of Soviet missile sites in Cuba by reiterating the Russian position that the installations are defensive in character and by saying the U.S. has bases in 35 countries around the world.

BLASTS KENNEDY

Ambassador Mario Garcia-Inchaustegui of Cuba said there is only one foreign base in his country; the U.S. base at Guantanamo. He charged that President Kennedy committed a "criminal act" by instituting the quarantine which amounted to "aggression, boycott and sabotage" against a small neighbor.

"We ask for the immediate withdrawal of all ships and planes and toward us . . . we ask for a cessation of all interventionist measures," the Cuban ambassador said.

If the UN did not halt "United States intimidation, it will see the world thrown into a nuclear war in which the United Nations itself will be exterminated."

In a development outside the Security Council, 45 smaller countries of Africa, Europe, Asia and Latin America met Tuesday night and decided to ask Acting Secretary-General U Thant to try to prevent a worse U.S.-Soviet collision over Cuba.

Ambassador Zenon Rossides of Cyprus, who presided over the meeting, was appointed head of a delegation to visit the U.S., Russia and Cuba not to exaggerate the situation.

APPEAL TO THANT

Convinced that the Security Council would end up in a deadlock over opposing U.S. and Soviet resolutions, the small powers delegated Ghana, the United Arab Republic and Cyprus to ask Thant to intervene.

Some observers viewed the small nation action as a sign that the United States might not get the support it hopes for if it takes its case to the 109-nation General Assembly. Many nations which strongly oppose both Cuba and the Soviet Union feel a blockade is too drastic a move and risks a head-on collision between the United States and Russia.

Stevenson told the council "we still hope, we still pray, that the worst may be avoided —that the Soviet leadership will call an end to this ominous adventure."

But he added that "since the end of the second World War there has been no threat to the vision of peace so profound—and so challenge to the world of the (UN) charter so fateful."

He said Soviet actions since the war were a chronicle of deceit and broken agreements that have shadowed the world and Cuba now had provided a "bridgehead and staging area" in the Western Hemisphere for communism.

"DETERMINES THE FUREFE"

The scopes of mankind are concentrated in this room" he declared. "The action we take may determine the future of civilization."

Anticipating Zorin's criticism of U.S. bases in places close to the Soviet Union such as Turkey, Stevenson said:

"The missile bases in NATO countries were established in response to missile sites in the Soviet Union directed at NATO countries. The NATO states had every right and necessity to respond to the installation of these soviet missiles . . . The United States and its allies established their missile sites after free negotiation, without concealment and without false statements to other governments."

Zorin said no self-respecting country would permit tampering by another nation with its shipping and he accused the U.S. of piracy and banditry."

He quoted from an official Soviet statement issued in Moscow that charged the U.S. is "crably playing with fire" in trying to blockade Cuba.

Zorin charged that Stevenson "falsified" the Cuban position.

Pro-Castro Mob Storms London U.S. Embassy

LONDON (AP) — Hurling abuse and battling police, more than 2,000 pro-Castro demonstrators stormed the U.S. Embassy Tuesday but were finally halted at the front door by helmeted British bobbies.

"Viva Fidel, Kennedy to hell!" shouted the banner-waving crowd made up mostly of youngsters among whom a policeman described as "beatnik types."

Many of the demonstrators appeared to be West Indians. Some identified themselves as such.

Police announced that 124 persons were arrested and charged with offences ranging from breach of peace through assaulting the police to stealing a policeman's helmet.

The outbreak came after the British government announced its full support of President Kennedy's quarantine on Soviet arms to Cuba and denounced Soviet exploitation of Cuba as a base.

The demonstrators, fighting toward the massive embassy building in Grosvenor Square, knocked at least six policemen down but suffered only minor casualties themselves.

In some other large cities in Britain, anti-Castro groups of demonstrators marched through streets shouting, "hands off Cuba!"

PROTEST ELSEWHERE

Anti-American protests were reported in Sweden, Denmark, Japan and Brazil.

In Stockholm, more than 100 Swedish demonstrators gathered to sit outside the U.S. Embassy. They tried to hand in a letter of protest but were turned down.

In Copenhagen, police guarded the American Embassy when about 400 Danish protestors showed up, but there were no incidents.

In Tokyo, about 60 Japanese students gathered in front of the U.S. Embassy today, but police reported no violence, though the students were shouting slogans, snake-dancing and blocking traffic.

In Rio de Janeiro, nearly 1,000 students turned out to demonstrate in front of the Brazilian foreign office, carrying banners which read, "go home communist Yankees," "starvation blockade" and "Yankee intervention is military provocation." In Buenos Aires, small groups of Argentine supporters of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro harassed police in the centre of the city during the night, pacing small explosive charges and throwing leaflets.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Jocelyn R.: He wastes huge sums of money on expensive toys for Nicky.

Ralph R.: I'm aways so much that I must impress him with what I send.

Jocelyn R.: Our son Nicky is 3½. I'm trying to convince my husband that the elaborate toys he sends home for him are a waste of money. Simple things like a phonograph record or a picture puzzle would do.

But yesterday a huge carton arrived with an electric robot which can answer questions. Ralph sent it from Chicago. It cost over $25 and Nicky is bored stiff with it. Some of the other presents might be all right if only Ralph were around more to show Nicky how to use them. I'm not much help, for example, demonstrating how to enjoy the football and helmet which arrived last week.

If Nicky can't have his dad around, expensive toys don't make up for it.

Ralph R.: I'm a Science Reporter for a news service and I'm away from home a good deal, following the conventions and the latest research experiments. Wherever I am, I never forget Jocelyn and Nicky. And I make it a point to send Nicky something impressive "with love from Daddy."

I assume Jocelyn will read the instructions on the box and introduce Nicky to the toy with "pomp and circumstance" and plenty of flourish! If she'd handle her end effectively, Nicky would know that my absences mean special treats for him and he'd come to view them as an exciting game he and I are playing.

As for the small, everyday toys like blocks and pegboards, Jocelyn can pick them up at the dime store. They're not special, as I want my gifts to be.

The Council: James Russell Lowell said what Jocelyn's trying to say, only he put it into verse in "The Vision of Sir Launfal":

"The gift without the giver is bare;
Who gives himself with his alms feeds three.
Himself his hungering neighbor, and me."

She's trying to tell you, Ralph, that $25 toy without you around to add your special oomph isn't worth a dime!

Making a child happy through playthings depends upon a parent's presence. We've seen children play delightedly with a pail of water ($0.00) and an old paint brush, while their mother sat on a stoop reading. In the bright sunshine they were "painting" the house! And on rainy days they stood at the kitchen sink pouring water from pitchers and sieves, while their mother did the ironing.

But we appreciate Ralph's motives and pinpoint the problem as one requiring more thought. Merely expending huge sums for big-dimension gifts isn't necessarily going to "warm up" Nicky toward his dad. Two other factors are important: Jocelyn's "fill-in" to make the dull substances come alive, and Ralph's careful selection of what he sends. We agree with Jocelyn that size and price aren't important. What will impress Nicky and keep his father's presence fresh is a modest enduring which fills a current need.

Suppose for example, the movie Pinocchio is in town. Well Ralph sends the book. Jocelyn reads it to Nicky. Ralph sends the disc. Jocelyn plays it for Nicky. They sing a few of the tunes. Then when old records, they all go to see the picture together. Such gifts do not dangle in a void. They are lovelinked.

Actually toys are a tool. They teach. But they are also a symbol. They 'remind.' We all know the hold an old Teddy bear can have on a child. It spells home, the familiar. Similarly, the toys which Ralph leaves with Nicky must be "father-things" and associated with warm, snug communion with both parents. Anything else is just a big box!

Women's Activities

EGGLETON U.C.W.

MADOC JUNCTION — Mrs. Forde Stanley was hostess for the regular October meeting of the Eggleton U.C.W. on Thursday afternoon with 14 members present.

The president, Mrs. Harlow opened the meeting and the devotional was based on the theme of Thanksgiving "O Give Thanks Unto the Lord" and was in charge of Mrs. Bert Reids, who prepared the program. The Scripture reading from St. Matthew 6: 25-34 and the commentary on the lesson was given by Mrs. Murney Kinkey.

The president was in charge of the short business period. A thankoffering was taken which amounted to $13.33 and also a donation of $2. which was dedicated with a prayer by Mrs. Carl Bridges. The November meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Warren Harlow with the program to be prepared by Mrs. William McMullen. The secretary read a letter of thanks from Mr. Paul Bridges for the fruit which was sent to him while in hospital. Invitations were read to attend bazaars and teas at Mount Pleasant, Rawdon on October 18; Holloway Street United Church on October 24th; St. Andrew's Presbyterian, Stirling on October 25th; St. John's W.A. 60th anniversary on October 30th; Mrs. Bessie Sidney, community friendship secretary reported on calls made also on cards and boxes of fruit sent during the past month. Mrs. Forde Stapley reported that a parcel weighing nine pounds containing nylons had been sent to Toronto to be forwarded overseas.

A discussion followed to arrange a date in November for the Thanksgiving circuit Joint U.C.W. meeting to be held at Eggleton and to invite a speaker for this meeting.

Three short readings were contributed. "Old If" by Mrs. Forde Stapley; "God's Windmill" by Mrs. Frank Smith, and "That First Thanksgiving Corn" by Mrs. Maurice Clancy. The chapter from the study book "Into the Sunset" was read by Mrs. Bert Reide.

Mrs. Harlow expressed appreciative thanks to Mrs. Stapley for the hospitality and to Mrs. Reide for preparing the program, after which a dainty lunch was served by the hostess.

Large Number Attend H-S "Open House"

MARMORA — A large number attended the regular monthly meeting of Marmora Home and School Association and the "open house."

The president, Mrs. Allan Wylie, opened the meeting. The minutes were read and approved, which showed that the executive and members of the Association had served lunch to officials and guests at the official opening of the Marmora water system held on October 6th. The president of the Home and School reported it was a most successful afternoon.

Plans were made to send two delegates to Area C Conference in Belleville on October 27th.

Attendance banners were won by Grade 3 of the Earl Prentice School and Grade 8 of the Central School. Principal K. Ellis explained "open house" and invited parents and friends to visit the different rooms.

Lunch was served at both schools by Grade 7 and 3 mothers.

VERY HIGH SCHOOL

Sir Edmund Hillary, conqueror of Mount Everest, has built a school for Sherpa children in the Himalayas at 13,000 feet. Fifty children attend.

Club Activities

CHRIST CHURCH C.C.

The past ten Monday evenings have found Contact Club members busy making articles for the Christmas bazaar which will be held the end of November. Doll clothes and novelties were made and a display of articles already completed was shown.

President Trudy reminded the girls that this coming Monday would be the "husband and wife" party.

Refreshments were served by Joan Ford, Irene Weatherstone and Shirley Harris.

On October 22, the hostesses were Betty Teed, Mary Phillips and Goldie Miller.

KEEP IT WARM

Honey should be stored in a warm dry place, never in the refrigerator or a damp cellar.

May Court Clubs Extend Service Work in Ontario

OTTAWA (CP)—Plans to extend May Court clubs across Canada were revealed Tuesday at the 22nd annual meeting of the Affiliated May Court Clubs of Canada.

Mrs. A. B. McLean of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., affiliation president, told delegates the clubs were strong enough to become "a truly Canadian organization formed to maintain a high standard of social service and philanthropic work throughout all of our great country not only in Ontario."

The organization was formed in 1898 at the suggestion of the Countess of Aberdeen, wife of the Governor-General. The Ottawa club was formed to mark May Day and it wasn't until many years later that the women began community work.

Today there are about 1,500 members in nine Ontario clubs.

OUTLINE PROJECTS

The projects of the various clubs were outlined at the annual meeting here Tuesday night. Mrs. C. J. Faulkes, reporting for the Brockville club, told of their work with senior citizens and the school for retarded children. She said the senior citizens group had grown to more than 170 members from about 15 members in three years.

Mrs. J. Octave Roy said the Pierrepoint group had been commended by the provincial and local Red Cross societies for work with blood donor clinics in Timmins.

Mrs. F. M. Holton told of a new venture by the Orillia group. It has rented and furnished a home for eight teen-age boys with emotional problems. The home is administered by the Children's Aid Society and is a two-year experiment.

Other program highlights were: Assistance at the Ontario Hospital School for Retarded Children at Cedar Springs by the Dundas club; a $2,000 donation to the Oakville hospital expansion fund by the Oakville club; work at the War Memorial Children's Hospital by the London club; maintenance of a library at the Niagara Peninsula Sanatorium by the St. Catharines group; assistance at the welfare centre by the Sault Ste. Marie group, and volunteer work at the May Court convalescent home by Ottawa members.

'Home, Farm Safety' Topic At W.I. Meet

Mrs. Elmer Tufts was hostess for the October meeting of Bethel-Zion W.I.

The president, Mrs. Roy Sills, introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Keith Bennett, sales representative for Eastern Ontario for the Ontario Hydro. Mr. Bennett spoke on "Safety in the Home and on the Farm," stressing that electricity is a wonderful servant, but should be used with caution.

Several pamphlets were handed out and a film on "Farm Life" followed. Questions were asked and discussed.

Appreciation to Mr. Bennett was expressed by Mrs. Roscoe Robson.

Mrs. Fred Wallman gave a paper on "Traffic," followed by an interesting safety quiz. It was learned that 11 percent of farm accidents were in the home and that on the farm there were four persons a day injured by electricity.

Corresponce was read. Mrs. Ralph Sills was nominated curator of Tweedsmuir history, and reported on progress with the council concerning the Jones' cemetery. A board of five men was named to be responsible for the upkeep of the cemetery.

Birthday box and "Pennies for Friendship" were passed.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Tufts and her assistants.

Women's Institutes

Casselton - Corbyville W.I.

The October meeting of the Casselton - Corbyville Women's Institute was held at town hall with 22 members and two visitors present.

Mrs. J. Latchford, president, opened the meeting.

Reports of the standing committees were given by Mrs. G. Shorey, Historical Research, Mrs. Courchesne, Citizenship and Education - Mrs. N. Walsh; a reading was given on "Pinetment in Canada."

Mrs. J. Latchford called on Mrs. F. Rogers, convener of "Health," who introduced Mrs. Allison Koglin, teacher of Student Nurses at Belleville General Hospital, who gave a brief interesting and educational talk on the symptoms of cancer, followed by a film of a cancer patient at Princess Margaret Hospital. Also a second film on how to determine cancer in women.

Mrs. P. Meale thanked Mrs. Allison Koglin, teacher of Student Nurses at Belleville General Hospital, who gave a brief interesting and educational talk on the symptoms of cancer, followed by a film of a cancer patient at Princess Margaret Hospital. The Experts Say

Private Secretary Work Not All Fun and Glamor

By PATRICIA RUBAK

TORONTO (CP) — The Ann Southern type of private secretary, whose life is all fun and glamor and no work, exists only in fiction, says one of Toronto's two certified professional secretaries.

Elsie Swartz, who has done secretarial work for about 21 years, also says she has never known a secretary who looked sLorthand from her boss's knee, as they do in the cartoons.

"I have to polish desks, water plants, serve coffee, in addition to the regular filing, correspondence, dictation, telephone calls and meeting visitors. In fact a secretary has to be everything from a dietitian to a mind reader."

"Anyone can call themselves a secretary and most girls working in business do, but there is a big difference between a secretary and a stenographer."

The most important qualifications of a good professional secretary are interest in and understanding of the subject matter of her routine chores.

SPECIAL TRAINING

"A top-level secretary should have basic knowledge in economics, business organization, accounting and business law to enable her to become personally interested in her work."

"If you are working in industry and have studied economics, for example, you will understand the effects of tight money as it applies to mortgages and business loans."

Miss Swartz, who now works in a Toronto law firm, says that being a good secretary means continuous education to keep up with the times. "The knowledge of 10 years ago is not good enough for today's new machines and telephone techniques.

"A secretary must be able to adjust to new situations created by automation. Now they even have machines which can type from the voice, so the secretary with only mechanical skills is going to have problems."

PLAN TO STAY

Miss Swartz says many girls do not take the trouble to become interested in their work because they think they will be working only for a few years.

"Today this idea is outdated. Statistics show that women should realistically plan to work about 25 years of their lives rather than four, two or three before marriage."

Other girls are not interested in their secretarial work because they regard it only as a "stepping stone" to bigger and better administrative posts.

"It is a mistake to have this attitude. Opportunities are few and how could a person who did not take their secretarial work seriously be expected to handle even greater responsibilities?"

Miss Swartz, who began her career as a stenographer in Winnipeg, at a salary of $13 a week, was named secretary of the year for Canada last spring by the National Secretries Association.

She tried her exams to become a certified professional secretary in 1961 — an exam which only 22 Canadian women have passed in the four years it has been offered in Canada.

Lipson's STORES LIMITED (1958)

Mr. and Mrs. George Frederick Hillman are pictured signing the register following their marriage in St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Margaret Ann Clarke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Clark, of Belleville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Rowbotham, of Belleville R.R. 1.

HILLMAN — CLARK

St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Belleville, was the setting on Saturday, October 6, at high noon for a lovely double-ring wedding when Margaret Ann Clark, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Clark, became the bride of George Frederick Hillman, of Scarborough, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hillman, of Belleville, R.R. No. 1. The Rev. D. W. Sinclair officiated before tall vases of white gladioli, and chrysanthemums mingled with red carnations.

Mr. Laurie Rowbotham, of Belleville, provided the traditional wedding music.

The radiantly lovely bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Mr. James P. Clark, wore a charming bridal gown of stranded taffeta fashioned with fitted bodice having a scooped neckline delicately outlined in appliqued lace and seed pearls, and long lily-point sleeves. The full-length panniered skirt which was caught up at the sides in the appliqued lace accented with seed pearls, cascaded into a graceful chapel train. Her headdress was a tiara encrusted with seed pearls and sequins with shoulder-length veil of silk illusion tulle, and she carried a triple cascade bouquet of red roses with trailing ivy.

Her matron of honor, Mrs. Richard Rowbotham, of Belleville, sister of the bride, and the two bridesmaids, Mrs. Allen Hackett, of Scarborough, and Mrs. George Wonnacott, of Belleville, cousin of the bride, were gowned in princess blue peau de soie sheaths with scooped necklines and cap sleeves. The full short skirts were enhanced by détachable over skirts accented with bows at the centre waistlines. Their headdresses were white velvet bows with tiny veils, and their shoes matched the shade of their gowns. They carried Colonial nosegays of white 'mums centred by three tinted blue 'mums.

The little flower girl, Miss Mary Wonnacott, cousin of the bride, was dainty and demure in her white nylon frock with blue velvet flowers, and trimmed with matching princess blue velvet ribbon. She wore black patent shoes, a white floral headband, and carried a basket of white 'mums mingled with red roses.

Mr. William Secker, of Scarboro' urb, Ontario, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Richard Rowbotham, of Belleville, brother-in-law of the bride, and Mr. John Harris, also of Belleville, ushered the guests.

The reception was held at Club Canara, Belleville, where the bridal table was appointed with the traditional white damask linen, and centred by a three-tier, all-white wedding cake topped by wedding bells and lily-of-the-valley, and misted about the base with white tulle and pink rosebuds. Tall white candles in crystal candelabra and the bridal bouquets completed the pretty setting.

The bride's mother, attired in a brocaded jacket costume of gold and blue tones "in shantung style, with gold turban hat, matching shoes and accessories, with corsage of yellow roses, received the guests, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a turquoise peau de soie sheath draped at the sides, matching shoes, and corsage of bronze roses.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls, Washington, D.C., and New York City, the bride donned a green wool suit with brown, and beige accessories, with corsage of bronze 'mums.

Guests attended from Belleville, Toronto, Scarborough, Kingston, Corbyville, Carrying Place, Foxboro, London, Ont.; Barrie, Wellington and Consecon.

The bride, previous to her marriage, was entertained by a miscellaneous shower given at the home of Mrs. Gerald Erickman, of Belleville, with Mrs. Allen Hackett as hostess. At a presentation and dinner in the Tropicana Room at Hotel Quinte, when the girls of the district Taxation Office gave her a lovely bedspread; also at a presentation of a plate-glass mirror by the staff of the Taxation Office, of which the bride was a member; at an afterwheeral party at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hillman, of the Redneersville road.

The bridegroom's gift to his bride, a gold wristwatch; to his ushers and best man, leather manicure sets; the bride's gift to her bridegroom, silver wrist watch; to her bridesmaids, and matron of honor, pearl necklaces with matching earrings, and to her flowergirl, a sterling silver bracelet, all were worn on the day of the wedding.

Following the reception, the bride personally presented her bouquet to her grandmother, Mrs. George Secker, who was unable to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Hillman will reside at 2225 Eglinton Ave., East, Apt. 307, Scarborough.

Slated for success on campus or off, this jacquard wool knit cardigan sweater is available in red with gray or black and tan combinations.

The double-knit skirt is on an elasticized band and comes in gray, black, camel or heather.

The twosome add up to a nice casual number, good for the country, too.

Quintena Rebekah Lodge Holds Impressive Installation

Tuesday night the installation of Quintena Rebekah Lodge officers took place in the Oddfellows Hall, which had been beautifully decorated with fall white standards and fern.

A basket of 'mums was placed at the front in memory of a late Sister, Catherine Beal, by Mr. and Mrs. James Beal.

The Noble Grand, Sister Irene McMartin, welcomed Sister Lavina Farrow, District Deputy President of district No. 4 who was introduced by Sister Ila Addy, P.N.G. and presented a lovely corsage and escorted to the dais.

The Deputy Marshall Sister Ruby Brady and staff were escorted and introduced by Sister Alice Adam P.N.G. The District Deputy President of Kingston District, Sister Marion Reiff, was introduced by Sister Mary Plumpton P.D.D.P. and escorted to the front. Other visitors were welcomed from Tweed, Parham, Trenton and Odessa lodges.

INSTALLATION

After the business of the lodge was conducted, the D.D.P. Sister Lavina Farrow, took charge of the installation ceremonies with the Deputy Marshal Sister Ruby Brady and staff from Madoc Rebekah Lodge of the following Sisters: Lillian Morrison, Vera Hill, Edith Keelar, Lottie Ney, Blanche Mc-Murray, Pearl Blakely, Grace Warren, Edna Reid and soloist Eva Bronson.

The guard of honor Sister Mabel Adams, June Walker, Ruby Johnston, Irene Gonier, Joyce Fleming, Myrtle Lough assisted the Deputy Marshal in presenting the following Quintena officers for installation: Sister Connie Wilkinson, Noble Grand; Sister Clare Ironside, vice Grand; Annis Webb, treasurer; Lena Mastellion, financial secretary; E. Judge, recording secretary; Carolyn Hatwood, conductor; Bernice Hall, chaplain; Dorothy Harwood, musician; Doris Lee, color bearer; LH Williams, warden; Ilia Addy, R.S.N.G.; Margaret Novenski, L.S.N.G.; Lena Bayup, R.S.V.G.; Laura Downey, L.S.N.G.; Elda Sopha, - inside guarding; Harley Reid, outside guardian; Irene McMartin, J.P.R.G.

Each officer installed received a corsage from the Noble Grand, Sister Connie Wilkinson presented by Sister Bessie Boldrick and Sister Verna Oliphant.

Sister Eva Bronson soloist sang a solo entitled, "My Task."

during the ceremony.

Sister Lavina Farrow spoke briefly on duties of lodge officers and several guests and members were called upon for a few words including Sister Irene Aman, past president of the Ladies' Fatriarch Militiant of Ontario.

After closing, the guests and members adjourned to the upper hall to partake of a banquet convened by Sister Florence Pellitt, P.N.G. and committee. The head table setting was beautiful centrpiece of golden 'mums with crystal candelabra and appropriate place cards of pink and green.

Appreciations were expressed bringing an enjoyable evening to a close.

Women's Activities

SCOTT'S U.C.W.

6TH SIDNEY — Mrs. Ross Dafoe was hostess to the women from Scott's United Church on Thursday evening when there were 13 members and two visitors present.

The theme of the meeting was "Thanksgiving." The president, Mrs. Farman Post gave the call to worship. Mrs. Cameron Sine presided at the piano and Mrs. A. Martyn read the Scripture lesson from Deut. 8.

Laurie and Becky Doolittle sang a solo. Mrs. C. Sine conducted the Bible study using Luke 24: 77 and Deut. 6: 12.

Mrs. Barbara Mitts gave a most interesting talk on her recent trip to the British Isles and Europe. Mrs. M. Sine read a "Psalm of Thanksgiving" by Grace Manly.

The members reported 13 calls had been made and 13 cards sent during the month.

The hostess served delicious refreshments.

Residents Honored on Departure

MADOC JUNCTION — On Friday night a large number of friends, neighbors and relatives gathered at the home of Mrs. Harry Clarke, to spend an evening together, before Mrs. Clarke leaves to take up residence in Stirling.

The early part of the evening was spent in social conversation, after which Mrs. Clarke, Miss Annamae Clarke and Mr. Vernon Clarke were asked to take seats of honor.

Mr. Forde Stapley as chairman, presided over a program which opened with a round of community singing, with Mrs. Bruce Stapley at the piano. Readings were given by Miss Marilyn Stapley; Mrs. Frank Smith and Mrs. Forde Stapley. Instrumental numbers on the piano contributed by Mr. Edie Svoboda and Tony Svoboda of Stirling were greatly enjoyed.

Mrs. Bruce Stapley read an address of appreciation and Messrs. Forde Stapley and Bruce Stapley on behalf of friends in the community made the presentation of a lovely coffee table and two bookcase lamps. Mrs. Clarence Pfaffett on behalf of Eggleton U.C.W. presented Mrs. Clarke with a pretty china cup and saucer, for which Mrs. Clarke expressed sincere thanks.

Refreshments were served.

Will Be Only Therapist In Saigon Says Nurse

MONTREAL (CP) — Tbi-Hoa Le of Saigon says she will be the only Vietnamese physical therapist in the department of her country when she completes training and returns home next spring.

"I will be going back to the People's Hospital in Saigon, where I nursed for two years before coming here," said the petite Le. "I have signed a 10-year contract to work with them as a therapist. I will need assistants in the department, so I'll have to train them."

Le, 27, has completed a course in physical and occupational therapy at the School of Rehabilitation at the University of Montreal. The U.S. International Co-operation Administration gave her a scholarship, enabling her to take the course.

She was sent to Montreal because it is the only place in the world where such a course is given in French. Le could not speak English, but French is the second language of the Vietnamese. She has learned English during her three-year stay in Canada.

Le served her internship at the hospital in Brantford, Ont. When asked what differences there are between hospitals and nursing here and in Viet Nam she answered:

"Viet Nam hospitals don't have the modern equipment available here.

"Canadian nurses do some work which is handled by nursing assistants in Vietnamese hospitals — for instance, patients' toilette and making beds. On the other hand a nurse here will take care of perhaps three or four patients while a Vietnamese nurse will care for 20 or 30."

Another difference is the uniform worn. The Vietnamese uniform is full-length with long slits going up both sides of the skirt. Underneath the skirt long trousers are worn. The top of the dress has long tight neckline. The cap is pointed in "coolie" fashion.

University W. Club Holds 3-Part Program, Hears Reports

A three-part program was featured at the opening fall meeting of the University Women's Club at Bellefills and District held on October 16th in Education Hall, Belleville General Hospital.

Highlight of the evening was an address by Mrs. R. E. McCreary of Augusta, Eastern Ontario Director of C.F.U.W., who brought greetings to the Belleville and district club. Mrs. McCreary outlined some "News and Views" of other clubs in the region, referring particularly to their money-making projects, community effort and p. grams.

The speaker noted that money-making projects of University Women's Clubs are quite varied. Picton, Smiths Falls and Cornwall hold annual book fairs; Peterborough and Kingston sell magazine subscriptions, and have sponsored the Canadian Players; Oshawa sponsors and Hamilton and Brantford sells correspondence cards. The Belleville and district club was commended on its "Spring Fair" and exhibition of Manly Macdonald paintings which enable it to donate two $500 scholarships annually to local girls; $50 to the I.F.U.W. student; and $50 to the Elizabeth Fry Society. This year the club has also donated $100 to help an African girl who is attending Queen's University.

GIVE LEADERSHIP

Mrs. McCreary indicated that a University Women's Club should, in co-operation with other groups, give leadership in the community. Community interests of University Women's Clubs are varied, and include the teaching of French at the Public School level; Elizabeth Fry Society work; the prevention of juvenile delinquency; the revision of succession duties; support of an African student at Queen's, and the study of the vocational guidance program in schools.

Mrs. McCreary also suggested that many U.W. Clubs in Eastern Ontario might concentrate on the theme of vocational guidance and direct their efforts towards making the vocational guidance program more far-reaching.

Mrs. McCreary was introduced by Mrs. W. H. T. Floyd and thanked by the president, Mrs. J. E. Pugh.

TOURS PENITENTIARY

The second part of the program was devoted to an interesting report of the Friday afternoon part of the Regional Conference held in Kingston, in May, when Miss Isabel Macneill, the superintendent, conducted a limited number from each Club on a tour of the Women's Penitentiary.

Miss Josephine Tickell, of the local club, noted that there were, at that time, 120 inmates, representing all provinces except Newfoundland, and with an age span of 16 to 65. The minimum sentence was two years and the majority of inmates had been convicted for drug addiction.

Many women were working in the laundry and sewing rooms, both of which are large and efficiently well-equipped to do work for other institutions. Others worked out-doors or in the typing room, and a privileged few were allowed to study in the gymnasium where small tables were arranged for this purpose. In the penitentiary are a hospital and two chapels, one Roman Catholic and one Protestant, at both of which attendance is optional.

NEW APPROACH SIGNS

Miss Tickell pointed out some of the signs of the "new approach" towards prisoners. She contrasted the new block of cells with the old. The new block contains 50 cells, each with its own (barred) window on an outside wall and a window in the door; its own washbasin, simple but attractive furnishings. While in the old cells, cells are back to back in the centre of a court, have no windows and are dark and dismal.

There are no uniforms for women by the penitentiary, though dresses are made from one pattern, the women picking from a variety of colors. As different colored sweaters become worn, they are distributed evidest. Two cats, Charlie and Andrew are popular with the inmates and contribute towards a more relaxed atmosphere than existed in penitentiaries not too many years ago.

Miss Tickell remarked in conclusion that this was a huge space and a tremendous expenditure to take care of 120 women and that far more should be done towards the prevention of crime.

ATTEND CONFERENCE

For the third part of the program, Mrs. Gordon Bailey and Miss Muriel Gibson, local members, reported on their visit to the international Conference of University Women held in July in Mexico.

Miss Gibson noted that 800 university women attended the Conference and that of these, 108 were Canadian. Conference discussions were in English, French or Spanish with simultaneous translation being available in headsets at each desk.

Among the accomplishments of the Conference were an amendment to the I.F.U.W. constitution to permit the admission to membership of holders of diplomas and certificates which are the equivalent of a University degree; plans for a seminar in Africa to assist African women to secure improvement in their status; and resolutions for concrete efforts to improve the status of women and to assist refugee women in Europe.

STUDY FOREIGN LANGUAGE

A resolution to encourage the study of at least one foreign language and culture by children and adults was passed, though this was not supported by Canada as Canada already has two languages and cultures. It was decided, too, that the next I.F.U.W. Conference would be held in Australia.

Mrs. Bailey described the headquarters of the Conference in Mexico City's huge, brand-new Medical Centre, and the farewell reception at the ultra-modern Hotel Maria Isabel. There was time both in Mexico City and other Mexican effort Mexico is making to improve its educational standards through a ten-year plan and with Mexico City's bus system one which one can travel for miles for about three cents.

By way of contrast, Mrs. Bailey described some of Mexico's archaeological sites and village industries.

SLIDES SHOWN

Both Mrs. Bailey and Miss Gibson showed delightful slides of Mexico. Pictures of skyscrapers, modern schools, some of which had swimming pools and modern university buildings contrasted with pictures of ancient carvings on the Temple of the Rain God, elaborate churches with their baptistery and gold leaf covered domes and with the ancient castillos at the archaeological sites at Oaxaca and Tula.

Mrs. Bailey and Miss Gibson were introduced by Mrs. R. Barrett and thanked by Mrs. G. E. Boyce.

Refreshments were served by the hospitality convener, Mrs. J. D. Rae and the hostesses for the evening: Mrs. R. H. G. Cunningham, Mrs. L. R. Finlayson, Mrs. F. H. Graham, Miss Alice Heatman, Mrs. J. E. Nelles, and Mrs. R. G. Walsh.

Women's Institute

PINE GROVE W. I.

MARSH HILL — The October meeting of Pine Grove W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Charlie Mayell with 12 members present.

The president, Mrs. Alex Tanner presided. Mrs. Tanner called roll: "Think What the White Cane Means".

A letter was read by the secretary, Mrs. Harold Detlor, regarding "Fallout" on the Farm". Mrs. Charles Moss read a letter of thanks from Mrs. Leonard Frost. Mrs. Bartindale expressed her thanks for cards and calls during her recent bereavement. The conveners of standing committees reported, Mrs. Allyn Pinkle, convener of education quoted figures regarding percentages of students who finish secondary school.

Miss Jane Gay, historical research convener, had an Eaton's catalogue of 1908 which was passed around and showed a big difference in the price of the articles and also a great change in styles.

The C.A.C. bulletins were distributed. It was decided to hold the "143 pounds of meat" supper Wednesday, October 31 at the home of Mrs. Charlie Mayell, who is one of the leaders. The other leader is Mrs. Charles Ross.

Current events were given by each member.

Mrs. Don Irish, "Home Economics" convener presided over the program and read the poem, "Life is a Garden, What Are You Planting?". Gary Mayell favored with two guitar selections. Mrs. Allyn Pinkle read, "She, She, She". Mrs. Farley Lindenfield read, "Baby's Shoes". Mrs. Irish gave a paper on "Cabbage," giving new ways of using cabbage and in this way add variety. Mrs. Irish spoke of a new dip for "Franks and Stew," and each member was given an opportunity to taste this delicious dish at lunch time.

Mrs. Bartindale read "A Very Good Cure". Mrs. Irish closed the program with a reading, "The Girl I Used to Be". The members enjoyed a contest on the "Scrambled Names of Bread".

Refreshments were served and a social hall hour enjoyed.

Women's PCA To Hold Pot Luck Supper

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Progressive Conservative Association was held in the Kiwanis Centre on Monday evening with the president, Rhoda Grey in charge.

The meeting opened with the Women's Purpose.

Mr. Grills was not present, but sent his thanks to all who had worked in the election.

The card secretary, Audrey Muir, reported sending 31 get well cards, seven sympathy and two 50th wedding anniversary cards.

It was decided that the card secretary be given $10 for cards and stamps. The Christmas meeting will be held in November, and will be a pot-luck supper, with an exchange of gifts which are not to exceed 50 cents.

Mr. and Mrs. Grills; Mr. and Mrs. Sandercock, and Mr. G. Rollins, member for East Hastings are to be invited to the supper.

Hairdressing Shown at Alpha Lambda

The regular meeting of Alpha Lambda Chapter was held last Monday at the home of Mrs. T. Shaw.

The brief business meeting with brisk discussion was followed by several announcements of forthcoming events.

Mrs. Joan Thompson introduced the guests of the evening, Mr. Buddy French, who was accompanied by Norma Mathers, hairdresser in Mr. French's employ. Miss Mathers made an excellent model for an original coiffure designed by Mr. French. While styling Miss Mather's hair, Mr. French answered Sorority sisters' many questions. Advice on proper care of one's hair and general information regarding.

Mr. French suggested brushing after setting to insure smoothness; explained that backcombing is to make a base for the hair to rest on, and discussed tinting and bleaching.

Mrs. V. Simonds expressed the Sorority's appreciation for such a visibly interesting, enthusiastic demonstration, and presented a small token on the Sorority's behalf.

This thoroughly enjoyable evening closed with refreshments served by hostess Mrs. Shaw and co-hostess Mrs. S. Calles.

EARLY TIPS ON CHRISTMAS CARDS

We don't want to appear to be rushing the Christmas season, but readers already are asking questions about how Christmas cards should be signed.

Obviously, there are a number of early birds who are having their cards printed well in advance of mailing date, and many are uncertain about how names should be affixed to both business and personal cards.

When a family has a lengthy list of names on its Christmas card list, it then becomes practical to have cards made up with the names imprinted at the end of the message.

The accepted way of printing the names is as follows:

When a card is sent by a husband and wife, both of their given names, with their last name, appear on the card, and the signature reads: Mary and Tom Jones. On imprinted cards, the wife's name is listed first. When signatures are signed by hand, the husband's name often is listed first, since the wife usually does the signing and it's done as a courtesy gesture. But in no case, whether imprinted or hand-written, is a signature preceded by Mr. and Mrs., which is just as bad form in sending cards as it is in signing personal letters.

When a card is sent from the entire family, youngsters included, the father's name is listed first, then the mother's and then the names of the children. The family-type signature then would read: Tom, Mary, Jane and John Jones. A card from both parents and children should never read "Mary and Tom Jones and Family." It's rather an abbreviated form that depersonalizes the children. Obviously, the greeting is more warm and direct when everyone's name is listed in order.

As far as business cards are concerned, it makes better sense for a man to have a special group made up with just his own name imprinted, rather than send a family card to business associates who have never met his wife and children. A card from a husband and wife may be sent to a business associate as long as it is addressed to his home and his wife is included in the address on the envelope.

By the same token, a professional woman who uses her maiden name at the office should send cards to business acquaintances signed with the name by which they know her. A husband-wife card would be inappropriate, since many business associates wouldn't recognize her married name. A single woman signs both her personal and business cards with her first and last name only, and does not write "Miss" in parentheses, as she might do on some of her letters.

And as long as so many early birds are having cards imprinted now, it's a wise idea to have a batch of return-address stickers printed at the same time. These go on the upper left-hand corner of the envelope as a ready reference for friends, and as an aid to the post office in case mail has to be returned due to a wrong or outdated address.

Question: I've been invited to a football game and to a cocktail party and dinner afterward. I won't have a chance to go home to change after the game. Would it be permissible to wear a wool suit to the post-game parties? The other guests will be more dressed up, I'm sure, since they will not be attending the game in the afternoon. I don't want to feel out of place, and am concerned that a suit would not be appropriate, despite the excuse I would have for wearing it. — M. E. L., Chicago, Ill.

Answer: A suit would be appropriate if the post-game parties were directly connected with the game, meaning that a group attended the same game, then met at the same party directly afterward. However, since the women at the later events most likely would be wearing afternoon or cocktail dresses, you probably would feel more comfortable in a simple, short-sleeved or sleeveless wool sheath, which would be appropriate under a coat at the stadium and correct for the parties later.

The Danes Make A "Puff"

By Mary Moore

For weeks I have been trying to find space and time to tell you of some of the highlights of the Food Editors' conference in New York last month.

Now Marianne is here with Sue and Danny for a stopover on their way to Calgary where Herbie is posted. She did our experimental cooking today which is a Danish Puff. This was served to us at a coffee break after one of the Conference sessions and was the hit of the party. It was interesting to see half a dozen food editors with their heads clustered around a handsome tray, full of these puffs. They had all just sampled it and as one woman realized it was some thing quite special.

Dinner Menu

WEDNESDAY

Pan Fried Calves' or Baby Beef Liver and Bacon; Spanish Rice; Broccoli with Hollandaise; Celery Hearts; Plum Tapioca with Brown Sugar Hard Sauce; Tea.

So I told Marianne of their and my 100% approval so she made it when Betty Angold, her roommate from nurse-in-training days, called on her barre one morning. It was warm from the oven and perfectly delectable.

Danish Puffs are light, delicate, elongated loaves that are surprisingly easy to make. They consist of 24 different pastry layers baked, one on top of the other, then frosted with a flavored icing which is the only sweetening. The bottom layers is prepared like standard pie pastry but is very short, and patted into a slim oblong on a baking sheet. The mixture spread over it to form the second or top layer is similar to the French pate a choux (cream puff pastry).

DANISH PUFFS

1 cup margarine or butter, 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2 tablespoons cold water, 1 cup boiling water, 1 teaspoon almond flavoring, 3 eggs, 1 cup sifted icing sugar, 1 tablespoon margarine or butter, 4 tablespoons cream or milk, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ⅛ teaspoon salt, nuts, optional or candied peel, optional.

Cut ½ cup margarine or butter into 1 cup flour with pastry blender until it resembles coarse meal. Add cold water and stir until well blended. Divide dough in half. Press each half into a 3 x 12" oblong on an ungreased baking sheet. Measure these with a ruler. Combine boiling water and remaining ½ cup margarine or butter in a saucepan. Bring to a boil. Add almond flavoring and remove from heat. Stir in remaining 1 cup of flour. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition just as you would when making cream puffs. Spread this mixture neatly over the oblongs, piling it in a high ridge at centre. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for about 25 minutes, then reduce heat to 325 deg. Fahr. for 25 minutes or until puff part is set firm it will not collapse.

Meanwhile, combine icing sugar, one tablespoon margarine or butter, cream or milk, vanilla and salt. Beat until smooth. Frost puffs while warm. Sprinkle liberally with chopped nuts or candied peel, if desired. Cut into narrow diagonal slices and serve warm or cold.

Albert College L.G. Holds Autumn Tea

An informal friendly atmosphere marked the annual autumn tea of Albert College Guild, held in the gracious Hall Manor. The Guild members and their friends were evidently pleased to be together after the summer recess.

The conveners for this event were: Mrs. F. Davidson, the vice-president and Mrs. G. Moore, with Miss Helen Suiman in charge of the tickets and gift box.

The rooms, always so attractive, were all the lovelier, with the beautiful arrangements of autumn flowers. The tea table with its centre of chrysanthemums, and lighted candles made one forget the grey skies. The decorations were in the hands of Mrs. E. Bird, Mrs. Florence Moon and Miss Helen Suiman.

The guests were welcomed by the principal of the College, the Rev. Alistair Haig and Mrs. Haig; the Dean of Women, Mrs. Winnifred Graham and Mrs. F. Davidson.

Presiding at the tea table were: Mrs. E. Hickey, and Mrs. W. H. Lattimer, Mrs. W. H. Fields and Mrs. W. B. Simpson.

Serving were: Mrs. J. Williams, Mrs. J. Demeza, Mrs. E. H. Black, Mrs. T. R. Colden, Mrs. T. C. McMullen, Mrs. N. Brown, Mrs. F. D. Pringle, Mrs. C. Morgan, Mrs. C. Barlow, Mrs. L. G. Hudgins, Mrs. S. Gilmour, Mrs. M. Vanner, Mrs. Doris Howie and Miss C. Allison.

Replenishing were: Mrs. G. H. Dimmi, Mrs. J. H. Sloan, Mrs. J. B. Boyce, Mrs. J. D. Robertson, Mrs. M. Francis, Mrs. G. Dobbs and Mrs. H. McCabe.

Assisting in the kitchen: Mrs. Florence Moon, Mrs. M. Sprague, Mrs. H. G. McKay, Mrs. E. W. Phair, and Mrs. K. Bird.

Hostesses were: Mrs. C. Hyde, Mrs. C. May, and Mrs. M. Weese.

Inviting to the tea room: Mrs. G. Moore and Mrs. T. Frankland.

Mrs. K. Bird, Mrs. E. Hubbs and Mrs. D. Joss provided background music for this most pleasant afternoon.

U.C.W. Views 'Caravaners' School Slides

The October meeting of the U.C.W.'s evening group was held in Camilton United Church, Monday. The meeting opened with singing of the hymn "Take time to be Holy". The president, Mrs. Vera Mitchell led in prayer and read a short poem.

It was decided that the meeting be held on the last Monday of each month in place of the fourth Monday.

An invitation from the Foxboro U.C.W. to attend their tea early November was read.

The members who had birthdays placed their money in the box and the other members sang "Happy Birthday." Mrs. Joy Putnam gave the card report, and Mrs. Margaret Shorey read a thank you note from Mrs. F. Furmidge Sr.

The worship service was in charge of Mrs. Helen Holgate, Mrs. Phyllis Perks, Mrs. Doris Pound and Mrs. Joy Putnam. Mrs. Holgate read a Psalm of thanksgiving.

The Scripture was read by Mrs. Parks and Mrs. Pound led in prayer.

Mrs. Putnam introduced the speaker, one of the members, Miss Doreen Reynold, who had spent her summer with the "Caravaners." Doreen told of some of her experiences with the Indians in the north and with the children in Bible Vacation school in some of the new and up-to-date churches, and then showed slides. Both her talk and the pictures were much enjoyed by everyone.

Mrs. Doris Pound thanked Doreen for her talk and the slides.

Refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

Husband in Love With a Young Girl

DEAR DORIS—Here goes with my problem. It's old as the hills I guess, but my heart is broken just the same.

My husband tells me he is in love with a 22-year-old girl. He is 38. We have four children, but he can't give up seeing this girl.

She really chases him, gives him cheap gifts, pictures of herself and writes his love letters. My husband says after the children are grown up if they still love each other, he will leave me and make a home with her. He has always had an eye for a pretty girl, but never serious before. He says he loves me a little.

Do you think there is any hope for our marriage being saved?—STUNNED.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR STUNNED—Your husband has stepped back into his own adolescence to moon over a teen-age girl. The less fuss you make the better. Be serene and companionable. No sulks remarks; no criticism.

He will come to himself. But a conference with a family counsellor will help you to determine just when and where your marriage lost some of its glamor.

DEAR DORIS—There is a boy in school whom I like very much. He is a grade ahead of me. I see him in school and sometimes after school. How could I find out if he likes me?—M. C.

DEAR M.C.—Since you can't go up and ask him, I think you'll just have to bide your time. If he likes you, let's hope he will find an opportunity to make your acquaintance.

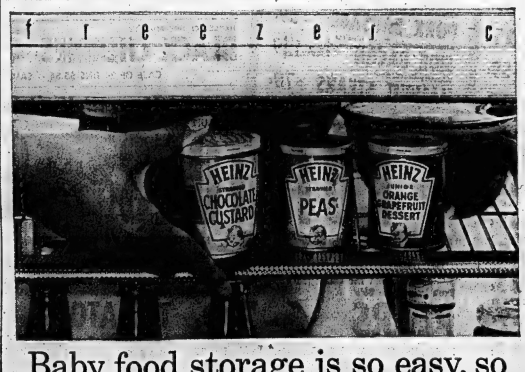
DEAR DORIS—I would appreciate very much if you would send me the address of the old age pension board.—MRS. M. C.

DEAR MRS. M. C.—For information about Old Age Pensions, you should write to Mr. W. W. Struthers, Chief Supervisor of Welfare Services, Family Allowances and Old Age Security, Copeland Building, Ottawa, Canada.

TO MRS. A—About the Queen Charlotte Islands. These belong to British Columbia. There is no Chamber of Commerce listed for the Islands and I would suggest that you write your inquiry to the Regional Office, Canadian Chamber of Commerce, 317 West Pender Street, Vancouver. They would be able to give you information about climate, jobs, living accommodation.

DEAR DORIS—My fiance drinks a bit but listens to me when I tell him not to because he says he would do anything for me. Do you think I can stop him from drinking completely?—PUSY ENGAGED.

DEAR ENGAGED—Afraid not. Unless he really wants to himself. Are you thinking "Once we are married I'll change all that?"



More foolhardy thoughts were never thunk. Better be sure you like him just as he is, before you take the plunge.

CONFIDENTIAL TO STORMY — Contrary to your suspicions, Worried Wife is not having an affair. I cannot publish her enquiry because it was confidential.

(Doris can suggest a Canadian resource to meet your need. Write to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Brocade Costume

By VERA WINSTON

This season there is a wealth of fine fashion at modest prices. Here's one such happy number.

The costume is of creamy white rayon and acetate brocade.

The dress has a high camisole top and is basically a sheath in silhouette. Its top is neatly concealed by a tiny bolero jacket with a garnish of brown fox at the sleeves.

PUBLIC

of Provincial Secretary John Yaremko—whose department is responsible for club charters—while the commission was looking at a 1959 police report recommending cancellation of the charter of Toronto's Bellevue Bridge and Social Club, a gambling and bookmaking joint at that time.

TELLS OF MEETINGS

A handwritten and unsigned notation at the bottom of the typewritten report said:

"Apalachin mob has met twice to take over this place and gambling. They were in Northern Ontario last year and names can be obtained from RCMP."

Mr. Yaremko knew nothing about the cryptic note, but the reference evidently was to the notorious 1957 underworld conference at Apalachin, N.Y., which the U.S. government claimed was for the purpose of carving up gangland territory and rackets.

The commission previously has had evidence of a Northern Ontario visit in 1958 by Toronto gambling bosses Joseph McDermott and Vincent Feeley and a group of Americans, but the Ontario men have insisted it was nothing but a duck-shooting expedition.

The Bellevue Club premises have been closed by the operators since the "Apalachin mob" report but the club still holds its charter. Mr. Yaremko has explained that cancellation proceedings, begun in 1959, became enmeshed in criminal and civil court suits involving the club and still are in progress.

While the minister expressed belief Tuesday that the problem of social clubs has been generally licked, he said under questioning that some measures might be taken to strengthen his department's hand.

WANTS CODE CHANGE

One of these would be abolition of a provision in the Criminal Code permitting social clubs to charge for the use of tables, though the commissioner pointed out that there was nothing his commission could do about that federal legislation.

The minister said that perhaps new and stiffened provincial regulations should be extended to cover older social clubs and it might be necessary to have more control over the changing of a club's officers. It might be, also, that the onus of proof should be placed on a club when its charter is before the minister for cancellation.

Under the present setup, provincial secretaries had been hesitant to take action against clubs on mere suspicion.

Under questioning by New Democratic Party counsel Patrick Lawlor as to whether influence had ever been brought to bear on him concerning charters, Mr. Yaremko declared there never had been "any undue influence or attempt to interfere with the honest discharge of my duty."

CONSERVATIVE

ative statement. But he maintained that he had already said all he wanted to say anyhow.

Works Minister Fulton and Veterans Minister Churchill, the only two cabinet members in the chamber at the time, contended that the debate should be limited to economic matters and Cuba ruled out as a topic for speakers.

Bu Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) quickly pointed out that the government had promised the widest latitude for the debate, being held in committee lieu of a full-dress budge debate.

Deputy Speaker Chown finally left it up to each MP speaking in the debate to decide for himself if his topic was "in the best interests of Canada."

'QUITE ANOTHER THING'

Before the interruption, Mr. Nugent said the U.S. has some cause to be annoyed with Cuba's "great love affair with Communist Russia" but it was "quite another thing to try to impose (U.S. will on that country."

"Cuba has the right to arm itself with whatever arms it can get. Cuba has the right to make any alliance that it wishes for its own defence, no matter how much we may dislike and disapprove or even fear that alliance."

The Prairie MP said the U.S. has given as the reason for its blockade the discovery of offensive weapons in Cuba.

"Sometimes I feel we call defensive weapons ours and offensive weapons theirs."

The meaning of the two words depended "upon which end of the gun you are looking at."

Mr. Nugent said the U.S. is moving in with arms to stop "a traffic on the high seas with "no legal right other than might."

Border Conflict in India Said Caused by Vagueness Of Historically Frontiers

NEW DELHI (AP) — Why have India and Communist China, once friends in "peaceful coexistence," come to the present blaze of border warfare?

The conflict in the Himalayas is the result of modern nationalism colliding in an area of historically vague frontiers.

This is the conflict of the Indians versus the Chinese rather than of neutrals versus Communists.

But observers here also believe there is an ideological element in China's motives for attacking India. It is the desire to disrupt India's economic development, to keep India from getting ahead of famine-stricken China.

The border battles with the Chinese will lead to an increasing diversion of Indian resources from the slow, massive job of raising living standards. After years of smouldering dispute with China, in which Prime Minister Nehru and other Indian leaders saw only as a reason for urging economic development, the bugles of patriotism now are being blown here.

"If we do not resist aggression we will be forced to unknown depths," Nehru told the Indian people Thursday. "There have been calls for sacrifices from the people whose average annual income is $70.

CLAIMS CONFLICT

Each side accuses the other of aggression because of conflicting claims as to where the border lies.

The border which New Delhi claims was established by the former British rulers of India. It is approximately along the traditional Himalayan frontier of the ancient Hindu scriptures. In high mountain valleys, Hinduism and Chinese influences mingled.

The British roughed in a border on their maps in the 19th century when imperial China was relatively weak and unable to resist. But the Chinese feel that any area that was once under Chinese control, however shadowy or nominal, is forever Chinese.

Now that Mao Tse-tung is China's communist ruler he is asserting this traditional nationalistic attitude.

Nationalism is strong here also. To the nationalistic refusal to give away any territory considered part of India is added a political consideration. Even such a strong leader as Nehru would find it difficult to withstand the storm if he handed over territory to China.

Change Voting Procedure to Elect Pontiff

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John made a slight change Saturday in the voting procedure for a new pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church.

He also freed cardinals of the threat of excommunication for not attending a conclave to choose a new pope, and he banned photographs of a pope on his death bed.

The Pope's rules were contained in an apostolic letter, a motu proprio (a document signed by the Pope in his own hand), made public Saturday. The letter amended rules framed by Pope Pius XII in 1945.

The previous rules provided that a minimum of two-thirds of the voting cardinals, plus one, was required to elect a pope. Under the amendment a two-thirds majority is sufficient. However, if the number of cardinals in the conclave cannot be divided into equal thirds, the new rules hold to the requirement of "two-thirds plus one."

In his letter, the Pope also ordered that no photographs could be made of a dying pope, and that no sound recordings might be made in the death room.

When Pope Pius XII died, newspapers in Italy and abroad published pictures of the pontiff on his death bed. Professor Ricardo Galeazzi - Lisi, personal physician of Pope Pius, was later ousted from the Rome Medical Association for selling photographs and newspaper articles describing the pope's death agony. Later an appeals board annulled the expulsion, saying there were technical errors in the way the action was taken.

Juba Seeking Fourth Term As Mayor

WINNIPEG (CP)—City voters will decide Wednesday the result of a lively mayoralty contest and a referendum on Sunday sports and movies.

Stephen Juba, a businessman who has led the city with independence and lots of publicity since 1956, is challenged by Robert E. Moffat, an expert on municipal economic affairs.

Mr. Moffat resigned from the metropolitan council of Greater Winnipeg to oppose Mayor Juba's bid for a fourth consecutive two-year term.

One of the key planks in both men's platforms is total amalgamation of the Greater Winnipeg metropolitan area, rather than the existing score of municipal governments subordinate to a metropolitan council.

Mayor Juba's campaign literature stresses a wide variety of civic achievements since he became mayor.

On the open Sunday referendum, voters will be asked whether they are in favor of Sunday movies, concerts and plays to which admission is charged; whether they favor commercial sports on Sunday, with the exception of horse, dog and stock car racing and boxing and wrestling; and whether they are in favor of the Sunday operation of bowling alleys.

Mayor Censured Over Interest At Cornwall

CORNWALL (CP) — City council Monday voted 6-5 in favor of a motion censuring Mayor Nick Kaneb for failing to state earlier his personal interest in property scheduled to be expropriated for the extension of a city street.

The vote was held following a lengthy debate on the matter. Ald. Jean Lefebvre moved by Alderman M. M. Castner at an earlier meeting. He said the mayor should have declared sooner that the street extension was to cross a piece of land owned by Thomas Kaneb and Son, of which Mayor Kaneb is director and president.

The mayor declared his interest in the west Cornwall property Sept. 25 but the motion censuring him suggested that the street extension discussion has been going on since February, 1961.

The mayor told a council meeting earlier this month that he had no knowledge of the course of the extension prior to drafting of final plans and expropriation measures in August and early September. He said he learned the street was to cross the property owned by Thomas Kaneb and Son Sept. 14 and declared his interests to council soon after.

Ald. Castner said the Ontario Municipal Act requires a member of council to declare his interest in any matter or subject when it is approved by council.

Civic Leaders and Labor Groups in Windsor Press For More Govt. Action

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Civic officials and labor groups in this industrial city hard hit by unemployment are pressing for action by government or private enterprise to help get it into plants and manpower back into action.

Only last week a motorcade of hundreds of Windsor auto workers made the 250-mile journey to Toronto to petition the Ontario government for legislation to control what they called "runaway industry." Other developments in Windsor during the month have been aimed at a positive approach to encourage reopening of plants here.

In the latter case, the key factor is proposed manufacture in Canada of automatic transmissions, now all imported from the United States. These intricate assemblies now come into Canada duty-free under a federal order-in-council which expires Oct. 31.

Two main suggestions receiving support here have been that the federal government either encourage private manufacture of the units by eliminating the duty-free situation; or that a Crown corporation be set up to manufacture the units in Canada.

MAY RENEW

(In Ottawa a government source said the order-in-council probably would be renewed Oct 31, perhaps with a warning that it would be extended only for a set date. This would encourage Canadian companies to prepare to build automatic transmissions. The source did not consider likely any move to cut off the supply or to try to require Canadians to pay the extra cost of the import. Two per cent import duty before any plans are made for Canadian manufacture.)

The drive for home manufacture of automatic transmissions got its start Oct. 6 in an editorial in the Windsor Star signed by Richard Graydon, the newspaper's general manager. Pointing out that imports of automotive products accounted for almost half of Canada's $982,000,000 foreign trade deficit last year, he contended that home manufacture of automatic transmissions would save almost $50,000,000 a year in foreign exchange — and create employment and foster the development of new skills.

The editorial advocated establishment in Windsor of a Crown corporation for the production under licence of automatic transmissions for all Canadian automobile manufacturers. Setting up of automatic transmission plants by each Canadian manufacturer would only result in higher costs and a smaller total output.

COST 'PROHIBITIVE'

Karl E. Scott, president of Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, said his company's annual volume is "still far short of the level sufficient to ensure an economic automatic transmission plant of our own in Canada."

Mr. Scott said that standardized production in a Crown company would not meet the needs of Canadian manufacturers. "The volume of each of the types of automatic transmissions required by motor cars alone is so limited that a 'common-to-all' crown plant could not provide us with economical transmissions. The inevitable consequence of this proposal . . . would be higher car prices for Canadians."

Ted Douglas, in the Star's automotive column, contended that manufacture of the transmissions in Canada is practical and feasible.

In the U.S. the same type had been developed both for economy cars and higher - priced lines. The column said that in 1961 of 7,854,000 cars built, 5,000,000 were built with an exclusive transmission—"pretty low volume on which to justify an automatic but they do."

DECIDES TO ASK

Mr. Douglas said Windsor city council decided to ask the federal government to encourage privately-financed automatic transmissions or to set up a Crown corporation.

Alderman Lloyd C. Riggs told the council meeting that the Star's editorial had put the emphasis on the industry's responsibility for the development of new methods.

Figures listed in the Star's editorial said an average of 1,000,000 foreign cars are imported annually into Canada. By 1960, latest year for which complete figures are available, employment in the industry had shrunk to 46,691 — a loss of nearly 10,000 jobs.

Since then — cent drop in employment took place despite an increase of 20,000 in the number of new vehicles sold.

Labor Advocates Return To Floating Exchange Rate

OTTAWA (CP)—A return to a floating exchange rate was sought today by the Canadian Labor Congress, party to make certain it is easier for the government to adopt expansionary policies.

The CLC said it fears that the present fixed exchange rate may produce domestic policies adjusted to meet balance-of-payments requirements — policies which at the same time may actually add to unemployment and low growth rates.

In its submission to the royal commission on banking and finance, the 1,000,000 - member congress said the royal commission should reconsider after careful study what policy Canada should have toward the various plans already advocated for greater international liquidity, which the CLC regards as inadequate.

The congress said it was calling for planned, long-term sustained expansion of "social capital."

JOINT INVESTMENT

This meant federal - provincial - municipal investment in slum clearance and urban redevelopment, public development and conservation of resources, housing, hospitals, schools, universities, roads, parks and so on.

This would require a "carefully planned deficit budget." And that, in turn, would mean an expansion of the money supply to pay for the deficit.

"Many people look for granted that financing government deficits by expanding credit will always cause inflation.

"Modern economic theory does not support such an assumption," the congress said.

WANTS CONTROLLED

The CLC also advocated outright control of "near banks."

The CLC said the economic action that it was referring to would be taken by such institutions as instalment finance companies, personal loan companies, trust and loan companies "and others."

These organizations—not subject to any kind of monetary control by the government—are acting as increasingly strong influence on the economy and contribute to the problem of "leakage" in the banks in monetary importance, the CLC said.

New Method To Dispose Of Animals

MONTREAL (CP) — Tom Hughes, general manager of the Ontario Humane Society and the Ontario Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, has asked for a country-wide reform in methods of animal killing.

Mr. Hughes, of the Animal Protection League, a newly-formed Montreal group, he said dogs and cats would be killed more quickly for present methods of killing pets.

He has studied nation-wide acceptance of a portable electrocution box which has been approved by the Ontario Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and adopted by the Toronto and Hamilton Humane Societies.

The SPCA 'of Montreal now euthanizes about 70,000 pets a year by gas.

CRASH KILLS SEVEN

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A crew of seven aboard a C-135 U.S. Air Force jet transport was killed Tuesday when the plane crashed while making an approach at Guantanamo Naval Air Station, Cuba.

SIU Members Requested to Abandon Union

MONTREAL (CP)—Members of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.) were urged Tuesday to abandon their union and join the new Canadian Maritime Union (CLC).

The invitation was extended by William Dodge, executive vice - president of the 1,070,000-member Canadian Labor Congress, during testimony before Mr. Justice T. G. Norris who is making a federal inquiry into Great Lakes labor violence and shipping disruptions.

"If members of the Seafarers International Union wish to have a democratic organization, the Canadian Maritime Union is there for their benefit," said Mr. Dodge.

The CMU was formed by the CLC last year as a rival seamen's union to the SIU, which the CLC had expelled in 1960 for raiding.

The struggle between the two unions has been stepped into a violent battle, marked by beatings and intimidation as well as shipping disruptions.

BLAMES SIU

Mr. Dodge blamed the SIU for "deliberate provocation, organized beatings and muggins" and described SIU President H. Hall Banks both for economy person to head a trade union.

He made his remarks under questioning by CLC counsel Joseph Nuss, who complained frequently that Mr. Dodge was reading from prepared speeches instead of answering questions.

"Mr. Banks is right — we would destroy it if we can."

Mr. Dodge said the CLC will not have a formal policy aimed at destroying the SIU.

The labor committee by SIU counsel Nuss, the labor leader said he had met Jack Leitch, president of Upper Lakes Shipping Limited, for lunch to discuss problems stemming from the SIU-CMU conflict.

Asked if he had ever received any money from the upper lakes company, Mr. Dodge snapped:

"No, not a cent."

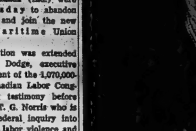
RUSSIA WILL RETREAT

EDMONTON (CP) — Russia will go to the extreme of bluff and blackmail but retreat at the threat of war, says Maj.-Gen. Stuart Beddome, Canada's British commandant in West Berlin.

"Of course, if you play with fire you may burn your fingers." he said in an interview here Tuesday. "But the Russians will not risk war. Dangers of acting are of course manifest."

The Manchester Guardian said that in imposing the blockade the U.S. "played into Soviet Premier] Khrushchev's hands."



Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany said his country is ready to share all risks arising out of the U.S. stand, he told an interviewer that Mc-Diefenbaker had been preparing for a change in policy for several weeks. The NDP, said Mr. Douglas, will continue to "support nuclear weapons for that country.

CANCEL LEAVE

ISTANBUL (AP) — All leave was reported cancelled today for the Turkish army in the eastern sector—along the border with Russia. Turkey studded with American and NATO missile bases—would be in the vanguard of any military showdown with the Soviet Union. Turkey's armed forces are estimated at about 500,000 men.

TECHNICIANS EN ROUTE

GOOSE BAY, Labrador (CP) — Two Cuba-bound East Germans who identified themselves as technicians landed here today as their Cubana Airways plane stopped for fuel. The two, who declined to give their names, identified themselves as missile technicians, to airport officials in Shannon, Ireland. Their plane was en route from Prague to Havana via Shannon. The German told officials in Shannon: "The money is good, and we don't think there'll be a war anyway."

BIG SPUDS — Mrs. L. E. Leavitt, of Wooler grew these potatoes in her own market garden, and had them on display at the market last Saturday. The four range in weight from two and a half to three pounds each.

Most of World Approves Steps Taken by Kennedy To Stop Buildup of Arms

LONDON (CP)—An anxious world today waited tensely for a Caribbean showdown between the United States and Russia that could come at any time. Armed forces of both countries stood in combat readiness as Soviet vessels were reported approaching Caribbean waters where a circle of United States navy ships cruised outside Cuba, ready to stop and search all vessels trying to reach the island.

The British government called the blockade a "provocative move, an unheard of violation of international law" and a challenge to all peace-loving nations."

But Britain's Foreign Secretary Lord Home said the U.S. was "right to let the world see plainly what is being done by the Communists under their noses."

The British cabinet expressed "deep concern at the progressive action of the Soviet Union in placing offensive weapons in Cuba."

MISSILES 'OFFENSIVE'

The London Times said Russian missiles in Cuba were "offensive", and that President Kennedy's position in the U.S. "would have foundered" if he had not acted. "Dangers of acting are of course manifest," the Manchester Guardian said that in imposing the blockade the U.S. "played into Soviet Premier] Khrushchev's hands."

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany said his country is ready to share all risks arising out of the U.S. stand, he told an interviewer that Mc-Diefenbaker had been preparing for a change in policy for several weeks. Kingston MP Wants Change in Income Tax Law

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator Wallace McCutcheon's "intimate knowledge" about plugging tax loopholes did not benefit the Finance Minister Nowlan, it was suggested Tuesday night in the Commons.

E. J. Benson (L—Kingston), a chartered accountant making his maiden address in the Commons, suggested the senator, minister without portfolio, could thus assist Mr. Nowlan from knowledge gained by association with numerous companies before his appointment.

But Mr. Benson questioned whether Mr. Nowlan would have lasted long as a treasurer of one of the McCutcheon companies if he had carried out there his action in the Commons of refusing the normal discussion of the government's new budget.

Mr. Benson referred to the fact that the normal six-day debate on the April 10 budget has not occurred. In its place the government is offering a general economic discussion based on the 10 per cent across-the-board budget resolutions.

"Military base with a destructive potential unequalled by any known Communist base outside itself."

SOME ASPECTS PUZZLING

In the light of this bold and unexpected initiative of the security territory thousands of miles from Russia, the Kennedy administration is reconsidering its assessing Soviet strategy, not only toward the western hemisphere but in the global scale.

There are several puzzling aspects to the Soviet action. One is that Washington and the Kremlin must have known that the presence of missiles in Cuba would be discovered sooner or once.

The Soviet government, furthermore, had given public and private assurances that the buildup was only for defensive purposes. It had boasted publicly the Soviet Union did not need missile bases outside its own territory to reach any target in the world, including the United States. U.S. officials took that statement at its face value.

Still another consideration is that Soviet leaders knew Cuba is bitterly disliked by many Western-allied country because of its openness to the United States. It is assumed that they expected a strong reaction from Washington but they may have been surprised by the speed and decisiveness of Kennedy's move in ordering a blockade to stem the offensive arms flow.

Some of the best informed officials say privately it is difficult to make sense out of the Soviet behavior on the assumption that Premier Khrushchev would risk war as has often said —to achieve his goals in the world short of nuclear war.

MANY THEORIES HELD

Various theories are coming into speculation, but without much confident conviction on the part of those who advance them.

One speculation is that the Russians were preparing to launch a policy of nuclear blackmail against Latin American countries, threatening them with destruction to gain political ends and hoping at the same time to stop any retaliatory action from the United States against Cuba rather than the Soviet Union itself.

Another theory holds that the Soviet Union was merely planning to use the nuclear threat from Cuba to try to compel the United States to dismantle its rocket bases near Russia.

Still another speculation is that the Russians may have made their Cuban move in connection with some larger strategy of pressure to try to force the Western powers out of West Berlin.

Whatever the purposes, a central fact of the Soviet action in Cuba is that it has increased power in the western hemisphere has been enhanced at the cost of putting the world closer to the brink of nuclear war.

Soft-Spoken Widow Had to Repeat Evidence

WALKERTON, Ont. (CP)—Mrs. Justice W. B. Parker Thursday ordered a soft - spoken widow in black to return to the witness box and recall evidence for more than an hour after two jurors had asked the coroner to hear her two hours of previous testimony.

Mrs. Virginia Henry, 21, was testifying at the non - capital murder trial of her brother-in-law Kenneth Neal Reed, charged with fatally stabbing her husband, Lawrence, 24, after a drinking bout Aug. 5.

The jurors complained after the break for lunch that they were unable to hear all the testimony given during the first part of the trial yesterday when Mr. Justice Parker had repeatedly asked Mrs. Henry to raise her voice.

Mr. Justice Parker criticized the jurors and reminded them that he asked them at the outset of the trial to signify if they were unable to hear a witness.

Mrs. Henry raised her head, her husband and his brother sometimes fought, and testified that when she went to investigate the source of the screams, she found her husband lying on a highway.

"There was blood on his clothes and skin and a hole in his stomach," she testified.

She said Kenneth was standing over her husband with a knife in his hand which he later put into his pocket.

"You stabbed him," she said she told her brother-in-law. She said he replied: "That's why no one should fight with me."

Mrs. Henry said Kenneth and friends later helped carry her husband to his home, where he was placed on a bed. He died the next day.

The trial continues.

CREW ESCAPES

CUXHAVEN, West Germany (Reuters)—A crew of 25 escaped unhurt when the 1,396-ton Swedish freighter Ring sank after a collision in thick fog on the River Elbe Tuesday night, river police reported.

Installation of Missiles By Russians in Cuba Caught U.S. by Surprise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia's installation of nuclear missiles in Cuba caught U.S. experts by surprise and destroyed —almost overnight—their carefully constructed image of Moscow-aided country because of its progress in the United States.

It is assumed that they expected a strong reaction from Washington but they may have been surprised by the speed and decisiveness of Kennedy's move in ordering a blockade to stem the offensive arms flow.

Some of the best informed officials say privately it is difficult to make sense out of the Soviet behavior on the assumption that Premier Khrushchev would risk war as has often said —to achieve his goals in the world short of nuclear war.

MANY THEORIES HELD

Cuban Crisis Takes Heat Off Domestic Political Issue

OTTAWA (CP)—For the moment, the gravity of the Cuban crisis and any subsequent ones that may develop, have overtaken the heat off the domestic political situation.

Political observers here consider it unlikely that any serious change will take place in the political climate in Canada while there is so imminent a threat of nuclear war.

They believe that the tendency among the four political parties in Parliament, where no one group controls a majority of its, will be to move closer together in the face of this threat.

Even the most partisan observers will take second thoughts about possible courses of action in Parliament that might lead to another election at a time of international crisis.

In effect, the Cuban crisis and the possibilities of a serious crisis over Berlin will act as a damper to keep the country supported without running into the danger of appearing to endorse further brake on the three opposition groups — Liberals, Social Credit and New Democrats.

Liberal Leader Pearson has that may prove to be the most restrained at an early election.

To date he has been frustrated by Social Credit Leader Thompson leading the 30 Social Credit members into support of political issues that embarrassive government supporters.

In most cases, the 19 New Democrats have voted with the 100 Liberals against the Progressive Conservatives and Social Credit.

The chances of this voting pattern changing are not for long become increasingly difficult. Social Credit finds itself in the role of a force for government in the June 18 election yet voting to keep it in power.

And if pressure continues to only so far in shaving its progress to keep the Conservatives support without running into the danger of appearing to endorse the ideas of its political foes.

Diefenbaker Reaction to Cuba May Give Opposition Ammunition

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker's initial reaction to American allegations of a strategic threat in Cuba may have afforded new ammunition for the opposition.

In his first comments on the United States quarantine of Cuba to prevent its receipt of offensive weapons, Mr. Diefenbaker proposed that an eight-nation team go to Cuba under United Nations auspices "to assure itself what the facts are."

This seemed, in effect, to be doubting President Kennedy's word that offensive arms had been placed in Cuba by the Russians.

The Prime Minister gave weight to this view Tuesday by saying, "lest there be any doubt about my meaning" in his first statement, "I was not," of course, casting any doubts on the facts of the situation as outlined by the president of the United States in his television address."

However, having made himself clear, Mr. Diefenbaker isn't likely to escape opposition accusations that his original comment was ill-considered and did, in fact, cause some people to misunderstand the Canadian government belief that Kennedy or whether it was kept as up-to-date as it should be by its American allies.

And if the government attempts to use the statement of caution for any UN move to send a team of observers to Cuba it is likely to arouse opposition wrath on another score.

Opposition sources said if such a move became known as the "Canadian proposal" when it came before the United Nations. It would appear to repeat the initial impression that Canada would not back her neighbor and ally and at the same time fail to recruit support from nations not aligned with either bloc but not specially friendly to the U.S.

Foreign affairs experts among the opposition groups argue that a proposal for on-site inspection in Cuba would have greater chance of success if it came from the U.S., which has everything to lose if inspection proves Mr. Kennedy wrong.

Unemployment Insurance Questions and Answers

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers, received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point, do not hesitate to send us your question. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you.

Q. If a person is receiving Workmen's Compensation benefits for three or five weeks, does he have the right to UIC benefits?

A. One of the essential requirements for the receipt of benefit is proof that a claimant is capable of and available for work. Receipt of total temporary Workmen's Compensation suggests that a person is unable to meet these requirements and even if these conditions are fulfilled the amount of compensation would be taken into consideration each week in determining the amount of unemployment insurance benefit which could be paid. The information provided is too limited to give a definite answer and you should, therefore, consult your local office.

Q. As a salesman I am employed on a straight commission basis. May I contribute to unemployment insurance?

A. Yes, if the terms and conditions of your employment are such that you are an employee not an independent agent, that you are not principally dependent for your livelihood on some other occupation, and that your earnings after deducting the expenses incurred to obtain them, are not over $5,460 a year. You should supply the local office with details and obtain a ruling in writing.

Q. I would like to know if a man who is married but separated from his wife by a court order which requires him to pay alimony can receive full benefits if he does not pay this alimony. In other words, can he receive full benefits if he says he is married while he should in reality be considered as a single person? Should his wife report him or is this situation all right?

A. To be entitled to the dependency rate of benefit a man must prove that he is wholly or mainly maintaining his dependent. Under the circumstances described he would not therefore, be entitled to the dependency rate for his wife and the correct information should be reported to the local office where he has made his claim for unemployment insurance benefit.

Q. I have always worked full-time but now I am ill. My doctor says I can only work a few hours each day. I don't feel equal to working more than that and the employment office says they haven't any part-time work that I could do. Can I draw benefits until I find something suitable?

A. To be entitled to unemployment insurance benefit a person must be unemployed, ready, willing and able to accept suitable employment. A person who, because of reason of ill health, is capable of working only under such conditions that there is no reasonable opportunity of employment, cannot meet these requirements.

Q. I left my last job and now wish to work only part-time. I am told, however, that I am not available for work. How can that be true when I want part-time work?

A. To be entitled to unemployment insurance benefit a person must be unemployed, ready, willing and able to accept suitable employment. This is generally regarded as normal full-time employment and as you are restricting yourself to part-time work, you are apparently unable to meet these requirements.

Q. Is a female school teacher, teaching school during the ten months required by the Department of Education, entitled to benefit during the few months' summer vacation while waiting to resume teaching in the autumn? What procedure must she follow? Also, does a married woman having to teach, who has dependents and whose husband is unemployed due to sickness, enjoy the same privileges as school teacher who is single.

A. In addition to meeting the normal requirements for entitlement to benefit, she would have to prove that she was genuinely unemployed during the school vacation period and had not been placed on holidays with pay by her employer. To make a claim for benefit she should apply to the National Employment Office. Conditions of entitlement to benefits apply to married or single women in the same manner.

Q. The Unemployment Insurance Commission has advised that I must repay a sum of money representing benefits received to which I was not entitled. What happens if I refuse to pay?

A. The Commission may use either garnishment procedure whereby your employer must pay a part of your wages toward the debt, or secure an Exchequer Court judgment. The latter is enforced by the sheriff and involves the seizure and sale of assets.

Q. What happens to an employer who refuses to honor a garnishee notice involving a particular employee?

A. The Commission may proceed by way of Exchequer Court against the company to collect the amount due. It is then up to the company to collect from the employee.

1 RESERVOIR FILLED — Water flows through spillways of this earth-fill dam on the Saskatchewan River at Squaw Rapids, backing up an artificial lake that will eventually be 46 miles long and cover 75,000 acres. The dam will provide water for the province's multi-million-dollar hydro-electric project, expected to begin operating next April. (CP Photo).

Engineers Control Entire Flow of Saskatchewan R.

By SCOTT SCHILL

SQUAW RAPIDS, Sask. (CP) — For the first time engineers are controlling the entire flow of the broad Saskatchewan River as it makes its way toward Lake Winnipeg.

The control point is at Squaw Rapids in the wilderness of northeastern Saskatchewan about 100 miles down river from where the North and South Saskatchewan Rivers join.

There the Saskatchewan Power Corporation is constructing a $55,417,000 hydro-electric project that will generate its first power by next April.

Key structure in the river control is a 110-foot-high earth fill dam that stretches 2,370 feet across the river.

The reservoir, which began filling at a rate of a foot a day Sept. 18, will be 46 miles long and cover 75,000 acres. Total storage capacity of the dam will be 1,780,000 acre-feet of water. (One acre-foot is 271,322 gallons.)

The power plant, three miles down from the dam, will generate 201,000 kilowatts, or 1,000,000,000 kilowatt-hours annually.

DAM NEARLY COMPLETE

The dam itself, containing 2,000,000 cubic yards of material, is complete except for dikes and a six - foot layer of earth to go on top.

At the south end of the dam is a concrete spillway 282 feet wide. It contains five portals that allowed the river to flow during construction. Four portals have been permanently sealed and the fifth allows only a flow of 500 cubic feet a second.

The level of the reservoir is rising but at a rate less than the original foot a day. The minimum operating level is expected to be reached with next spring's runoff.

Downstream flow after that will be controlled by five steel gates, each 30 feet high and 40 feet wide, capable of discharging 120,000 cubic feet of water a second.

Water will run from the reservoir through a canal just northeast of the spillway to the power plant three miles away. It will enter the power plant through eight steel - lined concrete tubes, six of which are in place with work proceeding on the other two.

WORK THROUGH WINTER

The power station building has been completed. The first generating unit is being installed and five more will be put in during the winter. Two other units will go into operation in 1964.

Power will be carried by two 230,000-volt steel transmission lines, one linking Squaw Rapids with a sub - station at Beatty, Sask., for the northern Saskatchewan power grid, the other to the Queen Elizabeth thermal power station in Saskatoon.

About 150 sections (96,000 acres) of land taken for the project were privately owned and another 55 sections were Crown-owned. All but six quarter-sections has been acquired by the corporation, which expects no trouble in settling with the owners.

In all, 100 families were affected, most of them already located in the same general area. They received an average of $53 an acre.

After the land was acquired, teams of men scoured the region filling in wells, dugouts and basements. Fences had to be torn down and removed, buildings taken away, power and telephone lines shifted and sawdust piles left from lumbering operations destroyed. The sawdust would have clogged the gills of fish and that will be planted.

SET BIG FIRE

All marketable timber was cut and hauled out and the rest of the reservoir area levelled by bulldozers. The debris then was burned in the province's biggest planned fire.

Contract for the power plant was let to Perini (Quebec) Limited and the contract for the dam and spillway went to Manix and Associates Limited.

The corporation has let 270 individual contracts for construction and supplies at the site, which had 1,700 employees at the peak. Manix has the largest contract, worth $14,700,000. Perini's is $10,000,000.

Wearing Hat That's Illegal Says Official

WINNIPEG (CP) — Alderman Lillian Hallonquist drew a round of compliments at City Hall for her new hat. Even men smiled their approval for the creation, made of soft caribou hide with beaded embroidery and a cockade of silky pelican feathers.

Mrs. Hallonquist was delighted "because the men are always teasing me about my hats."

Later, the Indian affairs department and wildlife officials got wind of the hat. They said the plumage was illegal — it's against the law to hunt pelicans anywhere in Canada, the United States or Mexico.

Mrs. Hallonquist bought the hat at a handicrafts display at the Indian and Metis friendship centre. An Indian woman in northern Manitoba was the maker.

Mrs. Hallonquist says she's going to keep wearing it until somebody tells her to stop.

"I bought it because I loved it," she said. "I don't know what all the fuss is about."

Says Hollywood One of Causes Of Communism

ODAWARA, Japan (AP) — Kathe Green, 18 - year - old daughter of American conductor Johnny Green, said today Hollywood is one of the causes of communism.

She told the Moral Re-Armament Asian assembly "our films demoralize the youth of the world with their sex, violence, hate, greed and fear. . . It's wrong because that's exactly what causes communism."

Miss Green said it is a Communist objective to take over California in two years and that Hollywood is one of the "big creators of communism because of the way we live."

She told the audience of delegates from 41 countries that she "apologized from the deepest part of my heart for the degradation and filth we bring to you from Hollywood."

The girl's father won an academy award for his conducting of the music for the film West Side Story.

Futures for the Quiz Kids, Popular Panel Show of 20 Years Ago, Not Materialized

By PATRICIA BUSAK

TORONTO (CP)—Radio listeners of 20 years ago who predicted spectacular futures for the Quiz Kids are likely to be disappointed when they hear what one of the originals has to say.

"As far as I know, most of them just led normal lives," says Joan Bishop, who appeared on the first Quiz Kids program in Chicago prior to 1940, and was on and off for the next three years until she reached the age limit of 16.

Joan, now a professional singer and pianist in New York, still keeps in touch with some of the old regulars—Jack Lucal, a Jesuit priest in Germany; Gerard Darrow, a classical disc-jockey in Washington state; Richard Williams, formerly with the U.S. state department; Cynthia Kline, a housewife and mother of three children.

None of these turned out to be a failure, of course, but nobody did any go on to set the world on fire with his brainpower.

During the show's 12-year run there were about 300 kids on it. However, only a dozen ever became regulars. Joan named them. And while she has gone on to make a career in entertainment, her radio days are best remembered as a Quiz Kid.

NO FORMAL SCHOOLING

Joan, who was in Toronto for a CBC television appearance, recalled that she was attended when asked to appear on the quiz program the first time.

She has been a solo pianist with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, an asset in answering musical questions, but has never had any formal schooling.

"I started studying music when I was five so my parents never enrolled me in public school. But I always read the dictionary and did crossword puzzles just for kicks. And when I went on Quiz Kids, I read the encyclopedia, current magazines and any best-sellers I could get my hands on."

After she left the program she played summer stock in Chicago and sang minor roles with the Chicago Opera Company. When she was 19 she went on a 31,000-mile concert tour, acting as her own accompanist. Later she studied voice in Milan and Rome.

At present she entertains in New York hotels, mainly with classical and show tunes.

Joan says that unlike some recent TV quiz programs, the show appeared to be never rehearsed. However, when the Quiz Kids appeared on the Jack Benny show against Jack's regulars, "the script had it so the Benny cast always won," she said. "They gave Dennis Day 50 points just for knowing his name."

She feels the Quiz Kids idea would be a good one to revive, particularly for a grown-up audience. "The show appealed to adults more than to children," she says. "In fact, most kids hated us because we were so smart."

FEDERAL SPENDING CUT — Finance Minister Nowlan has sliced $327,997,004 from federal government's basic spending program for the 1962-63 fiscal year.

He announced in the Commons Thursday the government, as part of its austerity program, had revised its estimated expenditures down to $6,643,311,560. In main estimates March 12 spending had been calculated at a record $6,976,311,560.

Graph shows trend in federal budgetary spending as given annually in main estimates and includes Thursday's revision. Old age pensions and supplementary expenditures are not in these totals. (CP Newsmap).

Bonarlaw

BONARLAW — Miss Beverley McKeown returned to Windsor on Wednesday, having spent the past two weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. McKeown and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cronkwright and friends.

Mrs. W. J. Barlow, Mrs. C. L. McKeown and Miss Beverley McKeown visited Mr. and Mrs. H. Rowe of Cobourg, on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Hick spent some time with friends at Midland.

Sympathy is extended to the family of the late Dave Cotton, who passed away in the Belleville General Hospital on Wednesday. The late Mr. and Mrs. Cotton lived on their farm at Harold for many years.

The Bishop of Ontario has appointed the Rev. Robert Stewart, B.A., L.Th., to be rector of the parish of Marmora, Bonarlaw and St. Thomas, Newburn. Mr. Stewart comes from the Diocese of New Westminster. He is married and has two children. He will begin his ministry on November 1st.

Visitors from this vicinity attended the funeral of Mr. Dave Cotton on Friday, at Stirling.

Mrs. Albert Reid is spending some time visiting her sister, Mrs. Colin Anderson at Canborough.

Mrs. M. Cassidy and Beth Cassidy visited Mr. and Mrs. Andy Frola at Peterborough.

Mr. R. Herrington is a patient in Peterborough Civic Hospital suffering from a heart condition, where he was taken Thursday.

Mr. Robt. Scarlett is a patient in Belleville hospital, where his condition remains unchanged.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Laton, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Laton visited Mrs. Lalonde of Picton, who returned from hospital following surgery.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry McAdam and Betty of Mount Pleasant spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. Burkitt.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gilbert, Toronto, spent the weekend at their farm, Bonarlaw.

Mr. Ward Leury is remodelling St. Mark's Church kitchen.

Pro-Communist Calls Berlin Wall 'Ugly'

BOMBAY (CP) — The Berlin wall has been described as "monstrous" and "ugly" by an Indian pro - Communist Indian journalist who has just returned from a tour of the two German.

Editor Acharya Atre's strong criticism of the wall has come as a shock to Indian Communist leaders since he has been one of the main non-party backers of the Red movement in India. He is a member of the Maharashtra State Legislature.

After seeing the wall from both sides Atre, a winner of many awards for his writings and films, wrote in his Marathi-language daily Maratha:

"This crooked wall is 'not higher than four or five feet at places and is covered with glass pieces and barbed wire. It appeared to me as the ugliest thing one can set his eyes upon. The fact that the houses in East Berlin which are close to the wall have their windows barred with bricks denotes the anxiety of those respohsible for the Eastern regime to hide what is ugly."

Atre wrote that he found West Germany prosperous and busy while East Germany gave one the feeling of "desolation" in many parts.

TURNS TOURIST — Sgt. L. P. Dopp of Tresson, Ont., serving with the RCAF contingent to the United Nations Emergency Force in Egypt, turns tourist as he rides a camel within sight of the Pyramids. There are about 800 Canadian soldiers and 90 Canadian airmen serving with the force, established in 1956 to patrol the desert border between Egypt and Israel. (CP from National Defence).

Canadians Still Patrolling Desert Between Israel, Egypt for United Nations

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—Six years after the Suez crisis—the Anglo-French attack on Egypt following the Israeli invasion of Egypt—Canadians still patrol the desert border between Israel and Egypt for the United Nations.

There is not even an inkling that this task is near completion, or, indeed, whether it will ever be finished. Egypt, on whose territory the 5,300 - man UN Emergency Force operates, appears content with the thin blue-and-white (UN colors) line of protection.

Establishment of UNEF was proposed by Canada in the fall of 1956 as a means to keep Israel and Egypt apart and to allow Britain and France to withdraw their forces which, they said, had gone in to protect the Suez Canal. Liberal Leader Pearson, then external affairs minister, won the Nobel Prize for Peace for his efforts in creation of UNEF.

KEEP CANADIANS BUSY.

There now are approximately 890 Canadian soldiers and 90 Canadian airmen in UNEF — roughly the original number contributed by Canada — doing desert patrols, handling signals, transporting personnel, fixing vehicles and the like. They serve one year in the Middle East.

The reconnaissance squadron of the Royal Canadian Dragoons has had the dusty end of the business for nearly the last year, keeping watch among the sand dunes for any incident along the border.

Canadians also comprise the UNEF engineer company, the 56th signals squadron, No. 56 transport company, the UNEF ordnance company and infantry workshop. Other Canadian corps represented in UNEF are the medical, dental, pay, provost and postal.

Outside the armored unit of the Royal Canadian Dragoons, the Canadians basically do the housekeeping for the entire international force.

CANADIAN PLANES

The RCAF unit operates three Caribou and two Otter transport planes on transport and reconnaisance duties.

The Caribou transport UN personnel between El Arish, the main air base, and Beirut, Lebanon (the UN leave centre), Sharm El Sheik, most southerly UN post on the Gulf of Aqaba, Cairo, Jerusalem and Gaza Strip.

The Otters carry observers who make reconnaissances along the Israel-Egypt frontier to supplement the ground patrol.

The Canadian contingent is supported by the RCAF which flies cargo and personnel between Pisa, Italy, and El Arish in the Gaza Strip.

STIRLING

IOOF Lists New Officers

STIRLING — District Deputy Grand Patriarch Charles Anderson, Trenton and his installing team paid their official visit to the Stirling Encampment No. 80 IOOF on Wednesday evening in the Oddfellows' Hall, Charlotte Street, Stirling and installed the new officers. At the close of the impressive service several spoke briefly. The closing of lodge was followed by the serving of refreshments and a social half hour.

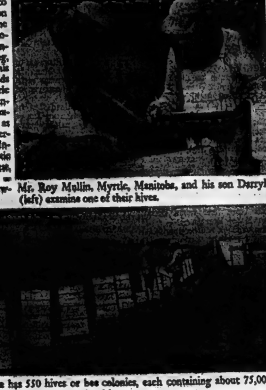
Western Canadian Apiculture in Clover

Prairie Honey – Growing Beehive of Industry

Hard-working bees busy producing one of mankind's oldest known foods — honey, unchanged since the dawn of history thousands of years ago.



Canada's busiest bees are buzzing across the three Prairie Provinces. The fields and forests reaching from Alberta's foothills to eastern Manitoba's dense bushland have been known for decades as a rich world granary and beefcattle range, have more recently become equally famous for mixed-agricultural wealth and other, more varied types of farming. Now the prairies can lay claim to another title of plenty — a land flowing with oil and honey. As in the black liquid gold of the oil wells, so Alberta also leads in producing the golden liquid of the bee — last year becoming Canada's top honey-producing province. Across the prairies more than 4,000 western beekeepers have boosted their combined honey production more than 30 per cent in recent years to an annual crop of 20 million pounds — two-thirds of the national total. Increased production is due to better management, modern processing, a growing demand for this staple food of the Druids and Aesirnes of pre-historic times. High quality of Canadian honey leads to its exports to such countries as Britain, Poland, West Germany, Greece, the West Indies, source rising domestic sales of mankind's oldest, most-fabled health food — the nectar of nature in flowery full bloom.

Liquid and granulated honey is packed in processing room of Manitoba Co-op. Honey Producers plant in Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Mr. Roy Mullin, Myrtle, Manitoba, and his son Darryl (left) examine one of their hives.

Store-room temperature of 58 degrees enables honey to be kept indefinitely — at least several years.

This apiary in Manitoba has 550 hives or bee colonies, each containing about 75,000 bees. Each hive produces about 160 pounds of honey.

Liquid honey is examined for quality as it passes through equipment that processes and packs 4,000 pounds of honey per hour.

INOCULATE FOR FLU

TORONTO (CP)—Mass inoculation began Tuesday of 2,400 garment workers as a result of medical warnings of a possible Asian flue epidemic this winter. The program is being sponsored by the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union (CLC) which has employed a doctor and a nurse team to travel from factory to factory.

Sister Says Brother Shows Improvement

PICTON — Terry Hedges, badly burned in a flash fire at the Bakelite plant in Belleville last week, remains in critical condition but seems to be progressing slowly, according to his sister, Molly Hedges, of Picton, after visiting him last week in Toronto General Hospital's Burnside Wing, she reports him quite cheerful and eating well. The second and third degree burns he received to the entire upper part of his body have made him very susceptible to infection. He jokes about his appearance, saying he will not need a mask for Hallowe'en. Of the accident, Terry recalls it was like being hit by a flame thrower. He remembers diving into a mud puddle immediately after the blast to extinguish the flames that made him a human torch.

"Springlift" Heel Could Aid Many Classes of Pedestrians

By HAROLD TILLEY
Canadian Press Correspondent

SYDNEY, Australia (CP) — Pedestrians should find the going easier with an invention that puts spring into every stride.

It is a shoe or boot heel that looks like a normal leather heel but really is of rubber with steel springs built into it.

The effect is a heel that offers more resistance than rubber alone, absorbs the first impact of the thump of a man's shoe on the sidewalk surface and triggers off a "kick" to the next step.

As soon as the device, invented by Grant McDonagh, of Sydney's barber - side sporting suburb of Manly, became known to medical and surgical circles of Sydney Hospital, all appeared agreed that the "springlift" heel could be of great value to sufferers from foot injuries or ailments and possibly to arthritic patients.

Several dozen pairs of heels were given to an organization specializing in help for amputees and otherwise crippled people. Days after the first parcel had been put into commission a request came for a repeat supply.

McDonagh says he can see no reason why the heel may not be all right for civilians but that with design and spring tension modifications the heel can serve the needs of the ailing as readily as those of the well and fit.

HELP POSTMEN

He hopes, however, that he'll be able to market the heel for general use. Greatest benefit from the heel is expected to be derived by men who must walk in their work—postmen, collectors, meter readers, canvassers, salesmen and the like.

McDonagh says he has covered 50 miles in a day with little effort with the heel.

He added breezily: "You can ride along at three miles an hour; cruise in comfort at four to five miles an hour; accelerate to six miles an hour and, if you're really in a hurry, reach a top speed of more than eight miles an hour—and keep it going."

A pair of heels costs $2.50. Weight is about two-thirds that of normal heels.

Army veterans who served in wars where footslogging was a feature of infantry training and service say the spring heel may could hardly be expected to win form who wanted to walk fewer popularity among men in uni-imiles in a day, not more.

Pinch Hitting

By Garry Alexander

With Junior beginning to think about his Christmas list, the Yankees counting their World Series loot and the Good Ship Argo once again disappearing into Davy Jones' Locker, that wonderful world of hockey has arrived all across the nation.

On the National front the only change appears to be the "new life" Detroit Red Wings.

Here in the Quinte City, it's a different story, however. Gone are the Pepsi's, the Macs, the Industrial League and a number of local players so familiar to Belleville fandom.

Replacing the "old look" is a City Hockey League that should prove popular as in former years, a pee-wee green junior club, yet-unnamed, new coaches, old veterans, with their skates on once again, and the return of a local youngster who should liven up the junior picture.

The Booster Club has taken over Belleville's entry in the OHA Eastern Junior League, after H. J. McFarland withdrew his support.

Under the presidency of ex-coach Gordie Bell, the Boosters hoped to get financial support from the Chicago Black Hawks. It appears now that they will not, but the club workers are going ahead with what they have in an attempt to keep hockey at its junior level alive here.

Don Barclay is the new coach and Mel Richards has been named manager. The initial workout last Sunday saw four returnees, forward Gary Duvall and defencemen Paul Zakos, Ted Rowland and Gary Reid, practicing with some 30 other young hopefuls.

One bright spot, although a disappointment on the other hand, was the returning of Stu Muirhead from the Peterborough Junior "A" squad.

Stu has played "A" with the Petes for two years and his many friends here thought this might be the year when he would develop into a top-flight scoring star with the Petes.

Muirhead practiced with the local juniors Sunday and says the Petes assured him that he would be freed to play here.

Stu is a good, young athlete, and he could not hide the disappointment when he told this reporter, "they got a young fellow up there, just turned 16, who they figure will be really good in a year or so. It was him or me and I guess they decided on him because of his age."

Muirhead had nothing bad to say against either the Petes or the parent Montreal Canadiens and we know he will give all he's got with the locals. He adds much-needed experience to a club that looks like it will need just that.

Meanwhile, four City League teams with such well-known names as Floyd Crawford, Dave Jones, Don Barclay, Eddie Marineau, "Pinter" Brown, "Shaker" Baker, Ron Hull, Bob Taylor, Duke Dornan and many others in their lineups, have been practicing for a Nov. 7 opening.

Balance will be the secret of success for the loop. If the teams, Pepsi's, Trudeau Motors, Joyce-Rollins and Welbanks Motors, display even competition, there is no reason why the league will not go over in a big way.

The teams will play Wednesday night double-headers with an admission price of 50c for adults and 25c for children. We understand that the Juniors are also thinking of lowering their prices to this same level for their Friday night games too. It looks like a good year for Joe Fan's wallet.

Belleville saw four local players: Moe Hunter, Larry Mavety, Gary Goyer and Bill Moxon, leave town this past week for another hockey front.

The foursome are lining up with Timmins in the Northern Senior "A" league. The club has also been after Floyd Crawford as playing coach, but we understand Floyd will stay here and play in the City League as long as he has steady employment.

It seems strange, does it not, to see our local players being "imported" out of town to play Senior "A" hockey, when just a few years back we had to bring players from all over the nation to form a team here?

There were few players in the district even given a chance at Senior "A" in those days, yet now they come from miles around to pick off Belleville boys.

And, of course, there is the Belleville Minor Hockey Association, back bigger and better than ever, Bobby Hull, with the Black Hawks; Gerry Goyer, with the Portland Buckaroos; Cesare Maniago and "Red" Berenson with the Canadiens, and Denny Hull with St. Catharines.

It looks like Belleville hockey fans will find something of their liking to kick up their heels about somewhere along the line.

Wild Stick Duel In Habs, Hawks Tie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A gambit introduced to the National Hockey League by Chicago coach Rudy Pilous a couple of years ago was used against the Black Hawks Tuesday night in 4-4 tie with Montreal Canadiens in Chicago.

Chicago had a 1-0 lead in the first period with the play deep in Montreal territory. Referee Frank Udvari called a delayed penalty on right - winger Murray Balfour of the Hawks.

The Canadiens started up the ice followed by goaltender Cesare Maniago, who skated to the bench to give Montreal an extra forward.

Maniago — subbing for-ailing Jacques Plante — sat on the bench and watched as Claude Provost banged in the equalizer.

The rule on a delayed penalty is that play continues until a member of the penalized team makes contact with the puck.

Left - winger Ab McDonald, a former Montreal player, starred in Tuesday's game chalking up two first period goals and then setting up the lead for the second time at 14:04.

Montreal's lanky centre Jean Beliveau tipped in Bernie Geoffrion's hard shot from the point a minute later to tie the score at 2-2.

Phil Goyette gave the Habs their first lead in the game at 11:17 of the second period as the Hawks came back 23 seconds later when Stan Mikita tied it up.

Centre Bill Hay put the Hawks in front for the third time when he lobbed a backhander over the prostrate Maniago at 13:15.

Ted Lindsay, Glenn Hall and Montreal's Gilles Tremblay received the first match penalties handed out in the NHL this season when they engaged in a wild stick duel at 13:33 of the second.

Fleming landed the only real slash, opening a cut on Tremblay's forehead that required 35 stitches.

Both players were ejected from the game and received an automatic $100 fine.

Because Fleming drew blood, the Hawks had to play short-handed for 10 minutes, the Canadiens only five.

Doug Marshall scored the final goal of the game at 7:48 in the third period giving Montreal the 4-4 tie.

Says Tillsonburg Juniors

Like B Team More Than A Money

TILLSONBURG, Ont. (CP)—President Bob Reid of Tillsonburg Mavericks insisted Tuesday night that personal ties rather than money influenced the decisions of four players to play for the Local Ontario Hockey Association Junior B team instead of OHA Junior A Guelph Royals.

Reid said Trevor and Gus Fabry, Jim Kennedy and Dan Mahoney "told us they would rather play hockey in Tillsonburg," adding that a price war with Guelph isn't involved.

All four played for Tillsonburg Mavericks last year and turned out for Guelph Royals this year. Three of them signed A cards and then returned here where, it was later revealed, they had signed B cards earlier.

The OHA has called upon Tillsonburg to present its case Nov. 2.

SENT BY NEW YORK

They were sent here originally by New York Rangers of the National Hockey League. Rangers, who sponsor the Guelph team, have broken their ties with Tillsonburg.

Reid was commenting on a statement made at a Junior A council meeting Monday night by Lou Passador, manager of the Guelph team.

Passador complained that in some in some instances Junior B players are making more money than the $60 weekly salary limit permitted Junior A players by the council.

Reid said some players may be making more than $60, but it is not the hockey club, although there is no regulation to prevent a Junior B team from paying a player $1,000 weekly if it can afford to do so.

WANT TO FINISH

He said Gus Fabry and Mahoney "want to finish their education here, while Trevor Fabry and Kennedy are employed here in Tillsonburg and we do not feel that we have done any moral wrong."

Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard of Montreal moved into sole possession of first place in the National Hockey League's individual scoring race when he picked up an assist in Canadiens' 4-4 tie against the Black Hawks in Chicago Tuesday night.

The Pocket has five goals—a lope in the league—and five assists for a 10-point total.

Two other Canadiens, Claude Provost and Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, each picked up a point to move one rung up the scoring ladder.

They join Johnny Bucyk of Boston Bruins and Alex Delvecchio of Detroit Red Wings in a fourth-place tie with seven-point totals.

Cliff Pennington and Murray Oliver of Boston still hold down second and third spots with nine and eight points respectively.

The leaders:

Richard, Montreal	3	5	10
Pennington, Boston	3	6	9
Oliver, Boston	2	6	8
Bucyk, Boston	3	4	7
Provost, Montreal	4	3	7

VICTORIA (CP)—The experience of a 17-year-old Victoria pitcher in his first fling at professional baseball gives some insight into the reasons New York Yankees always seem to come up with high-class talent.

Lefthander George Hemming, who set a Victoria Senior Amateur League record of 23 strikeouts a few days before being signed by the Yankees, joined Harlan Smokies, a Kentucky farm club in the class D Appalachian League.

Not only did he find a league composed of high school and college bonus players, he discovered that the Yankees have a bonanza of youthful pitching talent for which they provide the best of coaching.

The Yankees had 13 of their young pitchers at Harlan, with the result that Hemming appeared in only five games, was involved in only one decision and picked up a victory in his lone starting assignment.

Among several former pro players working with Harlan pitchers was former Philadelphia and Yankee relief ace Jim Konstanty.

"They didn't try to change our styles but they taught us a lot about pitching," Hemming said. "I learned you can't hurry the ball down the middle. You have to go for the corners."

Hemming will attend the Yankees' farm clubs spring training camp in Florida next year.

TORONTO (CP) — Level Streak won the featured Cordovian purse at Old Woodbine Tuesday, under jockey Harlon Dalton.

Level Streak drew away to win by two lengths from Janet Yates, which finished a neck in front of Chilly Filly.

Moon Step in the first race drew to a head and went victory over joint favorites, Flying Lass and Sassie Maid. Moon Step combined with Follow the Sun, which won the second, for a daily double return of $100.

Centre Forbes Kennedy of Edmonton Flyers scored once Tuesday night as the Flyers went down 5-4 to San Francisco Seals and increased his lead in the Western Hockey League's scoring department to 11 points.

Ed Panagabko, who scored once for the Seals, moved into a three-way tie for second spot with Ed Johnson of Calgary Stampeders and Phil Maloney of Vancouver Canucks.

Veteran winger Nick Mickoski got two goals and two assists to lead the Seals, tied for second place in the Southern Division, before 1,000 fans at Edmonton. Other San Francisco scorers were Duke Edmundson and Ray Cyr.

Other scorers for Flyers were Chuck Holmes, with two goals, and Don Cain. The Flyers are in second spot in the Northern Division.

Duke of Decatur, one of 45 horses dispersed at the sales by Adrien and Gerrard Miron, St. Augustus, Que., brought $20,500. Bucky North went for $12,500, Adios Tom which finished fourth in the Glory Stakes, brought $12,200 and In Haste $12,000.

Royals Have New Look

GUELPH (CP)—Guelph Royals break from the barrier in the OHA Junior A race Thursday night in Hamilton with a combination of old and new faces.

They have a new look in the front office where former Canadiens scout, Sam Pollock succeeded the late Jack Humphreys as general manager and chief scout. Lou Passador of Rangers, and, they will have a behind the bench where Frank Mahovlich, former Guelph Junior and OHA Senior star, has taken over from Emile Francis.

The old look will be provided by eight returning veterans and Bob Plager, the lone holdover defenceman.

Returning from last season's attacking brigade are 35 goal scorer Borden Smith, 20 goal man Billy Taylor, and sophomores Bob Brown, Oscar Allen, Sandy Fitzpatrick, John Makins, Leo Marigi and Jean Pierre Lefond.

TO PLAY FORWARD

Additions to the forward lines include Doug Davidson, from Brandon, Man., Gary Sabourin from Rolland River, Ont., Bob Jones from Espanola and Barry Redwood from Fergus.

Plager will be joined on defence by Terry Pembroke, who did some service in Guelph but spent most of the season in Tillsonburg, Len Bazay, a diminutive belter from Cobourg and Gord Kennegeisser from North Bay.

Wayne Hainchwang, a product of the Guelph Minor Hockey Association is slated to start in goal in Hamilton.

Royals are still disputing Tillsonburg's claim to forwards Dan Mahoney and Trevor Fabbey and defenceman Jim Kennedy. The disposition of these players will be determined at a meeting of the OHA sub-committee on Nov. 9 in Toronto.

Wins Unanimous Decision

Tiger Outmauls Fullmer For Crown

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The long reign of Gene Fullmer as king of the World Boxing Association middleweight division was over today, terminated by a smaller and brawlier man in the same mold as the Utah strong boy.

The new ruler is Dick Tiger of Nigeria, the British Empire champion of the 160-pounders, who won the title by unanimous decision Wednesday night in 15 rough, bruising rounds before a crowd of 11,600 in Candlestick Park.

There was blood, as is usual with a Fullmer fight, but no knockdowns. There was drama, as a host of Tiger's countrymen, resplendent in the flowing robes of their native land, swarmed into the ring and hoisted him to their shoulders.

Fullmer, unbeaten in 17 straight ring engagements, met defeat in the eighth defence of the crown he had won in this same city by a 14-round knockout over Carmen Basilio Aug. 28, 1959.

Fullmer fought the last six rounds in a familiar Fullmer pattern. He was cut and bleeding and gashes over both eyes, but he was still flailing away with both fists at the final bell.

FACIAL DISFIGUREMENT

Fullmer has told friends he will retire if he suffers back-to-back losses.

He is at that cross road today.

He will meet the 33 - year - old Nigerian Jan. 19 in either Bozeman, Mont., or Las Vegas, Nev.

Does he think he can return and whip Tiger in the rematch?

"If I feel like I can't there won't be one," said Fullmer. "Right now I don't feel I can't.

"You are the champion I think I'll stay the champion," was the response from Tiger.

A modest fellow, Tiger had praise for Fullmer. "After three or four rounds I knew I was tangling with the champion."

There was a disagreement in another area. Fullmer said he was accidentally butted in the ninth round. It slashed open a small cut inflicted in the second round.

Tiger claimed the gash, which brought the blood pouring down to Fullmer's shiny white trunks, came from a solid smash with a right hand.

Fullmer waived any chance of winning on an accidental butt by insisting the fight continue. Actually, he wouldn't have won since he wasn't ahead on points.

"I wouldn't want to win a fight on a butt, accidental or not," Fullmer said.

Referee Frankie Carter had it 10-1, judge Jack Downey 9-5 and Judge Vern Breeze 7-6 under the California system of one or more points to the winner of a round, none for the loser and zero for an even round.

Butt Started Defeat-Fullmer

Hoist By Own Petard!

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A bad cut over Gene Fullmer's left eye, inflicted by Dick Tiger, the new World World Boxing Association middleweight champion, will be the focal point of their bloody 15-round title match Tuesday night.

"My eye definitely is a butt," said the dethroned champion from West Jordan, Utah.

"I hit him a solid right—if there was a butt I don't know about it," countered the 35-year-old Nigerian battler.

Either way, the gory cut—which probably sent blood down both sides of Fullmer's eye—typified the beating Tiger gave the man who had been champion since 1959. Fullmer wasn't blaming the cut for the loss.

"You can't be sorry when you get beat by a better man," he said.

"It was a good fight—he's a tough cat," said Tiger.

"I did not have any plan. I just fought. His style suited me pretty well according to me. But I never thought he would back off like he did in the late rounds.

"Tiger kept me off balance," said Fullmer. "He was a little quicker than I thought he would be."

The Trots

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Jiggs McFadden trained Abbas Wick, owned by Otis L. Parr of London, to victory in the featured $600 C-2 pace at Western Fair Raceway Tuesday night.

The seven-year-old mare took the lead in the home stretch to beat out Maud's Boy in a time of 2:13, best time of the night, and pay $13.20 to win. Jean First came in third.

Abbas, owned by John R. Reid of Ailsa Craig, Ont., returned an upset $24.40 in taking the fifth heat at Frost—an appropriate winner in a night of light rain and snow—paced the mile in 2:14 4-5.

Humor on The Gridiron

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks a pro football player gets tired of hearing:

"Let's put in Tiger McGurk —the game's already lost anyway."

"He eats enough during the training season to last him all year."

"They nicknamed him 'three-yard' McGurk because, whenever he carries the ball, he never loses less than three yards."

"The only time he stays on his feet is when they play the national anthem."

"I can't leave that picture of you in uniform on the inside any longer, Tiger dear. It frightens the children."

"Gee, it's nice of you to offer me this pass to watch you play in your next game, Tiger. But frankly I'd rather stay home and rake the back yard."

"Sure, it's okay for you to hold down an outside job, Tiger. But that don't mean you can't put a little interance to the referee during a game."

"Here's another fan that wants your autograph, McGurk. Put your x-mark right here."

"He isn't so hot on the field, but there's nobody on the team that warms a bench better."

WHICH DUMMY?

"It's true he got off to a bad start. At the first practice they told him to tackle the dummy—and he tackled the coach."

"Maybe if we put glue on his fingers he could hold on to the ball."

"Better put away that comic book, McGurk. The coach may get an idea you're not interested in the game."

"How's this for a trick play —let Tiger go out for a pass. The other team will never think we're that crazy."

"There's only one thing really wrong with McGurk. He's got a million-dollar body with a 10-cent mind."

"It has been so long since they put him into a game he's collecting unemployment insurance."

"Maybe if he grew a beard he'd fool the other team. He's tried everything else."

"Here's a compass, McGurk. Now, remember, if you ever get your hands on the ball—run due north!"

"Father, that doctor, Tiger just fell off the bench again."

"Wake up, Tiger. The game's over."

Johnny Metras Says

'No Hockey For Conacher'

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Brian Conacher, son of hockey great Lionel Conacher and a promising junior hockey player in his own right, will never play professional hockey if John Metras, who's partial to football, has anything to say about it.

Metras, veteran of 22 years as coach of University of Western Ontario's football Mustangs, now has the 200-pound son of Canada's late athlete of the half-century figured as a fullback who could power Western to intercollegiate football supremacy.

Brian, now 21, starred for the Toronto Marlboros Junior A Hockey team for the last two seasons. The six - foot - three youngster was considered an outstanding prospect by the parent Toronto Maple Leafs club of the National Hockey League.

Now, says Metras, "Brian will never go back to hockey. He's fed up with the whole business. At Western he's going to concentrate on academics and football."

Conacher is in his first year of a general arts course at Western, but may enter law—which would make him available to intercollegiate football for at least six years.

"He's got everything," says Metras, whose son, John Jr., is an all-star centre for Montreal. "Conacher is fast, has good hands and good football sense. He loves to tackle and is a Bearcat on defence. The only thing that he lacks is experience and I intend to see he gets that here."

Clippers Nip Reds, Aces Win

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The amazing Quebec Aces are showing no signs of letting up in their runaway start and hold a four-point lead in the Eastern Division of the American Hockey League.

The Aces, who have spent most of their years in the league trying to stay out of the cellar, boast a record of five victories and one defeat, good for 10 points.

Baltimore Clippers, a new club in the league this year, are in second place with six points on a 3-2 record.

Buffalo Aces and the Clippers won Tuesday night. Quebec rolled over Cleveland Barons 5-1 while Baltimore edged Providence Reds 5-4 in its first home game in the new Civic Centre. A crowd of 7,780 turned out.

The Aces had piled up a 3-0 first - period lead before Fred Hill scored the only Cleveland goal in the second period. Danny Lewicki, Jim Morrison, Ron Attwell, Bill Sutherland and Gary Bergman notched the Quebec goals.

Baltimore won the hard way, coming from behind a 3-1 deficit midway in the second period. Aldo Guidolin tied it for the Clippers at 3-3 and Noel Price put them ahead 4-3 before the period ended.

When player - coach Red Sullivan added another goal at 16:39, it appeared to be frosting on the cake. But as things turned out, it was the winning goal because Larry Lesch tallied his second goal for Providence with only 28 seconds remaining.

Pat Hannigan and Pete Bochefort were the other Baltimore marksmen while Bob Blackburn and Zellio Toppazzini also tallied for the Reds.

Molly Picon Marks Three Firsts in 60-Year Career

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Next year will mark my 60th year in show business," said Molly Picon, who doesn't look it.

"And this year I marked three firsts in my career—my first Broadway musical, my first book and my first Hollywood movie. So I guess you can say life begins at 60."

Molly is a gentle - voiced woman who brought humor to the Yiddish theatre in America. She is normally quiet in manner, but she can mug, sing, dance, crack jokes and steal scenes.

Frank Sinatra figured she was just the one to play his mother in his comedy, Come Blow Your Horn. She's here now, walking to work at Paramount Studios.

Walking? She's staying a good seven or eight miles from Paramount.

THEATRE FEATURE TIMES

AT THE BELLE — Spencer Tracy, Burt Lancaster, Richard Widmark, Marlene Dietrich, Judy Garland, Maximilian Schell, "Judgment at Nuremberg", 7.30 — "Ada" with Dean Martin, Susan Hayward, 9.30.

AT THE PARK — First Showings — "Five Minutes to Live", Johnny Cash, Cathy Jo Croft, Pamela Mason, 7.35 — "Cape Fear", Gregory Peck, Robert Mitchum, Polly Bergen, 9.15.

Yes, walking," she confirmed. "Nobody else walks in this town but I do. I like to walk; it keeps me in shape. The only trouble is that the sidewalks are disappearing in this town. Something should be done about that."

COME LONG WAY

Molly has come a long way from New York's east side. Her mother was a wardrobe woman in theatres and Molly was appearing in plays by the time she was five.

She bounced in and out of vaudeville until her future husband, Jacob Kalich, spotted her as a promising talent. He wrote a play for her to star in at a Yiddish theatre. Her co-star was a young actor named Paul Muni.

Molly became the darling of the Yiddish stage at a time when it was producing some fine talent for the English-speaking theatre. She played regular vaudeville and Broadway plays.

Last season she went into her first big musical, Milk and Honey, from which she got a vacation for the Sinatra film. Now she has produced a memoir, So Laugh a Little.

Come Blow Your Horn is not her first film. She did two Yiddish movies in Poland back in 1936.

Maurice Chevalier and Jeanette MacDonald in lilting Romantic "The Merry Widow"

Glamorous romance, beautiful women, whimsical humor and the haunting strains of Franz Lehar's famous music blend into an entertainment of wondrous charm in Ernst Lubitsch production of "The Merry Widow", one of Metro-Gold-wyn-Mayer's greatest musical hits.

Starring Maurice Chevalier and Jeanette MacDonald, with Edward Everett Horton, Una Merkel, George Barbier and Minna Gombell heading a large supporting cast, the picture tells the story of the rich widow and the count, whom the ruler of the mythical kingdom sends to Paris to win her in order to keep her money in the country. How they fall in love, their gay revels in Paris, the romantic strains of the dreamy "Merry Widow Waltz" the gay night at Maxim's afford unremitting entertainment.

The original Lehar songs, including the famous waltz, "Vilia", "Girls, Girls, Girls", "Melody of Laughter", Widows are Gay", "Tonight Will Teach Me to Forget" and "I'm Going to Maxim's", are all songs sung in the picture.

For sheer opulence, the picture is a stand-out. The impressive size of the many palace scenes, the brilliance and sparkle of the great Ambassador's Ball, and the spectacle of the sequence at Maxim's cafe in Paris, with hundreds of dancers and an orchestra of a hundred pieces make, "The Merry Widow", coming to the Belle Theatre in Belleville, on Thursday evening, for one showing only, at 8.15 p.m., one of the most beautiful motion pictures ever photographed

Ernst Lubitsch directed, "The Merry Widow" from a screen-play by Ernest Vajda and Samson Raphaelson. Lubitsch has given the screen some of its outstanding musical hits, and this picture represents him at his best.

Howdy Partner, in Color

Something has been added to the popular Golden Operetta Series Musical hits with the presentation each Thursday evening, effective tomorrow evening, of a beautiful multiple-reel travelogue in Technicolor. This week's selected offering is titled "Howdy Partner."

OPENS THURSDAY

"THE SPIRAL ROAD" IS BASED ON GREAT BOOK

"The Spiral Road," the great literary achievement by the noted Dutch novelist, Jan de Hartog, has been brought to the screen by Universal - International Pictures, with Rock Hudson, Burl Ives and Gena Rowlands starring in the color film.

The adventure story of a doctor's tormented journey through the hell of his temptations — told with the volcanic power and passion—it is set to open Thursday on the screen of the Park Theatre for a three-day engagement only.

Much of the production of "The Spiral Road" was filmed on location deep into the jungles of Surinam (Dutch Guiana), only four degrees north of the Equator.

Produced by Robert Arthur and directed by Robert Mulligan, the searching drama costars Geoffrey Keen, with Neva Patterson, Philip Abbott, Wil Kuluva, Larry Gates and Robert F. Simon in the top featured roles. The screenplay was written by John Lee Mahin and Neil Paterson.

Feature times Thursday and Friday 7.15 and 9.45. The shows on Saturday are continuous from 1.00 p.m.

Public Kept Well Informed On Current Events by TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Network television and radio are doing a responsible, carefully restrained job of keeping the public informed during the crisis over Cuba.

There has been no relaxation in coverage since President Kennedy's broadcast address Monday. A constant stream of special news reports, programs and bulletins which have interrupted entertainment programs have kept us up-to-the minute. Some of the bulletins did not report new developments but were welcome reassurance that nothing new had occurred.

Television had its cameras on the meeting of the United Nations Security Council, the session of the Organization of American States and on the facade of the White House. And, from points where television could not set up cameras, it brought in the voice reports of its correspondents.

The correspondents stuck close to the facts, refraining from theory or prediction. They were uniformly serious, concerned and, thankfully, calm.

But it was almost impossible to concentrate on the regularly scheduled entertainment shows, although it was comforting to know that as long as the set was on you wouldn't miss anything important.

Recommended tonight: Bob Hope show, special, NBC, 10-11 p.m.—The comedians first show of the season, with Lucille Ball and Bing Crosby.

Will Appeal Cobourg Bylaw On Store Hours

COBOURG, Ont. (CP)—Alan Bunce, 46, who says he doesn't like being dictated to, has appealed to this weekly court at Osgoode Hall in Toronto to squash a town council bylaw regulating store hours. The bylaw was to have become effective Monday.

His motion will be heard next Monday. It will be opposed by council, Mayor Jack Heenman said.

Meanwhile a discount store which began business here a month ago remained open Monday after the 6 p.m. deadline set in the bylaw.

Under the bylaw, retail stores, expressly exempt, must close at 6 p.m. each night except Thursday and Friday when they can stay open until 9 p.m.

An English - born factory worker, Mr. Bunce says he is acting as a private citizen in what he believes is the first action of its kind in Canada.

"I just don't like being dictated as to when I can shop," he said. Council passed the bylaw on a 5-to-4 vote Oct. 11.

Cobourg is about 35 miles east of Oshawa.

Astrological Forecast

For October 25

By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Attitude expressing sympathy proves most beneficial. Win friends, allies by listening attentively. Sacrifice a bit of time to gain potential for future.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Be independent. Accept advice only if it does not cause you to "follow the crowd." Let your views be known. Act on convictions. More in your favor than is apparent.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Hurrying to skip over details causes delay, possible loss. Take time to be thorough. Older person may come to your aid. Trick is to recognize help when it is offered!

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Favorable lunar aspect today sparks ideas which "pay off." Day to experiment, to be versatile. Keep sense of humor in face of apparent adversity.

Leo (July 22 to Aug 21): Be willing to "tear down" in order to rebuild. Means you can make changes, break from tradition and still show gain. Avoid one who insists on "old way." Permit Leo showmanship to shine.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23): Cycle continues high. But you must take action. If you are to realize disadvantage — especially in romance, pursuit of creative endeavors. Very fine for expressing ideas.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23): Wise to "recuperate" tonight. Means get some rest. "Mend fences" at home. Strive for harmony, diplomacy. Show appreciation for family member who has been patient, cheerful.

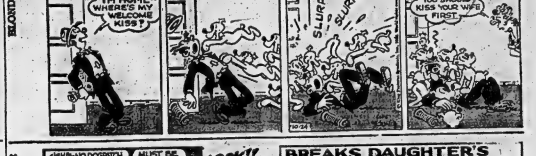
Scarpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Venus in your sign stresses love, beauty, romance, appreciation of the arts. Self-examination is needed. Discover motives which have caused you to take recent actions.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): No time to be subtle where money matters, responsibilities are concerned. Be frank, come directly to the point. Others will appreciate this — so will you. Day for direct action.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Good lunar aspect today means you can perceive future possibilities. Refuse to be shortsighted. Let others express their views. But act on your own good information, ideas.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Do what you know is right. That attitude, action solves recent dilemma. Money matters affecting close associate also demand your attention. Answer is to take new, different approach.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Avoid hysteria. Like Gemini, you succeed by being thorough, by accepting hand of friendship. Keep close watch where legal agreements are concerned. Let others know you have resources.



* * * *

If Today is Your Birthday — you are introspective; means it takes a long time to know the real you. Has been trying year, but efforts will pay off.

* * * *

General Tendencies: Emphasis on details, analysis of motives. Day when speculation over what might happen is quite strong. Headlines minority with definite ideas swings into action.

ED BELL MOVES UP

A short seven years ago, a youthful employee of a local trucking company decided to branch ahead on his own.

Aware that advertising is the key to success, Ed Bell took a three-year lease on a building on Dundas Street East and began hauling. Business increased steadily, necessitating the same address for the next seven years.

Today in Toronto.

On his return to Belleville, Ed recognized the benefits of the training he had received in the city and founded Bell Trucking Ltd. Business has increased to the point where Ed Bell, Chic, Jerry and 9 by two highly successful sidelines.

Like most of the best builders, Ed's success is based on satisfaction. He is proud to have built many homes for the people in the area and looks forward to many years on the spot to see the job done properly.

38-year-old Bell who had earned the commendation of his fellow businessmen, is now building a new home on Bell Boulevard. Bell Real Estate on Sidney St. is Belleville's newest office to be seen in course of progress.

Mr. Bell is one of the few Belleville builders who is a member of the Canadian Home Builders Association on the 100-foot lots in Foxboro.

In addition to larger homes, Ed's ambitions lie in the interest of providing low cost housing for retirement couples. Details of this project will be announced exclusively through Bell Real Estate when further information will be given on request.

Premier Robarts Shakes Up Cabinet

Fred M. Cass Replaces Roberts As Atty.-Gen.

3 Members Quit Posts, Will Not Run Again

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Robarts today announced a wholesale reorganization of his cabinet, including the transfer of veteran Attorney-General Kelso Roberts to the lands and forests portfolio.

Labor Minister W. K. Warrender, former Labor Minister Charles Daley, now minister without portfolio, and William Nickle, another minister without portfolio, left the cabinet.

Municipal Affairs Minister F. N. Cass became attorney-general—the second senior post in the cabinet.

Three new ministers were taken into the cabinet and Minister without Portfolio Charles MacNaughton became minister of highways.

Highways Minister W. A. Goodfellow resigned his portfolio but remains in the cabinet as minister without portfolio.

The new cabinet members are:

William G. Davis, barrister and member for Peel since 1959, who took over the education portfolio from the premier;

James A. C. Auld, of Leeds, vice-chairman of the Ontario-St. Lawrence development commission.

TORONTO (CP) — Members of the Ontario cabinet, following extensive changes announced by Premier Robarts today:

John Robarts, prime minister and president of the council.

William G. Davis, minister of education.

John R. Simonett, minister without portfolio.

POSTPONE VISIT

LUXEMBOURG (Reuters) — President Kennedy Wednesday night cabled the Grand Duchess Charlotte of Luxembourg asking her to postpone an official visit to the United States scheduled to begin next Monday, a Luxembourg government spokesman said today. The spokesman said the reason given by the president was the very tense situation in the world."

JUSTICE NORRIS CRITICAL OF TOP LABOR LEADER

Says George Meany Cause of Trouble

MONTREAL (CP) — The federal judge investigating waterfront labor violence and shipping disruptions on the Great Lakes has fired a critical blast at the top labor leader in the United States.

Mr. Justice T. G. Norris of Vancouver accused AFL - CIO President George Meany of failing to live up to his responsibilities as head of the central labor body which has more than 12,000,000 members.

The judge rapped Mr. Meany Wednesday for not dealing personally with the American aspects of a bitter labor struggle between two Canadian unions—the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.) and the Canadian Maritime Union (CLC).

These two unions are at each others' throats in an all-out struggle marked by violence and shipping slowdowns in Canada and the United States.

BLAMES MEANY

"We wouldn't be in the present mess . . . if Mr. Meany had lived up to his responsibilities," said Mr. Justice Norris.

"I am saying this in public in hope that it will get back to Mr. Meany."

He said marine labor troubles should be "under Mr. Meany's personal hand"—not left to Paul Hall, president of the Maritime trades department of the AFL-CIO as well as head of the Seafarers' International Union of North America.

The Maritime Trades Department is a wing of the AFL-CIO grouping some 35 unions in the maritime field into a powerful bloc.

The MTD is supporting the SIU of Canada in its fight against the CMU, CMU-manned ships, all owned by Upper Lakes Shipping Company of Toronto, have been delayed in American lakeports by MTD boycotts.

The Vancouver jurist made his remarks about Mr. Meany during the 34th session of his public inquiry.

Kennedy Says Door Is Open For Talk With K

Main Concern to End Missile Bases in Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — The apparent diversion of some Russian supply ships stalled off a U.S.-Soviet showdown on the blockade front of the Cuban crisis today and allowed time for anxious diplomats to seek a peaceful way out of the war-threatening emergency.

President Kennedy was reported holding the door open for a crisis conference with Soviet Premier Khrushchev if the right conditions develop.

But U.S. officials stressed that while sticking to his readiness for U.S.-Soviet negotiations, Kennedy's main concern and overriding objective is to put an end to Soviet nuclear missile bases in Cuba.

The president was said to have given most careful consideration to the proposal made Wednesday night by acting UN Secretary-General U Thant to freeze for six days for two weeks so that negotiations can proceed. The White House announced the president was replying immediately.

K SUGGESTS SUMMIT

A reply to a new note from Khrushchev was said in official quarters to be less urgent. The Soviet premier in a message to British philosopher Bertrand Russell declared Wednesday he considered a summit conference useful in order to do everything possible to remove the danger of nuclear war.

But in a letter to Kennedy about the same time, officials here said, Khrushchev made no direct bid for a conference and characterized his remarks on announcing Kennedy's action Monday night in ordering a quarantine of Cuba.

The quarantine policy of blockading offensive arms shipments in Cuba became effective Wednesday morning. At that hour a total of 25 Communist ships was reported steaming toward Cuba and an inevitable confrontation with the U.S. warships on blockade stations unless some intervening action was taken.

The action came late Wednesday. The defence department announced that some Soviet ships vessels "appear to have altered course." Officials said that other vessels—understood to be those diverted from Cuba — were still steaming ahead.

STILL WAITING

Senator George Smathers (Dem. Fla.) one of the congressional leaders who attended the White House briefing Wednesday, said Wednesday night the Soviet union has moved away from the blockade apparently did not turn back. He told the Miami Herald in a telephone call from Washington "it is my understanding that they were short of rendezvousing, perhaps awaiting for instructions."

The Miami Herald said Wednesday it had learned reliably that Russian ships en route to Cuba

Russ Tanker Intercepted, Not Stopped

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Cuban-bound Russian tanker was intercepted but was allowed to proceed, the defence department announced today.

The department also said that at least a dozen Russian ships apparently have turned back from their original course to Cuba, presumably because they were carrying offensive weapons and would run the risk of the U.S. arms blockade.

Arthur Sylvester, assistant defence secretary, read this announcement.

"It now appears that at least a dozen Soviet vessels have turned back, presumably because, according to the best of our information, they might have been carrying offensive materials.

"However, the first Russian ship that proceeded through the area patrolled by our naval forces was a Soviet tanker.

"It was ascertained by the U.S. naval vessel which intercepted her that the tanker had only petroleum aboard.

SETTLEMENT MADE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three entertainers injured in a plane crash while flying to perform for troops during the war will be paid $20,000 apiece under a bill signed by President Kennedy Wednesday. The payments to Jane Froman, Gypsy Markoff and Jean Rosen will be "full and final settlement" of their claims against the government arising from the crash into the Tagus River while their plane was trying to land at the field at Lisbon, Portugal, Feb. 23, 1943.

30,000 TROOPS MASSED ALONG INDIA'S FRONTIER

Heavy Fighting Near Tawang

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Prime Minister Nehru today warned Communist China has massed nearly 30,000 troops along India's northeast frontier, amid reports of heavy fighting near the key frontier town of Tawang.

He told executives of his ruling Congress Party the "massive invasion" of India had made the nation realize it had been "out of touch with reality" over the frontier dispute.

But he told the party leaders not to be despondent about Indian reverses in the fighting

Canadian Army Rotation by Air, Sea Postponed

OTTAWA (CP)—Rotation of four army units between Canada and Europe, scheduled to begin today, has been postponed due to the present international situation, Defence Minister Harkness said Wednesday in the Commons.

Some 8,300 persons—soldiers and their dependents—were to have taken part in the rotation by air and sea.

The 1st Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, and the Fort Gery Horse, a tank regiment, was to start moving to Europe to replace the 1st Battalion, Canadian Guards, and the 8th Canadian Hussars in the Canadian Infantry Brigade Group in West Germany.

The rotation was to have begun tonight with departure of the first of 22 RCAF flights from Trenton, Ont. Some 8,400 soldiers were to move by air, some 2,900 by sea.

The rotation was also postponed a year ago because of the Berlin situation.

Mr. Harkness replied "no" when asked by John R. Matheson (L—Leeds) whether NATO headquarters has asked Canada to strengthen its military forces in Europe.

Green Says Canada Backing U.S. All Way in Cuban Crisis

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Green said Wednesday night Canada is backing the United States "all the way" in the Cuban crisis but he declared under persistent questioning to state categorically that it endorses the U.S. arms blockade.

"We have always stood by our friends and (the Americans are) our friends, so we are standing by them," Mr. Green told a CBC radio-television press conference.

However, his response to repeated questions on whether Canada agrees with the U.S. "quarantine" of Cuba indicated that the government has strong reservations about it.

"The action has been taken," Mr. Green said in reply to one question. "The important thing is what's done from now on."

Asked whether he thought the U.S. should have got United Nations support before establishing a blockade of Cuba, Mr. Green said: "I am not here to criticize the Americans."

He rejected a suggestion that the Latin American nations have been more "decisive in their support of the U.S."

Asked about Russia's attitude toward the present crisis, Mr. Green said it appears "anxious to get things settled." However, it was too soon to say whether that was a correct assessment.

Mr. Green said Premier Castro's chilly reception of the Canadian suggestion that a neutral observer team be sent to Cuba did not mean the proposal was "shot down yet."

World opinion favored a peaceful settlement of the current situation and "I don't imagine the Cubans will put forward any long in refusing to admit UN observers.

Mr. Green also said:

1. He didn't think there was "any doubt" that Soviet missile bases in Cuba pose a threat to Canadian security, but Canada had not been called upon to do anything about them.

2. The Cuban crisis is "extremely grave" and could lead

CUBA DOMINATES DELIBERATIONS OF COMMONS

Laconic Replies Given to Questions

OTTAWA (CP) — Though it wasn't on the agenda, Cuba dominated the deliberations of the House of Commons Wednesday.

The international crisis centred on the island in the Caribbean completely overshadowed a budget debate that was supposed to be the main order of business.

Anxious members put 24 oral questions to the government bearing on Cuba. They received brief, laconic replies, carefully phrased to avoid any possibility of exacerbating the situation.

The main disclosure came from Defence Minister Harkness who announced in answer to a question by Paul Hellyer (L—Toronto Trinity) that regulation of four army units between Canada and Germany has been postponed until the present situation is "clarified."

Some 8,300 soldiers and dependents are affected by the order.

Mr. Harkness also told the House that "certain precautionary military measures" have been taken in response to the Cuban crisis but he refused, under opposition questioning, to give details. This would not be in the public interest, said the defence minister.

Canada's position on the United States arms blockade of Cuba remained unclear.

Russ Action in Cuba Designed To Test U. S. Ability-Macmillan

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan said today Russia's action in Cuba "can only be regarded as a deliberate adventure designed to test the ability and determination of the United States."

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: A storm moving southeast from Lake Superior this morning will bring light falls of snow to southern and central Ontario, in some areas adjacent to the open waters of the Great Lakes brief but relatively heavy falls of snow are a possibility. This storm will be moving eastward from near the Niagara Peninsula by evening and strong northerly winds will set in, contributing to almost winter-like weather throughout the entire great lakes area. Temperatures will likely average in excess of 10 degrees below normal for the next two days.

"Indeed, they (the Americans) were studiously moderate in that they referred only to the disclosure of certain limited types of war material," in their blockade against Cuba, Macmillan said.

He said the British government was concerned that "this new threat to security should be dealt with as rapidly as possible and will add their support to any measures which genuinely lead to that end."

The British government trusted that based upon some alleviation of the present state of tension it might be possible to move into a wider field of negotiations, he told Parliament as it resumed after the long summer recess.

"What has happened in the last few weeks must confirm our view that in those grave matters we cannot rest upon mere words and promises.

"These need, if they are to restore confidence, to be independently verified and confirmed."

K's Summit Meet Proposal Seen as Evidence of Caution

MOSCOW (AP)—Some Western diplomats saw Premier Khrushchev's proposal for a summit conference today as evidence he is guiding the Soviet Union on a cautious course in the Cuban crisis.

They expressed a belief that it is suggestion indicates he wants to avert a head-on collision with the United States.

In a message Wednesday to Lord Russell, the British philosopher, Khrushchev put the summit proposal this way:

"The question of war and peace is so vital that we should consider useful a top - level meeting in order to discuss all problems which have arisen, to do everything possible to remove the danger of unleashing a thermonuclear war."

While denouncing the U.S. blockade of arms shipments to Cuba as "piratical," Khrushchev ignored the reason President Kennedy announced for the Cuban quarantine — the establishment of Soviet - built missile bases in Cuba.

Moscow insists all arms sent to Cuba are defensive. And it never has admitted missiles are

Snow and Hazardous Driving Forecast for Southern Ontario

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ontario residents who got a taste of winter Wednesday were in for a good slug of it today.

The weather office at Toronto issued a special warning of snow and hazardous driving throughout most parts of southern Ontario.

The warning said a storm moving southeast from Michigan would add to the frequency and intensity of snowflurries already occurring over the Great Lakes.

Brief but locally heavy snowfalls in excess of four inches were predicted along the path of the storm and the Niagara Peninsula was expected to be the scene of locally heavy snowsqualls ahead of the main storm.

Motorists were warned that seriously restricted visibilities were likely in the squalls.

By tonight the snow should have tapered off to a few flurries except in the "snow belt" where field Wednesday throughout a 50-mile area in the Georgian Bay region, and overnight temperatures were mostly central Ontario fell into the low and mid 20s.

Ontario's first snow started falling in the region Tuesday. Five inches were reported on Highway 400 at Coldwater and eight on Highway 82 between Elmvale and Wasaga Beach. However, provincial police said traffic on both roads was light.

Six inches fell in the Stayner-Collingwood area while Barrie received two inches. Lighter falls were recorded at Bracebridge, Sutton, Caledon, Holland Landing and Bradford.

vice-president of the Canadian Labor Congress, spent the entire day in the witness stand, facing cross-examination by SIU counsel Joseph Nosa.

PLANNED ACTION

Mr. Dodge admitted that in March, 1962, top CLC officials met the officers of Upper Lakes Shipping Company to plan action if the 1962 shipping season was marred by boycotts.

At this meeting, said Mr. Dodge, there was some discussion of a transfer of bargaining rights from the SIU—which held a contract for the Upper Lakes fleet—to the CMU. At the time, the SIU and the company were involved in contract talks. Both the CLC and the company agreed that every effort should be made to reach an agreement with the SIU.

If conciliation efforts failed, as did subsequently—then the CMU was ready to step in as the union for Upper Lakes sailors, said Mr. Dodge.

John Godwin Heads New CIMA Branch

The inaugural meeting of the Canadian Industrial Management Association, Quinte District Branch, was held at the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club with about 40-50 present.

Former president of the Toronto branch of the Association, Mr. J. H. Gringorten of Toronto addressed the meeting briefly. He explained the techniques of good management, stressing human relations of industrial operations and the responsibility that all members of management have in their respective positions.

The speaker gave a short history of the functions of the Canadian Industrial Management Association which has a much broader scope than the former organization, the Medical Engineering Association.

The present club has recently completed a four-year course which was taken at a local high school. The course was given by lecturers from Toronto and Queen's University. Of those who took the course first spring, 21 graduated in June. Another four-year course has recently been started.

It is expected the Belleville branch will be receiving their charter in the near future, and that they will be holding regular monthly meetings.

Nominations were presented by the nominating committee at last night's meeting and the following slate were elected: president — John Godwin; vice-president — E. Wickerson; secretary — A. Gibson; treasurer — L. McErien; directors — D. Wilson, L. Brennen and G. Wambolt.

Mr. W. Vidler, vice-president of the National Council of the C.I.M.A., addressed the group from a national viewpoint. Mr. C. Lovett, president executive to the Belleville branch as vice-president of the Toronto branch of the Canadian industrial Management Association, and the speaker was introduced by Mr. R. Wickerson.

Mr. Gringorten is president and general manager of Electronic Components Limited of Toronto and former president of the Toronto Branch of the C.I.M.A. and first president of the National Comell.

among the weapons. But perhaps significantly, a Soviet embassy official in London said no nuclear warheads were among arms sent to Cuba.

Khrushchev, he noted, urged the Soviet leader "not to be provoked by the unjustifiable actions of the U.S. and Britain also sent Kennedy a message condemning the blockade. Both called for an end to this madness." Kennedy has not replied.

In London, Russell seized on Khrushchev's summit suggestion and sent him a second message urging that he "hold back ships in Cuban waters long enough to secure American agreement to your proposal."

Thus the 80-year-old philosopher, who in recent years has been campaigning to abolish nuclear weapons, sent another message to Kennedy. He urged the president to make a conciliatory move to Khrushchev's vital overture and avoid a clash with Russian ships long enough to make a meeting and negotiations possible."

There was no indication from Washington, however, that the president is in a hurry to meet Khrushchev. A White House source said no conclusion should be drawn from the previous week until it is known how Soviet ships meet the U.S. naval blockade.

Trenton Youth Is Placed On Probation

A 16-year-old Trenton youth, Larry Fenley, was placed on probation for two years when he appeared before magistrate T. Y. Wills in county court here this morning on charges with unlawfully obstructing the operation of a Canadian Pacific Railway (engine).

Penley elected to be tried by the magistrate and pleaded guilty to the charge.

Constable W. D. Cooper of the CPR told the court that at 12:40 a.m. on October 9th, a CPR freight train was proceeding east in the vicinity of the juvenile's home when it struck two railway ties which were placed across the track.

The engine carried the ties down the track for about 150 feet, the constable said. He stated there was no damage caused to the train. The ties were found at about 7.30 in the evening, he said.

The ties had been left alongside the track to be used as replacement ties. He told the court after investigation he proceeded to the residence of RCAF Corporal Kenneth Penley where they questioned Larry Fenley, whom he said gave no explanation for doing it.

The constable said there was no one else involved in the offence. The accused lives within a half mile of where the offence took place.

YMCA House Basketball

The YMCA Youth Basketball House League got off to a light start yesterday evening with a 62-62 tie between ahe Globetroiters and the Celtics although by the time the second fixture was finished things had livened up somewhat and the Celtics emerged on the long end of a 38-34 score.

Leading the polnt scoring for the evening was Terry McCabe, the captain of the team who connected with 18 field goals and four foul throws for 40 points. Following a very creditable effort for the night occurred during the second half when McCabe, playing for the Celtics, put the most number of points through the hoop for his team with a 37-point effort.

The first game saw the Celtics win by 1 as it was a score of 32-27 but a second-half scoring splurge by Globetrotters' Jack Jury and Wally Clare was enough to overcome the five-point deficit, Jury netting 25 points to offset a 22-point string rallied for Clare. Neither McCabe during the same period. Leading scorer for the Globetrotters was Brad Graham with 22 points. Second high man for the team was Martin Baker with 11 points.

The second tilt of the night saw the Senators completely run around the Steelers from the start. The half time score was 38-18 and by the final whistle the winners increased their lead to 104-36 thanks to the efforts of Murray Swan's 37 points and a 36-point splurge by Ron Walsh. Leading scorer for the losers was John McKibbon with 11 points followed by Jim Hurst with 10.

LINEUPS:

First game — Globetrotters: Jury (20), Clare (20), Graham (22), R. McCabe, Nelson; Celtics: T. McCabe (40), Vaughan (2), Bakker (11)), Reddick (2), Drysdale (2), Coe (1). Wayne Simmons Heads Druggists In Quinte Area

Wayne Simmons, pharmacist of Trenton, was elected president of the Quinte Pharmacist Association at the annual meeting held at the Shrine Club on Wednesday evening. Keith Mc-Coy of this city was elected secretary-treasurer while the dinner Duff, immediate past president, James Shannon of Marmora, Del Adams of Picton and Wayne Simmons of Trenton were elected representatives of the several districts in the Association. The report of the nominating committee, chaired by Ray Barnum, was unanimously accepted by the 40 members in attendance.

The meeting was chaired by Gardiner Duff as president and with Jimmy Cornell at the piano, the members enjoyed a delicious roast beef dinner, with all the trimmings. Ernie Hunter, who is the delivery agent for a number of druggists in the city entertained with a number of harmonica solos accompanied by Mr. Cornradi and a little spice was added when Jim Shannon of Marmora did a little jig and step dance to the lively music. Previous to dinner a social hour was held with refreshments and talking "shop". Percy Geen, one of the oldest of Belleville druggists was a welcome guest at the meeting. A minute of silence was observed for Harold Martin who died during the summer.

James Shannon introduced Colin W. Lorimer, general sales manager in Canada for Yardley products. A guest speaker for the evening, who addressed the gathering on "Distribution and Merchandising" and he drew the attention of the gathering and was extremely thankful for his remarks by Ray MacLaren at the conclusion of his talk. The only male representative of Yardleys for this district, William O'Leary, and the Inspector of the College of Pharmacy, Thomas Greenfield, were presented with cheeses by Tom Hunter of Madoc.

Mr. Lorimer stated that discount stores were here to stay and that shopping centres on the outskirts of municipalities were also gaining ground and would offer stiff proposition to the independent druggist but there were means that could keep the independents in a flourishing business.

WILL SURVIVE REVOLUTION

"The independent drug store will survive the revolution in merchandising that is going on," said the speaker and he proceeded to outline ways should be done to meet this stiff competition. The independent druggist must have a good location, plenty of floor space and first class layouts and bold advertising at very opportunity. "The store must have a good general appearance at all times," said Mr. Lorimer, "and the displays should be rotated periodically while the windows should be a chief selling factor." He stated that there should be sales promotion at stated intervals and the staff should be given congenial and well versed in the articles to be sold. He advised a training program and meetings with staff to accept and talk over ideas of the high customer rating.

Mr. Lorimer stated that the appearance of the staff was of prime importance and that new ideas should be picked up by visits to stores outside the community. He invited the listeners to try and get besides in stock hours to be kind to children entering the store and to run a shopping service. He outlined a number of promotions that had been used in other localities. In closing he advised the members to be prominent in their community and take part in the work of the municipality.

Bruce Lattimer, representative of the College of Pharmacy, told of the work that had been accomplished and what the college was doing to improve the role of the pharmacist in the community. The inspector for the college, Thos. Greenfield, answered a number of questions from the floor.

It was a well conducted and thoroughly enjoyable evening for the members and guests. A sample of a Yardley product was given all present to take home to the best, one.

Snow, Temps Fall in North

Snow covered the ground in the St. Ola district, last night as Old Man Winter made his first serious move toward this area.

Snow was also reported in other northern parts of the district as the temperature dipped to a cool 26 degrees at some points.

C.N.R. Pensioners' Association Hold Annual Luncheon at Canara

Pensioned railway veterans to the number of more than two hundred gathered at the Club Canara yesterday for the annual luncheon and get-together that marks the beginning of their activities for the coming year. Guests were hundred members of the rails were from Toronto points west and there were several members present from many points in Central and Eastern Ontario.

Following the substantial luncheon served by the ladies of the Club Canara, the meeting was opened by Mr. G. F. Hamilton, superintendent of Pension and Welfare, Canadian National Railways. Mr. Hamilton's address was much appreciated for the information it contained, and shed a new light on some of the problems that are encountered by the railways. At the close of the meeting Mr. Hamilton very kindly made himself available for a one to one personal problems. He also expressed a wish to visit any pensioners who are to be present on account of age or infirmities if his advice on pension or welfare would prove of value.

The gathering was also addressed by Mr. Tom Mahood of the Bell Telephone Company, who outlined the development of the telephone industry and a description of its activities in the field of communications.

Mr. Mahood, a retired locomotive engineer, gave a short recital of some once and ends of railroading which he has unearthed from their hiding places. He also reminded the age of seventy-eight yesterday and celebrated his birthday by the pensioners mingling with his fellow veterans. Others present in the upper deck were Mayor Alexa Holt, Mr. Tom Hallam, at eighty-seven hale and hearty; Mr. Jack Pollock, who has also just recently returned from an extended visit to A. R. Grant, in the late seventies, and his friend Mr. "Tony Norris, in his seventy-eighth year, who plays his eighteen holes of golf at most any time of the year.

Mr. J. A. Pollock, CNR Area Manager, was present as the representative of management for the company. He stated that he considered himself honored by being invited to sit with senior railroaders in their meeting. Mr. Pollock in his address also thanked for taking time out from his many pressing duties to attend of the occasion.

Mr. Newt. Thompson and Mr. Jos Hinchcliffe acted jointly as masters of ceremonies and introduced and thanked the speakers for their interesting and their fine efforts.

At the conclusion of the afternoon's activities the Ladies' Auxiliary of the CNRA presented a cheque for one fifty dollars as a token of appreciation for their devotion on this and former occasions.

tee, who became member of transport;

Robert B. Simonett, of Frontenac-Addington, former member of Frontenac County, who became minister of labor.

Lands and Forests Minister Jim Root, member from Cochrane South and former mayor of Timmins, was appointed minister of municipal affairs.

The new ministers were sworn into their portfolios immediately after a cabinet conference at which Premier Robarts described the changes as "very far-reaching."

The premier also announced that Mr. Warrender and Mr. Daley have informed him they will not seek re-election in the next provincial general election.

He said the Mr. Daley, member for Lincoln since 1943 and labor minister for 18 years under Frost, will continue as chairman of the Niagara Parks Commission, vice-chairman of the Ontario Energy Commission and a member of the Ontario Parks Integration Board.

Mr. Robarts also stated that Mr. Nickle previously has indicated publicly that he will not seek re-election as a member for Kingston. Mr. Nickle is a former provincial secretary and specialized in their fine work and development.

Mr. Roberts, 64, was most recently in the public eye as a witness before the Ontario royal commission inquiry into a which he defended the government's record in combatting crime under his administration.

He has been attorney-general since 1955 and has been in the legislature since 1943.

Premier Robarts said Mr. Roberts' early years of law practice in the Lake Mining camps of Northern Ontario helped give him a knowledge of the problems and outlook of people there which will be valuable in his administering the lands and forest portfolio.

His 49-year-old successor, Mr. Cass, member for Grenville-Dundas, has been a member of the legislature since 1955 and was minister of highways before taking the municipal affairs portfolio last year.

"He brings a wealth of administrative talent and background to his new portfolio which will be invaluable to him in this important department of government," the premier said.

LODA Holds Conference at Peterborough

The Lake Ontario Development Association Industrial and Municipal Relations Conference held yesterday at the Empress Hotel in Peterborough was a highly successful meeting, it was reported today by Belleville delegates to the meeting.

Attending the conference from the city were City Manager J. E. Reynolds, Chamber of Commerce secretary-manager Karl Dickensheiber, Alderman Jack Ireland and Ross Bailey and Frank Murray of Radio Station CJBQ. In all approximately 200 attended the conference presided over by president George Coling of Brighton.

Speaker during the afternoon included W. Clarkson, deputy minister Ontario Department of Economics and Development; and Mr. D. B. Robinson, general secretary Ontario Municipal Electrical Association; Mr. Stanley Hall, Federation, while J. M. Appleton, vice-president of Quaker Oats Company of Canada Limited and panel members were Mayor Alexa Holt, City of Peterborough; R. G. Parker, General Manager, General Electric Canada Colbourg; Dr. Eldon P. Ray, Director of Education, City of Peterborough; R. J. Deacon, Ontario Municipal Officer, National Productivity Council, Ottawa; T. G. Taylor, Chamber Manager Owens Conveyer Co. Ltd., Port Hope; and W. H. Johnston, Assistant Superintendent, Secondary Education, Ontario Department of Education.

Work Injuries On Increase Says Speaker

To the end of last August, incidents reported as work injuries to the Workman's Compensation Board are up eight percent, the Safety Association cases, involving more than four calendar days of absence from work, during Industrial Accident Prevention Association members' employees are up thirteen percent, A. J. C. Ward, vice-president and general manager of Tyrolsteel of Canada Ltd., told representatives in the A.I.P.'s "Engagement and Safety" meeting, at the Tops Motor Hotel, Tuesday.

Mr. Ward, guest speaker at the meeting, said that it is necessary to accept that our safety programs, individually and collectively, are probably presently not equal to the task for which they are intended." He added that no safety plan could be of any use if it were not supported by the employees whose safety was concerned.

The "5 C" plan was suggested by Mr. Ward as a means of promoting industrial safety. He explained that the "five C's" were, "C for capture," referring to the capturing of the employees; "C for communicate," meaning that safe procedures should be able to speak to the employees in terms the employees will appreciate; "C for concern," meaning that management must show concern with safety; "C for co-operate," meaning that an industrial safety program must involve co-operation of management and labor, and "C for control," meaning that employees will old fashioned, unsafe methods must be forced to do so for safer techniques.

A film was introduced to the meeting by R. L. Sharp, of Trenton, and thanked for the showing by Ken Mitchell.

and called for a buildup of Indian strength.

"We have suffered a severe shock," he said. "We were living in a fool's paradise because of our own creation and we have been shocked out of it—all of us, the government and the people."

Nehru said he was convinced "no Indian will ever agree to surrender to invasion. The country has an alternative but to increase the military effort to meet invasion."

An important defence ministry spokesman said a strong Indian garrison in Tawang was putting up stubborn resistance as a new pronged Chinese attack that had penetrated about 12 miles into Indian territory.

He said Chinese forces were advancing on the administrative centre in the Tawang almost unopposed. They were believed to be within shelling distance of the town.

Military observers believe the Chinese are trying to outflank Tawang in a pincer movement and then take Sela Ridge to the south. Sela Ridge is the most natural defensive boundary cutting off the whole salient of Indian territory between Bhutan and Tibet.

Held by China, this area would give them the "back door" into Bhutan through the Himalayas. Bhutan is a semi-permanent invasion threat across Bhutan into the Indian plains, the observers said.

O.M.B. Reserves Judgment On Debenture Sale Plan

TRENTON — In Trenton yesterday, A. L. McCrae, a representative of the Ontario Municipal Board, reserved judgment on whether the town should be allowed to proceed with a program to raise the sum of $35,000 by the sale of debentures, for the purpose of road construction, in spite of objections lodged by 21 local citizens. When the town first advertised its intention of raising the money by means of the sale of debentures, a petition, signed by the 21 ratepayers, was presented to council.

In the petition, the citizens claimed that if the road construction work were necessary, the money for the work should be budgeted for next year, thus eliminating debenture interest costs.

At yesterday's formal board hearing, R. J. (Dick) Whitley and Douglas Hyde, representing at least part of the petitioners signers, were on hand to reiterate the statements contained in the petition.

Mr. Whitley outlined his statements by saying "Last year's council made a blunder by budgeting for sidewalks for $40,000, (evidently referring to the town's $40,000 deficit of 1961.)

Mr. McCrae informed him that the board was not sitting "to be a sounding board for complaints about past councils."

Town engineer Eric Alderney told Mr. McCrae that the road reconstruction work was necessary as the streets on which the work is proposed to do the work were in such a condition that it is dangerous and difficult to carry out maintenance. Furthermore, said Mr. Alderney, 1962 council had not budgeted for costly maintenance.

(In a statement to the press following the meeting, Mr. Alderney said that it is impossible that more money had been spent on maintenance of the streets, due to the delay in the road reconstruction programme, caused in part by ratepayers' objections, than would have been spent on debenture interest costs.)

Trenton's clerk-comptroller A. E. Carey reminded Mr. McCrae that a five-year capital budget spending plan had been filed before the Ontario Municipal Board and that Trenton was in a unusual financial position and could well afford to carry out the road reconstruction work proposed as the debenturing.

Replying to Mr. Whitley's and Mr. Hyde's voiced objections to the town raising money for any purpose by selling debentures, Mr. McCrae said that municipalities all over Ontario, and indeed, over Canada, raised money for public works in this manner. "None of them pay cash," said Mr. McCrae.

However, as he was the only OMB representative at the meeting, Mr. McCrae said that he would have to report to other board members and that the matter would be decided by himself and these other board members. He said that a decision would be forthcoming by next Monday.

Ontario Municipal Board representatives will preside over a meeting in Trenton today to consider the merits of the town's announced desire to annex approximately 350 acres of Sidney and Murray Townships.

Health Board Orders House Demolished

TRENTON — At this week's meeting of the Trenton Board of Health, board members voted to ask council to take steps to do away with "disgraceful" conditions at a Bay Street premises by ordering the house vacated and demolished. The house, at 57 Bay Street, is deemed to be "unfit for human habitation."

Council will also be asked to take steps to correct an open ditch condition of long standing on Meyers Street.

Board chairman, H. S. Pane, reported that while there had been some improvement in sanitary conditions in the town's restaurants and beverage rooms since last year, there was still room for improvement.

Meanwhile the board has received no answer to a letter written to the fire chief, asking that something be done concerning the burning of leaves on lawns and resulting air pollution.

Also discussed at the meeting were the sanitary and other hazards resulting from an open ditch condition on Gould Street.

Dr. E. W. Dow, MOH, reported that there had been a very poor attendance at the public clinic held on September 21st.

Mr. Pane said that he had visited bakery shops in town and had suggested that a further improvement in operation be carried out and said that he would like to see that this had been done.

Mr. Pane also reported briefly on a recent health conference he had attended in Kingston and said that he would carry out a survey of the "outdoor" conveniences in the town and report to the board.

Rotary Holds Ladies Night At Consecon

TRENTON—Last night, more than 100 Trenton Rotarians and their wives attended a combined Ladies' Night and Dinner Dance in Kimberley Hall at Consecon. Head table guests included Rotary President, C. A. Baker and Mrs. Baker, chairman of the evening, Jim McDonald and Mrs. McDonald, Rev. Donald Pike and Mrs. Pike of Consecon, L. H. Bearns and Mrs. Bearns, Dr. R. Patrick and Mrs. Patrick and Past President J. C. Ward.

The guests were welcomed by Kenneth Couch and Mrs. Patrick responded on behalf of the Rotary Anns.

Following the dinner, Jim Pare showed two films which he provided by Mr. Bearns. One film took the audience on a trip through the Trent-Severn waterway and the other explored little-known waterways around Vancouver, B.C.

RUSS ACTION

bor party leader, said there would be much sympathy in all quarters for Russ Jackson in the situation in which they found themselves "both in view of the medical bulletin in Cuba and the clear breach of faith on the part of the Soviet government."

However, he said "there is very considerable anxiety and apprehension that the world may follow from the steps already taken by the United States government."

He said "this morning's news is somewhat better and we can at least feel reasonably satisfied that the tone of Mr. Khrushchev's latest statement is moderate in intention and President Kennedy appears to have clarified United States intentions."

He was referring to the Soviet premier's telegram to British philosopher Lord Russell proposing a summit meeting with President Kennedy.

FREEDOM MAC

The Labor leader pressed Macmillan to say whether the British government was committed before the president's decision was taken to blockade offensive arms from Cuba.

Gaitskell said if the government was not committed this is "a very unsatisfactory state of affairs for one member of the alliance to take unilateral actions which might clearly involve the gravest dangers to other members."

Macmillan answered that he had received a personal message from the president regarding the situation.

"I think the president had to act in his view very rapidly," he added.

"These are the facts. I do not wish now to comment upon them."

"Of course this is a dangerous situation and we must try to find a way out," Macmillan said.

"Some of us have long memories and while we must preserve the unity of the world we must be sure, at the end of this present difficulties, we are not placed in a worse position to defend freedom and preserve peace."

Parliament At a Glance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 24

Defence Minister Hellyer has declined to state what "steps have been taken" by the government in light of the Cuban crisis.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker declined to state the government's attitude towards the U.S. quarantine of Cuba.

Mr. Diefenbaker asked MPs to avoid questions which would be "provocative" or "fear-producing" at this time.

Liberal and New Democratic Party members booed and barbed the cabinet with questions on Cuba but got little response.

Mr. Harkness said the relation of army units between Canada and Europe should be discussed due to the world situation.

Senator Allister Grosart (PC—Ontario) said Liberal attacks are "debasing" the office of the prime minister.

Doctors Hear Address by OMA Official

Doctors should not be concerned with general politics, according to Dr. R. D. Atkinson, of Waterloo, vice-president of the Ontario Medical Association, but, he added, "we must assert our rights in order to fulfil obligations in the service of mankind and to the ideal profession." Dr. Atkinson was speaking at the annual business meeting of District No. 6 of the OMA, held yesterday at Tops Motor Hotel in Belleville. He said, "the need for strong medical associations has never been greater than it is today," and added that membership in the 83 year old medical profession, 7,000 of the 8,300 possible in the province.

The meeting was closed to the public, but press releases issued by Mr. R. E. Brownridge, of Toronto, public relations manager for the OMA, indicate that socialized medicine was considered in the agenda. In his own remarks, Mr. Brownridge said, "Doctors must talk to, and deal with, people outside their own group of patients if they are to compete successfully with the politicians, who do not confine their remarks to members of their own party."

During the meeting, District officers, Dr. R. M. Mathews, of Peterborough, District Director, Dr. J. V. Byrne, of Trenton, Chairman of the District Executive and Dr. A. W. Elliot, of Trenton, Secretary of the District Executive, were re-elected to office. Newly elected area representatives to the district executive are Dr. Donald Cooper of Peterborough, representing Peterborough county, Dr. Roy Mack of Port Hope, representing Northumberland and Durham, Dr. W. D. Thomas of Bobcaygeon, representing Victoria and Parry Sound and Dr. E. W. Dow of Trenton, representing Hastings and Prince Edward.

The next annual meeting of the OMA in this district will be held in Cobourg, Mr. Brownridge said.

One Red In Mississippi

Mississippi is the state with "the leastest" in numerous categories Max Ascoli proves by quoting statistics in "The Reporter", a New York magazine. It has the lowest per capita personal expenditure of any state in the union ($1,173 as compared to the national figure of $2,223), the lowest public school expenditure per pupil ($220 against a national average of $414), the lowest average salary for school teachers ($3,560 against a national figure of $5,527) and what must be virtually a world record for scarcity of communists. The latest report on the number of communists in the various states of the union lists just one for Mississippi.

This may surprise many. Mississippi is evidently a poor state and poverty is supposed to breed the conditions which produce communists. Why, then, is there only one admitted party member in the state? Or none, even a communist, who offers them hope. The convinced communist himself is just as likely to emerge from a wealthy environment as from an impoverished one.

Confusion Says---

England's entry into the Common Market is now being discussed, in a lighter plane, in terms of the disruption of systems of measurement long dear to a people who seem to thrive on confusion. The magnificent idiocy of feet, inches, yards, miles, and several other nearly forgotten units of measure, which once thrived in competition with the intelligible metric system, must go if Britain enters, and the illogical Fahrenheit scale of temperature measurement is already being discarded.

But the real moans and groans are for the more exclusive monetary system. One could take with a grain of salt the old statement that "the battles of Britain are won and lost on the playing fields of Eton", knowing full well it was at the country's cash registers the real training took place.

The Englishman, accustomed to figuring change in terms of 12 pence to the shilling, five shillings to the crown, (or two shillings to the florin), a four crowns (or twenty shillings, or ten florins), to the pound, in a country where the most respectable bills are presented in guineas anyway, have an obvious mental advantage over the poor, decimal continentals. The battles of Britain are won at the cash registers. Anyone who is able to figure starting change, then is able to carry it about, must be both mentally and physically fit.

A Right To Work

Three B.C. construction projects have been tied up during the past month by anonymous pickets, who carry signs asserting that "Non-Union men are working on this job." The picketers decline to identify themselves, and no union will admit responsibility for them.

The labor movement began as a fight for rights denied, and continued, after the rights were granted, to fight for privileges deserved, and sometimes for privileges not deserved. It grew on the greed of its opponents, and finally attained a position dominating the capitalist economy.

But with the development of anonymous picketing, it develops into a danger to society, and to the workers it was intended to protect. If this move is not stamped out, by the unions themselves, society will be forced to take steps to protect itself.

Now, there is an acceptable balance of power between management and labor. Both sides would be well advised to accept the status quo.

Castro's $62 million ransom demand for release of the 1,100 Bay of Pigs invasion prisoners puts a value of $57,000 on each man. A high price in a land where dictators have always held other people's lives so cheaply.—(Ottawa Journal).

From the Candy, Chocolate and Confectionery Institute comes a report that caramels may be found to make good fish bait. One thing about it, if the fish can be induced to sink his teeth into a caramel there's no need for a hook.—(Detroit Free Press.)

Socreds Offer Novel Financial Programs

BY RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — notes off the reportorial cuff . . .

SIMPLE, WHAT'S?

As neat and complete an explanation of Social Credit's monetary policy and financial program as you could ever hope to find in a lifetime of research has been prescnted to Parliament by Maurice Cote, Socred MP for Chicoutimi.

THUS:

"We must dispense with Austerity and launch an immense public works program without levying any additional taxes and without, of courses, doing any borrowing.

How then?

"By issuing new money," that is how, according to Mr. Cote as reported, word-by-word in Hansard, Parliament's own daily publication of Who-Says-What in the Commons.

"To this end we must set up, without further delay, a bank for social financing for no real investment, directly responsible to the Bank of Canada but endowed with the same power for creating credit to those available to the ordinary banks.

"Such a bank for social financing would make loans at a rate of interest which would only cover the cost of administration amounting to one half of one percent."

How about that?

"New Money", he calls it.

Trouble is, most people seem to prefer the well-used, musty, but always dependable "Old Money."

The stuff spends.

Pays the rent.

Buys the groceries.

Even, with luck, covers those taxes Mr. Cote does not like.

And who knows what "New Money" would be good for, in addition to papering the wall?

MORE THAN ONE WAY

Seems the oddest kind of information can p0p out of parliament.

Like how to stuff and mount a lobster.

Precisely this problem faced Nova Scotia lobsterman Fulton Legere, who is also Conservative MP for Sherburne-Yarmouth-Clare.

They potted — that is the phrase, public life is a trap — a mammoth 28-pound lobster down his way the other day. Something of a record.

What to do with such a giantsize, but stuff and mount it.

But how to clean it without cracking the shell?

"Easy, once you figure it out," confided Legere. "Just slap it down on an anthill and in a couple of hours it's sweet and clean, as as a salt-washed seashell."

BUDGET TIPS

So Finance Minister Nowlan plans an "early" budget.

Hardly news—but what perhaps is interesting have been some of the new Finance Minister's comments on Government financing and political leadership.

"I believe," he has said, "in balanced budgets in principle —it depends a great deal on changes in the economy and employment."

(In the Speech From the Throne—which the Prime Minister, with the help of his Cabinet, writes, and Governor General reads—the Government has said its "objective" is a balanced budget. But it did not say when.)

Could this one be it?

Not likely, the "curves" of the economy and likely, employment, are against it.

But listen to what Mr. Nowlan has said about austerity, taxes and other measures which ordinarily might be expected to arouse the wrath of the people, the voters:

"A good politician never fears the wrath of the voters but rather, depends on their good judgment. That is a hope to appeal to the good sense of the people.

"I am very strongly of the opinion that Canadians expect the Government to take firm decisions and to have great leadership—even though some of the decisions, of necessity, may be unpleasant."

It is a bit of "strong medicine" to come for the tax payers in the approaching budget.

Solidly based on cold reason, it is certainly an appeal for some adult understanding of the pressing problems of the day and a ready acceptance of firm measures calculated to cope with them.

The man who mutters that "90 percent of modern art is trash" forgets that 90 percent of old art was trash, too, but time has, winnowed out the bulk of it, indeed, it might justly be said that 90 percent of all art (whether painting, writing, or music) is trash and eventually forgotten.

Worthless art can't be willed away by consciously refusing to acknowledge them — they must be pulled up by the roots and examined in the light, not pushed down deeper into the unconscious, where they can do greater mischief by disguising themselves in some bizarre manner.

As the starting point for all book sides increase-in this cold war, it becomes more likely that the war will burn hot; for as the British physicist and Nobel Prize winner, P.M.S. Blackett, has observed: "Once if nation pledges its safety to an absolute weapon, it becomes emotionally essential to believe in an absolute enemy."

Conductors Late-Comers

Peterborough Examiner

Up to 150 years ago, orchestras did not often have conductors — the first violinist waved, jig or sawed, generally to keep everyone more or less together. To the soloist, however, went the honor of directing the performance. This was partly because the soloist was often the composer. But it was not until the beginning of the 19th century that Louis Spohr, a German composer and fiddle player, thought of using a small stick to make his signals. By 1830, conductors had become the work of specialists. Since then, the baton wielders have garnered more and more notoriety. Today they reign supreme over the orchestra, it seems.

MORE THAN ONE WAY

Seems the oddest kind of information can p0p out of parliament.

Like how to stuff and mount a lobster.

Precisely this problem faced Nova Scotia lobsterman Fulton Legere, who is also Conservative MP for Sherburne-Yarmouth-Clare.

They potted — that is the phrase, public life is a trap — a mammoth 28-pound lobster down his way the other day. Something of a record.

What to do with such a giantsize, but stuff and mount it.

But how to clean it without cracking the shell?

"Easy, once you figure it out," confided Legere. "Just

Strictly Personal

Survival Rate Of Jurists Very Low

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices:

Most people use charity not as an enhancement of justice, but as a substitute for it. They are willing to help the afflicted and the unfortunate after the event, but remain apathetic and indifferent to the causes of suffering and the prompt taking of preventive measures.

Pious people invariably assume that God has no sense of humor — when all one has to do is to regard the panda, the platypus, the hippo and the operatic tenor to see the sense of comedy involved in His creation.

The men who crack most easily are those who are afraid of anyone who finds their "weakness" — who feel they must always seem strong and decisive and self-assured, even when the occasion calls for doubt and deliberation. To be really strong means having the surplus strength to admit a weakness — just as the truly brave man frankly confronts his fear.

A person who insists that he listens "to both sides of the question" fails to add that he listens to each side in a quite different manner, while he sits critically cocked to the side he tends against, and with his ears dropping pleasantly to the side he tends to favor.

Everybody is against selfishness — usually for the most selfish reasons.

Returning each fall from a vacation in a tiny village, I am each year more inclined to agree with Kin Hubbard's sly remark that "there isn't much to be seen in a little town, but what you hear makes up for it."

One of the most curious and unexplained phenomena is the fact that if you hear a new word for the first time, you are bound to hear it again in a day or two; likewise, if the name of a person, or rare disease, comes up in conversation or in print, you will run across the name again soon.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

October 25th, 1942.

It was announced this morning by Fire Chief William Lynch that two thousand feet of one-and-on-half inch hose for the portable motion pumper furnished to the local Civilian Defence Committee, has arrived in the city. The pumper was received from A. R. P. headquarters several weeks ago, but no hose came with the unit. Preparations are going ahead for starting instructional classes of volunteer fire fighters to handle the equipment, should the necessity arise.

Little the worse for his experience, James Lafferty, Queen's Hotel day clerk, was back at his job after being missing in the north woods for a couple of days. Wednesday afternoon he left the city for an outing over the week-end, but the camp of William Adams at White Lake. He became separated from his companions and failed to return at night and a searching posse was organized headed by Provincial Constable Stanley Palmateer. The missing man was found at a point roughly three miles and 2-mile miles from the Adams' Camp. His companions included Bruce Lattimer, Cleo Colling, Harry Rollins and Orlift Lloyd.

The Oregonian Portland newspaper gave this report of the harvest situation; "Pickle packers' prospects of getting pickel pickers to pick pickles for pickle packers to pack, are poor. Pickle pickers to pickles go to rot in order to partake of pleasant pickins in war production, leaving pickle packers without pickles to pack and in a pretty pickle.

Red Economy In Ferment

New York Times

Soviet economics is now going through a period of ferment such as it has not known since the nineteen-twenties. One indication is the attention now being given a proposal that detailed central planning be confined to broad aspects of industrial operations, rather than output and delivery schedules, in its place would be substituted a system of incentive payments based upon profit.

There are other signs of ferment. Strong voices are being raised in public to demand that Soviet consumers receive something similar in many respects to that given in business schools in this country. Economic applications of such mathematical techniques as linear programming and input-output analysis are being pushed feverishly. Pitiable jealousy for the position of the Soviet economist, who is not on intimate terms with modern techniques of analysis. The Soviet Academy of Science has set up a new separate division of economic science, one of whose prime tasks will be to study the economic practices of the capitalist countries in the hope of finding techniques that will be useful in raising productivity in the Soviet Union and otherwise improving Soviet economic performance.

Behind all this activity are the pressures generated by the inadequacy of the Soviet Union's resources to meet its ambitious goals. Only by introducing more rationality into the operation of the Soviet economy can Premier Khrushchev hope to squeeze out of his economic system more production at lower cost. Marx is not very helpful on this problem. Soviet economists are turning rationality now being sought, of course, must be fitted into the basic framework of nationalized industry and central planning of economic objectives.

While the West may feel some justified pleasure at the increased Soviet borrowing of ideas, it should not be forgotten that if this quest is successful the Soviet economy will be an even more formidable competitor in the future than it has been in the past.

To Your Good Health

Ears Should Be Pierced Only by Doctor

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can pierced ears result in blood poisoning? I've been stepped on and the skin ripped while wearing a bull in a pen barefoot and didn't get it. I've stepped on rusty nails in the desert and didn't even need a bandage. But my mother says I can't have my ears pierced because I'll get blood poisoning. Is this true? Please hurry your reply. — Jane N.

Do you want to find out about blood poisoning, or having your ears pierced?

I don't recommend stepping on rusty nails, or being stepped on by a bull, because either may (not will) open the way for blood poisoning, or tetanus, or infection. Piercing the ears may (not will) cause any of these things, depending on whether dangerous germs happen to enter the wound. I approve of ear piercing only under strictly antiseptic conditions. Maybe I sound like an old fuddy-duddy, and maybe I am, but why don't you respect your mother's wishes at least until you are older? Then you're not to step on rusty nails or be stepped on, barefoot, by bulls. Anyway, the safe way is to have your doctor do the piercing.

Dear Dr. Molner: I will be 50 in November, and my doctor says my tonsils should be removed. Is there any other treatment besides surgery? I understand that bleeding is a problem in such cases. — Mrs. J.

It's true that there sometimes may be (not necessarily will be) more bleeding in an adult than in a child.

Whatever the reason for this, doctors would rather remove a child's tonsils than an adult's. Therefore they don't tell adults that the tonsils ought to come out unless the need is unmistakable. It's a nuisance, I realize, for a host of us to have our tonsils removed, but if they are bad enough to cause the doctor to urge surgery, then I'd have no hesitation in saying yes.

Dear Dr. Molner: Do vitamins taken independently of food benefit the body, or must they be taken with food to be active? What about natural or synthetic vitamins? — M.E.G.

Vitamins are complicated chemicals. They are vitally needed, although in but tiny quantities. It doesn't matter the difference whether they're are taken with or without food. They are naturally present in food. As long as we get these traces of chemicals, that's sufficient, whether they are "natural" or "synthetic." They are the same, chemically, and your body gets them. You can also eat steak for breakfast and bacon and eggs for supper if you prefer.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Several years ago, two neighboring families had a summer cottage resort discovered in a remote, boggy little cranberry patch a mile back of their cabins. Nobody knows which of them discovered it first. In any there was launched a contest between the two families as to which would be first to pick the patch as soon as the cranberries were ready. It was a patch good enough for two six quart baskets. Not a big thing; but anybody knows how much richer home-picked cranberries are than the bought kind

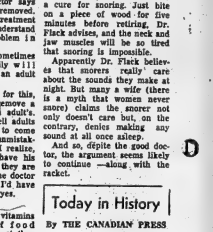
The contest, in two or three years, grew into a feud. Relations between the families grew strained. Year by year, the cranberries were picked earlier and earlier, to no great profit, as one family beat the other to it.

At last, one family, suggested that to settle matters, they should take turn about the cranberry patch: one family pick it this year; the other, next year.

"Nothing doing!" declared the other family. "That's a hare-faced socialistic proposition! Do you mean to say smartness and initiative are not to be rewarded? Let the best man win!"

So the feud continued. The cranberry patch was divided by a stout fence. This year, there wasn't a cupful to harvest.

Devises Cure For Snoring



Salt Lake Tribune

A British scientist, Dr. Harvey Flack, thinks he has found a cure for snoring. He writes on a piece of wood for five minutes before retiring. Dr. Flack advises, and the neck and jaw muscles will be so tired that snoring is impossible.

Apparently Dr. Flack believes that snorers really care about the sounds they make at night. But many a wife (there are many more snorers than snorers) claims the snorer not only cares, but, despite the good doctor, the argument seems likely to continue —along with the racket.

STOCK QUOTATIONS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market sagged slightly during moderate morning trading today, following Wednesday's exuberance.

Key issues took setbacks ranging over a point, as the Industrial Index slipped 3½ points.

International Nickel—used in compiling both base metal and industrial indexes—dropped 1¼ to 55¼, while Moore Corporation dropped ¼ point.

Bell Telephone declined ¾. Distillers Seagrams, Steel Company of Canada and Walker-Goderham all ¼, and Aluminium ⅝.

Banks continued to strengthen with Nova Scotia ahead 1¼, Montreal up ¼, Royal ahead ½ and Toronto-Dominion and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce both ahead one point.

On the exchange index, industrials dropped 2.52 to 323.48, base metals .63 at 179.14 and western oils .57 at 108.34. Golds gained .07 at 82.45. The 11 a.m. volume was 746,000 shares compared with 1,115,000 at the same time Wednesday.

Elsewhere among base metals, Falconbridge dipped ¼, while Consolidated Mining and Smelting advanced ¼.

Western oils saw gains of ¼ to Calgary and Edmonton, Home A and Hudson's Bay. Great Plains Development rose ½, while Central Del Rio dipped 3 cents to $7.80.

The market staged a sharp recovery Wednesday.

Industrials scored their best one-day index advance since June as they rose more than seven points. Western oils gained almost three points and base metals two.

International Nickel, listed on both base metal and industrial indexes, led the pack, jumping 3¼ to 56¼.

Banks recouped some of Tuesday's losses, as Nova Scotia gained 1¼, Royal one point, Montreal ¼ and Toronto-Dominion and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce ½ each.

Bell Telephone sank early in the day to 49½—lowest this year—then climbed to 49¾, ahead ⅛.

Other gainers of a point or more included Consumers' Gas, Moore Corporation and Aluminium. Walker - Goderham jumped 2½ to 9½.

Among base metals, Falconbridge gained ¼.

Cuba had turned back.

The Washington Post quoted a reliable government source today as saying six Russian ships nearest Cuba had altered their course but did not turn back. It quoted the official as saying a Polish ship farther back was continuing toward Cuba.

TALK OF INVASION

Talk about a possible invasion of Cuba continued to circulate here as one course Kennedy might follow if he is unable by other means to achieve the destruction of the Cuban missile bases.

In other developments related to the crisis:

Washington officials reported that more than half of the Latin American nations had offered some form of help in carrying out the blockade.

The Federal Aviation Agency directed that no civilian planes may fly over the southern half of Florida, the U.S. area nearest Cuba, unless they are operating on approved flight plans and in direct radio contact with air traffic control centres.

The stock-market surged upward Wednesday to wipe out losses suffered in two days of concern over the Cuban crisis.

Mobilization plans for the home front were brought up to date for use in the event of a shooting war.

ISSUES UNRESOLVED

Word of the apparent diversion of Russian ships which could only have been ordered from Moscow, coupled with Khrushchev's statement to Russel that the Soviet government would avoid any rash decision and was interested in a summit conference served to lessen somewhat the tense sense of crisis. But authorities here cautioned that it could well be only a lull in the storm, that confrontation of U.S. warships and Soviet vessels might still occur, and that the central issue of Soviet rocket bases in Cuba remained untouched.

The defence department released what it described as undeniable intelligence reports that at least 30 big missiles and more than a Russian-built jet bombers are now in Cuba. New photos of the Cuban missile bases also were made public.

Some of the new series of pictures were described as having been made at comparatively low level.

One picture was taken at an estimated 2,500 feet. Even without a magnifying glass, trucks and other vehicles, and their tracks in the dirt, could be seen clearly. Four persons could be spotted, two of them standing in a narrow road leading from

Committees Named for County Centre

PICTON — Committees to handle the many phases of operation at the County Agricultural and Recreation Centre at the Fair Grounds were set up at a meeting of the Commission Tuesday night. Chairman D. O. Reynolds presided.

Committees named were: canteen, Ens. Mason, Don Spanton, Herb Atherton; ice and equipment, Mike Finnegan, Don Walker; building and maintenance, Phil Dodds, Art Hamblin; sound, Ed. Bolston, Willis Sills; finance, Phil Dodds, Don Walker, Herb Colliver; promotion, Chris Looker, Phil Newton, Roy Rosborough.

It was agreed to continue teen-age dances in the hall Friday nights on a 75-25 basis with the sponsoring groups who receive 75 percent of admissions. Skating is also held the same night and dances are to end at 11 o'clock.

At request of hockey clubs, admission prices of 75c adults, 50c students, 25c children for junior O.H.A. games, and 65c, 50c, 25c for the intermediate games, were agreed upon. The clubs receive 60 percent of gate and pay referees.

Monthly meetings were set for the second Tuesday.

Reports indicated skating is very popular and there is a keen demand for ice time. Prince Edward Curling Club commences its season on November 5.

parked vehicles to the launching pad. The picture was taken at an angle instead of straight down and showed the missile complex nestled alongside a long, low, wooded hill.

Assistant Secretary Arthur Sylvester said eight to 10 missile bases were located near four cities which were identified as Guanajay, Remedios, San Cristobal and Sagua la Grande. Sylvester also said that there are at least 5,000 Russians in Cuba.

The missiles which the Soviets have been building bases for have been described by defence and state department spokesmen here as 1,200-mile range mobile missiles and intermediate range weapons with a reach of up to 2,500 miles. The jet bombers have been identified as IL-28s.

CUBA DOMINATES

position Leader Pearson asked him whether the government intended to associate Canada with the Organization of American States resolution giving it full support.

"... I think it would be presumption on my part to give the view of Canada with respect to an organization of which we have not been and are not now a member," replied the prime minister.

Later, outside the Commons, Mr. Pearson issued a statement saying Canada should give "all the support that is possible" to the U.S. position.

However, the opposition leader himself indicated he had some reservations about the blockade, stating: "We certainly must feel an anguished anxiety about the possible consequences of this action, in terms of nuclear destruction on our planet."

New Democratic Party House Leader H. W. Herridge expressed "deepest regret" at the unilateral American action, and "regret" at the establishment of Soviet missile bases in Cuba.

Mr. Pearson and Mr. Herridge outlined their positions with regard to the U.S. blockade in statements tied to United Nations Day. Mr. Diefenbaker had made a UN Day statement earlier at a noon ceremony in the rotunda of the Parliament Building.

A remark by Douglas Fisher (NDP — Port Arthur) perhaps summed up the grave atmosphere pervading the Commons.

He had asked Mr. Diefenbaker for a report on civil defence preparedness "at this particularly critical moment," and the prime minister instead of complying had called for restraint in asking questions "which under normal circumstances would be appropriate but which at this time might be considered as provocative or fear - producing."

"But where are we going to hide?" asked Mr. Fisher in a rhetorical fashion, and with at least a touch of anguish in his voice.

There was no answer.

The budget debate was marked by an attack on the government by Gerard Legare (L — Rimouski) who predicted that the government's austerity program will have a "catastrophic effect" on eastern Canadian farmers.

Other speakers included Barry Mather (NDP — New Westminster), who called for the institution of a capital gains tax, and David Ouellet (SC—Drummond - Arthabaska), who spoke on the Social Credit theme of using the Bank of Canada to promote national development.

Kinsmen Club History Told on Ladies' Night

The regular bi-monthly meeting of Belleville Kinsmen Club was Ladies' Night. Many Kinette, as prospective members and guests were present.

The speaker was past president Frank Lang, who gave an outline of the history of the Belleville Kinsmen Club.

Bill McIntosh, was the 1st president in 1933. Belleville Kinsmen is one of the oldest clubs in Canada.

During the 2nd World War the club grew rapidly reaching its peak in about 1946 and in the war years Kinsmen specialized the 'Tag Fund' for the armed forces. The Kinsmen National organization started the 'Milk for Britain Fund' and the Belleville club conducted it here. Gas dims bought a quart of milk and thousands of quarts of milk from the citizens of Belleville, were sent to Britain.

In 1949 Kinettes were formed. 41 members were chartered, the largest Kinette Club to be chartered in Canada.

Mr. Lang told about the Christmas parties held for underprivileged children and the satisfaction and warm feeling each member received by seeing smiling faces during the festive season.

Shut-out parties were held on Halloween to provide entertainment for the youngsters thus keeping them out of mischief.

After the war, with the funds that were left from the 'Tag Fund' the Eye Clinic was started. This clinic is still in progress and to-date approximately 850 cases have been handled.

In 1945 the Kinsmen swimming pool became a reality with final plans completed. The pool was built at a cost of $63,000.

Frank mentioned that membership in Kinsmen is a two fold program: service to the community and meeting other young men. The time and effort that a Kinsman puts into the club is rewarding to himself in proportion to his efforts.

The speaker was thanked by president Roly Belanger.

A social evening followed.

Successful Living

(A Catholic Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Debts Mean a Lot of Bickering

DEAR DORIS—Our problem is finances mainly, but from this has grown a lot of smaller troubles. You see, Miss Clark, I am the father of nine children. We are very deeply in debt, to the point where we are just hanging on by a shoestring to what we have. I make sure always all else that my mortgage is in the bank, but after that we are mired.

We don't have any social life to speak of as we don't drink or smoke except for maybe at Christmas or New Year's. We are at the point now where our situation is affecting my job and our home life, and the bickering is harder still on the little ones.

DORIS CLARK

I am desperate now, Miss Clark, so if you can offer any advice or help for our situation, we would be forever grateful.—JAMES SENIOR.

DEAR JAMES—Budgeting for eleven on one modest salary takes higher mathematics and optimism. And maybe outside help. Your best resort is the Children's Aid Society, 63 West Moira Street, Belleville, which counsels on family problems as well as when children are involved.

But don't let love fly out the window. Bickering comes of taut nerves and worry if you let it. I'd say take stock of your spirit-lifting assets and substitute fun for fretting. Many a childless couple would give away snug security for nine youngsters; many a widower would exchange empty freedom for a nice comfortable ball and chain.

DEAR DORIS—Frankly I do not know in which way I can pass my many thanks to you.

I have received many letters from Canada, and/one very interesting one from Mrs. Blank, who I am willing to keep a constant gift if she intends to.

Again I should say I am very grateful for the attention you have paid to my lines, which I was in doubt would meet any attention.—GEORGE, UNEF.

DEAR GEORGE—Hurray for the Maple Leaf! Considering the imagination and effort it takes to write to someone you don't know, I'm proud of us. When you reply, second and third letters will come easier.

(There are books and experts on just about everything. Let Doris lead you to the one you need for Successful Living.)

St. John's F.G. Plans Euchre Party

St. John's Friendship group, Point Abbie, met at the home of Mrs. Norman MacDonald on Tuesday afternoon. There were 12 members present.

The president opened the meeting and proceeded with the regular order of business.

Plans were made to hold a euchre around the middle of November, with door prize and refreshments.

The next meeting will be held on November 27th at the home of Mrs. Arthur Golden.

After the meeting closed, refreshments were served.

H-S Area 'C' Assoc. to Meet At QuinteSecondary School

Next Saturday in Moira Secondary School from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Area "C" Home and School Associations will gather for its annual fall conference. Delegates from Oshawa, Pickering, Lindsay, Peterborough and Belleville district councils and associations will meet together to discuss and learn about such topics as programming, public relations and the ways and means of "Getting Through".

Registration is at 9 a.m. followed by a play, written and performed by members of Peterborough council called "Getting Through". This will be followed by a panel and group discussions.

PUBLIC RELATIONS

Mr. H. J. A. Brown, business administrator and secretary-treasurer of South Peel Board of Education at Port Credit, will discuss public relations as it concerns Home and School.

At the noon luncheon held in Moira cafeteria, Mrs. A. F. Teogood, executive vice-president of Ontario federation will bring to those attending the luncheon many suggestions and thoughts for Home and School Associations as she has had many years of training and experience in all phases of Home and School work, including "Leadership Training" at the camp.

In the afternoon, programs for urban, rural, elementary and secondary schools will be presented by Mr. D. M. Graham who since 1945 has been director of education at Forest Hill Village schools, is chairman of recruitment and service council for secondary schools and on advisory council of Metropolitan School Board in Toronto.

As the programs of a Home and School Association are its most important functions, this session should give everyone an opportunity to acquire knowledge and skills for the benefit of their association. Everyone is welcome, come to learn, to observe, to participate but, by all means come!

MAIL CALL

Question: A new family recently moved into our neighborhood, and I'd like to invite the parents to a party we are planning. Several other neighbors also will be invited. Since I've never been introduced to the newcomers, I wonder if it would be correct to call or send them an invitation.—Mrs. G.J., New Haven, Conn.

Answer: Established residents of a neighborhood usually take the initiative in establishing social contact with newcomers, so it would be quite correct — and hospitable — to invite the new neighbors to your home, although you haven't been formally introduced. The invitation could be in the form of a note or a phone call or, if you prefer, you could drop by and introduce yourself and invite them in person.

St. Joseph's C.W.L. Holds Successful Bazaar and Tea

The Knights of Columbus Hall, Front Street, was appropriately decorated in keeping with the fall theme, when St Joseph's Catholic Women's League held a most delightful tea and bazaar yesterday afternoon.

The event was convened by Mrs. B. F. Belmo with co-convener, Mrs. E. Hilbig, who, along with the League president, Mrs. V. Muldoon, warmly welcomed the many patrons at the entrance to the hall.

The auditorium was attractively decorated with colorful maple leaves and replicas pertaining to the duck hunting season. The brown and green color scheme was also carried out on each of the various sales tables where there was an abundant supply of articles so appropriate for Christmas giving.

Mrs. H. Carr-Braint, as hospitality convener, mingled with the guests, making each and every one feel most welcome, and she was assisted by the tea room hostess, Mrs. A. Mercier. Here, the focal point of interest was the long tea table, with white lace cloth centred with an exquisite arrangement of bronze mums mingled with sunny yellow snapdragons, with various wildlife birds about the base, all beneath a glass dome enclosure. This effect was also carried out on each of the guest tables which were centred with miniature ducks or geese 'neath tiny glass domes.

POURING TEA

During the afternoon those who poured tea were: Mrs. L. Doyle, Mrs. Dan Whalen, Mrs. H. Whalen, Mrs. H. O'Neill and Mrs. A. Anton. Those who served the dainty goodies were: Mrs. B. Hurley, Mrs. J. Canty, Mrs. J. McCabe, Miss Joyce Carr-Braint, Mrs. J. Reynolds, Mrs. J. Letersky, Mrs. Marfa, Mrs. D. Green, Mrs. A. Dustin and J. Walsh. Others who helped in making a refreshing cup of tea and replenishing the plates were Mrs. R. Johnston, Mrs. H. Bone, Mrs. C. Murphy, Mrs. G. Meagher, Mrs. E. Pollier, Mrs. Callery and Mrs. Cassidy.

In viewing the Christmas table one realized that Christmas is not too far away and there were for sale a grand array of Christmas novelties, colorful flannel Christmas stockings, Yule log table centrepieces, coat corsages, fussy holiday season aprons and numerous other articles. This was convened by Mrs. D. Barrett, assisted by Mrs. J. A. Keeley, Mrs. D. J. Boyle and Mrs. A. McCollam. Mrs. G. Bell was the winner of an artistic golden table centre.

The sewing booth was convened by Mrs. S. H. Kinsella, Mrs. R. Banksy and Mrs. L. J. Belanger, who was also responsible for the making of the baby doll cradles. Also for here were pyjamas, doll and dresses, little pinafores, skirts, little tots aprons, Christmas card holders and many other articles.

As usual the bake table did a rousing business with its abundant supply of delicacies including delicious cakes, tarts, cup cakes, date and dream squares, assorted cookies, as well as many pies, date loaves and boxes of chocolate fudge and maple cream candy. Mrs. W. T. Meagher and Mrs. Fred Manard (who also made a delectable angel cake which was raffled at end of the afternoon and won by Mrs. Martin) were in charge.

MANY APRONS

A large number of aprons in all colors, sizes and materials were sold quickly under the direction of Mrs. V. M. Kirby and Mrs. J. D. Driscoll. Mrs. E. G. Tugnett and Mrs. P. E. Fleming did a brisk business at the "Post Office" and Mrs. E. Labelle continued her raffle project of several months by selling the remaining of the tickets during the afternoon and the winners of these were $50. — Mrs. Lynn Meagher; $15. — Joanne McAvoy and $5. — Mrs. McGee.

Tickets were also sold on a hat and accessories in charge of Mrs. A. Anton with the wise her being Mrs. R. Finlayson.

The knitting booth was convened by Mrs. J. Hanley and Mrs. G. Pilon and with the sudden cold spell there was a great demand for knitted mittens and socks.

Many religious items were for sale at the religious table which was in charge of Mrs. Panting, assisted by Mrs. Tupah and Mrs. Donati.

Mrs. G. Bell was the treasurer for this most successful annual event.

On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. W. Poremba was in charge of a fish pond for the children at St. Joseph's School and she was assisted by Mrs. Moore, Ladies' Day Out Held At Y.M.C.A.

This past Tuesday local housewives enjoyed another "Ladies' Day Out" at the YMCA. The afternoon program centred around a demonstration, talk and discussion on floral arrangements led by Barbara Elliot of the Weller's flower shop.

The regular program of "limnastics," informal games and swimming occupied the morning hours. Children accompanying their mothers were cared for during these programs by a baby-sitter.

Next week's program is to highlight the subjects of budgeting and clothing styles and accessories.

Ladies wishing to participate in this program should contact the YMCA.

Mrs. Chartrand, Mrs. McCallam and Mrs. Granger. There was also a sale of delicious candy, convened by Mrs. F. Collyer and Mrs. J. Lane and assisted by Mrs. M. Meagher, Mrs. Marfa, Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Salonen.

Holloway Street U.C.W. Holds Colorful Autumn Tea, Bazaar

A typical fall day, complete with intermittent sunshine, nippy breezes and scudding leaves ushered in an attractive autumn tea at Holloway Street United Church yesterday afternoon under the convenorship of the United Church Women.

Pretty potted French marigolds lined the entrance to the church and at the head of the stairs, adorned with a planter filled with branches of Scotch pine, red carnations and other fall flowers, including a colorful fuchsia, the guests were met by the president of the U.C.W., Mrs. Clarence Holmes, and late in the lower auditorium, by Mrs. W. Coleman, wife of the pastor; Mrs. Garn Dobbs and Mrs. Dixon, whose cheerful and gracious welcomes were most appreciated.

ATTRACTIVE BOOTHS

The first of the many attractive booths was at the stair landing and given over entirely to children's wear, of pretty little pink and white checked gingham dresses, some in blue and white; warm blue and white striped nighties; little aprons in various prints; knitted mitts; stockings; sweaters; little bonnets and baby sets in white, yellow, blue and pink and a newcomer on this scene, a little lady doll attired in a bouffant skirt with matching cape and hat, cute monkeys; driftwood centrepieces; lovely crochet doilies; sponge rubber centres; bottles of bath salts; bedroom slippers in red and green and many little turtles crawling about.

SHOPPERS' MECCA

The apron booth was a veritable mecca for Christmas shoppers for here were lines and lines filled with charming little aprons in many materials, styles and colors, each one a most suitable Yuletide gift and many more on the long counter some in half styles and others in the all-over design. Here, too, a bride doll was the centre of a silent auction.

The next booth was that of the dolls' clothes, little dresses; slacks; sweaters; woolen panties; crib quilts; and even some dressed dolls, one in a pink outfit and one with big white caps and green slacks.

Here, also appeared the silent auction' doll.

The candy counter was three-deep with patrons who vied for the delicious 'sweeties' offered for sale, including boxes of strawberries mint-topped pastel creams; cocoanut chews; delicious nutty fudge and divinity, as well as candy-coated apples, all most luscious looking.

TEMPTING FOODS

The delicatessen booth was replete with jellied chicken, devilled eggs, luncheon plates containing cooked meat; potato salad and appetizers; individual meat pies, fresh roast pork, baked meat and steamed sweet apples like grandmother used to make; homemade biscuits, and a wonderful assortment of jellos.

The pantry shelf was laden with a bounteous store of canned goods; relishes, catsup, pickles, pickled cabbage, jams, jellies, conserves, chili sauce, canned beets and fruits, and many more too numerous to mention. Here, again, one met another silent auction doll, and completing the picture, many golden pumpkins, and pretty African violets and begonia plants.

The homecooking booth offered many delicious confections, literally a "feast for the gods," huge angel cakes, layer cakes with snow-white icing, tarts of many sorts, latticed raspberry pies, as well as lemon heaped on with golden mounds of meringue, pumpkin, date and lemon loaves, homemade bread, cup cakes, muffins and tea biscuits.

Around the corner was the "white elephant" booth, gleaming with sparkling rhinestone necklaces and bracelets, beads of many sorts, salts and peppers, some were little yellow kittens with rhinestone eyes; earrings, Readers Digest books and colorful wastebaskets; jugs and framed silhouette pictures, figurines, children's scissors, pink hood and coat.

LOVELY TEA ROOM

Tall white standards of bronze, vine and white mums guarded the entrance to the lovely tea room with its white pillars garlanded with autumn flowers and sprays of Scotch pine, and in between hung little baskets filled with colorful autumn leaves in scarlet, gold, crimson and russett with sprays of pine and "eucalabout the whole, a rope of tiny pine sprays.

The long tea table which centred the enclosure, was exquisitely appointed in the autumn theme with a Scotch lace cloth in ecru shade, with grape leaves and clusters in a lovely arrangement of snowball white 'mums mingled with pink and gold 'mums. Tall flickering bronze candles in crystal holders, the silver services, and pretty maple leaf design serviettes completed the setting.

The sextet guest tables were also centred with white cotton lilacs in pitcher style, holding Spidenlining teapots —Mrs. Cordes, Mrs. Cross and Mrs. Steward.

The kitchen convener was Mrs. R. Taylor, while those working in the kitchen were: Mrs. R. Harvey, Mrs. C. Smith, Mrs. F. Langabeer, Mrs. R. Irwin, Mrs. L. N. Hendricks, Mrs. J. Bush, Mrs. M. Bush, Mrs. R. Walker, Mrs. Johns, Mrs. Goodman, Mrs. Harvey, Mrs. Dryden, Mrs. D. Cook, Mrs. H. Hoyt, Mrs. C. Cunningham, Mrs. Parks, Miss M. Mac-Fargahar, Mrs. MacDonald, Mrs. O. White, Mrs. E. Ferguson, Mrs. Parliament, Mrs. Fitzgibbon.

Those who served were: Mrs. MacDonald; Miss H. Smith, Mrs. A. MacDonald, Mrs. S. Rapino, Mrs. A. Hitchon, Mrs. R. Campbell, Mrs. D. Daniels, Mrs. S. Atkinson, Mrs. D. Dickens, Mrs. F. Cavers, Mrs. V. St. Columba W.A. Drafts Fall Bazaar

The bazaar committee of St. Columba W.A. met early this week at the home of Mrs. R. A. Dunsmore.

Final plans were laid for the annual fall bazaar to be held later this week. All members of the W.A. are busy scanning recipes for the bake table or finishing a pair of mittens or an apron for the handicraft booths.

The ladies wish to thank all the kind friends who made last year's bazaar such a resounding success and hope that they will be greeted with their presence again this year.

As everyone knows, all proceeds go toward the building fund for the new church, which is hoped to be started in the near future.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Hermina S. — I want our Sunday visits to my in-laws to stop.

Irving S. — Their whole week revolves around our call.

Hermina S. — I realize there are special problems when you marry an only child. That's why I've gone along with our custom of Sunday-afternoon-at-Grandma's for 12 years now. Normally I'm a peace-loving gal and I'm only rebelling now because of our children and friends.

Giving up every single Sunday for my in-laws has had some sad results. Our friends can't ever get us to a barbecue or a picnic and have stopped inviting us. Our four children are growing older and, after the first hello, grow frightfully bored sitting around. And Irving can't join a bowling club he likes, because the tournament playoffs are on Sundays.

I say let's cut down on the trips and leave some Sundays open.

Irving S. — Picture my aging parents on a Monday. They begin thinking of our next visit to them, six days hence. Mom wonders what to serve us for supper, and Dad helps her set the house to rights after the six of us have tramped through the rooms.

It may be a sacrifice but brightening their week this way is the least we can do. Dad is a retired school teacher, Mom is the quiet type, and their lives revolve around me, Hermina and their grandchildren. There's nothing they wouldn't do for us.

Things are not as bad as Hermina paints them. We get to see our friends during the week. And I can bowl Tuesday nights.

The Council: Ritual may be all right as a religious tool, but it can turn human relations into an empty shell. Those processionals and recessionals of the young S. family, occurring week after week at the same hour, have become robot-like. Grandma and Grandpa wind up the mechanism and the others dance!

We suggest that the schedule be immediately modified to every other Sunday, and that once the older S.'s find they can survive and even thrive without the seventh-day shot-in-the-arm of visiting children, they might even experiment and skip two Sundays in a row.

These parents appear possessive and unjust. Their son is caught up in a net of immaturity and guilt feelings. The compulsive visits keep him forever their "little boy." It's about time he spoke up like a big boy. Why shouldn't he have a chance to join a bowling club and fraternize with fellows of like talents over the weekend? Why shouldn't Hermina and the kids join other families for Sunday afternoon outings?

Young Couple Honored at Presentation

MINTO — Salem Church hall was filled Saturday evening when the friends and neighbors gathered to honor the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Vilneff (nee Audrey Carter).

Mr. Lorne Hagerman acted as chairman and invited the bride and bridegroom to the platform. Mrs. Vera Hagerman led in community singing assisted by Donna and Marilyn Geen and Mary Ray. Readings were given by Mrs. Stanley Keller and Mrs. Everett Sine. Larry Forstell sang, accompanied by his mother. Miss Jane Clements gave a piano solo; Minto school favored with a number and Marilyn and Donna Geen sang.

The address was read by Miss Lila Yorke and the young couple were presented with a space saver as well as other personal gifts for which they suitably replied, thanking all who helped in any way and also invited all to visit them in their home.

Refreshments were served.

St. Paul's Guild, 8th Tyendinaga, met recently at the home of Mrs. Ted Daniels. The president, Mrs. C. Hamilton, opened the meeting with a hymn, God," followed with prayer led "Breathe On Me, Breath of by the Rev. J. Black.

There were 12 present.

Reports were given by Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Daniels. It was decided to have a euchre party in the parish hall early in November. Prizes will be donated.

A card of thanks was read from Everett Geen, thanking the guild for the donation to the Sunday School. An invitation was read from the Deanery president to attend the meeting at Madoc.

Mrs. Ward White thanked the members for the card of sympathy she had received.

Collection was $3.65.

Mrs. Madden and Mrs. Goodfellow gave a reading.

Mother's Helper

A SIMPLE WAY to settle squabbles over who's been tagged out and who hasn't, in touch football, is to have each boy wear a red bandanna (or any piece of cloth) hanging out of a rear pocket. If the bandanna is pulled out, its owner is also out of that play. No possibility of argument.

The Pearly Pulp of Pears Is Precious

By Mary Moore

An inner office complaint that sounds like this: "Mary, why don't you do something about pears? Pears are all over the place right now getting riper and riper by the minute and all I know to do with them is eat them." "Seems logical" grunted I — but I knew what she meant ("she" being my trusted right-hand Eleanor.)

So-here we go on a pear tangent.

PEAR AND ORANGE COMPOTE (redecors will like this):

Wash, pare, cores and dice ripe chilled Bartlett pears. Drop at once into chilled fresh orange juice (or fresh frozen diluted). You will need about ¾ cup orange juice and 1½ pears for each person to be served. Serve in stemmed glasses as soon as possible to retain maximum amount of vitamins.

FRESH PEAR DESSERT SALAD:

This is sometimes called Pear Coronation Salad.

On a bed of delicate lettuce leaves stand upright a whole ripe Bartlett pear which has been pared and cored (not quite to the bottom) and dipped for a moment in lemon or orange juice(to prevent browning). Fill centre with soft mixture of creamed Roquefort or Raimost cheese thinned with a little mayonnaise or cream. Mound or pipe a little of the cheese mixture in a circle about ½" from base of pear and fill in the little furrow between pear and cheese circle with red currant jelly. Serve with savory or cheese cocktail crackers.

PICKLED PEARS (preferably Seckel):

Pare firm, ripe Seckel pears, or any small firm pears, leaving the stem on. Drop them into cold water to keep them from turning dark. Blanch by dropping into boiling water. Take out each pear at once as it rises to the surface. Plunge into cold water and drain. Pack the pears in sterile pint jars. Pour over Hot Syrup: (This amount will cover about 7 pounds of pears.) Three pounds sugar (1 pound of sugar measures exactly 2¼ cups), 2 cups (white) spirit vinegar, ½ teaspoon oil of cloves (or 2 teaspoons whole cloves), ½ teaspoon oil of cinnamon (or 1 stick cinnamon broken up). Bring all to slow boil. Pour over pears in jars, distributing the whole spices evenly if used, and seal.

Publishers Urged to Aid New Nations Raise Levels By Giving Factual News

NEW YORK (CP) — Roy Thomson today urged United States publishers to invest their technical knowledge and their money in assuring to new nations "an opportunity to develop in the atmosphere of honest truthful and factual news.

Speaking to the annual meeting of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, the Canadian publisher offered the awakening of national consciousness in millions of formerly backward peoples as a reason for recent expansion of his own operations. In addition to its interests in Canada, Britain, the United States and Australia, the Thomson organization now operates newspapers in Africa, Asia and the West Indies.

"We regard it as our responsibility to pass on our know-how in these matters as part of the great surge forward of technical development now taking place," he said. "If, as is the case, the Western world is more advanced in its development of the media of mass communications than Africa or Asia, this only underlines the need for us to join with the engineers, the scientists, the educationists, the doctors, in helping to raise these levels as quickly as possible . . .

LEARN TO READ

"Tens of millions of youngsters are learning to read and write. What are they going to read? . . . Are they going to have an honest, factual account of what is really happening in the world?

"Honesty in the press, and in other communications media, will not just happen. We must do something about it and this must be done by people who know those media. . . . I am sure that my fellow publishers do not see this requirement. Particularly American publishers, who can well afford to participate, are not doing so . . ."

Thomson said television is important in new countries in providing informative programs for all ages on such subjects as hygiene and health and agriculture, and on the way of life in advanced nations. His organization is building studios in eight countries and negotiating in others.

It has set up in Glasgow a training college for future overseas executives of TV operations, and is starting a training scheme for future editorial and managerial employees of newspapers. This would involve bringing natives of new countries to work on Thomson newspapers in Canada and Britain.

He said this organization is encouraged by the response and a feeling that there was a technical job to be done. "We do not regard it as a political affair, but as these media of communication in order to interfere in their social, political affairs." All that was insisted on were the basic principles that the newspaper be operated in the best interests of the people of the community, and that news be reported factually and without bias.

Thomson's subject was "international Aspects of the Communications Business." His speech dealt in the main with new nations, but he referred to expansion of Thomson newspaper business in United States "which is progressing satisfactorily and which we envisage will become very much larger."

John Steinbeck Gets Nobel Prize For Literature

STOCKHOLM (AP) — John Steinbeck, best - selling American author for nearly 30 years and the author of The Grapes of Wrath, today won the 1962 Nobel Prize for literature.

The 60-year-old chronicler of social injustice in the United States was the sixth American to win the rich literary prize.

The prize this year amounts to 257,219 Swedish crowns, or $49,656.

Steinbeck was given the prize "for his at one and the same time realistic and imaginative writings, distinguished as they are by a sympathetic humor and a social perception," according to the citation by the award body.

The 18-member Swedish Literary Academy made its choice definite after nearly nine months of work on a candidate list of three-score names.

Steinbeck has written 27 books. He is perhaps best known for The Grapes of Wrath, about migratory workers, and Of mice and Men, a controversial book about itinerant ranch hands.

HAD MANY JOBS

In his youth, Steinbeck saw life in the raw in half a dozen job, ranging from brick laying to war reporting.

Hailed as a social reformer when The Grapes of Wrath, about the "okies," appeared in 1940, Steinbeck told an interviewer a year ago he felt he has grown more intense and more mature with the years.

"Everything in life is colored by your personality," he said. "If you stick around too long, they get tired of you. Sometimes I think I've stuck around too long.

"I may run out of gas, but not out of ideas, as ideas have pups. But when you're not doing anything that you don't have ideas."

Quebec Opposition Leader Announces Party Platform

QUEBEC (CP)—Daniel Johnson, the opposition leader, has put forward the Union Nationale platform for the Nov. 14 provincial election.

The program contained a strong provincial autonomy plank and promised to "retain provincial priority rights in matters of direct taxation."

The platform also stressed the main promises made by Mr. Johnson in his campaign speeches such as a $1 minimum wage, the elimination of provincial taxation for lower income brackets and a health insurance plan.

Premier Jean Lesage, meanwhile, ran into two major clash with hecklers before a largely English - speaking audience in Montreal.

He was asked to prove that expropriation of 11 privately-owned hydro-electric firms is necessary for the Quebec economy and if Resources Minister Rene Levesque dictated the Liberal stand on this issue.

Attorney-General Georges Lapalme told another rally that ministers like Mr. Johnson would have been thrown out of politics in Ontario. "in the province of Quebec, in the Union Nationale, they make party leaders out of them."

The UN platform promised to call all "French - Canadian groups together with the aim of revising the constitution."

It promised to obtain priority rights for Quebec in the direct taxation field. If Quebec turned down Dominion-provincial plans on the grounds it interfered with provincial autonomy," we would require full fiscal compensation."

The platform promised labor unemployment insurance for seasonal government workers, portable pensions and collective bargaining rights for provincial civil servants as well as the minimum $1-an-hour wage.

The party would maintain the present system of religious instruction but would permit the establishment of "neutral" schools in which there is no religious instruction.

Premier Lesage was heckled in Montreal's Notre-Dame-de-Grace constituency.

After saying expropriation was necessary for economic progress, a voice shouted "Can you prove it?"

"I believe I just 'have," the premier replied.

The decision to expropriate had been made on economic grounds, Mr. Lesage said.

"What about Rene Levesque?" shouted another voice, naming the cabinet minister generally given credit with promoting the hydro-electric takeover.

"Mr. Levesque is one of my ministers. He is in complete agreement with me," Mr. Replied.

Replying to Mr. Johnson's charges that the province is on the brink of bankruptcy, Mr. Lesage said "our financial position in the province is excellent."

AFFECTS ALL

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru of India said Wednesday, "whichever way China situation is to be decided it will affect the whole world."

Local and provincial I.O.D.E. officials enjoy a formal chat prior to last night's fifth annual district dinner held at Tabernacle Church. Approximately 115 members from Belleville, Campbellford, Picton, Napanee may be counted in the attendance. Left to right are: Mrs. James O. Benor of Campbellford, provincial counsellor; Argyll Chapter regent Mrs. A. W. Cunningham and Mrs. W. R. Morrison of Hamilton, Ontario Provincial president, and Mrs. Angus Duffy, immediate past regent, Argyll chapter. Argyll chapter was host for the dinner, the first held here in five years.

Sen. Grossart Says Pearson Performing Disservice by His Attacks on Diefenbaker

Crisis Report Was Accurate Says Fulton

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator Allister Grossart, retiring national director of the Progressive Conservative party, accused his Liberal opponent Wednesday of "down - grading" Canada and trying to "debase" the office of prime minister.

Making his maiden Senate address in the Senate, Liberal speech debate, he said recent "excesses of partisanship" by Liberal opponents are "doing harm to Canada."

"I think the point has been reached at which the well-planned attacks on Canada and the prime minister of Canada must be brought to an end once and for all. Canada's service to Canada, whatever service they may be presumed to give is inspired right here."

Senator Grossart, 55, was appointed to the upper chamber a month ago. He was subsequently announced that he will resign as the chief Conservative organizer after a party conference here next January. His successor has not been named.

The former partner and advertising executive said the present political controversy has been lowered by personal attacks on Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

"Let them seek to bring down the government if they can, but let them remember that in opposition or elsewhere, the function of all political parties is to bring Canada up."

He said there is clear evidence of the harm that has been done to the country "by those who seem to think that there is only one way, to get into office than to deny the reality of Canada's progress."

Opposition leaders were undermining the confidence of Canadians in their own country and were handling the good efforts of the prime minister to protect Canadian interests.

He said the key issue in 1962 is the same one that has dominated Canadian politics since Confederation — whether Canada can continue in existence as an economically - strong, independent country.

"A conservative administration, is opposing the old and discredited counsel of non-confidence in Canada with a national policy. Once again it raises a strong voice for Canadian interests.

"Once again, we have the leadership of a great Canadian who has, like Sir John A. Macdonald, three times defeated his principal detractors and will do so again."

IMMIGRATION

Senator Grossart said Canada has suggested an inspection of Cuba by neutral nations, not because it doubts the U.S. charges, but so that even the most prejudiced nations could be convinced the charges were accurate.

Despite Canada's defence alliance with the U.S., Mr. Fulton said, the Canadian government is "determined to take no precipitate action" until the Cuban situation is clarified.

Because of the "appalling consequences" of a nuclear war the attitude of "let's get this over with once and for all" must be avoided.

Only "patience and good judgment" can solve the crisis peacefully, Mr. Fulton said.

INDICT UNDERTAKER

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP)—Undertaker John F. Bangs was indicted Wednesday on charges accusing him of cremating bodies in pine boxes instead of more elaborate caskets ordered for the occasions. He pleaded not guilty and was freed on $5,000 bail.

U Thant Appeal Likely to Get 3-Way Reject

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Feeling mounted in UN circles today that the call by Acting Secretary-General U Thant for a freeze in the Cuban crisis would run into a three - way turndown.

Thant told the Security Council Wednesday he had made appeals to President Kennedy to suspend the U.S. naval blockade and to Premier Khrushchev to halt the reported shipments to Cuba for two or three weeks while the disputants meet and try to settle their differences.

Thant also appealed to Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos and Prime Minister Fidel Castro to suspend the arms buildup in Cuba during the cooling off period.

Delegates believed Thant's appeal would have considerable impact. But they held little hope it would be accepted by the U.S., Soviet or Cuban governments.

The United States already has said it can not accept a neutralist appeal to halt the blockade and both Russia and Cuba have made plain they have no intention of stopping the arms buildup in Cuba.

Thant acted after representatives of 48 small powers asked him to try to freeze the situation and avert a military collision between the United States and Russia.

CHARGE THEFT

MONTREAL (CP)—A real estate agent running an automobile agency in Montreal's municipal election next Sunday was charged Wednesday with theft and failure to account for $416 from a company his lawyer said was registered under his own name, Lionel Dupre, 50, was arraigned on a total of eight charges. He was released on $950 bail pending preliminary hearing Oct. 31.

Papers, TV, Radio Stations Asked to be Cautious In Publicizing Information

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House asked newspapers and television and radio stations Wednesday to be cautious and discreet in publicizing information on the armed forces during the Cuban crisis.

In doing so, Press Secretary Pierre Salinger issued a memorandum containing 12 matters of information which the White House considered "vital to our national security." The memorandum said:

"During the current tense international situation, the White House feels that the publication of such information is contrary to the public interest. We ask public information media of all types to exercise caution and discretion in the publication of such information."

The document said the defence department will release now information on the 12 subjects and listed them under three lines for U.S. news media.

A White House spokesman said the guidelines memorandum was in no sense censorship even voluntary censorship. He said the request was not binding on any news medium.

LISTS 12 POINTS

The 12 points covered these subjects:

1. Employment of strategic or tactical forces, including types of equipment, command control and detection systems;

2. Estimates of the capability of destroying targets and penetrating defences;

3. Intelligence estimates of targets;

4. Intelligence estimates of enemy forces and capabilities or information that would give a clue to the success of U.S. intelligence with respect to Cuba and the Communist bloc;

5. Details on movement of U.S. forces, vessels, aircraft, missiles and ammunition;

6. The degree of alert of military forces;

7. Location of aircraft;

8. Emergency dispersal plans for aircraft and units;

9. Estimates of vulnerability;

10. New data on missile distribution and readiness, or estimates of capability of missile forces;

11. Details of command and control systems, including estimates of ability to survive attack;

12. Estimates of airlift or sealift capabilities.

ALLOW CONFIRMATION

The memorandum to editors and radio and television news directors said the government may announce the movement of military units after the transfers have been made. It also said the presence of aircraft that can be observed by the public may be confirmed.

Salinger also made it clear whether publication of certain information would breach the guidelines were told to get in touch with the defence department news desk. The memorandum said any advice given "will be on an advisory basis and not considered finally binding."

Salinger met Tuesday with representatives of U.S. wire services and TV-radio networks to discuss what he termed the problem of national security information.

White House officials said organizations of foreign newspapers would be called in for a similar conference within a day or so.

Speaking Out Is Powerful Weapon for Backbenchers

OTTAWA (CP)—Twice in so many days the government has been forced to make a decision from a follower or to statements aimed at getting a policy decision along lines advocated by a supporter.

Party discipline normally is firm in Canada's government but when the MPs placed their case before the Commons it caused considerable stir. Government supporters' heels usually never are heard before the closed doors of caucus where MPs meet in private.

The most recent incident involved Terry Nugent, 41, Progressive Conservative MP for Edmonton Strathcona, who described the United States naval blockade of Cuba as "unprovoked aggression" during a Commons debate Tuesday night.

The government had studiously avoided saying anything in particular view on the U.S. action, proposing an "objective" inspection of Cuba in the light of U.S. charges that offensive bases had been set up there by Russia.

TAKE NO POSITION

Prime Minister Diefenbaker had stated in the House of Commons about the U.S. charge but in two statements on the Cuban situation he gave no indication whether the government considers the naval blockade justified.

Mr. Nugent has criticized U.S. foreign policy in the past, said Wednesday he had hoped his criticisms of the blockade would produce a government declaration in particular opposing the U.S. action. He also wanted to make it clear to the United States government that its policies were not fully supported in Canada.

He said that within 14 hours of his statement he received 27 telegrams, all but one congratulating him for his stand, and many phone calls of support.

Mr. Nugent's action followed by one day the criticism of Jack McIntosh (PC—Swift Current-Maple Creek) directed at "democratic oppression" by government officials. He introduced a bill providing a $14,000 fine or 14 years in prison or both for depriving Canadians of their legal rights.

APPEAL TO POPE

LONDON (Reuters) — The Mothers against War organization said Wednesday it has sent a cable to Pope John urging him to "stop Kennedy now" in the U.S. president's action on Cuba. The cable said that since Kennedy is a fervent Catholic he "will be loath to go against the Pope's authority."

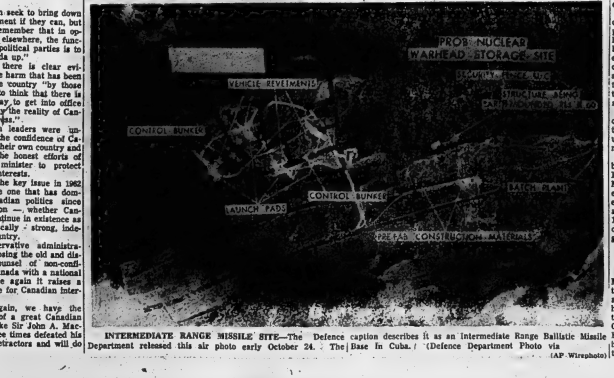
Sen. J. T. Haig Dies Tuesday In Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (CP)—Hon. J. T. Haig, 84, a member of the Senate from Manitoba for 27 years until his retirement last February, died Tuesday in hospital.

Mr. Haig, a member of the Privy Council, was former Progressive Conservative government leader in the Senate. He retired because of ill health.

His son, Campbell Haig, was appointed to the Senate in his place.

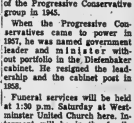
Born at Colborne, Ont., Mr. Haig was educated at Alexander, Man., Brandon Collegiate and the University of Manitoba. He was called to the Manitoba bar in 1904.



He was elected to the Manitoba Legislature in 1914, for Assiniboia riding, but later was defeated. He was elected to the Legislature for Winnipeg in 1920 and was re-elected to the same area twice thereafter.

Appointed to the Senate in 1935, he was appointed leader of the Progressive Conservative group in 1945.

When the Progressive Conservatives came to power in 1957, he was named government leader and minister without portfolio in the Diefenbaker cabinet. He resigned the leadership and the cabinet post in 1960.



Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at Westminster United Church here. Interment will be in the family plot, Kildonan Cemetery.

He is survived by two sons and four daughters.

Four Inches Of Snow at Owen Sound

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The season's first snow fell Tuesday night and early Wednesday in southern Georgian Bay districts and southwestern Ontario.

A freak storm in the Orillia area caught motorists with their snow tires off. Two inches of snow, recorded between 8 a.m. and 9:30 a.m., slowed traffic on streets. Severn Bridge, 10 miles north of Orillia, and the Coldwater area, 12 miles west, reported about three inches.

At Owen Sound, temperatures dipped to 32 degrees Tuesday night, and by 7 a.m. Wednesday the snowfall was estimated at four inches. By 11 a.m. the mercury had inched up to 42 degrees, leaving highways in the area covered with wet snow and slush.

In southwestern Ontario, London recorded a snowfall of 7 inches, Centralia saw inch and Mount Forest and St. Thomas more than a half inch. Sarnia also reported snow, as temperatures dipped into the mid-30s Tuesday night.

LATIN AD

VATICAN CITY (AP) — An advertisement in Latin has appeared for the first time in the Vatican's daily newspaper L'Osservatore Romano, but it contains one universally familiar word—automobile — in offering cars for rent. Latin is the official language of the Roman Catholic ecumenical council meeting here.

Gore

THE GORE — Apple growers are completing the harvesting of a bountiful crop. Silo filling, too, is almost finished and the farmers are turning their attention to plowing.

Mr. Bert Hatfield and Larry, members of the Belleville Salvation Army Band, accompanied the band to Buffalo for a weekend engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Redner, accompanied by Mrs. Bert Redner, Miss Audra Brickman and Miss Irma Bonter, motored to Toronto on Sunday and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Everett Dabail and Chris.

Several members of the Women's Institute were guests of the Wellington Institute on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Mac Hubbs attended a surprise birthday party for Mrs. Ernest Russell, Albury, on Saturday evening.

Mr. Gary Townsend of Kemptville Agricultural School spent the weekend at his home.

Centre U.C.W. members catered to the annual banquet of the Belleville Fair Board on Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pringle, Selby, were Wednesday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Fulver.

Mrs. Will Hubbs and the Rev. Townsend, a former pastor on the charge, are both patients in the Belleville hospital.

Gore residents and others who have been greatly inconvenienced by road detours caused by the rebuilding of a bridge are glad that the bridge is now completed and the school bus, the milk truck, the baker and all traffic can go direct once more.

Mrs. Kenneth Green, Ronald and Sandra spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Green, Keene, Ontario.

Page Boys Have to Show Financial Need to Get Jobs But Work Is Interesting

By ALEX MORIN

OTTAWA (CP) — For the young man who wants to hob-nob with some of Canada's best-known citizens—and get paid for the privilege—a page boy's job in the House of Commons is a natural target.

But there are a couple of catches. To qualify, a boy has to show financial need, get permission to be away from school most of the time, and keep tidier than the normal teen-ager ever dreamed possible.

The reward is presence in the Commons through every day of a session of Parliament, running errands for the 265 members.

There are 16 Commons pages ranging in age from 12 to 16. They are chosen from a long list of applicants from the Ottawa area before each session.

It's a job the holder literally grows out of. He becomes ineligible once he's over 16. And the page's official dress—tight-fitting black mess jacket, high vest, black trousers, starched-front shirt and black bowtie—needs altering at least once a session to keep pace with his growth.

THREE ARE ADULTS

Robert Robertson, the chief page, says there is a turnover of about 30 per cent of his staff at each session and that a page rarely remains more than three sessions.

Mr. Robertson, 41, took over as chief this fall after being assistant for two years and senior page for nine. Those three are the only positions held by adults.

Their job is to keep strict discipline among the boys and make sure no MP's wish goes unattended.

The pages start their day by spending about two hours filling the previous day's Hansard report of Parliamentary proceedings and copies of bills and other papers in the offices of members to whom they are assigned. Each boy does the work for 13 members.

When the House is sitting one group takes its place on the steps of the Speaker's throne, the remainder at the other end of the chamber. They must keep a constant watch for a raised hand or a snap of the fingers that mean their services are wanted.

Errands include getting a glass of water, a book from the parliamentary library, a forgotten paper in a member's office, taking a message to another member or someone in the gallery.

Part of the daily routine is a military type inspection at which Chief Page Robertson and his lieutenants check for clean hands, well - manicured nails and general tidiness of dress.

The pages aren't permitted to eat candy or chew gum while on duty; they must watch their language, be punctual and speedy (they're discouraged from using the elevators).

Some of the boys attend regular classes in off hours but most concentrate on proceeding from the page service to the position of messenger in some government department.

At least one page — William Henry White, who served MPs in the years shortly before Confederation—went on to become a member of Parliament himself. He represented Alberta's Victoria constituency around 1908.

Boys chosen for the page jobs are almost invariably children of widows to whom the $126-a-month salary can mean a lot.

Kelso Duels Carry Back

NEW YORK (AP)—A battle for honors as United States Horse of the Year, with international overtones, is scheduled Saturday at Belmont Park when Kelso and Carry Back hook up in the $100,000-added Man O'War Stakes.

Two of the best three-year-olds in Europe add international flavor to the backyard squabble between Carry Back, a four-year-old colt, and five-year-old Kelso.

Monade, a filly owned by Greek shipping magnate George Coulandris, and Marquise du Vivier's Val de Loir are the French invaders in the 1½-mile race over the Widener grass course. Val de Loir won the French Derby, and Monade the English Oaks.

In addition, George D. Widener's Jaipur, the best three-year-old colt in the U.S., will join the fray, along with Bean Purple, T. V. Lark and several of the best grass-course specialists.

Hobean Farm's Bean Purple, who won last week's Hawthorne Gold Cup, also holds decisions over both Carry Back and Kelso. Preston Madden's T. V. Lark upset Kelso in last year's Washington, D.C., International. Carry Back, 1961 Kentucky Derby winner, has beaten Kelso twice this season.

FIND HUNTING IDEAL

PELEE ISLAND, Ont. (CP)—Ideal weather and abundance of birds greeted 700 hunters Wednesday for the opening of a two-day pheasant season on this Lake Erie island.

Pelee Township officials said the warm sun made for a good and comfortable hunt.

Officials said there was no shortage of pheasants on the island and that they expected "serious" hunters would have little difficulty getting their bag limit of eight cock birds and two hens.

Conservation Milestone

New Wildlife Federation

OTTAWA (CP)—The founding convention of the Canadian Wildlife Federation here Nov. 2-4 is considered by Canadian sportsmen the most important milestone in the history of Canada's conservation movement.

Twenty-one delegates representing 750 associations with a total membership of more than 150,000 outdoor sportsmen, will attend the two-day meeting to ratify a constitution, elect officers and delegate authority to hire an executive director.

The founding convention is the result of action undertaken one year ago at the Resources for Tomorrow conference in Montreal. At that time a unanimous decision of intent to form a national body was expressed by sportsmen delegates.

A five-man working committee under chairman Stan Hodgkiss of Terrace Bay, Ont., president of the Ontario Federation of Hunters and Anglers, worked out preliminary details during the year.

Mr. Hodgkiss said Wednesday in a press release the major purpose of the organization will be "to promote the cause of conservation throughout Canada. The body will also assist provincial affiliates in working for sound renewable resource management with emphasis on the welfare of wildlife."

He said "many contend that the long-range benefits of the Canadian Wildlife Federation make this occasion comparable to the birth of the national labor of farm movements."

Campaigns to promote "more healthful outdoor activity participation by Canadian adults" will be instituted and "special emphasis" will be placed on encouraging the natural interest of the nation's youth in our wildlife and to instill in them the principles of good sportsmanship."

The head office of the federation will be established here.

Walter Dinsdale, minister of northern affairs and natural resources, is expected to address the closing dinner Nov. 2.

Stan The Man Comeback Champ

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Stan Musial of St. Louis Cardinals, seven times National League batting champion, was named today as the circuit's comeback player of the year for 1962 in the annual Associated Press poll.

Musial, who hit more than .300 this season for the first time in four seasons, was selected by 31 of the 108 baseball writers participating in the balloting. Catcher Del Crandall of Milwaukee was second with 23 votes followed by pitcher Ed Roebuck of Los Angeles 18, outfielder Bob Skinner of Pittsburgh 10 and infielder - outfielder Harvey Kuenn of San Francisco 6.

Musial finished third in batting last season with a .330 mark, including 149 hits, 19 of them homers, the 42-year-old outfielder also stole three bases.

INJURED SHOULDER

Crandall, out with a shoulder injury most of 1961, came back to bat .297 in 107 games in 1962, his highest average in 12 major league campaigns.

Roebuck, 30 gamer and lost two while appearing in 64 games for the Dodgers after spending most of 1961 on the disabled list.

Skinner hit .302 in 144 games with 20 homers and 76 RBI. His 1961 mark was .263.

Kuenn showed vast improvement in his second season with the Giants, increasing his average 39 points to .304. He captured the American League batting crown in 1959 while with Detroit Tigers.

M. Orcutt Leads Golf Tourney

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—Maureen Orcutt, moving toward a third successive North and South senior golf championship, pulled into a four-stroke lead after the second round Wednesday.

The Englewood, N.J., veteran shot 76, four over par, for a 36-hole total of 153. Trailing her by four shots going into today's final round are Mrs. John Pennington of Buffalo, who shot 80 Wednesday, and Mrs. L. W. Snead of Orchard Lake, Mich., who carded a 77.

Miss Orcutt shot the par-72 course of the Pinehurst Country Club, a 5,337-yard layout, in 40-36.

Toronto's Ada MacKenzie shot a 79 Wednesday for a two-day total of 162. Mrs. J. C. Sibler of Simcoe, Ont., finished the second round 82-83 — 165 and Mrs. Campbell MacKenzie of Toronto was 86-86—172.

The Trots

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Shells F, six-year-old mare owned by Dr. J. S. Ferguson of Chatham, won the featured $800 C2 pace Wednesday night at Western Fair Raceway.

Shells F., with Herb Craig in the sulky, crossed the wire a length ahead of Harold Berry's Dancer, taking the race in 2:10 2-5, the best time of the night, and paying $17.70 to win. Reed's Dream came in third.

Skytop at, owned and driven by Bill Fritz of Walkerton, took the opening race in 2:13 4-5, for $2.80, combining with second race winner Bob C. Grattan, 2:14 4-5, for $6.50, to return a $35.40 daily double.

Canadians Lose At Rugger

EBBW VALE, Wales (Reuter)—A touring Canadian rugger team played its first game under the lights Wednesday night and was beaten 16-3 by a combined Newbridge-Ebbw Vale 15.

The Canadians lost their fourth four game by two goals, one penalty goal and one try, to one goal and one penalty goal.

Taking advantage of handling mistakes by the Welsh backs, the Canadians set up a series of attacks in which their centres, Jim Stubbs and Bob Clarke, both of Vancouver, made several dangerous raids.

A penalty against the Welsh side enabled Barrie Burnham of Vancouver to land an easy goal. They followed up with one of the best movements of the game when Vancouver's Dave Frid took the ball over under the posts for Burnham to convert and give them the lead at halftime.

Seeks Frank Leahy

Liston Changes Manager

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Sonny Liston, world heavyweight boxing champion, is reported to be after football coach Frank Leahy to take over as his fight manager.

The move is reported in two newspapers, the New Orleans Times-Picayune and the New York Journal-American.

The Times-Picayune quotes a reliable source as saying "Sonny has definitely made up his mind to change managers and his choice is Frank Leahy."

Leahy, 54, once coached Notre Dame and now is a stock salesman and public relations man in San Diego, Calif.

Liston is currently advised by Jack Nilon. His manager of record, George Katz, is inactive.

The Times-Picayune also says Sonny has decided to move from Philadelphia, scene of some of his scrapes with the law, either to Chicago or Detroit.

Leahy is a close friend of Rev. Edward Murphy of Denver, Colo., a Roman Catholic Jesuit priest who taught Liston how to read and write.

SOLD TO CALGARY

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League Wednesday sold Gordie Rodahl, a centre and wing, to Calgary Stampeders of the Western Hockey League for an undisclosed sum. Baz Bastien, the Hornets' manager, said the transaction was an outright sale and didn't involve any other players.

The Tracks

ORONTO (CP) — Golden Turkey won the $11,900 Maple Leaf Stakes for the second year in succession at Old Woodbine Wednesday, a nose in front of Lavelle.

Rattling way was two lengths back in third place in the one-mile event.

Golden Turkey's $6,900 winner's share brought her seasonal earnings to $12,425.

Charley's Pal won the first race and combined with London Town for a daily double of $78.20.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Two weeks ago a magnificent bull moose stood atop the steping north bank of the Magpina River, some seventy miles west of Hearst. He weighed 100 pounds short of a ton. He lifted a 65-inch antler rack high as he surveyed his natural kingdom.

Satisfied, he lowered his head and started to turn away. It was his last living motion. A rifle-shot broke the still of the afternoon. The big moose staggered, dropped and rolled forty feet down the bank's slanted undergrowth to the river bank. He never knew what struck him for he was dead when he hit the ground shot cleanly through the heart.

It is just as well he did for had he survived the shot his magnificent head have been hurried through mutilation. After all, a 1,900-pound sultan of the woods, with an unlimited cow harem at his beck and call, has some vestige of pride.

But he died in blissful ignorance. He departed for the Moslem Valhalla unaware that the finger that triggered his execution belonged to a middle-aged huntress from Ottawa.

Nor did he know that the same finger sped the finishing touch to a middle-aged brother the day before, a few miles down the same river.

And in the near future, his handsome rack of antlers will grace the trophy room of the residence at 600 Laurier Avenue West, Ottawa, of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hicks, formerly of Belleville and Picton.

The old hunting story of the Man and the Moose has a new twist these days in the Hicks household. Lloyd tells the yarn, but the heading has changed. Today it is the "Woman and the Mooses—or Meese."

For this Diana of the northern wilds boasts something of a record for the alleged "weaker sex." She shot two antlered kings in two days, and used but two rounds of ammunition. She "raised the deuce" any way you want to look at it.

The second moose kill was strictly a Mrs. Hicks affair. But you can forgive Lloyd his slight pink countenance when he recites the story of the first kill.

Lloyd and Louise Hicks with their guide were canoeing the river when they spotted the three-year-old 1,300 pound bull on the shoreline. They beached their craft and started on foot to get closer to their quarry.

They eventually located it and Lloyd looked at Louise. Generously she gestured "After you m'lord." Lloyd fired and the moose slightly wounded started up the bank. A second shot rang out and it dropped dead. Mrs. Hicks had her first moose. The post-mortem revealed she was dead on the heart target.

The exciting story of the Hicks' five-day moose-hunting trek into the wild north country "with wolves howling just outside our tent" will appear in Saturday's edition.

The Hicks are well known here and in Picton. Lloyd was one of Canada's outstanding speedboat racing men. Mrs. Hicks also an enthusiast, accompanied Lloyd to regattas all over the North American continent. He built and drove his own racing craft, the "Baby Bugeye."

He was one of the mainstays of Picton Regattas for many years prior to coming to Belleville. While here he was also prominent in Rotary Club work. The Hicks moved to Ottawa some fifteen years ago when business called for a transfer to the capital city.

Series Pot O'Gold

Terry Pitch Worth $2,591

NEW YORK (AP) — Ralph Terry's glittering 1-0 conquest of San Francisco Giants in the seventh and deciding game of the 1962 World Series put an additional $2,591.35 into the pockets of the regular members of the victorious New York Yankees.

Charles Segar, secretary of baseball, said Wednesday a full winning share for the Yankees amounted to $9,822.74, while a full share for the losing Giants came to a record $7,231.40. The Yanks got the Giants 29.

The Yanks' share is the third highest in series history. The record is $11,231.18, picked up by the Los Angeles Dodgers' players after defeating Chicago White Sox in 1959. Next is the $11,147.20 recorded by New York Giants in 1954 following their four-game sweep of Cleveland.

The Giants' losing share this year is the most ever, surpassing the $7,275.17 collected by the White Sox in '59.

Fleming, Tremblay On Carpet ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Campbell Could Bench Head Hunters

"Sticks and stones may break my bones, chant little children, but you can't stop those high - spirited Montreal boys from trying to clean out for themselves.

So now President Clarence Campbell has $200 worth of fines to add to the National Hockey League treasury; Gilles Tremblay has two black eyes and a head full of thread; Reg Fleming has a sore arm, and all three have an appointment for talk in Campbell's office in Montreal Saturday.

Fleming, a Montreal resident playing for Chicago Black Hawks, and Tremblay, a Montreal Canadien, took to bashing each other with their sticks Tuesday night in Chicago Stadium—stones not being readily at hand.

Campbell is known to look with deep disfavor on any use of the hockey stick for purposes other than pushing a puck, and his powers to end such practices are unlimited by the NHL constitution.

COULD BE SUSPENDED

Tremblay and Fleming could be suspended, or fined even more than the automatic $100 each they were levied along with match penalties. Or they could get both.

The most recent precedent would indicate a suspension, or at last a partial one that would keep the two players from meeting under NHL auspices again this season. However, the most recent precedent was considerably more serious.

In the 1953-54 season Montreal's Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion nearly ended the career of Ron Murphy, then with New York and now with Chicago, by smashing him with his stick.

Murphy was just enough out of position so that Geoffrion's stick shattered his jaw instead of his skull. Both players were suspended from all New York-Montreal games for the rest of the season, a suspension that meant little to Murphy — he spent most of the winter in hospital away—but crippled Geoffrion's attempts to win the NHL scoring championship.

Murphy had a few words to say after watching Fleming club the 28-year-old Tremblay for 15 stitches Tuesday.

'YOU GO CRAZY'

"Every time two players start swinging sticks it's vicious," he said. "After the first swing you go crazy. All you can think about is trying to protect yourself, and the only way you can do it is to get the other guy.

"When you start swinging there's no place to run."

That is what the 28-year-old Fleming also said in his own defence after the game: "I swung to protect myself."

Fleming and Canadiens coach Toe Blake exchanged vile opinions of each other after the game in the lobby of Chicago Stadium and Fleming was all set for an alley brawl but Blake refused to fight and taunted Fleming with, "go get your stick."

Blake's version of the stick fight differed slightly from Fleming's — Blake said Fleming instigated it.

Referee Frank Udvari said he didn't know a fight was on until he heard the crowd roar and turned around to see the sticks whirring. He imposed the match penalties with their automatic $100 fines, which is as far as his jurisdiction goes.

Pending the weekend action, one game is scheduled: The unbeaten Detroit Red Wings play at Boston tonight.

Junior B Hockey Club

Chihawks Not Interested

Any hopes that the Belleville Junior hockey club had for financial assistance from the Chicago Black Hawks went aglimmering last night.

Following a meeting of the Belleville team executive, President Gordie Bell announced that the "Bellyville Juniors are divorced from the Chicago Black Hawks."

"The National Hockey League club showed little or no concern over the operation of the juniors. Instead, I believe, tagged with the withdrawal of the McFarland sponsorship," Bell added.

Means of raising money to support the club was the main topic at last night's meeting. Members of the club executive are looking for donations at the present time. It was also decided to hold a draw, the details to be finalized at another executive meeting next Thursday night.

Bobby Boyle, a local young-ster under the guiding hand of the Chicago club, came under a good deal of discussion.

Boyle is presently working out with the Ingersoll Junior 'A' team, one of Chicago's minor league clubs. Boyle played with the Mac last year.

An offer has been made to the Belleville team but this has not been accepted. The local team has asked for a larger sum of money for the player's release.

Bell said the matter will be left up to the OHA. Jim Mathews, vice-president of the Belleville team, said this morning, "We don't want to lose Boyle but if we have to, we won't stand in his way, as long as Chicago is willing to meet our asking price.

The team, which practises Friday night at nine, Sunday at one and next Tuesday at nine, has not received a name yet. Earlier plans called for the team to be named the "Belleville Mac's." If Chicago had continued with its financial aid.

A team name will likely be chosen at the next meeting.

An exhibition game has been arranged for the team on Friday, November 9, against Trudeau Motors of the City Hockey League.

The executive set its admission prices at 75 cents for adults and 25 cents for children last night. Teenagers, with student council cards, will also be admitted for 25 cents.

Darts League Results

Jim's Place dumped ANAF and Plaza A-P topped the Legion Wildcats, both by 9-2 counts, to gain the most ground in the Belleville Dart League standing this week.

Corby's took El Rancho by an 8-3 score, McInnes Men defeated the Skrikers 6-5, Wilf's City Service won over Dover's 7-4, Bobby Shop edged Lucky Lees 6-5 and Larkespurs outshaded the Ben Dusters 6-5, in other league action.

Moxon, Goyer Sign With Timmins Club

TIMMINS (CP)—Bill Moxon, former Belleville Junior 'A' team goalie, and centre Gary Goyer signed contracts Wednesday with Timmins Flyers of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League.

Moe Hunter and Larry Mavety, also former members of the OHA finalist Belleville team signed with Timmins Flyers two weeks ago.

The club is awaiting an answer from Floyd Crawford of Belleville, who has been offered the job of playing coach.

JUBA WINS

WINNIPEG (CP) — Stephen Juba swamped his lone opponent Wednesday to gain his fourth consecutive two-year term as mayor of Winnipeg. The voters gave only token support to rival Robert Moffat, a 46-year-old lawyer.

Bears Nip Hornets Move Up

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hershey has moved into a tie with Baltimore for second place in the Eastern Division of the American Hockey League. Both teams are four points behind the surprising Quebec Aces.

The Bears crept up on the idle Clippers Wednesday night when Yves Locas snapped a 2-2 tie late in the third period and led the Bears to a 4-3 victory over Pittsburgh Hornets, the last-place club in the Western Division.

The Hershey-Pittsburgh game was the only action scheduled Wednesday night and all teams got a day off today.

Pittsburgh, trailing 3-1 going into the third period, tied it at 8:30 of the final period when Howie Menard fired a shot past goalie Ed Chadwick. But at 16:19 Locas picked up the rebound of a shot by Cleland Mojtoon and slapped it past Hank Bassen from six feet out for the clincher.

Pete Conacher wound up the scoring for Hershey after the Hornets pulled their goalie.

TAKES PRECAUTIONS

VANCOUVER (CP) — Coach Dave Skrien says he is going to move his British Columbia Lions in an out-of-town hotel late Friday in preparation for Saturday's game with Winnipeg Blue Bombers at Empire Stadium. "By having them all together in a hotel for the important hours before the game," Skrien said, "we'll have assurance that they'll be thinking about nothing but football because they'll be away from the distractions of home.

Ottawa's Tucker Top Rookie

Dixon Awarded Jeff Russel Trophy

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

George Dixon, shy off the field but brassy and bold when he carries a football, was named today as the 1962 winner of the Jeff Russel Memorial Trophy.

The 195-pound Montreal Alouette halfback has dazzled Eastern Football Conference fans this season. He's only 80 yards shy of the rushing record with two games remaining and he leads the scoring parade by seven points with 13 touchdowns in 12 games.

The rookie of the year, also named Wednesday, is Whit Tucker, 21, the swift Ottawa Rough Rider defensive halfback who played last year with the University of Western Ontario Mustangs.

The Jeff Russel Award is presented annually to the Eastern Conference player who best combines clean play, sportsmanship, will to win and the promotion of team spirit.

The trophy commemorates the late Jeff Russel of the old Montreal AAA team who was electrocuted in 1920 while repairing a power line in Montreal.

CUT BY PACKERS

Dixon, from New Haven, Conn., has been a threat every time he carried the ball this season. The former Green Bay Packer, who joined Montreal in the 1959 season after being cut by the National League club, has piled up 1,348 yards rushing with a third-place team.

His average has been more than 113 yards a game, even though rival teams have been concentrating their defenses on him. His rushing represents 32 per cent of Montreal's total gain on the ground.

Dixon, who does not possess blinding speed but who combines great timing and intuitive moves, assesses his sudden success simply:

"I'm a daylight runner," he says. "Where there's room, that's where I try to go."

Tucker, who has also seen action as an offensive end because of his swiftness afoot, is a native of Windsor who was a sprint and football star at Western.

He was voted to the Intercollegiate Senior Football League's all-star team last season and was chosen as Mustangs' most valuable player.

WINS OVER-ALL PRIZE

HAMILTON (CP) — Burlington Central High School won the over-all prize in the Southern Ontario Secondary Schools Association cross-country championships Wednesday. More than 250 boys participated. Terry Raybould, Beamsville High School, won the 1½-mile junior race.

Durelle To Meet Schmidt

MONTREAL (CP)—A welterweight championship match between Joey Durelle of Baie St. Anne, N.B., and Peter Schmidt of Toronto will be held here Dec. 3, it was announced Wednesday night.

The 12-round bout for the Canadian title will be promoted by Regis Levesque of Trois - Rivieres, who said he was recently licenced by Montreal Athletic Commission to stage fights in Montreal.

The title was vacated in June this year by Gale Kerwin of Ottawa, who has quit pro boxing to devote time to his work, and Durelle and Schmidt fought an exciting 12-round draw for it in July.

That fight, promoted at Trois-Rivieres by Levesque, had a disappointing gate. Return matches were twice delayed by injuries first to Durelle and then to Schmidt.

Although Levesque announced the Dec. 3 fight at Centre Paul Sauve here as a title fight, there is a chance it won't be.

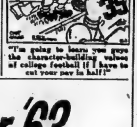
The Canadian Professional Boxing Association at its annual meeting last weekend in Quebec City decided to withhold official sanction from fights staged in cities whose athletic commissions aren't paid-up members.

Montreal's Athletic Commission hasn't paid its dues to the association since 1958. The dues owing add up, however, to only a small amount—a matter of some $50.

Griffith To Fight Fernandez

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)— World welterweight champion Emile Griffith will defend his crown against Jorge Fernandez Dec. 8.

Silver Slate Sports Club announced Wednesday that the 15-round bout will be televised from the Las Vegas Convention Centre.



The signed contracts grant the champion $80,000, with the challenger receiving a minimum of $10,000.

Griffith, from New York City and Fernandez, of Argentina, have fought twice, with the champion the victor both times by decisions.

Griffith successfully defended his title July 13 by outpointing Ralph Dupas of New Orleans in Las Vegas.

Affected World Series Effort

Cepeda Has Eye Trouble

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Orlando Cepeda, San Francisco Giants' slugging first baseman, has eye trouble. But the specialist who will examine him Monday says he doubts the problem is anything as serious as a cataract.

Cepeda, a batting disappointment late in the National League season and the World Series, revealed his concern over eye trouble Wednesday. The 1961 National League home run and runs batted-in king said he was told the trouble might be a cataract on his right eye. He said Cepeda said he learned about the condition last week when he took a driver's test.

"I couldn't see out of my right eye," he said. "Left eye, okay; right eye, bad. I went to a doctor who told me I may have a cataract. I am going back to the doctor for another examination before I go home to Puerto Rico."

Dr. George S. Campion, ophthalmologist employed by the Giants, said a serious cataract condition in Cepeda's eye "without a previous injury or inflammatory condition would be highly unusual."

Fatalities Near Record

Death By The Gridiron

NEW YORK (AP)—Football deaths in the United States are climbing steadily toward last year's total of 36, the highest in 25 years.

An unofficial count of those who have died directly or indirectly as a result of accidents in the sport has risen to 18 with the addition of two youths fatally injured within a 24-hour period.

Mike Mallory, 17, a high school guard in Gallup, N.M., apparently died of a head injury after collapsing on the practice field. James Lorien Rankin, 18, a freshman at Louisiana State University, died of a skull fracture suffered in an intramural touch football game.

The total of 18 deaths—with the football season only half completed—indicates the number could approach the 1961 total, the highest since 44 died in 1936.

Of this year's deaths, 13 have occurred in high school, Rankin's was the second in sandlot play. In addition, three college players have died.

ONE DIES IN CANADA

In Canada, an unofficial count shows only one death: Robert McArdle collapsed at a football game in the Montreal outskirts Aug. 26 and died 24 hours later.

An autopsy showed that the 38-year-old, 200-pound tackle with Trois-Rivieres Reavers of the Quebec Intermediate Football Conference had taken inflammations before playing in 90-degree heat and had a temperature of 108 when admitted to hospital.

Most of the U.S. football fatalities have occurred in practice sessions. Only four have been attributable to actual competition, and in those four cases, two were high school games, where it is assumed inferior equipment was used.

The main cause seemed to be head injuries.

This week, Fritz Crisler, rules committee chairman for the U.S. National Collegiate Athletic Association, said the latest blocking technique — blocking with the head and the hard plastic headgear—has increased head and neck injuries by 82 per cent on all football levels.

Crisler offered two solutions:

"Either a piece of equipment must be found which will absorb the shock and prevent the whiplash which the player receives when hit by the head block, or we will have to pass legislation to outlaw blocking with the head."

AT THE PARK — The very huge Mont Tremblant, famed as both a dramatic performer and popular balladeer, stars in "The Spiral Road" as an international player of jungle medicine, the world's foremost authority on tropical diseases. He's stars with Rock Hudson and Gena Rowlands in the Universal-International picture, a film color dramatization of the famed novel by Jan de Hartog opens tonight at the Park Theatre for a seven-day showing only. Prices are 7.15 and 9.45. The show is continuous Saturday from 1.00.

At The Park

"THE SPIRAL ROAD"

NOTED JAN DE HARTOG NOVEL, BECOMES FILM

The renowned novel by Jan de Hartog, "The Spiral Road," a story of Dutch doctors in the jungles of the Netherlands East Indies, has been brought to the screen by Universal-International, with Rock Hudson, Burl Ives and Gena Rowlands in the starring roles, and opens tonight at the Park feature.

The noted Dutch author's book, a brilliant appraisal of civilized man's struggle against the jungle, combining the jungle's brutal dangers with the constant battle of the human spirit against the lures of depravity and degradation, was partly filmed on location deep into the jungles of Surinam (Dutch Guiana), only four degrees north of the equator.

Although "The Spiral Road" is a drama of Dutch colonial doctors battling plagues and epidemics in the Malayan peninsula, climatic conditions around Indonesia prompted the choice of Surinam as a film site.

The large, Javanese population there, it's awesome jungle, and the old-world Dutch architecture of its only city, Paramaribo, made it an ideal background for the powerful story.

Filmed in color, "The Spiral Road" was produced by Robert Mulligan from the screen-ert Arthur and directed by Robby by John Lee Mahin and Neil Peterson.

Feature times tonight and Friday 7.15 and 9.45 p.m. Continuous Saturday from 1.00 p.m.

Bright, Funny NBC Special Was Show Given by Hope

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Hope, whose best jokes usually are topical, was playing in luck when he filmed his first show of the season, Wednesday night's bright, funny NBC special.

Most of the hour was filmed almost two months ago. But except for one line in a sketch with Lucille Ball, in which he addressed two gangster bodyguards as Nikita and Fidel, there was little to tear even the most sensitive soul.

Hope's monologue for the most part remained safely inside television—Telstar ("is the world really ready for soupy sales?"), NBC's Peacock, plus a few good-humored Kennedy cracks. His sketch with Lucille Ball was a wild spoof of television lawyer shows; his sketch with Bing Crosby and Juliet Prowse was a wild spoof of TV's Bonanza.

Altogether, it was a happy relaxing hour.

Television rating services are reflecting the public concern over the Cuban crisis. Tuesday night, for instance, Chet Huntley's regular half - hour news analysis show had almost twice the audience it had piloted on the previous week, according to an American Research Bureau estimate of metropolitan New York.

Monday night, Ben Casey, had a sharp fall - off of viewers while CBS, with a news special, picked up sharply. Not all viewers were happy about the networks' policy of dumping entertainment in favor of news. The CBS switchboard lit up with complaints because it preempted Stump the Stars, hard as that is to believe.

Recommended tonight:

McHale's Navy, ABC, 9:30-10 p.m. EDT—Robust, rowdy comedy series about an improbable fighting ship and even more improbable crew.

Wins Over Heimrath

Bradley Top Race Driver

TORONTO (CP)—The duel between Toronto bus driver Francis Bradley and Ludwig Heimrath ended officially Wednesday night when Bradley received the Player's Challenge Trophy.

Bradley, 35, won the trophy, emblematic of the Canadian sports car drivers championship, with 54 driving points to more than Heimrath, the 1961 champion.

The fight between the two began in Regina in May and covered three provinces before ending Sept. 22 at Mosport, Ont., in the last lap of the final championship race, the Canadian Grand Prix.

Only one point separated them for half the season and the lead swung back and forth.

Heimrath won two of the seven championship races and Bradley only one, but Bradley finished ahead of Heimrath in the two major races, the 200 and the Grand Prix, in which double points were awarded.

Bradley's fourth-place finish in the 200 and third in the Grand Prix gave him the points he needed.

In addition to the trophy, Bradley wins the opportunity to compete in a major European race next season. Heimrath, after his win in 1961, chose to drive in the Grand Prix of Pau in France.

No arrangements have been made yet for Bradley.

Western Hockey

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gordy Kedahl, who jumped from junior ranks into professional hockey and since 1956-57 has been doing a merry dance with five teams, has been purchased by Calgary Stampeders of the Western Hockey League.

Chances are the 27-year-old forward could have slipped Wednesday night as the Stamps lost 3-2 to San Francisco Seals. Los Angeles Blades edged Portland Buckaroos 4-3.

The results left Portland, Los Angeles and San Francisco in a first-place tie in the Southern Division. Calgary stayed in last place in the north, two points behind Seattle Totems and Edmonton Flyers.

Astrological Forecast

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

For October 26

By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Day to set on ideas. No more "moon" for procrastination. By taking dynamic, positive approach, you win respect and allies. Friend or associate means well, but perhaps is overly cautious.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Trust intuition. You are able to perceive ultimate outcome of project. Ideas concerning hobby, pet or way of improving personal life should be put into action.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Favorable moon aspect means today could see you winning heart's desire. Stress versatility. Be adaptable. Avoid arguments. Be agreeable so that one close to you is made happy.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) Interest aroused in domestic matters. Necessary that you pay heed to questions asked by family members. Be kind, understanding, perceptive.

Leo (July 22 to August 21) Stress on being able to analyze, perceive, arrive at definite conclusions. Day features change possible travel and communication. Telephone call, letter-writing become important.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Tendency is to be careless about details. You want to relax. But first make sure that job has been finished. Tonight excitement fills the air.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Cycle high; you are filled to brim with enthusiasm, ideas. Be with those who can share your interests, desires. Avoid persons who really bore you and stifle your urges.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Mystery surrounds evening activity. Much in your favor. Could be start of important relationship. There are some "secrets" involved. Be sure you fully understand situation.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) The more you demand, the less you are likely to receive. Be diplomatic. Win your way instead of trying to force views on others. Humanitarian attitude helps spread influence.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You are able to perceive the "rhythm" of recent happenings. Now, strike while the iron is hot. Move ahead. Reveal knowledge of job at hand. Cooperate in community project tonight.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Favorable lunar-Mercury aspect means today you receive valuable answers. This applies where mail, telephone calls are concerned. So, nonmaterial "answers". Takes form of greater peace of mind.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Your moods may move from one extreme to the next; strive for balance. Good for entertainment. But practice moderation in spending. Better time for gathering of friends than going to expensive night clubs.

If today is your birthday end of major cycle at hand. Be ready and willing to make new contacts and improve yourself.

GENERAL TENDENCIES—Cycle up for Libra, Scorpio, Sagittarius. Day when "sweetalk" is in spotlight. Those who seek beyond the words are apt to be termed fanatics.

NORAD CO-OPERATION — A Canadian and American airman work side by side, symbolizing co-operation of two nations in North American Air Defence Command, a joint organization co-ordinating the mutual defence of Canada and the U.S. USAF Staff Sgt. 'Let Us Go Among Them' Interceptor Fighter Motto

By JAMES NEAVES

GRAND FORKS, N.D. (CP)—"Leave us go among them."

These words are the motto of the U.S. 10th Fighter Interceptor Squadron based here under control of the 29th region of the North American Air Defence Command.

The squadron, flying 1,200 m.p.h. F-101B Voodoo jet aircraft, is commanded by Lt.-Col. James M. Fogle, who works his men 70 to 100 hours a week, always keeping 20 per cent of his force in readiness for takeoff on less than three minutes' notice.

To his crews there is no such thing as a Canadian border. Most of Manitoba is part of the Grand Forks sector—a funnel-shaped area with its wide end on the southern South Dakota boundary and the narrow part extending into northern Manitoba.

From a four-storey window-less concrete building here, the direction or nerve centre, multi-million-dollar computers buzz 24 hours daily seven days a week telling everything about flying aircraft in the area. The computers can within seconds tell operators the height, speed, weight and direction of an aircraft.

RADAR IN MANITOBA

Should the maze of electronic equipment fail to identify a radar sighting within two minutes, the fighter squadron is "scrambled" and puts its motto into action.

The mission of this NORAD sector, in common with all others across North America, is the protection of what now is called "aerospace" by detecting all aircraft within the sector, identifying them as friendly or hostile, intercepting hostiles or unknowns, and, if hostile, destroying them.

The detection arms—radar—extend from North and South Dakota into Manitoba. Beaujour, 27 miles northeast of Winnipeg, is equipped with automatic tracking devices while a new station at Gypsumville, 135 miles northwest of Winnipeg will be equipped with radar considered to be the most powerful built by the Western powers.

Information from radar installations is fed directly into the computers at Grand Forks. One computer has 65,000 slots in its main "memory" storing information readily available to operators.

REMOTE CONTROL USED

Once a target is sighted the fighters go into action. They carry their own radar, supplemented by information fed directly to it from the direction centre.

The computers can maintain constant direction changes in the flight of the fighter aircraft, to keep up with any evasive action being taken by the target.

Should it become necessary, the computer can also fire the aircraft's weapons at the right instant to ensure a kill.

Armament of the Voodoo includes air-to-air Falcon missiles and MB-1 Genie rockets. Both can be equipped with nuclear warheads.

When detonated in a formation of enemy bombers, either weapon would wreck havoc on the attacking aircraft.

Canadians make up part of the staff at the direction centre, and RCAF Group Capt. Elmer J. McLeod is deputy commander, but the interceptor squadron is manned solely by Americans.

Col. Fogle says he wants just one thing—"more exchange of officers from the RCAF in the fighter group."

CATCH DOUBLED

The total world tuna catch has almost doubled since 1953 to nearly 1,000,000 tons.

Cabinet Shuffle Confirms Cass As Political Fireman

New Attorney General Stands High in Govt.

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Robarts' cabinet reorganization Thursday confirmed Fred Cass in his role as political fireman in Ontario's Progressive Conservative government.

Mr. Cass, 49, entered the legislature in 1955 and received his first cabinet appointment in 1958 to the sensitive highways portfolio which three years earlier produced the political exile of George H. Doucett following disclosure of irregularities in contract procedures.

Under Mr. Cass, opposition criticism of the department all but disappeared.

The ability of the young member from Greenwood to handle opposition barbs was tested anew last year with his appointment as municipal affairs minister, succeeding William Warrender.

Once again the department had come in for criticism, in this case for its supervision of municipal councils. Judicial inquiries into the municipal administrations of Eastview and York Township, suburbs of Ottawa and Toronto respectively, had produced scathing indictments of certain procedures.

Now Mr. Cass is moving to the post of attorney - general, just three days after the close of public hearings by the Ontario royal commission on crime. During the hearings the department was under almost constant criticism by opposition party counsel.

The new attorney-general succeeds Keiso Roberts, who moves to the lands and forests ministry in a three-way shift that sees Mr. Cass's municipal affairs portfolio taken by Wilfred Spooner, the incumbent lands and forests minister.

The shuffle, announced by Mr. Robarts at a press conference, also saw three new men enter the cabinet and three veterans retire.

William Grenville Davis, member for Peel since 1959 at 33 becomes the youngest member in the cabinet in taking the education portfolio held until now by Mr. Roberts.

The other two newcomers are James Auld, a member for Leeds, as transport minister, and John Richard Simonett, 51, member for Frontenac-Addington, minister without portfolio.

Mr. Auld succeeds Leslie Rowntree who was named to the labor portfolio, succeeding Mr. Cass.

CPR TRAINMEN ONLY THREE DAYS FROM WALKOUT

Talks With Railway In Critical Stage

MONTREAL (CP) — Talks between the CPR and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen (CLC) aimed at averting a strike in only three days moved into the critical stage today.

Negotiators both parties were to meet with special federal mediator William-H. Dickie for a session that could determine whether the CPR's 6,000 trainmen will walk out or not.

Mr. Dickie said Thursday night—after the fifth straight day-and-night meeting under his guidance that the railway and the union now are at the crux of their differences.

He gave no indication, however, of whether a strike or a settlement now appears likely.

It was reported, however, that both sides now are down to a few decisive issues on which a settlement could stand or fall.

ADDS PRESSURE

Adding pressure to the talks was the fact that the railway already has started to put a strike plan into effect.

So far this has been limited to issuing layoff notices to thousands of other employees who would find themselves with nothing to do if the trains stop running, and warning potential passengers that if the strike occurs they will have to arrange for alternative transportation after noon EDT, Monday.

Within 24 hours the railway is expected to advise its shipping agents to start turning back freight business, since they cannot assure delivery unless the walkout is averted.

The trainmen's contract dispute already 13 months old. Both parties apparently have agreed on an eight-per-cent wage increase, leaving only a series of work rules in dispute.

The brotherhood's average now range between an average of $4,600 a year for yardmen and $7,000 a year for conductors.

U.S. Navy Boards Russ Freighter, No Weapons Material in Cargo

WASHINGTON (AP)—A U.S. Navy party boarded a Russian chartered Lebanese freighter today, suspected more than two hours later that no offensive weapons material was aboard.

The freighter, Marucla, was permitted to sail for Havana with a cargo described as 12 trucks, sulphur, paper rolls and parts for trucks.

Assistant Defence Secretary Arthur Sylvester told a press conference that the navy had received a message from the boarding party via the destroyer Joseph P. Kennedy at 11:28 a.m. EDT. The message reported that "no prohibited material" has been found on the ship.

The message said all the Marucla's papers were in order and the boarding party had obtained a copy of the cargo manifest.

"Cargo 12 trucks deck loaded," the message said. "All holds loaded to capacity. No passengers."

The stopping of the Marucla was the first interception announced and the first reported boarding by the U.S. Navy in its drive to clamp a quarantine on Communist arms shipments to Cuba Wednesday morning.

In Moscow, white Sylvester said was listed in Lloyd's shipping registry as a British-owned vessel World War I Liberty ship, was given permission to proceed on its course for Havana.

The vessel was reported flying a Lebanese flag.

The boarding party, of undisclosed size, went aboard the Marucla at 7:50 a.m. EDT 190 miles northeast of Nassau in the Bahamas.

Sylvester said the destroyer John R. Pierce set out at 2 p.m. Thursday to intercept the Marucla, assisted by tracker aircraft.

REAL CAOUETTE GETS HIS DAY IN COMMONS

Socred Has Rough Time in Debate

OTTAWA (CP) — A listless Commons debate on the state of the economy came to life Thursday night with a characteristic top-of-his-voice oration by Real Caouette.

Prompting in turn sarcastic interjections and uproarious laughter from an attentive House, the deputy Social Credit leader painted "financiers" as the people's worst enemies next to Communists.

Mr. Caouette fired caustic blasts at newspapers and the other political parties in the House.

He scored the government for topping $28,000,000 off the 1962-63 spending estimates. He said it would harm the economy and raise unemployment.

"Then vote against the government!" A Liberal MP shouted.

Mr. Caouette: "Everybody is in favor of . . ."

Liberal MP: "It is a morganatic marriage you are in . . ."

Mr. Caouette: "We shall see."

LAMENTS HIGH CHARGE

The 45-year-old Rouyn, Que., auto dealer lamented the fact that this year's public debt charges—estimated at $78,000,000—will be even higher than the budget deficit forecast of $450,000,000.

"But instead of penalizing those who charge us interest on fictional debt or credit, we prefer to penalize the men, women and children of Canada."

If an austerity program was needed in Canada, it should be applied to money-lenders.

He said he was failu to inform the public about "Hee Majesty, high finance" and the nation's financiers

"Without their permission, nobody can breathe in Canada."

Mr. Caouette's address was interrupted by so many interjections that deputy committee chairman Remi Paul twice asked "French-speaking members" to keep quiet.

For the fourth time in the month - old session, a ruling from the chair was challenged by an opposition MP and upheld by the House. The House has backed Speaker Marcel Lambert in three votes and Deputy Speaker Gordon Chown once.

The challenge Thursday came from Frank Howard (NDP—Skeena) when his bill was ruled out of order by Speaker Lambert because it involved an expenditure. The vote was 185 to 0, only the New Democrats siding with Mr. Howard.

PREPARES FOR TROUBLE

NEW YORK (AP) — In the face of the Cuban crisis, the city board of estimate has approved a special $100,000 appropriation for purchase or lease of portable generators for use in emergencies.

Chinese Thrusts Continue

Indian Govt. Puts Country In State of Emergency

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — A state of emergency was declared throughout India in the wake of heavy border fighting between Indian and Chinese Communist forces.

The emergency was proclaimed by President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan.

It was announced as Chinese forces continued to thrust southward in border fighting that first flared up seriously last Saturday.

The announcement also came after reports of new fighting with heavy casualties at both ends of the Northeast Frontier Agency's border with China.

Earlier today usually reliable sources here said India had set up a six-man central committee of the cabinet—likened by some observers to a "war cabinet"—to co-ordinate the national effort in meeting the Chinese challenge.

A defence ministry spokesman said today Indian troops had repulsed two concerted Chinese attacks on Walong, 15 miles inside Indian territory near the Burmese border.

There were heavy Chinese casualties there and in another clash at Jang, a few miles east of Chinese-seized Tawang on the jeep road to the plains at the other end of the northeast frontier near the Bhutan border, the spokesman said.

Indian troops at two forward posts on the northeast frontier which were attacked two days ago have withdrawn to their bases after heavy fighting, he added.

Chinese troops won control of the upper reaches of the Namjyang River Valley, running south through the semi-independent Kingdom of Bhutan to on the Indian plains when they captured Tawang Wednesday night.

The capture of the town, India's main administrative centre in the area, put the Chinese at the end of the jeep road running over Se La Ridge to the big Indian centre of Bomdi La and down to the Brahmaputra Valley near Tezpur.

Missile Ship Turned Back, No New Craft Are Sighted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russian ships which turned back from Cuba were reported today to include most of those suspected of carrying offensive weapons. A huge vessel designed to transport missiles was reported among them.

Informed U.S. government sources said no new Russian ship had been sighted moving toward Cuba and the fleet of blockading U.S. warships strung out across a broad area of the Atlantic.

It appeared likely that the navy might intercept one of the oncoming Communist cargo ships during the day. This could bring the first actual order to halt and be searched.

Defence department announced Thursday that at least a dozen Soviet vessels had been "presumably because they might have been carrying offensive materials."

This apparently left about 13 Communist cargo - type ships still on course toward Red Cuba. Defence Secretary McNamara had said just after President Kennedy ordered the blockade into effect that as estimated 25 Communist vessels were moving toward Cuba.

"Most of the ships the navy is interested in have turned around," one government official said.

It was indicated that among the dozen Red ships diverted from Cuba was one identified by informed authorities as the Poltava.

Three days ago, the navy had reported keeping an especially close aerial watch on this big, modern Soviet ship which experts said is rigged to carry missiles.

Arthur Sylvester, assistant defence secretary, told reporters late Thursday "I don't have any idea" what direction the Soviet ships were travelling after altering course away from Cuba.

Informed authorities said they believed the ships were steaming back toward Europe.

Point was the vessels are being kept under surveillance, but he did not indicate how far how long they would be trailed by patrol planes.

The government made it clear Thursday that the quarantine blockade will continue, despite any diplomatic discussions that may take place with Russia over the issue of Red arms supplies to Fidel Castro's Cuba.

The first Soviet vessel to pass the blockade was the tanker Bucharest that a U.S. Navy sentinel let through, satisfied that it was carrying only oil. Petroleum products are not on the list of materials prohibited by this country from entry into Cuba.

COURT RULING UNSEATS LIBERAL IN ST. JOHN'S

Browne and Cashin Ready to Try Again

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Former solicitor-general William J. Browne won the first step in his bid to regain a Commons seat Thursday when the supreme court of Newfoundland declared void the June 18 federal election in St. John's West.

The court ruling makes a by-election necessary and both Mr. Browne and Liberal Richard Cashin, 25-year-old St. John's lawyer who upset the cabinet minister by 24 votes, have indicated they are ready to go at it again.

Separate but similar judgments by Chief Justice R. S. Furlong and Mr. Justice H. A. Winter ruled the election void on the grounds of irregularities in the service vote.

Mr. Browne produced evidence during a court hearing earlier this month that the votes of 34 servicemen were credited to St. John's West although the home addresses of the servicemen ranged from as far away as Ontario and Labrador.

Mr. Cashin has eight days to file an appeal but says he doesn't plan to. If there is no appeal the court has a further four days to submit a report to the House of Commons speaker. The government then has 180 days in which to name the date for a by-election.

REDUCED MARGIN

On the basis of civilian voting, Mr. Browne won by 161 votes but when the service vote was added a few days later he trailed Mr. Cashin by 45 votes. A recount was unsuccessful for Mr. Browne although it reduced the margin to 24.

Mr. Cashin says he will vacate his seat immediately and return to Newfoundland to begin campaigning, although he is entitled to remain in his seat until formal notification of the decision reaches the Speaker.

Mr. Browne, 55, said he was pleased the judgment "vindicated" his position. He predicted victory in the by-election.

Election act machinery does not provide for a service vote in by-elections.

Mr. Justice Winter said it was beyond the court's power to consider another recount and there was no course left but to declare the voting void.

The last time a court ruled an election void in a federal riding was after the 1949 election when Finance Minister Newlan, then in opposition, lost in the Nova Scotia riding of Annapolis-Kings. He won the subsequent byelection.

Tension Eases With Agreement To Open Parlies

May Mean Khrushchev Appearance Before UN

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Acting Secretary-General U Thant opens talks with the Soviet Union, the United States and Cuba today, hoping to set up negotiations to end the Cuban crisis.

With both Moscow and Washington lifting some of the world tension by agreeing to preliminary talks, the United States continued its blockade of Cuba and kept up its demand for removal of Soviet missiles from Cuban soil.

Moscow radio announced the Soviet Union's strategic rocket troops have been ordered on a state of increased combat readiness. Red Star, the defence ministry newspaper, warned:

"The unprecedented aggressive actions of U.S. ruling circles toward the Cuban Republic and other states could not but provoke retaliatory measures from the Soviet government."

Premier Khrushchev's conditional acceptance of Thant's negotiation proposal was seen by Western diplomats in Moscow as preparation for him to appear before the United Nations. They said he also apparently had directed Soviet ships carrying arms to turn back from Cuba.

Washington sources said the Soviet ships turning back include most of those suspected of carrying offensive weapons. Among them was a huge vessel designed to transport missiles.

A White House authority emphasized "there are still Soviet ships headed toward Cuba, and the only way this government can get precise information on some of these ships or the cargo they are carrying is through the quarantine."

The first Soviet ships stopped by the navy blockade was an oil tanker, the Bucharest. She was not boarded and was allowed to proceed Thursday after exchange with the blockad ing ship. The tanker was due to dock today and Havana radio said the crew would be honored at a big celebration.

CRISIS TO COME

U.S. strategists believed the climax of the crisis was still to come with the issue up to the United Nations, the solution would be military or peaceful.

After receiving approval from President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev, Thant announced he would open negotiations by meeting separately with U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin and Cuban Ambassador Mario Garcia-Inchaustegui.

Kennedy and Khrushchev took some of the steam out of the Cuban crisis Thursday night with letters of reply to a plea by Thant, although Kennedy stopped short of the secretary-

THREE BIGGEST PARTIES RALLY BEHIND U.S.

NDP Refused To Fall in Line

OTTAWA (CP) — Leaders of the three largest political parties in the Commons Thursday rallied behind the United States in its confrontation with Russia over the Cuban crisis.

In so doing they sought to push well into the background, in the interests of Western solidarity, divisions within Canada as to the moral legality of the U.S. blockade of Cuba.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, Liberal Leader Pearson and Social Credit Leader Thompson all declared their stout support of the American position in international statements to the Commons.

The New Democratic Party refused to fall in line.

NDP House Leader H. W. Herridge, final speaker in an all-party ministers debate on the Cuban crisis, called the blockade a "flagrant violation" of the consultative provisions of the NATO alliance.

Diefenbaker, earlier, outlining emergency preparedness measures already taken by Canada's armed forces including an increased state of readiness by RCAF Air Defence Command — declared that decision over the legality of the U.S. arms blockade is "largely strategic and irrelevant."

"Legalistic arguments, whatever they may be, cannot erase

Heavy Snow and Lashing Sleet Brings Early Winter to Ontario

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Heavy snowfalls, lashing sleet and plunging temperatures disrupted communications, public services and highways today as winter gripped Ontario.

The lowest temperature was recorded at The Lakehead where the temperature sank to 13 degrees. While most areas had a minimum of 18 degrees and maximum of 32. Temperatures generally wavered around 20 or 25 degrees.

The warmest spot in Ontario was Windsor with 40 degrees.

The blustery northwesterly winds whipped the snow and snow across the provinces is expected to fade slightly Saturday but temperatures are forecast to rise slightly.

Early today Guelph was digging itself out of the heaviest October snowfall in history. Twelve inches of snow fell over the district and snarled traffic, bringing out snowplows for their first appearance this season.

Many children stayed home from school after school buses reported difficulty in negotiating side roads. Traffic on Highway 401 piled up for about 30 miles behind an over - turned transport and the snowbound traffic.

Four inches of snow blocked highways in the Kitchener-Waterloo area and a 12-inch snowfall brought out plows early at Stratford.

Snow flurries continued throughout the Fergus area where 18 inches of tree snapped work-bound motorists.

Heavy, wet snow at Hamilton snapped hundreds of tree branches. Six inches fell in the city and up to 12 inches in the suburban Toronto escaped with scattered flurries.

Only light snow flurries were recorded at Brantford but Norfolk County reported areas with up to nine inches of snow.

Telephone service between Sault Ste. Marie and Sudbury were disrupted and only emergency service was available between the Sault and Toronto.

Tourist Areas in Caribbean Likely to Lose 50 Per Cent Of Business Due to Crisis

The tense Cuban situation if it continues unchanged will see many adjacent tourist resort areas in the Caribbean lose up to 50 percent of their business this winter.

That is the report given by Carl Roluf, Front Street travel agent, who Wednesday returned to the city following a nine-day trip to the Bahamas and Jamaica.

Planes out of Jamaica on Wednesday were carrying a full quota of passengers as tourists already in the area who were cutting short their visits and returning home.

"Resort areas in Jamaica will lose 50 percent of their expected tourist business this winter unless the Cuban situation improves," said Mr. Roluf.

Already there have been reservation cancellations at many resort hotels in Kingston, Montego Bay and Ocho Rios," he said.

Indicative of the tenseness of the Cuban situation is the fact that sugar airlines have been ordered to reroute flights to avoid passing over the island.

Flights from New York to Jamaica are passing to the east of Cuba, while other flights are being directed to the west.

In fact many short haul flights from Miami and South Florida which normally would pass directly over Cuba were cancelled. Flights from Tampa south have to have approved flight plans.

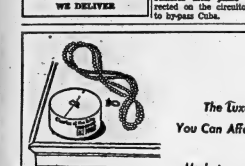
Mr. Roluf expected that winter vacationers from Canada anticipating going to Jamaica this year would change plans and go instead to Mexico or Nassau.

Mr. Roluf was the only Canadian among 23 travel agency representatives who made the on hotel study tour. During their stay they were introduced to the Jamaican tourist development boards.

Their flight back to New York was 11 hours late due to the circuitous route and delayed takeoff which was held up for over five hours waiting flight clearance.

"I don't think we were in danger at any time, but Idlewilde Airport in New York looked awfully good," he said.

The idea of the hotel study tour was to promote winter tourist business in Nassau and in Jamaica.



"We are all enthused over the possibilities and then this Cuban situation happened," Mr. Roluf said.

As it happened both south and northbound trips for the travel agency group was marked by the unexpected.

Southbound from New York to Nassau their plane had to widely skirt a hurricane howling up the coast.

Then on the return trip from Jamaica their plane was directed on the circuitous route to by-pass Cuba.

Foxes Are Now Seldom Seen In District

The rabies epidemic which swept through the Quinte area two and three years ago almost completely decimated the fox population in the district.

A local farmer said today that foxes are now seldom seen.

"You are lucky if you see one or two a year," he said.

But it was a vastly different story a few years ago. Foxes were then seen frequently in the fields and even motorists occasionally spotted them as they darted across the road way in front of their cars.

But with the reduction in the fox population there has been a corresponding increase in the number of skunks.

It seems that the foxes have a habit of raiding skunk lairs when their young are small.

Now, with fewer foxes, more skunks are growing to maturity.

District 4-H Teams Compete At Guelph

Competing in the inter-county judging competition at Guelph last week the Hastings County team of five finished 10th out of 83 teams in the livestock judging. Members of the team were Ken McConnell and John McGee, of Stirling.

In the Dairy Club competition the Moira School boys, John Donaldson, of Holloway and Paul Gaskell, of Corbyville, scored ninth, and the Forestry Club team from Madoc High School, Ken Bailey, Cooper and Robert Keene, Madoc, were fifth.

Peterborough county won first and second; Warkworth, Northumberland, was third, and Campbellford, with Port Hope, in Northumberland, were tied for sixth place.

Society Will Hear Lecture On Guns

The Hastings County Historical Society announces that Mr. C. W. Smith of Rediersville will give an illustrated talk on "The Role of Guns in Canadian History." Mr. Smith is well known for his gun collection and for his knowledge of this interesting field.

The meeting will be held on Monday evening in the Corby Public Library Auditorium, Bellleville.

The county of Hastings Museum will be open at 7.30 p.m., on the above evening, so that members and the public can visit the outstanding collection of Mr. Smith's guns before the meeting.

Judging Team In Sixth Place At Ottawa

Hastings County 4-H Club Judging Team finished sixth in the intercounty judging competition at the Ottawa Winter Fair on Tuesday of this week. The results were very close with only a few points separating the various teams. Members of Hastings team were Joe Hagerman, R. R. 1, Harold, Brian Rickard, Marmora, and Clare Treverton of Plainfield.

The order of the winners was 1st, Lanark; 2nd, Dundas; 3rd, Carleton, 4th, Renfrew; 5th, Grenville; 6th, Hastings, and 7th, Prescott County.

United Appeal Collections $5,000 Behind Last Year

Belleville's United Appeal, despite an increased goal for this year over last, is falling behind last year's returns, according to the latest report available from the campaign headquarters. As of this morning it was reported that $48,-681.94 have been collected. This is $5,000 below the amount collected during the same period last year.

This decrease in returns to date appears to have occurred despite a most heartening response from the payroll giving division which, with 90 per cent of its canvas completed has already achieved 80 per cent of the amount which that section raised last year It is fully expected that the people covered in this division will have surpassed last year's results once the final returns are in.

The national corporations division has been running about the same as last year's returns with the canvass almost 70 per cent complete.

Returns are up slightly in the business division with that particular canvass about 60 per cent complete.

The decrease in the special names division is almost complete and the results will be shown in the next statement.

The results of the residential call "blitz" are expected to be below last year's returns. Those who were not contacted at the time this week-end place may make a contribution, if they so desire, by mail to United Appeal, P.O. Box 42.

The campaign headquarters will be closing at the end of the month and once again the executive has requested that canvassers make a special effort to turn in their reports. After next Wednesday the United Appeal will once again operate out of its permanent headquarters at the Kiwanis Centre.

Staff Honors Miss M. Quinn On Retirement

On Thursday evening the staff of the Belleville Income Tax Office gathered at the Club Canara to honor Miss Marjorie Quinn prior to her retirement. They were joined by many former members of the staff who had served with Miss Quinn during her 43 years of service with the Division.

Mr. Oscar Wagar, president of the Staff Association, read personal greetings from Miss Quinn by Mr. J. Gear McKinstyre, Deputy Minister of Taxation, Mr. E. Fabbart, Director of the Administration Branch, Ottawa and other persons unable to be present.

Mr. D. J. Gill, Director of the Belleville office, spoke of the high quality and loyalty of Miss Quinn's service which was honored in 1953 with the presentation of the Queen's Coronation Medal. Mr. A. H. Ketcheson, spoke on behalf of former associates of Miss Quinn and Mr. E. W. Elliott voiced the greetings of the Administration Branch of the office. Mr. J. W. Graves, Supervisor of the Administration Branch of the office, made the presentation to Miss Quinn of a Canada Savings Bond.

Miss Quinn carries with her many memories of her years of the Belleville Income Tax office from a few people in 1919 to its present place in the community. Her accounting knowledge and warm interest in her staff and constant sense of humor will be greatly missed.

Taggers Needed To Raise Funds For S.C. Parade

Belleville's own Santa Claus is in hospital here. It was reported at Wednesday night's Santa Claus parade meeting by Gerald Vance that Mr. Everett Liddle is in hospital here as the result of a heart attack on Saturday.

The committee approved a motion that a token of sympathy be sent to him.

Mrs. C. Miller reported plans for the parade tag day are proceeding well but many taggers are needed. Anyone wishing to help in this line is asked to call Mrs. Miller at WO 8-9777.

Seven bands have accepted the invitation to the parade and there are several more to hear from. Many floats have been promised and several are under construction. Still more floats are needed to make this year's parade a success.

The route decided by the committee that the Santa Claus parade would be held on Saturday, December 3, CKWS-TV Kingston, will be on hand to film the parade for televising.

The next meeting of the Santa Claus Parade Committee will be held on Wednesday, November 9th at 7.30 p.m. at the No. 2 Fire Hall.

"This is your parade, "get in it or behind it".

Geese Are Not Fooled by Balmy Weather

The unusually mild autumn weather experienced this year may have been welcomed by most people but it caught Canada geese in a stiff far away.

But the wild geese are not going to be caught napping despite the autumn temperatures.

One Prince Edward county farmer was heard to comment this morning that the geese started winging their way south about two weeks ago. He said that they had never had such an early flock making their way south in winter feeding grounds. They don't fool the geese much," he said. "They know what they are doing."

But apparently not too many ducks have so far made their way south.

The suggestion was that yesterday's fall of snow which swept across the province would coax the ducks south and make the Bay of Quinte district hunters happy.

Exciting Dance Company to Visit City

The Ballet Espanol Kimenes-Vargas, the most exciting dance company in Spain today, is currently on its second, transcontinental tour.

Under the direction of Madrid's dance companies, the ensemble brings brilliancy, life, and ardor to the Spanish theatre with new and imaginative ideas never before approached in the field.

Roberto Ximenez and Manolo Vargas, the co-stars of the company, are considered by journalists, and two of the top male dance stars in the world today.

These outstanding artists dance with a dazzling company of 14 dancers, 6 Spanish Singers and Guitarists.

The Ballet Espanol appeared in a command performance before Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh in Vancouver when the royal couple toured Canada.

general's request for suspension of the U.S. arms blockade of the Caribbean island.

Stevenson and Zorin read the letters from their chiefs to the United Nations Security Council. That 15-member body, however, soon saw evidence of just how delicate is the Cuban situation and how easily negotiations could blow to pieces.

SHOW ANGER

The temperature of debate shot sky-high as Zorin and Stevenson tangled in their angriest exchanges, the American pow-wow unsuccessfully to try from the Russian a yes or no answer on whether the country has nuclear missiles in Cuba.

Stevenson, with a display of emotion he has not previously shown at the UN, accused Zorin of cynical deception and demanded:

"Do you, Mr. Zorin, deny that the U.S.S.R. has placed and is placing ballistic missile sites in Cuba? Yes or no."

"I am not in an American courtroom, sir, and I do not reply to questions put as though by a prosecutor," Zorin replied.

Stevenson said the council was the "court of world opinion" and added that he was "prepared to wait for an answer until hell freezes over."

But Zorin, council president for October, took his time replying and then merely referred to an official Soviet government statement saying that Russia has no need to station missiles outside its own territory because it can reach around the world with devastation from home ground.

DEMANDS REMOVAL

Kennedy said in his letter to Thant "the existing threat was created by the secret introduction of offensive weapons into Cuba, and the answer lies in the removal of such weapons."

Stevenson said he did not alter the U.S. policy of "quarantine" toward Cuba because in the Washington view the purpose of preliminary talks is to see whether a formula might be found to avert a fool-proof standstill of the Cuban military buildup.

Khrushchev's letter said he would agree to Thant's request for a simultaneous suspension of two or three weeks of Soviet arms shipments and the blockade.

The Security Council, which has been in emergency session since Tuesday at the request of the United States, adjourned Thursday night for the duration of negotiations.

Stevenson sought to explain to critics why the U.S. instituted its blockade without first bringing the Cuban situation to the UN.

The Cuban military buildup, he said, has been marked by speed and stealth.

"As the photographic evidence makes clear, the installation of these missiles—the erection of these missile sites—has taken place with extraordinary speed. One entire complex was put up in 24 hours."

Russia and Cuba had tried to present the Western Hemisphere with an accomplished fact so that Moscow "would be in a position to demand that the status quo be maintained and left undisturbed."

SHOW PHOTOS

"If we were to have delayed our execution, the nuclear installation of Cuba would have been quickly completed. This is not a risk which this hemisphere is prepared to take."

Challenged by Zorin to provide proof, Stevenson called in aides who displayed photographs he said showed missile sites and Russian jet planes capable of carrying nuclear weapons.

But Zorin said Stevenson had produced "faked" photographs once before at the UN—at the time of the U.S.-supported attack by Cuban exiles on Cuba in April, 1961—and he jibed: "He who has lied once will not be believed again."

"We do not regard these photographs as serious proof or any kind of proof," said Zorin, who refused to look at them.

Stevenson was stung by charges from Zorin that Cuba needs had failed to inform Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in their talks in Washington a week ago Thursday that the U.S. had proof of Soviet offensive weapons in Cuba.

"I'll tell you why—because we were assembling the evidence," Stevenson said. "We wanted to see how far a Soviet official could go in perfidy."

Zorin maintained that Stevenson had changed his tone since his first address Tuesday and now was on the defensive. He charged that "this aggressive intent of the United States is the kernel of the matter."

The U.S. had not presented any conclusive proof that its blockade was necessary and, in fact, the action was based "on falsified" information of the United States intelligence agency.

'My Fair Lady' Returns to O'Keefe Centre

TORONTO — My Fair Lady, the glittering musical adaptation of Shaw's "Pygmalion", returns to Toronto on Monday evening, November 12, for a two-week engagement at O'Keefe's Centre, with Ronald Drake as Mr. Henry Higgins and Gaylea Byrne as its Eliza Doolittle. Opening performances commence promptly at 8.30; matinee, Wednesday and Saturday at 2 p.m.

Since its opening in Rochester on March 18, 1957, this touring duplication of the Alan Jay Lerner-Frederick Loewe hit has played more than 50 cities in the United States and Canada and in Russia it was performed in Moscow, Leningrad and Kiev, on er an eight-week interval, April 18 through June 11, 1960. It has been seen by over 2,000,000 people and before it is shuttered may have played longer than any touring musical in history.

The New York company of My Fair Lady played at the Mark Rellinger Theatre for six years, and on Feb. 20th moved to the Broadway Theatre, where it closed September 29th. With its 2239th performance on the night of August 3, 1961, it topped the London run of "Chu-Chin-Chow", and became the longest running musical comedy in history. It capped "Oklahoma's" 2212 performance run in New York on July 12, 1961, and on the afternoon of January 12, 1962 with its 1564th performance at the Drury Lane, it topped "Chu-Chin-Chow" London record and became the most enduring American musical in London's stage history.

There is good reason to believe that George Bernard Shaw from whose "Pygmalion" Lerner and Loewe fashioned My Fair Lady, would have rejoiced in his success. Mr. Shaw during his professional lifetime was a stickler for royalties on his plays. Though no revival of "Pygmalion" ever ran as many as 200 performances on either side of the Atlantic, the musical has enriched his residuary heirs, the British Museum, The Royal Academy of Dramatic Art, and the National Gallery of Ireland, to the tune of $1,500,000. Shaw's heirs get a flat 3% of the box office gross of all companies in all languages.

Board Reserves Decision On Murray Annexation, Continues Hearing on Sidney

TRENTON — At Trenton yesterday, Ontario Municipal Board representatives H. E. Robertson and L. E. Mackay listened to arguments pro and con on the town's application for approval for the annexation of parts of Murray and Sidney townships.

The hearing had been called for ten a.m. and the place was the town council chambers in the municipal building in east Trenton. By five after ten, it was apparent that the more than 100 solicitors, reeves, councillors, municipal officials and ratepayers from the townships concerned as well as from the town itself, could not possibly fit into the office; hence the town assembly moved itself to the town hall, over the fire station, in west Trenton. By 10.30 a.m. the hearing was underway.

Before introducing the town was John Weir, a Toronto solicitor, and an expert in affairs relating to annexation problems. Representing Murray Township was D. R. Annett, also of Toronto solicitor and also an expert in annexation problems. Representing Sidney Township was Mr. Bowerman, Belleville solicitor, and also an expert in annexation problems.

Also present were the reeves of Murray and Sidney, Douglas McMaster and Harleigh Hammond, that Murray Township president of the Trenton Ratepayers Association Alan Sprague, and Trenton's clerk-manprivoller, Mr. Larry Lamb, was called upon from time to time to give information or give verification to certain statements.

From the start of the meeting, Mr. Roberts reminded spectators that this was not a meeting. He asked people standing at the back of the hall to find seats; some did, amid much shuffling and carrying on a conversation with one's neighbors.

PRESENTS CASE

John Weir, the first speaker, presented the town's case. He said that in 1853, Port Trent had been incorporated as a village. In 1890, "Trenton" was incorporated as a town. The present population is 13,147; land area is approximately, 2,010 acres. Water area, approximately, 454 acres.

The original by-laws, said Mr. Weir, as presented for OMB approval, asked for the annexation of 643 acres in Murray township, and 1385 acres in Sidney township, making a total of 2313 acres in all. But, through an amicable agreement arrived at by the councils of Trenton and Murray,' it had been agreed that the "anywhere" area, originally proposed for annexation, should be deleted and the request for annexation, now stood at approximately 375 acres. The original request, as regards Sidney, remains the same. Mr. Weir said that this now concerned 245 Murray residents and 115 Sidney residents. He said that the basic reason for the town wishing to annex was that growth had taken place within and without the town, on the east and west ends of the town, while the area to the north of Moira stood was agreeable to Murray township council, and, as far as could be learned, to the township as a whole.

Stan Kitsmiller and Vago Lange, Murray township residents, asked that part of their land be included in the annexation plan, and the board members assured them that these requests would be taken into consideration.

James Veitch, representing Mrs. Clara Mayhew, the owner of a feed mill and a mill pond, said that Mrs. Mayhew had no wish to be annexed by the town as she did business with farmers from Murray and Sidney, but derived no benefit from Trenton.

SPOKE AS CITIZEN

Mr. Mayhew spoke and Mr Veitch, Mrs. Mayhew feared that with annexation, and the resulting increase in taxes on property, she would be forced to sell her property.

Norman Flindall, a Murray Township councillor, appeared before the board, and was warned by Mr. Roberts that he might speak for the township, but not as a councillor. Mr Flindall considered that while Trenton claimed to exceed more land for residential expansion, there were pieces of undeveloped land lying within the existing town borders. Mr. Flindall felt that Murray should suffer a considerable loss in commercial and industrial assessment should annexation take place, and asked how additions to the township should be financed under these conditions. Mr. Weir assured Mr. Flindall that additions to school debenture debts would be met by the school board bring down a ruling in favor of annexation.

Mr. Lamb, for Murray Township, the board representatives reserved their decision.

Next on the agenda was the proposed annexation of a part of Sidney Township.

A motion, advanced by Mr. Sprague, that further questions be allowed to cast a vote, re the advisability of annexing land in Sidney Township to the town, for the coming December elections, was denied by the board, after due consideration.

Mr. Sprague next brought forward a point that the headquarters of the land in Sidney, under consideration for annexation, was, in actual fact, the property of the department of national defence, and, as such, might never be available for private development. He asked if it were not a fact that a further 14 acres belonged to Loblaw's and that this was unavailable for development.

ENOUGH ON HANDS

Mr. Weir replied that Trenton had enough on its hands to provide such things as fire fighting, police protection, collection services and sewage facilities in the town, without taking on more responsibility.

Walter Kehoe, consulting engineer with Project Planners of Toronto, said that his firm had carried out a survey during 1961, and that it was the opinion of the planners that annexation of parts of both townships would be advisable to provide Trenton with a wide variety of vacant land within the town to allow for flexibility, particularly in the area of residential expansion.

The meeting was brought to a close at 4.30 p.m. and the hearing on Sidney will be resumed at a later date, which will be advertised.

Transistor Radios Will Be Purchased for All Schools

TRENTON — The Trenton Board of Education, following the example of education authorities in Toronto, decided last night to purchase transistor radios for all town schools, so that school officials could receive fair warning of any pending nuclear attack.

The motion was introduced at the board's regular meeting by Rev. Ronald Reid, chairman of management, who said that the present Cuban crisis had prompted the Toronto action and that Trenton should have a similar policy. He suggested that the board appoint an official to meet with Colonel Angus Duffy, co-ordinator of the Quinte Emergency Measures Organization, to discuss a co-ordinated policy for Trenton schools. "We're not going to be able to wait until he's developed a policy for Belleville, and then get around to Trenton," he said.

Mr. Reid also suggested that each school appoint a person responsible for planning emergency measures to be adopted in any attack.

A motion for installing transistor radios in each school was later introduced and carried by the board.

The board also carried a motion to purchase land to the north of Queen Elizabeth School, offered to the board for $2,000 by Mr. G. E. Bailey. The board will seek to have the land surveyed and improved before the frost sets in.

Earlier, the board was told no reply had been received from Mr. Harold Turney to a request for using some of his land near Dufferin Avenue Public School. The board previously opposed a board plan to erect a fence along a line situated only three feet from his property.

High School Principal John Garnett told the board that cadets meals are being served at the high school because neither of the stoves in the cafeteria is working. He said no permission has so far been forthcoming to install gas stoves in the kitchen, and that the gas company is responsible for the proposed installation had been told an inspector would visit the cafeteria before the gas mains were installed but he had not yet turned up.

At the suggestion of board member Stan Ketcheson, a letter will be sent to school architects Barnett and Reider saying that if creosoted wood abutments can be installed around the high school's new track for $800, the work can proceed. Mr. Ketcheson said wood edging around the track is preferable to concrete because it would cause less injury if one of the runners should fall.

The board was also told that the Department of Education is sponsoring a science course for science teachers in Belleville, beginning Tuesday, November 13th, and continuing every Tuesday for nine weeks thereafter. Three of five science teachers in Trenton have indicated a willingness to attend the course.

The Pierce made contact about 10:30 p.m. Thursday night and was joined by the destroyer Joseph P. Kennedy after midnight. The Kennedy was named for the U.S. president's brother, the former Boston pol who died in World War.

During the rest of the night, the Marucla headed on a southwest course at 12 knots, Sylvester said.

The freighter informed the Pierce that she had a cargo of sulphur, paper rolls and truck parts.

The destroyers trailed the Marucla by about two miles under orders to stop her and board at first light.

The Kennedy was the "scolor" ship and thus designated to provide the boarding party. The Kennedy pulled along side the Marucla and ordered her to stop. The boarding plane putting off the boarding party in a whale boat. The party went aboard the Marucla at 7:50 a.m.

HEAVY SNOW

The weatherman predicts the heavy snow spread east from Lake Huron and bring the year's first flurries to Ottawa and Montreal.

The chill broke all-time October lows in Ontario, with a reading of 25 degrees in London, and 12 degrees on the northern Lake Superior shore.

The chill may be expected to dip to a record low in Winnipeg. The western part of Manitoba and the rest of Western Canada had normal seasonal temperatures.

The Arctic air chilled Quebec's St. Lawrence Valley. Temperatures were well below normal in the low 30s.

Formation of snowflurries was general over the northern Great Lakes and snow spread as far south as Cincinnati, Ohio.

Snow is forecast for New Brunswick and Newfoundland. The other Atlantic provinces are expected to receive cold and rain.

Chilling winds accompanying the Arctic flow were felt from Nova Scotia to Manitoba.

The west inaugurated a pleasant fall weather Thursday. Warmest spot in Canada was Lethbridge, Alta., with 75 degrees.

Indian summer brought sunny skies to most of Alberta and Saskatchewan, with 14 temperatures in the 50s and 60s. Forecasts are for continuing good weather on the prairies.

On the West Coast, thickening clouds and showers are predicted for most of British Columbia but temperatures are expected to remain seasonal and mild. A high of 58 is predicted for Vancouver.

Wrongful Dismissal Writ Issued by Town Engineer

PICTON — A claim for wrongful dismissal from the defendant's employment as engineer and building inspector of Picton, through its treasurer, by Herbert L. Gray.

The statement of claim, in the Lennox County Courts reads as follows — Herbert L. Gray, plaintiff, Town of Picton, defendant.

The plaintiff, a professional engineer, resides in the town of Picton, County of Prince Edward.

The defendant is a municipal corporation with its municipal offices in the town of Picton.

On or about the 1st day of March, 1960, the plaintiff and the defendant entered into a contract of employment whereby the defendant agreed to serve the defendant and the defendant to employ the plaintiff as town engineer and building inspector at a salary of $6,500 per annum. Said employment contract was ratified by the Council of the town of Picton, dated the 4th day of April, 1960.

On the 1st day of March, 1961, and on the 1st day of March, 1962, the plaintiff remained in his position as town engineer and building inspector and upon each occasion, which employment was ratified and confirmed by by-law of aforesaid, from the said date until on or about the 15th day of June, 1962.

On or about the 15th day of June, without giving the plaintiff the said notice required in the contract, or any notice, and without paying to the plaintiff any salary at that time, or at any time subsequent thereto, in lieu of such notice, the defendant wrongfully, arbitrarily, and without any or sufficient cause, dismissed the plaintiff from its employment.

From the said date of his dismissal, until the date hereof, the plaintiff has, diligently and persistently endeavored to obtain an equivalent position in similar employment or a lower position in similar employment at the said salary of $6,000 per annum, or at a lower salary, but without success.

By reason of the said dismissal by the defendant, the plaintiff has suffered substantial damages.

The plaintiff therefore claims $10,000 damages for wrongful dismissal, $4,250 for 8½ months' salary to the 1st day of March, 1963. His costs of this action.

Such further and other relief as this Honourable (Supreme) Court may deem just.

The plaintiff requires that this action be tried at the town of Picton.

The writ is signed by plaintiff's solicitor, L. H. Tepper of Kingston.

The town has ten days to file a defence but no action has yet been taken. An official stated much a defence will be filed in support of council's action of dispensing with Mr. Gray's services "for cause."

Responsibility and Cuba

Someone once said "freedom is not the ability to do what you want but to do what you should."

This is perhaps the clearest and most concise definition of freedom to which we might refer. Despite its validity it would appear that few who live in or under freedom actually comprehend its meaning. Either that or many of us are deliberately ignoring it.

By its definition freedom requires responsibility in the individual as a prime requisite. Once this condition is established there is created the opportunity of doing the things which one might "want to do," but only after responsibility is an action and not a concept.

The business of doing what one must involves not a singular act. Neither should it be considered as the mere performance of a series of acts, much as we might have opening ceremonies at a football match.

Rather it is a continual process of performing a series of acts, some of which might be repetitious in nature. This is not unnatural, however, for life itself is a continual process of creation, extinction, decay and renewal.

Even in a free democracy voting is one such continuing responsibility to be repeated many times. The education of our children so they might know how to perform and fulfill their responsibilities when they come of age is another. So is the act of keeping ourselves and our society (defined as that framework within which honors our freedoms and life) strong and as unassailable as possible by such outside and inner adversaries as would destroy our freedom.

History adequately demonstrates and records the fact these responsibilities have to be fulfilled by free men before all else. If they are not then freedom died and with it such a valued luxury as the rights of the individual.

In the past we see many examples of freedom failing when those who would live under it try to compromise its responsibilities with their personal desires for a life of ease or luxury. Many a glorious culture or civilization has fallen because the citizens tired of sharing their responsibilities and tried to slough them off on someone else.

Often a person or group will come up with the suggestion that there is a violation of the rights of the individual when he or they are called upon to live up to the responsibilities demanded by freedom. This is an excellent example of the furthest of thinking for if there were no freedom in the first place there could be no assurance of rights for the individual.

Freedom is a hard row which needs constant hoeing. It might be compared to a garden which, if it is not properly and constantly cared for, soon be overrun by weeds which choke out the beautiful plants the original gardener placed there. If freedom is neglected the rights of the individual suffer. Such is happening today. It is evident in many places.

Supposedly free men today have to live with intolerance within their borders and the threat of nuclear assault without. We have compromised clear thinking and action with wishful thinking and lack of action in the past and the resultant weeds have started to crowd in upon us.

President Kennedy of the United States has taken a step to fulfill one of the responsibilities of freedom which has been compromised too long. The need is not primarily military but never been greater. It is so great now because it has not been adequately attended to in the past.

For too long we have basked in the wishful thinking that others, who hold to the avowed belief that there is no room anywhere for our kind of freedom, would come around to the position where they would accord us the same toleration which we were initially prepared to accord them—and which we have accorded them in the past.

We hope that, when the initiative and courage to undertake to fulfill the responsibilities demanded by freedom has been displayed by one man, the rest of us who claim to live in freedom will not falter in supporting him and fulfilling our responsibilities.

Many in the "free world" have been found wanting in this respect on various critical situations in the past 15 years. We cannot go on much longer before we suddenly find ourselves belted from the rear.

We need really fear nothing from Cuba but we must face the fact that free men cannot and do not live in fear and this is a situation which has existed too long. Mr. Kennedy has taken a bold step but it is a proper step.

TV Now Crashing Bore

Orillia Packet and Times

Surely never in the history of mankind can a miraculous invention have been put to such ignoble uses as in the case of television. It is one of the wonderments of our time that we should now be able to put a man-made satellite into orbit in outer space, fitted with ingenious equipment, so that we can transmit the most trivial trash to lands half-way around the globe. To think that the almost divine ability to reproduce the sight and sound of an actual happening for millions of people far from the actual scene, should be used to afflict a long-suffering public with "panel" games, ancient movies, tedious westerns, stupid comedies, and the other bafflooneries which pass today as television entertainment!

It is truly amazing that so wondrous and exciting a medium can so quickly have been reduced to a tedious bore. It seems even more amazing that television seems almost to be developing backwards; the earliest days of the medium now are coming to be looked upon as a sort of "Golden Age," and the return of the stars of that era — Milton Berle, Sid Caesar, Milton Berle — are now awaited with bated breath.

How can we explain that TV's best shows seem to have been done in the past? Why has nothing been produced to replace the Show of Shows, Buried Treasure, The Naked City, Mr. Peepers, Maigret, NCMP, to name the most recent examples, or the really superb hour-long dramatic series once offered on both Canadian and American networks? Why is it that, after years of experience and millions of dollars in expenditures, television has produced such a monstrous turkey as Bonanza, or the multitude of dreadful "adventure" series, hospital dramas, westerns and, worst of all, panel shows.

Sport is magnificent on TV, and the telecasting of sports spectacles is perhaps the only field of television in production today which does not appear to have declined over the years.

Yet it is an ill wind which blows no good to anyone. The decline in the standards of television entertainment has started with the growing sophistication of its audience. We have breathed new life into other fields of entertainment once badly hit by the introduction of TV. Live sports crowds are growing again, live theatre has made a really impressive comeback. Movies — good movies, that is — are once again attracting packed houses, everywhere are signs that people are getting out again, after years of drifting glued to the TV set every evening.

Most significant of all is the trend in home entertainment to high-fidelity and FM program listening. New developments in the reproduction of sound, giving new standards of musical listening, have started this trend towards quality in the home. It is worthy of note that the people who have come in the forefront of the television craze now listen to EM radio or to high-fidelity stereo recordings.

More and more people today are discovering that it is no longer possible for them to enjoy taste whatsoever to watch television for hours at a time, as was once the case. Today most people watch a TV program or two, and then turn off and tune in to some special event or sports programs, but television today is just a part of their leisure hours recreation. How they spend more time reading — libraries and book publishers have never been so busy — listening to fine music or records, or going out to movies, to play, or to some other entertainment. The public has grown up.

along with my fears. This is the sad biography of mankind.

Letters To The Editor

Not Agreed With Letter

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

I normally object to three features of the "letter to the editor" supporting payment to blood donors in Canada.

1. Paying donors for time lost involved or loss of wages.
2. "Everyone connected with medicine gets paid well."
3. Anonymous signature.

If a person's decision to be or not to be a donor of blood can be changed by making it a fee-for-service business, then the quality of blood presently experienced by donors will be lost.

If everyone connected with medicine gets paid well, then I conclude that there must be too few people who like money for the "steady reader," because there is a well-known shortage of people in all branches of medicine.

Finally, I believe that any person who wants to state an opinion should have the courtesy to sign his or her name.

Illness Has Its Temporary Advantages

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I was re-reading the Journals of Andre Gide the other evening and in the third volume I came across a brief but provocative entry:

"It is my belief that illnesses are the keys that can open certain doors for us. There is a state of health that does not allow us to understand everything, and perhaps illness shuts us off from certain truths that health shuts us off just as effectively from others, or turns us to qualities of soul that we are not concerned with them."

As I read this paragraph, I recalled a wonderful week I spent in Nice many years ago, when I fell quite ill and was convinced that I had been stricken with a mortal ailment. It turned out to be nothing more than a case of bronchitis, but I didn't know this at the time.

Since my French is fairly rudimentary, and the hotel doctor knew no English, he was unable to assuage my fears, and I lay there for 48 hours convinced that my next column would be a cablegram from Nice. It was a bout it now, but it was hardly a subject for merriment then.

Lying in bed, I found I was all alone in a strange city, starting at the ceiling, while the sounds of revelry by night floated up from the cafes on the Promenade des Anglaise, I was suddenly afflicted with a sharp sense of remorse, guilt and inadequacy.

I felt acutely that I had failed to make the most of myself, both personally and professionally, and I grimly resolved to do better if I were granted a reprieve from death.

Part of this feeling, of course, was neurotic anxiety about my illness and loneliness in a foreign land; but another part was quite realistic. It was an honest and painful self-appraisal which few of us are willing to make when we are in good health.

It is one of "the doors that only illness can open," in Gide's phrase.

Health in this respect is much like money; its possession gives us a false sense of security, so that we cannot be bothered to take a good look at ourselves and examine the roots of our conduct. Only when we are stripped of these physical supports do we (sometimes) find the desperate courage to stare our faults full in the face.

The fear of dying — the open and acknowledged fear, not the morbid apprehension of nonsense — can give us a deeper insight into the difficult art of living; but on the morning I recovered, I was again frolicking on the beach, my vanishing fervation

New Alfabet For GBS Book

Welland Evening Tribune

One of George Bernard Shaw's ardent ambitions was to shave away the thorny spelling quirks of the English language by means of a smooth, phonetic alphabet. Twelve years after his death, some progress can be recorded.

This month Shaw's "Androcles and the Lion" will be printed in a new and improved alphabet.

The alphabet has no less than 48 letters, of which 16 are vowels, each representing a distinct shading of sound. The alphabet was worked out by 76-year-old Kingsley Read, retired letter carrier.

Read was one of the four people who tied for first place in the competition held two years ago by the executors of Shaw's will. The dramatist suggested such a competition and the 500 pounds to be presented to the winner.

There's bound to be adverse criticism", said Brian Davies, one of the executors. "Changing the alphabet would cost the type, slitting typewriters and a multitude of other things.

But all I can say is now a printed example of what the new idea may bring. It's survival is in doubt.

What People Will Believe

Ottawa Journal

Whether people believe that bargain offers are genuine depends on how big a bargain the offer purports to be. So the Manitoba Retail Merchants Association found in a recent study. The study was conducted by offering articles regularly priced at $10 for sale at prices ranging from $1 to $9 and then finding out what percentage of the public believed each of these offers to be genuine bargains.

Their findings, reported in the Independent Businessman, were these: 93 per cent believed the bargain was genuine when the price was $9; 82 per cent when it was $8; 54 per cent when it was $7; 30 per cent when it was $6; 11 per cent when it was $5; five per cent when it was $4; three per cent when it was $3; two per cent when it was $2 and two per cent when it was $1.

"The results," says Independent Businessman, "are important to retailers." Perhaps to politicians too?

Lack of Potency in Men Is Mostly Emotional

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Why is nothing ever written about middle-aged men whose sexual potency either slows down or in some cases fails completely?

Most males seem to believe that such potency is the measure of a man. When his powers fail, they feel that a vital part of he is a pretty steady character there is likely to be trouble. No man is going to admit to others that such has happened to him, so there is absolutely no talk between them on the subject. — N.S.W.

I would think you are right in your opinion. Men doubtless would be much better off if they would talk about this problem.

They probably would succeed in propagating a great deal of misinformation as happens when women get to talking about the menopause. But after women have been exposed to enough obvious contradictions, they finally go to a reliable source and get the right answers. The men, poor souls, just worry in silence.

Without any question, the biggest cause of this lack of potency is emotional. Only in rare instances is it physical, and even then the situation is so obvious that it can hardly be missed.

That is why when men go to their doctors with this problem I have found it best to (a) (you don't!) the chief job is one of convincing such patients of the simple facts.

It can happen any time in the 40's, 50's or 60's, and I've even had cases occur in the early 20's. The man is tired, he is absorbed in worries over money, business, his job or what-ever. He may not have been eating well, or sleeping enough. Then he forgets to sleep, and suddenly finds that he has "lost his potency." Or so he thinks.

Once that thought pops into his head, it turns into an obsession. That finishes him! The more he worries, the less he relaxes. And yet relax he must.

The best "medicine" I know is can persuade the man to take it, is a short vacation, perhaps only for a weekend, but away. It should, psychologically, be so soon that he has to work his head off to get everything done in time to go. He stays so busy that he forgets to worry about the lack of "potency." Then after three days of just relaxing and enjoying himself, he finds he is totally different mood. Without quite realizing when, why or how, he finds himself "cured" (or improved).

Obviously the longer he lets his worry work on him, the bigger the problem grows in his mind. Settling up the fear inside is the worst thing he can do. Yet most men do just that.

There are a few physical reasons that have some weight. Lack of adequate diet is one; so is thyroid deficiency. Obesity is most decidedly another. But the biggest of all is the male habit of getting his attention in such a knot that he can't untie them.

Dear Dr. Molner: Some religious groups fast a few days a year for 24-hour periods. Do you think it is healthy for them to try not to have any foods or liquids for a 24-hour period? — H.B.

The body ought to have water but I see no harm in going without food that long, except in special cases. A victim of duodenal ulcers, for example, might suffer quite a bit.

Dear Dr. Molner: What happens to the water that goes into the ears from swimming? I say it drains out through the nose. My friend says this is impossible. — M.M.

It comes out the same way it went in. There is no open passage between the ear canal and the nose.

Irish Twist To English

Windsor Star

The Irish have a way with words. They never are at a loss for a word and they are able to express themselves so that all know what they mean. Perhaps a clue to it is that if they can't find a precise word they simply make one to convey their meaning.

Recently we were reading a report and almost at once came upon two illustrations. One was: "Well, however, his wake came around and I was held," the "howanever" suggests the latter may have been the reasons for the wake, it was held, and whatever may have been the circumstances surrounding his presence, he was there.

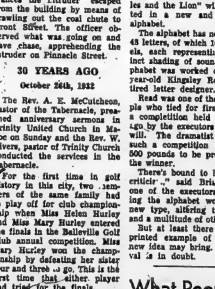
Then came: "I nearly dismembered the wake of me grandfather." Dismemembered" is a colloquial 4-a-ver. But it really is a terse and tidy way of saying he had almost forgotten the wake and his grandfather.

The English language would be more colorful altogether if we all had the Irish way with it.

Hamilton Spectator

This is no time for an election campaign, either as there is no guarantee that a result would be any more decisive than the last. Even government proposals are not in any way feeble; they are broad and imaginative and deserve a trial.

THE PACKSACK



By GREGORY CLARK

Ever since the Americans broke loose, the English have nursed a lofty and often derisive attitude towards their former colonials. It dates a lot further back than Charles Dickens's time. Read the letter and books of travellers in the new United States around 1800, and the amusement and barely concealed contempt of the English visitor is withering.

It was when the Americans took up the sport of chewing gum in a big, national way in the early years of the present century that they were given the perfect target for their ridicule. The cartoons, the movies, even the novelists have had only to display an American with his jaws working to rouse the risibles of the English.

You will scarcely credit what I am about to state. In the Victoria and Albert Museum, Eire and the Scottish Field, two of the very top-drawer publications of the British, devoted to the interests of the uppercrust of the upper crust, there are half-page advertisements for a Paris gum!

"Certainly not!" the ads are headed. "Clearly no one in his senses would use chewing gum but a low, common type, like him." and the illustration shows a group of gentry seated about an obviously exclusive table in Pall Mall. But then the ad goes on to extol the virtues of chewing gum. We may say, now, that the American Revolution has been accepted.

STOCK QUOTATIONS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market continued to mark time today, as traders seemed reluctant to commit themselves.

Volume of trading dropped sharply and industrials showed few significant price changes.

Banks backed away from recent gains with fractional losses going to Nova Scotia, Royal and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

Aluminium, Bell Telephone, Imperial Oil, Trans - Canada Pipeline and Calgary Power all declined in a ¼ to ¼ range.

Rainier Nickel Power Corporation, ahead ¼, Interprovincial Pipe Line, up ½, Walker-Gooderham, ahead ¼ and Canadian Oil, up ½.

On the exchange index, industrials dipped .46 to 225.19, base metals .14 at 179.56 and western oils 1.31 at 198.81. Golds rose .32 and to 89.21. The a.m. volume was 458,000 shares compared base metals with a 1½-point drop to 59. Falconbridge declined ¼, while Consolidated Mining and Smelting gained ¼ and Noranda ¼.

Mr. Warrender who does not plan to stand at the next provincial election.

Charles Maughton, 51, until now a minister without portfolio, steps up to the highways ministry in place of William Goodfellow. Mr. Goodfellow, 61, will remain as minister without portfolio until his retirement at the election.

Charles Daley, 72, minister of labor for 14 years until 1961, resigns as minister without portfolio, as does William Nickle, 61, former planning and development minister. Neither plans to contest the next election.

Following the press conference the new ministers were sworn in by Lieutenant - Governor J. Keiller Mackay.

Opposition leaders attacked the shuffle. Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer called it a "political smokescreen" and urged an early election with cabinet personnel as a key issue.

He and Donald MacDonald, Ontario New Democratic Party Leader, both hit at Mr. Roberts' involvement in the shuffle.

Mr. Wintermeyer said the premier was not strong enough to insist on the attorney-general's resignation, and the NDP leader called his move to lands and forests a "shocking downgrading of that department."

Mr. Roberts said Thursday he was not leaving the post of attorney-general "under fire."

"Now that the evidence has been heard and completed," he said, "I leave the post with complete confidence. I have been seven years of hard work - the type of work I like."

Blueprint for Survival To Counteract Fallout

In view of the tense international situation caused by Red arming of Cuba, The Ontario Intelligencer today starts a series of articles on radiation and fallout.

There is no thought of causing alarm, but there is definite advantage in learning and retaining some facts on survival in case of emergency.

The information for the articles has been taken from the pamphlet, "Eleven Steps To Survival," issued by the Emergency Measures Organization and authorized by the Federal Government.

The Quinte Area encompasses Prince Edward, it is part of the counties of Hastings and zone four with headquarters in Peterborough. Ontario is divided into seven zones for Emergency Measures Organization purposes.

In the Ontario plan for survival, zone four is a reception area for evacuees from target areas. Therefore, we in Quinte Area must be prepared to receive evacuees on the rate of 4 to 1 per present population.

Zone four is a stand-fast area, that is people will not evacuate unless ordered to do so because of extremely heavy fallout.

It is assumed there will not be a nuclear explosion in zone four as there are no likely target areas in this zone.

In the event of an alert, all school children will be sent home. In the meantime, factories, shops, etc. would be closed.

RADIOACTIVE FALLOUT

When a nuclear weapon is exploded on or near the ground the danger from radioactive particles is great. The force of the explosion may make a crater up to a mile wide and up to a hundred feet deep. Millions of tons of pulverized earth, stones, buildings and other materials are drawn up into the fireball and become radioactive. Some of the heavier particles spill out around the point of explosion. The rest are sucked up into the mushroom cloud which rises as high as one hundred thousand feet.

This radioactive material is then carried by the winds until it settles to earth. This we call "Fallout." Under some circumstances you may see the fallout dust; under others you may not. The radioactivity it gives off cannot be seen. You can't feel it. You can't smell it. But fallout doesn't come out of the sky like gas and seep into everything. It can be described as a snow, drifting with the winds miles above our heads.

Because prevailing wind direction varies at different levels high above the ground, it is not possible to judge from the ground where the fallout will settle. It can settle hundreds of miles from Gas Zero.

The fallout from a 5-megaton explosion could affect seriously as much as 7,000 square miles. If nothing were done to gain protection during the period before the radioactivity lost most of its intensity, there would be serious danger to life in that area.

Because fallout is carried so far and covers such a large area it could be the greatest danger to the largest number of Canadians in a nuclear war. If Canada was not hit by nuclear bombs, bombs exploding in the United States close to our borders could result in serious fallout in many parts of Canada.

There are four things which determine the amount of radiation reaching your body from fallout. They are:

a. The time that has passed since the explosion;

b. The length of time you are exposed to fallout

c. The distance you are from the fallout;

d. The shielding between you and fallout.

TIME

The radioactivity in fallout weakens in the first hours after an explosion. This weakening is called "decay." After seven hours, fallout has lost about 90 per cent of the strength it had one hour after the explosion. After two days it has lost 99 per cent; in two weeks 99.9 per cent of its strength is gone. Nevertheless, if the radiation at the beginning were high enough, the remaining 0.1 per cent could be dangerous. To remove any doubt, the radiation must be measured by special instruments handled by people trained to use them.

Therefore, if you stay in a shelter during the first day after an explosion, you escape the strongest radiation. You should stay in a shelter until you have been told over the radio that it is safe to come out.

The strength of radiation reaching your body is reduced the further you are from the fallout.

The most effective protection is to place some heavy material between yourself and the fallout. The heavier the material, the better the protection. Fortunately, many common materials give excellent protection.

The materials and design of the fallout shelter recommended in "Blueprint for Survival No. 1," will stop 99 per cent of outside radiation.

Similar protection can be gained from these materials:

a. 18 inches of solid brick.

b. 16 inches of hollow concrete blocks filled with mortar or sand.

c. two feet of packed earth — three feet if loose;

d. five inches of steel;

e. three inches of lead;

f. three feet of water.

A fallout shelter is the best way to protect your family and yourself against radiation because:

a. it keeps the fallout at a distance;

b. it shields you from radiation;

c. The time spent there is the period when radiation is most intense.

By providing your family are unlikely to suffer serious are likely to suffer serious effects from radiation fallout.

PERSONAL DANGER FROM FALLOUT

Radioactive particles in contact with your skin for a few hours may produce a burn. Following this time, follow in an other article) to prevent this injury.

Radioactive particles swallowed in food or water may produce illness after several days. Follow our plans to prevent this injury. Thoroughly wash your hands and utensils before preparing or eating food.

Radioactivity from an area of fallout may produce illness in the unprotected individual after a few days. Follow step four (to follow in Saturday's article) to prevent this injury.

Radiation illness develops slowly and cannot spread to other people. Symptoms for temporary nausees shortly after exposure, evidence of serious injury from radiation may only appear after an interval of a few days to three weeks. Loss of hair, loss of appetite, increasing paleness, weakness, diarrhoea, sore throat, bleeding gums and easy bruising combined, indicate that the individual requires medical attention. Nausea and vomiting may be caused by fright, worry, food poisoning, pregnancy and other common conditions.

THREE BIGGEST

the fact that the Soviet Union has posed a new and immediate threat to the security not only of the U.S. but of Canada as well," he said.

Mr. Pearson said many friends of the U.S. might question the U.S. action.

"But while that may be true, that is not the point. It is the necessity of rallying round our neighbor and our friend as brothers in the North Atlantic alliance."

And Mr. Thompson, speaking in the same vein, said:

"It is only as we stand together with those who hold the same ideals — that we can have any hope of standing against the onward march of communism in our time."

Mr. Herridge differed. He said the U.S. should initially have brought the issue of Soviet missile bases in Cuba before the United Nations instead of launching unilateral action.

The present crisis offered an opening to get on with the business of dismantling all missile bases throughout the world — an obvious reference to U.S. bases.

'GAMBLES WITH LIVES'

This would mark the beginning of a "permanent retreat from the awful abyss which opened up this week when the U.S. gambled with the lives of all of us in its struggle with the U.S.S.R."

Both Mr. Pearson and Mr. Herridge suggested that a UN navy patrol might be instituted around Cuba to ensure compliance with the "freeze" suggested by acting Secretary-General U Thant.

The question of nuclear weapons for Canada was touched upon in the debate.

Mr. Pearson said the Cuban crisis underlines the importance of all non-nuclear countries doing what they can to prevent extension to near states. This might be done through a self-denying ordinance under UN auspices.

Mr. Diefenbaker told the House there are many countries in which the Soviet has not installed nuclear weapons but a "deliberate decision" was taken in 1959.

"We in Canada have shown responsibility in this connection in order to avoid the proliferation of these dangerous weapons throughout the world."

CANNOT BE COMPARED

To compare Western activities with the "provocative, clandestine arming of Cuba" was to ignore the "calculated restraint" that had characterised Western policy.

The prime minister gave the House this broad outline of steps that had been taken to prepare for "contingencies that might arise":

1. Canadian components of North American Air Defence Command placed on the same level of readiness as U.S. forces committed to NORAD.

2. No long leaves for armed forces personnel.

3. All military forces taking the necessary precautions to improve their readiness.

4. Alerting of federal, provincial and municipal civil defence organizations and instructions to civilian departments of the federal government to update their emergency plans.

5. Canadian air space and air transport facilities barred to Soviet - bloc aircraft carrying arms to Cuba.

Full Support of Winter Works Program Being Urged By Employment Officials

Despite the fact that the local employment picture is better this year than in many other sections of the province, full support of the forthcoming winter works program is being urged by Belleville employment officials.

The local winter works program is later this year in getting underway than last year when at this time there were several projects commenced, but the local committee is busy lining up projects for which senior governmental approval has been given.

"Last year at this time we had six projects underway employing approximately 50 men" ossied employment office manager Cecil Hiuser. "This year no projects have so far been started."

"I hope, however, that municipalities take a good look at project possibilities as it provides a good opportunity of getting work done at low cost to the municipality for labor."

FAIRLY STABLE

Mr. Hiuser went on to say that employment conditions in the Belleville area were "fairly stable" and encouraging.

If the present trend continued Mr. Hiuser said he looked forward to a good remaining year end period.

As of this week there are 993 job applicants at the Belleville office as compared with a total of 1,207 at the end of October last year. This is a reduction of 212 or 24 per cent.

The comparative all-Ontario figure shows a 19 per cent drop in job applicants.

The better employment picture this year in the Belleville area is also indicated by the fact that from January 1st to October 24th there were 3,377 work orders as compared with but 2,662 last year, an increase of 26 per cent.

Placements in the same period were said up from 2,313 to 4,769 an increase of 1,446 or 62 per cent. The provincial average shows an increase of 29 per cent.

635 DRAW BENEFITS

Currently there are 635 persons drawing unemployment insurance benefits through the Belleville office as compared with 863 last year. This is a drop of 225 or 26 percent.

For the month of October when normally there is a notable increase in the number of claim applicants, this year there is expected to be about 400 at Belleville as compared with 300 last year.

Since the first of the year there have been 5,124 claim applications at Belleville as compared with 6,038 in the same period last year. This is a drop of about 20 per cent.

By far the majority of persons out of work are in the unskilled categories with Mr. Hiuser noting that his office can find jobs for almost any type of tradesmen.

SOME TRADES SCARCE

Particularly scarce are bricklayers, carpenters, cement finishers and farm help.

Maids and baby sitters are also in demand, while there are also local vacancies for practical and registered nurses, and a dietician.

The demand for skilled help points out the value of the federal-provincial re-training program for unemployed which is being carried on in many of the larger centres.

Belleville area unemployed have taken good advantage of the re-training courses and the 20 graduates who have now completed their courses have all been found jobs.

59 GET INSTRUCTION

In all since the first of January 96 local persons have applied for re-training and 59 of these still receiving instruction.

Mr. Hiuser said that to his knowledge no local persons who had completed their re-training had been unsuccessful in finding themselves jobs.

Highway jobs and construction projects still underway in the county were assisting in taking up the local labor slack. These projects included highway jobs at Marmora and on No. 62 north of Bannockburn; school construction at Belleville, Bancroft and Madoc; the Belleville sewage disposal project, the Big A building and the Bridge Street Church addition.

Other construction projects expected to go ahead later this year are the new four-lane bridge on North Front Street over the CNR double tracks and the new YMCA for which tenders are soon to be called.

Now Is the Time

The planning for another Winter Works Campaign to prevent unemployment and to create winter jobs is again underway in our community.

Many of our lay-offs, slowdowns and shut-downs, which take place each year, are the result of outmoded habits and traditions, rather than cold weather. With proper early planning, more work can be done during the winter months than we are now doing.

Now is the time for local businessmen, industries, unions, home owners and municipal authorities, to take time to make plans to explore all avenues to provide employment for this winter.

Now is the time to plan to have interior work, such as redecorating, alterations, repairs, maintenance and renovations, done around your place of business or home in the winter months. During the winter months, contractors, skilled tradesmen and workers are more available and are able to serve you better. Building materials too are more readily available, and sometimes, at a lower cost.

CANADA
Minister of Labour

Dear Fellow Citizen:

We need your help.

It is generally conceded that Canada's Annual Winter Employment Campaigns have been improving with each succeeding year, and are now of real benefit in helping to reduce the effects of seasonal unemployment in many areas.

At the same time, we all realize that a great deal more must be done if we are to bring this problem under control, and for this reason I am asking for your continued support and cooperation.

As a leader in your community there are a number of steps you can take to help reduce the tremendous drain on the Canadian economy through the loss in production, wages and purchasing power. You are not asked to do this on the grounds of public service alone, but for sound business reasons as well.

There has been, during the past several years, conclusive evidence that progressive companies, both large and small, can enjoy profitable returns by instituting an aggressive and practical approach to creating wintertime markets for their products and services.

There is no disputing the logic behind the contention that winter is the best time to arrange to have home, plant and office renovations, redecorations and general maintenance work done. The cost-conscious executive realizes that office, plant and store extensions and modernizations can often be done more advantageously and sometimes more economically during the slack winter months.

The Chartered Banks of Canada are making money available by way of government-backed loans for intermediate and short term credit to proprietors of small business enterprises for the improvement and modernization of equipment and premises. If you own a business whose gross revenue is under $250,000, then you may qualify for a loan up to $25,000 with up to ten years to repay. Your bank can supply you with full particulars.

It is in your own best interests to support the Winter Employment Campaign in any way you can. Remember, you will be contributing directly to the Campaign's success.

Yours sincerely,
Hon. Michael Starr
Minister of Labour, Canada.

Why Wait for Spring Do it This Winter

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Citizen:

As chairman of your winter employment campaign committee, it affords me great pleasure to thank you for the splendid results achieved in 1962 over the past year. I also urge you to continue to lend support to this year's campaign which is again directed toward promoting more work during the winter months. We cannot afford to be content with what we have done to date nor can we lessen our efforts. We must keep in mind our goal to provide more work for those who might be unemployed during the winter, and as citizens we must direct our efforts to attain this end.

The winter employment campaign, co-ordinated at the local level by the National Employment Office, is now entering its second decade of endeavour. Therefore, I think it appropriate at this time to remind ourselves of the purposes of the campaign and to review what has been accomplished in the past, not only in our locality but elsewhere in Canada.

GEORGE WHITMAN

Because of our geographical position and the wide variety of climatic conditions, we have acquired traditionally deep-seated work patterns. However, advances in science and technology have made it possible to have work successfully carried out during the winter months which previously had been done only during the Spring and Summer. Coupled with these advances in science, there has been a greater realization by industry and individuals that the "off" season of employment can, in fact, be largely overcome. In view of this you might well say —"How does this affect me and what can I do?"

While industry may take advantage of new techniques, devices themselves can also participate in creating more work. Renovations, redecorating or repairs in your homes can be done more advantageously during the winter months. During that period of the year, men and materials are more readily available, and in many instances there may be substantial savings through discounts on material and services. An increase in employment is reflected in the greater purchasing power of our communities, a benefit of which is shared by all. In the same way when a maximum number of persons in Canada are in gainful employment/the economy of the whole country benefits.

There are other ways in which you may influence trends. As citizens, you are members of associations, service clubs and organizations of all kinds. By encouraging these community organizations to have work done in the winter, you may also make a contribution.

I wish to thank you for the privilege of writing to you and earnestly urge that you continue to encourage the "Do It This Winter" campaign.

Let us all help to take the "un" from unemployment.

George Whitman
Chairman of your Community Winter Employment Campaign.

'Plan Now' For Winter Work

It seems to be the fate of many important national campaigns that they tend to "die out" at the local level. This is unfortunate but in many ways not surprising. There are so many appeals for help nowadays that it is understandable that people pass some of them by. An appeal to help 50,000 people in some far-off land has not the impact of an appeal to assist just a few persons in one's own community.

It is this fact that makes the local aspect of the "Plan Now" Winter Employment Campaign so important because, although what one does may have some bearing on Canada's economy, even more important still, it is kept to have a direct effect on the livelihood of friends down the street.

Governments at all levels, national organizations and businessmen all contribute to the success of the "Plan Now" campaign, but its ultimate success in a community depends on the citizens of that community.

A member of a business organization can recommend that his firm arrange for construction and maintenance work to be done in the winter, plan the production and stockpiling of standard products during the winter months, organize special campaigns and discounts to encourage winter work, and encourage the use of annual vacations in the off-season and the training of personnel in winter instead of summer.

Members of a service club, church or other community organization can urge groups to schedule any construction, repairs or decorating and any other type of work to the winter months.

These are some of the things that can be done to provide winter employment for men and women in the community. Skilled tradesmen are available and will do a better job. Some firms even offer discounts to increase winter business. And speaking of money, Government backed Home and Farm Improvement loans, handled by local banks, make it possible to do it this winter and pay later.

This is one campaign that should not "die out" at the local level. The benefits affect, not someone miles away, but the citizens that make up the community.

This is a local campaign.

BLAST HURTS SIX

ANDOVER, Me. (AP)—Six persons were injured, two seriously, late Wednesday when a boiler exploded in the control building of the Telstar earth station, an official said. Start of Municipal Winter Works Incentive Program

The Municipal Winter Works Incentive Program opened on Monday with 1,450 applications from municipalities already approved, Hon. Michael Starr, Minister of Labor, said today. This is 200 more than were approved on the opening day of the program last year.

Last year, on the first day of the program, the 1,250 projects approved provided for an estimated 27,800 new jobs and an estimated 1,500,000 man-days work. This year, the 1,450 projects approved by opening day are expected to provide on-site employment for 30,800 men, for an estimated 1,680,000 man-days of work.

The estimated total cost of projects approved to date this year is $118,000,000 compared with $86,000,000 for the same date last year. The payroll costs of these projects during the period of the program are estimated at $35,000,000 compared with $20,000,000 last year and the federal share of payroll costs to date is estimated at $12,500,000 compared with $10,400,000 at the same date last year.

Last winter's program provided on-site work for about 147,700 men and more than 5,068,000 man-days of on-site employment. By the end of last winter's program over 2,700 municipalities had taken part. The estimated total cost of projects carried out through the winter was more than $320,000,000, and the estimated federal share of payroll costs was $40,000,000.

"The large volume of applications received at this early date would indicate that this winter's campaign will be even more successful than last year's," Mr. Starr said.

All ten provinces are co-operating in the program and all ten have already submitted applications for projects from their municipalities. The program also covers the Northwest Territories and the Yukon, as well as Indian Bands.

Municipalities are now familiar with the program, its Minister said, and keep its possibilities in mind in planning their public works activities. They have found it a most effective way of providing more winter employment while at the same time carrying out needed public works projects.

The program, now in its third winter, has been broadened and extended in past years and now includes heavy construction undertaken by way of municipal facility.

This winter's program runs from October 15, 1962, to April 30, 1963. Under the terms of the program, the government pays one-half of the direct payroll costs of a municipality or its contractors or sub-contractors on approved winter works projects.

It Can Be Done

Anyone unaware of what's been happening in recent years could hardly be criticized if he concluded that outdoor construction in winter is not a paying proposition. The application of many of the materials used in building such as concrete and mortar is adversely affected by low temperatures. Frost affects excavation work and snow makes access to the site difficult and covers materials stored outdoors. Let us have all seen, particularly in the last few years, houses and large buildings rising all across Canada right through the cold months.

The fact is that since the last war more and more building owners, contractors and architects have come to realize that winter construction, is profitable and satisfactory, even though some costs may be a little higher and a few operations more difficult. For the owner, winter construction offers the possibility of earlier occupancy and savings in rental. For the builder, it allows a year-round operating schedule with the full use of his skilled staff and expensive equipment. And for the economy, it helps to reduce the winter slump in the building industry which accounts for such a large part of winter unemployment.

The National Research Council's Division of Building Research has carried on extensive research into the problems and techniques of winter construction, and have made their findings available to the industry and to the public in various ways. Convinced of the practicability of winter construction, the Council has produced a film on the subject to acquaint the public at large with modern building techniques. Produced by the National Film Board with the co-operation of the construction industry, the film is called "Winter Construction? - It Can Be Done".

The film is not a technical one, but is rather intended to show in a general way how modern building techniques make possible a year-round program of good building. It compares the winter of not too many years ago, when construction machinery was laid up for the winter and "No Help Wanted" signs were posted, with the winter activity of today exemplified by some of the large Canadian buildings erected or brought to completion in the dead of winter. Illustrating modern building techniques, it shows that much of the time the practice of enclosing and heating buildings under construction provides working temperatures more agreeable than those of mid-summer. The film also shows the kind of enquiry carried on by the Division of Building Research.

Exotic Indonesia' Captivates Capacity Audience at B.C.I.

That the Kiwanis Travelogue Adventure Series is greatly appreciated by the residents of the city and district, was evidenced last evening at the Collegiate auditorium which was practically filled to capacity for the showing of the tenth series, entitled, "Exotic Indonesia", filmed and narrated in person by Phil Walker.

The Indonesia archipelago is a chain of 10,000 islands, including Bali, Java, Sumatra, Borneo the elebes and Timor which form a tremendous bridge between Asia and Australia approximately a distance of 3000 miles. It was visited about 358 years ago by the first white man and since then has been a "source" for tourists. Sumatra is the largest, and Borneo the third largest. There are many groups.

TROPICAL FRUITS

The climate is warm which provides an abundance of tropical fruits, rare flowers, beautiful water lilies, huge bamboo; the cosmos flower, the red ginger, bougainvillaea and poinsettia, beautiful tree orchids, and many palm trees of over 100 kinds.

Weaving was shown; the designs beautiful and intricate; making of pottery; the tapping of the rubber trees; collecting the sap much the same as Canada tapping the sugar maples, gathering of the copper berries and nutmeg.

On Independence Day the people engage in several sports, boating, especially the ivory outrigger canoes which are close runners-up to those at Henley; folk dances, cock fights, and the costumes with their red and white flags waving.

The town homes are modern in the cities while those in the outside are huts on posts with the underspace devoted to the housing of the domestic animals. Other pictures showed numerous images, but these do not worship them but merely reminds the worshippers of the Unknown by means of these images as representations of His creation. Regularly they have sacrificial feasts, bringing their offering of native fruits, vegetables and animals, and slaughtering the chief.

INTERESTING BUILDINGS

Interesting buildings included the American embassy, museum, the lovely exhibits, and an observatory. Here were shown also public swimming pools, the largest in the world the teakwood trees which must attain an age of 75 years, before they ready to be made into furniture; Buddist temples, and the Hindu temple tree whose seed pod centres are a silk-cotton material used in stuffing cushions and other upholstery work.

The market scene showed the women carrying their babies on their backs rather than on the back so that they can nurse them without hindering the mothers' activities. The most eastern women they were erect and stately in their walk, carrying heavy baskets on their heads.

Mighty volcanos were shown, and the crater, with boiling lava and escaping steam. Here sulphur is also found in the volcanic regions.

Among the animal pictures shown were the ever-interesting monkeys; some wild in the jungles; elephants; deer and tigers. One showed a monkey gathering cocoa-nuts for his master who had a rope attached to him lest he take off among the palm trees, as one was noted to have done jumping from one tree across a considerable space to the next tree.

Huge lizard getting his morning beauty treatment, and among the serpent class was a huge lizard resembling the prehistoric dinosaur, but having stubby legs.

FESTIVALS AT PARADISE

The Bali Island is a veritable paradise with beautiful foundings, lovely flowers, and gorgeous costumes, shown in connection in the "Dance of the Flowers" when the girl dancers sprinkle rose and flower petals as the dance progresses.

A most interesting picture demonstrated the collecting of the salt which is carried upon the shore sand, gathered and the salt washed out by water; then the water evaporated leaving the salt, clean and pure.

The film closed with cremation ceremonies, and the showing of a wedding scene.

Regarding the languages spoken, English is compulsory.

A most rewarding film with deep appreciation going to the narrator and photographer, Phil Walker, who was introduced by Mr. George Hume, president of the Kiwanis Club.

Hillcrest H-S Hears Talk on UNICEF Work

The Hillcrest Home and School Association held its regular meeting in the school auditorium. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. R. Way with Mrs. Williams at the piano.

A short business period was held. The attendance banner was won by Mrs. Williams' class.

Mrs. Way introduced Mrs. Watson, who is the Belleville representative of the UNICEF Foundation. Mrs. Watson spoke briefly on UNICEF and how the pennies are used that the children collect along with their treats Hallowe'en night.

If a country that is in need of medical aid should ask for help of the UNICEF, it should be prepared to put up two-thirds of expense and UNICEF shall pay the other third. All arrangements and loans are made along with the World Health Organization at the United Nations in New York City.

A film was shown depicting how UNICEF helps a child stricken with polio in the mountains of Greece. The hospitalization and therapy that is needed to help get the child back to her one home once more is shown. The importance of immunization and the mobile clinics that are necessary to reach the tribes in Africa were also covered.

A clinic is set up in the mountains and train midwives in pre-natal acre and the importance of the necessary aid that is needed in child bearing and which is so often neglected is stressed.

It is most gratifying to know that the pennies given can be used in so many ways to help the less fortunate. It can be said that "pennies are the stepping stones to peace."

A vote of thanks was thanked by Mrs. McMechan for her time, making this meeting an enjoyable one.

After the meeting closed refreshments were served by the mothers of Mrs. Link's class.

ORGANIZED WOMAN

Ingred Meyer, 63, who worked 12 years in merchant ships, was the first woman elected to the Norwegian Seamen's Union board.

Mr. and Mrs. Myrddin Lloyd Jones of Hamilton are shown signing the register following their recent marriage in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville. The bride is the former Margaret Kane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Kane, Belleville. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. H. Brindle Jones, Llangefni, North Wales, and the late H. Brindle Jones. (Photo by Lumbers Studio, Belleville).

JONES — KANE

Tall standards of white chrysanthemums and white gladioli united impressively, centred in pretty setting in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, on Saturday, October 6, 1962 at 2.30 p.m. when Margaret Kane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Kane, Belleville was united in marriage to Myrddin Lloyd Jones, son of Mrs. H. Brindle Jones, Llangefni, North Wales and the late Mr. H. Brindle Jones. The Rev. J. Hutchinson, minister of St. Columba Presbyterian Church officiated at the ceremony.

Traditional wedding music was rendered by Mr. Hayek which included the "Wedding March" from Wagner's Lohengrin and the recessional "Wedding March" by Mendelsohn.

The bride, given in marriage by her father was radiantly lovely in a bridal gown of heavy white brocaded satin featuring a rounded neckline and long lily-pointed sleeves. The bouffant skirt was accented at the back with a large bow which enhanced the satin train. Her sh.ulder-length veil fell from a brocaded coronet adorned with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of beautiful dark red Sweetheart roses mingled with white roses.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Betty Lou Miller, of Belleville, who wore a gown of Dior blue peau de faille, which featured a back necklace and long pointed sleeves with matching shoes. Her headdress was a wide band of velvet to match her dress. She carried a bouquet of white mums interspersed with tiny pink Sweetheart roses.

Mr. Gwyn Brindle Jones, brother of the bridegroom (who with his mother came from North Wales to attend the wedding) was his brother's attendant. Mr. Tudor Morris Jones of Montreal and Mr. Glynn Rees Jones of Detroit Michigan were the ushers.

The reception following the ceremony was held at the Kane area, Belleville, where the bride's mother attractively appointed with white linen cloth centred with a three-tier wedding cake, misted about the base with white tulle and flanked by white candles and arrangements of pink and white roses. The bridal bouquets also added to the lovely nuptial setting.

The bride's mother received the guests wearing a peacock blue brocaded dress with matching jacket and a corsage of yellow roses and was assisted by the mother of the bridegroom who was attired in a teal blue two-piece dress and a corsage of yellow roses.

For the wedding trip to Toronto, Montreal, the Laurentian, New York and the New England States, the bride donned a navy blue double knit wool suit, navy shoes and purse, white fur hat and a corsage of pink carnations.

Guests were present from Montreal, Toronto, Tillsonburg, North Wales, Detroit, Port Hope, Hamilton, Ottawa, Niagara Falls and Belleville.

Previous to her marriage the bride was honored at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. Don McMillan, Toronto and at a kitchen shower given by Shirley Fisher in Foxboro with Joyce Kane as co-hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones will reside at 123 Bold Street, Hamilton.

PRESIDENT MARION

WEDDING

FISHER — INGRAM

CAMPBELLFORD—A double ring wedding ceremony took place at Zion United Church on Saturday when Nora Kaye, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Ingram of R. 2, Campbellford, became the bride of Stewart Edgar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Fisher of Campbellford. The Rev. Gordon Whitehorne officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a bouffant floor-length gown with a skirt of faille taffeta designed with an overlay of hand-edged chantilly lace, delicately scalloped, the bodice of silk organza had Sabrina neckline bordered with lace and showered with sequins. Tulle petals centered with lily-of-the-valley caught her fingertip veil of silk illusion and she carried a cascade of red rosette roses.

As maid of honor; the bride's sister, Miss Karen Ingram, of Bowmanville, wore a gown of willow-green peau de soie featuring a semi bustle back caught with a large cabbage rose. The bridesmaids, Miss Donna Grills, of Toronto, the bride's cousin, and the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Doug Pearson, were gowned identically in gold.

All wore matching color petal trimmed crowns of looped mohair, centred with a jewel and carried cascade bouquets of white snapdragons and red roses.

Mr. Garnet Fisher was his brother's groomsman and ushers were Messrs. Eric Ingram and Wayne Ingram, of Brighton.

Miss Nona Petherick of Toronto, played the wedding music and Mrs. Frank Potts sang, "O Perfect Love" and "The Walk Beside You".

A reception was held in Seymour east W.I. Hall and afterwards at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride's mother received in a turquoise blue moss crepe sheath dress with satin appliques on the bodice and skirt and accessorized with black and a corsage of deep pink button 'mums.

The bridegroom's mother received also wearing a silk crepe sheath dress of turquoise silk with matching accessories and a corsage of white button 'mums.

For a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the bride wore a suit of donkey-brown Italian triple knit, a matching maribou cloche, and matching accessories, and a corsage of white roses.

On their return the couple will live in Campbellford.

Guests were present from Peterborough, Toronto, Bowmanville, Shannonville, Brighton, Island River and Havelock.

FAT DIETS KILL

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The popularity of American laborers is causing more heart attacks among them, says a heart specialist. Laborers can now afford the same kind of high-fat diet that has caused atherosclerosis in executives," Dr. Paul Dudley White said Thursday.

Give discolored silverware a beauty bath by rubbing them with the hollow rind of half a lemon; follow with a water wash, then rinse and dry well to prevent chemspots.

Spends Morning in Beauty Salon, Afternoon in Tavern

MONTREAL (CP) — Blonde, chatty Mrs. Charles Pranevicia spends her mornings in a beauty parlor and afternoons in a tavern. Neither one thinks she's doing what one might expect.

Mrs. Pranevicia is the owner and operator of both a beauty salon and a tavern, two blocks apart in suburban St. Charles.

She has had the beauty shop for 22 years. The tavern was bought last July.

So far she has found the tavern less trouble than the beauty salon.

"It's easier to pour a perfect glass of beer than to give a woman a perfect hairdo," she says. "If the customer doesn't like the beer you can always give him another. If a woman doesn't like her hairdo you can't always put it back the way it was."

Mrs. Pranevicia, whose husband also works at the tavern (he has nothing to do with the beauty end of the business), says being a woman in a traditionally male preserve is more an advantage than handicap.

"I think the men behave better because I'm here. Even when they get feeling happy they use all sorts of language. At first I was quite shocked but I'm used to it and don't even hear it." A busy enough pouring at least 300 glasses of beer every day.

She has also mastered the art of pouring the beer.

"You have to get the right amount of foam on the glass or you won't make money," she said, a deft twist of the wrist demonstrating the correct technique. "Fortunately, all we sell is beer, so I didn't have to learn how to mix drinks."

Foxboro L.O.L. Marks 75th Anniversary

STIRLING — Wor. Bro. Fred Bateman, Past Grand Master of Ontario East, Orange Lodges and Bro. Ernest Hagerman of Bawdon, Deputy Grand Master for Ontario East attended the anniversary celebration of Foxboro L.O.L. No. 3 who were commemorating their 75th anniversary.

The honorary member with over 50 years of service to the order was a former Marmora resident of Wellmans L.O.L. No. 172, Bro. Edward Montgomery of Belleville.

A.O.T.S. Men's Club Visits Paudash Lake

STIRLING—Twenty-six members of St. Paul's A.O.T.S. Men's Club and several of their wives paid a visit to Cardiff Paudash Lake pastoral charge on a recent Sunday.

They were welcomed on arrival by the Rev. and Mrs. Paul Packman, minister of the charge.

The two church services were in charge of Wendell Camm president of the Club. The worship was in charge of Robert Hulin, Robert Hallon and Harry Brown. Mrs. Harry Brown was organist and the men's choir rendered "More Love To Thee."

Don Williams who served as commissioner at the recent meeting of the general council in London gave the special address at each appointment.

The ladies at Paudash Lake served luncheon to about 40 guests following the second service.

White Cane Club Hears Commentary

The October business meeting of the White Cane Club was held at the Recretion Centre on Pinnacle Street with a good attendance. President Pat Beverstock welcomed all with a special mention of Mrs. Betty Dobson, a new member who is assistant manager of the stand for the Blind at the hospital.

The Canadian Council commentary for October was read by Mande Rollins. There are now registered with the CNIB; 12,506 are male and 11, 819 female; 7,878 of these are from 40-64 years of age.

The flower fund was collected by Laurie Towner and also a special collection for the purchase of cotton warp to knit bandages to be sent to leprosariums.

The president expressed sympathy for Mrs. Herman Hill whose wife passed away Monday evening.

Artie Scott, program convener, introduced Terry Latchford who introduced Jim George and Lawrence Turcott, who entertained generously with western music played on Spanish guitars. Terry and Jim also sang many solos with guitar accompaniment.

Charlie Dolan recited "It Never Easy." This poem dealt with the blind; with patience, courage and determination one can accept the handicap.

Artie Scott recited one of his own compositions entitled "THE URGE TO WANDER"

"You may feel the urge to wander,
You might even start to roam
But you'd do well to pause and wonder
Where there's a place just like your own.
The doors that you can open
With the key you now possess
May be even not a token
Of that which you confess
Should you be seeking a cozy corner,
Like the one you had at home
You'll spend many days in travel,
Yet with none to call your own.
There are many disappointments
To be found along the way,
You'd be wise to return and settle,
Right where you were and stay."

Refreshments were served by the Kinnettes, which included a special Hallowe'en cake appropriately decorated.

Sara O'Shea expressed thanks to the Kinnettes and to the Lions for transportation.

Ted Rowe thanked the entertainers.

President Pat reminded the members of the recreation meeting November 12th.

Quinte F.N. Enjoy New Wildlife Slides

The Quinte Field Naturalists held their regular monthly meeting at the Entomology Laboratory this week.

The business portion was conducted by the president, Mr. Irwin Knight, and included the usual reports.

A special report from the Federation of Ontario Naturalists told of the aquiring of a parcel of land Dorcas Bay in the Bruce Peninsula which will be established as a Wild Life preserve. A further purchase is under negotiation and will enlarge the present sight.

Thanks were given to all who donated to the original purchase and hope was expressed that the O.F.N. would be as successful in their second venture.

Irwin introduced Mrs. Alma Wallis, speaker for the evening, who showed a new series of photographs. They included pictures of foxes, snowshoe rabbits and weasels as they appear both in summer and winter; raccons in a comical series of shots; May pictures of Canada's most colorful birds, scarlet tanagers, baltimore orioles, rose breasted grosbeaks and pheasants.

There were many pictures of marsh animals, muskrats, beaver, gallinules, mallards, wood ducks, herons, bitterns and rails. The pictures were highlighted by recordings of the various songs and call notes and a witty and informative commentary by Mrs. Wallis who was warmly thanked by Mr. William Wisbey.

The evening ended with refreshments and conversation.

International Reading Assoc. Lists Officers

Quinte Chapter of the International Reading Association held its first meeting of the 1963-64 in Queen Alexandra School with Mr. Murray Irwin, of Albert College, presiding.

The International Reading Association is an organization planned to bring authorities in the field of reading findings from research and information regarding it in educational and remedial techniques to all interested.

Membership is open to, not only teachers, but all who are interested in fostering better reading in schools.

At this first meeting Mr. Irwin, head of the English Department of Albert College, gave a thought provoking and reading talk on reading from the viewpoint of a teacher of senior classes.

He pointed out the fact that reading is a skill which develops all through the educational period of children. He showed that there must be close co-operation between elementary and secondary schools.

Commendation was given to the excellent reading program being offered in the Belleville elementary schools.

A lively discussion followed Mr. Irwin's talk.

1963 OFFICERS

Officers for the coming year are: a past president, Murray Irwin; Albert, first president, Arthur Bradford, Moira Secondary School; vice-president, Miss Ann Smith, Brendaer School; secretary, Mrs. Orma Slack, principal, Cordale S.S. No. 4; treasurer, Mrs. Pauline Cantin, St. Michael's School; program committee, Miss Norma Grant, Quinte Secondary School; Miss Olive Dalton, Corby Public Library; Miss Stella Burkett, Brendaer School; membership committee, Mrs. Brown, St. Joseph's School; and Mrs. Edna Welch, Thurlow.

Jr. Farmers Hold Annual Church Service

STIRLING — Hastings County Junior Farmers Association held their annual church service on Sunday evening, October 21st, in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling.

The guest speaker was Mr. Gibson Patterson of Eastern County. His theme was "By Your Works You Shall Be Known."

The president, Miss Nancy Reynolds, was in charge and read the opening hymn was "All Worship the King." Miss Ruth Morgan read the Bible lesson found in St. Matthew and St. Mark with past president, Ronald Hamilton giving the prayer. The organist was Miss Lorna Matthews and the choir leader Mr. Grant Richardson. The Junior Farmers rendered two selections, "Christ Is All You Need," and "Thou Will Keep Him in Perfect Peace."

The service closed with a hymn pertaining to agriculture, "Bringing in the Sheaves."

XI Beta Zeta Discusses Theatre Party

A meeting of XI Beta Zeta Chapter was held recently at the home of Mrs. D. Bateman, at which time a member of the Cancer Society presented a film on "Cancer" which was most enlightening.

At the completion of the program, refreshments were served by Mrs. Bateman.

Mrs. B. Bishop acted as hostess when the Chapter met at her home for the next meeting. The program "The Good Life," directed by Mrs. H. Hinse, was agreeably received as each member was asked to express her opinion as to what constitutes a Good Life. Such personages as Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Madame Currie and others were mentioned as true examples of those who have contributed towards a Good Life through love and understanding of fellowbeings and administering to their needs.

While Mrs. Bishop served refreshments, plans were discussed for a theatre party to be held in November.

Wardrobe Change

By VERA WINSTON

After the casual attire that we like so much for summer, the feminine spirit responds to the chic and charm of more formal garb, such as the costume depicted here.

Perfect for late afternoon and for dinner, the outfit is fashioned of peau de soie in deep wine red, oyster gray or dark green.

The dress is a sheath with a high scooped neckline and narrow shoulder straps. It has a flattering drapery at one side that is pulled through a pouff.

The jacket is waist-length, with a stand-away collar and below-elbow sleeves.

County Home L.A. Meets At Home

On Monday last the Women's Auxiliary of the Hastings County Home met in the library at the Home for their monthly meeting. There was a fair attendance with a few visitors present.

Mrs. Holmes, the president of the Auxiliary opened the meeting with a well chosen poem.

Business items were attended to and various committee reports were given including gratifying reports from the recent tea and bazaar held at the Home.

It was noted that the bazaar had proved to be one of the most successful and gratifying yet held at the Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Yorke thanked all the Auxiliary members for the co-operation and assistance in making the tea such a success.

After this part of the meeting the ladies met with the residents in the dining-room to participate in the usual birthday party.

Mrs. Daniels led in a lively sing-song with Mrs. Ray at the piano.

Mrs. Johnston, one of the residents sang a solo, "Take Time To Be Holy," which was much appreciated considering this fine lady's advanced years.

The ladies joined hands and formed a friendship circle around their guests and sang to them the birthday song.

Mrs. Addie Cox, the eldest guest present, cut the beautiful birthday cake and Mrs. Aikens and Mrs. S. Nicholson poured tea, while delicious, refreshments were served, thus concluding another enjoyable day.

Initiation Tests Passed By 10 Girls

FRANKFORD — Recently, in Frankford United Church Rose Lowery Hall, 22 CGIT age girls held their initiation meeting. The girls who were initiated were: Bonnie Turner, Bonnie Payne, Brenda Payne, Diane Rook, Darlene Carter, June Dawe, Marjorie Carson, Janie Sharpe, Sharon Parfoe and Rhonda Wilson.

These girls, who were dressed up as part of the initiation, underwent tests of strength, nerve, memory and balance. The senior girls were: Leiahs Judd, Pat Hamilton, Linda Wannamaker and Shirley Nicholson under the leadership of Miss Barbara Stickle, who planned the initiation.

The initiation, passed by all ten girls, was in the form of a potluck supper, which proved to be a great success.

BATAWA — The Batawa Home and School Association held its October meeting on Monday evening, October 22nd in Batawa public school at 8 p.m.

The new slate of officers for 1963 is as follows: president — Mrs. H. Ackerman; vice-president — Mrs. W. Parling; secretary — Mrs. M. Edwards; treasurer — Mrs. R. Mitts and social convener — Mrs. H. Scott and Mrs. J. Foel.

The officers were installed by Mr. Ralph Armstrong, Chairman for the evening was the Rev. H. Beach of Frankford.

Perfect school attendance medals for 1961-62 were given to the following students: for the six-year perfect attendance — John Duncan and Edward Woodward; for the four-year perfect attendance — Mary Flamsa; for the two-year perfect attendance — Jan Flamsa and Catherine Foel and for one year perfect attendance — Donald Jacobs, Grant Bennett, Stephen Mitts, Regina Sulkevicius, Brian Daniels, Shari Patterson, Reginald Pearson, Lala Sulkevicius.

Regular Home and School meeting dates will be held the first Monday of each month. "Open House" will take place during the next meeting.

Miss Christine Pavlica was soloist for the evening accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Geldard.

During the business period it was decided that Mrs. Milton Edwards would be convener of U.N.I.C.E.F. drive in Batawa this coming year.

Mrs. Hilda Clayton thanked Mr. Frank Markvart on behalf of the Batawa Home and School Association for a job well done the past three years.

Plenty of Color Will Be Seen In New Gowns

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
Associated Press Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A spring fashion market opened here on Monday with Jean Dessès but designer Ann Klein did her bit to cheer up matters by showing shapely ladies in at times versions of men's hitherto shapeless shirts.

Dessès' mannequins, fanning out among buyers and reporters at the Dessès' sophisticated showroom who were there to preview what women will be wearing next, demonstrated that with color, anyway, things can be rosy.

The ladies were in the pink in shaggy, mohair wools, crinklines, slithery silks and sleek jerseys. Pink is pink, they were soft and feminine in blues and whites, or cheerful in yellow or bright in orange. Almost all of these hues and fabrics were sewn into some sort of shirt.

SHIRT BASIS

Women who are adapted to the shirt dress made a classic by Grace Kelly will now have to adjust to the shirt jumper, shirt coat, shirt suit, shirt jacket and the really, really, shirt dress.

The things that all of the shirts have in common are notched collars, bodices with smock - like yokes and long cuffed sleeves. All are generously cut at the top, waistline and usually loosely belted with tiestrings.

Shirt jackets, the slipover kind and the button-down kind, are so long they are just short of being dresses.

Miss Klein also took over sweaters in the "chi" closets and gave them into dresses. Sleeveless, v-necked, and t-shirt types in soft pastels skimmed over rail-thin bodies of smileless models with long, thick lashes.

The quick change artist-models soon were back in the showrooms in heavy black or white crepe gowns, short and long style. Some draped slightly, others skimmed like fashion over the curves as in the days of Jean Harlow.

Sweater Combination

By TRACY ADRIAN

Sweater twosomes are a favorite with the college set and they are often seen in contrasting textures and colors. This pair is a softly bulky all-American wool knit.

The sleeveless pullover is available in matching or contrasting colors. Worn with it is a trimly military cardigan with brass buttons. It is outlined in a textured stitch and pictured with a straight knit skirt.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS... BY PATRICIA LEWIS

YOUNG CAREERISTS GET SOME WISE TIPS

A pleasant personality and a charming manner, in addition to ability, will help the budding careerist, fresh out of school, secure her first position. Good manners are a matter of what constitutes appropriate behavior in an office sense—not that she'll continue to hold her job once the first glow wears off.

In the beginning, the new employee feels that the first rung in the ladder very carefully, and is very deferential to her superiors in all directions. Gradually, though, as she becomes a permanent member of the office family, titles give way to first names. As office friendships grow, she does her knowledge of the personalities around her and the acutiebout about their lives — both professional and private.

While office life has become much more informal than it was even ten or fifteen ago, the basic code of desirable conduct has not changed so radically.

In many offices, it's customary for a secretary and her employer to call each other by their first names. However, this is something that is done at the discretion of the executive. Instead of taking the initiative, the "proper young secretary" often shows her employer she suggests that she call him him "John" instead of "Mr. Jones." Although this may be the general format in the office, the careerist waits for a specific invitation to call anyone who outranks her by his or her first name.

Even when a relationship is on a first-name basis, it should, for the sake of propriety, be confined to the office. If a secretary has been asked to call her employer "John," he still should be referred to among other employees as "Mr. Jones," and certainly he should be addressed more formally when visitors are present in the office.

As she gets deeper into her job, the young careerist naturally learns a great deal about how her boss operates and, to some extent, about his home life. If she's to keep her employer's confidence, her own common sense should tell her that nothing is to be "leaked" to outsiders during a coffee break. Gossip is frowned upon socially, but in office situation, loose talk can be dangerous — not only to the interests of the employer, but also to the professional reputation that a young careerist is trying to establish for herself.

Generally, the emerging careerist makes the best impression by being alert and willing, and able to learn office routine, loose talk can be dangerous — from her small chapeau. To be successful, she also refrains from adopting lax and unattractive office habits, such as tying up the phone with personal calls, interrupting an executive needlessly when he's busy, and wasting time by too-frequent trips to the powder room for a cigarette or to shoot the breeze with fellow employees.

In essence, a bright, efficient, eager and lady-like demeanor is the best investment the starting careerist can make in her future job security.

36 Quinte G.G. Attend 'Training' Meet

Thirty-six members of the Quinte area Girl Guide movement were attracted to a "training" conducted by Miss Dorothy Drew and Miss Lois Wright, both from Ottawa, held at the Kiwanis Centre on Saturday.

This training, designed for both Guide and Brownie leaders, was similar to the four-part training recently completed by the Belleville Division. Because of Belleville's central location, Mrs. E. Stanley Ross, training chairman, arranged for leaders from such points as Trenton, Picton, Napanee, Brighton and Bloomfield to meet here.

The Belleville Division supplied coffee for the occasion which was served by Rangers Miss Carrie Premseler and Miss Donna Wait.

Laymen's Assoc. Views 4-H Slides

WELLINGTON — The Laymen's Association of St. Andrew's Church, Wellington and Christ Church, Hillier met last Tuesday evening at the home of the president, W. W. McFaul, with prayer by the rector, Rev. Ross Blower.

The meeting was opened by Rev. J. J. Rogers. The minutes and treasurer's report were read by Rod Blower, following which new business was introduced.

Following the close of the business, Miss Rosemarie Haight, a member of the congregation of Christ Church, Hillier and one of the four Canadians girls who represented Canadian 4-H Club Girls at Britain's Food Fair, this summer, showed slides of her trip and told of her experiences while in the British Isles.

She was graciously thanked and presented with a gift by W. A. Davern on behalf of the hearers. Mr. Davern also expressed the pride of the community in Rosemarie in particular, at Rosemarie being chosen to represent Canada at this international affair.

At the close of the program delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. McFaul assisted by Miss Elsie McFaul.

Walter Nind spoke briefly and on behalf of the members expressed appreciation to Mrs. McFaul for her hospitality.

St. Paul's U.C. Marks 109th Anniversary

STIRLING — On Sunday, October 21st, St. Paul's United Church in Stirling observed its 109th anniversary with a large attendance of members and guests.

The Rev. Prof. R. B. Green M.A., ThD., of Queen's Theological College, Kingston was the guest speaker. He based his morning message on the theme, "Measuring the Temple" and in the evening he spoke on "Life's Chief Objective."

Mrs. Harry Bryce officiated at the console of the organ and provided special anniversary music. The choir rendered "Therefore With Joy." A vocal duet was contributed by Mrs. Walter Wannamaker and Harry Brown. The junior choir with Mrs. Harold West as piano accompanist, sang "For the Beauty of the Earth" with a special arrangement.

In the evening the junior choir rendered "Tis the Holy Hour" and the duet part of this selection was taken by Mary Janet Hommersen and John Svoboda. The senior choir contributed an anthem, "Hymn of My Soul." The male quartet, Messrs. Ralph Johnson, Grant Richardson, Harry Brown and Jack Bush, sang "Somebody Knows."

Readers' Friday Column

by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

I read your recipes every day. Have you a recipe for cooking Vegetable Marrow? I only know of one — putting it in the oven and baking it in the shell and then adding salt, pepper and butter. Every year we have had a time getting Vegetable Marrow so this year I planted some and now I have lots. — Mrs. Lyall C.

Dinner Menus

FRIDAY

Salmon Loaf with Mushroom Sauce; Crumbed Grilled Tomatoes; Buttered Noodles; Cole Slaw with Radishes and Green Peppers; Marmalade; Pear and Orange Compott (see Thursday); Tea.

SUNDAY

Maryland Chicken with Cream Gravy; Corn Fritters; Frenched Green Beans; Pear Salad (see Thursday); Danish Puffs (see Wednesday); Coffee.

ANSWER:

Vegetable Marrow may be boiled, fried, stewed or baked in shell or casserole. For a general rule cook it as you would a soft-type squash.

To boil wash, slice in 1" thick rings or crescents, remove seeds and boil in salted water until tender. It is a watery, vegetable and goes very limp and soft if boiled too long. Drain well and serve with salt, pepper and butter or gravy. Fried in preheated serving dish, a white sauce or white sauce prepared with celery or chives or a cheese sauce. If it is steamed serve same as boiled above. If it is fried slice thinly and gently fry in butter with salt and pepper until a little crisp and brown, tender or parboil for 2 minutes, drain well and dry. Dip in salt, beaten egg then in fine crumbs and fry in butter or margarine, or in deep fat until golden. To bake do as you have been doing or pare, slice thinly and remove seeds. Layer in buttered casserole alternately with 1 thinly sliced mild Spanish onion, sprinkle with salt and pepper as you layer. Dot generously with butter, cover and bake 1 hour at 375 deg. Fahr. or until onion is soft and tender. This version is prettier if 2 tablespoons chopped sweet red or green pepper are sprinkled over the layers.

QUESTION:

A short while ago I copied your recipe for Melting Moments and somewhere along the way I seem to have made a mistake as mine are far too dry to roll into balls. Could you correct this for me? — Mrs. F. E. S.

ANSWER:

We have received three letters on this from girls in difficulty with the Melting Moments recipe. Now I want all of you to throw it out and use the following recipe instead.

IVY'S BUTTERFINGERS:

(Similar to, but better than, Melting Moments).

1 cup butter, 3 tablespoons sugar, few grains salt, 2 cups flour, 1 tablespoon water, 1 cup chopped nuts, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Cream butter and sugar, add salt, vanilla and water. Work in the flour; add nuts. Shape in 2" lengths and a finger in width. Bake at 250 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes or until barely firm but not at all brown. When cool roll in fruit sugar. This makes 48. Any kind of nuts may be used.

Mrs. T. D. — I'd like Ken to transfer to a college near home.

Clara G. — He's better off 3,000 miles from home.

Mrs. T. D.: I have four children. The three oldest are daughters, all school teachers and all married. The youngest is my 19-year-old son.

Because there is quite a bit of friction between my husband and myself, my daughters suggested that Ken attend a college far from home. This is his second year now at a California university, and it's not working out. He failed two courses which he's repeating. He joined a fraternity and has been reprimanded by the dean for late hours and carousing.

At this rate, the four years of college may drag out to five or six. He needs me nearby; I can keep him at his books. Far from home with no supervision and nobody interested, he'll just waste time and money.

Clara G.: Home is no place for my brother. It was no place for me and my sisters, either, for that matter. We got out fast through early marriages. And we're trying to help Ken extricate himself, too.

My father is 16 years older than my mother. They were married in Russia, through the offices of a marriage broker, when she was only 17. They had little in common and, as I remember things, he used to bark at her and she'd cry every day.

That's no environment for a young man. And now that Papa isn't working, things are worse than ever. He's home, living on a pension and he picks an argument with whoever lets him. To cheer herself up, my mother has her daughters and grandchildren. Leave Ken where he is.

The Council: In the face of apparent wantlessness, it's human nature to turn the other way. "Say it isn't so," is an everyday plea. Run 3,000 miles is the "solution" proffered to Ken by his sisters. But all the while he knows what's going on at home and the knowledge gnaws at his vitals, distracting him from energetic application to college courses and a career.

We agree with Clara that living at home, or even being there for long periods, would not be helpful or healthful for Ken's optimum blossoming. He'd become the buffer between his parents, forced to hear their recriminations, tempted to take sides, assailed by feelings of futility in trying to ease their relationship. His parents' problem is an old one. If it's growing more serious, it must come from outside guidance, not from 19-year-old Ken.

But it's no more useful for Ken to flee from home as from a bad dream, hoping that things will transform and that some day when he returns, all will be different. It won't be. A better idea would be for Ken to keep in touch with home, though not live there, while working actively to set his own life to rights. In other words, putting 3,000 miles between himself and his parents is simply delaying the transformation required. We suggest that Ken switch schools so as to be near enough to home to know whether he's making progress in his own maturing, his own ability to cope with his family and his adult responsibilities.

At present, he isn't acting still. He's retrograding. His college record is deplorable and alarming. The only transfer should be to a university near enough to home for Mrs. D. to visit him, or for him to come home on special occasions. A boy is more likely to buckle down to serious industry at home amid parental strife, with corporate reminders that he's living on sufferance, at times, and be looked at, in turn — holds promise. Ken's father may eventually fall in line and keep to good behaviour as to turn Ken's debts into "somebody cares." This compromise — not living a treat for the young man.

Neighbor's Children Abuse Little Ones

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—I am a young mother with a family of eight young children. My husband is away from home working and only gets home on weekends. I live on a street where there are a lot of other children, mostly older, some in their teens. They insist on all gathering in our front yard or veranda to play. Their playing every other day turns into violent arguments and they will stand and throw rocks at our children and swear.

My nerves are so bad at present from continually having to stop fights and bring my little ones in out of the yard so they will not be seriously hurt by rocks flying, that I am under a doctor's care.

We have gone to the parents several times. They tell their children not to bother us and the children will laugh at them and us and the next day start again.—OUT OF PATIENCE.

DEAR OUT:—Rock-throwing children are working up to a career on the rock pile. Parents who should take charge, don't.

You have a right to privacy. To prevent physical violence enlist the help of physical authority—the town or provincial police.

DEAR DORIS—In today's paper you had a letter from "Shaker." I too am a shaker and would certainly like to write to parties willing to discuss this.

My problem stems from a husband who thinks he is God's gift to women and whose mind is in the gutter. After 35 years of married life and after raising eight boys, I am a nervous wreck.

The point is every time one of my sons and his family visit, my husband tries to maul the girl (our daughter-in-law). They very seldom come now and if I say I am going to see any of them, my husband figures I am seeing a man.

My clothes are bought at the welfare shop. He earns good money but he gets a bug in his head that he wants something and no matter who goes without, he has to have it. When the kids were little we lived away out in the bush. He left me for two weeks because I would not go nude. He said he wanted to go in for photography a few years ago and after getting a camera and developing equipment, you can imagine how horrified I was when I learned he wanted to take obscene pictures of me.

Maybe if we wrecks get together by mail, we may find some joy in life.—JANET.

DEAR JANET—He has needed a psychiatrist all these weary years. None should have had to conform to his unbalanced whims.

Perhaps friendship with other shakers would help you even now, since you continue to let him hem you in. How about it, ladies? Have you some friendship to share with Shaker Janet?

DEAR DORIS—My girlfriend and I are both 13 years old. Could you please give us some suggestions on how to make money? We both babysit, but that doesn't seem to be enough, as jobs don't pop up all the time, and after a while it gets boring.

We tried to get a job at the kennels and helping to pack groceries, but both times were turned down because they said they needed boys. My friend and I are both quite strong, but this doesn't seem to help.—THREE GUESSES.

DEAR THREE GUESSES—Money making could begin at home. One eleven-year-old hired out to her mother as a cleaning woman and saved up enough money to buy a pony.

Now she is having the time of her life showing her prize pony at horse shows. She has graduated to second cook and her young brother, who covets the pony, is saving up for his own via the charlady route.

Perhaps your strong point is ironing—for a price! A summit meeting with Mother is indicated.

Cross-Canada Survey

2 Communities Experiment With Teaching Machines And Programmed Learning

By MEL SUFRIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Schools in a handful of communities across Canada have embarked on an educational experiment that is generating lively debate.

In simple terms, its the teaching machine experiment. Educationists prefer to discuss it in its broad context—programmed learning with mechanical help.

The idea of a student sitting down before an electronic device to learn mathematics or French intrigues many educationists and laymen. Others dismiss it as just another fad.

One thing that most seem to agree on, however, is that the machine will never replace the teacher. One informed estimate is that at most it will take over no more than one-third of classroom work.

Just what impact teaching machines will make on Canadian education depends on many things not the least of which is the cost of the machines themselves and the programs that are to be fed into them.

Most important will be whether research of projects convince authorities that machines can do a better job, at least in some subjects, than human teachers.

PROGRAM IS KEY

Experts emphasize that the program is the key. A machine, they say, is useless without a carefully prepared program of instruction. And, some contend, children can be taught just as well without a machine as long as the program is a good one.

A Cross - Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows that this fall about 20 communities are experimenting with teaching machines and programmed learning.

The machines range from exotic push - button electronic marvels that steer a student through a course of instruction at his own rate of learning to a simple hand-operated device that exposes blocks of subject material through a plastic window.

The teacher's role is discussed by H. R. Matthews, supervisor of the course of study for Montreal's Protestant school board.

"Machines can't replace the teacher or compete with her," he says. "It must be teacher and machine. Lots of the drill in work and rote learning can perhaps be better and more efficiently done by machine, leaving the teacher free to carry out the more significant aspects of education.

"One disadvantage is that when a child is taught by machine, no personal relationship, no affectionate bond can develop. Also, machines ignore completely the value of group discussions as an educational method.

"As for advantages, it certainly individualizes instruction. It is like a personal coach. When the student stops, the machine stops too."

QUESTIONS VALUE

D. B. MacKenzie, assistant superintendent of the Vancouver school board, questions the whole idea.

"We can find no proof that teaching machines are worth the money being charged for them. But it's not entirely a question of cost. B.made a trip across Canada last year and found that several school districts which have used them have reached the conclusion that students learn as well but no better with machines than they did with teachers."

Mr. MacKenzie, however, concedes that teachers may benefit. It's too early to say definitely but Grade 10 experiments seem to indicate that programmed learning relieves the teacher of considerable exam marking and other routine work, he says.

"It leaves the teacher with more time to devote to individual students which is almost impossible when he is forced to take every student in a large class through every stage of a course."

The big advantage seems to be that students can move at their own pace, Mr. MacKenzie says. Bright ones aren't forced to move so slowly that they lose interest. Below - average students aren't required to move too quickly and can thus cover the work thoroughly.

COST IS HIGH

While programmed instruction is still in its infancy, cost has already arisen as an important question. The simplest device may cost only a few dollars. The more expensive ones exceed a thousand.

The elaborate affair employs a sort of television screen which exposes a full page of information with three or more statements at the bottom. The student reads the page, then indicates by pushing one of a number of buttons which statement he thinks is correct.

If he gets the right button he is told he has answered correctly. The screen then switches to a new page of material. If he's wrong he's told where he made his mistake. Now the only button that will work is the one that returns him to the previous frame to try again.

One adverse reaction to the machines comes from Robert Warren, superintendent of Calgary public school board.

"The companies have gone big - wild making complicated and expensive equipment. We realize programmed learning may help a lot of students, both slow and fast students. But at this stage they are too expensive. If the prices came down and the machines were a little simpler to operate we'd start using them on an experimental basis, perhaps in one school to start with."

AVOIDS FRUSTRATION

Dr. A. R. McKinnon, director of research for the Toronto Board of Education, sees an advantage of this type of programmed instruction is that the student is never in the dark about how he is doing.

No matter how long it takes he ultimately comes up with the right answer, he says, adding that the minor success leads to major success.

The average or below-average student may thus avoid the sense of frustration that often results from inability to keep up with the rest of the class.

If machines are expensive, so are properly prepared programs. One estimate based on work being done in California is that it may cost as much as $50,000 for a team of experts to draw up a program that will lead a student step by step through a course of study in one subject.

Months of testing are necessary to determine whether a program has been put together so that one phase leads naturally to the next in perfect progression.

The cost is significant in Canada where each province is responsible for its own educational program and curricula.

In Toronto it was found that a single copy of a programmed Grade 9 course in the department of Malcolm MacKenzie, Prince Edward Island's deputy minister of education.

He says there is no definite provincial policy on teaching machines but that they are being used for Grade 4 and 5 mathematics at Parkdale elementary school in Charlottetown and if results are favorable they may be put to greater use.

Ontario has perhaps the broadest experimental program. Edward McKeown of Toronto's Williamson Road public school is heading tests with 1,500 Grade 4 children in London, St. Catharines, Ottawa, Burlington, Toronto and its suburb of Etobicoke.

Current tests will run to December with progress reports from teachers every 10 days. Each class is split into three groups, one working entirely with machines and programmed material, one learning just from programmed instruction in textbook form, the other by traditional methods. Results take at least 18 months to correlate.

NOT PERFECT

Mr. McKeown says it is apparent that programmed self-instructional machines have a great deal to offer if a number of inherent weaknesses can be remedied.

He says it is unlikely that the less - sophisticated, less - expensive devices will ever completely overcome the problems of accommodating individual differences but disagrees with those who suggest experiments in the days of time because perfection has not been attained.

Prince Andrew High School in Dartmouth, N.S., is one where machines are being used for the first time this fall. A Grade 10 class of 30 is being taught algebra. Principal Gerald J. McCarthy says this class and another being taught concurrently will write the same final exams and results will be compared as part of the experiment.

Another school taking the plunge this autumn is Holy Heart of Mary regional school in St. John's, Nfld., where a Grade 9 class will use 35 machines for algebra.

In Montreal, where three Protestant schools are trying—machines, R. G. Gervais, teaching aids consultant for the board, says: "As far as I can see, machines are of more use in adult education. You need a certain maturity so they will probably be aimed primarily at the secondary schools."

COLLEAGUE DISAGREES

His colleague, Mr. Matthews, disagrees on this point. "The level of learning for which these machines are used doesn't seem to matter," he says. "It fits into elementary and secondary programs equally nicely."

Machines are in only limited use on the Prairies, chiefly to show farmers what they can do. Two machines are being used in Perrigue la Prairie and Oakville in Manitoba.

Regina bought one this fall for use at one school for remedical work on Grade 9 algebra and spelling.

W. J. E. Walker, superintendent of Regina high schools, says teachers there haven't taken a stand on the machines, waiting to see what they can do before passing judgment.

"If used as they should be," he says, "I can see a good future for them."

Two inexpensive machines were used in Roman Catholic junior high schools in Edmonton during the latter part of last term. F. P. O'Hara, assistant superintendent of separate schools, says they "didn't seem to offer any more than a text-book would have" although some students, especially the boys, seemed to like the idea of a machine.

At British Columbia, Kitimat has a $15,000 language laboratory at Mount Elizabeth High School. "It has been a wise investment," says principal Roy Berry. "Some 175 students have benefitted by improving oral fluency and language writing."

The Fraser Valley community of Langley has also experimented with machines but hasn't come to any conclusions.

A Grade 10 English class at John Oliver High School in Vancouver is using programmed instruction without the machines.

At the University of British Columbia a programmed learning study centre opens this fall and lecturers and district superintendents will be invited to attend.

USES TEACHING MACHINE — A few schools and some homes are experimenting in education by use of a teaching machine—programmed learning with mechanical help. Here, Peter Brown, 14, of Toronto, uses a teaching machine to study algebra at home. Promoters believe such home machines may help bring a student's subject up to classroom standards.

Jesus' Greatest Promise

By ROY L. SMITH

"By their promises ye shall know them." If he has been said on many occasions that you can judge a politician by the promises he makes to his constituents. If he makes extravagant promises, which everyone knows he cannot keep, he defeats himself.

Something of the same thing can be said of religions. They are to be judged by the promises they make to their adherents.

In Jesus' day the world of the East was filled with wandering teachers of religion, each one of whom was trying to outdo the others in the promises he made to his disciples. And because of the commonly accepted doctrine of "the end of the age," these promises in large part were related in some way to that cataclysmic event that was just over the horizon.

There was a whole series of cults commonly known as "mystery religions" which offered extravagant promises to the public in the form of "secrets" which were supposed to come to their aid at the time the age ended. And with these the Christian church was in competition in city after city.

JESUS HIMSELF PROMISED

The greatest promise offered to the Christians was one which Jesus himself gave them.

As He neared the end of His ministry, and as the crucifixion appeared upon his horizon, the disciples were terribly depressed at the prospect of losing Him, as their companion, in the midst of one of His most intimate conversations He promised them that the Holy Spirit would be granted them and that this divine presence would continue to console them throughout their lives, comforting, consoling, strengthening, and guiding.

Moreover, Jesus assured them that the Holy Spirit would do for them, what He could not do. They were dependent upon their eyes, ears, and other senses, if they were to detect Jesus' presence. But the Holy Spirit, according to Jesus' promise, would take up His residence within the life of each believer and continue to guide and inspire without interruption as long as that believer remained faithful.

The meaning was amazing. Every believer was entitled to "a private wire to heaven." In every situation he was to have the right to expect divine assistance in making decisions, choices, and judgments.

MATTER OF EXPERIENCE

In spite of the fact that the doctrine has been the occasion of vagaries, fanaticism, and mystification, there are millions of honest and humble people who are ready to testify to the fact that they have been granted the gift of the Holy Spirit and that through His assistance they have been enabled to decide matters of the most serious sort.

One of the first to declare that he was a daily beneficiary of the assistance of the Holy Spirit was the Apostle Paul. He declared that he was first impelled to become a Christian as a result of the fact that he met Jesus in a vivid spiritual experience as he journeyed from Jerusalem to Damascus. Thereafter he declared that his every judgment was guided by this divine force. Within the space of a very short time after he began preaching the Christian gospel in Europe, he set it as the one test of the true Christian: "Has he received the Holy Spirit?"

SPIRIT AND DAY'S WORK

It is fundamental in Christian belief and life that this Holy Spirit stands ready to take up residence in the spirit (or sou')of every Christian believer. This residence can be made null and void by disobedience, anger, hate, lust, rebellion, or any of a long series of evil attitudes.

But to the individual who is willing to really "believe" in Jesus, who is willing to do the will of God if he can only know that will, who is willing to set his ow judgment aside in favor of the judgment of God, the promise is perfectly plain and always valid. The Counsellor whom Jesus promised stands ready at all times to assist the sincere person.

It is the experience of uncounted thousands — even millions — that the promise can be trusted. The humblest and the most conspicuous testify to the fact that they have been "guided."

Prague Czechs Tear Down American Flag

VIENNA (AP) — More than 1,000 Czechoslovaks marched on the U.S. Embassy in Prague today and some demonstrators tore down American flag during a noisy protest rally against the U.S. arms blockade against Cuba.

An embassy official reached by telephone in Vienna said the street in front of the building was full of demonstrators chanting "Yankees go home" and "Cuba si, Yankee no."

The official said a group of demonstrators climbed up on the wall of the building and tore the American flag from its staff just above the main entrance.

Seamen's Union to Launch Defence Against Charges Made Before Marine Inquiry

By ROBERT RICE

MONTREAL (CP) — The Seafarers' International Union is expected to launch today its defence against charges before the Norris shipping inquiry that it is corrupt, undemocratic and responsible for organized violence on the Great Lakes.

Cross-examination of William Dodge, second vice-president of the 1,070,000-member Canadian Labor. Congress, is in its final stages as the public investigation of waterfront labor violence and shipping disruptions heads into its 36th session.

Mr. Dodge, in the witness stand for the last four days, faces further questioning today from Charles Dubin, senior counsel for the federal inquiry being conducted by Mr. Justice T. G. Norris.

The SIU is expected to introduce witnesses and records designed to refute allegations that it is responsible for organized gangsterism and violence on the waterfront labor scene.

CRITICIZES MONOPOLY

Thursday, Mr. Justice Norris rebuked American trade unionism in the here earlier this week for an executive session of the powerful maritime trades department of the AFL-CIO. The MTD went on record in a resolution condemning Mr. Dodge as a "dictator and spokesman for his role in an inter-union struggle for labor supremacy on the Great Lakes.

This fight—between the SIU, backed by the AFL-CIO, and the Canadian Maritime Union, backed by the CLC—has been marked by violence and disruptions to shipping.

Mr. Justice Norris said the MTD should not have passed objectionable and in the "language of intimidation."

Maurice Wright, lawyer for the CLC, called it "impertinent, indeed reprehensible and contemptible."

To MTD charges that his inquiry is based on union principles, the Vancouver judge said:

"The inquiry has been conducted to the best of my ability in accordance with the time-worn principles under which all such hearings, and indeed the courts, are conducted.

LACK KNOWLEDGE

"It does not lie in their mouths to criticize this inquiry because they have no personal knowledge nor the appreciation of public justice, nor the understanding, nor apparently the ability."

SIU counsel Bruce Thomas defended the right of the Maritime Trades Department, an agency of the CLC, to meet in Montreal and to conduct its own business.

The CLC also alleges against the MTD were inflammatory and prejudicial, he said.

Young PCs Ask for More Positive Stand

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Manitoba Young Progressive Conservative Association has called on the federal government to take "a more positive stand in support of President Kennedy and the United States in the current Cuban crisis."

Association President Doug Leatherdale Thursday rapped the government present stand as "shilly-shally."

He said in an interview that a special executive meeting decided to send a telegram to Prime Minister Diefenbaker warning him that "the Canadian people are looking for leadership and guidance during this grave international situation".

Mr. Leatherdale said at the meeting was the result of a television interview Wednesday night in which External Affairs Minister Howard Green "backed away from whole-hearted support of the American position."

The Young Conservatives, he said, are "extremely unhappy" over Mr. Green's performance.

"We felt the government should have come right out as soon as it happened and placed itself four-square behind the president," he said.

Kennedy Knew Gromyko Was Lying at Visit

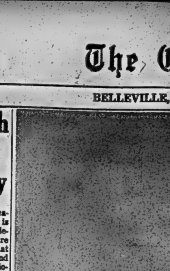
WASHINGTON (CP)—A peek into the intricacies of high diplomatic intrigue was provided Thursday by a source associated with the business but who asked not to be identified.

He stated that when Andrei Gromyko, Soviet foreign minister, told President Kennedy a week ago that Soviet weapons in Cuba were strictly defensive, Gromyko knew he was lying and knew that Kennedy knew.

This infuriated the president, the source said. In his speech last Monday announcing the Cuban naval blockade, Kennedy referred to Gromyko's visit and Gromyko's statement that the weapons were defensive and accused the Russian foreign minister of telling a falsehood.

While Gromyko was providing the assurances, Kennedy said, he had in his hand evidence of a rapid buildup of ballistic missile bases on the Caribbean Island.

• Why all the deception when each side apparently knew what the other knew?



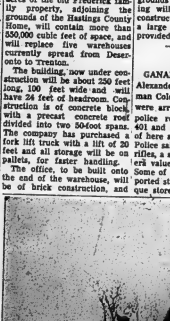
No answer was provided but it was stated the measure of Soviet "deceit" was marked by the fact that only did the Soviet leadership maintain weapons in Cuba were defensive but also provided the United States with details of types of weapons and their range to back up the assurances.

Apple, Pear, Cherry, Grape Crops Larger

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian crops of apples, pears, sweet cherries and grapes were larger in 1962 than in previous years, the bureau of statistics said today.

The bureau, in its third estimate of the 1962 commercial fruit crop, said declines in the output of sour cherries, strawberries, raspberries, loganberries, peaches, plums and prunes and apricots.

Crop estimates, with last year's figures in brackets: apples 17,792,000 bushels (17,106,000), pears 1,681,000 bushels (1,477,000), sweet cherries 388,000 bushels (306,000), sour cherries 218,00 bushels (338,000), strawberries 20,768,000 quarts (22,22,000), raspberries 8,048,000 quarts (9,469,000), loganberries 1,112,000 pounds (1,202,00), grapes 88,592,00 pounds (85,237,000), peaches 3,348,000 bushels (3,075,000), plums and prunes 411,000 bushels (378,000) apricots 254,00 bushels (262,000).



Ernie Jones, of 43 Smith Crescent, Belleville, construction superintendent of the new LaPalm warehouse being built near the Trent Road, brings Ken LaPalm of F. LaPalm Ltd., up to date on progress of the work.

New Storage Warehouse Being Built by La Palm, Ltd.

After 47 years of moving and storing things for people in the Belleville area, F. LaPalm Ltd. are moving themselves, into a modern centralized location. Their new warehouse, now being built on four-and-a-half acres of the old Frederick family property, adjoining the grounds of the Hastings County Home, will contain more than 250,000 cubic feet of space, and will replace five warehouses currently spread from Deseronto to Trenton.

The building, now under construction will be about 250 feet long, 100 feet wide and will have 24 feet of headroom. Construction is of concrete block, with a precast concrete roof divided into two 50-foot spans. The company has purchased a fork lift truck with a lift of 20 feet and all storage will be on pallets, for faster handling.

The office, to be built onto the end of the warehouse, will be of brick construction, and large enough to provide some office space for rent, initially. The extra space is to allow for expansion of the La Palm operation, but for the time being the company hopes to interest a tenant who will also make use of the storage facilities. The grounds surrounding the building will be landscaped, when construction is completed, and a large parking space will be provided.

Don Peterson, an employee of a Belleville tree removal firm, makes the final cuts in taking the top off one of the elm trees on North Front Street, just south of the railway bridge. The trees, about a dozen of them, are coming down to make way for a new bridge over the railway tracks.

ARREST TWO

GANANOQUE, Ont. (CP)—Alexander Moses, 38, and Norman Cole, 44, both of Montreal, were arrested Thursday near a police roadblock at Highways 401 and 15 about 10 miles west of here and charged with theft. Police said they seized five new cars in the ships, a shotgun, radio and camera valued at a total of $1,000. Some of the goods had been replaced on the trucks and carried them about 150 feet. The train was not damaged.

Ambassador Takes a Powder On Question

OTTAWA (CP)—Cuban Ambassador Americo Cruz said Thursday night he does not know whether his country has nuclear weapons but it does have "missiles to defend itself."

Asked at a press conference whether there are nuclear installations on Cuban soil, Dr. Cruz replied:

"I can't answer that. I am not the chief of the army."

TRENTON, Ont. (CP)—Larry Penley, 16 of Trenton was put on probation Thursday for two years for obstructing the operation of a CPR train near here Oct. 9. Court was told that the train struck two railway ties

Truman Does Not Like Attitude Of Canada

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) Former U.S. President Harry S. Truman said Thursday he doesn't like Canada's attitude in the Cuban situation.

He charged that Canada's prime minister has refused to associate his country with others in the western hemisphere in support of the U.S. stand against arms shipments to Cuba.

"We have supported them in former times and in crises," Truman said. "They should stand behind us today."

In the Commons Thursday, Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced that the RCAF Air Defence Command has been placed on the same alert as the U.S. interceptors, and that long leaves for armed forces personnel have been cancelled because of the Cuban crisis.

("We intend to support the U.S. and our other allies in this situation," he said.

(Diefenbaker noted that his government had announced earlier that a Soviet ship which is en route to Cuba would not be permitted to use Canadian airspace).

ASKS ACTION

MONTREAL (CP) — The executive council of the Textile Workers Union of America (AFL - CIO - CLC) Thursday called for government action in Canada and the United States to reduce unemployment.

Baby Returned To Parents By Court Order

TORONTO (CP) — Mr. Justice Samuel Hughes gave a Jehovah's Witnesses couple official custody Thursday of their infant, made a Children's Aid Society ward on the day he was born.

He quashed a Sept. 29 court order removing a baby boy from the custody of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Forsyth of Kingston so that the child could obtain an urgent blood transfusion, banned by the sect.

Mr. Justice Hughes said he was acting "with great regret" because the Sept. 29 action by Judge James Garvin, Director D. A. Judd of the Children's Aid Society and Kingston General Hospital doctors may have saved the boy's life.

Kingston pediatrician Dr. D. J. Delhaye found that the baby had a blood deficiency and required a transfusion.

Quick action resulted in a hospital bowing with the child's mother on a stretcher and father summoned from home. Judge Garvin presided and ruled the child a ward of the society in Kingston and Frontenac

NO PROPER HEARING

Mr. Justice Hughes said he was satisfied the baby was not a neglected child within the meaning of the Child Welfare Act. He held that there had not been a proper hearing and that Judge Garvin and Society defprived himself of jurisdiction.

He added, however, that Mr. Forsyth should be "grateful" that the child was returned alive and well after a blood transfusion. "Your sects' care, but not custody, Oct. 8.

Nevertheless, he said, "there must be an over-riding fact in order of that court of Sept. 29, namely, the effectivity that may be in the circumstance that no present case."

Indeed, it is clear that at no time were the Forsyths . . . properly advised of their rights at a hearing. In spite of the fact that they were not represented by counsel."

United Nations Undergoing Test of Fire Over Cuba

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

So often has it been said that the United Nations is facing a do-or-die crisis that the phrase tends to go in one ear and out the other.

But it is hard to avoid the feeling that something really historic in the world body is happening now as the great powers struggle over Cuba.

"If today the United Nations should prove itself ineffective, it may have proved itself so for all time," said Acting Secretary-General U Thant.

In the past the Burmese Buddhist has referred to the United States and the Soviet Union as the "two countries who have a special responsibility for the peace of the world."

It now remains to be seen whether the head-on clash of the giants will warp UN principles or whether somehow they will be strengthened.

DAG QUOTED

Not for the first time, Thant quoted the words of his predecessor, the late Dag Hammarskjold, that "the purposes of the charter are, by far, greater than the organization in which they are embodied, and the aims which they are to safeguard are holier than the policies of any single nation or people."

The United States and Britain have sought at great length to show that the Soviet Union's record since the Second World War has been two-faced and crooked, often under the cover of UN resolutions.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson Tuesday speech was not only an indictment of Russia's military buildup in Cuba but a chronicle of Moscow's misdeeds since the UN was founded.

He recalled he was present at the Security Council's first meeting when Russia was taken to task for its activities in neighboring Iran. Now, on the UN's 17th birthday, new complaints were being directed at Russia, in the interval Russia had "thwarted the will of the majority" by using the veto 100 times.

Joseph Godber, British minister of state for foreign affairs, earlier delivered a similar analysis of Russia's record where disarmament is concerned.

In the bluntest language, Godber plowed through the history of disarmament efforts since the war, seeking to prove that the West had made concession after concession to Moscow with little or nothing in return.

Godber made the decision—and he later told correspondents he was anxious they understood it that the non-aligned countries of the UN have come to expect the West rather than Russia to make concessions on any given controversy.

Stevenson's rhetorical question as to whether the Soviet Union "ever really joined the United Nations" recalls the sad state of UN finances, largely because of Moscow's refusal to pay its share of peace-keeping costs.

The Stevenson and Godber speeches sounded like showdown statements calculated to stop—if possible—the UN's trend to becoming a diplomatic one-way street.

Fire Almost Demolishes Famous Hall

GLASCOW (Reuters)—St. Andrew's Hall, one of Scotland's best - known public meeting rifle to make it easier to handle."

Swann testified that the mechanism jammed again and while he was trying to clear the rifle by banging the bolt the weapon discharged and he knew he hit a woman in the street because he saw her holding her leg.

He said he hit the woman accidentally and "got scared." He said he went downstairs to talk to a neighbor when he realized what he had done.

The trial continues.

WARDEN TO RETIRE

N.Y. Speaker to Toronto Communist Club Turned Back at Canadian Border

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Herbert Aptheker of New York City was held indommunicado by immigration officials at Malton Airport Thursday for 2½ hours before he was placed on a flight returning him to his home.

Dr. Aptheker, who was scheduled to speak at a meeting sponsored by the University of Toronto Communist Club Thursday, refused to submit to a department of citizenship and immigration inquiry.

Officials in Toronto would make no comment on the refusal to grant Dr. Aptheker entry to Canada, saying the orders came directly from Ottawa with no given reason.

Dr. Aptheker is a member of the board of directors of a New York left - wing paper called Masses and Mainstream. Nelson Clarke, national organizer of the Canadian Communist party, said he would not consider the paper to be Communist but "some people might."

Dr. Aptheker, who visited Mainst lecturer, Mr. Clarke said, and was to address the university group on the Smith Act in the United States. The act made membership in the Communist party a crime and deportation of an alien and requires all Communists to register as agents of a foreign government.

CANNOT SAY

Mr. Clarke said he could not say whether Dr. Aptheker is a member of the Communist party.

In a statement issued through the Canadian Communist party, Dr. Aptheker said:

"Immigration authorities here have denied me entry without explanation, although I suffer from no contagious disease and have no criminal record. One of the last most vehemently this is despicable and tyrannical behavior."

He said he has been in Canada several times in the past and has had no difficulty in gaining entry.

Found Children In Bad Condition Says Officer

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Jean Callahan, 41, pleaded not guilty Thursday as her trial began on seven counts of neglecting children placed in her care.

Dr. A. W. Rebhan, medical director of the Metropolitan Toronto Children's Aid Society, testified that one of the children was undernourished and his skin could be pulled "like a cat's pelt."

Another of the children, a boy of 4½ months, had to be sent to hospital for two weeks after he did not respond to proper feeding in a foster home, she said.

Dr. Rebhan said the other children generally showed signs of malnutrition, dirty rash, flabby flesh and pallor, except for one boy who was normal for his age but had a severe case of diarrhea.

Sgt. John G. Stewart testified he went to the Callahan Toronto house last June in response to a call from public health department officials who were refused entry.

A neighbor would not let him through the house so he went farther along the street and between the garage and fence to the house over backyard fences.

He then saw Mrs. Callahan's daughter Jennifer handing children over a fence to two teen-age girls. By the time he reached the back door the backyard 11 infants had been put in a small shed adjacent to the Callahan house, Sgt. Stewart testified.

The officer said he and the girls carried the children back into the house and he then opened the front door for the public health officials. He looked over the house and found 27 children, all in "dirty" condition.

The trial was adjourned to Nov. 5.

Army Private Says Shootings Accidental

TORONTO (CP) — Norman Swann, a 20-year-old Canadian Army private stationed at Barrielfield, near Kingston, and charged with wounding four women July 17, testified Thursday that the shootings were accidental.

Swann testified the accident occurred while he was home on leave and was trying to clear the mechanism of a 22-calibre rifle he had just bought.

Giving evidence in his own defence before Senior County Judge Robert Forsyth and a general sessions jury, he said he bought BB ammunition from a salesman who told him it was cheap and he could use it for target practice.

Swann said he tried the repeating, bolt-action rifle in the basement of his parents' home and found that it jammed. He went upstairs where there was more light to clear the weapon. He said he sat down and tried to eject the shells. The weapon fire disinteritedly, and perhaps 10 to 12 shots went out a window toward a nearby ravine.

Said Swann: "I didn't see where the shells were going. I didn't know. I was doing any damage. I had the butt off the Topic this week: A plastic adhesive for heart surgery, requires means for countering radioactive iodine to nuclear fallout and periodney radius.

NO STITCHES

U.S. National Heart Institute researchers say a new plastic adhesive material looks like a good bet for "stitchless" stopping of bleeding during surgery on the heart and blood vessels, in certain situations.

In animal tests, they said, the compound — called Eastman 910 monomer — performed well in such techniques as: (1) Sealing holes in the aorta with muscle patches taken from the chest wall; and (2) repairing holes in the heart itself when muscle patches were applied to the heart's outer surface.

FALLOUT ANTIDOTE

A team of Boston doctors has come up with a finding which they say will be important in days when it's necessary to employ countermeasures against radioactive iodine — 131, one of the most feared components of fallout from nuclear weapon tests.

Dr. M. Gazzaniga of Harvard Medical School, and two Boston colleagues, reported in Science magazine that they've figured out the minimal oral dose of non-radioactive sodium iodide that would be required to prevent the body from absorbing the potentially dangerous radioactive stuff. The iodide would be added to milk and perhaps other foods to serve as a substitute that would suppress the body's absorption of the radioactive material.

The scientists voiced surprise that no one, up to this time, had figured out the minimal dose of iodide that would be needed—even though there has been much talk about its potential value as a countermeasure.

RADIO ON THE FLY

The U.S. Army is supporting the development of some special light - weight radio transmitters to be carried on the backs of paratroopers—to enable the recording of temperature, pulse rate and respiration during jumps.

The same type of equipment is also planned for studying physiological reactions of foot soldiers during field manoeuvres. Electrodes attached to a man's body would feed the information by radio to the radio transmitter which would then broadcast it to a receiving station.

Wintermeyer Calls for Early Election

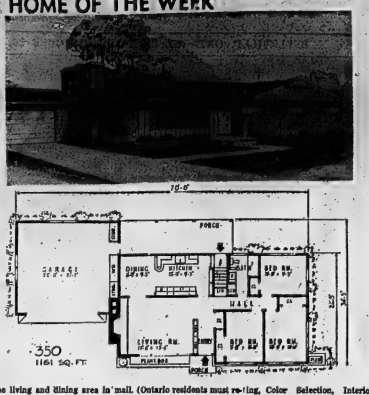
TORONTO (CP) — Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer today called for an early Ontario general election with Premier Robarts' new and wholesale cabinet overhaul as a major issue.

In a statement issued after Mr. Robarts shook up the cabinet, Mr. Wintermeyer said it still reflects the power of "the discredited old guard" and should be submitted to the electorate at "the earliest appropriate time."

Mr. Wintermeyer said the shuffle is largely a political smoke-screen and particularly criticized the retention in the cabinet of Kelso Roberts moved from attorney-general to lands and forests — and John Yaremko, who remains as provincial secretary.

Both have been under fire from the opposition in connection with the government's royal commission investigation into Ontario securities and

STILL WIELDS POWER



"Retention of Kelso Roberts as attorney-general," Mr. Wintermeyer said, "is a tacit admission of the power which the discredited old guard is still wields . . .

"It is obvious that Mr. Robarts has lost control and that it is obvious that Mr. Robarts is not strong enough to insist upon his resignation.

"The fact that Mr. Roberts has been removed from the department of the attorney-general is also an admission that the administration of justice is to say the least, inept and inefficient to an alarming degree."

Retention of Mr. Yaremko as provincial secretary — the department in charge of establishing charters for the social clubs that have been used as gambling fronts—was "a declaration that the Robarts government accepts responsibility for policies whereby professional gamblers and gambling syndicates have been able to exploit the laws with regard to chartered social clubs."

Can You Remember When?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Life is a board of remembrances.

You have made quite a journey through time if you can look back and remember when—

You had to crank a telephone to get the operator, and when she responded, you said "Hello, central" — and then told her the number you wanted.

Movies were silent and background music was provided by a neighborhood piano teacher—usually dumpy and middle-aged so the patrons wouldn't bother her. (During exciting scenes she always played the Overture from William Tell.)

When you asked a stranger what time it was, he reached in his vest pocket for his watch instead of looking at his wrist.

Elderly men always kept their change in a snap-shut coin purse. (How young girls do.)

You could order a fine set of false teeth by mail. (They might not fit very well, but when a fellow didn't have to wear them except in church, while attending a funeral, or other formal functions.)

People walked so much that paring corns off their toes was the most popular form of home surgery.

Young boys wore long black stockings that usually had a hole in the right knee caused by playing marbles.

The biggest showoff in the block was the kid who had saved up enough pennies to buy a Boy Scout knife. He wore it dangling from a string around his neck, so everybody would be sure to see it.

A wife was so proud to be honored on Mother's Day that she worked herself to death cooking her family one of the biggest meals of the year.

The local druggist diagnosed more illnesses than the local doctor — and didn't charge you $3 for a consultation.

Only city people got up by the alarm clock. In town and country the rooster is the backyard served the same purpose.

Brighton Has Always Been Popular Cockney Resort

By DOUG MARSHALL

BRIGHTON, England (CP)—When long summer weekends roll around, teeming trainloads of Londoners answer some atavistic instinct and trundle south to Brighton.

Ever since the prince regent turned a simple seaside village into a fashionable watering place for a foppish court society in the early 19th century, Brighton has been the most popular of Cockney playgrounds.

The prince's main contribution to the village was a rococo summer pavilion that still stands today—magnificent and minareted—with much of its original furniture.

When the invention of the railway made it possible for rich and poor alike to go down to the sea in trains, the village grew swiftly.

An unbroken cream - colored cliff of Victorian and Edwardian hotels stretches out for miles along the seafront. Behind them is a vast complex of restaurants and amusement arcades, coffee bars and curiosity shops.

HAPPIEST IN CROWD

Britons seem happiest in a crowd and there is something about Brighton's packed pebbled beaches, sticky rock candy, penny peep shows and general pandemonium that draws the Londoners back year after year.

On two rival piers, plunging 600 yards into the grey-green channel, vacationists can dance and dine, play bingo, drive bumper cars, have their portraits sketched, record greetings for aunt Mabel, take speed boat rides or simply fish. For many it's the closest they will ever get to France. Others are seasick just gazing at the waves.

Nowadays non - stop trains take only an hour to make the London-Brighton trip and the resort is fast becoming an exclusive suburb of the metropolis.

SNOOZE IN SUN

Former Indian Army officers go there for the ozone. Retired bankers like the peace and quiet of the winter months. They live in residential hotels, stroll along the promenade, snooze in the sun lounges and return two solid Conservatives to Parliament.

On the shakiris of town, leading figures in the entertainment world have begun to build country houses. The swish Glyndebourne Opera Theatre is only a few miles away. Central Brighton now boasts a lavish casino.

In the autumn one or other of the political parties usually descends on Brighton for its annual conference. Business firms and trade unions are growing increasingly fond of holding conventions there.

"We have the best of both worlds," said one of Brighton's leading doctors. "We're in touch with everything we want to be and sufficiently far away from all the rest."

Denies Method To Forecast Holes in Roads

VANCOUVER (CP)—A local engineer has devised a method of forecasting potholes in roads using a device costing about $250 which, he says, will save thousands of dollars in road repairs.

D. A. Welsh, design engineer for the District of North Vancouver, uses a 12-foot aluminum beam, tripod and sensitive deflection scale—the whole known as a Benkelman Beam—to measure how much a road sinks and rises as a heavy truck is driven over it.

He says extensive measurements against traffic conditions show a deflection of between 20-1,000ths and 80-1,000ths of an inch is tolerable for moderate traffic. But a deflection of 95-1,000ths of an inch will lead to a breakup of road under heavy traffic.

The beam will indicate accurately the amount of gravel and asphalt needed to surface a new road for expected traffic volume and the amount of resurfacing needed to secure adequate strength for a poor road, says Mr. Welsh.

He has described his method to the International Road Federation world congress at Madrid this month.

Kennedy's Action on Cuba Removes Prime Issue From Campaign for Elections

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN

NEW YORK (CP)—President Kennedy's action in placing a "quarantine" on Cuba has removed a prime issue from the campaign for the Nov. 6 congressional elections.

Announcing his decision to place an arms blockade around Cuba, the president cancelled his remaining scheduled campaign trips. Vice - President Johnson followed suit.

Kennedy also asked congressional leaders—including some in the midst of campaigns for re-election—to remain in Washington for consultation on Cuban developments.

These moves in effect put the brakes on a debate over Cuban policy which many Republicans had regarded as their best chance to make gains in contests for the Senate and House of Representatives.

Seven Republican leaders to whom Kennedy explained his Cuban plans issued a statement later saying all Americans will support the president on the decision or decisions he makes in the security of our country.

They added, however, that they had only been "informed by the president of his already-determined course of action." This left the way open for them to say later, if they wish to do so, that they were not consulted on the policy in advance.

CRISIS POINT

Before the Cuban issue reached the crisis point, Republicans had ignored the theory that politics should "stop at the water's edge."

William E. Miller, chairman of the Republican national committee, announced in mid-October: "If we were asked to state the issue in one word, that word would be Cuba—symbol of the tragic irresolution of the administration."

Comparatively speaking, political comment on the Berlin question is moderate. Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has made a show of postponing a showdown on Berlin until at least after the elections.

Kennedy, 45, campaigning furiously although his office is not at stake, said in one speech that during his some 22 months in the presidency a "new and firm and forward-moving foreign policy has been developed" despite foot - dragging by Republican congressmen.

DREARY RECORD

Much stung by that remark was former president Dwight D. Eisenhower, 72, who seems to enjoy politics more and more as he grows older, campaigning with a ferocity he has seldom shown.

Eisenhower charged that Kennedy's record in foreign affairs was too dreary to talk about, contrasting woefully with his own tenure in the presidency. He added:

"In those eight years, we lost no inch of ground to tyranny. We witnessed no abdication of responsibility. We accepted no compromise of our pledged word or withdrawal from principle. No walls were built. No threatening foreign bases were established. One war was ended and incipient wars were blocked."

Eisenhower's obvious reference to Cuba was reflected by Democrats who said Premier Fidel Castro came to power and made his turn to the Soviet Union before Eisenhower left Washington.

Kennedy's supporters said Eisenhower's oblique reference to the Berlin wall was unjustified since the German problem has been building to a climax for five years.

And former president Harry S. Truman has repeatedly stated that Eisenhower's boast of ending the Korean War only means that the "surrendered" to the Communists, something Truman as president had refused to do.

Batawa

BATAWA — Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Armstrong and daughter, Beth, spent the weekend in Bancroft. Miss Beth Armstrong was the bridesmaid at the Barker—Brownson wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Barry Keller, of Toronto, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Lockhart.

A visitor from East Tilbury, England, on Monday was, Mr. J. Gotwald, who is in charge of North American Sales for the Export Department of the British Bata Shoe Company.

Congratulations to Ann Sharpe and Bob Adams, of Deparment 624, who will be married this week. Ann was recently honored with a bridal shower when she received many lovely gifts and best wishes.

Best wishes to Carman Westlake who celebrated his 22rd year with Bata Shoe Company on Monday. This places him among the earliest pioneers of the industrial community.

Court Is Told Man Admitted Having Million

BOSTON (AP)—A U.S. postal official has told a federal court that electrician Thomas J. Richards, 37, admitted a week ago that he had in his possession $1,000,000 of the $1,500,000 taken in the Aug. 14 mail truck holdup at Plymouth, Mass.

In an affidavit filed in U.S. district court, Postal Inspector Raymond J. Dunne, said the statement by Richards was made during questioning on Oct. 19 in the presence of Richards' wife, Sylvia, and her brother.

Dunne said that during conversation with the trio he asked Richards why he was not cooperating fully, returning the money and claiming the reward. Dunne said Richards told him he was interested in the reward but did not want to go to jail.

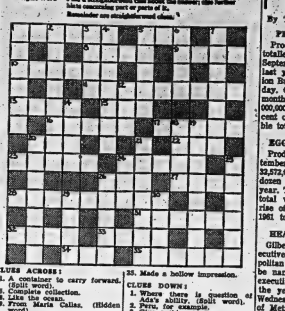
He quoted Richards as saying: "Suppose I could come up with some of the money, couldn't we just say I found it. What will I tell them when they come to get it. I am going to end up with a bullet in my head."

ASKS HOW MUCH

Dunne said he asked: "How much of the money do you have?" The inspector said Richards replied: "About 65 to 70 per cent."

Dunne said "You are talking about $1,000,000 and you can deliver?" and Richards was quoted as replying "that's right."

The affidavit was filed in court in connection with a search carried out by more than a score of postal inspectors and deputy U.S. marshals at Richards' home at Weymouth, Mass., Tuesday.



An 11½-hour search unearthed $330 in cash in the basement ceiling, a shotgun, a bullet-proof vest, part of another bullet-proof vest, a pistol and two foot lockers.

PRODUCER MORE MILK

Production of milk in Canada totalled 1,814,000,000 pounds in September, little changed from last year's output, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said today. Output in the first nine months of 1962 totalled 15,121,000,000, an increase of 0.6 per cent over last year's comparable total.

EGG PRODUCTION DOWN

Production of eggs in September declined 0.4 per cent to 32,572,000 dozen from 32,698,000 dozen in the same month last year. The January - September total was 323,972,000 dozen, a rise of 1.7 per cent above the 1961 total of 318,486,000 dozen.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The announcement of President Gordie Bell of the Belleville Junior Hockey Club executive that the organization had "divorced" itself from the Chicago Black Hawks, came as no great surprise.

Those conversant with the working agreements, sponsorships and farm club operations of National Hockey League clubs took the announcement in stride.

The major league clubs have established pro and junior "A" farm teams with certain "B" teams and perhaps a smattering of working agreement organizations.

They are not in the habit of dumping $3,000 to $3,500 subsidies in the laps of mere or less obscure clubs which show little promise of player returns.

There were optimists at the inaugural meeting of the Belleville Booster Club the night it decided to take over the sponsorship left vacant by the departure of H. J. McFarland, who were confident the Black Hawks would donate some $3,500 to the orphan cause.

This wishful thinking was based on the report that the Hawks had subsidized previous sponsors to the amount of some $3,000. It's a good thing the Booster Club executive did not take it too seriously. Or did they?

A later report had it that the Hawks had been contacted and had stated that they still retained an interest in the junior club here whether McFarland did or not. But no cheque accompanied the statement.

While the Hawks' decision to drop the junior club's "helping hand" did not arrive coincidental with the withdrawal of the McFarland sponsorship it, nevertheless, rounds out a rather interesting sequence of events.

A couple of years ago when the Hawks-McFarlands interest took over from Jimmie Hawkins junior B sponsors, the change-of-command ceremony was given the red carpet treatment.

There was a cocktail party and a ball-fellow-well met atmosphere. There was back-slapping and everybody called everybody by his first name. The press from the "county" and city were there and later were given "official" statements. Hawks' chief scout Bob Wilson and H. J. McFarland mingled with the lesser lights.

But there was a fly in the Black Hawks' ointment. The Belleville Minor Hockey Association, through its representatives, refused to come under the aegis of the professional club. It preferred to act alone and run its own show.

At the time the new Eastern Professional Hockey League was in full swing but there were rumors of impending disaster. Clubs like North Bay and Sault Ste. Marie were not drawing and the story they would not operate the next season was abroad. Sad news, too, was coming out of Kitchener.

About this time a story broke in Kingston, the home of the EPL Frontenacs and hockey H. Q. of Wren Blaty, that Dr. J. McFarland planned to build a 6,000 capacity millions dollar arena on the outskirts of Belleville. I contacted H. J. who did not deny the story.

The rest is history. The EPL almost folded and after a futile search for suitable Canadian locales for new clubs settled for a four-team loop, one an American entry.

The million dollar arena here did not materialize, at least it hasn't yet. The Black Hawks have severed relations with the Belleville junior club after McFarland withdrew his sponsorship. Rather an interesting jig-saw if you place it together properly.

Which brings us to the point the Booster Club here is now strictly on its own with the junior club. Gordie Bell says it has a fine enthusiastic bevy of players trying out for the team. Vice-president Jim Matthews and the executive are working hard to get the club on a financial footing. They deserve all the support they can get.

Success or failure of the club hinges on the support given it by community-minded and other citizens. As I columned before, every shoulder is needed behind the wheel to get the junior wagon over the hill. How about it, gentlemen?

Mare Wins Rich 'Trot'

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — Elaine Rodney, owned by the S. L. and K. Stable of Eggertsville, N.Y., put on a strong stretch drive hereday night to win the $60,000 United Nations Trot before 13,410 at Yonkers Raceway.

Driven by Clint Hodgins of Clandeboye, Ont., the five-year-old mare beat favored Su Mac Lad by three - quarters of a length. The Silk of Canada colt third, Julienne of Sweden fourth, Porterhouse fifth, Duke Rodney sixth, Oro of France seventh and Ravioli of Belgium last.

The winner, who trotted the 1½-mile distance through snow flurries over a sloppy track in 3:18.2, returned $51.50, $10.60 and $5.40.

Su Mac Lad, earning second money of $15,000, became harness racing's greatest money winner at $560,249. The previous record holder was Bye Bye Byrd with $554,227.

The victory, worth $30,000, boosted Elaine Rodney's lifetime earnings to $216,981.

After the race, Hodgins commented:

"I didn't think I had a chance. She couldn't go in the mud before."

Pull- Goalie Strategy Works ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Boston Clicks With 'Six,' Ties Wings

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Yanking the goalie is a piece of strategy that has been debated by hockey men for years.

With your team a goal behind and a few seconds left, is it worth it?

It gives you a sixth potential scorer, but does that compensate for leaving the goal unprotected?

Boston's Phil Watson thought so Thursday night, and it worked. Watson hauled out rookie goaler Eddy Johnston with 30 seconds to go in the game and gloated when Irving Spencer rammed a loose puck under Detroit's goalie Terry Sawchuk to give the Bruins a 3-3 National Hockey League tie.

The draw left both teams with a little bit to brag about. The Red Wings, leading the league with 10 points, maintained their record as the NHL's only unbeaten team.

Boston, badly outplayed after blowing a 2-1 lead, at least didn't lose the game and learned that the 27-year-old Johnston is at least as good as his older brother, goalie Bob Perreault.

Johnston had 40 stops to make. Terry Sawchuk in Detroit's nets handled 25 stops.

HAS GOOD SEASON

Sawchuk's record was a total of only nine goals in six games, for an average of 1 2-3 goals a game. This is a pace he hasn't even approached since the 1950-51 season when he averaged 1.94 goals against a game, won the Vezina trophy, and led the league with 12 shutouts.

Johnston, playing his first NHL game, had to be acrobatic to hold down the determined Red Wings uprising in the third period.

The Bruins spotted Detroit one goal, scored by Alex Delvecchio, early in the first period before Guy Gendron clicked on a power play at 17:33 to even the count. Bill Gadsby of Detroit was in the penalty box at the time.

In the second period, veteran Don McKenney put the Boston team ahead 2-1 at 9:14, even though the Red Wings riddled the porous Bruins defence and goalie Boston 18-6.

In the final period, Gordie Howe and Bruce MacGregor gave the Red Wings the lead for the second time in the game and the high-flying Wings looked like they would keep it as they outhustled Boston.

Spencer's desperation shot ended their hopes.

This weekend, Boston gets a rest.

Chicago is at Montreal and New York at Toronto Saturday, while Sunday Chicago travels to New York and Toronto is at Boston.

Must Beat Blues Tomorrow

Metras' Mustangs On Spot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Johny Metras has to clean up his own team before he can clean up on other Senior intercollegiate clubs.

"Someday we'll break out and win somebody ball—and I hope it's this Saturday," the University of Western Ontario coach says.

And if he wants to stay in serious contention for the league title, it will have to be Saturday when his Mustangs are at home to University of Toronto Blues. And Montreal's McGill Redmen are in the same spot.

After Saturday, the clubs have only two games each left to play. As of now, Queen's Golden Gaels and Toronto are tied for first place with four points apiece with McGill and Western tied at two points apiece. Victories for Toronto and Queen's, which is host Saturday to McGill, would mean the lower two clubs could do no better than tie for first place, necessitating a playoff.

INJURIES HIT VARSITY

Injuries have forced Toronto coach Dalt White to make at least six swaps in personnel. Among the missing will be halfbacks Erkki Pukoen and Bob McMurtry and end Ron Mezei. Pukonen is the biggest loss.

"I sure hated to see him get hurt," said White. "He's one of the best backs in the league."

New faces in the lineup will include those of veteran defensive back Mike Kelly, Wayne Hugh Cocks and either Alan Thomas, Mike Meredith or Andy Snand.

Coach Frank Tindall of Queen's, not forgetting the Gaels' 38-34 loss to McGill last Saturday, has been rebuilding his pass defence against Tom Skypeck, Montreal's Growing quarterback, who Tindall says, has hit off days "but never against us."

McGill coach Bob Bentley says his main strategy on defence will be to keep up the big rush ends Al MacKenzie and Russ Zelko and tackle Dick Feidler got on Queen's quarterback Cal Conroy last Saturday.

Eric Walter, a 19-year-old who put on a good show last week, will likely continue to replace halfback George Telesh who broke his finger in practice a week ago Wednesday.

HEADS ENGLAND

LONDON (Reuters) — Alf Ramsay, manager of English League soccer champion Ipswich Town, Thursday was appointed England team manager in succession to Walter Winterbottom.

Redman Tops College Score Race

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Eric Walter, a second-year student at, McGill University, did more than lead McGill Redmen to an upset win over the Queen's Golden Gaels last Saturday.

Walter, a fleet halfback who learned his football in Montreal's high school league, scored four touchdowns in the 38-34 McGill win and took over the lead in the Intercollegiate Senior Football League scoring race.

The McGill ace now has five touchdowns in three games for 30 points, two more than last week's leader, Rolph Ritchie of Queen's.

Ritchie kicked a field goal and three converts in the same game to keep a four-point lead over third-place Brian Conacher of the University of Western Ontario Mustangs.

Conacher scored a touchdown in Western's 26-14 win over the University of Toronto Blues to give him four in three games for 24 points.

McGill's place kicker, George Telesh, former Cornell University star, booted three converts and a field goal to move into fourth place with 22 points.

Six players are tied for fifth place with 18 points apiece.

Trimble To Start Cosentino

Als' Clark Ready For Tiger-Cats

By MARVEN MOSS

MONTREAL (CP) — Don Clark, has been given a medical okay to return to his full-back slot with Montreal Alouettes Saturday against Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

The doctors have proclaimed him fit to undergo a normal amount of buffeting.

Coach Perry Moss meanwhile has reacted with restraint. He said Thursday he is undecided whether to start Clark or "spot him."

It appears likely Clark will alternate with hard - running Larry Hickman at the left fullback post.

On the right side is George Dixon.

The 25-year-old Clark, the leading ground-gainer in the east last season, has missed 10 games since suffering a severe kidney injury here Aug. 16 against Ottawa Rough Riders.

To make room for Clark, Moss apparently plans to sit out corner linebacker Dave Gross, an understudy for rookie quarterback Sandy Stephens.

Moss nevertheless indicated that defensive tackle Bobby Jack Oliver might play only on a limited basis. Oliver sustained a hamstring muscle in Montreal's last outing—when he booted a 48-yard field goal to provide a 21-21 tie with the Rough Riders in Ottawa—and has been doing light drills to work the leg back into shape.

TO START COSENTINO

Meanwhile coach Jim Trimble of the Team said he will Start homebrewed quarterback Frank Cosentino against Als.

The 34-year-old Cosentino led Hamilton to a 31-11 win over Montreal here Aug. 24. The other meeting between the teams this season produced a 25-23 tie in Hamilton Sept. 5.

Backing up Cosentino will be Joe Zuger, the rookie who set a record by throwing eight touchdown passes a while back.

"This isn't really benching Zuger," said Trimble. "Don't forget Cosentino enjoyed great success against the Alouettes earlier in the season.

Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The single game between Detroit and Boston Bruins Thursday wasn't a high-scoring one, but it enabled the teams' high scorers to get a little ahead.

Alex Delvecchio of the Red Wings potted a goal and one assist in the 3-3 tie and moved up from a fourth-place tie in the scoring race to sole possession of third place.

Cliff Pennington of Boston picked up only an assist but it was enough to move him from second place to a tie with a Montreal's Henri (Pocket) Richard for first.

Orcutt Wins Golf Title Third Time

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N.J., battled a cold wind and a formidable golf course Thursday to win her third successive north and south senior title with a final-round 80, six over par, and a 54-hole total of 233.

Miss Orcutt had a five-stroke lead over Mrs. John Pennington of Buffalo, N.Y., who shot 81. She also finished second last year.

Third at 239 after shooting 80-38-78, the day's best round over the 5,900 - yard, par 74 course, was Mrs. Harrison Ellspin of Douglasville, Pa.

Ada Mackenzie of Toronto shot an 88 Thursday for a total score of 83-78-80—251. Mrs. J. C. Sibler of Simcoe, Ont., finished 82-83-96—261.

Fullmer May Quit Prize Ring

WEST JORDAN, Utah (AP) — Gene Fullmer, battered, bruised and heartsick, hinted Thursday he may hang up his gloves after relighting of the fightingest middleweight champion of all time.

"I don't know . . . but I have serious doubts if I will ever fight again in the ring," Fullmer said as he returned to his home after suffering a 15-round beating at the hands of Dick Tiger in San Francisco Tuesday.

"Is it worth it?" he asked. "My father-in-law dies, perhaps from the excitement; my mother carries on so every night and my wife has been having pains in her arm all morning like a stroke.

"Is it worth all this to keep on fighting? Maybe I'm over the hill as a fighter 'anyway and should quit.

"I know one thing, no title is the world is worth it if people get so excited and suffer as much as my loved ones do when I fight."

Gene's father-in-law, Roy Holt, suffered a heart attack at ringside at Candlestick Park Tuesday while Gene was losing his title.

He died early Wednesday.

Touchdown Ruled Legal

Ottawa Takes Bitter Protest Pill

OTTAWA (CP)—The Ottawa Football Club "reluctantly decided" to accept commissioner G. Sydney Halter's disallowance of an Ottawa protest against a ruling made during an Eastern Conference game here last Saturday.

Rough Riders tied Montreal Alouettes 21 - 21 but Riders claimed one of the Montreal touchdowns should not have been allowed. The play in dispute Marv Luster of Als caught a forward pass from quarterback Sandy Stephens after it bounced off an Ottawa defender and the Ottawa goal. Riders based their protest on a rule which says a forward pass to be legal shall not touch the ground, the goal posts or any other object.

Referee Norm Maxwell allowed the touchdown because it hit a player first, then the goal.

STILL FEEL RIGHT

After a two-hour conference Thursday with club officials, Ottawa president Harry O'Brien said in a prepared statement that Riders still feel they are "99 per cent right" in their protest.

Serious consideration had been given to appealing the commissioner's ruling to the EFC executive but was decided against because "the complications are so vast and the disadvantages outweight the advantages."

A club official said one of disadvantages involved would be if the EFC decided to have the game replayed. This would force Riders to play two games in one week at this late date in the regular schedule.

O'Brien said "We have reluctantly decided to abide by the commissioner's ruling although we do not agree with it."

"In the light of the circumstances, the football club executive, the coaches and the players feel we would rather go out and win our football games on the playing field than in any committee room."

The rule in contention was one that says a legal forward pass must not touch the ground goal posts or any other object nor go out of bounds.

NOVICE AGREED

Mr. Halter noted in his printed ruling that the referee and two umpires agreed to the touchdown interception.

"The said rules are intended to prevent a team from benefiting by whose passer throws the ball directly into the goal posts or crossbar, it could not have been intended that a team should be penalized because a pass thrown was deflected into the game by a member of an opposing team."

Habs, Petes Tie

Wings Blank Royals 6-0

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

One double-shooter saved the day and another padded the pulps in Ontario Hockey Association Junior A games Thursday night.

At Peterborough, Yvon Couture scored both Montreal goals as the junior Canadiens fought to a 2-2 tie with Peterborough Petes.

At Hamilton, rookie Don Cameron gave the veteran a lesson as he scored two goals in the Red Wings' 6-0 victory over Guelph Royals, who were making their season's debut.

The results left Montreal on top of the standings with three points, Hamilton second with two and Peterborough third with one.

By tonight all the teams will have seen action with St. Catharines Black Hawks visiting Niagara Falls Flyers in the first start of the season for both teams.

Montreal outplayed Peterborough in the second period, but had trouble getting past goalie Cesar Maniago.

Chuck Goddard who allowed one goal in the opening frame, was an even game in the first and third periods.

Don Hentschel and Brian Watson scored for Petes in their first outing of the season.

Defencemen Nick Georgan, Pit Martin, Garry Heiskala and Paul Henderson were the other Hamilton scorers as rookie goaltender Larry Harrop chalked up his first shutout in junior hockey.

The fans sat through a quiet game until the last three minutes when three fights broke out.

Guelph's Sandy Fitzpatrick and Hamilton's Jimmy Peters squared off in the opener, then Terry Pembroke of Guelph and John Gofton tackled each other with 45 seconds left. Goalies Billy Taylor of Royals had a set-to.

In Metro Toronto Junior A action, Bob Abbot scored twice to pace Brampton to a 5-3 victory over Hespeler.

Meet Bombers Tomorrow

Lions Drive For Berth

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Western Football Conference crown could almost come to the wire with British Columbia Lions pulling out all the stops in a drive for a playoff spot.

Coach Dave Skrien plans to start players down to a bowl game tonight to stimulate road conditions before the Saturday game against Winnipeg Blue Bombers in Vancouver.

Lions have won four of their six games this year away from home and Skrien hopes the hotel atmosphere will help put the club in a winning mood.

Anyway, he said, the players have too many distractions at home.

Bomber coach Bud Grant pushed his unlikely strategy in a 1962 playoff and his club defeated Edmonton Eskimos for the league title.

The Lions must win both their remaining games and Saskatchewan Roughriders lose both theirs for British Columbia to clinch the third and last playoff spot.

Saskatchewan, which meets the second-place Stampeders in Calgary Saturday, has 15 points, three more than the Lions.

A win would clinch first place for Winnipeg, now one point ahead of second-place Calgary with 20 points.

Golden Hoofs Gallops

NEW YORK (AP)—There are more angles to Saturday's racing program at the Garden than starting gates—and with 14 entries going in the Man O'War and 13 in the Gardenia, that's a bundle.

The Man O'War is a $100,000-added test over the miles of grass at Belmont, and the Gardenia, a $50,000-added attraction for two-year-old fillies at Garden State.

At Belmont, the script reads like a soap-opera tease:

Can Mrs. Richard C. du Pont's Kelso and Mrs. Katherine Price's Carry Back resolve their backyard squabble for honors in the year-end division?

Or will one of the foreign entries—Monade, a filly owned by Greek shipping magnate Stavros Goulandris, and Marquise du Vivier's Val de Loir—be able to upset the apple cart?

If all 14 start, the race will be worth $118,800 with $75,920 to the winner.

Kelso, with Isaacel Valezmeia up, is the favorite, odds-on at 4-5 on the early line. Carry Back, 1961 Kentucky Derby winner, is a second choice at 3-1.

If all 11 start in the 1 1-16 miles of the Gardenia, the race will be worth $71,500 with $57,200 to the winner, the richest race of the year for two-year-old fillies.

RUSSIA WINS TITLE

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Russia finished 1-2 in the fifth and final event, the 2,500-metre cross-country run, and won the team title Thursday in the world modern pentathlon championships for the fifth straight year. Hungary was second. The United States, which had led since the second day, dropped to third place.

Pink Panties Gold Briefs Are Taboo

LONDON (AP)—The powerful All-England Lawn Tennis Club ruled pink panties and golden briefs off the stately courts of the annual Wimbledon championships today. Frills, however, are still not out of bounds.

Mrs. A. B. Mills, assistant secretary of the club, said lady competitors have always worn white knickers to wear white, but following a meeting of the championship committee, it has been decided to turn the request into an order."

"A condition that they wear white will be included in the prospectus, but the actual wording will not be decided on until a later meeting."

Western Hockey

LOS ANGELES (CP) — A stand-alone goal by Bob Solinger with 29 seconds remaining was the winning goal for Los Angeles Blades in Thursday night as they defeated Portland Buckaroos 5-3 in a Western Hockey League game.

Fleming Mackell scored Blades' final goal at 19:50 of the third period on an empty net.

Other Blades' goals were by Bruce Carmichael, Marc Boileau and Ed Stankiewicz. Fort Pachal and Ivan Art Jones with a pair and Gerry Goyer.

Quinte COSSA Football

TRENTON VS BCIVS		MOIRA S.S. vs. BRIGHTON
Trenton High School football squads split a Quinte COSSA twin bill with Belleville Collegiate gridders here yesterday, the seniors winning 19-12 and the juniors 6-0 in a forfeit decision to the city team.		Brighton Juniors handed Moira Secondary School a 24-6 lacing in the first half of a Bay of Quinte COSSA football twin bill yesterday but the city team's senior crew gained revenge. Moira won the senior tilt by a 13-1 score.
A fifty-yard runback of a Trenton fumble by Gary Baker gave the BCI seniors a 6-0 lead early in the first quarter.		Brighton seniors scored their only touchdown of the opening play when the kickoff, aided by a good backwind, went all the way to the goal line. The visitors were unable to carry it out.
Trenton scored a one-point lead early in the second half when BCI was rouged. They tucked the victory away later when Clement galloped down around left end for ten yards and the touchdown. It was not converted.		The score remained 1-0 until the final seconds of the first half when Moira's Dave Glen broke for a major. The convert attempt was missed for the 6-1 score at half time.
Trenton's Lewis added the insurance points in the third quarter going over from six yards out on an end run.		Ivan Fraser closed the game's scoring after the 12 seconds of action in the fourth quarter, exploding a quarterback sneak for the final 13-1 Moira victory.
BCI battled hard to cut the margin and reduced it late in the game when Lyle Adams went over for the touchdown on a short end run.		In the junior game, Brighton's Blake put his club in front with a touchdown on the opening play, converted.
The junior game was a touch-and-go affair with the city youngsters the only touchdown of th- tilt.		Elsen Blake and Robert Moira's only points, cutting the lead to 7-6, when he picked up a fumble and went the length of the field, but the convert was missed.
Coach Mott took Bill Hallam's pass for the major after Ron Walsh had set up the play with a 40-yard runback of a Trenton punt.		The fiving scored what proved to be Brighton's clinching points on a quarterback sneak.
It was not converted.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Pebbling and jockey Gordon Lazarow never relinquished the lead in winning the featured Cornwall Purse at Old Woodbine Thursday afternoon.

Popperdopper finished second, a nose behind the winner.

Popperdopper, the favorite, ridden by Ron Turcotte, withstood a claim of foul lodged by Jim Fitzsimmons, who finished fourth on New Providence. Pandrag and Popperdopper combined for a quinella return of $32.50.

Turcotte registered his 133rd victory of the season when he won the fifth race on the Union Jack stable's Rose Queen. This left him only six behind leading rider Jim Fitzsimmons.

TAKES GOLF LEAD

COSTA MESA, Calif. (AP)—Former PGA champion Bob Rosburg established a course record for the Mesa Verde Country Club Thursday as he fired a 63, eight under par, to take the lead in the $25,000 Orange County open golf championship.

Still seeking his first victory of the 1962 campaign, Rosburg had rounds of 33 and 30 and used only 10 putts on the last nine holes. Jerry Steelmith had the second-best score of the first round with a 66 and Gene Littler and George Bayer came in with 67s.

SUSPENDS CLUB

MONTREAL (CP)—The Quebec Province Football Association Thursday suspended Montreal's Hellas Soccer Club from competition for one year and added individual suspensions to players with this year's team. The action stems from an assault on referee Bert Daly during a game with Armenia Sept. 16.

Sports Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Vern DeGeer looks out at the world from behind his spectacles with mock surprise. He has a bit of laughs with his Good Morning column in the Montreal Gazette as he pokes fun at the stuffed shirts in the sports world. Occasionally he goes on a one-man campaign for the darndest things.

About eight years ago, for instance, he called for the elimination of goalposts from Canadian football fields. Officials probably thought he was some kind of a nut and, Vern recalls, folks went into hysteries when he brought up the subject.

He revived the issue from time to time, and the reception he received from football officials was the same each time. They sisbly ignored it.

Today DeGeer is back with it, and he's having a hearty chuckle.

The other day he again wrote about the disappearing goalposts following that weird touchdown play in a Montreal-Ottawa game when an Ottawa player deflected a Montreal forward pass into the cross-bar. Marv Luster of the Als latched onto the ball for the odd touch for a touchdown.

HAS LAST LAUGH

The rule defining a legal forward pass specifically states that "the ball shall not touch the ground, the goalposts or any other object." But game officials said it was okay, that the rule was nullified because the ball touched Ottawa player Whit Tucker or Luster or both before hitting the crossbar.

DeGeer could hardly wait to get to his typewriter. He recalled his campaign and wrote:

"I pointed out that our football goalposts were the last vestige of English rugger, from which both the Canadian and American games developed, that they had no useful purpose except on converts and field goals; that they should be set tucked away on all other occasions."

He even recalled getting a sympathetic hearing from Prof. Carson Morrison of the University of Toronto's engineering faculty.

The professor "even developed a number of blueprints on the subject; such as goalposts that would disappear into the bowels of the earth when not required for placements and converts; goalposts suspended on thin guy-wires across the end zone; magic - eye type. posts with an electronic approach, such as used for opening and closing doors in shopping centres."

'GHASTLY LUMBER'

Sydney Halter, Canadian Football League Commissioner, "was among those hecklers who decided that the 'disappearing goalposts' was a pipe-dream that called only for the deepest sympathy for the poor, tetched-in-the-head author," DeGeer said.

He went on to recall that the believers among the rules makers continued to produce rules to take care of unusual situations involving the posts. "They have always, of course, been a step behind weird incidents involving the ghastly lumber," he wrote.

Now, he hopes to live "to see the day when the ancient sticks are eliminated when not required for field goals and converts."

He probably won't, but he can still have his fun.

Republicans Have High Hopes of Winning Michigan For Romney as Governor

By GENE SCHROEDER

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Michigan Republicans—with former auto industrialist George Romney as their candidate—have high hopes of capturing the governor's office from the Democrats in the Nov. 6 U.S. election for the first time in 14 years.

Democratic leaders are pushing a panic button. They feel confident that Canadian - born Governor John B. Swainson, a 1950 Korea veteran of the Second World War with powerful AFL-CIO backing, will be on top when the votes are counted.

Most neutral observers call it a toss-up.

The campaign has developed into one of Michigan's hottest political battles. It involves such issues as federalism, tax reform, and the political activities of unions.

Democrats say the 55-year-old Romney is seeking the governor's job merely as a stepping-stone to the 1964 Republican presidential nomination. The former American Motors president denies he has his eye on the White House.

OUTSIDE HELP

Swainson, a native of Windsor, Ont., has had 'support from some powerful friends. President Kennedy already has made one swing through the state and will return once more before election day.

Romney, who is getting little outside help, describes the Michigan visits of Democratic big guns as a "federal rescue mission" which proves that Swainson "needs coattails to ride on."

Both candidates have campaigned strenuously, blazing a fatiguing campaign trail from the industrial environs of Detroit to the wild forestlands of the rugged upper peninsula.

But, as the campaign enters its closing weeks, Swainson and Romney plan to concentrate their travels mainly in the metropolitan area of Detroit, where most of the votes are.

Activities of the ultra-conservative John Birch Society in one southern Michigan district have been seized on by Democrats as an indication that Romney cannot control his own party.

EXTREMIST GROUPS

The Republican candidate delivered a scathing denunciation of extremist groups at the Republican state convention, won a standing ovation and says he considers the matter closed.

This drew sharp criticism from Robert J. Welch, national leader of the John Birch Society. In an open letter to Romney, Welch said:

"It appears to be more important to you to damage the society than to be elected governor of Michigan."

Both candidates have made a strong plank for the Negro vote, but Romney appears to be handicapped by the fact that he holds a position in the Mormon Church equivalent to a bishop. Democrats contend that the church will not allow a Negro to hold a high office, and therefore regards Negroes as second-class citizens.

Romney denies he holds any such views and says the key issue of the campaign is leadership of the state and whether he or Swainson is better qualified.

Young Canadian Introduces Twist To Singapore

MONTREAL (CP)—A young Canadian claims responsibility for introducing the twist to Singapore.

Howard Freill, 22, home after 18 months of globe trotting, says he gave the dance its start in a hotel there.

It was a stop-over on a jaunt that covered 30,000 miles and 13 countries.

The six-foot, 175-pound Montrealer set out with $400 and a few personal belongings stuffed into an old duffle bag.

"What I wanted to do, simply, was see how people elsewhere live."

The twist episode arose when Freill wandered into a Singapore hotel while walking through the city "to soak up a little of the atmosphere."

A bandleader there, spotting Freill as a Westerner with his Nordic features and blonde crew-cut, came over.

"Apparently they had advertised in the paper that day that they were going to innovate the twist in Malaya," said Freill.

"A big crowd turned out. Then they discovered that no one in the band knew how to twist. I'm NOT so hot. But I can shake a bit. I showed them the basics and they were off."

TOOK ODD JOBS

Freill hitch-hiked his way to Vancouver at the start of his trip and spent most of his $400 for passage on a steamer to New Zealand.

From there he went to Ceylon, Malaya, Egypt and through most of Europe. Wherever possible he thumbed rides and believed among the native lower-class to keep expenses down.

When he ran out of money he took the odd job. In New Zealand he worked at a food cannery and as a clerk in a pharmaceutical firm. In Sweden, he picked up a bit of cash as a groundskeeper at a resort.

Freill said two impressions stand out in his mind.

"Cairo's luxurious modern buildings, contrasted with the poverty of most of the population, was a shock to me. And there were posters extolling Nasser hanging from everything."

"In Rome, I was surprised to find Communist promotion was so strong. On the streets, there was strong sentiment among the people to vote Communist. It seemed strange in so obviously a Catholic setting."

Freill has settled down here now with a job in the installation department for a telephone company.

Prescott Woman Wanted on Theft Charge

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Police today are searching for a woman for questioning in connection with a possible embezzlement of $400,000.

Police said a warrant has been sworn out for the arrest of Mrs. William (Dolores) Clow, 36, of Prescott, charging her with theft.

Shortages totalling as much as $400,000 have been reported by Billings Motors Limited here, following an audit of company books.

Murray Billings, head of the firm, said only a small portion of the loss, spread over a number of years, was covered by a bonding firm.

Mrs. Clow, a tall, slim platinum-blonde, has been an executive of Billings Motors for eight years. She has not been at work for nearly a week, police said, and has left her home in Prescott, 10 miles east of here.

CAN END BUSINESS

Mr. Billings said he will issue a statement soon on the future of the firm, which has 40 employees.

"The magnitude of the loss could close the business," he said.

Mrs. Clow's husband was town engineer for Prescott with a salary of $5,500 a year until a year ago. Before that he was town engineer in Brockville. Recently he has been attending the Ontario Veterinary College at Kemptville.

Train Ran Over Stunt Man But Morgan Survives Ordeal

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—By all logic, Bob Morgan shouldn't be alive today.

He had a train run over him and was taken to hospital virtually in pieces.

"When the doctors first looked at me, they figured I had two or three days at the most," says Morgan.

But he was an expert at long chances. As one of Hollywood's most daring stunt men, he had doubled for stars like Burt Lancaster, Randolph Scott, John Wayne and Gary Cooper in some of the most amazing feats ever filmed.

His last stunt was for How the West was Won on an Arizona location. He was doubling George Peppard in a fight scene on a moving train when a log swept him off the car.

He was taken to a hospital and his injuries assessed: Left leg crushed by the train wheels with six inches of bone missing; right leg, compound fracture at the femur; pelvis smashed; lower vertebra crushed; right side of the face broken; internal injuries and abrasions all over his body.

The doctors just looked at me and shook their heads," he recalls.

REFUSED AMPUTATION

Morgan himself wasn't sure he'd survive. Not until the second night, anyway, when he woke up and saw his wife Yvone Decarlo, a native of Vancouver, whom he married in 1956 when he was 40 and she was 33.

He decided right then I was going to make it," he says. "It was the love of my family and friends that did it for me. They have been fabulous."

He refused to have his leg amputated, but gangrene developed, and he lingered near death. The leg was removed, but his toxic condition remained for two weeks with temperatures of 105. Once a 6-footer, 200-pounder, he dropped to 105 pounds.

Morgan survived and now he's at Los Angeles orthopaedic hospital taking a 4½ hours of daily therapy. He has been fitted with a new left leg and is working hard to bring the badly damaged right leg back to use.

What does the future hold for him?

"I might go back to some straight acting, which I had also been doing. But my main goal is to be an action director."

"I picked up a lot of tricks in 17 years as a stunt man. I know the camera and I know action."

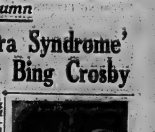
'Frank Sinatra Syndrome' Not Used by Bing Crosby

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Bing Crosby stood quietly in front of a camera; his arms in a relaxed position at his sides, and sang a song the way the composer and lyricist had written it.



Crosby's entire rendition was markedly lacking mannerisms which someone has called "the Frank Sinatra syndrome."

The Sinatra syndrome seems to have afflicted many young male singers—Ottawa-born Paul Anka, Bobby Darin, Johnny Mathis, to mention a few—after they recovered from the Elvis Presley syndrome. Even Harry Belafonte recently has been suffering a mild case of Sinatritis.

Anka, like Sinatra, twists the right side of his mouth in a way that suggests either that his collar is too tight or he's dislocated his jaw.

FRASER U.S. STAND

MONTREAL (CP) — More than 2,000 university students marching and chanting "to hell with Fidel," paraded in front of the United States Consulate Wednesday in vociferous support of President Kennedy's stand on the Cuban situation. There was no violence as the students, carrying Canadian small signs, the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes, marched in front of the consulate offices on McGregor Avenue.

PROTEST NUCLEAR ARMS

OTTAWA (CP)—About 15 professors, students and others from Carleton University, preached on Parliament Hill Wednesday to protest tests that called for Canada to reject nuclear weapons. The 90-minute march was organized by the Carleton branch of the Canadian University Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament.

CUBA BUTTING?

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Russia does not need missiles on foreign soil, Vladimir Moltchanov, first secretary of the Russian Embassy in Ottawa, said Wednesday night. He said Russia has missiles that can reach any point on earth, "so why should we have a missile base in Cuba?" He said Cuba is buying military equipment and Russia is selling it.

BREAK UP RALLY

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Club - swinging military police broke up an anti-U.S. rally in the Brazilian capital Wednesday night. At least five persons were injured. More than 300 persons had gathered to hear a speech against the U.S. arms blockade of Cuba. Police said the rally was illegal because it actually was directed against the Brazilian government.

CHINESE PROTEST

PEKING (Reuters)—Communist China protested to United States Wednesday of taking a "most dangerous warlike step" in sending a naval force to prevent piratical action" against Cuba. In a statement released by the official Chinese news agency, the Chinese government said it fully supports the stand of the Soviet government.

REFUGEES HALT

MIAMI (AP)—For the first time since the ill-fated Bay of Pigs invasion 1½ years ago, refugees have stopped arriving from Cuba. On Tuesday airlines reinstated flights that had been bringing nearly 1,600 weekly.

CAN POLICE WORLD

VICTORIA (CP)—New Democratic Party Leader T. C. Douglas said Wednesday that if the United Nations is to police the crisis developed by the United States quarantine of Cuba then it could become the police force of the world. He told delegates to the British Columbia Federation of Labor (CLC) that the current situation is the supreme test of the UN.

CUBANS VOLUNTEER

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Ten thousand Cubans have volunteered for the U.S. armed forces, Brig. Gen. Chesty Puller, liaison officer, reported on Wednesday. A rush to the recruiting office, reports Puller, sent President Kennedy's arms quarantine announcement, continued

Mr. Hogarth Sabine is a patient in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough.

Roman Catholicism Seeks Better Way to the Future

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Roman Catholicism is looking to its origins to find a better way of shaping its future.

This is a persistent note as the Vatican ecumenical council considers ways to enliven its rites of worship. It involves a general re-examination of the theological and biblical roots of the faith.

As Pope John has said, the council's basic objective is to give "back to the face of the church of Jesus the splendor and the pure and simple lines of its birth."

The documents and reports studying methods of doing this are studded with scriptural citations and references to the early Christian period.

"We want to adapt and reform the church in accordance with the spirit of the church as it was in the first centuries," said Franziskus Cardinal Koenig, archbishop of Vienna. ISN'T GOING BACK

That doesn't mean, he added, that the church is "going back to the third, fourth or fifth century, and dropping all the values it has since acquired. But it could mean getting rid of what some consider excess baggage.

"We've dragged along some old things from the middle ages that don't best serve their purposes now and could be done away with," the cardinal said.

The aim is to make the teaching methods of the church more effective in the modern world.

Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger of Montreal says this requires rediscovering "man's valuable things that were lift in the background" because past Catholic theology focused too much on disputed points.

"A more balanced presentation of the faith should emerge out of this approach," he said

He said the attention of church schools will be centred on "essential realities of the faith and not on peripheral details" as they are developed.

"This means going to the gospel and making it the inspiration for our whole lives."

Carmel

CARMEL—Guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Hopkins and family on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Storms of Brantford. Supper hour guests were Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Storms of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. George McCullough, Foxboro, were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Coe and Mrs. Seldon Homan.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Elliott of Carmel were guests of Mr. and J. Reynolds on Sunday and enjoyed Carmel anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Wilson were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reese. Mr. Wilson and Mr. Howes attended the anniversary service at Carmel. Several holidays were in the neighborhood and also enjoyed the services.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Vance are getting along well with their new home, which will be completed shortly. All are glad to have Donald and Marilyn in the community. Marilyn is one of the nurses at Deloro.

Mr. J. Hollinger spent the dinner hour on Sunday with his mom, Mrs. H. E. Deloro.

Several of the ladies attended the bazaar and tea at the County Home in Belleville and enjoyed visiting with the ladies there.

Pope Requests All Rulers to "Save Peace"

VATICAN CITY (Reuters) — Pope John today called on all rulers to "do everything in their power to save peace."

He said "by doing so they will spare the world the horrors of a war that would have disastrous consequences such as nobody can forsee."

His appeal in French was broadcast over Vatican Radio.

The Pope, who did not mention the Cuban crisis by name, said, let the world leaders continue to negotiate, because this loyal and open attitude is a great value as a witness for the conscience of each one and in the face of history.

"To promote, favor and accept negotiations at all levels and at all times, is a rule of wisdom and prudence which calls down the blessings of heaven and earth."

Marsh Hill

MARSH HILL — Mr. and Mrs. Fred Campbell attended the anniversary services Sunday morning at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, West Huntingdon and were guests of Mrs. Will Shaw, Ivanhoe.

Mrs. Leslie Finkle spent Thursday with Mrs. Lorne Johnston, of Belleville.

Thomasburg

THOMASBURG—There were no church services in either Thomasburg United Church or Christ Church (Anglican) on October 14, as special anniversary services were held in West Huntingdon United Church and Thanksgiving services took place at St. John's Anglican Church, Moneymore on that date.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. William Geen were among those from here, who attended the evening service in St. John's Moneymore.

Master Owen Mumby, who has been a patient in Belleville Hospital for some months, has returned home.

Master Douglas Ward, who was badly burned at his home, when he pulled some hot soup from a blazing stove ago, is still receiving treatment in Belleville Hospital at the present time.

The funeral of Mr. J. T. Lainson of the West Huntingdon district, took place in the chapel of the Hinchey Funeral Home, Stirling, on October 16, at 2 p.m., with interment in Thomasburg Cemetery. Rev. George Dyson, pastor of Thomasburg—Christ United Church, officiated. Pastoral Charge, was in charge of the services in the chapel and at the graveside.

A tasty hot dinner was served to the pupils and teacher of the junior room of the school and several adult visitors in the Vestry of the United Church at noon on October 17, by the members of the United Church Women's organization.

The regular meeting of the group followed the dinner, when last minute details were arranged for the turkey supper in the I.O.O.F. Hall on the evening October 24.

Several members of Thomasburg I.O.O.F. Lodge visited Belleville Lodge on October 18.

A congregational meeting was held in the United Church last Thursday evening, when some items of business were discussed.

Two Gamblers, Former Officer Given Bail

TORONTO (CP) — Gamblers Vincent Feeley and Joseph McDermott and former OPP Constable Robert Wright were released on bail Wednesday pending hearing of an appeal before the Supreme Court of Canada.

Bail was set at $50,000 each for Feeley and McDermott and $15,000 for Wright.

The three were convicted in June and sentenced to 18 months in jail on charges of conspiring to obtain police information illegally.

On Oct. 4 the Ontario Appeal Court dismissed appeals against the conviction, and the three, out on bail pending that appeal, were returned to the Don Jail.

Monday the Supreme Court of Canada gave them leave to appeal to it. Mr. Justice G. A. McGillivray granted bail here, Tuesday.

Astrological Forecast

For October 27
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (March 21 to April 19) You gain by listening. Includes heeding words of spiritual advisor. Minor disappointments should not be permitted to become major issues. Take time to analyze feelings.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) By sharing joys, hopes, disappointments, you gain spiritual strength. No time to withdraw. Be outgoing. Take time to be confident in wisdom of loved ones.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Attend to details early. Church services could be "tonic" you require. Tonight be close to those who mean much to you. Day to build inner strength. Think about decisions.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) Challenges appear early. You can see "picture" clearly. Accept facts. Make changes in acquaintance with practical demands. Show others you can move slowly, but deliberately, toward goal of success.

Leo (July 22 to August 21) Love of beauty shines, attracts attention to those you respect. Best to remain close to home, to strive for domestic harmony, including better relations with loved one. Later visit friend.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) Money matters command attention. Make notes, resolutions. Take time to discuss problems with those close to you. You could make this tremendously constructive day.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Cycle continues high. Accept facts instead of striving for illusions. The more realistic you are, the better the outcome of current project.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Secretive actions on part of associates should be considered in light of golden rule. Learn as many lessons as you can - but avoid arrogance. Diplomacy gains much.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Friends, hopes, wishes in center of spotlight. Means day when you break important decisions. These should be based on future, not past. Break with tradition. Look toward new goals.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Like Aries, insist on the best. Includes your own efforts as well as those performed by associates. Your family offers encouragement. Accept it instead of arguing over minor dispute.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You desire expansion. Impatience is your companion. Up to you to exercise self-discipline. Today could mark start of "something big". But first harness forces and resources.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Check budget. Make plans. Leave little or nothing to chance. Keep both feet on ground. Appreciate story-telling talent. But stick with tried-and-true.

If today is your birthday this month calls for evaluation of personal needs. You are generous, determined, idealistic.

GENERAL TENDENCIES—Impatience is key. Many act in manner which surprises. They do so out of sheer boredom. Cycle continues up for Libra, Scorpio, Sagittarius.

Marilyn Bell is only one of many Canadians who attained international fame while still a teen-ager. How many others do you know?

Teen-Age Canada

Help May Be Required To Answer Questions

By JACK HUTTON

Who have been Canada's favorite teenagers over the last three decades? Is there any pattern in the way we choose idols among our teenagers?

To answer that question I talked with a number of teen-agers this week—and also asked who remember teenage favorites who aren't teenagers anymore either.

The following list of questions is a short one. But I'll wager that you'll require the help of the folks to answer everyone. Perhaps even Grandfather may be needed for advice.

(The only clue I'll give is that the teenagers or former teenagers mentioned below are all Canadian-born. I won't name Rickey Nelson or Mickey Gaudy as Canadian idols!)

1—Name a 30-year-old Canadian pianist noted for his mannerisms who graduated from the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto at the age of 12 with the highest marks of anyone else in Canada.

2—Who is the teenage Miss Who is mascot of the Vancouver Lions Football Club, Canada's top woman amateur athlete, the acrobatic mascot who led the Grey Cup parade in 1958 and 1960, and holder of the world's butterfly swimming record for women?

3—Who is the London-born tap dancer now on tour in Japan who left with variety TV shows around his home town and Toronto and is now a well-known performer on the Ed Sullivan TV show?

4—Who is the 18-year-old Canadian runner who smashed the Canadian open 5-mile track record by one minute and two-tenths of a second in August to win a place on the Canadian British Empire Games team which will compete in Perth, Australia?

5—Name the Ottawa girl who won Canada's figure skating championship, and went on to win the North American and world championships before calling an end to a Cinderella amateur career.

6—Who was the Ottawa 15-year-old who quit school in 1958 to concentrate on singing and is now a millionaire after ringing up several hit parade successes?

7—Name the 16-year-old Toronto high school girl who conquered Lake Ontario as a long distance swimmer in 1954 and is now happily married in Lewistown, N.Y., with three children.

8—Who is the Canadian soprano who had never gone to an opera at the age of 15 but who is a famous member of the Metropolitan Opera in New York?

9—Name the Regina-born fullback who at the age of 17 was the youngest football player in the Western Conference, jumping directly from high school football into the Winnipeg Bombers.

10—Who was the girl born in St. Vital, Man., who signed her first Hollywood movie contract at the age of 13, became one of the world's best-known movie stars and retired in 1949 to live in France?

The answers: 1—Glenn Gould; 2—Mary Stewart; 3—Bruce Hollingsworth; 4—Bruce Kidd; 5—Barbara Ann Scott; 6—Paul Anka; 7—Marilyn Bell (now Mrs. Joseph Di Lascio) 8—Teresa Stratas; 9—Gerry James; 10—Deanna Durbin (born Edna Mae Durbin).

One things bothers me about this list. It concentrates on athletics or show business. The two fields which seem to supply most of our idols. Let me know if you have more nominations.

Can you imagine reading one book a week by Plato, Leonardo da Vinci or other authors generally considered to be on a "university level"?

About dozen Montreal high school students are doing that. They claim it's just meeting a training they want.

The group meets every Wednesday afternoon to discuss the books under the guidance of the Thomas More Institute for Adult Education, pooling their reactions to the book-of-the week.

The 11-week session isn't interested in books "written down" for a high school audience. The books range from "The Notebooks of Leonardo da Vinci" by the Italian Renaissance master to "The Decipherment of Linear "B" by John Chadwick.

Other books include: "Profiles in Courage," a collection of human accomplishments by U.S. President John Kennedy; "Four Ways to Being Human" by Gene Lisitzky; and "A Single Pebble" by John Hersey.

Barry Nester, 16, one the participants, said he was surprised at how interesting the books turned out to be. "Teen-books turned out to be. "Teenagers are usually under the impression that since many of these are on the university level they are dull reading," he said.

TOP 20 TUNES

1 — Monster Man, Bobby Pickett; 2 — Sherry, Four Seasons; 3 — Ramblin' Rose, Nat Cole; 4 — Little Black Book, Jimmy Dean; 5 — Alley Cat, Bent Fabric; 6 — Only Love Can Break A Heart, Gene Pitney; 7 — Patches, Dicky Lee; 8 — Green Onions, Booker T. and MG's; 9 — Don't You Believe It, Andy Williams; 10 — Venus In Blue Jeans, Jimmy Clanton; 11 — I Remember You, Frank Ifield; 12 — Let's Dance, Chris Montez; 13 — Do You Love Me, The Contours; 14 — He's A Rebel, The Crystals; 15 — What Kind Of Love Is This, Joey Dee; 16 — Popeye The Hitchhiker, Chubby Checker; 17 — Lie To Me, Brook Benton; 18 — What Kind Of Fool Am I, Sammy Davis Jr.; 19 — You Beat Me To The Punch, Mary Wells; 20 — Torture, Kris Jensen.

Seattle World's Fair Success For Canada

SEATTLE (CP)—For Canada the Seattle World's Fair was a success, not only in exciting the interest of visitors to the Canadian pavilion but in stimulating tourist travel, says an official from Ottawa.

Dynie Hunka says that in tourist revenue alone the fair meant $50,000,000 to British Columbia and even more to Alberta. Many who came to the fair took advantage of its nearness to Canadian points to visit them as well.

Mr. Hunka added that Canadian manufacturers must have received orders as a result of scientific exhibits in the pavilion. Some visitors, he said, even wanted to down hard cash for the exhibits themselves.

One object of the pavilion and its scientific displays, he said, was to show that Canada was more than a land of Eskimos and dogsleds. It had succeeded beyond expectations.

OFFERED TO BUY

"People actually came in and wanted to put down cash for many exhibits such as the crash position indicator, the vein stapler that closes blood vessels, the jugger machine that travels on air, land and water and the cobalt-60 cancer machine.

"Why, a cancer therapy machine costs $70,000 and yet we had hundreds of requests for orders."

The requests were directed to Canadian manufacturers.

One attraction was a film of the Arctic city of the future. Many of the 6,000 persons who watched the film daily asked how they could visit the city, unaware that it doesn't yet exist.

Mr. Hunka said the pavilion cost $350,000 for the six months of the fair which closed Oct. 21.

"Added to the high compliments we've received on the pavilion is the enormous interest generated in our scientific achievements and it's a unique thought-of plus factor—the sale throughout Canada of these scientific goods—the World's Fair has been the best possible value to us."

He said 140,000 watched Canada's 650-man military tattoo during Canada Week and an equal number have turned away. The RCAF band packed the 3,000-seat opera house daily, a hundred-deep. It will be harder to see the modern developments of the First Canadian Escort Squadron from Esquimalt, B.C.

H...lloway

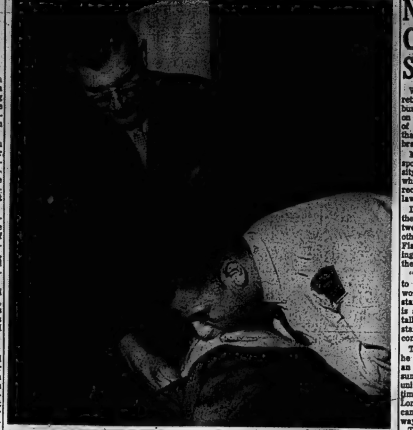
HALLOWAY — The symphony of the community is extended to Mrs. J. Lainson and Mrs. William Grant in the absence of the latter's aunt.

Mr. and Mrs. John Robson and family spent Sunday supper hour with Mr. and Mrs. James Vanderwater, Moira, in honor of Mrs. Vanderwater's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Walker and children were Sunday noon hour guests at the Donaldson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carman, also Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Moynes, Belleville spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kelly. Master Teddy Kelly was also a weekend guest at the same home.

Mrs. Blake Bedford spent the supper hour on Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Kelly, Belleville.



Mr. and Mrs. Embury Hough and Stephen spent Sunday last in Ottawa, visiting Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Ketchen.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McMullen and Miss Ruth McMullen have returned from a trip through the northern States to New York City, where they spent a week with relatives.

Miss Carolyn Wilson celebrated her tenth birthday Sunday with grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Oakley Gough, and aunt, Jean, Foxboro.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Sine and Judy spent Sunday afternoon and supper hour with Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Wellman.

Mrs. Earl Snider called one afternoon, recently, on Mr. and Mrs. George Jervis and Mrs. Carl Holden.

PASSIONATE EMBRACE?— Not quite. PC Don Cathers, of the Belleville police department, is practising mouth-to-mouth artificial respiration with "Recusci-Anne," a new development in first aid teaching techniques. That's William James, Belleville's St. John instructor, supervising, at the QEMO-sponsored First Aid course in Belleville.

"Resusci-Ann" Dumb But Very Useful

Resusci-Ann, or "Annie," as she is known to Belleville's police and fire departments, local 4-H clubs, St. John Ambulance units, scout leaders and employees of some local industries, is quite the girl. She is about five feet tall, weighs about fifteen pounds and she is inflatable.

The life size dummy with the skin-like texture and life-like detail packs up into a suit case when it is not being used to practise artificial respiration techniques. Made in Norway, the dummy has lungs, throat and nose that work if the mouth-to-mouth method of artificial respiration is used properly, and resists if there is any mistake.

It costs more than $200 in Canada and there are only seven of them in the province. The one now on the waiting list loan to the Belleville unit of the St. John Association is the first to go into regular use. Later, it will be loaned to units in Picton and Trenton.

Things Columnist Might Never Know if He Didn't Open Mail

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Proud new parents who don't want their baby to grow up feeling underprivileged can surprise him with a leopard-skin diaper. . . . They're now on the market.

Also available for owners who like to keep their pets happy: A new doghouse equipped with hi-fi music—suitable for both lowbrow and longhair pooches.

And, for someone who really wants to astound his neighbors, a fellow in the bronx here has built an intricate aluminum bird home four storeys high containing five entrances and several private baths. . . . The only one of its kind in the world, it has a price tag of $6,000. (The birds come extra.)

TRAVEL NOTE: Because of the Japanese penchant for striping down for greater comfort while making train journeys, some rail lines now post signs saying: "Honorable passengers are kindly requested to refrain from displaying honorable underwear."

HAPPINESS NOT ALL

QUOTABLE NOTABLES: "A lifetime of happiness! No man alive could bear it; it would be hell on earth."—George Bernard Shaw.

a century ago young girls thought it unfashionable to have a summer tan . . . they kept their complexion fair by avoiding the sun and anointing their faces with rosewater and table cream.

Could you know that nobody who works for a U.S. distillery can have a key to its front door? . . . Only a federal agent from the alcohol and tobacco tax division of the U.S. treasury can open or lock up.

HUMAN BODY ODDITIES:

Your heart normally pumps three quarts of blood a minute. . . . It takes more energy to carry 50 pounds of excess fat than to carry 50 pounds of lead (the lead doesn't require blood vessels.)

FOREST ARITHMETIC: Rabbits had to learn to multiply in order to survive. . . . Because of many natural enemies, only one of every 20 cottontail bunnies lives to celebrate its first birthday.

WHY SPEED IS DANGEROUS: You can halt a car in 47 feet going only 20 miles an hour . . . At 40 it takes 140 feet, and at 70 832 feet — or nearly the length of two football fields.

Nothing on Earth Can Stop Coming Together of Faiths Says Retired Archbishop

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The retired Archbishop of Canterbury said Wednesday "nothing on earth" can stop the process of sympathetic understanding that had begun among various branches of the Christian faith.

Most Rev. Geoffrey Fisher spoke at the Assumption University's annual convention at which he and two other men received honorary doctor of laws degrees.

Dealing with what he termed the new spirit of kinship between Roman Catholics and other Christian faiths, Lord Fisher said the new understanding was "a miracle wrought by the Holy Spirit."

"Now we are able to speak to each other as friends. The world is just beginning to understand how astonishing this is. It is a miracle of history. We can talk with sympathy, with understanding and with an increasing coming together."

The Anglican churchman said he considered his reception of an honorary degree from Assumption, a Roman Catholic university, "a sign of the times." University officials said Lord Fisher is the second Anglican bishop to be honored in this way.

The decree was conferred upon Lord Fisher by Rt. Rev. George N. Luxton, Anglican Bishop of Huron. Bishop Luxton was pro-chancellor at the convention in the absence of the chancellor, Most Rev. John Cody, Roman Catholic Bishop of London, who is attending the ecumenical council in Rome.

At the close of the convocation, Bishop Luxton asked those present to stand and bow in tribute to the success of the ecumenical council.

"We of other churches cannot afford not to be deeply involved with the council," he said."

Bishop Luxton also conferred honorary degrees upon Rev. John Ryan, founder of Windsor's Holy Redeemer College, and John Ross Tolmie of Ottawa, chairman of the advisory board for Assumption's annual Canadian - American relations seminar.

CPR And Trainmen Reach Settlement

Wage Increase Of Eight P.C. Given Workers

Railway Gets Removal Of Some Obsolete Rules

By KEN SMITH

MONTREAL (CP)—The CPR and its 6,000 trainmen agreed on a new contract early today, less than 60 hours before a country-wide strike was to occur.

The agreement was announced shortly before 3 a.m. EDT by special federal mediator William H. Dickie of Toronto after a back-breaking 17-hour negotiating session between the railway and representatives of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen (CLC).

Immediately after the agreement was reported, CPR Vice-President R. A. Emerson, who had led the railway negotiators through six days of day-and-night meetings with the union that led to the settlement, said the CPR will move back to normal operations immediately.

Detailed plans to close down the entire railway system of the privately - owned company were to go into effect later today if the settlement had not been reached.

CUT INTO BUSINESS

The threat of the walkout, set for noon local time Monday, had started to cut heavily into CPR business, especially during the last few days.

Both the union and the railway expressed satisfaction with the new agreement, which will run to Dec. 31, 1963.

Showing the strain of almost 80 hours of intensive bargaining during the last six days, they also praised Mr. Dickie for hammering out the settlement.

Mr. Emerson said he was very happy that the walkout had been averted, especially in view of the current international crisis.

William P. Kelly of Ottawa, vice-president of the union and co-chairman of the negotiating team with Gordon C. Gale of Winnipeg, said he was pleased with the agreement. Telegrams would be sent immediately to regional chairman advising them that the strike was off.

Mr. Dickie described the settlement as a fair and equitable

HOUSING POLICY BEING REFORMED BY FULTON

CMHC May Make Direct Loans

OTTAWA (CP)—Works Minister Fulton is bringing his reforming zeal to bear on the federal works department's housing and contracting policies.

A major change in housing policy on which he is reported to be working is a plan to permit the government's housing agency, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, to make direct mortgage loans for rental housing projects in smaller communities where leading facilities aren't readily available to private entrepreneurs.

Basis for this plan is understood to be representations that mortgage money for rental housing projects is difficult to get in communities of between 20,000 and 50,000 from banks, insurance companies or other lending institutions.

An outline of the proposal is likely to go before cabinet soon as a basis for discussion.

HINTED AT CHANGE

Mr. Fulton, who in five years as justice minister instituted such major programs as the current expansion of prison facilities and a new parole system, hinted at another possible change in housing policy in the Commons recently.

He said CMHC has been instructed to investigate the possibility of loans to universities to build housing for married students.

At present, such loans can be made by CMHC for housing for single students up to a maximum loan of $7,000 per student.

EXCHANGE FUND DIPPED SHARPLY BEFORE ELECTION

Figures Submitted To Parliament

OTTAWA (CP)—An acceleration in the drain on Canada's foreign exchange reserves during the three weeks preceding the government's emergency financial measures June 24 was shown Friday in detailed figures tabled in the Commons.

The government's action in publishing day-to-day changes in the official exchange fund during the period—at the request last week of a Liberal member — sheds new light on one of the sharpest controversies raised so far in this session of Parliament.

On Oct. 3, Opposition Leader Diefenbaker accused the government of a "major political fraud" in what he called a contrived easing of the exchange crisis from the public before the June 18 election.

Mr. Diefenbaker denied the accusation. He told the Commons Oct. 2 that up to the dissolution of the June 18 election, he and the then finance minister Fleming expected that the exchange situation would "settle down" after the election campaign. He said there was an "acceleration" in the foreign exchange decline on June 15.

AGREED TO MOTION

Last week Finance Minister Nowlan agreed to a motion by Liberal Member Maurice St. Laurence-St. George) for the disclosure of day-to-day changes in the exchange fund and daily "deliveries" of foreign exchange to the market between April 9 and June 22.

Mr. Nowlan said that would be "an end of the matter."

The figures showed that in the four weeks prior to June 4, weekly declines in the exchange fund did not exceed $4,000,000, and in one of those four weeks the fund actually rose by $4,500,000.

In the week of June 3 the fund fell by $59,300,000, in the following week by $82,400,000, and in the next week—June 17-20—by $103,700,000.

In the same weeks, payments of foreign exchange reserves for the purchase of exchange market were $36,200,000, $104,-900,000 and $240,000,000.

EXPLAINS DIFFERENCE

A senior official said that one reason for the difference between the two figures is exchange "swaps" in which the exchange fund obtained U.S. funds in exchange for Canadian dollars, to be traded back at a later date.

He said that between April 9 and June 22, the exchange fund's holdings of reserves, fell by $461,700,000, while payments of exchange from the fund—receipts are not shown—totalled $668,100,000.

The figures show that heavy daily losses of foreign exchange began Tuesday, June 12, when the exchange fund fell by $25,-300,000. The fund fell by $19,-400,000 on June 13, by $10,000,000 two days, respectively, and by $20,200,000 on Friday, June 15 —last business day before the election.

Sen. W. A. Fraser, Trenton, Dies in Kingston Hospital

Senator William A. Fraser, whose name became synonymous with Trenton during almost a half century of public service, died in Kingston General Hospital Friday evening.

Senator Fraser had been in ill health for some time but was only recently admitted to hospital. He was 78.

A native son of Trenton, he did much to put the name of the town on the map and was instrumental in bringing Canada's largest RCAF station to Trenton as well as several other industries. His parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fraser, his father being born in Scotland.

His many efforts for the benefit of his native town earned him the title of "Mr. Trenton," and a year ago he was publicly honored in his municipality at a testimonial dinner.

He was appointed Senator in 1940 after 15 years as member of parliament. He was mayor of Trenton from 1927 to 1930. He was M.P. for Northumberland from 1930 until 1945.

He was a veteran of World War I and had served with the 49th Regiment.

MANY INTERESTS

His early life enterprises included lumbering in North Hastings and the operation of mills in Cashell and Marmora township and a sawpaper mill in Trenton.

He formed Central Bridge Company and recently sold the company to Toronto Iron Works Ltd. He also continued as a member of the board of directors.

During the 1930's as a member of parliament, he took a leading part in bringing the RCAF station to the Trenton area.

Many of the industries now in operation in Trenton are there because of Mr. Fraser's interest in the industrial development of the town. He was able to provide free land encouraging their location or expansion of these industries.

A public testimonial dinner held last year in his honor public Senator summed up his feelings for his home town with the following words: "I am proud to be a citizen of Trenton. I hope I've been able to do a little to improve the lot of the people of Trenton. I don't care if people like me or hate me. I've got a job to do and I intend to do it. I have great faith in humanity. I love people. I think I have given my best to the people of this town."

A staunch Liberal, Senator Fraser never left any doubt as to his stand on political matters.

He was affectionately known as "Nickel Billy, possibly because of his business acumen. In his fiery younger years he distributed $5 bills by the handful at political rallies.

In recent years he had lived out of town, Kingsley, content to operate his farm and fruit orchards west of Trenton and attend Senate sessions at Ottawa.

He was a member of the Anglican faith and was a strong supporter of the Salvation Army.

HELD MANY POSITIONS

He was an honorary member of the Trenton Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion, and was honorary president of the Trenton Lions Club.

He is survived by his wife,

GOVT. UNDER ATTACK OVER DRUG PROBLEM

Opposition Calls Traffic Tragedy

OTTAWA (CP)—The government came under heavy opposition fire Friday in the Commons over its handling of the thalidomide problem.

Spokesmen for the Liberal, Social Credit and New Democratic parties maintained that the deformity-producing drug was allowed to remain on the market for too long and that the government must bear part of the heavy burden of responsibility.

The opposition critics were little mollified by a statement of Health Minister Monteith, who argued that the government took the only effective action open to it.

SOME 88 DEFORMED

An estimated 60 Canadian babies were born deformed because their mothers took thalidomide in the early stages of pregnancy.

The drug, originally licensed for prescription use in Canada as a sedative, was also used and to avoid a confrontation of by pregnant women to relieve morning sickness. It was withdrawn from the market last spring.

Friday's debate centred on a bill to tighten up the Food and Drug Act to prevent, if possible, another tragedy such as the thalidomide one.

In his statement introducing second reading of the measure, Mr. Monteith announced that plans are under way to increase substantially the staff of the food and drug directorate to exercise closer scrutiny over products intended for public use.

Mr. Monteith told the House that last December, after reports from other countries drew suspicion on thalidomide, every doctor in Canada was warned about its possible-side-effects.

No other course of action could have prevented the occurrence of deformities, he insisted.

ONE AFTER WARNING

"Up to the present time to our knowledge there has been only one case of thalidomide-associated abnormalities where the drug could have been taken after the warning to doctors.

"We have made inquiries and are advised that the drug in this particular case was not obtained on prescription or with the knowledge of the attending physician."

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg, North Centre) drew a critical comparison between the drug scandal in countries where "there was the kind of vigilance that resulted in the withdrawal of the drug at an earlier date or is preventing it

Would Exchange Missile Removal From Both Bases

Mutual Guarantees Of Non-Infringement

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev today offered to withdraw offensive weapons from Cuba if the Americans would withdraw their missiles from Turkey.

He said in a message to President Kennedy that the Americans have "placed nuclear weapons literally beside us."

The message suggested that Russia would guarantee not to infringe the security of Turkey and that the United States should do the same with regard to Cuba.

The message referred to the Russian weapons on Cuba as its "means of offence."

Khrushchev said that the "means" on Cuba which disturbed the U.S. were in the hands of Soviet officers and accidental use "is excluded."

The message also was sent to U Thant, acting secretary-general of the United Nations. The Soviet premier said he was glad the initiative was agreeable to negotiating the present dispute, and said he thought it perhaps would if Thant would act as agent.

He said he was glad the president of the United States made normal the situation through talks and to avoid a confrontation of the American ships at sea in the blockade area.

Khrushchev said there would be needed to carry out the suggested Cuba-Turkey deal, but he said this should be "not more than a-month."

He said that if the president agreed to his proposal he would instruct his representatives in the UN and give them instructions to reach final agreement as quickly as possible."

He hoped Kennedy would give similar instructions.

"Let us make in the Security Council a statement that the U.S.S.R. will respect the sovereignty of Turkey and not allow its territory to be used for aggression against Turkey.

"A similar statement in the framework of the Security Council will be made by the U.S., rejecting Cuba," Khrushchev said.

NO EVIDENCE OF REMOVAL LAUNCH BASES

Reds Continue Work Operation

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials waited with mounting impatience in Washington to make some move toward halting work on nuclear missile installations in Cuba.

This is the war-or-peace issue at the heart of the Cuban crisis as it is seen in Washington.

The U.S. government is trying to make clear to Russia and the world that unless this issue is resolved, "further action will be justified," as President Kennedy said in his speech Monday night announcing the U.S. blockade order.

The state department Friday reaffirmed Kennedy's warning of further action, and the White House followed up Friday night with a statement saying:

There is no evidence to date indicating that there is any intention to terminate or discontinue work on these missile sites.

"On the contrary, the Soviets are rapidly continuing their

Increased Readiness Of RCAF Purely Academic

OTTAWA (CP) — Reliable sources said Friday that the increased state of readiness for RCAF Air Defence Command is purely academic at this time.

They said that unless Canadian jet interceptors are armed with nuclear air-to-air rockets they would be grounded in case of a Soviet bomber attack on North America.

The reason for this, they added, is that Pentagon American Defence Command feels that interceptors armed only with conventional armament would "cutter up" the sky and confuse radars controlling the operation of nuclear - armed American interceptors.

For this reason, the 64 RCAF supersonic Voodoo jet interceptors took litter part in NORAD's exercise Skyshield II last month. The attitude of NORAD Headquarters, informants said, was that there was little point in exercising planes which would not be used in case of actual operations.

With conventional armament, RCAF jet interceptors could shoot down attacking bombers. But they could not destroy a bomber's nuclear cargo, which would detonate anyway.

Defence officials — darkness and his senior officials] have said that nuclear armament for interceptors — the Bomarc and Genie rocket—would "cook" a bomber's thermonuclear load as well as destroy the bomber so that there would be little if any radioactive fallout.

Robarts Does Not Want To Rush Into Medicare Plan

SARNIA (CP) — Premier Robarts said Friday night he doesn't want the Province of Ontario to rush the establishment of a medical care plan "for the sole purpose of making political capital."

The people of Ontario will have a medicare plan if they want it, but "I do not want to see medicare become political football," the premier told a Conservative rally that would agree to negotiate a border settlement with the Chinese but only on condition the Reds withdraw behind the breakthrough line of Sept. 8.

The Indian Embassy said the message was not uncoded and apparently had been addressed also to other governments.

It may be, that you cannot increase expenditures, cut taxation and reduce debt all at the same time."

Mr. Roberts accused the Liberals of "rushing" forth with a hastily conceived medicare program which they say will cost $175,000,000 annually. At the same time, the Liberals have been crying for a reduction of the sales tax which, the provincial government has been using to stabilize the hospital insurance program, he said.

The premier said a medicare plan which would assure reasonable protection against the cost of illness will require heavy expenditure, raised in the usual manner through tax levies."

Raul Castro Predicts World War If Cuba Is Invaded or Attacked

HAVANA (Reuters)—An unreal sense of calm settled on Havana today as the government warned a third world war would break out if Cuba is invaded.

Lurid posters have appeared throughout the city during the last few days, one of which shows a young soldier charging with a rifle at his hip and captioned "on a war footing." Another shows a young man brandishing a rifle over his head and bears the legend "to arms."

The general impression, nevertheless, is that the men in the street here is behaving as if he had been through the hands of the situation and is waiting for the outside world to decide his fortunes.

Maj. Raul Castro, commander-in-chief of the armed forces, was quoted as telling paper Revolucion Friday as saying there should be no doubt in anyone's mind that if Cuba were attacked, a third world war would be unleashed.

He also was quoted as telling a government committee: "It can be stated (the enemy) will be crushed with the aid of all the friendly peoples of the world."

Meanwhile, the captain of the first Soviet tanker allowed to pass through the U.S. Navy blockade of Cuba described the encounter Friday night in the Havana newspaper La Tarde.

The newspaper identified him as Capt. Piotr Romanov who commands the Russian Black Sea port of Odessa last month in the tanker Vinnitsa.

It was presumed in Key West, Fla., that this was the 21,255-ton Bucharest, the Soviet tanker the U.S. Navy allowed to pass through the blockade after making sure the ship carried only oil.)

Nehru Will Agree to Talk On Conditions

MOSCOW (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru of India told Premier Khrushchev today he would agree to negotiate a border settlement with the Chinese but only on condition the Reds withdraw behind the breakthrough line of Sept. 8.

The Indian Embassy said the message was not uncoded and apparently had been addressed also to other governments.

British Feel Cuba in Not Suez, Anxiety, Urbanity Mark Attitude

LONDON (CP)—"Dear sir" said the letter to the editor. "Assuming that we are all sitting next week, the Cuban crisis . . ."

In that phrase, the letter captured the combination of anxiety and something approaching urbanity that characterized sustained British attention to this week's dramatic news from the Caribbean.

Women sat in social parties, shedding sophistication with the second glass, spoke frankly of their fears for their homes and their children.

With greater detachment, their husbands pondered privately to relish a sense of relief that Britain, for once was not the leading actor in an international crisis.

In general, there was little of the intense excitement that, during the Suez crisis of 1956, though among older people there was a tendency to remark, sometimes that "after all, the Americans didn't make us up at Suez . . . why should we worry about Cuba?"

Newspaper correspondence columns bulged with letters for and against the American action in Cuba. And columnists weighed in with some sideline comments, including these:

Lord Boothby, writing in Cuba, except in terms of domestic politics, is a "side issue." He found "fatal similarities" between President Kennedy and Sir Anthony Eden.

"Like Eden, Kennedy is vain and ambitious, but fundamentally lacking in self-confidence. Like Eden, he cares too much what people say and think and write about him; He feeds on popularity, and starves without it. Like Eden's, his mind is quick, but neither deep nor original; for ideas he depends upon others."

R. H. S. Crossman, a Labor party intellectual, said America's failure to consult with Britain before taking action in Cuba exploded the "little myth" that being a nuclear power would give Britain a special pipeline to Washington.

"In American eyes," Crossman said, "our independent deterrent has for years been an expensive and silly illusion, permitted to survive solely in order to console the British for the decline in their world power."

Alastair Buchan, a student of military affairs, puzzled over Russian motives in placing a Cuban nuclear buildup. It could hardly be in reaction to American bases in Turkey and Italy, he said, because these Western weapons were "obsolete" and any attempt at a trade — off" would be achieved only at enormous cost in international tension.

Earl Russell, from his home in Penrhos, Merioneth, Wales, praised Russia's Nikita Khrushchev for self-restraint in an emergency, saying the Soviet premier was "personally responsible for the avoidance of a world of complete destruction."

In contrast the left-wing New Statesman, which has a reputation for leaning over backwards to be kind to Russia and harsh to the U.S., said that assuming the published photographs of the Russian buildup are authentic, the Americans stand accused of an act of provocation unprecedented since the onset of the cold war."

Daylight Saving Ends Tonight

This is the weekend when residents of Belleville and district, as well as millions of other people across Canada, catch up on the hour of sleep which they lost last April.

It is the weekend when Daylight Saving ends and clocks are put back an hour again reverting to Standard Time.

Daylight Saving Time officially ends tonight as residents are reminded to set their clocks back before retiring. Otherwise they turn up for church an hour early on Sunday morning.

The only Canadians unaffected by the time change will be those living in Saskatchewan and Alberta, where Standard Time is observed all year round.

Hallowe'en Shell Out Can Help Needy

Hallowe'en is just around the corner—and with it flocks of witches and goblins, and the strictly "1962" models—spacemen and Martians! Naturally householders will provide a good supply of apples, candies and cookies for the visiting youngsters.

Again this year, many Belleville children will carry the familiar "little orange and black boxes labelled UNICEF, hoping citizens will have small change handy to drop into these boxes. They will be "shelling out" not only to the happy youngsters of their own town, but also to the less fortunate children of countries where things like milk and rice are scarce, and goodies scarcer still.

Last year, with the help of kind neighbors, Ontario children collected $32,000 for UNICEF on Hallowe'en, money that went to the International Headquarters of United Nations Children's Fund in New York, and from there went on to supply carloads of powered skim milk to build skrnight, strong children, and trained personnel for prevention and protection, and supplies and equipment to help fight the ancient diseases (yaws, malaria and tuberculosis) that zap the life of children the world over.

People have been "shelling out" to youngsters on Hallowe'en for generations, but today's shrinking world, children know that the children in Pakistan, Africa, Greece and Brazil will share with them the goodwill of Hallowe'en's world. They want to share with these children.

For youngsters this Hallowe'en is an evening of fun. They love dressing up, happy hours, shared though UNICEF, could be multiplied to the happiness of a lifetime.

WAGE

one that would serve both parties well.

Full details of the settlement were not released immediately. The weary negotiators did say, however, that it provides for a total wage increase of eight per cent, spread through the life of the contract.

The trainmen will receive two retroactive payments under the settlement—one per cent back to June 1, 1961 and another one per cent back to Dec. 1, 1961.

Another 1½ per cent will be paid on the completion of the contract, 2½ per cent Dec. 1, 1962, and two per cent June 1, 1963.

On the disputed work rules—the issue that bogged down the final hectic special talks and led to a complete deadlock before a mediator was appointed—Mr. Emerson said the railway had been able to obtain the removal of some of the obsolete rules carried over from the past.

Some of these rules had been established by the railway during the negotiations as leading to featherbedding, while the union had defended them as safeguarding workers' rights.

Mr. Kelly said the revision of some of the rules would help both parties in the future.

RULE CHANGES AGREED

Two of the rule changes pinpointed by the negotiators included the automatic caboose release rule and the rotary spare board.

Mr. Emerson said the automatic release rule, which applies only in the CPR's western operations west of Fort William, Ont. — has "disappeared."

The rule provided that certain trainmen in the West would get overall pay for work even though the time involved or the distance travelled was less than that normally considered the minimum.

This occurred if trainmen ran between terminals less than 100 miles apart or taking less than eight hours to do so—each of the two rules would minimize for a day's work.

The rotary spare board, which will be included in the new contract, provides that all persons eligible for a call for work will be summoned in turn instead of the senior man getting the first crack at all jobs.

Mr. Emerson said there are more than 75 other rules that will have to be rewritten as a result of today's agreement.

The settlement does not need to be ratified by the union membership. The union negotiators had been empowered to reach a final conclusion of the dispute that started back in April, 1961, by the union executive in original demands to the CPR.

The settlement marks the second one involving the trainmen that has gone right to the wire this year. The union agreed on a new contract at the CNR last May only days before a strike was to be into effect there.

Mr. Kelly said the new agreement is essentially similar to the one reached at the CNR, although the work rules are different.

The settlement promises peace on the railway labor front for at least a year, since the dispute was the last of a series that has been fought during the last 18 months between Canadian railways and various unions.

All of the disputes now are resolved, with new contracts running at least until the end of next year.

Mental Health Workshop Held In City Today

A workshop on mental health, sponsored by the Hastings Division of the Canadian Mental Health Association, is being held in the Y.M.C.A. with discussions getting underway at the Belleville Recreation Centre at 9.30 a.m.

Chairman for the workshop being attended by public health nurses, social workers, teachers, parents, clergy and police, is Mrs. Lawrence Kelk, administrator for Belleville Public Schools, with R. W. Burns, B.A., training consultant for the social planning council of Toronto, acting as morning guest speaker.

Later in the morning those in attendance divided into four sub committees for separate discussion groups, with the group discussions were Harold E. Whitely, mental health consultant for Toronto Board of Education; Dr. E. Williamson, Belleville psychiatrist; Rev. Robert L. MacDougall, B.J., executive director, Catholic Rehabilitation Centre, Toronto, and Miss Barbara Chisholm, chairman of Mental Health Services Committee CMHA, Toronto.

Pumpkins Get Priority on Local Market

A small crowd attended the local Farmers' Market on Saturday morning while prices remain unchanged.

With Hallowe'en being celebrated next Wednesday, there was a large selection of pumpkins with prices ranging from 10¢ to 50¢.

A few baskets of grapes were offered selling at $1 a six quart basket.

In the vegetable department, prices were 50¢ a basket, large tomatoes 65¢ a basket, cabbage from 15 to 20¢ a head, potatoes 75¢ for a 10 pound bag, or 50¢ a basket.

Apple cider, still plentiful, sold from 10¢ a bottle to $1 a gallon.

Assorted flowers were few, but added a touch of color to the market square and sold from 40 to 50¢ a bunch.

Eggs remained about the same this week as last, selling for 40, 45, 50 and 55¢ a dozen for small, medium, large and extra large.

Fred Yealland Commodore Of Yacht Club

Fred Yealland was elected Commodore of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club at the recent annual meeting of that organization. A member of the club's executive for a number of years, Mr. Yealland succeeds Past Commodore Ernie Colebourne, under whose direction the club began the purchase of a new fleet for its Juvenile sailing program and the enlargement and modernization of the club house facilities.

Commodore Yealland has also been active in these same things and club members are expecting to see further progress on these two major programs.

Elected to Vice-Commodore was Orland Pinkston and Arthur Newman was elected Rear Commodore. George Haggis, noted O'Day Class sailboat competitor, was elected to the post of Fleet Captain.

Reelected as club directors were: Jack Hess, Lennox Smith, Joe Reycroft, and Addison Lloyd. Newly-selected to the directorate this year was the well-known mariner, Col. Angus Duffy.

Bronk Cheese Factory Wins British Prize

LONDON (CP) — The Ontario dairy princess presented prize - winning cheddar cheese Friday to George Drew, Canadian high commissioner in the United Kingdom, and James Hawthorne, Ontario agent-general.

Carolyn Murray, 20, of Martintown, Ont., won a 17-day tour of Britain with her title at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto this summer.

Ontario firms captured the top three prizes in the Commonwealth Overseas rindless cheddar division of the Royal Dairy Show now in progress here.

Bronk Cheese Company of Corbyville took first place among the 74 entries. Farmer's Joy Cheese Company of Monkland was second. Delta Cheese Company was third.

Todd Shannon New President Of H-S Assoc.

TRENTON — Wednesday night, the Home and School Club in the Trenton High School played host to the parents of the school's student population and the students themselves provided a varied program of entertainment.

During the business meeting a new executive for 1963-63 was elected and retiring president of the club, Jim Jessup, handed over the gavel to incoming president Todd Shannon. Program convener will be Mrs. S. Forchuck, with Mrs. Harper serving as secondvice; Mrs. Taylor as recording secretary; Mrs. Lawson as corresponding secretary and Bill Blight continuing his duties as treasurer. The new executive took the Home and School Club pledge.

Queen Elizabeth principal, Thomas Bedford, presented bursaries valued at $22 and donated by the H. & S. Club, to last year's top Grade XII students, Robert Bisbee and Jennifer Tewksberry and the executive went to continue this honoring the school's two outstanding students, and to provide gifts for the other members of the graduating class.

During the musical program arranged by the students, vocal solos by Mrs. Ann Pinney Calhoun; Donna Pilsney and Judy Bedford, duets were sung by Donna Ash and Betty Wait, Linda Gonyea and Gail Wilson, Mrs. Ann Pinney and Lynn Hughes; piano selections were played by Donna Axis, Kathryn Kennedy, Esther and Carol Vanstone and Linda Jeffery performed and were played by Bill Cronk; Brian and Buddy Monds; and C. Izard performed a piano selection, while a tumbling act was put on by Chris Wood, Brenda Condron and Leslie Glover, a dance by Moya Lawson, Debbie Chenard, Jane Holstra and Janet Wilson and Pat Patterson entertained with guitar selections.

Selections by the primary and junior choirs were also enjoyed.

Urge Residents To Attend Lectures

TRENTON — At Thursday night's meeting of the Trenton Public Utilities Commission chairman Charles Hilton and the commissioners expressed concern about the Cuban situation and voiced the hope that the Trenton citizens would take advantage of a series of lectures and demonstrations which will be held in Belleville next month and which will be sponsored by the Quinte Area Civil Defence Measures Organization.

Last year, the commission made tentative plans to turn the town fiver to water from the Bicknell well, should such a national emergency arise. As this was supplied by water entirely from an underground source, it would be free from nuclear fallout. Public Utilities Commissioner C. A. Baker told a reporter that the well could be quickly converted to serve the town — with a limited amount of water available for users — in short order.

construction of missile support and launch facilities and security attempts are under way to camouflage their efforts."

Friday night tension focussing on the blockade shifted to Thant, acting secretary - general of the United Nations, disclosed that Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev had agreed to avoid—at least for a while — a showdown between the U.S. Navy and Cuba-bound ships.

However, Khrushchev's message did not deal with the base issue. Instead, it simply announced he had ordered Soviet vessels temporarily to stay away from the interception zone while talks—linked by the U.S. naval blockade.

Early Friday, the 7,868-ton freighter Marucla, flying the Lebanese flag under charter to the Soviet government, was halted and boarded by a U.S. Navy party and then allowed to proceed to Cuba when its cargo was found to include "no prohibited material."

Thus the first move to board a Communist supply ship in the Caribbean quarantine zone went off peacefully. The day before, the Soviet freighter Bucharest continue to Cuba without being boarded after the navy reported that it was a petroleum tanker which is not on the prohibited list.

TELLS OF TALK

At the state department, an authoritative Kremlinman who talked to Khrushchev after his ago conferred with Undersecretary of State George Ball-the on his Moscow conversation.

The businessman, William E. Knox, president of Westinghouse International Electric, told reporters later that Khrushchev was a large section of pumpkins with prices ranging from 10¢ to 50¢.

A few baskets of grapes were offered selling at $1 a six quart basket.

In the vegetable department, prices were 50¢ a basket, large tomatoes 65¢ a basket, cabbage from 15 to 20¢ a head, potatoes 75¢ for a 10 pound bag, or 50¢ a basket.

Apple cider, still plentiful, sold from 10¢ a bottle to $1 a gallon.

Assorted flowers were few, but added a touch of color to the market square and sold from 40 to 50¢ a bunch.

Eggs remained about the same this week as last, selling for 40, 45, 50 and 55¢ a dozen for small, medium, large and extra large.

Fred Yealland Commodore Of Yacht Club

Fred Yealland was elected Commodore of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club at the recent annual meeting of that organization. A member of the club's executive for a number of years, Mr. Yealland succeeds Past Commodore Ernie Colebourne, under whose direction the club began the purchase of a new fleet for its Juvenile sailing program and the enlargement and modernization of the club house facilities.

Commodore Yealland has also been active in these same things and club members are expecting to see further progress on these two major programs.

Elected to Vice-Commodore was Orland Pinkston and Arthur Newman was elected Rear Commodore. George Haggis, noted O'Day Class sailboat competitor, was elected to the post of Fleet Captain.

Reelected as club directors were: Jack Hess, Lennox Smith, Joe Reycroft, and Addison Lloyd. Newly-selected to the directorate this year was the well-known mariner, Col. Angus Duffy.

Urge Residents To Attend Lectures

TRENTON — At Thursday night's meeting of the Trenton Public Utilities Commission chairman Charles Hilton and the commissioners expressed concern about the Cuban situation and voiced the hope that the Trenton citizens would take advantage of a series of lectures and demonstrations which will be held in Belleville next month and which will be sponsored by the Quinte Area Civil Defence Measures Organization.

Last year, the commission made tentative plans to turn the town fiver to water from the Bicknell well, should such a national emergency arise. As this was supplied by water entirely from an underground source, it would be free from nuclear fallout. Public Utilities Commissioner C. A. Baker told a reporter that the well could be quickly converted to serve the town — with a limited amount of water available for users — in short order.

the former Blanche McCauley of Trenton; one brother, James Otis Fraser of Toronto, and a sister, Mrs. Ben (Jessie) James of Trenton.

Also surviving are three nephews, Eben James Jr., James (Babe) Fraser and Donald R. (Nick) Fraser.

Senator Fraser's death leaves the province with the 16th seat Senate at 60 Liberals, 21 Progressive Conservatives and one Independent, with 4 vacant. There are eight vacancies.

His body is resting at the Weaver Funeral Home in Trenton. Funeral arrangements will be completed today.

STREETCAR FANS

GLASGOW (CP) — Britain's last streetcar service has ceased to run here and the city corporation is inundated with offers from all over the world to buy the trams. A spokesman said: "We are getting requests by telephone as if we can sell a train over the counter."

Hasty Pees To Take Firing Tests

Sixty officers and men of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment left last night for Camp Petawawa, near Ottawa, for training in field firing of 81 millimeter mortars, and modern machine guns. The men have been issued with these weapons at their home armories, but there are no facilities for firing them near Belleville. The men will also be given training in the use of recoil-less rifles, during their stay at Petawawa. They will return to Belleville Sunday evening.

Commanding officer of the regiment will go to the rifle ranges at Barrisfield, and Another 70 men will be available next week for their annual rifle classification tests. The men will spend one day at the ranges, demonstrating, with the large bore artillary rifles, the skill they have attained with the small bore rifles they use on their indoor range at Belleville.

Square Dancing Comes to 'Y'

This Saturday night square dancing comes to the Belleville YMCA with a program beginning ban called on for the instruction for lads and lassies in grades six, seven and eight in what has become known in Royal circles as Canadian dancing.

The program begins at 7.00 o'clock and swings on through to 8.30 every second Saturday night from now on.

From 9.00 p.m. until 11.15 there will be a teenage record hop for High School students. Y's Men will be acting as chaperons for this part of the evening's entertainment.

JOHNSTON — In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. George Johnston, who passed away October 27th, 1961.

In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweet and true;
There is not a day, dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
Chris and grandchildren.

Also remembered by her brother in law

JOHNSTON — In loving memory of our wife, Mrs. George Johnston, who passed away October 27th, 1956.

Sadly missed by husband,
Brother and sister-in-law.

PEOPLES, Stella May—
God gave us a beautiful mother,
Her memory will never grow old;
Treasured memories are like sunshine,
He made them all.
He knew that her heart of pure gold,
He needed a new star in heaven,
To shine bright in shine.
So out of this old world of sorrow,
God took her to be another of mine.

'Great Expectations' Subject of Talk to Students At BCI Graduation Night

(By Gladys Ward)

The graduation exercises of the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School on Friday evening, the valedictorian could not accommodate the students with their relatives and friends, and many people had to stand throughout the whole ceremony. The musical prelude was provided by the school band under the direction of Mr. Clifford Potter. Mr. Trotter was also the accompanist for the trumpet trio of Jessie Murphy, James White and Cathy Cook, who played the "Bugler's Holiday," and for the vocal ensemble for the Chorus Class whose members included "Give Me Your Tired, Your Poor," "Little David, Play On Your Harp," "You'll Never Walk Alone" and "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You."

The platform was attractively decorated with ferns, and with the standards of chrysanthemums in front of the trophy table a pyramid arrangement of white and pink tinted mums was placed. The girls of the Latin and Keyette clubs made charming usherettes.

The invocation was given by Rev. R. J. Irwin following the singing of a hymn. Principal A. Orr was chairman for the occasion, extending a welcome to all present and apologizing for the lack of space so that everyone could be seated. "I am happy that you have shown your interest and support by your presence here," said the principal. "Your presence is your way of encouraging the students for their achievements over the past years. We appreciate the co-operation of the parents. Every year at Commencement we are able to convince myself that teaching is a rewarding profession. You are the 35th group of graduates to go forth from this auditorium. You have joined a great and goodly company. I urge you to be proud of your school, to take an active interest in it and to make us proud of you. You are now prepared in attitudes and knowledge for whatever experience lies before you. I wish you a fine service to your fellowman and to God."

Greetings were brought from the Bay of Quinte District High School Board by the Chairman, W. T. Simpson, who stated that the efforts of the Board were of no avail without the co-operation of the parents, teachers and students. He assured the students of the continued interest of the Board.

EXPECT GREAT THINGS

The speaker for this occasion Dr. Robert Fay, M.Sc., was introduced by Mr. R. D. Robertson, who described Dr. Hay as a man of many ideas with an impressive list of accomplishments.

Choosing the title of his address from Dickens' "Great Expectations," Dr. Hay asked a rhetorical question, "What do you expect from life, and what does society expect from you?" Elaborating on this theme, Dr. Hay expressed the belief that youth always had great expectations, and society expected great things from them.

"In national and international affairs, we are facing a difficult time," said the speaker. "What we must hold to are the words of Sir Winston Churchill 'We will never surrender.' Man has learned to control nature before he has learned to control himself, Einstein said. The urgent question is what can be done to make the Sermon on the Mount and the Ten Commandments work.

"Law and order have always appealed to the generality of men. Legal history shows that as we once had rule of man, now we are under the rule of conditions. Nations are moving along the path of legal rule and world opinion is that many nations to a course of action. If man is to be distinguished from animals he must fight for rule of law among nations.

"What great expectations do you have? To settle down with a good job and raise a family. That is good if you don't get settled into a comfortable routine. You must be ready to fight for law and order, to be liberal in outlook. Many leaders in industry are concerned about the lack of science, graduates. Society will expect you to remember and apply what you have learned here, to be informed on public affairs, to participate in public life, to vote, to undertake political activity in our democratic society. Our most besetting sin is that good men stand by while evil men will have their way.

"Keep an open mind. Don't be like the man who says, my mind is made up, don't confuse me with facts."

HAS LOST MEANING

Society will demand the utmost from you whether you are a doctor, lawyer, or follow other intellectual pursuits. Unfortunately the greater materon behalf of the graduating class of Grade XIII, as a token of thanks. The names of the presidents of the School Council are to be inscribed on the scroll each year. Mr. Orr accepted for the school.

The valedictory address was given by Miss Victoria Wheeler who has now attending Queen's University.

Grateful acknowledgment was made by Principal Orr for the interest and generosity of the donors of the many scholarships and other awards listed on the program and of the parents of all who contributed to the success of the Commencement exercises.

Following the ceremonies a reception was held in the cafeteria where the Home and School members served refreshments. A dance was given in the girls' gymnasium with the Commodores supplying the music.

The awards follow:

Valedictory Address

BY VICTORIA WHEELER

To say "farewell" is not an easy matter under any circumstances, but on an occasion such as this, it is a particularly difficult one. I am speaking not as an individual, but on behalf of the entire graduating class. If I were to ask the members of that class their thoughts at this time, they would probably answer that, even though they had looked forward to graduating, they were a little sorry their High School days were behind them.

When we entered B.C.I.V.S., Graduation Day seemed to us to be a long way off. There were before us, five years of concentrated study and effort. Tonight, we're looking back a little sadly perhaps, over those five years, but once stretched so endlessly before us.

The first day at High School was a rather frightening experience for us all. Before long, however, we were caught up in the many and diverse activities around the school. How can we forget the thrill of our examinations, whether good or poor, of course — or the excitement of football games and the like, the joy of the winning teams. Clubs and sports have indeed played an important part in our lives. They have led to intimate associations and contacts we have enjoyed with our fellow students that will never be forgotten. We have gained valuable experience in working together to plan and organize various events. Because we worked together, we learned the lasting things, which would have been simply unthinkable had they been suggested to us under any other circumstances.

All of this turns our thoughts to those whose patient guidance has led us to this point. I am speaking, naturally, of our teachers. We will always be grateful to them for their help and understanding. In the years ahead, we will benefit, in many ways, from the instruction we have made on us in our formative years. We hope that our teachers will take pride in our achievements, for we would not have been successful without their help.

We are grateful, also to our parents, whose interests and sacrifices they have made — many times curtailing their own activities to make room for ours.

To my fellow graduates, may you enjoy every success. I leave with you this thought: When an individual finishes school, he does not necessarily finish learning. As an example, with regard to scientific development alone, it may be necessary to accept a new concept of society and talents vary. Some are ill-suited for many, some artistic — and some mechanical. But, whatever the case may be —

"It was at his best,
When he is doing his best,
At what he can do best".

Perhaps soon our path will cross, affording us an opportunity to reminisce about "Days Gone By". Ten or 20 years go by, however, we may forget the names and faces, but we shall cherish the memories of a school, towards which we will ever be loyal.

Thank you!

ial rewards often go to the lower rather than the higher. Many of our intellectuals are exported to the United States where they never return. It is time these individuals pursued their intellectual careers in Canada. Government must be given a position of great respect and properly rewarded.

"The term square has lost its good meaning and has been distorted to mean something quite different. This counts with many men, etc. Too many are sitting it out because they are afraid to be square with old-fashioned virtues. But our country is going back to its old ideals. Small wonder our expectations be yours? It is as you will it."

In thanking the speaker, Miss Mary Musgrove said the message was a challenging one for the graduates, and illustrated in a graphic manner what teachers and parents had been telling them.

Miss Gail McDougall presented the school with a plaque

Something Lacking

A recent incident in Toronto makes us wonder whether or not our school educational system might be lacking in discipline. The incident involved 20 boys who had devised a game of pelting nearby Italian immigrant workers with eggs, and tomatoes, as well as insulting abuse.

Surprisingly enough this so-called "sport" was allowed to last for three days. Since it was conducted by students on school property it was surprising that no action was taken by school authorities until the incident reached a climax with one youth driving a jalopy through the concrete construction and the police were called by the construction supervisor.

The attitude of the school authorities was remarkable. The school principal advised the police that he had been "assured" there would be no more trouble. He stated that he "believed" two or three students were active as leaders of the incident.

At no point did he suggest there would be any punishment meted out or even that the students involved would be sought out and the responsibility laid on the individuals concerned. This latter would have been no great problem in view of the fact that there were witnesses to the skirmishes.

The event has its parallel with the many ugly incidents which occur in the southern United States, on a minor scale, of course. Nevertheless, it would not have occurred if there had not been some feeling of intolerance towards the Italian workers on the part of the students concerned. This is made clearly evident by the remarks attributed to the latter by witnesses.

For the school authorities to do nothing but excuse the incident as a "joke," which was the apparent attitude of the principal, is almost tantamount to a negative approval of the incident. What effect will this have on the students involved?

It will hardly convince them that they are wrong. It might even encourage them to indulge in similar action on another occasion with the belief that nothing will happen to them because it was really all a "joke."

Certainly such a lackadaisical attitude should not be tolerated under any circumstances.

Fine Way to Collect

Belleville motorists will get a somewhat backhanded Christmas present from the traffic committee this year in the form of "Fine-o-Meter Boxes." To be installed in time for the Christmas shopping rush, these boxes will bear a resemblance to mail boxes. The parking tickets will then be issued, for meter offences, printed on envelopes. The offender will be able to pay the fine by depositing the amount of the fine, probably 50 cents, in the envelope and dropping it into a Fine-o-Meter box.

The system has several advantages. Because of simplified bookkeeping, the city will gain those same profit from a smaller staff and the offender, who, in the case of a meter offence, is assumed to be merely forgetful, has less to pay and less trouble to pay it. Intentional offenders will be reminded, by the Fine-o-Meter boxes, that fines exist, and that they will be collected.

But in spite of these advantages, the system is not yet perfect. One is interested in an entirely unconfirmed rumor that similar fine collecting devices in Las Vegas have handles on the side, and a spout that sprays silver dollars into a lucky lawbreaker's hat.

A Confusing Election Campaign

Quebec's general provincial election, slated for November 14, was to have been fought over the formation of a unified hydro-electric system, similar to Ontario's, in the province. The Liberals, now in power, plan to expropriate every large power producer in the province. The Union Nationale has no definite plans, but they are not in favor of the Liberal plan. On the surface, it's a good, clean cut election.

But both parties, according to The Canadian Press, have almost forgotten the original issue. Instead, they are fighting the election on an English-French division—English-speaking control of Quebec's industry and religious instruction in schools.

One hesitates before predicting the results of a Quebec election these days, but if the campaigns continue along present lines, the results are obvious. Quebec must lose in any election fought in hopes of breaking down the English-French harmony, on which the province must operate.

Bad officials are elected by good citizens who do not vote.—George Jean Nathan.

Can Nowlan Exude Enough Charm to Appease Caouette?

BY RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — Few things about this interesting minority Government will compel such attention as its coming Budget.

It has been fascinating so far to see the minority administration do its political tight-rope act in the Commons, keeping its balance with Social Credit support.

It will be even more intriguing to discover — when Finance Minister Nowlan presents his Budget — just how artfully uncertain or solidly firm that Social Credit balance actually is.

If the Socreds, with their openly contradictory two-headed leadership, stand still on the Nowlan Budget, then the Conservative Government could hopefully expect to live a reasonably exciting and even dangerous life for some time yet to come — perhaps until late Spring, and perhaps for as two, three, or even the full four-year span of the normal term of office.

But if the Socreds waver, and woos, break ranks, then the borrowed time upon which the Government in reality has been living since last May could indeed have election, will be fast running short.

IMPOSSIBLE PRICE

Party Co-Leader Real Caouette, presumably speaking for his 29 Socred colleagues, has said that generally is supposed to was the Socred dog — has stated his "price" for standing still.

It is the requirement that the government abolish every no new taxes, nor increase existing rates, but instead must increase Family Allowances and other Federal cash "benefits" for the taxpaying consumer.

This is a splendid proposal which everybody would like to cheer heartily — except that unfortunately in present circumstances, it is clearly impossible

General government "bene fits" simply cannot be increased without the addition of new taxes and in the face of last Spring's calamitous run on the Canadian dollar, it remains highly doubtful that even existing Federal services can be maintained at current rates of taxation.

In short, some measure of a tax increase — and pray that it turns out to be modest — essentially appears to be in the Budget works.

The other Socred Co-Leader, Robert Thompson, has agreed with Real Caouette on at least one point — that the government could, if necessary, live out its normal four-year life span. And he has not put any "price" on Socred support. But he speaks for only what has become known as "Social Credit West" — the four-man group from Alberta and British Columbia.

THAT'S FAR APART

And ideologically, the two wings of this balance-of-power party, Real Caouette's "Creditistes," and Robert Thompson's "Social Credit West" may be as far apart as Quebec City and Victoria. At least on the issue of what justification and even authorities are used for experimental purposes. "A scientist," he has formed the Times, "is any form of treadmill in which the animal is compelled to keep walking — or running — at the whim of the expert mentor . . ."

Now that's an explanation which makes good sense, but people pinch-hitting for the rats on the treadmill might like to get what future dictionaries say about "rat-race," many folks will be compelled to keep is still one, whatever the correct definition may be.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

October 27th, 1943

Grade 'A' eggs held at their previous high level of 50 cents per dozen on the Belleville market this morning. Attendance, both by farmers and purchasers was down from last week, no doubt due to the threatening weather. Chicken prices held at the usual 32 cents for spring fowl. Butter sold at two pounds for 65 cents and at 40 cents per pound. Potatoes sold at $2 per bag, with tomatoes bringing $1 the bushel or 25 cents the six-quart basket. Carrots, parsnips and beets sold at 40 cents the peck and onions at 60 cents.

To conserve Canada's dimishing supplies of gasoline, the Munitions and Supply Department announced late yesterday a reduction in value of gasoline ration coupons in Ontario from four gallons to three coupons effective after the close of business tonight.the reduction means that gasoline will have a uniform value throughout the Dominion.

Extracts from the reports of the Public Schools Principals of the schools of the City of Belleville reveal that during the month of September the school attendance average was 83.7 per cent., a slight increase over last year's average. The Board of Education and school principals of the city are engaged in a program to increase the school attendance of pupils and the first month's report received at the Board meeting last night proved encouraging.

Many People Belatedly Become Allergic to Metals

By JOSEPH G MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have worn earrings for a number of years without difficulty. However, now the backs of my ears break out, water, then scab over.

It is very irritating and while it will heal in a few days with a salve, the trouble repeats itself as soon as I wear earrings again. Several friends have the same trouble.—M.J.S.

This is not at all unusual. Many people are — or belatedly become — allergic to various metals, including those used for jewelry. You may be sensitive to one metal and not to another. Some experimenting may show what you can and cannot wear. Nickel, chrome plating and some other metals cause much trouble; silver and gold may cause less.

Another possible answer — aside from not wearing jewelry —is to have it lacquered so the metal can't touch you. I don't guarantee results, but some times this works.

Dear Dr. Molner: Enclosed is an ad for "restore your lost vigor." At my age (66) I have had bunions as long as I can remember. Would this preparation gradually restore my big toe to normal position?—D.K.

I'd say that perhaps this gadget could "restore your big toe to normal position" in another 50 years.

It is futile to expect some patent gadget to correct, quickly, a trouble that has been developing for decades. The best way to get relief is to go to a specialist, accept his treatment as to what is and isn't possible at this stage of the bunion, and follow his advice. How long convalescence depends on the number of people for whom he can give real help, life may have to change you as much for an examination as you would spend for some gadget or other. You may have to go to him for a number of visits. He may (in the case of bunions) tell you to get special shoes, or he may say foot surgery is the easiest answer. Would take a specialist to learn that has been bothering you for years.

But he wants to get results! And you want results. So go to (or have your regular doctor refer you to) an orthopedic specialist or a podiatrist. For you, the cheapest advice will be the most skilled advice.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been taking cortisone for arthritis but have been told I'll have ill effects, such as heart trouble and softening of the bones. I don't know how I could get along without it. Please give me your advice—Mrs. W.C.

Continue as long as you have been doing. Do not leave off or approves — for I'm sure you are taking it under your physician's instructions.

Cortisone, like any strong medication, can sometimes have bad effects as well as good—results and your doctor has reason to think it causes no harm, could be a real boon—he knows it isn't doing you any harm.

Dear Dr. Molner: I recently read that wine is permitted in the diet for diabetics. True or false? P.P.M.

True for some people, false for others. This depends on the severity of the case. In general, diabetics should not drink alcoholic beverages. If your diabetes is under good medical care, permits a little wine, then you may use it. I would not drink any without U.S. approval if he says no, then he means no.

Starvation Winning Race

Vancouver Sun

It has taken all the thousands of years of human existence for the world to reach a population of 3 billion. At the present rate of expansion, the next billion will be added in just 35 years.

Three children are born every two seconds. More than 5,000 are born each hour. The births in one day would populate a small city.

These figures are the commonplaces of the world population explosion.

Nevertheless, we don't have to worry about this process continuing indefinitely. The hypothetical day five centuries hence, when every square foot of dry land in the world will be occupied by human beings will never arrive. Some process is self-limiting.

You must eat to live.

Chronic starvation is already the accepted way of life for from half to two-thirds of the world's people. If all the accumulated food surplus of North America were divided among already undernourished human beings it would not give them the equivalent of one cup of rice each. Not uneven distribution, actual overall lack of food is imperilling the race of man.

Two humanitarian solutions are possible.

The first is world-wide birth control. Theoretically, with oral contraceptives now available, this is possible. So far, economic, educational and religious difficulties have prevented effective action on this line.

The other is increased food production. Chemists and nutritional scientists are laboring at this, increasing soil productivity has so far failed to make a dent in the problem. New sources of food supply — for instance the ocean's vast quantities of unutilized fish, plankton and algae — may help. Chemical synthesis of food, presumably, great, but as on, is not yet economic.

In the meantime, men starve. In the life and death race of people against food, population has already got a big lead — with starvation at the finish line.

Would Be Worse

Peterborough Examiner

Toronto Bandits Given 18 Years in Montreal, says a headline in a Toronto paper. Ten years in Toronto would have been worse.

Rolls to Turn Royce in Grave

Hamilton Spectator

The Rolls Royce, the car for the man who has everything and doesn't know what to do with it, has done a common thing. It has driven off the road into headlights on its noble front, instead of two, and it has also scratched out one place in the company of a man with a 1909 model of the Rolls, of course.)

It's hard not to be pleased that the Rolls has succumbed to the popular desire for American-looking cars. But it's true—we saw a picture of one yesterday and the sight of those four headlights brought a lump to our throat. It was almost like seeing a Queen with her hair out of place.

Now we suppose it's just what we should have expected from a country which is getting it's own car with highly competitive Common Market.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Early last spring, I turned my car onto a gravel side road, and my eye was caught by a tiny creature running with remarkable speed across the road in front of my wheels. It was a large, slender plover, a comical and endearing miniature of its parent, a midget bird running on the first joint of my or your thumb. Ten yards farther on the road, the mother killdeer was popping about with piteous calls in the famous beckoning act of birddom. I waited the several seconds until the tiny creature, surely no more than a couple of days out of the egg (for they are operational from the moment of hatching) ran onto the shoulder and vanished in the grass.

Today, I was wondering where that baby killdeer is. It will be a full-grown killdeer long before it sees the sea at Montevideo, Brazil, Peru, The killdeers winter all the way from southern Illinois to South America.

When we think of life, not just no bigger than a thumb, the entire immense mystery, there are instances in the plant world that are as the miracle of life that stagger us with the furious force of life. The birch from felled by the axe, bleeding, to full grown adult, in a matter of weeks, offers an spectacular demonstration of life's bound less potence.

Blueprint for Survival To Counteract Fallout

ARTICLE 2

Know the Warning Signals and Have a Battery Powered Radio

Those centres of population most likely to be affected by fallout or possible attack are being provided with sirens. It is hoped that other areas will have warning systems based upon telephones, bells, and other types of instruments.

This is the reason you must know your municipal plan and from it develop a plan for yourself and family.

There are three types of warning: THE ALERT; TAKE COVER and ALL CLEAR.

THE ALERT — A steady note on the sirens for three minutes or more means:

- an attack is possible or radioactive fallout from an attack elsewhere is expected;
- turn on your radio; and while one member of your family listens for instructions, the others should proceed with household preparations.

TAKE COVER — A rising and falling note on the sirens for three minutes or more means:

- danger of immediate attack in your area;
- take cover immediately;
- if not already operating, turn on your radio.

(If there should not be time to sound the ALERT, the first signal may be the Take Cover); THE ALL CLEAR — Will be announced only on the radio and NOT by the sirens:

- announcement of the ALL CLEAR, unless stated, does NOT cancel the ALERT;
- the ALL CLEAR is given when your area is expected to be free from radioactive fallout or attack for more than an hour.

A battery-powered radio is essential because electricity may be cut off. If you are going to buy a new one, it should be checked for reception inside the shelter. It may need an outside aerial.

An emergency broadcasting plan has been worked out following the Alert, the advice and instructions you might hear over the radio might well include:

a. An authoritative message from the Prime Minister or another national leader, giving you information about as to take taking place on Canada or her Allies; later messages would describe the situation.

b. Information about the time available to put your family survival plan into action;

c. Advice as to whether you have time to leave town if you wish to do so;

d. Instructions about routes out of town;

e. Advice to those who do not live in likely target areas as to how they should protect themselves against fallout. While no one can say with certainty what the probable targets might be, the more likely ones in Canada might be Calgary, Edmonton, Halifax, Hamilton, London, Montreal, Niagara Falls, Ottawa, Quebec City, Saint John, N.B.; St. John's Nfld., Toronto, Vancouver, Victoria, Windsor, Winnipeg.

These cities and the areas immediately surrounding them are called target areas.

f. How to conserve food, water and fuel.

Following an attack, the advice and instructions you would get over the radio might include:

a. Whether nuclear explosions have taken place;

b. Information about the parts of the country which might be affected by radioactive fallout;

c. The length of time before fallout is likely to reach specific towns and areas;

d. Whether other attacks are expected; ways to increase your fallout protection:

e. Whether it is safer to stay in your home town or go to other areas;

f. People living in safe areas will be advised they are free of danger;

g. Instructions to those in fallout areas as to when they could leave their fallout shelters and for how long;

h. Requests for help in survival operations such as rescue, firefighting, stretcher bearers;

j. Importance of conserving your food, water and fuel;

k. How to keep warm if the power is off and the weather is cold.

You have been given the information necessary to judge why it is important to provide your family and yourself with a shelter. But what kind of shelter? This decision you must make yourself after studying the problem.

Study your shelter requirements in the same way that you would accident insurance. Decide upon the degree of protection you want for your family and yourself. Shelter is your insurance against something you hope will not happen, but if it does, will give you protection.

The fallout shelter is designed to give protection against radioactive fallout only. Because most people in Canada live outside of likely target areas and would likely not be affected by the blast and heat effects of nuclear explosions, protection against fallout is all that is required by them.

The type of shelter required depends on the distance from the explosion. And unfortunately it is not possible to know this in advance. That is why each individual must make his own decision when selecting the type of shelter he wishes to have.

You may have to stay in your shelter for as long as 14 days. The conditions will be uncomfortable especially for those who have not made adequate preparations. But the conditions will not be intolerable.

Blueprint for "Survival No. 1", gives details for a fallout shelter for the home in which you now live. If you rent this home the decision to construct a shelter must be taken jointly with your landlord. The cost will vary between $300 and $500.

Blueprint for "Survival No. 2", gives details of a fallout shelter for the new home you may be planning to build. The cost will be approximately $500.

These two pamphlets now are available for the shelter described in Blueprint for "Survival No. 1". Shelters constructed in the home built under the National Housing Act can be financed by an increase in the mortgage to a maximum amount available for this purpose is $500. Repaid over 25 years this results in a monthly payment of about $3.40.

The government will shortly issue pamphlets on backyard fallout shelters, group shelters and public shelters. In addition is being made available to the people of Canada, they will be made available to public libraries.

IMPROVISED PROTECTION AGAINST FALLOUT:

Those who do not have a fallout shelter when a warning of fallout is given. Here are some tips that will provide some protection in a basement. The amount of protection you will get will depend upon how much time you have available from the time you get the warning until the fallout arrives.

A. Block your basement windows with earth, bricks, concrete blocks, sand or even bundles of newspapers. On the side of the house the corner of the basement you select as your refuge area, pile any heavy objects that may be available.

For example, bricks, trunks filled with clothes, books, and anything else you may have around the house (or neighbour's house (centre hall or clothes closet) which will keep you the greatest distance from the fallout dust accumulating on the roof and ground.

If there is time, you could increase your protection by piling boxes, trunks, furniture, bedding and as high as you can. Don't forget the battery radio.

Those not in the planned measures is as good as a properly equipped shelter but any single one of them could mean the difference between life and death.

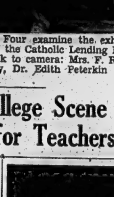
Nicholson College Scene Of Meeting for Teachers

The annual Fall meeting of the teachers of S.S. No. 4, district four, was held in Nicholson Catholic College, Belleville on Wednesday evening. Reverend Sister Mary Teresa, Principal, Catholic College, welcomed the teachers and expressed the wish that many personal benefits would accrue from the discussions and the deliberations of the evenings agenda.

The president, Sister Mary Fleurette, introduced the convention theme — ways and means of improving the teaching of religious doctrine. In her comments upon the importance of this theme Sister remarked: "We are devoting a great deal of attention on how to fit our minds into God's outer space — when we should be devoting more attention on how to fit God into man's inner space".



Further emphasis on the importance of the subject came from a recent article in the French communist publication, "Peace and Liberty": "The Christian Gospel is a much more powerful weapon for the renovation of society than our Marxist view; yet it is we communists who will win because we are ready to sacrifice everything, even our lives, so that we may triumph — but you, you Christians are afraid of soiling your hands".

Because of an appeal for text books for African schools, made recently by Rev. J. Conway, O.M.I., past president of O.E.C.T.A., and of O.T.F., the teachers were encouraged to clear their shelves of outmoded texts, to parcel same in eleven pound packages, and through the O.T.F. office, to forward these to needy schools in Africa.

Mr. E. J. Neville, Inspector of Separate Schools, emphasized the need and importance of improved techniques in the teaching of religion and encourage the teachers to revitalize their methods.

Sister Mary Clarissa, Miss Theo Taggart and Sister Mary Joan conducted the three discussion groups; reports were later submitted to the general meeting by Sister Mary Andrew, Miss Patricia Pigden and Mr. Brian Price.

Mr. Francis Evans, past president of district four, introduced the guest speaker, Rev. W. J. Downey, principal, Cathedral School, Kingston. In his address Father Downey stated that scientific methods cannot be applied to moral problems. Father then proceeded to explain the "Charigmatic Approach" and stressed that this technique was the most satisfactory in imparting religious doctrine.

REV. W. J. DOWNEY, B.A., Principal, Cathedral School, Kingston, addressed the teachers of the Ontario English Catholic Teachers' Association, District Four, at their annual fall meeting, in Nicholson Catholic College.

SPECIAL TRIBUTE PAID

A special tribute was tendered to Doctor Edith Peterkin, foundress of the Catholic lending Library, who organized an excellent display of books and catechetical aids to supplement the exhibit collected from various schools. Doctor Peterkin was assisted by two other dedicated Library staff members, Mrs. Godfrey Donoghue and Miss Mary Jane McNally.

The meeting terminated, refreshments were served in the College cafeteria.

Former Model Now in Custody At Ogdensburg

CANTON, N.Y. (CP) — State police at Ogdensburg Friday arrested Mrs. Dolores A. Clow, 37 - year - old former model wanted in the suspected embezzlement of an estimated $400,000 from a garage at Brockville, Ont.

Mrs. Clow was arraigned on charge of being a fugitive from justice.

Brockville police have charged her with theft and she could be extradited on this charge if she does not return to Canada voluntarily.

Brockville Police Chief W. F. Young and another officer were expected at Ogdensburg to interview her.

State police said Mrs. Clow entered the United States Oct. 16 at Ogdensburg, on the south shore of the St. Lawrence River from the Brockville. They said she then travelled to Newburgh in the southwestern corner of the state and showed up Friday night in Canton, near Ogdensburg.

Auditors have established that at least $228,000 is missing from Billings Motors Limited in Brockville, and officials say there is every indication the total will exceed the $400,000 estimate.

Mrs. Clow was in charge of the firm's accounts for the last eight years.

E. Murray Billing, head of the firm, said he will carry on the business and has been promised support from business interests in Brockville and the firm's 40 employees.

Billings Motors is the third largest General Motors agency in Canada with annual sales of $4,000,000.

Mrs. Clow's husband, William, and their daughter, Jordan, 4, live in Prescott, near Brockville.

Emergency Measures Will Hold Lecture Series in Quinte Area

In response to popular demand, the new Emergency Measures Organization will sponsor a series of lectures in the Quinte District on personal survival, Lt. Col. Angus Duffy, QEMO co-ordinator announced yesterday.

The lectures will include a panel of experts, each speaking on his own specialty. Subjects will include the choice of shelter, in case of emergency, the shielding requirements for safety from fallout, and food provision. Col. Duffy will speak on the welfare and organization problems expected, and how they will be met.

The first of the lectures, at 8.30 p.m. tomorrow, will be held in the Stirling Community Hall. Other lectures, all at 8.00 p.m., will be presented Tuesday in the Trenton High School, Thursday in Bellville Council Chambers, in the city hall, Monday, Nov. 5 in Queen Elizabeth School, in Picton and Tuesday, Nov. 13 in the Council Chambers at Tweed.

Russians Said Hurrying Work On Launch Bases

K's Agree to Avoid Showdown on Atlantic

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kennedy administration appeared today to be preparing the ground for possible bombing or invasion of Cuba unless it starts dismantling its Russian-made missiles and their bases soon.

A White House statement indicated time may be short before the United States makes a decision on how far to go in neutralizing the missile threat.

It said Friday that aerial reconnaissance had shown that as late as Thursday Russian technicians were hurrying work on launch sites, 1,200-mile mobile missiles and 2,500-mile intermediate range rockets.

"The activity at these sites apparently is directed at achieving a full operational capability as soon as possible," the White House said.

The navy apparently had the blockade well under way and President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev agreed separately to avoid an immediate showdown at sea while diplomatic efforts are made to find a peaceful solution.

Attention has been centred on the blockade, which so far has worked in preventing further flow into Cuba of more missiles, bombers and other weapons the Kennedy administration considers offensive.

HAS OTHER OBJECTIVE

But looming in the background has been the other prong of Kennedy's objective—to clinch the eventual withdrawal of the offensive weapons already on the island.

Twelve days a week, Defence Secretary McNamara directed attention to Kennedy's broadcast statement Monday that:

"Should these offensive military preparations continue, thus increasing the threat to the Western hemisphere, further action will be justified.

"I have directed the armed forces to prepare for any eventualities; and I trust that, in the interest of both the Cuban people and the Soviet technicians at these sites, the hazards to all concerned of continuing this threat will be recognized."

State department spokesman Lincoln White Friday called attention to the same portion of Kennedy's statement.

Tweed Wins Volleyball Tournament

The volleyball double elimination meets held Thursday night featured teams from Madoc, Campbellford, Tweed, Norwood, Trenton, Picton, B.C.I., Albert College, Napanee, O.S.S.D. Picton played 5 games, losing the first to Trenton 21-14, then the second game to Campbellford 21-8, and finally being eliminated by Tweed 21-8.

POSTPONES VISIT

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has postponed until next year his planned visit Nov. 12 to Brazil because of the Cuban crisis. It was announced Friday.

Creighton Lockyer Honored With Service Diploma

PICTON—A service diploma, in recognition of his service to agriculture and to his community, was presented to Creighton Lockyer when directors and guests attended a turkey dinner at Cherry Valley. The prized diploma is provided by the Ontario Department of Agriculture through the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies.

The director of the Ontario A.S. Association Class (A) and Class (B), Phil Dodds, made the presentation. He referred to Mr. Lockyer's years of service to the County Fair at Picton, as an immediate Past President of Prince Edward Agricultural Society and also of its most active workers.

In the field of sport, he is president of Picton Athletic Association; one of those instrumental in making the floodlighted softball diamond possible, and a promoter of the softball league; a member of the badminton club.

When the Agricultural and Recreation Centre was built, Mr. Lockyer was a member of the committee, has since given the project active support and served on the Centre Commission.

In the field of music, he is especially well known as bandmaster of the Odd Fellows band and as teacher of new members. Active in the United Church, he is also a member of the choir.

"Mr. Lockyer lends his support to every good cause and our Society feels that this honor is being bestowed on a most worthy recipient," said Mr. Dodds.

Society President George Atkinson endorsed the sentiments expressed and presented the framed certificate.

In expressing appreciation, Mr. Lockyer said it was a pleasure to participate in community activities and the honor would be shared by members of his family who had made it possible and given him assistance.

"THEY WERE SO APPRECIATED, CANADA"

"The quality of mercy is not strained; it drippeth as the gentle rain from heaven upon the place beneath: It is twice blessed; it blesseth him that gives and him that takes."—William Shakespeare, in The Merchant of Venice.

"Many Canadians often wonder about the destination of the Red Cross parcels sent over seas during World War II. I, for one, as a former Red Cross worker in France during that time, would like to assure the people of Canada, that the Red Cross parcels not only reached the people in need, safely, but they were, oh, most gratefully received."

So spoke Mrs. Laura Frost, now living in Denver, Colorado, who for the first time in 25 years, was the guest this week of her sister and brother-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Yates, 260 North Park Street, of this city.

The sisters are members of a Jersey Island (of the Channel Islands) family of ten brothers and sisters. "We are of Breton parentage," explained Mrs. Yates. "I married and came to Canada in 1920."

"Whereas, I married, and lived in England," continued her sister, Mrs. Frost. "But I happened to be visiting my mother in Jersey when World War II broke out. I returned to my home in England, without my mother who refused to leave her Jersey home, and took my small son to the Midlands, and did some work while there with the Women's Voluntary Service.

"Since I spoke French rather fluently, however, I felt I might be of more service as a member of the voluntary Free French Red Cross Corp formed in England, which I joined. It consisted of 130 women, who were either French or were married to Frenchmen. In fact, were so-called "working girls." All others were women of vast and great wealth. Many had beautiful villas in the south of France that were destroyed during the war. One woman, gave our corps all the Red Cross trucks. These women gave thousands and thousands of francs. They worked hard, observed strict rules, and I consider it an honour to have been one with them.

"As D-Day approached, with our papers all in order, signed by General Eisenhower, we were only two of us who were warned that it might be difficult to return ever again to England, and then suddenly attached to the British Red Cross. We were first placed in a camp near Southampton, where we were fed by the Americans, our barracks cleaned and attended to by Italian Soldiers who were prisoners-of-war.

"After three unsuccessful attempts to land us in France from an Australian ship, we were transported to a small coal ship (what a come-down!) which was able to slip in close to shore, and to this day, I'm not certain of the exact place where we did land. We were driven in the dead of night in trucks along roads that had to be constantly tested for buried mines. We spent the first night in a beautiful old chateau completely shattered and stripped of its ornate decor, where four clever mice deprived us of the only condensed cream we had by dipping their tails in the two holes punched in the tin, and licking them. (One has to remember these little things!)

"Our job now, as free Land Red Cross workers was to go into the villages assigned us, and in a nice way, discreetly, thank you."

Fire Dept. Sponsors Annual Dance

DESERONTO — The highly anticipated dashes of the year, in Deseronto was held last Friday night in the Lions Hall when the local Fire Department were hosts to a large number of their friends at the annual Firemen's Ball. Despite a number of counter attractions in the town and vicinity an excellent crowd was on hand to enjoy the music of the Quinte Quintets of Belleville.

The hall was tastefully decorated with various colored branches of maple trees and with the colored lights was a perfect setting for a successful social event. Tables were arranged about the floor and the general atmosphere was one to lead to good comradeship, friendliness and a memory to retain until the next annual ball when the firemen will be hard put to improve on this year's event.

During the evening a number of prizes were given under the chairman, P. F. Knight, with Mrs. Robert Brant winning the door prize, and Mrs. Howard Reid and Mrs. Glen Goodfellow receiving spot prizes. The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion were in charge of the canteen and sold sandwiches and coffee.

The chairman for the evening was fireman Don Kingsmett and all members of the Department were on the committee.

Mrs. W. C. — I think she keeps stuffing herself, to torment us.

Norma C. — I'm perfectly happy to be fat. Why do they nag me?

• • •

Mrs. W. C. — Norma is 19, 5 feet, 1, and weighs 170 pounds at last count. You must try to help her reduce, the years she can. Does she think I'm playing games with her? Does she think I keep preparing low-cal radish roses and carrot curls for her just for fun? She eats them, yes, and then behind my back smuggles a whole jar of peanut butter or a quart of ice cream up to her room.

I watch my figure and count calories. So does Norma's sister, Fay, who's only 15 but already trim and neat. I don't know how Norma expects to get a job looking so heavy. She will college to take a business course, but each week she's developing new bulges. It breaks my heart to look at her. And she could be a real beauty!

Norma C. — I feel fine. I'm full of pep. I enjoy life. Yet my family isn't satisfied. They think my overweight is a disease.

If they're ashamed to be seen with me, I'm not forcing them to accompany me anywhere. My girl friends don't object to my appearance. In fact, one of them is even heavier than I am. We just don't discuss such matters. It's a personal thing. Instead we read a lot, go to the movies, sit in the park and spin lots of laughs together because we're lighthearted. We don't mope over a little thing like a big waistline.

I'm not out to be Miss America or one of those fashion models who starve until they look like skeletons with skins. So why can't I be myself — fat, happy Norma?

The Council — Oh, Norma, haven't you heard? Walking around fat, these days, is almost a sin. Fat people don't have problems. You're not happy, you're not gay, you're not jolly. You're just kidding yourself and trying to kid others. That's the way the majority view it in this Age of Anxiety.

Of course, everyone has problems and everyone hides behind them differently. Some get dead drunk so they see pink elephants instead of troubles. Some get doped up so that they can sleep away burdensome days. Some find security through cigarettes, tranquilizers. A few try hypnosis, — or a trip around the world. And you, Norma, seduce yourself with food.

As with most of these recourses, the problems persist. The palliatives offer temporary respite and escape, but always in the old worries are there in the wings waiting to be dealt with squarely. So, after eating all the peanut butter and maple parfaits, Norma, you'll still have to come to grips with what's eating you. It starts toward your parents. Is it inconsistencies about competing people

Many lovely gifts were received. During the evening lunch was served, and many pictures taken as memories of the event.

Centre Street UCW Holds Tea, Bazaar

On the evening of October 17th the Centre Street U.C.W. held a candlelight tea and bazaar in the church room. The weather was perfect for the occasion and the event proved a most successful one. The lovely autumn flowers around the room formed a perfect motif for the season.

Mrs. Hudgins officially opened the bazaar by welcoming the ladies, and expressed the hope that they would enjoy themselves, and also thanked them for attending, as the workers would appreciate it because of the time and effort they had spent in making it attractive.

POINT OF INTEREST

The large tea table was a point of interest with its white linen cloth, centred by a mound of evergreen sprays and pine cones flanked by apples, pears, grapes, and flowers matching the overall decor. At each end there were silver candelabra holding brown and gold tapers.

Amid the many small tea tables, with their luncheon cloths was carried out by star-shaped candle holders with white candles, and small flowers in autumn tints. Even the little serviettes accented the color scheme.

Those who presided were the following: Mrs. Boyd; Mrs. Bailey; Mrs. Empson; Mrs. Veasey and Mrs. Vitler.

Those who served included Mrs. Hughes; Mrs. D. Shammerhorn; Miss S. Hudgins, Miss L. Hawley and Mrs. F. Shammerhorn, were in charge of the tea service.

REPLENISHING

Replenishing plates and looking after the kitchen, were, Mrs. R. Carmichi, Mrs. Marks, Mrs. Lichfold, Mrs. Wood had charge of the taking of the tickets at the door.

The various booths were most attractive, and included the candy table, with many varieties of candy. This was convened by Mrs. Collins.

The touch and take, under the convenership of Mrs. Vanderwater soon was sold out, and the sewing table was a 'mecca' for the shoppers with its great assortment of dainty articles. Mrs. Longhurst and Mrs. Hawley were the convenors.

DELICIOUS HOMEBAKING

The homebaking table was heavily laden with all kinds of delicious pies and cookies, and cakes, was convened by Mrs. Ferguson and Mrs. Priddy.

The convenors for the bazaar were Mrs. Longhurst and Mrs. F. Stapley, to whom thanks and appreciation are extended and also to all who helped to make this candlelight tea and bazaar such a delightful event.

Belleville "All-round Guides" receive all-round cord certificates: Cathy Cook, left, and Holly McMurray, both of Company 3, and Lynne Neill of Company 1 were honored at the Quinte Area annual banquet held in Trenton on Wednesday where the Provincial International Commissioner, Miss K. Anson made the presentation.

200 Commissioners, Guiders, Attend 3rd Quinte Dinner

Two hundred Guides, Guiders, Commissioners and guests attended the 3rd annual dinner of the Quinte Area Girl Guides held at the Canadian Legion Hall in Trenton, on Wednesday evening. The theme, an international one, was accentuated with the Guide colors of blue and gold in flowers, place cards, candles, small travel posters; cleverly contrived models of the Chalet in Switzerland; an igloo; a model of the new Guide headquarters in Toronto; the Eiffel Tower, and other well-known landmarks.

HEAD TABLE GUESTS

Mrs. M. Hall, Quinte Area Commissioner, presided. With her at the head table were: Miss K. Anson, Provincial International Commissioner; councillor E. Todd of Trenton; the Rev. R. Reid; Mrs. D. G. Diamanides; Mrs. W. D. McArthur of the Ontario Council; Mrs. Major B. B. Acton, of the Salvation Army; Mrs. Wright, president of the ladies' auxiliary Branch 110 of the Canadian Legion; Mrs. R. D. Arndt, area international commissioner; Miss Eva Baker, area camp adviser; Mrs. E. D. Standish, area chairman of training; Miss Stewart, Ontario Commissioner for Belleville; Mrs. Whalen of Peterborough, and Mrs. Thompson of Bridgenorth.

Councillor E. Todd extended to the gathering a welcome on behalf of the Mayor and council of Trenton, and expressed his appreciation of Guiding.

Mrs. Gordon Watkin, of Belleville, spoke briefly of her trip with Ontario Guides to Britain this past summer, and in doing so, sketched a vivid picture of the impressions left with those Guides and Guiders fortunate enough to be chosen to represent Canada in other countries.

Mrs. Watkin spoke of the pleasure her group were afforded in being greeted abroad by Guides of the Guide and Scout Movement, who recognized their uniforms; of the unusual experienced in time spent in Edinburgh with Welsh Guides, who repeated the Guide prayer in their own language as the Canadian girls said the same words in English; of the two Pakistani Guides looking so beautiful and feminine in their long saris, with the surprising addition of long bunting knives worn behind. The chance meeting with another group of Canadian Guides in Picadilly Circus, the unbelievably shiny English Guide pins, and the friendly warmth of the English people, and of other tourists, all added to the, unforgettable experiences.

Sheryl Drysdale, of Belleville, spoke next, highlighting the historic places the group visited, and the mysteries of expressions new to the Canadian girls as they travelled in England in a world of wireless and telly of queuing up for ices and underground, of maes and woollies and brollies, and left luggage.

Donna Chase of Trenton talked about the experience of Youth Hostelling, and displayed the ample rucksack she carried throughout the five week trip. Sh spoke of the sharing of both work and fellowship which was enjoyed at the various hostels where young people of all nations are made to feel at home regardless of nationality race or creed.

Between the talks and at intervals during the evening, Miss Eva Baker led the dinner guests in a sing-song.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. R. D. Arndt introduced the guest speaker, Miss K. Anson, Provincial International Commissioner, a Diploma'd Trainer, and a Guide Captain of many years' standing.

Miss Anson spoke of the contribution Guiding can make to the peace of the world. She commented that the world held an overwhelming majority of good people, who, because of their kind minority, lived on the edge of a precipice. She reminded Guiders that they must think widely and clearly as to what contribution Guiding can make to the world, and that they must be certain of their own beliefs, and the expression of these beliefs in their own lives.

MOVE WITH TIMES

The Guide program must move with the times. It must make sense to the girl, and be alive for them. They must know the uses to which their Guide training can be put. The use of the Patrol System lachsic to Guiding, and above all, the movement must have a firm foundation on the Promise and Law.

Miss Anson said that the unique aspects of the program should be stressed, and the international outlook brought into every phase of Guiding. The opportunities for travel can come to only a few Guides, but all can be encouraged in a wider international outlook. The first on a good national knowledge in its broadest sense.

101 FROM ONTARIO

One hundred and one Guide people from Ontario travelled to all parts of the country in the past year as such, and a further hundred travelling privately carried Guide letters of introduction. From these ambassadors a first-hand knowledge and understanding of other people and their ways of life is available to the Guides who should make use of it.

Finally Miss Anson suggested that real leadership consists of the ability to inspire; a readiness to listen to the opinions of others; the possession of a sense of humor; and the ability to remain calm and serene; and, to this end, she suggested the optimistic outlook — the difficult in Guiding can be done at once — the impossible takes a little longer.

CERTIFICATES

PRESENTED

For the 20 All Round Cord Guides present the highlight of the evening was the presentation of the cord certificates, which concluded the program. The Guides received their certificates from Miss Anson, and the handshake and friendly greeting from this inspiring Guider made for each girl an event in her Guide life to be long remembered. The All-Round Cord is presented to First Class Guides, who have made further progress or achieve at least one badge additional to the Guide signposts of Intelligence, Handicraft, Health and Service.

The Guides receiving certificates were as follows:

Cathie Cook, Holly McMurray and Lynne Neill of Belleville; Linda Lou Parkin of Marmora; Elva Marshall of Tweed; Sharon Watkins of Bridgenorth; Barbara Jane Bell and Sandra Leach of Deseronto; Anne Blachford of Trenton; Beverley Bowen, Sally Adams, Sandra Davis, Barbara Nichol, Barbara Westington, Sharon Reiter of Peterborough; Donna Robinson, Diane Vandusen, Judy Dawe, Susan Argue and Eileen Wright of Picton.

ABSENT GUIDES

Absent were: Judith Marie Calnan and Della Mae Emery of Havelock, and Barbara Lynch, formerly of Trenton, now of Greenwood, N.S., and Lynn Hallam, formerly of Picton, now in Germany.

Argyll Chapter Sponsors 51 Annual Dinner

On October 24th, at 7 p.m. the Argyll Chapter IODE was hostess for the 5th annual district dinner held at Tabernacle United Church. Approximately 118 members from Belleville, Campbellford, Picton, Napanee and Stirling Chapters attended. The standard bearers led the procession with the Union Jack and "O Canada" was sung.

Grace was said by Mrs. A. S. McConnell and dinner served.

Mrs. A. W. Cunningham, Regent, Argyll Chapter, gave the toast to the Queen and welcomed everyone present and introduced the special guests at the head table: Mrs. O. Patterson, Regent, St. Julien Chapter, Belleville; Mrs. Benor, Provincial counsellor, Campbellford; Mrs. E. Smith, Regent, Argyll Chapter; Mrs. W. R. Morrison, Hamilton; Mrs. A. S. McConnell, Mrs. Bruce Campbellford; Mrs. Norval, Picton; Mrs. Glendenning, Stirling; Mrs. Davis, Napanee, and Mrs. Anguilly, past regent, Argyll Chapter.

A sing-song was introduced, led by Mrs. L. Digby, with Mrs. Parrott at the piano.

The guest speaker for the evening was Miss Dongola Zaitoratos, who played a Chopin valse. Mrs. Bernice Parrott and Miss Zaitoris then favored with a duet.

Mrs. E. Smith introduced the speaker for the evening, Mrs. W. R. Morrison, provincial president, from Hamilton.

Highlight of Mrs. Morrison's address was up to date information concerning IODE across Canada, especially Ontario, and particular emphasis on education services at home and abroad.

An interesting question and answer period followed.

Mrs. A. Duffy thanked the speaker.

High Spirits, Music and Beer Prevail At Famed Oktoberfest

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

Munich, Germany — The roar of the thousands is like that at a football game, except that it doesn't ebb and flow with the action. Somehow, the glockenspiel and the fluegelhorns and other brass from the pavilion in the centre of the vast, brightly lit tent make themselves heard over the pandemonium.

They are playing a spirited version of Lili Marlene—everything a German band plays is spirited — and we sense now once we might have thought it would be a cold night in Munich when Americans would drink beer here while listening to a German band play Lili Marlene.

But it is a warm October night and even warmer in the crush of bodies around the scrubbed wood tables. The number is finished. The leader, resplendent in lederhosen, tips his Bavarian hat with its huge feather and bows solemnly to the boys. The boys bow back. Then he bows solemnly to the audience, turns, and gives the downbeat of his spirited version of Stars and Stripes Forever. The representation of Americans in the ball climbs on the tables to stomp and cheer wildly.

Pink-cheeked waitresses scurry through the bedlam unheeding heaping trays of barbecued chicken and pigs' knuckles with sauerkraut. Some struggle to get around with litre-sized beer mugs which the inexperienced scarcely can lift even at a time, let alone in tandem. It is not the insipid "light, dry" beer we have had. We have had foisted upon us back home but heavy, sweet, dark and soft. The taste is not to all and all foamy and happy after a deep and satisfying quaff.

TOAST TO CHEER

Now is the occasion for one. A half-tipsy celebrant climbs into the pavilion. The leader hands him a baton in case he'd like steps on a beer barrel podium and "O Canada" was sung.

Grace was said by Mrs. A. S. McConnell and dinner served.

Mrs. A. W. Cunningham, Regent, Argyll Chapter, gave the toast to the Queen and welcomed everyone present and introduced the special guests at the head table: Mrs. O. Patterson, Regent, St. Julien Chapter, Belleville; Mrs. Benor, Provincial counsellor, Campbellford; Mrs. E. Smith, Regent, Argyll Chapter; Mrs. W. R. Morrison, Hamilton; Mrs. A. S. McConnell, Mrs. Bruce Campbellford; Mrs. Norval, Picton; Mrs. Glendenning, Stirling; Mrs. Davis, Napanee, and Mrs. Anguilly, past regent, Argyll Chapter.

A sing-song was introduced, led by Mrs. L. Digby, with Mrs. Parrott at the piano.

The guest speaker for the evening was Miss Dongola Zaitoratos, who played a Chopin valse. Mrs. Bernice Parrott and Miss Zaitoris then favored with a duet.

Mrs. E. Smith introduced the speaker for the evening, Mrs. W. R. Morrison, provincial president, from Hamilton.

Highlight of Mrs. Morrison's address was up to date information concerning IODE across Canada, especially Ontario, and particular emphasis on education services at home and abroad.

An interesting question and answer period followed.

Mrs. A. Duffy thanked the speaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Albert Griggs are shown signing the register in Bethel Chapel, Belleville, following their recent marriage. The bride is the former Miss Alma Margaret Latchford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orick Latchford of Belleville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Griggs, also of Belleville.

"V"-shaped neckline and long, sheath-like, lily-point sleeves. She wore a rose crown with bouffant-length veil of silk illusion tulle, and carried a cascade of yellow roses.

Her matron of honor, Mrs. R. Easton, of Bancroft, was gowned in moss green velveteen with princess lines, with matching headband, beige gloves and shoes. Miss C. Best, also of Bancroft, and Miss C. Grant of Port Credit, niece of the bride, were bridesmaids, attired in gold velveteen gowns with matching headbands, brown shoes and gloves. All carried bouquets of bronze chrysanthemums.

Little Miss Sandra Vardy of Stirling, niece of the bridegroom, was flowergirl, sweet in her mom-grass frock of velveteen with matching headpiece, white shoes and gloves, and carrying a basket of bronze mums.

Mr. Leonard Malloy, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. William O. Latchford of Peterborough, brother of the bride, ushered the guests.

The reception was held in Bethel Church Parlor where the bride's table was adorned with yellow and bronze mums.

The bride's mother, wearing a green-flowered silk with jacket and matching accessories, and white gardenia corsage, received the guests, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was attired in a cerise-colored suit with black accessories, and white gardenia corsage.

For the wedding trip to Northern Ontario, Sault Ste. Marie, and Michigan, the bride chose a blue brocade sheath gown with jacket, pale blue accessories, and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

Guests attended from Belleville, Thomasburg, Corbyville, Trenton, Bancroft, Carnahy, Arkona, Toronto, Stirling, Peterborough.

The bride, previous to her marriage, was entertained at a kitchen shower given by Mrs. Marilyn Malloy; at a miscellaneous shower given by the Bethel Chapel assembly; at another miscellaneous shower given by the staff of the Ontario School for the Deaf, and at a presentation by the office staff of the O.S.D.

Mr. and Mrs. Griggs are residing at 105 Bridge Street West, Belleville.

Weddings

GRIGGS — LATCHFORD

Tall standards of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums, interspersed with white gladioli blooms, formed a lovely autumn setting in Bethel Chapel, Belleville, on Saturday, October 6, at 2.30 p.m., when Alma Margaret Latchford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orick Latchford, of Belleville, became the bride of Harold Albert Griggs, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Griggs. Mr. Ernest Belch of Arkona, Ont., officiated at the ceremony.

The wedding music included the hymns, "The Wedding Prayer," before the ceremony, and "We Are the Lord's" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her bridal gown of lily-of-the-valley satin brocade fashioned in princess style in full-length, having a fitted bodice with

Curator of Museum of Magic, Witchcraft Says Witches Peaceful, Religious People

By ALAN WALKER

LONDON (CP)—Witches ride brooms on Hallowe'en.

"No witch ever flew through the air on a broomstick or on anything else," says Gerald Gardner, 78-year-old curator of the Museum of Magic and Witchcraft on the Isle of Man, who rebels against the "hocus-pocus, bell, book and candle" approach to witchcraft.

"Witches are peaceful, religious people. The Christian church has blackened our reputation for centuries. We do not practise black magic. We do not kill unbaptised children. We do not communicate with Satan."

The only contact non-witches have with the "white" or beneficial magic practised in "covens" throughout Britain is Gardner, whose necromantic beliefs have earned him the reputation of madman among many Britons.

Nevertheless, he sufficiently persuaded, he will speak for members of about 100 covens, or groups of witches, known to be in Britain.

"If I tell you anything, I'll get us into trouble," was his first reaction.

"For example, a witch recently helped a farmer by working the weather in his favor. Immediately he was accused of getting witches to send all the bad weather to his neighbors. He is blamed now for everything that goes wrong and the neighbors say they will drive him out of the district, all because some witches gave him a little dry weather."

BELIEVE IN REBIRTH

Witches, whether male or female — Gardner says the terms "wizard" and "warlock" usually applied to make witches are incorrect—believe in rebirth after death.

"The cult god is thought of as the god of the next world, or of death and resurrection, or of reincarnation, the comforter, the consoler," he said. "After life, you go gladly to his realms for rest and refreshment, becoming young and strong, waiting for the time to be reborn on earth again, and you pray to him to send back the spirits of your beloved dead to rejoice with you at your festivals."

Witches also believe in thought transference. They believe they can recognize each other instantly, on the street, without speaking, or even from a photograph.

"I think there is something in the nature of an electromagnetic force field surrounding all living bodies. Witches can sometimes see this. I can myself, but only on bare flesh."

Many witch rituals involve stripping naked before ceremonial dancing, to allow the "force beam" to move about freely.

Shortly after the fall of France during the Second World War, hundreds of witches gathered on the coast of England and "projected a great cone of power" towards Hitler and the German high command, which, Gardner says, prevented the invasion of Britain. He says the invasions by the Spanish Armada and Napoleon were similarly stopped.

INCENSE HELPS SOME

The great power of the human mind can best be released by dancing nebwud in a circle while singing and shouting, to produce a "frenzy." Incense also helps.

"I have known people to behave rather queerly after incense has been burned in a confined space," Gardner said, "although it has never had any effect on me."

The "frenzy" brings about what Gardner calls "a shifting of the centres of consciousness or a taking one out of oneself" putting him "into communion with the god."

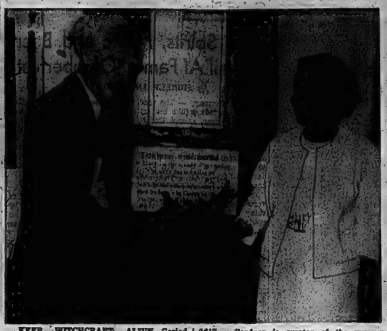
The witch's piercing eyes peered out from beneath his long, white hair and darted back and forth while he discussed methods of becoming a witch.

"Witchcraft is inherited in the sense that if you are of a witch family you are initiated as a child. This used to be done when the child was nine or 10. But now, as schoolchildren talk too much, it is not done until they are older."

Gardner's museum in Castletown is dedicated to Margrate ine Quane and her young son who were "burned alive for witchcraft" in 1617, says the plaque near the museum site. Also commemorated are "9,000,000 unfortunates who died by torture in Europe on the same charge, most of them being burned alive."

The museum contains a replica of a witch's cottage with ritual altar, incense burners, wands, an aspergillum for sprinkling "holy" water and a fat ceremonial book.

The average man can benefit little from witchcraft.



"Unless you have an attraction towards the occult, a sense of wonder, a feeling that you can slip for a few minutes out of this world into the other world of faerie, it is of no use to you. By it you can obtain peace, the soothing of jangled nerves, but to obtain the more fundamental effects you must attempt to develop an occult power you already have."

And witches don't want converts.

"Converts mean talk. Talk means bother and semi-persecution."

The traditional figure of the witch flying through the black October sky on a broomstick?

"There is a fertility charm which is performed by riding on a pole, or broom, as a hobby-horse," Gardner said. "Doubtless ancient witches practised this rite, leaping high to make the crops grow."

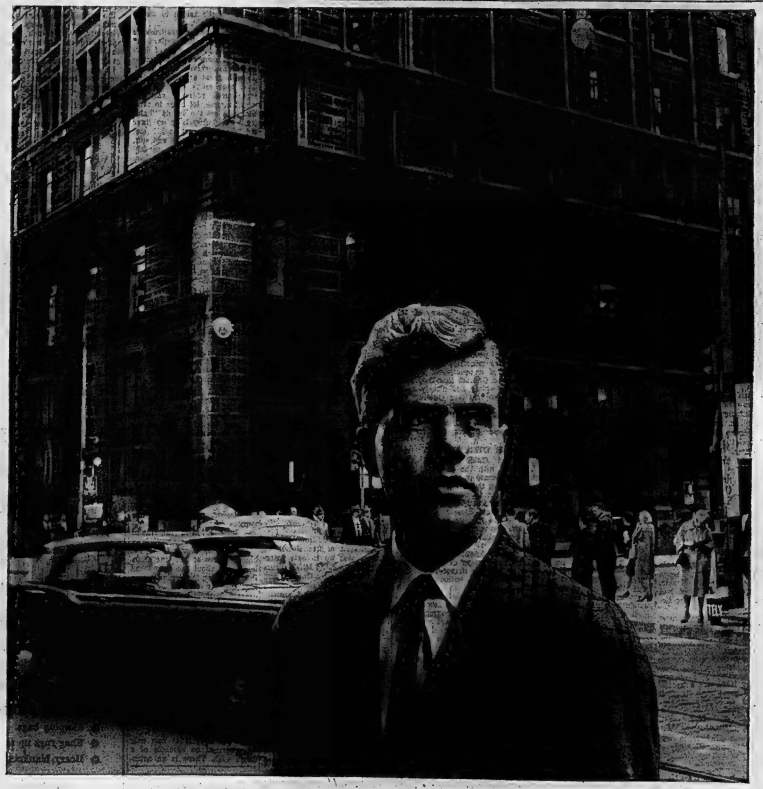
KEEP WITCHCRAFT ALIVE—Gerlad Gardner, self-styled 78-year-old witch, stands by memorial in the Museum of Magic and Witchcraft at Castletown, Isle of Man, dedicated to Margrate ine Quane and her young son who were burned alive for witchcraft in 1617. Gardner is curator of the museum which also commemorates 9,000,000 others who died by torture in Europe on the same charge. The unidentified woman, who says she is also a witch, holds her athame or witch's knife. —(CP Photo).

K.C. Council Entertains at Turkey Dinner

TWEED — Tweed Council, Knights of Columbus, entertained their wives to a turkey dinner on Sunday evening last at Cedar Bend Lodge, Erinsville, with over 100 in attendance. A social evening, at which cards, games, draws and a Chinese auction were enjoyed following the delicious meal.

Grand Knight John Burns welcomed the ladies and other guests, while Past Grand Knight Jim R. Kelly acted as master of ceremonies.

During his remarks he noted that the Tweed Council was marking its tenth birthday.



The Tweed Council now includes members from Stoco, Erinsville, Madoc, Marmora, and other parishes, bringing the total membership to over 200, which is continually increasing.

Age 18, Occupation...?

This young man is one of the 60,000 men and women who will come onto the labour force of Ontario during the next year. He'll be looking for his first job and we can help him. In fact, there's a way we can help make 60,000 new jobs available!

What can we do? We Canadians buy imported manufactured goods at the rate of $235 per person per year. If each of us diverted $100 of this to the purchase of Canadian-made goods, we would help create 60,000 new jobs in Ontario.

Even by cutting down on our imports by $100 per person, we would still remain one of the world's greatest importers. The truth is that we've been on an import spree! Look at these figures: In Canada we import an average of $235 of manufactured goods per person each year. West Germany imports an average of $60 per person. Great Britain, $75 per person! And the United States just $30 per person!

Ours is a critical situation that, if allowed to continue, could seriously endanger our economy and our jobs.

Many consumers are not conscious of the facts. Once these become clear we will all have a better opportunity to do something about it.

Vigilance in our day-to-day purchases—in categories such as frozen foods, canned goods, drugs and cosmetics, clothing, furniture and furnishings, appliances, automobiles and many others—can help each one of us attain the $100 goal.

60,000 new jobs are needed; you can help every time you spend a dollar.

A Lift for Living

Power of Science Is Minor Compared to Power of Spirit

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

May I put a very personal question to you? As you sit in your homes at this minute, of which are you the most conscious, your power or your weakness?

Here in this great strong land of ours we are pretty much still masters of our environment. We have that sense of power, which freedom and security give.

Some of us have the power which money gives, but in our world of uncertain futures, are we quite sure what constitutes financial strength and security? Many of us, perhaps most, are possessed of physical health and that gives a sense of strength; but within these healthy bodies may be anxieties or desires or passions which we seem less to control. It is possible that some of us may be saying what Saint Paul once said: "The good that I would, I do not; and the evil that I would not, that I do." Which do we feel ourselves to be, strong or weak?

When we consider our modern machines, we have a thrilling sense of the power we have developed. We have harnessed the lightning, the rivers, the other waves. We can fly hundreds of miles an hour to the deathbed of a loved one, but that speeding plane has no power to heal the anguish of our hearts. In fact, the world is turning our mighty machines into engines of destruction which make men feel as helpless as flies.

ADDED TO MAN'S DOMAIN

We are fulfilling the Biblical promise of the Creator that man should have dominion over the earth. And we have pretty well added the sea and the air to man's domain. But with all our mastery of the movable factors around us, we are improving our self mastery when we confront the immovable obstacles of life? Has our scientific efficiency so accustomed us to getting things done by quick mechanical means that we are at a loss when all we can do is to "stand and take it?"

Consider pain. Before we call pain one of life's immovables, we should recall how much pain has been removed through the healing art and scientific prevention. Nevertheless in spite of our best efforts, we all get some share of pain, physical or mental. Love, the most beautiful thing in life, carries in itself the possibilities of intense pain, sometimes aching with anxiety, sometimes inflamed by abuse, sometimes devastated by death.

How can we get more power over irremovable pain? For one thing, we can channel and control our thoughts. Robert Louis Stevenson in 1885 wrote that for fourteen years he had not had one day of real health. Though wracked with pain he went out his thoughts on those adventures which boys still read. He scrawled some of his gayest poems in "A Child's Garden of Verses" after a severe hemorrhage forced him to put his right arm in a sling. Even when he became so ill that his doctors forbade him to talk or write, he tried to dictate in sign language the conclusion of the book he was writing. The explanation is that Stevenson deliberately turned the stream of his thoughts away from himself and out into the lives of others.

FORTITUDE NEEDED

Also, God can help us to get fortitude which Job found when he could not explain or escape his pain. Job heard a voice out of the whirlwind which led him to see that the universe was too vast and mysterious for us to trace the causes of our life. Refusing to give up, Job got up and started over again. Heroic wasn't it?

But God gave Saint Paul a mystery over pain which more than matched Job's. Paul had an ailment which he called "a thorn in the flesh." He prayed to have it removed but it remained. Then Paul heard God's message, "My grace is sufficient for you." And Paul testified, "In my weakness I was made strong."

Whereas Job in his pain discovered the greatness of God, Paul discovered the grace of God. Paul tells the steps by which he found it. He says: "Suffering produces endurance, and endurance produces character, and character produces hope, and hope does not disappoint because the love of God is shed abroad in our hearts through the Holy Spirit."

While Paul could not understand or escape all suffering, he was convinced that God's purpose is love and that God can work some good out of any situation for those who love Him. Hence he stood up to pain without a whimper.

Paul did not have the powers of our science. But do we have the power of his spirit?

GIRLS STATUS SYMBOL?

LONDON (AP)—The better a family lives the more girls it produces, says Dr. Ronald Springer, school medical officer for Nottingham. "There seems little doubt that the nutritional state of parents has some influence on the sex ratio of the family," his annual report says.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Is won't be long now. Cabin, cottage and camp are being readied for the Big Fall Adventure. Northern resorts catering to the hunt brotherhood report a brisk advance business. It is estimated that some 20,000 deer-seeking nimrods will be afield on or after November 15th, the official opening date.

North of No. 7 Highway the season extends from November 5th to November 17th; south of No. 7 and north of No. 2 it is from November 5th to November 16th, and listen to this—south of No. 2 in Hastings and Prentiss counties there will be a three-day open season for deer commencing November 5th to November 17th, inclusive.

The prospects for the hunt are good. A Lands and Forests survey shows that deer herds have not overbrowsed the feeding yards indicating there has been no deer mortality due to starvation.

And department officials warn that potential Sunday hunters who practice their "sport" on that day are only inviting further posting of private hunting grounds. In the Tweed district approximately two-thirds of the total land area of 8,000 square miles is under private ownership.

The regulation affecting Sunday hunting states: "In a locality that game usually inhabits or in which game is usually found, no person shall, except as is provided by the regulations, have an air gun or firearm in his possession, unless it is unloaded or is dismantled, between one-half hour after sunset on a Saturday and one half-hour before sunrise on the Monday next following."

HUNTING IS NOT DANGEROUS

And approach of the hunting season will be the signal once again for a number of people to view with alarm and point with horror to the hunting accident toll. They will decry the hunt as a dangerous sport and cite the current number of hunting accidents to bolster their claims.

Hunting is not a dangerous sport. It is not nearly as dangerous as going for a Sunday drive in the family car. Almost every weekend there are more people killed in automobile accidents across Canada than are killed or wounded during the entire hunting season. Actually, insurance companies rank hunting as 17th on the list of dangerous sports with such commonplace activities as football and swimming near the top of the list.

Hunting is not dangerous. However, some of the people who hunt are dangerous, because they do not obey the simple rules of courtesy and safety. These same people are equally dangerous when they disregard the rudder of a boat, on the diving board, the golf fairway or on the ski run.

The point is that some people are dangerous. Do not be one of this type in whatever activity you take part. Do not cause death, suffering and heartbreak to others because of your carelessness.

Sportsmen are one of the few groups who are doing something to make their hobby a safer one. All across Canada hunter-training courses are springing up under the auspices of hunting and fishing groups. These courses are aimed primarily at teaching young people to think before they act, to be responsible citizens who will be considerate of their neighbors and companions. Courses are aimed at building the youth of today into responsible citizens of tomorrow. And any groups which are building better citizens deserves the co-operation of all those who take part in their activities.

Whether you hunt, drive, fish or ski, whatever you do this fall, do it as a responsible individual—safely and courteously.

Liston Talks To Press

Doesn't Need Manager

CHICAGO (AP) — Heavyweight boxing champion Sonny Liston returned to Chicago Friday for the first time since he dethroned Floyd Patterson Sept. 25 and said:

1. He didn't need a manager (although George Katz of Philadelphia is his manager of record).

2. He's ready to give Patterson his entitled rematch anytime, any place.

3. He may move his home from Philadelphia, "where I still treated like a bum," to Chicago or Detroit.

Liston made these statements at a press conference attended by his wife, Geraldine, and several aides—including two state's attorney staff detectives who were his bodyguards before the Patterson fight.

Liston, who knocked out Patterson in two minutes, six seconds of the first round in their Comiskey Park bout, said he'd rather fight somebody other than Patterson next. But he added: "I'll live up to my word and fight Patterson—I think he'll come out of his shell soon and say where and when he wants to fight me again."

The first fight contract called for a rematch within a year with each fighter getting 30 per cent of all receipts, compared with Liston's 12½ and Patterson's 55 of ancillary rights and 45 per cent of the gate Sept. 25.

Penalty Killers Versus Snipers ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Habs Hassle Hawks, Leafs Host Blues

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Dave Keon, George Armstrong, Ron Stewart and Bob Pulford are making Toronto Maple Leaf hockey fans more aware of one of the less-glorified jobs in the National Hockey League.

These four, among the club's leading scorers, doubled up as the team's penalty killers and so far in this young National Hockey League season their work has been great.

Toronto is the only team in the league that has not had a goal scored against it while the opposition has enjoyed a man-power advantage. The Leafs have played six games. At the same stage in the 1961-62 campaign they had been the victims of four power-play goals.

Tonight, when the Leafs will be running into New York Rangers in one of two games scheduled, they and Rangers have the second-best record of penalty killing.

With Red Hampson and Ken Schinkel doing most of the Ranger work in this area, New York has given up only one goal when it has been shorthanded. At the same time last season the opposing power play had beaten the Rangers for three goals.

SCORE LESS THIS YEAR

A glance at the figures reveals the following records of the other four clubs, with last season's figures in brackets.:

Detroit Red Wings 2 (5); Boston Bruins 4 (3); Montreal Canadiens 6 (7); Chicago Black Hawks 7 (4).

There have been 30 goals scored in 19 games while a player has been in the penalty box. Last season there were 36 such goals in the same number of games.

The works of Armstrong and Keon, which is one pair Leaf coach Punch Imlach uses, and Keon and Pulford, the other combination, is bringing back memories of two former leafs —Nick Metz and Joe Klukay. They operated during the post-war years and probably were the best penalty killers the NHL ever had.

Metz and Klukay could rap the puck for two minutes at a stretch, then skate off the ice to wait another turn at stalling off the opposing power play. In their day, however, the idea of putting five forwards on a power play was just getting started.

Today, penalty killers go against the opposing team's top snipers. Unless the killers are adept at getting control of the puck and firing it down the ice, it usually means a goal, so feeding netminders eventually will under continuous pressure.

But with players such as Keon, Pulford, Armstrong, Stewart, Shinkel and Hampson in front of them, the goalkeepers feel a little safer. And the penalized team can get out of trouble more often.

In tonight's other engagement, Chicago visits Montreal, Toronto is at Detroit and Chicago at New York Sunday night.

Whip Guelph, Falls Wins

Hamilton In Top Slot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's too early to tell whether it will last, but Hamilton Red Wings have edged into first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

The Memorial Cup champions were clipped 8-6 by Montreal Canadiens in their first outing and they've won their next two games. The latest victory was Friday night when they downed Guelph Royals 5-2. That stood them one point ahead of Montreal, idle Friday night.

Niagara Falls Flyers and St. Catharines Black Hawks made their season debuts Friday night. Niagara Falls beat the Hawks 9-3.

It was the second consecutive victory for Hamilton over the Royals and it spoiled their home debut. Ed Molinski placed the Wings with a pair of goals and Paul Henderson, Bob Hamilton and Pit Martin added one each.

Gary Sabourin, a rookie from Biscay River, Ont., and veteran Billy Taylor got the Guelph goals.

A.T Niagara Falls, 69 minutes in penalties were handed out in a game that included four fights.

Ted Snell, 16, who played midget hockey in Carleton last season, scored three goals for the Flyers, as did Ron Schock. Terry Crisp, Fern Belanger and defenceman John Arbour scored one each. Wayne Maxner picked up five assists.

St. Catharines' scorers were Jim O'Brien, John Brenneman and Ken Laufman.

The home clubs both took victories in a Metro Toronto Junior A doubleheader played at Maple Leaf Gardens. A five - goal performance by Brit Selby led Toronto Marlboros to an 11-4 victory over Oshawa Generals and Terrance Neil McNeil Maroons edged Knob Hill 3-2.

Wolves Rally to Nip Hull

OTTAWA (CP) — Sudbury Wolves staged a four - goal splurge in the third period to beat Hull - Ottawa Canadiens 4-2 Friday night in an Eastern Professional Hockey League and played Nov. 1,221 fans.

The win put Sudbury in sole possession of third place in the league standings. Canadiens remain in first place with eight points, one more than Kingston. Syracuse is in the league cellar with three points, one less than Sudbury.

Canadiens built up a 2-0 lead after the first two periods on goals by Norm Beaudin and Billy Carter. It was Carter's 100th goal in 4 seasons of play in the EPHL, all of them with Canadiens.

Wolves, unable to muster a dangerous attack in the first 40 minutes when they got only nine shots on Hull - Ottawa goalie Ernie Wakeley, needed only five minutes to take the lead in the third period.

Dave Richardson, Dave McComb and Bob Woytowich all fired quick goals in the period. Richardson scored again in the last minute of play when Canadiens lifted their goalie in an attempt to tie the score.

INJURES KNEE

Claude Larose, rookie right-winger with Canadiens was taken to hospital after he fell to the ice in the first period. He appeared to have lost his balance in a play in the Sudbury zone and injured his left knee. Doctors say he will be in a cast for five days. However, the injury is not believed to be serious.

The game was enlivened by a fight in the second period between Terry Harper of Canadiens and Norm Armstrong of Wolves. Both swung their sticks and then dropped them to move into close range. Each drew five - minute majors.

Als Hold Life-Saver For Argos

Whether for post - season gravy or next-season contracts, Toronto Argonauts are going to be tough.

That's the opinion of coach Frank Clair of Ottawa Rough Riders, who meet Argos in Toronto Sunday.

Argonauts still have a chance to make the Eastern Football Conference playoffs, but it may be gone by game time.

Hamilton Tiger - Cats and Montreal Alouettes play in Montreal today and if the Alouettes win, they will have an unbreakable hold on the third and last playoff spot.

"If Argos have a chance to play in the playoff picture, they'll be tough," Clair says. "And if they are eliminated, they may be even tougher. If they're out, they'll be relaxed and they'll have fellows out there shooting for contracts next year. Either way, we have to expect a tough time."

Clair knows just how rugged the Argos, in fourth and last place, can be. Last season the Toronto club came from nowhere to knock the high-flying Riders off in the sudden-death EFC semi-final, and Ticats were left with the job of getting rid of Toronto in the final.

Toronto coach Nobby Wirkowski says he won't reveal his lineup until after today's game, when he'll know whether Argos can still make the playoffs.

ANN SWEENEY

Irish Golf Star Here

TORONTO (CP) — The modern facilities of a Toronto-area hospital have brought to Canada an international classic woman golfer from Northern Ireland.

Ann Sweeney, a member of the Irish international golf team, left for Canada after winning the Ulster championship last July.

Her departure created a stir in Belfast newspaper circles—it meant the loss of a four-handicap golfer who had strength, and the Irish need in matches against England, Scotland and Wales from 1959 to 1962.

"They wanted to know whether I'll return home or decide to stay in Canada," said the five-foot-eight brunette. "I couldn't give them a definite answer because I don't know myself.

"I came here to continue work in physiotherapy and from what I've seen at the Workmen's Compensation Board hospital, it is one of the best even in the world and I can learn a lot here."

She didn't get in much golf during the summer—"it's difficult to get a game of golf if you know very few people and don't own a car"—but she hopes to be out regularly starting next spring.

Miss Sweeney started golfing when she was 12 at Cushendall, encouraged to take up the sport by the fact her parents and three sisters and a brother were all golfers.

"I worked very hard to overtake them and wound up captain of the Cushendall club."

Her best game was this year when she won the Ulster title with five birdies on the first nine holes, lost her lead and then clinched it on the 18th.

Als Only Club to Lose Money

MONTREAL (CP) — M. E. (Ted) Workman, president of the Montreal Alouettes, said Friday it appears the Als will be the only club in the Eastern Football Conference to lose money this season.

"I've talked to officials from the other teams and it appears nobody should lose money this year except us," he said in an interview. "As it stands now it should be a minor miracle if we broke even."

Last season the Als lost a reported $100,000.

Workman also said he expects the Canadian Football League to continue its interlocking schedule between the EFC and the Western Football Conference next season.

THIS IS STILL A MAN'S WORLD

Grey skies, cold wind, a rain-soaked field—twelve seconds left to play. It's now or never.

The ball is snapped. Hear the bone bruising thud as body meets body.

Suddenly he's through the line and running. Fast as Paavo Nurmi, the greasy ball close-held against his chest.

Look out! The tackle drives. He twists away—stumbles—recovers—plunges on to score the winning touchdown.

What a man! What a game!

A game like that calls for a man-size* celebration.

Four New Coaches

Six Senior A Clubs Await The Gun

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The revised Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series opens its 1962-63 season this weekend, with four of the six league teams under new coaches.

The two coaches returning to their clubs are Phil Vitale of Kitchener-Waterloo Tigers and Lloyd Roubell of Galt Terriers, last year's Canadian representatives at the World Hockey Tournament.

Included in the new pilots are two former National Hockey League teammates with Toronto and Chicago, Ross Morison and Harry Watson.

Watson will be guiding Windsor Bulldogs, the league's defending champions, and Morison will play defence and call the plays with Chatham Maroons. Watson replaces another former NHL performer, Joe Klukay. Ted Power, back with the team as a player, was playing-coach at Chatham last year.

Morison and Watson make their season debut against each other as the Bulldogs visit Chatham Sunday. Kitchener is at Sarnia against the Rams in another game Sunday and Woodstock Athletics are at Galt Terriers in their opener Monday night.

REPLACES SAVAGE

Heading Sarnia is former American League performer Ted Garvin. He replaces playing coach Don Savage, who led Sarnia last year when it finished in the league cellar.

Woodstock will be under playing-coach Bo Cayea, a veteran performer with the club making his senior coaching debut.

Two teams are not back in the league, which will have salaried players in place of the former share-the-wealth plan. They are Strathroy Rockets and Stratford Indians. A number of their players have landed jobs with other clubs.

Kitchener-Waterloo Tigers appear to be the most improved club. Last year Tigers finished sixth, but they have added some proven talent for this season.

Top new Tigers are goalie Harold (Boat) Hurley, with Galt last year, and defencemen Don McGregor from North Bay of the Eastern Professional League, Ted Maki from Galt and former Portland performer Butch McLean. Up front they have added Joe Hogan from Galt, Bill Kennedy, a Mariboro graduate, and Sonny Osborne, a former star with Toronto St. Michael's Majors.

HURLEY STRONG POINT

Coach Vitale figures his strong points will be goaltending, with Hurley, and defence and centre. "Our centres will be as good as any in the league," he says.

Chatham has a strong nucleus returning from last year's club, including Power, Joe Mair, George Aitken, Jack Douglas and Elmer Skov.

For top new performers, they have added veteran defenceman Bill (Red) Barrett, George Ustiako and junior stars Ted Demchuk and Bill Smyth.

Our aim here in Chatham is to win the Allan Cup and we will be doing our best to do it," says Morison. Chatham won the coveted trophy three seasons ago, but finished fifth last season.

Windsor has its top line of Bob Brown, Irwin Gross and Tom Walkey returning. Other returnees include Walt Pawlyshyn, Gord Haidy, Bill Mitchell and Jerry Servias.

Top newcomers are goalies Baun, with Saskatchewan juniors last year and recommended by former NHL goalie Al Rollins, Jacques Begin and Elov Sigar.

'SHOOT FOR TOP'

Watson says his club will "be shooting for the top."

Galt will be relying mostly on newcomers, with only four definite returnees from last year. Those back are Alec (Butch) Keeling, Bob McKnight, Wiggie Wylie and Ron Brain. There are a few other possible players returning.

Terriers are expected to start with Mariboro grad Dave Dryden in goal in place of Hurley. Top new defencemen are John Lowes, with the Tigers last year, Ed Burr from Waterloo University, Bruno Talbot from Quebec and Bill Wilton, a senior performer from Montreal.

Up front, Terriers' top prospects are Bob Seagar, with Brampton Junior A last season, Claude Guay, who played Intermediate A in Quebec, and Gaston Bernier from Sherbrooke Junior A.

Team President Dr. Ken Brokley says his defence will be strong. "We will be a young inexperienced team, but I don't think the lack of experience will hurt us," he adds.

Woodstock has added a number of players from the defunct Stratford and Strathroy clubs. Top players from these teams include Butch Graham, Ron Sadler and Neil Cockburn from Stratford and Art Sullivan from Strathroy.

New prospects are Carl Hymers, who led the Junior B series scoring race with St. Marys last year, and Bernie Lawrence, who was a hockey instructor in Squaw Valley.

Athletics will be without goalie Al Cullen, who is with Cleveland Barons, and Jean-Marc Asselin, with Port Huron Flags. Key performers returning are Toby Black, Byrie Kinkead, Don Myers and Gerry Stringle.

Carol believes his strength will be in goal with Salter and down the centre.

Rams have combined such key performers as Willie Mendyk, Jerry Mara, Eric Hadden, Tom Clarke and Bruce Jones with a crop of newcomers.

From Strathroy they have added Clark Horner, Ray Moffitt and Tunzie Donelson. Top rookie are Bob McCaig from Flin Flon Juniors, Ken Chrisnik from Pembroke Junior A and Reg Mutheliand, a former Montreal Canadiens prospect.

"I feel Sarnia has to be stronger, and I hope we're strong enough," says Garvin. "If we are not strong enough we will be before too long."

'Wouldn't It Be Luverly'

LONDON (AP) — Pretty Margaret Spinks, 22, the first woman in British soccer history to qualify as a league referee, said Friday she didn't know if she wanted a regular job.

"You see, I've never refereed a game in my life," she explained. "I just took the examination — and passed."

Horrified at the thought of a woman referee, the Referees Association has applied to the Football Association, the game's governing body.

Said Ken Thorogood, secretary of the referee's association:

"A girl referee would complicate football. Referees dress with the players. That would never do in her case."

ON INJURED LIST

MONTREAL (CP) — Linebacker John Conroy has been placed back on the injury reserve list, it was announced Friday by Montreal Alouettes of the Eastern Football Conference. Conroy has missed most of this season with a leg injury. It came off the list three weeks ago and was dressed for one game but did not play.

Rosburg, Bayer Lead Tournament

COSTA MESA, Calif. (AP)—Bob Rosburg, whose consecutive string of 63 led the $22,500 Orange County Open championship, was forced to share the half - way lead today with George Bayer.

Rosburg, of Portland, Ore., slipped seven strokes over his first day's score, but still had a one-under-par 70. Bayer of Miami, Fla., was five under the Mesa Verde Country Club's par of 36-35—71, giving him a 36-hole total of 135, the same as Rosburg.

One shot back at 134 was Tony Lema of San Leandro, Calif., who shot a 31-35—66 to go with his opening 68. Lema had a fine finish on the front side with twoside with two birdies and an eagle on the seventh, eighth and ninth holes.

Al Johnston of Montreal toured the course with a 71 Friday and a two-day total of 143. George Knudson of Toronto fired a 71 Thursday and a 76 Friday for 147.

Warn Giants; Packers Meet Colts

'Skins' Look For Revenge

NEW YORK (AP) — Washington and Green Bay, the two unbeaten teams in the National Football League, have the revenge motive on their side in Sunday's most important games.

The Redskins, whose rookie quarterback Norm Snead was smothered twice for safeties in a 52-0 rout at Yankee Stadium last year, hope to get even with New York Giants now that Snead has matured as a pro signal caller.

Vince Lombardi's Green Bay Packers, winners of six straight this year, absorbed their only loss/tied beating last year at the hands of Baltimore, 45-21. The defending champs haven't forgotten that indignity as they head into the Colts' home park again.

Cleveland and Pittsburgh, each 3-3, meet in a game at Pittsburgh that could crush the loser's hopes of an Eastern Conference comeback. Up-and-coming Dallas entertains St. Louis with the Cowboys 3-3-1 a contender when—and if—Washington loses.

Chicago and Detroit, tied for second in the West, two games behind Green Bay, play at Detroit.

San Francisco and Los Angeles clash for the first time this year with the '49ers still in the race at 3-3 and the Rams heading for their first win after six defeats.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Jack Hunter's Bud Fever, under jockey Cliff Potts, won the featured Imperial Purse at Old Woodbine Friday by six lengths from Mrs. A. T. Bayliff's Bud Beck. Windfields Farm's Bay Sovereign was three-quarters of a length further back in third place.

Taking the lead after a furlong in the one-mile race, Bud Fever never knew a further losing stride. Bulieck produced a fishing burst to get the place position. Fans in the crowd of 5,978 who had a $2 win ticket on Bud Fever drew $22.40.

In the daily double, White Oak Stable's Mill Race combined with Sanber, winner of the second, for a return of $26.50.

W. F. Edmiston's Double Rule beat Jo-Ann stable's Royal Start in the fifth to set up one of the largest quinella payoffs this season, $249.50.

AT THE BELLE — A tense moment from Stanley Kramer's double Academy Award Winner, "Judgment at Nuremberg", now attracting large audiences to the Belle, as Burt Lancaster, as a German jurist, admits his guilt by acquiescence for Nazi excesses. Spencer Tracy, and Judy Garland, in a highly dramatic roll as Irene Hoffman, an unhappy witness in "Judgment at Nuremberg", now playing an extended engagement at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

Astrological Forecast

For October 29

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Check credit, money matters in general, especially in connection with partners, associates. You could be gently "persuading" yourself where finances of friends are concerned.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Friends, in background, "stand up" for you. Domestic cycle has been higher in past. Be careful, especially in connection with legal matters. Think, then act.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Key is diplomacy. This was true yesterday and still is today, especially where fellow workers petition you to co-operate in off-duty project. You win friends by asking advice.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Your sights are aimed very high where your future is concerned. You may find yourself seeking perfection. This very naturally leads to disappointment. Be realistic!

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Once more you're quizzing for security is raised. Planetary activity in section of chart relating to older associates, home, income, pension. Answer to "dilemma" lies in accepting responsibility.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Any form of opposition is apt to be reversed. You make friends of those who start out opposing you. Gain prestige. Complete projects. Organize. Grasp opportunities.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Establish ways and means of accomplishment. Leave nothing to pure chance. Best course is one which sees you striking out for new paths. Try to see varied points of view. Be receptive!

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Cycle on. Much depends upon how you use your imagination. Used creatively, you come up with fine, money-making ideas. Be objective, considerate of friends.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Experiment, especially where long-standing problems are involved. Be willing to try the new; be original, even brash, if necessary. But don't stand still! Give your best.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Good time to catch up on details, including the working out of a budget, paying bills and collecting them. Delightful social evening indicated.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Your mind is attractive; you should read, write, communicate your thoughts. Real opportunity for adding to personal prestige. Superiors will discover that you are doing exceptional job.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): You can achieve much in connection with emotional stability. You can begin to know yourself and your goals. Specifically, fine day for domestic harmony, entertaining.

ASSIGNED TO CANUCKS
VANCOUVER (CP)—Forward Bob Kabel, 22, from Baltimore of the American Hockey League, has been assigned to Vancouver Canucks of the Western League by the parent New York Rangers, Canucks coach Max McNab announced Friday. Kabel, who played with Springfield of the AHL for the last three seasons, will join Canucks early next week.

The Trots

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Sharon Star, owned by Eric Mellroy of Grand Ben, Ont., defeated seven other above average sidewheelers Friday night to capture the featured $600 C-2 pace at Western Fair Raceway.

The three-year-old filly remained well back of Jimmy Patch C during the first half of the race, but driver Jim Larkin started her moving in the last half for a long-length victory over Patsy G 2nd. Jimmy Patch C came in third.

Sharon Star paced the mile in 2:09 2-5, best time of the night, and paid $14.80 to win.

OTTAWA (CP)—Wild Indian, owned by L. A. Montgomery and driven by Bill Pyke, Friday night won the featured trotting event at the Rideau Carleton Raceway.

The six-year-old bay gelding went the mile in 2:12 to win by a half-length, paying across-the-board prices of $3.60, $3.00 and $2.60.

Danny K. Peters was second and Chuckmor was third.

GENERAL MANAGER FINED

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Lane, general manager of Chicago Zephyrs of the National Basketball Association, was fined $250 Friday by League President-Maurice Podoloff for "unsportsmanlike" conduct during last Wednesday's game with Los Angeles Lakers. Podoloff said Lane spent most of the game complaining to the officials, adding: "Any repitition will call for dire consequences."

AT THE PARK — The famous "fight" scene between Annie Sullivan and Helen Keller portrayed by Anne Bancroft and Patty Duke, is depicted here by cartoonist Al Hirschfeld. The picture, a United Artists release, opens Monday at the Park Theatre.

Western Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Vancouver Canucks scored their fifth straight Western Hockey League victory Friday night by beating Spokane Comets 4-2. In other WHL action, San Francisco Seals defeated the Stampeders 6-1 at Calgary.

The Canucks' undefeated record left them in first place in the league's Northern Division, four points ahead of Edmonton and Seattle. San Francisco moved into a first-place tie with Los Angeles in the Southern Division.

Vancouver scorers were George Ford, Larry Popein, Buddy Boone and Phil Maloney. Spokane goal-getters were Del Topell and Steve Wiltuk.

Ed Panagabko had two goals for the Seals and the other four were shared by Nick Mickoski, Ray Cyr, Camille Bedar and Paul Jackson. With 10 seconds left in the second period, Ron Leopold got Calgary's only goal on a rebound.

'THE MIRACLE WORKER'
To have local debut shortly

"The Miracle Worker," film version of the Broadway hit opens Monday at the Park Theatre. The cast is headed by Anne Bancroft and Patty Duke who recreate their widely-acclaimed stage roles as Annie Sullivan and young Helen Keller. Victor Jory, Inga Swenson, Andrew Prine and Kathleen Comgys also have prominent assignments.

The same team responsible for the stage success has brought the play to the screen for United Artists Release. Dramatist William Gibson wrote the screen adaptation. Arthur Penn directed and Fred Coe was the producer.

Filmed in New York and on location in New Jersey, where a 19th century version of the Keller home was found, "The Miracle Worker" is based on the story of Annie Sullivan's dedicated efforts to help young Helen Keller emerge from a sightless and soundless world.

Story portrays Captain Keller. Miss Swenson is seen as Mrs. Keller, Prine as Helen's half-brother James, and Miss Comgys portrays aunt Ev.

Sweden, Mexico Davis Cup

Bad Feelings Mar Play

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Rafael Osuna of Mexico and Mats Hasselquist of Sweden were scheduled to finish their postponed Davis Cup match today amid an undercurrent of bad feelings.

Sweden led the best-of-five interzone semi-final 1-0 on Jan-Erik Lundquist's 8-6, 1-6, 8-6, 6-4 victory over Antonio Palafox on Friday, then protested Schmidt took the court. Osuna, a cadidate senior at University of Southern California, was leading 6-3, 16-14, 1-6, 4-1 when 5:30 p.m. local curfew arrived.

When the two continued playing, Swedish captain Mats Hasselquist protested and the match was suspended. Mexican captain Pancho Contreras suggested the rules be waived, but Hasselquist was adamant.

"Putting the match off won't help the Swedes any good anyway," said Contreras. "We'll win anyway. Hasselquist insisted on quitting just because his player was losing. Of course, he was within his rights."

Snapped Hasselquist: "Contreras would have done the same thing if he were playing."

When the postponement was announced, the wildly partisan crowd of 2,500 booted, shouted and rained seat cushions on the court in protest.

Obviously Schmidt was tiring and it appeared to be just a matter of time until the 23-year-old Osuna put the match away.

"A night's rest will do Ulf a lot of good," said Hasselquist "then we'll see how things come out."

Kelso Favored In Rich Race

'Carry Back' Underdog

NEW YORK (AP)—Kelso and Carry Back renewed their battle for horse-of-the-year honors today in the $100,000 added Man O'War Stakes at Belmont Park and Smart Deb rules the favorite in a field of nine two-year-old fillies running in the $75,000 added Gardenia Stakes at Garden State Park.

Kelso, back in form after an earlier stump, was a 4-to-5 favorite to win the Man O'War over the 1¼-mile Widener grass course at Belmont which was covered with a slight snow Friday.

In addition to Mrs. Jack Price's Carry Back, top candidates opposing Mrs. Richard C. DuPont's Kelso include George D. Widener's Jaipur, a top candidate for three-year-old honors; Beau Purple, winner of the $100,000 Hawthorne Gold Cup last week at Chicago; and the two Frenchmen, Jacques, Monsade and Val de Loir.

POSTMAN MOONLIGHTED

KEENE, N.H. (AP) — Rural mail carrier Henry Chickering, 56, accused of delivering liquor along with the mail for 28 years, was fined $100 Friday for illegal sale of alcoholic beverages. Police said Chickering started the sideline in 1934, buying liquor in a state store here to fill farmers' orders.

Astrological Forecast

For October 28

By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): New Moon in area of chart stressing achievement, need for relaxation, reaffirmation of spiritual principles. Money problems could be dissolved through idea presented to you.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Lunar aspect highlights need for definite decision. Putting off actions results in expensive delay. Spiritual mentor could aid. You also help yourself by attending to details.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): New Moon reveals pleasure can be obtained through pet, hobby, club, attending church, getting together with those with mutual interests. Day to share, to make new friends and cement old relationships.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Favorable lunar aspect today highlights change, excitement, romance. Be relaxed, confident. Member of opposite sex offers hand of deep friendship. Good day for obtaining knowledge.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) Greatest enemy is impatience. If you make demands, you create emotional shock. Instead of pressing, sit back and relax. Make this a day to remember — favorably! Do so by being realistic.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): You could be centre of attention before day is over. Knowing this, be prepared to put across important points of interest. Have facts, figures on hand. Be ready, willing to share knowledge.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Say no to persons who urge to rush into project before you have completed present assignment. Live up to legal, moral commitments. Tonight be with favorite person.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): No matter how discouraged you may be, think of future. Big "break" overdue. Be dynamic in action, exude confidence. Social contact tonight could lead to advancement.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Visit confined friends. Display sense of humor. Avoid scattering forces. Depend upon your own talents. Be sincere. Don't be tempted to get-rich quick methods.

Capricorn (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20): New Moon in part of chart relating to achievement, ambition, potential. Time to sum up. Decide which course you are going to follow. Make vital decision. Success is indicated.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Could be day when you put several ideas, obtain results and receive compliment from one who means much to you. Show appreciation for past favors. Be practical and considerate.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Excellent for reading, obtaining answers to puzzling questions. Tonight good for being with persons who share your interests. Don't go to excess. Be moderate, calm, considerate.

If today is your birthday you are coming out of "gloomy" cycle and can expect greater social success. You are individual in truest sense.

General Tendencies: New Moon stresses finances, news relating to nuclear age. Persons born under Scorpio apt to be in news spotlight.

Lemon Juice Recipe Relieves Arthritic & Rheumatic Pain

If you suffer rheumatic, arthritic or muscular pain, try this simple inexpensive recipe that thousands are using. Get a can of Pine-Bex Compound, a 3 ounce package, and a pint jar (or bottle) of water, and follow directions. Mix it with a quart of water, add the juice of 4 lemons, and you have enough for a full week's supply. It's no trouble at all and costs only about 1/2 cent per glass. Take 2 times a day. Often within 48 hours — sometimes overnight — relief is obtained. If the pains do not quickly leave and if you don't feel that you have gained new joy and vigor, return empty container to us and the cost is cheerfully refunded. Pine-Bex is the name for Rich-Lax is sold by your druggist on a money back guarantee. Over 7 million used.

HOUSING POLICY

Present rate of interest is 5¾ per cent.

To the end of August, 31 such loans had been made by CMHC for a total of almost $27,000,000. The projects, in every province except Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland, would accommodate almost 7,000 single students.

Another idea being discussed is a claims commission to provide expert adjudication of contractors' claims for additional payments on work undertaken for the department.

The department is responsible for most of the federal government's construction projects which sometimes run into more than $100,000,000 a year.

At present these claims—few in number but sometimes involving large sums—are settled by department officers who make a recommendation to the minister for an opinion payment in full or in part.

from going on the market at all."

SUGGESTS AID VICTIMS

Mr. Knowles suggested the drug firms involved should put up "substantial sums" to help the victims of thalidomide. A similar suggestion came from Guy Marcoux (C — Quebec-Montmorency), a doctor.

Harry Harris (L — Halton), also a doctor, said the government must bear the responsibility for the "more than month's delay" in hailing Canadian distribution of thalidomide. He contended that additional deaths-lies could have occurred "because of the delay."

In his opening statement Mr. Monteith said sale of both thalidomide and oxytocic products, commonly called LSD, is to be prohibited in Canada.

However, the government would consider making LSD available under "rigid" control conditions for research and possibly cancer research.

DISCOVER WALLS

AMMAN, Jordan (Reuters)—British, French and Canadian teams of archeologists have discovered the original line of the city walls on the eastern side of Jerusalem, the Jordan antiquities department announced Friday.

Two Huge Bull Moose Shot By Huntress, Mrs. L. Hicks, In Northern Ontario Wilds

(Ed. Note: Following is the exciting story of the five-day moose hunt of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hicks in the wild country sixty miles west of Hearst, Ontario. Mrs. Hicks shot two huge moose with two shots — but let Mr. Hicks tell the story. The Hicks, former residents of Belleville and Picton, now reside at 600 Laurier Avenue West, Apartment 20, Ottawa, Ont.)

"For several years, Louise and I have said to ourselves that has been known to us as the elusive moose and not until this year were we able to find it. It was a real successful and enjoyable hunt.

"We spent a few days at Pagauchwan Inn, 60 miles west of Hearst, last year and on our way through, were fortunate in meeting a Mr. Roland Malenfort, who at that time was employed by Henry Selins Company, a lumber company operating in the area. Reidy, as we now know him, loves to hunt and takes some time off from the busy life each year where he is responsible for 135 employees, operating on the dense forests of the area.

"Roily agreed to take us on a five-day hunt for 500 and we arrived at Hearst on Friday evening, September 28 and after a pleasant Saturday morning drive around the area with Mrs. Malenfort, Roily arrived with a trailer on a trip with four, sportsmen from the States. It did not take long to hook to refit his outfit and at 2.00 p.m. we had our gear loaded in our cars and trailer and were on our way.

"We drove about 28 miles west of Hearst on Highway 11 and then turned north on a gravel road and proceeded for about 40 miles to Lillabelle in the banks of the Kabinagabina River, a further 28 miles. Our gear arrived at Roily's aluminum war canoe, along with 85 gallons of fuel and two spare motors, and at dark we found ourselves 55 miles north on a gravel road where we joined the Magogama and Pagauchwan Rivers.

UP WITH THE DAWN

"We made camp for the night and went to sleep with the wolves howling around our tents. Roily roused us at 5.30 Sunday morning and after a hearty breakfast of pancakes, maple syrup, bacon and eggs and coffee, we were on our way again as the sun began to peep over the horizon.

"Twelve o'clock noon found us running into the mouth of the Magogama River where we located a beautiful spot in the bush for lunch and we were ready to crawl into our sleeping bags for the evening. Roily thought it w~ time to cruise farther down the river and see if we could locate a moose.

"We had only been out about one and a half hours when something loaned up on the shore line and after beaching the boat and proceeding on foot about 200 yards we finally got close enough to identify a nice 2-year-old bull. Louise thought I had better take the first shot. I was pretty excited and didn't believe I made a solid hit and when we saw him starting up the bank, she chipped in and brought him down.

"Roily towed him across the river and we pulled him out on the shore and when the field dressing was completed we found her bullet had clipped the bottom of the heart.

"We were back in the evening before dinner was over and we crept into our sacks. In the meantime, Roily had spent a half hour on the river bank with a birch bark horn, trying to appeal to one of the moose archs he was sure was in the area.

BIG BULL

Seven-thirty Monday morning found us again on the river in a chilly, early morning fog. Tracks made the night before, around our tents proved that a big one had been prowling around during the night but it was not until four o'clock in the afternoon that Louise spotted the biggest bull that we had ever laid our eyes on.

"Boy, oh boy, if I knew what had happened, she had clipped him right in the heart with a bullet from the .30-30 and he tumbled down the 40-foot bank, dead when he hit the water.

"Work really began now but in due time this experienced guide had him dressed and loaded in the large war canoe.

"Tuesday morning we loaded my small bull into another 18 foot canoe and combined the hunting experience not necessary as we will provide a complete training program.

CAMPBELLFORD

Council Approves $190,000 For New Filtration Plant

CAMPBELLFORD — Campbellford, Public Utilities Commission and the town council held a joint meeting Monday night in the commissioners board room to discuss a new water filtration plant. As a result of the meeting, council approved a $190,000 expendi ture by the P.U.C. for the plant.

Mr. J. D. Lee, a Kingston engineer, was present to explain how the proposed plant would operate, why it was needed and how the PUC proposed paying for it.

Council had previously given tentative approval to a $150,000 expenditure to build a plant, but this would have incorporated mixer structures, which according to observations made in other communities and advice received from the Ontario Water Resources Commission, would not have proved satisfactory. The new proposed plant will be a full flow gravity filter system with two filtering beds. It is estimated cost of the plant using the more efficient system is $190,000. Council reminded its meeting that providing the $150,000 and, on motion of Councillors Stephen and Reg Outinghyke, approved the preparations of a bylaw to issue debentures for $190,000 subject to approval by the Ontario Municipal Board. The OWRC has already approved the plans, and the engineer J. D. Lee said he is now at the point where he could call for tenders.

HIGH CONSUMPTION RATE

During the discussion, it was said that the town has one of the highest per capita water consumption rates in Ont. While most communities use 125 gallons per person per day, Campbellford averages about 185 gallons. On three days of last year, July 8, 6 and 13th, the approximately 3,400 people in the town used daily 1,100,000 gallons of water. The present plant pumped 703 million gallons during 1961.

The new plant is designed with an estimated 1969 population of approximately 4,000 to be called. This growth rate is based on past figures. The plant will have a rated capacity of one and a quarter million gallons per day, but could at peak periods pump as much as two million gallons per day if it became necessary.

Commissioner-chairman A. C. Newman explained that the board had kept costs down on the new station by doing away with all frills. There will be no terrazzo floor, the walls will not be tiled, and the plant will not be automatic. In addition, use is being made of some existing equipment. Some plants of the same size but with automatic features and distinctive architectural features have cost about $600,000 to build. Mr. Lee the engineer who will be in charge, said that the new plant will be functional and efficient but will be simple in design, thus reducing construction costs.

NEW EQUIPMENT

Two pumps and one chlorinator now being used in the old pumping station will be put to use in the new plant.

Board chairman A.C. Newman said the commission expected to be able to retire the debentures in 20 years, making payment annually out of current revenue. He did not anticipate a rate increase, and none of the cost would be added to the mill rate. He added, however, that if something unforseen in future years did necessitate a rate increase, the increase would likely be small, as the policies of the water rates in Campbellford are now lower than in any other community in the area. Domestic water is at $24 per year for house and service, or $18 for house service only, if lawn or outside services are used. This averages 35 cents per thousand gallons of water.

Although plans for the new plant have been approved by the OWRC, council pointed out that they would issue the debentures themselves and not have the province finance through the OWRC, because this has proved more costly in other communities.

The Golden Years

Annuities Appear Sound Bet For Safe Retirement Savings

By THOMAS COLLINS

The story of the 58-year-old man who set out to build up $30,000 for his retirement has sent the life insurance people scurrying for their pencils.

They think they have much better plans for him than the of one he chose.

The story, which appeared here a few weeks ago, told how the man would put his money into bonds at 4 per cent—when he reached 65 and then would have an extra $100 a month for income. In the seven years before 65 he thought he couldn't save $30,000 so he started putting all his savings into growth stocks in the stock market, hoping they would enhance in value. They did. He invested $23,600 and just before he retired it had grown to $31,200.

Then came the stock slide of last May. His stocks dropped to a value of $21,200. He sold out, put his money into bonds for the 4 per cent handful of the $100 he wanted — a loss of nearly 30 percent.

Says a distinguished insurance man:

"Had this man put $3,371 per year — or $23,600 for the seven years — into a Joint and Survivor Annuity, it would have guaranteed $120 per month for as long as either he or his wife lived. (This figure varies with the age of a man and his wife.)

NO FURTHER CONCERN

"The man thus would have no further investment problems and no further concern over the management of his money. Furthermore, his Annuity income would be very largely income-tax free, whereas the money received by most other investments would be subject to income tax."

The $21,020 the man had left after the stock slide, according to Mr. Grody, would give him and his considerably more than $70 a month "and would be guaranteed for life worry-free."

Says another insurance executive:

"Proper life insurance or annuity policies would have done much more for the 58-year-old man than what he did."

And then he offers four plans.

"If he had bought a 10-Pay-ments Life Insurance Policy at age 58 with an annual premium of $4,285.75 (one-seventh of what the man wanted to save for seven years), he would have had age 65 an income of $109.15 a month.

"If he has invested in an annuity the $21,020 he ended up with, he would have had $130.22 at 65.

"If he wanted $100 a month at 65, he could have had it for $18,120 invested in an annuity ... and would have had $4,900 left over in cash to put in the bank ..."

You readers must understand that the insurance men quoted represent different life insurance companies in different parts of the country. There could be variations in their policies, as there could be with other companies in the same places. However, by the figures they give are good ones and are typical of what you can get in annuities.

Also insurance men are good guys. Few professionals are more dedicated to their calling and more thoroughly in the worthiness of what they do.

With two exceptions, I think their suggestions of annuities for retirement are good:

One is that the money you put into an annuity can't grow in value. This is all right if the country remains static or has a depression but not so good if the economy expands and everything starts costing more. The 58-year-old man had a smart idea because his $23,600 grew in seven years to $31,200, just fatted to cash in soon enough.

The second exception is that most annuities all or most of the money is used up by the time you die, which leaves none or little for children and other heirs. This, for many retirement people is all right since they figure a good life for them is property more important than a good inheritance for somebody else.

Nothing Takes the Place of Love

DEAR DORIS—I have noticed in your column lately from women that were left nervous and hurt because their boy friends had left them for some reason or other, and are complaining about this having left them disinterested in men.

I was exactly the same for many years. I had been saying no to life for so long that I had actually thought that it was virtuous and I was also terrified at the idea of a date, to quote your words.

DORIS CLARK

Two years ago a nice fellow was after me to go out and I finally got up the gumption and accepted. He was forty years old, which I did not believe was too big an age gap. (I am 32). I am very happy to say that we are to be married soon.

I would just like to add for these women not to say no to life but to enjoy it while they are young. I have realized the foolish mistake that I made by pretending to be a manhater.

So girls, if there are any single men left, grab hold and don't let go as there is nothing that can take the place of having somebody to like you and to know that you are loved and wanted. Life is far too short.

Your words are very, very wise, Doris.—VERY HAPPY.

DEAR VERY HAPPY—My romantic heart says "Three cheers!"

And to the shy girls, do you hear what the lady said?

(Owing to her heavy mail, Doris cannot send a private reply unless a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed with your enquiry.)

Henry invites letters from readers. For the most interesting letter he receives each week, he will award a copy of his best-selling book, "Ask Henry," published by Prentice-Hall, Inc.

Dear Henry—I have a 9-year-old brother who always refuses to clean up his room. This morning I went into his room to mop. I looked under his bed and saw nothing but clothes and toys. Mom told him to clean up the mess but he came up with some silly excuse.

This is not the first time he pulled a stunt like this and I always get mad at him when he does. Is there any way to make him clean up his room properly.—THE MAD MOPPER.

Dear Mad Mopper—Clean up his room real nice when he isn't around. When he walks in he will see what happened to his pigsty and for once he will be proud to bring in his friends to his room. And he will want to keep it that way.—HENRY.

Dear Henry——I am a girl of 14 who receives an allowance of 35c. After reading the complaint of "Disturbed Fan" I wondered why she needed so much money. I save 25c a week and manage on 10c spending money.

Also this girl should consider the financial standing of her family, not just ask for a raise, because other girls get $2 a week. Sure I would love to get this much but I learned to be satisfied with what I get.—SATISFIED.

Dear Satisfied—Yes, you should be satisfied with what you get, because many kids have to be satisfied with what they don't get—enough food, love, clothing and shelter.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—At what age should I let my daughter Lynn wear lipstick?—MRS. M. J. T.

Dear Mrs. M. J. T.—Let's figure it out: 4435/9A & 23458. 4*5% ac3&/—A? ac ¼ equals about 14. But you better check it to make sure that I didn't make a mistake.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I am 14 and was invited out to my first party recently. But since my girl friend is sick I have to go with a girl I despise greatly, or not go at all.

Although I can't stand this girl, I would really like to go to the party. She is also disliked by many of the boys and they would never stop teasing me if I showed up with her. What should I do?—RHONDA HATER.

Dear Rhonda Hater—This might probably be Rhonda's first party too. It's up to you.—HENRY.

Wooler

WOOLER — Mrs. Lorne Scott returned on Wednesday after a holiday with her sisters in Detroit and Toronto.

Mrs. Way of Brighton is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Dorland of Wooler.

Mrs. H. Hancock, Belleville, spent Monday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Bryant.

Mr. and Mrs. George Rutzan of St. Catharines, and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Rutzan and daughter of Burlington, spent Sunday with Mrs. N. N. Hagerty and others friends. Mrs. Lucille Rutzan accompanied them home after spending a couple of weeks with Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Austin and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grosjean.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Maguire of Belleville, were Sunday callers of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Bryant.

Mrs. L. Russell and daughter of Gore's Landing, spent a day last week with Miss Cora Valentine.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Putnam spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Austin Leavitt in Peterborough.

The first 4-H Club meeting was held last Saturday with the project being the "Cereal Shelf" with Mrs. Mrs. Scott and Mrs. R. Read. Officers elected were: president, Georgia Leavitt; vice-president, Elaine May; bee; press reporter, Mary Jane Lafrance. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. R. Scott.

Three Freed On Joint Charge of Rape

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—A supreme Court jury acquitted three men on a joint charge of rape Thursday despite a statement by Mr. Justice L. A. Landreville that he believed the "Crown has proved its case."

Richard Angras, 22, Samuel Cecil Taylor, 24, and Thomas Morrison, 32, were charged following a complaint by a 28-year-old woman.

The woman testified the three forced their way into her apartment March 8. She said the man with whom she is living was admitted to hospital with a broken nose, fractures of facial bones and bruises suffered in a scuffle with the trio.

The jury of five women and seven men deliberated four hours before returning the verdict. The three men denied forcing their way into the apartment and said the woman had agreed to the sexual relations.

WEST HAILS U.S. STUNNING VICTORY

Nehru Asks U.S. For Weapons Aid To Fight Reds

Spokesman Indicates Help Forthcoming

CP from AP-Reuters

NEW DELHI—Prime Minister Nehru asked the United States for aid today in India's struggle with Communist China and an Indian spokesman said the total of Indian dead and missing at 2,000 to 2,500 so far in the campaign.

The spokesman said the Chinese are believed to have suffered much heavier casualties in driving into northeastern and northwestern India.

The spokesman reported the loss of Demchok in southern Ladakh where the Chinese had attacked last Saturday.

Nehru asked U.S. ambassador John Kenneth Galbraith for the weapons. A U.S. Embassy spokesman said Galbraith indicated they are coming.

Despite setbacks India definitely refused to accept offers of mediation by the undeclared war with China.

An external affairs ministry spokesman said:

"No self-respecting country, and certainly not India with her love of freedom, can submit to Chinese aggression whatever the consequences may be. nor can India allow China's occupation of Indian territory to be used as a bargaining counter for dictating to India a settlement of differences regarding the boundary on Chinese terms."

REITERATES STAND

The spokesman reiterated that the Chinese must withdraw "at least to where they were prior to Sept. 8" when the intrusion into Sikkim began.

A military spokesman said Delhi was only a sporadic exchange of fire in northeast but Demchok and nearby Jara Pass were abandoned Friday.

The appeal to the United States for weapons followed report here of two Indian-U.S. British arms and ammunition.

Nehru sought help as a matter of public record for a vital Himalayan pass on the Ladakh-Tibet border in India's densely populated Assam Plain.

The Indian Army was rushing reinforcements to the Se La Pass to try to stem the advance of at least one 10,000-man Communist Chinese division striking forward from the key northeast border town of Towang which they had won.

U.S. infantry weapons for the Indian defenders in the Himalayas may begin arriving by air by the end of this week, it was understood.

The terms on which the weapons will be supplied were left

JEAN DRAPEAU WINS HANDILY IN MONTREAL

Defeats Fournier For Mayoralty

MONTREAL (CP) — Mayor Jean Drapeau finally became "mayor of all the people" Sunday in his smashing election victory, by most lopsided in Montreal history.

He was as popular in the English-speaking areas as in the French-speaking sector in piling up 130,556 votes to 113,629 for Senator Sarto Fournier, his closest opponent.

His Civic Party captured 41 of 45 council seats in the new streamlined council. Voters also gave strong support to the Drapeau administration's referendums, calling for a four, instead of three-year mandate and the establishment of identification cars for municipal voters to cut down "violent voting."

Despite Montreal's first snowstorm of the season which clogged traffic, 42.4 per cent of the electorate went to the polls, an improvement of more than one per cent over the turnout in 1960.

DETAIN NINE

The heavily reinforced police force warned election workers it "meant business" and would not tolerate the interested for the first time in the memory of veteran. officers. Nine men were detained for such offences as carrying iron bars on the front seat of their cars.

The opposition Citizens' Party and Civic Action League didn't get a look at the votes—campaigns never got off the ground and they couldn't even supply enough cars to take their supporters to the polls in the inclement weather.

There was never any doubt about Mayor Drapeau's victory. He virtually announced it himself when he read out first

FRENCH VOTERS OK DE GAULLE REFERENDUM

Will Remain Head of State

PARIS (Reuters)—Charles de Gaulle remained France's president today after voters approved his presidential referendum with a three-to-two majority and gave the imperturbable leader a vote-of-confidence in the process.

The national referendum Sunday, on which de Gaulle had staked his political future, brought 12,800,000 yes votes and 7,900,000 no votes—a 61.76 per cent affirmative ballot.

However, almost a quarter of the eligible voters stayed away from the polls.

By de Gaulle's own calculations, a figure above 60 per cent meant a "success," 65 per cent a "triumph." He had threatened to retire if the majority had been "mediocre or problematical."

But Premier Georges Pompidou declared: "the yeses have carried the day massively."

DISPELLS DOUBTS

Doubts about de Gaulle's intentions were dispelled when Interior Minister Roger Frey said: "Gen. de Gaulle will remain at his post as head of state."

Even before the president's decision was announced, however, French newspapers had predicted he would not resign.

The referendum was officially to give the voters a chance to decide on de Gaulle's proposal that future presidents be elected by popular vote, instead of by an electoral college.

But faced with the opposition of almost every political party in France—partly because the referendum meant changing the constitution without the approval of the National Assembly—de Gaulle also made the vote a test of his prestige with the French people.

With the referendum over, a new political campaign began for the election next month of a new National Assembly.

Americans Push For Missiles Removal Action

Thant to Visit Cuba On Castro Invitation

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States pressed today for fast diplomatic action to end down Soviet Premier Khrushchev's pretext to put Soviet missile bases out of Cuba.

Washington policymakers held hope—mixed with liberal doses of caution—that a breakthrough has been scored in the U.S.-Soviet confrontation that bordered on potential nuclear conflict.

Khrushchev's pledge was hailed in Western capitals as a stunning victory for the United States.

Informed sources said there were no deals of secret understandings involved with the Soviet leader's offer to dismantle the Cuban bases and return their rocket arsenals. The only price he asked was a guarantee, which Kennedy gave, that the United States would not invade Cuba.

The president was reported to have no plans for a summit meeting at this point with the premier.

WORK OUT PLANS

U.S. diplomats focused on working out arrangements for United Nations inspection of the withdrawal from Cuba of the "grim weapons" which Khrushchev, under threat of forceful U.S. action, announced Sunday he will ship back to Russia.

Acting UN Secretary-General U Thant arranged to fly to Cuba Tuesday. The U.S. hope is he can take with him a workable inspection plan to present to Premier Fidel Castro.

Khrushchev sent Deputy Foreign Minister Vassily Kuznetsov to New York to negotiate. He said on his arrival Sunday night "we are sure peace can be saved if all parties concerned will exercise good will and a reasonable approach."

The Soviet Navy marked time while Soviet ships once headed for Cuba turned back on the two days' sailing time away. The state department announced that while "quarantine" against offensive weapons shipments to Cuba continues, it expects no interceptions by the U.S. blockaders.

AGREES TO PULL OUT

Khrushchev agreed to pull out the missile bases in a letter to Kennedy made public Sunday morning in Moscow. The Soviet leader said "the interests of peace" guided his decision.

Obviously eager to match his

World Heaves Relief Sigh With Easing of War Threat

LONDON (Reuters)—An anxious world breathed easier today as the ominous threat of nuclear war gave way to the possibility of peaceful settlement of the Cuban crisis.

Comment ranged from satisfaction that the Cuban crisis seemed to be over, to praise for President Kennedy, Russian Premier Khrushchev and the United Nations.

The British government officially welcomed the Soviet announcement that it is ready to dismantle its Cuban missile sites. A few hours earlier Prime Minister Macmillan had presaged Khrushchev that such a move would open the way to wider negotiations on a nuclear test ban and disarmament generally.

Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak said Khrushchev must be thanked and congratulated for his action.

"Perhaps from the evil of these last days, something good will come," Spaak said.

Danish Foreign Minister Per Haekkerup expressed hope that the new Soviet-U.S. contact on Cuba might lead to "a final settlement in peace."

The British national press heaved an editorial sigh of relief, then joined in almost unanimous praise for the course of both President Kennedy, for his original blockade move, and Khrushchev, for his decision to dismantle the Cuban missile sites immediately.

The independent Times, analyzing Khrushchev's decision, said "in a sense it is hitting Sergeyevich asserting himself against Mr. Khrushchev; the president peasant against the bouncing leader; but there must be argument among the hard school in Moscow who will point out that whether adventure has recoiled on him."

The Liberal Manchester Guardian saw Khrushchev's decision as a means of buying time for talks on the whole question of disarmament.

But it added Khrushchev might be pushed out of the Soviet leadership.

"If so, we shall probably not be any better off."

The Soviet Communist newspaper Pravda published President Kennedy's last two statements and Khrushchev's reply under heavy headlines — "The peace and security of the peoples must be ensured." "Reason must triumph" and "Mankind approves the peace-loving proposals of the Soviet Union."

Pravda said there was universal support for "the wise victories" of the Soviet Union in the most complicated circumstances among workers throughout the Soviet Union.

British philosopher Bertrand Russell, who had exchanged telegrams calling for peace with both leaders, Sunday night congratulated Khrushchev for his move.

BELIEVE CASTRO GAVE SIGNAL FOR SABOTAGE

Latin American Countries Warned

By PAUL FINCH

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—U.S. diplomats are warning Latin American governments about an escalated communist-wide sabotage campaign believed launched Sunday with bombings that knocked out one-fifth of Venezuela's oil production.

Some authoritative sources in Washington said Cuban Premier Fidel Castro gave the signal for the general terrorist action in Latin America with the American-operated oil fields in Venezuela a prime target.

Saboteurs dynamited four power stations of the Creole Petroleum Corporation Sunday at Lake Maracaibo, which bolds seventh its waters one of the world's richest oil stores. The lake, roughly 75 miles wide and 125 miles long, lies about 300 miles west of Caracas.

The bombers struck shortly after midnight Saturday, a few hours after President Romulo Betancourt ordered mobilization of the armed forces to counter what he called the threat to Venezuela of "the reservoir of Soviet nuclear rockets in Cuba."

STILL A PROBLEM

U.S. officials were reported remaining Latin Americans that while a settlement may now be in sight to dismantle the Soviet missile sites, the long - range problem of dealing with Castro in this hemisphere will remain.

Because of Castro's government blamed the oil field bombing on "Communists." Two suspects were hauled out of the Caribbean waters of Lake Maracaibo after the blasts destroyed transformers at the Creole Petroleum, a subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey.

Police said one of the men was apparently blown up the saboteurs' boat, killing one of the bombers. One of the suspects was so badly burned he was blinded.

A Creole spokesman said the entire Tijuana oil field in the lake was rendered inoperable. He said the field produces about a month to get the field back in its daily production of 525,000 barrels, but other sources said it might take as long as three months.

These informants said the government faces a serious loss of foreign exchange earned from oil royalties, Venezuela's main source of wealth. Venezuela collects about 70 per cent of the $1,260,000 daily revenue from the country's oil production, the third largest in the world.

More Concrete Action Wanted By Government

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)—The government hopes to jolly Parliament into fewer rambling speeches and more concrete action in the two weeks ahead.

It is to carry out the promise of a supply debate next Monday, Nov. 5. This is the vehicle often used for the "state of Commons' confidence in the Progressive Conservative ministry appears to be the rules require six supply debates a session. The government won five votes on the throne speech debate.

The Commons spent four days last week in general discussion of last spring's budget proposals and current economic conditions. The debate can produce nothing in the way of legislative accomplishment, and the government would like to see it come to an end Tuesday night.

The House can then get its teeth into the budget bills, enacting the tax changes it wants which already are in effect.

The tentative schedule, subject always to opposition tactics and any emergencies that may arise on the domestic or international scenes, is:

Today and Tuesday—budget discussions.

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday—five bills and resolutions sponsored by Transport Minister Balcer.

Next Monday and Tuesday—debate on any grievance any member may want to raise before Parliament considers voting appropriations. This is usually crystallized in an opposition non-confidence motion, which would go to a vote at 8:35 p.m. Tuesday.

Wednesday to Friday next week—discussion of the 1962-63 revised expenditure estimates, tabled in the Commons Oct. 18 by Finance Minister Nowlan.

Capital Reaction to Cuba Mixed Relief and Caution

OTTAWA (CP) — Reaction here to the thaw in the Cuban crisis struck the same note exhibited in other world capitals—relief mingled with caution from Prime Minister Diefenbaker on down.

"Mankind will breathe more hopefully," he said in a statement Sunday night. "The introduction of missiles into the Western Hemisphere brought the world too close to disaster for anyone to indulge in either self-congratulations or complacency at this time."

He urged: "Now is no time for us to relax our efforts, we should keep our fears, in perspective," said Liberal Leader Pearson.

"Value of new machinery for negotiation spring from this first step in the right direction," said House Leader R. W. Prittie of the New Democratic Party.

Earlier in the day, Mr. Diefenbaker confessed to 200 persons at a church cornerstone-laying ceremony that he had some difficulty keeping abreast of the fast-breaking Cuban developments.

A Diefenbaker statement later said there is an "early prospect that the threat to the western hemisphere from long-range Soviet missiles in Cuba will be removed."

This had been brought about by "high degree of unity, understanding and co-operation among the western allies." In this the Canadian government has played its full part.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the UN deserves special praise for its efforts. For the future, "I believe that in the negotiations which will follow the immediate settlement of the Cuban crisis there lie broad possibilities for progress in the settlement of other issues between East and West.

"Indeed, if the present situation is fully executed, this will be the first time that agreed disarmament measures are carried out under international inspection.

"Indeed, disarmament without inspection could not be achieved."

Mr. Pearson said Berlin still remains. There was a relationship—born of the cold war—between one dangerous problem and another.

"Therefore, if the settlement of the Cuban crisis can lead to the reduction of tensions elsewhere and progress toward disarmament, then we can be even more grateful to President Kennedy for his firm stand last week."

Washington Happy But Concerned Over Possible Kremlin Upheaval

WASHINGTON (CP) — Quiet jubilation reigned in this capital today over Soviet Premier Khrushchev's decision to dismantle Soviet missile sites in Cuba, but there was concern in responsible quarters that the Russian decision may lead to internal Kremlin convulsions that probably could threaten and shake the world in the next few weeks.

The immediate Kennedy administration view was that Khrushchev's leadership may be under challenge in Moscow.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Warmer air has advanced eastward across the Prairies into northwestern Ontario. The warmer air is forecast to push across the northern regions of Ontario by tonight and reach Southern Ontario Tuesday. Temperatures will be 10 to 12 degrees higher.

This was seen as a reason for the confusing and conflicting Soviet actions in Cuba.

Kennedy during a tense and critical weekend in which Kennedy edged dangerously close to open invasion of Cuba.

Friday, Khrushchev had agreed in a letter to Kennedy to remove the offensive weapons in Cuba if Kennedy pledged not to invade that Communist stronghold.

Saturday, Khrushchev suddenly injected a demand for elimination of NATO nuclear missiles in Turkey as the price for withdrawal of Soviet missiles in Cuba.

Sunday, after Kennedy rejected the higher withdrawal price, Khrushchev returned to his original bargain.

Those close to the Kennedy scene were urged not to panic. They were cautioned not to say anything that might aggravate an inner Kremlin conflict and force the Khrushchev leadership to undertake new global risks in order to preserve that leadership. The possibility of a new Berlin crisis was not dismissed. Soviet pressure might be exerted anywhere.

Unique Medical Triumph Will Save Many Premature Babies

CLEVELAND (AP) — "John Glenn" is a lamb who was born twice, the second time from an artificial plastic womb.

The unique medical triumph now promises to save hundreds or thousands of premature babies whose lungs are not yet good enough to keep them alive, a Canadian surgeon said Sunday.

The artificial womb would take over only while babies could breathe properly.

Dr. John C. Callaghan of Zdbrook described the bowl-shaped, plastic "womb" at a closing scientific session of the American Heart Association.

The lamb was taken from the body of its mother by Caesarean section two weeks before it was due to be born.

It was quickly transferred to the plastic chamber, filled with fluid much like that in the mother's womb, and a type of heart - lung machine pumped blood through the lamb's body, oxygenating it. Four days later, the little pioneer was "delivered" a second time, and took its own first breath of air.

The system has been modified for human infants and a Canadian team of doctors hopes soon to try to succor premature babies dying of suffocation.

The baby, already born naturally but small, would be submerged in fluid. But he would be connected by vein and artery to an artificial system pumping oxygen - rich blood through his body while supplementing his faulty lungs.

In many premature infants, and even some born at full term, the lungs are not yet already to do the job fully. Even in incubators they turn ashen grey or blue, and die within two to 36 hours, Dr. Callaghan explained.

The artificial womb would simply provide a kind of wood transfusion until the infant's lungs were working at 100 per cent efficiency.

The completely substitute plastic womb was used to study positive hazards and problems in keeping a premature animal alive, Dr. Callaghan said in a joint report with Drs. Jose Delos Angeles and Beatris Borrachia.

Convention Will Be Opened By Premier

Members of the Belleville General Hospital Board of Governors, the Women's Auxiliary and hospital administration staff will be attending the 38th annual convention of the Ontario Hospital Association being held in Toronto this week.

The convention being held Oct. 29, 30 and 31 at the Royal York Hotel will be opened by Ontario Premier John P. Roberts.

The convention will be Canada's largest with more than 4,000 delegates representing hospitals and allied health institutions from all parts of the province are expected to attend. Top flight hospital authorities from each parts of Canada and the United States will be on hand to lead discussions on a variety of tropical hospital problems.

The convention theme is "The Voluntary Concept — Incentive for Progress".

A PUBLIC TRUST

Commenting on the theme, Association President, Max B. Wallace stated that "hospitals are essentially a public trust. If we are to retain ownership of these institutions at the community level, trustees and administrators have a serious obligation to keep pace with the latest administrative and educational techniques which can be utilized to improve the service to patients and to communities at large".

Special sessions will be held during the convention for the benefit of those involved in specific aspects of hospital work such as nursing, dietetics, medical records, laundry, engineering and others.

Change Locale Of Lecture

Due to increased interest in the Survival lectures being presented by the Quinte Emergency Measures Organization, the lecture scheduled for presentation in the City Council Chambers, Belleville, at 8 p.m. Nov. 1, has been moved. It will be presented at 8:30 p.m. the same day, in the auditorium of Belleville Collegiate Institute. The move was made because the lecture presented yesterday in the Stirling council chambers, was attended by more than 200 people and QEMO hardly believes the Belleville Council Chambers would be too small to hold the turnout for Thursday's lecture.

Car Crash Sends Three To Hospital

TWEED (Special) — Three persons are in hospital in Belleville General Hospital Saturday night following a two-car collision on Highway 62 between Sulphide and Tweed.

Cars driven by Norma Manion and Richard Mahoney of Marmora were involved in the crash and ended up as wrecked in the same ditch. Dr. Barry of Tweed attended the injured who were later sent on to hospital at Belleville.

Mrs. Mahoney was reported seriously hurt with possible internal injuries while her husband suffered concussion. Miss Manion was allowed to return home following treatment.

Provincial Police Officer Larry Calnan of the Madoc detachment investigated.

Special Classes For Boys, Girls

This year there are special sessions for boys and girls of eight years of age in both swimming and gymnastics at the Belleville YMCA, the recreational classes began this past week and will continue for the balance of the season.

The Saturday classes are held every Saturday morning from 2:30 to 3:30 o'clock under the direction of Bob Doogan and physical director Joe Ruddy.

The girls' classes are held every Thursday afternoon from 3:15 to 6:15 p.m. Miss Norma Hunter-David will be instructing these classes.

Commencement Exercises Held at St. Michael's

On Friday evening, the annual Commencement Exercises were held at St. Michael's Academy. The chairman for the evening was Michael Ryan. The Glee Club opened the program with "O Canada" and the closing hymn "Hail of Living".

Thomas Beehler was called upon to introduce the guest speaker, Mr. Douglas Boyle, B.A., LL.B.

Following his own Commencement in the Academy auditorium, Mr. Boyle refer red briefly to the work of the late Reverend L. B. Garvin, "Remember who you are and where you are going".

These words had man an impression because it was then taken up with the problem of what career he should choose. Urging each graduate to give serious thought to his future career, the career which suits his personality and capabilities, Mr. Boyle stressed the fact that capabilities are only a small portion of what constitutes success.

"You must, with as much diligence and tenacity as you can muster, strive to attain your goal. You are as willing to the leading to the heights of fame. You are being molded by your environment and the conditions in which you find yourself. As a willow grows, it develops and unfolds; and as you grow and mature physically and mentally, you will find that you will acquire knowledges that you possess within you. This knowledge develops, you will develop in wisdom and understanding, and you will be able to cope with more problems as they present themselves to you. You will find that matters and things that are bothering you will begin to fall into a pattern.

FORMATIVE YEARS

"These are very formative years. You are not studying just to pass a history or geography examination or whatever test you have had to you. What is important is that you are organizing your study habits. It is essential that you should have a long-term outlook in both regard. The more proficient you become at the present time as regards your study habits, the easier you will find it academically and in application to your daily tasks when you get out into the business world.

"Those who go to university will find that a habit of study established in high school grades will enable them to reap many benefits. In university you find that you are an individual in an amorphous mass of students. You are left on your own to sink or swim as you will; and you will find it much easier to grow with your studies and the environment of university if you develop the very important study habit at this time."

Mr. Boyle concluded his address by emphasizing his advice that the students should orientate their minds to an overall grasp of the type of education that they are trying to acquire, and develop the study habit — It will pay them enormous dividends.

Bill Lynch thanked the guest speaker.

EXCELLENT ADDRESS

Joanne Colligan, as valedictorian, gave an eloquent address. She recalled highlights of seven years spent at St. Michael's, among which were the Students' Retreats, the Youth Conference in Peterborough, the Shakespearean Program in Kingston, and the dance held in May for the graduating class. Priests, teachers, and parents were thanked for their support, kindly counsel, and guidance. She concluded with the statement that it was not so much what the students acquired, as themselves in the years that lie ahead, but what they did for others, that would make them worthy alumni of St. Michael's Academy.

"God Save the Queen," sung by the Glee Club under the direction of Reverend Sister Mary Rosaria closed the program.

Two Arrested After Break-in At Pool Room

Robert Thomas Bennett, 20 and Leonard Clifford Wood, 28, were appearing in city police about 1.30 a.m. this morning and have been charged with breaking and entering the office of Lafferty's Pool Room on Bridge Street.

The two men will be appearing in city magistrate's court here on Tuesday before Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

A small amount of cash was taken from the cash register and an attempt had been made on a vault in the pool room but was unsuccessful.

Police Constable Peters, while patrolling in the vicinity of the pool room, noticed a rear window had been broken, by which entry to the building was gained.

Constable Peters called for assistance and the two men were arrested in the building.

Bennett is presently on bail awaiting trial in connection with the armed robbery from Booth Radio and Television on May 26th of this year.

Police say further charges are pending against the two men.

Ottawa Man And His Wife Die in Fire

OTTAWA (CP)—A prominent Ottawa man and his wife died Sunday in their flaming three-storey brick home on centre-town MacLaren Street.

Dead are John Charles Outram, 60, and his wife the former Olga Elizabeth Ramsay Bell, 59, whose daughter, Alice, married former Commons Speaker Rene Beaudoin in 1958.

Mr. Outram, committee secretary of the deputy ministers's secretariat in the defence department, his wife was a daughter of the late Dr. Robert A. Bell, former director of the Geological Survey of Canada.

Firemen said the couple had managed to leave their beds as flames licked through their home, but were apparently overcome by smoke and carbon monoxide.

Cause of the fire is not known. Coroner Dr. C. Cross said an inquest will be held.

results from Civic Party election headquarters. Because of snow-clogged traffic, his scrutineers in the polls telephoned them in well before the ballots arrived at city hall for official tabulation.

The mayor read out victories by huge margins in polls selected from all city districts.

Before the official results were announced, Senator Fournier conceded one hour after the polls closed.

The mayor and Civic Party held a victory celebration in the city hall's Hall of Honor.

VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

Mr. Drapeau hailed the victory in French and English, adding it was a vote of confidence from all the citizens of Montreal.

"My party will take no unjust advantage of its overwhelming majority," he promised. "We will work to make Montreal one of the great cities of the world."

He will be in office to see the subway he started in May completed in 1966 if it is built on schedule.

"And in 1967, we will put on the best World Fair this city has ever been seen," Mayor Drapeau added.

The four councillors who survived the onslaught were all entrenched independents.

Frank Hanley, the Irish-Canadian independent member of Quebec legislature from St. Ann's pulled through against the Civic Party after a shaky start. Gerard Loiselle and Pit Lafond, federal members of Parliament, and veteran councillor Bruno Lauzon also won.

The identity card still has to be approved by the Quebec legislature before it comes into force.

Paul Lambert, Civic Action League candidate, conceded defeat shortly after the senator. He polled 3,708 votes.

Montreal's first woman candidate for mayor, Louise Parent, received 702 votes. She didn't campaign.

Missing Officer Has Been Traced To Greece

LONDON (Reuters) — Lieut. Oliver J. Grenon, who disappeared from the Canadian destroyer Kootenay six months ago, has been traced to Greece as Canadian Navy spokesman said Sunday.

The spokesman said Grenon had been posted as an absentee but no further action would be taken against him "unless he approaches us on his own accord."

The spokesman said: "Grenon has committed no crime. He is not a security risk and had no access to very valuable information. We have posted him as missing in the normal way."

He said Grenon disappeared April 6. He is veiled to Cannes the following day and joined the crew of the yacht Golden Serenity, owned by a Mr. R. Bissing of Hamilton, Bermuda. He left the yacht in Greece.

The spokesman said he could not speculate on what would happen if Grenon returned to Canada.

CANCEL FESTIVAL

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Saigon's large Indian community has cancelled its annual Deepawali Festival Wednesday because of the serious situation along the Chinese-Indian border. Deepawali, the Festival of Lights, is a major Hindu holiday normally celebrated with candles, bright lights and feasting.

County Warden H. Varty Entertains 300 at Banquet

Hastings County Warden Harold Varty of Hungerford township and Mrs. Varty, were hosts Saturday evening to more than 300 guests at the 1962 warden's banquet held in the auditorium at the Tweed high school.

County officials, local members of parliament and others paid tribute to Warden Varty for his sincerity in service and for his devotion to duty as the county council head.

HAROLD VARTY

Guests also heard speaker Ted Fiedler, president of radio station CFRS at Simcoe call for personal in the trend to ward increased public welfare. The topic of his address was "What is the Challenge of Our Age."

Contrary to the opinion of an ever increasing percentage of the population the world owes nobody a living, Mr. Fiedler stressed.

Unfortunately the feeling that the world owes one them a living is attained by many people at an early age and accordingly the system in many cases schools were doing little to change this thinking. Schools should teach that what is useful to the individual is also useful to society.

"If you want something from life, go out and work for it," Mr. Fiedler urged. "I don't agree with the idea that the government should provide everything more services. Much of today's welfare should be provided by the individual."

TRIBUTE PAID

Among those paying tribute to Warden Varty were Deputy-Reeve George White of Madoc, recent-ly-elected speaker of the Upper House.

Senator White said his new position was a result in the by-riding from which he came, but assured his listeners he was still one of them.

Others speaking briefly in tribute to the warden were Hon. E. Grilli, M.P. for Hastings-South, Frank W. Ewart, Sandercock and Clarke T. Rollins.

Members of county council were introduced by County Clerk Ross Thompson who acted as banquet chairman, while ex-wardens were introduced by Deputy-Reeve Mervin Davis of McLure, Wicklow and Bangor townships.

Reeve Charles Long of Tyendinaga responded to the Warden's address of welcome.

Marmora Reeve William A. Shannon presented the warden to the guests responded to by Reeve Bert Jeffery of Belleville and Trenton Mayor James MacDonald. Wardens from neighboring counties, including Miss M. L. Bamford of Haliburton, Ontario's only lady warden, also spoke briefly.

Members of county council presented Warden Varty with a handsome riding saddle.

"It's something that I have always wanted," said Warden Varty in appreciation. Roses were presented to Mrs. Varty.

A full scale black-face minstrel show staged by about 30 members of the Madoc Kiwanis Club provided an enjoyable hour of entertainment to conclude the evening.

No Comment On Withdrawal By Reds

PEKING (Reuters) — The Communist party People's Daily today reported Russia's decision to dismantle its Cuban missile bases in a one - paragraph item in the bottom corner of the third page.

There was no comment in any of them on the Soviet decision and the main story on a rally protesting against any possible United States arms blockade against Cuba.

Since the government statement last Wednesday supporting the original Russian reaction to the blockade, all Chinese comment has been devoted to vigorous attacks on the United States and support for Cuba.

29 Fatalities Across Canada During Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Road accidents claimed 29 lives in Canada during the weekend, 13 of them in Quebec. Six were killed on the roads in Ontario. Three died in fires, two of them in Ontario, where a boy also was strangled on a swing.

The Canadian Press survey, from 6 p.m. local times Friday to midnight Sunday, does not include known suicides, industrial accidents or slayings.

Ontario dead:

John W. Lillman of Westminster Township, near London, when the car he was driving collided with a freight boxcar on the outskirts of London Friday night.

Stephen John White, 90, struck by a train while walking home alone in Sarnia, Friday night.

Frederick A McNeil, 54, of Toronto, struck by a car in Toronto Saturday.

Abram Loucks, 83, of Waterloo, struck by a car near his farm home Sunday night.

CRASH THROUGH BRIDGE

Gary Matheson, 21, of Ottawa, and Thomas Eugene Noolan, 18, of Perth, Ont., when their car crashed through the railing of a bridge into the Madawaska River near Arnprior, Ont., late Saturday or early Sunday.

Kevin Bud Dolan, 14, of Renfrew, Ont., when struck accidentally on the cord of a swing in the basement of his home Sunday.

John C. Outram, 61, and his wife, Olga, 57, when fire broke out in their Ottawa home Sunday.

1,000 Dead Missing After Thailand Storm

BANGKOK, Thailand (Reuters)—The unofficial toll of dead and missing in storm-ravaged southern Thailand soared to 1,000 today as reports reaching here gave a fuller picture of the disaster, one of the worst in modern Thai history.

Thousands were reported homeless and in one province alone 40,000 homes were reported destroyed.

Pilots searching the gulf of Thailand for a missing boat reported seeing dozens of bodies and masses of debris floating out of river mouths into the gulf.

The storm struck the narrow waist of land linking the Malaya Peninsula to the Asian mainland Thursday night, sinking dozens of boats and sweeping away flimsy thatched huts in villages along the coast.

A Thai Navigation Company spokesman said on one of its ships, the 395-ton Bandon, was missing with 40 persons aboard.

In one place 18 fishing boats were reported sunk and police at Songkhla were searching for 20 missing boats from motor launches capsized in Songkhla Lake, drowning 30 passengers.

Woman Found Dead in Car

OTTAWA (CP)—Alice Allard, 43, wife of Executive Vice-president T. James Allard of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, was found dead Sunday in the family car in the garage.

The discovery was made by her daughter Sandra, 19, police said.

An autopsy has been conducted by coroner Dr. J. S. Penhale. Results have not yet been made public.

Union Nationale Leader Opposed to State Medicine

QUEBEC (CP)—Daniel Johnson, Union Nationale leader, says re-election of the Liberal government in the Nov. 14 provincial election would set Quebec on a straight road to socialism."

Premier Lesage, meanwhile, says a Union Nationale victory would mean a return to a policy of "croix ou meurs" — the French idiom for "death to the infidel."

Mr. Johnson made his charge during Lesage's campaigning around the Gaspe coast. Speaking at Perce Tuesday night, he said enough experience could be put on the Liberal government to widen the scope of the hospital insurance program into a system of state medicine.

He said he is opposed to state medicine. However, such a "socialist" move could be prevented by changes in the hospital insurance plan to provide payment of doctors' fees for those in need.

Meanwhile, campaigning at the other end of the province—in northwestern Quebec — Mr. Lesage said at La Sarre Sunday that a change of government would amount to replacing "a policy of social justice by a policy of discrimination."

The Liberal government, in power since June, 1960, after 16 years of Union Nationale government, had wrought big changes in Quebec's life.

All Quebecers, even those who will not admit it, are proud of the province now," said Mr. Lesage.

Elaborating on his socialism theme, Mr. Johnson said that this is not the time for "cracking down" which are not acceptable to Quebec's population.

The province's problems plan to negotiate Quebec's share of our children," he said.

The government had rejected the idea of expropriating the power production and transmission facilities of the Shawinigan Company of Canada, but would take over Saguenay Electric Company. Already a distributor outlet for its surplus power.

LOTS OF LEAVES

NEW YORK (AP)—New York City expects to collect an estimated 975,000 tons of leaves in its annual autumn cleanup due to begin today. The city has some 546,000 curb-side trees.

Noted Soloists Will Feature Presentation of 'The Creation'

Bridge St. United Church choir, under the direction of Mr. Robert Reid, will present the first two parts of Haydn's oratorio "The Creation" on November 5th.

This oratorio depicts the Biblical creation of the world as told in Genesis — the revelation of world chaos into order, the creation of the animal kingdom and finally man himself.

The origin of Haydn's Creation is strikingly told by George Grove in a letter he wrote in 1878 to Haydn's biographer, Carl Ferdinand Pohl: "I have just seen old Purdy, born 1789, whose father was a music seller. He told me that Barthelemon told Purdy's father that Haydn, while here, said to him: 'I wish to write something which will make my name last in the world. What would you advise me to do?' Barthelemon took up a Bible which was lying near and said 'There is the book; begin at the beginning', and this was the first suggestion of 'The Creation.'"

The Creation has five solo rules, namely, the Archangels, Gabriel, Uriel and Raphael, and Adam and Eve. In reality, however, there are only three parts because the two soprano solo parts for Gabriel and Eve can be sung by one person.

NOTED SOLOIST

In this performance the soloist will be Raeleane Reid, an outstanding soprano soloist, who has appeared on the CBC radio and television and with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra. She is also a leading star with the Mendelssohn Choir of Toronto, and has toured Ontario and Newfoundland, appearing in concert and oratorio performances.

The bass parts of both Raphael and Adam will be sung by William Perry, who is well known as a soloist and has his appearance with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra. He is also organist in a church in Lindsay, Ontario.

The voice of Uriel will be that of Dan Pocienicki, a gifted tenor soloist who has sung at numerous concerts and oratorio presentations throughout Eastern Canada. He is at present studying at the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto.

The three Archangels recite the first six days of creation are unfolded in a panorama row of pictures, variously treated. Simon Peter, the well-known briefly; others describe them in detail, joining observations and words of thanks and praise addressed to the Creation. The first recitative and air of the celebrated with hymns by the angels of the heavenly hosts. The six days' work is described in the first and second parts.

QUARTET FEATURED

Featured in this performance is the Trenton Ontario String Quartet which is at present quartet in the resident string quartet of the Eastern Concert Orchestra that will appear in Belleville on November 22. These musicians have appeared on numerous occasions in Toronto, in government and other important and throughout Ontario and have recently entertained with a soloist with the Belleville Symphony Orchestra. The conductor, Stephen Chorna, hopes to form a junior string quartet in the near future.

The choir organist at Bridge Street United Church and for the past twenty-five years, needs no introduction to music lovers in this area. He studied at the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto, and later at the Julliard School of Music in New York. Mr. Gordon, performer in Ontario radio broadcast recitals, has composed numerous musical pieces for organ, solo voices and choir.

Robert Reid, director for this presentation, has appeared as tenor soloist in Carnegie Hall with the New York Oratorio Society, the CBC Television and Radio Productions, at Stratford Shakespearian Festival and with the Toronto Symphony and Mendelssohn Choir.

He has toured Eastern Canada and has staged and directed numerous Toronto productions of light operas.

Haydn's oratorios are in a category by themselves; they stand apart in musical literature. Their immortal words overpowered its listeners at the first performance in 1798; after a century and a half it has lost not a vestige of its glory. A choir of approximately forty voices, along with soloists and string quartet will present this renowned masterpiece in this city. It is a musical highlight for hundreds of lovers of oratorios in Belleville and district.

Hastings Co. Fed. of Agr. Plans Events

The Hastings County Federation of Agriculture held their monthly meeting on October 25 at Stirling.

The president, Donald Sills, West Huntingdon presided. Directors were reminded of the 28th annual convention November 13, 13, 14 to be held in Toronto at the Royal York. This promises to be an interesting meeting, the theme being, "The Challenge of Change".

Mrs. Percy Ray, Halloway, gave a report on the publicity workshop held at Lansdowne for publicity officers. Reports are to be kept simple, readable, brief, newsy, factual and straight forward.

Mr. Cunningham Feldman for Hastings Lennox and Addington and Prince Edward presented the number of publicity officer

Plans for the annual banquet to be held in Carmel-Rawdon, Nov. 22, were announced. Guest speaker will be Mr. Art Musgrave, latvice-president Ontario Federation of Agriculture. Tickets may be obtained from any director.

Radio Farm Forum has taken to the air at a new time this season, from 9-9.30 p.m. on Monday evenings, said Edith Storr, secretary, report ed that steps are being taken to increase the participation among rural people in Ontario this year.

CHASES THUGS

WOODSTOCK (CP)—Wielding an eight-inch pair of scissors, Mrs. Ruth Clifford of nearby Curries Friday night chased three young would-be robbers out of her service station five miles south of here. Mr. Clifford had been jumped by the youths, but twisted his arm, another hit him over the head with a pop bottle and the third ran behind the counter to the cash register. Mr. Clifford broke away and grabbed the scissors.

Last week, Trenton Crystal Chapter, No. 20, the senior division of the Ladies' Orange Lodge, celebrated the 17th anniversary of local membership, by a banquet in the Orange hall on Ontario Street. Crystal Chapter members from Belleville attended the function. In the picture, Junior Preceptress Leola Ward and Senior Preceptress Etta Robinson, cut the birthday cake.

Petition Will Be Presented To Council

TRENTON — A special meeting of Trenton council will be held tonight to consider whether the question of Sunday movies for Trenton should be placed before the electorate in the forthcoming December elections.

At last meeting of council, councillors voted four to two, not to bring the issue before the public.

This being the case, local theatre manager Gerry Ste. Gelais had one recourse — to collect the names of 25 per cent of those citizens qualified to vote on the issue, attached to a petition asking that the matter be brought to a public vote.

This morning, the names collected were being counted at the municipal office, and the results will be relayed to council this evening. Mr. Ste. Gelais was unavailable for comment on the number of names collected, today.

In absence in the Ont.-Ario Municipal Board decision on whether or not the town of Trenton can proceed with the sale of debentures to raise $35,000 for road reconstruction, Trenton Council has one part of the town as to why it should be allowed to do this, as well as a representation from 21 Trenton ratepayers who objected, in a petition, to the sale of debentures for the purpose. They were heard by OMB representative A. L. McCrae, at a formal hearing last week. Following the hearing, Mr. McCrae stated that a decision would be forthcoming, after he had checked with other members of the Ontario board and that possibly this decision would be sent to town authorities by today. However, this morning, clerk-complob- subject.

Fifteen RCAF Planes Search Missing Craft

TRENTON — Fifteen RCAF airplanes today were searching for a Cessna 172 light aircraft missing from Toronto's Island Airport since Sunday. The plane was piloted by Douglas Taylor of Toronto.

Canadian and United States Coast Guard vessels, shipping on Lake Ontario, were likewise police and provincial police have been placed on the alert. The air search is being concentrated in an area from London to Kingston.

Taylor had left the airport on a 15 - minute flight to check whether weather conditions would permit a flight to Kingston.

The Cessna, owned by Central Airways of Toronto, was last seen as it circled above the airport.

$300 Damage As Car Hits Hydro Pole

TRENTON—On Saturday, an accident on the Wooler Road, resulted in damage estimated at $300. There was no injuries to the driver of the car involved, Alan William Anderson of 60 College Street, Trenton.

Police say that Mr. Anderson's car struck a hydro pole at the foot of a steep hill.

The accident was investigated by an officer from the Ontario Provincial Police detachment at Brighton.

Senator William A. Fraser

With the death of Senator William A. Fraser the town of Trenton loses its best known citizen. It is not often that a community has the privilege and advantage of a citizen who has worked as hard for the advancement of its interests and well-being as did Bill Fraser.

Often this work was done without thanks. On occasions there was strong criticism such as is often incurred by a rugged individual and one who has achieved success in the political and business life. That Senator Fraser was such a man is well known. He had a rare shrewdness for seeing an opportunity and taking advantage of it. This faculty served him well also with fish of the smaller varieties.

From 1923, when he was first elected mayor of Trenton until his death this past Friday, Senator Fraser's efforts were responsible for many benefits in this area. The establishment of Canada's largest R.C.A.F. base, the location of new industries, the provision of modern parks and housing were but a few of the achievements for which the Trenton district can thank him.

Although a staunch member of the Liberal party it was fitting that great personalities of both major parties and the business community were present to honor him at the testimonial dinner held for him two years ago last spring.

It was saddening to get the news of Fraser's health decline in the past several years for it restricted his activity, but not his interest, in the welfare and progress of his community. The groundwork had already been laid with a firm hand, however, and today we are still enjoy the fruition and reward of many of his projects.

Bill Fraser was the greatest contributor to Trenton's growth. For this achievement he will be long remembered by his fellow citizens in every walk of life.

To War or Not to War

The current crisis in India should be a lesson to the whole world. The offensive launched by communist China against the one nation which has, perhaps, done more to offer her moral and international support than any other country is undoubtedly the most resounding proof that any agreement or friendship which the communists enter into is but a matter of convenience until such time as another tack is required to further their ends.

It is still interesting to note that although the Indian government appears to recognize the Chinese invasion of their territory as a deliberate affront to India's sovereignty it also appears to be initially conducting the war with as much restraint as possible. For instance, the Indian defence minister, Krishna Menon, terms as lies the report (from the Chinese) that India's air force is using fighter planes and bombers.

Military observers have expressed the opinion the Indian forces will continue to fall back on all fronts unless fighters and bombers are pressed into service to repell the invaders. Yet there has been no attempt, if we are to believe Mr. Menon, by the Indians to use these forces.

We cannot help but wonder just how the Indians are ever to determine that war is war no matter what weapons are being used and that it is only logical to use every possible advantage, both tactical and practical, to press on for victory. If the workings of the Indian leaders' minds over the past have been a bit unfathomable they would have appeared to have reached a record depth now.

One for Santa's Sleigh

Transport Minister Leslie Rowntree has announced that auto licence plates will go on sale December 10 this year. He suggests that they be given as Christmas gifts. The plates will make excellent gifts (for the man who has everything), and the early sale would help in decreasing the congestion which usually occurs at all licensing bureaus near the end of February, but the scheme can not be an unqualified success.

There is bound to be a certain percentage of motorists who will wait for the post-Christmas bargain sales.

The doctor, the teacher, the architect, the engineer—practically all professional men and women—have to fit themselves for their careers by some specialized training. But the politician has to have no degrees or diplomas in order to become a representative of the people. Would nations be better governed if he—or she—had to take some professional training, for instance, at special political schools set up at universities? —(Sault Ste. Marie Star.)

Sea-Lion Starves

Stratford Beacon - Herald

The story of the sea-lion which escaped from a small zoo at a summer resort, and found his way downstream until it came to Lake Huron where he has used as a horrible example, at a water pollution conference in Toronto.

The sea-lion was missing for several months, and was then recaptured. It died soon afterwards.

Death was not attributed to injury, illness or the frustration of being back behind bars. The sea-lion, in the course of a few months in Lake Ontario, starved to death. The fancy word on the official report was "malnutrition."

Any time before white men began to build cities on the shores of the Great Lakes, a sea-lion, supposing he could have got there, would have arrived and waxed fat in Lake Ontario. For as long as the Indians owned that country, the lake was a body of clean water, alive with fish of the choicest varieties. Any expert and skilled fish-catcher, the sea-lion, cannot keep himself nourished in Lake Ontario waters, even with all day to work at nothing but catching food for himself.

This is not a problem only for the cities on the lake shores which dump their sewage in the lake, and for the ships which dump their garbage from the rail, flush out their boilers and put old oil straight to lake waters. Almost without exception, the inland communities of Ontario make use, for sewage disposal, of streams which run to the Great Lakes. The problem is rapidly becoming not by a story, perhaps apocryphal, which also was being told at the Toronto conference.

The story is about a sign supposed to have been posted in the washrooms of a hotel in Galt, Ont. The sign said "Please flush the toilets. Brantford needs our water."

The message is clear, that after the Grand River has picked up Galt sewage, it becomes the Brantford water supply, wherevpon the Grand River becomes the Galt-Brantford sewer, an... continues on with its burden, to dump it in Lake Erie. Anyone who uses the Galt hotel washroom, and then goes for a look at Niagara Falls, is seeing first a small and foul, and a large aspect of one continuous process.

The net result is that Lake Ontario becomes too polluted for its insurgence, and a solitary sea-lion starves to death.

Stratford was once listed among the offending communities which were sending pollution down the streams, 24 hours a day, seven days a week, to make Lake St. Clair more and more like a cesspool. A new and efficient sewage system has taken us off in the guilty list, at some considerable expense to local taxpayers, but there is still urgent need for support for the agencies which are trying to stop stream pollution by many other urban areas.

The pollution of great waterways is not new in history. It is as old as man's occupancy, but history provides the lesson of great civilizations which perished when their water supplies perished, and of others which saved themselves only by immense spending, to reverse the trend to pollution.

The poet Coleridge, in the year 1828, visited the city of Cologne, on the Rhine, in the era when industrial development in France, Switzerland, Baden and the Rhine Valley was beginning to put great quantities of industrial waste in the rivers, and the idea of large-scale sewage treatment was still new Coleridge used the visit to compose to collect material for a satirical ballad that would be a disposal, of streams which run to the Great Lakes. The problem is rapidly becoming not by a story, perhaps apocryphal, which also was being told at the Toronto conference.

The story is about a sign supposed to have been posted in the washrooms of a hotel in Galt, Ont. The sign said "Please flush the toilets. Brantford needs our water."

Letter To The Editor

Wants Answers To Questions

Editor, Intelligencer

The City Council has put fluoridation on the ballot for our December municipal election, which is not a little over a month way. I for one would like to know what I am voting for. How much it will cost to install and what it will cost the taxpayers annually to operate?

I would like to know the right amount of fluoride added at the pump house will come out of the taps and will it be with exactly the same amount that it should be? Also the largest percentage of fluoride that goes back into the bay. Is there any guarantee that our new sewage disposal plant will eliminate fluorides or will it pass on into the bay with the detergents to further pollute and contaminate our waters?

What percentage of our city water is used for drinking? Will fluoridated water injure plants, flowers or lawns? A large percentage of your fluorides will be used to flush toilets and is wasted. Fluoride is a corrosive, what will it do to cars washed with it? What will it do to the plumbing or to your stomach? How does a water conditioner work with fluoridated water?

I would like to know the answers to these and many more questions I must vote on before marking my ballot. Can the mayor or chairmen answer any of them? Let's hear both sides of the question, so we can make an intelligent decision.

Shinplasters Are Praised

Woodstock Sentinel-Review

What this country needs, along with removal of traffic jams, lower meat prices and lower taxes, is the return of the shinplaster, the Sarnia Observer believes.

Probably a good many young er folks think a shinplaster is another name for a band aid. Actually it was a very convenient paper equivalent of 25 cents.

The shinplaster had its advantages. You could put one in a letter and send it off for a indoor lily root. You could send a couple along with a $2 bill to pay a painting. You could make a very junior Junior feel like a big shot by handing him 25 cents in folding money.

The day when you can pay off bills under $1 by sending shinplasters is gone. One reason is that the postal people would rather add one cent to the price of a money order than have small currency going through the mails. Others don't react too well to post office cancelling machines.

Maybe the disappearance of the shinplaster was due to the fact that by the monetary standards of the day when they were in vogue, 25 cents could buy you a pack of five good cigars or a pound of hamburger. By today's standards the shinplaster would have to be sliced down to a third of its original size.

Because so many firms now use posters and signs, it would take a bill under a dollar with postage stamps, the Sarnia writer believes. Perhaps some can be tried to pay off a 75 cent balance laid from a newspaper coverage with stamps and was told the phone company doesn't accept them.

None of our political parties, not even the Social Credit folks with their hard-to-justify monetary policies has ever made a return of the shinplaster a vote-catcher. Maybe we need a new party dedicated to shinplasters, the writer concludes.

Red Leaders Can Be Wrong

Hamilton Spectator

Russian traffic regulations and driving tests are known to be among the world's most stringent, yet some Communists continue to have human failings. This was evidenced in Paris just a day or two ago when some Russian tourists in the private automobiles drove to the Fontainebleau Palace. One of the cars stopped suddenly, the one directly behind piled into it, and before the shouting had died down, two more cars piled up.

This incident may not only prove that carelessness is no respecter of ideologies, but that the Communist practice of blindly following the leader has its limitations.

Osteomyelitis Is An Infection of the Bone

By JOSEPH G MOLNER M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is osteomyelitis? What causes it? Is it very serious and what precautions should be taken by a man who has had it twice (left arm and left foot)? Should he be allowed to participate in sports? — R.L.

Osteomyelitis is an infection of the bone. As with any infection, it is caused by a germ of one sort or another getting a foothold in a certain area — in this case, the bone.

Antibiotics have been a great help in treating this disease, but even with these drugs, some cases don't heal and often it is necessary to resort to surgery, scraping the infected bone and sometimes providing appropriate drainage until the bone heals.

Precautionary measures? Rest and avoidance of excessive use or injury, of the affected bone, are a basic part of treatment. Also, antibiotics are known to control whatever germ is doing the damage.

Once the infection has been halted and the bone has healed properly, there is no reason why the patient cannot resume any and all normal activities, including sports.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please give your opinion of women over 40 having children? Is it true there are more imperfections in babies born of older mothers? What psychological effects would older parents have on a child? I am 43. — Mrs. J.B.

There is somewhat more risk of imperfections in babies born to older mothers. But the difference in risk is not enormous. As to the psychological effect," I don't feel that it can be any answer. It depends on the parents' attitude, not on their age. The most important thing remains: Do the parents thoroughly love babies? Lots of love and sensible discipline are the two vital ingredients of bringing up children well.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am concerned about a family who had a gas burner installed in their coal furnace. My nerves won't any water in it. What effect will this have on their health? — Mrs. M.D.

It depends on the furnace. If it's a steam or hot-water system, there is nothing you can do to the furnace except keep enough water in the boiler. If it's a hot air system, you should keep the humidifier tank full of water, in order to keep the house from getting too dry.

If the house gets too dry, it will dry out the mucous linings and leave them somewhat more subject to all the different kinds of cold and flu germs. Or so we strongly believe.

And for another thing, of which we are sure, letting the house get too dry does more harm than good. Dry air makes the house feel warmer than it is, thus causing people to keep the air in the house reasonably moist, will save fuel.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is the cause of sugar diabetes? I can't seem to make my doctor understand that it is not the result of eating candy or drinking pop. She said before she caused my husband's condition.

She doesn't seem to understand that before my husband's condition was controlled, he had a terrific thirst and would drink a lot of soft drinks, and a lot.

You, of course, are entirely right. Many (not all) diabetics thirst as the disease develops. Some drink water. Some drink pop. But neither one causes the disease. It's just a symptom. As to what actually causes diabetes, we don't know. But we do know it is Not from eating sugar or drinking pop.

Airport Shop Rates High As Sky

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Everybody has I suppose, his own special bete noire — his black spot. Mine is the French call a pet aversion. My own black beast is a little one in the vast scheme of the world's injustices — but it irritates me out of all proportion at least once a year.

I refer to the flagrant overcharges, even of a few pennies that are made by airport shops and counters in such places as hotels and airport waiting-rooms. It is no accident that in most places of this kind are concessions, who are charged a heavy rental for the right to gouge the customers.

The other evening, on my way back from Detroit to Chicago, I stopped at the Detroit airport restaurant for a piece of cake and a cup of coffee. M y bill came to 62 cents — 45 for a slice of cake, and the remaining 15 for coffee, plus two cents tax.

This is a wholly unjustifiable charge; but where else is there to go at an airport? Likewise, the low concessions are patronized by over-priced — simply because busy fathers have nowhere else to go to pick up a gift for the children on the way home.

What is doubly disappointing about such airports is that they are publicly owned. It is the city or county itself which leases concessions to the operators, and condones these grasping practices. The administration itself is, in effect, a silent partner in the gouge.

Hoult cigar stands (also run on a concession basis) have the same shabby habits. Customarily, they charge 10 cents for a nickel pack of cleansing tissue — which costs them a 700 percent profit beyond the usual profit. And they always charge two or three times as much for a pack of cigarettes than elsewhere.

Such pennies themselves don't bother me (on most out-of-town trips my expenses are paid for, anyway), but the principle of the gaast, take-it-or-leave-it attitude of such places arouses my anger and contempt. The public is treated like so many sheep to be sheared, and the only concessionaire has no sense of real responsibility to his customers, as other truly competitive merchants have.

Whatever is run by a municipality — such as an airport — should protect the public, and exploit it; especially since money has been put into buildings, the facilities and the expenses belong to the airports. Permitting greedy concessionaires to milk the captive customers is a destructive piece of political malfeasance.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

"The price of a thing is what it is worth to somebody else. Experts will tell you that the price of a thing is governed by the cost of the raw materials, plus the cost of manufacturing, plus transportation, mark-up, and so on. If nobody wants it when you've got it made, it still has a price, I suppose, to the manufacturer or the store keeper. He pays the price. Or else he accepts the cruel fact that the price is whatever it is worth to somebody else.

Auction sales bring this fact out clearly. The personal estate of a man I knew for years was put up for auction recently. He had invested a lot of money in art paintings, fine antique furniture, rare books. He told me many years ago that he has a hundred thousand dollars worth of things assembled by famous artists. Those of them I saw had no value to me, because I wouldn't want them. But I accepted his word that they were worth that to him.

At the auction they brought around $6,000 for the lot. The rare books, antique furniture and objects of art brought another few thousand. It was pennies to what they were worth to their late owner. He valued them, as they say, highly.

STOCK QUOTATIONS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market bounced sharply ahead in morning trading today as investors displayed relief over the easing international situation.

Industrials jumped almost seven points on index, with key issues showing pronounced strength.

Interprovincial Pipe Line climbed 2¾ to 76, while Alberta Gas, Power, Corporation, investors Syndicate A and Distillers Seagrams all gained 1¼.

International Nickel—used in compiling both base metal and industrial indexes — advanced 1¼ to 60¾.

Imperial Oil, CPR, Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, Abitibi and Trans-Canada Pipeline all rose in a ½ to ¾ range.

On the exchange index, industrials climbed 5.90 to 533.15, golds .05 to 88.95, base metals 1.61 at 172.79 and western oils 1.53 at 111.12. The 11 a.m. volume was 1,353,000 shares compared with 458,000 at the same time Friday.

Among base metals, Falconbridge gained ½, as did Hudson Bay Mining, while Noranda was ¾ and Consolidated Mining and Smelting ⅝. Specialties saw Lake Dufault rise 40 cents to 94.30 and Lorado Uranium 10 cents to 94 cents.

Oil properties ran mixed, Home A and Hudson's Bay both advanced ½, Bailey Selburn A gained 40 cents to 9.70 and Central Del Rio 20 cents to 8.50. Devon-Palmer, which has received a 20-cent-a-share offer from Tidal Oils, jumped 1¢ cents to a 1962 high of 86 cents.

Cage School Starts at 'Y'

The YMCA's basketball school for lads from 11 to 14 years of age inclusive got off to a good start this past Saturday afternoon under the direction of Mervyn Dowson assisted by Dave Anderson. Two dozen eager tyros were on hand to learn the fundamentals of passing and receiving followed by a session of shooting foul shots.

The school will continue to be held each Saturday afternoon commencing at one o'clock until the middle of next month. On this time a league will be formed and teams chosen so that the lessons obtained at the school can be put into actual practice.

There are still opportunities for more lads to join in the group. The balance of the program calls for instruction in ball handling, dribbling, shooting and defence and attack rules and plays.

Blueprint for Survival To Counteract Fallout

(Article 3)

Nuclear attacks on centres of production, and conditions of fallout, may curtail the distribution of available food stocks until several days or even weeks following these attacks. Persons who had taken shelter against fallout might be advised to stay in their shelters as long as 14 days.

Because of these possibilities it is recommended that every person should have emergency supplies. These supplies should include , food, water, battery radio, a first aid kit and, if necessary, medical supplies for invalids or babies. Heavy clothing would be necessary in winter. Extra changes of clothing should be considered, particularly stockings and underclothing.

A suggested list of emergency supplies is given below. Many of the items are specifically required for shelters. The food should be used and replaced at least once a year.

Many of the recommended items are already in your home. Because people who do not live in likely target areas will probably have time to make last minute preparations, they should not go to unnecessary expense of duplicating items of food, clothing and equipment which can readily be transferred into the shelter.

It is recommended that people in shelters also have two or three road maps. You can then relate the information about areas under fallout which you would hear about over the radio, to your actual location. Toys, games, books for your children will help occupy their time. Try to organize your time so that it will pass more quickly. Do not forget your battery radio will keep you in contact with the outside world. The suggested list of items from which your two weeks' supplied should be developed is:

EQUIPMENT NEEDED

Equipment — Beds (bunk or folding), table (folding or other type), stools (fold flat), cooking vessels, cups and plates (disposables), knives, forks, spoons, can openers, paper towels, Kerosene lamp, electric lamp and batteries, spare bulbs, toilet, polyethiene bags for toilet, shovel, crowbar, axe, pocket knife, saw whistle, screwdriver, hammer, flashlight, 10 gallons kerosene (2 gallons if shelter; remainder in basement), matches, garbage can ((2 if no waste water runoff is possible) garbage bags, hand basin, road maps, screws, nails, pliers, fire extinguisher (not carbon tetrachloride), ½ inch rope, string, battery radio, clock and spare batteries.

Recreational — Calendar, books, paper, pencils, playing cards, chess, checkers, other games, crossword, other puzzles, knitting, sewing etc., hobby materials and plasticine.

Toiletries — Soap, toothpaste, tooth brushes, detergent, nail brush, razor, blades and soap, women's basic cosmetics, tissues (face and toilet), face cloth, towels and brush and comb.

Clothing and Personal Items —Coveralls, rubber boots, rubber gloves, for adults. To be used in venturing otuside even after instructions have been given that this is safe for short periods. Bedding (blankets preferable), warm sweaters and socks, change of underclothing and socks, personal hygiene items for women, baby clothes, baby feeding equipment, disposable diapers (two -week supply), plastic sheeting and legal papers.

Medical — (See "know first aid and home nursing", to follow).

Food — These are the suggested amounts per adult for 14 days. Foodstuffs should be used and replaced at least once every year. Check off the items as you stock them in the shelter and mark the purchase date on the cans.

Milk — 4 cans milk (16-oz. size evaporated milk of 1 lb. dried skim milk).

Vegetables — 6 cans (15-oz. or 20-oz. size beans, peas, tomatoes, corn).

Fruits — 6 cans (15-oz. or 20-oz. size peaches, pears, apple sauce).

Cereals — 14 individual packages (sealed in wax bags inside or outside).

Biscuits — 2 packages of crackers (1 lb. each), 2 packages of cookies or graham wafers.

Main dish — 2 cans meat (12-oz. each corned beef, luncheon meats).

Items — 2 cans beef and gravy; 2 cans baked beans, (15 oz. or 20-oz. size); 2 jars cheese; 2 cans fish (8 oz. size).

Canned and dehydrated soups — 2 cans (10-oz. beans, pea, tomato).

SPECIAL REQUIREMENTS FOR CHILDREN

a. For each infant include 14 cans evaporated milk (16-oz. size) and baby food for 14 days.

b. For each child up to three years, include 6 cans milk. Decrease amounts of other foods according to appetite.

c. Food for older children can be the same as for adults; adjust amounts according to appetite.

OTHER FOODS:

1 large jar or can honey, syrup, jam or marmalade; 2 lbs. hard candy; 1 jar or can peanut butter; 1 package tea bags or instant tea; 1 jar sugar, 1 jar instant coffee; salt and pepper; instant chocolate powder; chewing gum.

WATER:

Requirement: 7-14 gallons for each adult member of the family; more for young children.

Containers: Store in well cleaned, tightly-covered containers such as large Hermon jug, new fuel cans, large vinegar bottles etc.

Change: Change the stored water at least once a month

PREVENT FIRES

Knowing how to prevent and fight fires at home and at work reduces the number of spare time fires. It will also reduce the number of fires after a nuclear explosion.

But how can you fight fires in the presence of fallout? The decision to fight fires during fallout will be based on the question which is the greater danger, Fallout or Fire.

Attend any emergency fire fighting classes held in your area. You should have in your home and place of work fire extinguishers, or if time permits an adequate water supply in pails, bathtubs, washtubs etc. Don't rely on being able to use the established water supply systems.

Even those who live in areas not attacked may find their fire departments will have to fight major fires elsewhere. Therefore every householder in peacetime should learn how to carry out fire prevention and know how to fight small fires.

KNOW FIRST AID

The survival of the injured and sick members of your family is your responsibility.

Medical help will not be available in areas of fallout for several days until radiation reaches safe levels. Medical help will not be readily available in areas unaffected by the attack since doctors and nurses will be required to look after the casualties from the damaged areas.

Therefore you must:

Know and practise life-saving first aid.

Know and practise simple home nursing measures.

First Aid and Home Nursing training is available in most municipalities from your local St. John Ambulance and Red Cross Associations.

START TRAINING NOW

A simple first aid box to keep in your shelter or in your automobile should contain: — 1 bottle mild antiseptic ((Metaphen or Zephiran); 5 packages 1½ inch guaze bandage; 2 triangular bandages — use for slings; 12, 4 inch by 4 inch sterile pads — use to cover cuts, wounds and burns; 12 individual band aids — Use for minor cuts; 5 yards ½ inch adhesive tape; 1 package safety pins; ½ oz. oil of cloves — for temporary treatment of toothache; 12 aspirin; 1 small scissors; 1 first aid booklet; 4 oz. baking soda; 8 oz. table salt. Note — 1 teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon baking soda in 1 quart drinking water. Encourage seriously burned patient to drink as much as he can of this solution. Individuals requiring special medication such as insulin should maintain at least 100-days supplies.

Pract. Nurses Must Take Proper Course

The Belleville General Hospital will not employ practical nurses who are not graduates of a course approved and supervised by the Nursing Branch of the Ontario Department of Health.

This was noted today by hospital officials who said that correspondence courses in practical nursing such as have been offered locally cannot be recognized by the hospital.

The nearest centre offering approved courses in practical nursing is at Kingston. Persons wishing further information about this course are invited to contact the Director of Nursing at Belleville General Hospital.

Mrs. Roosevelt Seriously Ill

NEW YORK (AP)—A spokesman for the family reports that Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, 78, continues to be seriously ill and "the outlook for the future is still uncertain."

"Unfortunately," the spokesman said, "she has not responded to treatment as well as it was hoped she would."

She has been under treatment for anemia and a lung infection.

The spokesman said there was uncertainty about her condition "because of the underlying anemia and the continuing though intermittent fever caused by the persistent infection."

Mrs. Roosevelt returned to her home here from a hospital 11 days ago.

Name the Same, Not the Man

In last Tuesday's edition of the Ontario Intelligencer, a report was given concerning a charge of wilful damage for which three men were fined.

The George Stoliker involved in the case is not George Edwin Stoliker of 222½ Albert Street.

Battle Creek Kiwanians Visit Picton

PICTON — Eight members of the Battle Creek Michigan Kiwanis Club are the guests of local Kiwanians here tonight.

The visit is in appreciation of a gesture by Kiwanis through Mayor H. J. McFarland that occurred here a year ago.

When a Battle Creek woman, a Mrs. Whalen was injured in an accident, the mayor used his private plane to take her home.

YOU HAVE A HAND IN THINGS CANADIAN when you own Life Insurance

Surprising? Yes—but true. Like most people, you have probably thought of your life insurance—as protection for your family—as a good way to save money regularly—as a valuable collateral if you need a loan for an emergency—as a retirement plan for you later on.

Actually, your life insurance dollars are more than an investment in your personal security and your family's. These dollars are also an investment in Canada. They stimulate growth and progress and help make this country a better place in which to live and work.

At this moment, 9 BILLION DOLLARS of life insurance savings are invested in important Canadian enterprises—through the purchase of bonds and stocks and through mortgages.

These hard-working dollars are helping to finance great projects all over this country such as pipelines, shopping centres, bridges and highways, homes, apartment and office buildings, schools, factories, industrial plants and power developments. These investments create employment opportunities, too.

The income from these investments benefits you directly by reducing the cost of life insurance to you and the 9 million other Canadian policyowners.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

BY FAMOUS EMILY

TIPS FOR THE HOSPITAL VISITOR

About a year ago, a friend of ours had a serious throat operation. To dispense with the medical details of this ordeal quickly, he is shortly had barely regaining his voice and has blotted out of his mind most of the bad memories of the last year. Except one.

He is still concerned about what he calls the over-solicitousness and occasional bad manners of some of his friends during the month he spent in the hospital before and after surgery.

At the same time, he fondly remembers the friends who displayed a basic sense of hospital etiquette.

Taking the negative side first, he was appalled by the mental lapses of those who insisted on phoning him at the hospital before the operation and engaging in lengthy conversations with a man who couldn't talk very well to begin with.

His advice is: think twice before calling a hospital patient. Better yet, send him a note to let him know that you're thinking of him and that you wish him a speedy recovery.

Even when a patient is able to talk, don't phone him at a time when he might be eating or resting. It's easier to check the floor nurse and find out from her the best times to phone a particular patient.

Even more thoughtless are the friends who efficiently check on visiting hours, then barge in unexpectedly — as though they were just the rays of sunshine the patient was waiting for.

It's more courteous, if the patient can talk, to call first and ask if it's all right to drop around during the afternoon or evening visiting hours, providing, of course, he's not being overwhelmed with company. In fact, this procedure is almost necessary nowadays, because patients in many hospitals are limited to two visitors at a time even though they may have private rooms.

If the patient knows in advance that he's having visitors, he can inform a late caller that he's expecting his quota at a certain hour and suggest that the would-be visitor wait until the next visiting period. In some cases, according to our former patient, even the wife of the patient may arrive at the hospital only to be told that she has to wait until the other visitors leave. It's obvious that a pre-arranged visiting schedule is most satisfactory to patient and visitors alike.

Among the most pleasant types my friend remembers were those who realized that books are probably the most appropriate gifts to send to a hospital, the more so when the donor checks first to see what type of reading matter the patient most enjoys.

Beyond that, he enjoyed receiving get-well cards, flowers and fruit from those who remembered to be cheerful.

It's a good prescription to remember when a friend or relative is hospitalized and can use a thoughtful, courteous spur to recovery.

Question: A friend of mine is being married, and I've already attended two showers in her honor. One was a kitchen shower, and I gave her a copper canister set which was fairly expensive, considering my income. The other was a linen shower, so I contributed a set of six guest towels. I've accepted her invitation to attend the wedding and reception, and wonder if now I must send her a wedding present in addition.

—M.F.A. Bridgeport, Conn.

Answer: Both shower gifts certainly were substantial enough to double as wedding gifts. So, even though you've accepted the invitation to the reception — which usually involves a wedding present — I don't think you should feel obligated to send something else.

PONTIAC HAS THE FEATURES THE OTHER '63's WISH THEY HAD

Now Pontiac combines famous Zino-O-Bond rust protection process with a new method of greatly reducing rocker panel corrosion. Water entering the cowl air intake flushes out corrosive elements . . . following air dries the entire inside of the rocker panel.

A new aluminized treatment provides extra protection against rust and corrosion . . . makes Pontiac's muffler last and last and last.

People who know style say Pontiac has the most. Good example? Pontiac's smart new over-and-under headlights. They also make night driving safer, easier, by lighting more road on high beam.

Every Pontiac has big, big brakes to ensure quick, positive stopping, every time. New safety and savings this year! Just by backing up, you automatically adjust the brakes.

Pontiac's new Delcotron generator keeps charging your battery even while the engine idles—giving longer battery life.

You couldn't want a wider choice in engines. Shown is one of the many powerful Pontiac V8's and there's a new lightweight Astro-Six . . . lively and economical.

Whitewall tires optional at extra cost.

Women's S.G. Discusses Lotteries Topic

The members of the Women's Study Guild met at the home of Miss J. Tickell. During the business meeting, it was decided that money be sent to the Guild's Sponsored Child in Colombia, as a Christmas gift.

Mrs. R. G. Coulter was in charge of the devotional part of the program, which prepared for the topic of the evening, "Sweepstakes and Lotteries", which was given by Mrs. R. Hillis and Mrs. J. A. Buchanan.

Both members had gathered much information on this topic from newspaper articles, editorials and magazine articles giving both sides of the question — for and against legalized lotteries.

Mrs. Buchanan quoted in some detail what Canadian News has to say on this subject. Mrs. Ellis dealt with the history of the Irish hospital sweepstake and its small beginning. So what is now a huge organization. She mentioned that about 18 to 20 percent of the money goes to the building and bettering of hospitals, the rest goes to administration, Government taxes, private profits and shareholders. Other similar sweepstakes throughout the world were mentioned that in Sweden where the money is used for cultural and athletic activities, and Switzerland which has a non-profit enterprize the money going mainly to sports and athletics. Football pools in the United Kingdom were mentioned, here these are controlled by Act of Parliament.

Mrs. Buchanan gave the standpoint of the Canadian Council of Churches. Finally Mrs. Ellis gave an account of what has happened in New Zealand where recently a government sponsored sweepstakes has come into being —the money gained is now being used for medical science and research, youth work, sports and for relief purposes.

A lively discussion followed, which continued in a lighter vein, while refreshments were served by Mrs. Wishart and Mrs. Reynolds.

"Ladies' Night" Enjoyed At Masonic Temple

Well over 300 sat down to a bountiful turkey supper at the Masonic Temple Saturday evening, when The Belleville Lodge A.F. and A.M. No. 123 held its annual "Ladies Night."

Rt. Worthy Bro. H. G. Bates introduced the guest speaker, Mr. James Ritchie, a member of the teaching staff of the B.C.I. and V.S. for the past six years, who gave a most humorous and informal talk. Mr. Ritchie, artist by profession was born and educated in Scotland, having graduated from the Edinburgh School of Arts and taught there for eight years previous to his coming to Canada.

Mr. Ritchie, in a most jovial manner presented his impressions in poking fun at the mannerisms and customs of various nationalities particularly those from the British Isles. He prefaced his remarks in humorously explaining that his talk would be "A travelogue to end all travelogues".

In a spoofing manner, much to the amusement of the large audience, he dealt with the great traditions of the English; his "very historical sights" of France; the beautiful singing voices and the traditionally long surnames of the Welsh; the persistent good luck of the Irish or "they make up for in luck and dear to his heart dealt with his native land, Scotland, describing the people as sentimental and sensitive and a land where many dialects are spoken.

The speaker concluded by quoting several of his favorite Robert Burns' poems, one of which he specially dedicated to the Belleville Public Works Department and another to Mrs. Ritchie, "Sweet Wee Wife O Mine."

WARMLY GREETED

Wor. Bro. Rapino and Mrs. Rapino and Senior Warden Bro. Eugene Harrison and Mrs. Harrison warmly greeted the guests at the door, where each of the ladies was presented with a lovely corsage.

While the guests were assembling, soft organ music was rendered by Bro. Harold J. McNish, who also accompanied the guest soloist, Mr. John Williamson of Port Hope, who delighted with several vocal renditions, two of these in keeping with the Scottish theme, "Bonnie Mary of Argyle" and "Annie Laurie."

The hall was appropriately decorated in keeping with the Hallowe'en season, with orange and black streamers, colorful fall leaves and eerie jack-o-lanterns. The head table was centred with an artistic arrangement of bronze mums and giant golden, yellow pons. Wor. Bro. C. A. Stanley Smith introduced those seated at the head table, and these included: Bro. G. T. Crestrix, J.W., and Mrs. Crestrix; Bro. W. R. Richards and Mrs. Richards; Rt. Wor. Bro. H. G. Bates and Mrs. Bates the guest speaker, Mr. J. Ritchie and Miss Ritchie; the toastmaster, Wor. Bro. W. J. Rapino and Mrs. Rapino; Rt. Wor. Bro. R. M. Gunsolus and Mrs. Gunsolus; Rt. Wor. Bro. R. G. Woodley and Mrs. Woodley; V. Wor. Bro. E. S. Fairman and Mrs. Fairman; Bro. Wm. Stewart and Mrs. Stewart, and V. Wor Bro. Sidney Sandham, of Marmora, who spoke briefly.

In the chairman's remarks, Wor. Bro. J. Rapino expressed his pleasure at such a fine turnout and introduced several special guests. The Junior Warden's toast was proposed by Bro. G. Greatrix.

TOASTS PROPOSED

Following the introduction, Bro. William Stewart proposed the toast to the Grand Lodge with the V. Wor. Bro. E. S. Fairman responding. The toast to the ladies was proposed by Rt. Wor. Bro. R. G. Woodley and responded to by Mrs. James Rapino. Rt. Wor. Bro. R. M. Gunsolus expressed sincere appreciation to the guest speaker for a most relaxing talk. Wor. Bro. H. Godden expressed appreciative toast to the guest artists and also to the entertainment committee chairman, Bro. George Greatrix for a job well done and to the various committee members as follows: tickets — Wor. Bro. R. H. Goodden; bridge — Wor. Bro. C. A. Smith, V. Wor. Bro. E. S. Fairman; euchre — Bro. W. O. Cochrane, Wor. Bro. W. D. Dixon. Wor. Bro. William Slack; dance — Bro. H. J. McNish, Bro. C. Bunnett, Bro. G. E. Stickle, and Bro. E. Goodfellow; flowers — Wor. Bro. L. A. Thompson, Bro. G. Haggerty and Bro. A. Rutledge; decorating — Bro. G. E. Mountford, Bro. A. Chaplain, Bro. R. Baldwin, Bro. A. Vandlef, and Bro. J. Malcolm; prizes — Bro. J. Mazer, Bro. B. Harder, Wor. Bro. R. M. Gunsolus, Wor. Bro. J. Rapino, and Rt. Wor. Bro. R. C Woodley.

Following the dinner the playing of b idge and euchre and dancing rounded out a fine evening's entertainment, and throughout the evening various door prizes as well as spot dance prizes and card prizes were presented to the lucky winners.

Music Teachers Assoc. Hears Fine Report

The Belleville branch of the Ontario Registered Music Teachers' Association met at the home of Mrs. G. Sidney Martin, 23 Southview, on the 17th of October.

Minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. T. F. Townsend. In the absence of Mrs. Veley, the treasurer's report was read by Sister M. Avala, who supplies in this office, at present.

Mrs. Townsend read a letter from the secretary of the Sibling Festival of Sacred Praise, inviting teachers to enter students as contestants, in the Festival to be held in May, 1963.

A letter from Mrs. Veley expressed her appreciation for the flowers, which had been sent to her, together with the good wishes of her many friends.

Other items of business were as follow: It was stated that Mrs. Boyce and Mrs. Veley send have prepared a report for CJBQ Radio, giving the history and the purpose of the ORMTA, also, plans are under way to observe Canada Music Week, from the 18th to the 25th of November.

The guest speaker of the evening was Sister M. Bibiana, of Preston, provincial convener of the Young Artists' Association, of which Mrs. Muscat of Belleville, is secretary. Sister Bibiana gave a fine report concerning the Young Artists' Association, which had its roots in Western Canada, where teachers began about 15 years ago to encourage student recitals in different cities. Five years ago the Canadian Federation of Music Teachers' Associations organized the Young Artists' series with the purpose of encouraging, in addition, special talent.

This year, Mr. Reginald Bedford, president of CFMTA, felt that Eastern Canada should be represented in cities of Western Canada. Miss Lawson, from Western Canada, will give recitals in Montreal, Toronto, Peterborough and other centres. Her recital in Kingston will be given on the 6th of November.

Further notices will be given and Belleville's support is requested for this provincial artist.

Knock Knock Who's There?

by Mary Moore

Are your Hallowe'en efforts on the little goblins knocking at your door for treats or are they for a Hallowe'en party? I am giving you one thing for each category. One is a Maple Cream which has appeared here before, but because it is easy to make and so delicious I have yielded to temptation and am repeating it. The other is a Jack-o-Lantern Burger — a savory bun with a funny face pie tin for teenagers.

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

Barbecued Spareribs; Broccoli; Mashed Squash; Celery and Carrot Sticks; Baked Individual Custards with Boysenberry Topping; Coffee.

JACK-O-LANTERN BURGERS (12):

1 cup (½ lb.) ground beef, (if fatty, drain off fat); 2 tablespoons over cut side of each bun half. Place buns on a baking sheet and toast at 400 deg. Fahr. for 12 to 15 minutes. While buns are baking, cut smiling faces in the cheese slices just as you do in a Jack-O-Lantern, using a sharp paring knife and thimble.

(Note: Cut faces in 2 slices of cheese at a time. Use pointed knife to cut out 2" crescents for mouths and 1" isosceles triangles for noses and thimble for eyes.) Place a "cheese face" slice over the browned meat on each bun. Return all to the oven for 1 or 2 minutes, just until the cheese begins to soften, but not long enough to spoil the face features! Serve these hot.

MAPLE CREAM WITH NUTS:

2 cups white sugar, 1 cup brown sugar, ½ cup milk, ½ cup condensed milk (not evaporated), ¼ cup butter or margarine, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon maple flavoring, ½ cup broken walnut meats.

Combine the sugars and milk; with butter or margarine and salt in a heavy saucepan. Bring slowly to a full rolling boil over medium heat. Add the milk and maple flavoring and continue boiling until mixture reaches the soft-ball stage or 234 deg. Fahr. on a candy thermometer. Remove from heat and stir only enough to give a creamy look. Pour into buttered pan to cool or spoon out on buttered baking sheets in 2" or 3" patties.

Anti-Aircraft Missiles Sprout Along Florida Beach Ninety Miles From Cuba

By SAFURNINO MORRIDA.

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Anti-aircraft missiles have sprouted along a Key West beach, climaxing a week-long debate of United States military elements at this island city 90 miles from Cuba.

Army details hastily arranged mobile radar equipment and cushioned rocket launchers.

A heavily-travelled boulevard adjacent to the missile site allowed the public a clear view of the proceedings.

A baseball park was leased to the army last week by the Key West city commission, to be used as a motor pool parking area.

Units set up at the missile site arrived by truck convoy from a Florida rail line where a troop train had unloaded them.

A 185-room hotel and a servants' dormitory were rented to the army for troop billeting. Hotel owner Sam Hyman declined to say how long the hotel, which he said could accommodate 1,000 men, would be under lease.

Members of missile batteries set up quarters at the big hotel on arrival late last week.

Military units, including destroyers, tankers and buoy tenders, move in and out of the Key West naval station. Some of the vessels disappear into the Florida Straits.

The number of the supersonic navy F-101 Demon jet fighters has increased during the last few days. The planes, presumably armed with 20-millimetre guns and jettisoned gasoline rockets, patrol the Key West area. Their top speed is about 1,400 miles an hour.

Large transport planes have been arriving and departing from nearby Boca Chica Naval Base, leaving more and more men for the swiftly expanding Key West garrison.

Virtually all ships previously stationed at the naval station have gone, apparently on patrol.

The military buildup is yet limited to Key West. There is no evidence throughout south Florida.

Patrick Air Force base near Cape Canaveral saw its F-106 and F-104 fighter interceptors scattered for more than a portion of this interceptor force is aloft at all times, on airborne alert.

Homestead Air Force Base, a Strategic Air Command outpost south of Miami boasted with activity. Ship activity at the Jacksonville, Florida naval stations is stepped up.

Recreation Highlights

B. Jarvah, Assistant Director

As the house curtain rises and the stage lights fade up, a train whistle sounds and then begins one of the best modern dramas to be presented in the Belleville area for some time. The play I am referring to is "Love Rides the Rails" or "Will the Mail Train Run Tonight?", which is being presented this season by the Belleville Theatre Guild.

One of the main reasons for the writing of this column each week is to acquaint the citizens of Belleville and district of the programs carried on by the Belleville Recreation Committee and also to inform the public of the assistance which is readily available, just for the asking.

The Belleville Theatre Guild is just one facet of the recreation program now being carried on. Around 1950-51, an interested group of citizens met together and because of a common interest in drama and its presentation in the Belleville area, formed the Belleville Theatre Guild. The first effort by the newly-formed group was a three-act play entitled "Rebecca" and since then the many productions presented by this group have earned it the acclaim of many theatrical critics. Passing over the years and bringing things a little further up to date, we see that the two major productions of last year were "The Little Hut" and "The Chalk Garden", which by the way, although received with a variety of opinions, I considered to be very well handled by this small, but enthusiastic group of people.

The Guild, however, does more than present two annual plays each year, which is all that might appear at first sight. Regular workshop sessions are held each Tuesday at 8:00 p.m. in the Campbell Street rooms. The aim of these workshops is to present a single scene every month, for the Guild's General meeting, giving experience to actors, directors, writers and technicians of all kinds.

The local Guild was also honored to have played host this year to the Eastern Ontario Drama League conference, at which time a one-day workshop on directing was held by George Luscombe, a two-day workshop on voice and movement by Olivia Mailer, and an address on the role of the critic by Argold Edinborough.

However, at this point, I feel we should make mention of this year's first production by the Guild. "Love Rides the Rails" or "Will the Mail Train Run Tonight" is a melodrama by Morland Cary. Some people might compare it with the old silent movie with piano accompaniment. This play is complete with stock characters such as the hero, heroine, and the widowed mother, who can't be charged with cruelty. Nor is she violating any clauses in the Constitution or the Bill of Rights. At bottom, all she's plumping for is good taste. And with the villain, stage shyness breathes and sycamore often plumbing the opposite vulgarity of ruggedness, exhibitionism — it's enough of an unequal battle without Mrs. B.'s joining the opposition!

Young Rita should be encouraged to accept Miss W.'s program. It will only last a few months and may prove an eye-opening (for Rita and her parents) refreshment. Some people dismiss neatness and good manners as mere bedeckable, surface matters. But they bespeak certain inner attitudes or orderliness, awareness of and regard for others and self-control.

This doesn't mean, of course, that a man can't tip his hat and be a brute at the same time. Acting respectful is but the beginning of good character. Being respectful? Will that's an awful big for Miss W. to tackle alone. Those mothers and their children must carry their Samaritanism. It's one of sincerity and integrity.

Evidently Miss W. feels you can't judge a book by its cover but you can judge a fresh kid by a ducktail haircut! And she finds that by insisting upon no hair in the eyes and a neat part both girls and boys not only look better but are able to pay better attention to their studies. There's less re-combing.

Anyway, few teachers bother to "care". These parents and their young should enjoy meeting Miss W., as an exception.

PART OF HALLOWELL

Cherry Valley Church, part of Athol circuit, was for six years part of Hallowell circuit of the Methodist Church. In June 1988 the Bloomfield and Cherry Valley circuit was organized by the Conference of the Wesleyan Methodist Church. The ministers were W. M. McCullough, B. I. Brethen, Joseph H. Claut and Charles V. Lake.

In 1875, Cherry Valley became a separate charge and was ministered to by Sidney J. Showy who supervised the building of the present parsonage in 1876-81.

In 1925, the United Church of Canada was formed, the "Methodist" title being dropped.

Various historical records on church walls for the centennial reveal interesting history. A receipt shows a premium on a fire policy to have been $1.75; another, 2 brooms for 42c; cord of wood $3; 4 gallons oil 72c; salary of section $40. The organist received $25 in 1908 and the "pumper" $10 for the year. They later operated a hand lever up and down to provide air for the organ.

Cherry Valley Church today is a handsome brick structure, newly redecorated with attractive furnishings. In the well kept cemetery at the rear of the edifice, lie many pioneers of the district. During the past two years, a Christian education hall has been built and furnished.

Though a century of service lies behind the church and those who have ministered on her behalf, an even brighter future appears to lie ahead, as there are many active organizations and individuals who give unsparingly of time and talent to the church.

Sgt. J. Mosher Breaks Neck, Car Hits Pole

PICTON — Sgt. James L. Mosher, 38 of Camp Picton died instantly from a broken neck early Saturday morning. The car he was driving left the road from Picton to the camp to Picton, went into a ditch and smashed off a hydro pole, Sgt. Mosher was pinned in the wreck. The road is part of a long hill. Police investigation found on the wild marks on the road but tire tracks showed the vehicle had been veering to the right side of the road for 175 feet before it went into the ditch. Samuel Sedore of Picton was the only witness and stated the car just kept veering toward the right for no apparent reason.

Coroner Dr. R. A. Thompson of Wellington was called and pronounced the man dead. An inquest will be held. Funeral arrangements are pending. Sgt. Mosher is survived by his wife.

Fears for Pet Rabbits

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—I am an eleven-year-old girl who has faced heartbreak for the first time. Please help me.

I had never had a pet until recently. About five months ago my father brought home three rabbits. During the four months we had them I was kept very busy looking after them. I grew to love them more and more. Then we had to give them to a zoo because of several fights between the bucks over the doe and rashes all over me. I was heartbroken.

The man who looks after them is not a real zookeeper; just a man with an interest in animals. But, I'm afraid, he doesn't know how to look after rabbits. They are supposed to direct sunlight, rain (which they hate) and the cold. Unless they are given proper shelter, they will freeze to death this winter.

How can I tell a man I don't know, how to look after rabbits? I love my rabbits very much, Miss Clark, and I am willing to do anything you suggest.—WORRIED.

DEAR WORRIED—Rabbits are hardy and can put up with a lot. They often run wild. Could you take them some greens to nibble on and explain to the man that you used to own them? Talking to him would give you an excuse to ask how he shelters them in winter.

Your pets are now a happy memory. Mend that broken heart!

* * * *

DEAR DORIS—I would like to know whether any Canadian university offers a correspondence course leading to a degree in library science.—INFORMATION NEEDED.

DEAR INFORMATION—No. Library science is taught as a one-year course in three Canadian universities, following BA, or science degree. But not by correspondence.

* * * *

DEAR DORIS—Your correspondent in yesterday's paper writes about distress re her husband and says she has taken tranquilizers off and on for years, and now, when going into company, she has an urge to cry.

Oh, if you would only tell her to break off the iran' quillizers, her nerves would gradually become stronger. I know, because I am just now winning that battle. These tablets may be OK for an emergency, but that is all.

They upset one's emotions after a while and ruin one's stiff upper lip when it is most needed.—N. N. M.

DEAR N. N. M.—In short, there's no permanent substitute for a happy home!

Hawks Hit For Two; Zoom Into Second

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rudy Pilous abandons all restraint when he talks about Stan Mikita.

"Mikita is to us what Gordie Howe is to Detroit," the Chicago Black Hawks coach was saying Saturday night.

Back in the Chicago lineup after suffering a severe ankle sprain in pre-season exhibition play, Mikita was a mainspring in a pair of Chicago victories.

The four-goals-in-one carried the Hawks to second place in the National Hockey League standings behind Detroit Red Wings.

Saturday night in Montreal, Stan scored the game-winner in a 3-2 game against the Canadiens.

In New York Sunday night he assisted on three goals as the Hawks dumped the Rangers 5-3.

New York thumped the Maple Leafs 5-1 in Toronto Saturday night and the Red Wings remained unbeaten by shutting out Toronto 2-0 at home Sunday night in the only other weekend play.

The schedule resumes Tuesday with New York at Chicago.

GOAL STANDS UP

Mikita's goal in Montreal came in the opening period and stood up the rest of the way.

The centre returned to the lineup Tuesday night when the Hawks and Montreal played to a 4-4 game in Chicago. Stan scoring once.

Billy Hay and Ab McDonald got the other Chicago goals Saturday night while Bernie Geoffrion and Donnie Marshall counted for Montreal.

Against the Rangers, Ron Murphy paced the Chicago goals—the second into an empty net with 23 seconds left—and Ab McDonald, Hay and Murray Balfour provided the others.

Lorne Worsley, New York's goaltender, was replaced for the final period after a collision that left him with a stiff neck.

His replacement was Marcel Pelletier, 24, with Chicago leading 3-2 at the time.

Earl Ingarfield, Andy Bathgate and Mel Pearson were the Ranger goal - getters. Pearson was called up from Baltimore of the American Hockey League to fill in for the injured Camille Henry.

WIN FIFTH GAME

Goals by Parker MacDonald of Sydney, N.S., and Howe powered Detroit Sunday night against Toronto and gave the Red Wings their fifth win—with two ties—in seven games.

Goalie Terry Sawchuk made 24 saves to register his 50th shutout in scheduled play, leaving him four shy of the record set by George Hainsworth in 1928 seasons with Montreal and Toronto.

MacDonald's goal came in the second period while Toronto's Carl Brewer was serving a minor penalty.

With goalie Johnny Bower lifted in favor of a sixth attacker, Howe dumped the puck into the empty net with 33 seconds left in the game to clinch it.

Jean Ratelle, a youngster who scored only four goals in 31 games with New York last season, lead the Ranger attack against Toronto.

He scored twice, running his goal-total so far this season to five.

Rod Gilbert, Bronco Horvath and Bathgate rounded out New York's scoring.

Bombers Grab Top; Lions Ousted

The Bombers, 1961 national champions, held close out regular season play next Saturday when they meet last-place Edmonton in a game unusual for both clubs.

For the first time in a decade they were not vying for the league title.

Redmen, Mustangs Win

Four College Teams Tied

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

If a fellow wanted to be a college campus bookie these days, he would almost have to be majoring in mathematics.

Figuring the odds in the Intercollegiate Senior Football League is not something to be accomplished by simple arithmetic.

The four teams reached the two-thirds mark in their six-game schedule this weekend and find themselves tied for first place. All have records of two wins and two losses.

McGill Redmen thumped the defending champion Queen's Golden Gaels 14-10 at Kingston Saturday and the University of Western Ontario Mustangs rocked the University of Toronto Blues 29-1 at London.

End Don Taylor and halfback Willie Lambert scored touchdowns for McGill Saturday and George Telesh added both. Halfback Bill Edwards scored Queen's only touchdown. Gary Lane booted a single and Mc Gill quarterback Tom Skypeck conceded a safety touch. Robin Rhind kicked one convert.

At London, a capacity crowd of 10,000 saw fullback Ed Potomski score two touchdowns, Brian Conacher and John Nash one apiece, as Mustangs humiliated Blues at the Western homecoming weekend. Nash also kicked three converts and a single.

The other Western point came when quarterback Gary Boug fumbled into the Varsity end zone. Blues recovered and Western was awarded a rouge.

Punter Barry Rowland kicked a 38-yard single for Blues' only point.

Redmen, who whipped Queen's last Saturday at Montreal, couldn't get rolling against the stubborn Queen's defence in the first half—but capitalized on two Queen's errors.

Gaels had taken a lead when quarterback Cal Conner alertly tossed a pass to Edwards in the end zone on a running play that went awry and Edwards ran it back.

But Skypeck, a noted passer, tossed a 30-yard pass to Taylor who worked behind the Gael defenders and raced for a touchdown on a play that went 77 yards.

Big Seven

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Detroit's Alex Delvecchio, a 12-year veteran in the National Hockey League, picked up an assist Sunday night to move into a three-way tie for the league scoring leadership with Henri Richard of Montreal and Cliff Pennington of Boston. Each has 10 points.

Richard has an edge technically, as he has five goals and five assists while Delvecchio and Pennington both have three goals and seven assists.

Four players—Bill (Red) Hay of Chicago, Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion of Montreal, Ab McDonald of Chicago and Boston's Murray Oliver — are tied for second place with eight points.

Hay has four goals and four assists. Geoffrion and McDonald have three goals and five assists apiece, while Oliver has two goals and six assists.

McDonald made the biggest start during the weekend, getting one goal and three assists. Hay scored two goals, Geoffrion added one and Oliver didn't play as Boston had no weekend games.

Other leaders:

	G	A	Pts.
Richard, Montreal	3	7	10
Delvecchio, Detroit	3	7	10
Pennington, Boston	3	7	10
Hay, Chicago	3	5	8
Geoffrion, Montreal	3	5	8
McDonald, Chicago	3	5	8
Oliver, Boston	2	6	8

BEAT CANADIANS

LONDON (Reuters) — The touring Canadian Rugby Union team was beaten 17-3 by a combined Brigden and Maesteg side Saturday, but the visitors won praise for their "fast and open" style of play.

Two weekend games all but decided the playoff picture in the Western Football Conference.

Saskatchewan Roughriders are in. British Columbia is out. Winnipeg Blue Bombers have clinched first place.

The Bombers staved off a late British Columbia Lions' rally in Vancouver Saturday to win 33-31 and Saskatchewan beat the Stampeders 23-15 in Calgary.

Still undecided is second place, now held by Calgary with 10 points, two ahead of the resurgent Roughriders.

Calgary completed its schedule against Saskatchewan, but the Roughriders have one more game to catch up. Saskatchewan meets the Lions next Saturday and a victory there would give the Roughriders 10 points.

But it would also give them second place because of their superior record against Calgary in three league meetings—two wins and a tie.

ENDS LATE BID

B.C.'s weekend loss ended a late-season bid by Lions' quarterback Conner for third and last conference spot.

Even if victory would not have sufficed. It had to be combined with a Saskatchewan loss to keep the Lions in the running.

The fourth-place Lions went down fighting in the rain in Empire Stadium before a crowd of 25,419, a small by Vancouver standards.

Winnipeg quarterback Kenny Ploen tossed four touchdown passes, two to end Ernie Pitts and one each to halfbacks Leo Lewis and Ross Fichuk.

Pitts, a six-foot-two veteran, got the fifth Bomber touchdown when he recovered a fumbled ball by Neil Beaumont in the Lions' end zone after Gerry James missed a field goal attempt.

James kicked five converts and a field goal to keep the Lions in the scoring race with 110 points. Tommy-Joe Coffey of Edmonton leads with 118.

Halfback Willie Fleming ran for two Lion touchdowns on a 57-yard jaunt. Quarterback Joe Kapp tossed to Sonny Homer and Tom Hinton for two more and ran from a yard out for another.

George Grant added the other Lions' points on three converts and a single.

For the Bombers, it was their fifth consecutive league title.

Meanwhile Saskatchewan rode into its first playoff since 1958 on the play of 195-pound fullback Ted Urness from Northwestern University.

Purdin, the core of the Saskatchewan attack, scored all the defence - minded team's touchdowns, two on long pass plays and a third on a 72-yard run around end.

The pass plays covered 67 and 62 yards. Steve Myhre converted all three touchdowns and added a single on a missed field goal. Percy Burket kicked a single.

Calgary quarterback Eagle Day tossed passes to Larry Robinson for two touchdowns, one of which covered 85 yards. End Jim Furlong kicked three singles.

Tittle Equals Pass Record

Giants Tomahawk 'Skins'

NEW YORK (CP) — Y. A. Tittle, the National Football League's oldest pass master, threw a record five touchdown passes while gaining 305 yards in the air as New York Giants beat the previously undefeated Washington Redskins 49-34 Sunday.

Tittle, 36, hit Joe Walton with three touchdown tosses, connected with Del Morrison once and flipped one each to Del Shofner and Frank Gifford in an amazing passing display that could not be matched by the Redskins Norm Snead-to-Bobby Mitchell combination.

The victory, the Giants' fifth in seven games, left them in second place in the Eastern Division with a .714 percentage to the Redskins' .800 for a 4-1-2 record. Ties do not count.

The defending champion Green Bay Packers, playing without all - purpose halfback Paul Hornung, remained in front in the Western sector and kept the NFL's only unblemished record clean by beating Baltimore Colts 24-17.

GET 2 FIELD GOALS

Detroit Lions held on to second place, using three field goals by Wayne Walker for an 11-3 triumph over Chicago. The loss dropped the Bears to third place. Cleveland Browns moved up to third in the east in a 41-14 walloping of Pittsburgh Steelers.

St. Louis Cardinals beat Dallas 28-24 with Charlie Johnson firing three touchdown passes. Minnesota Vikings clipped Philadelphia Eagles 33-21 and Los Angeles Rams finally broke into the victory column with a 31-14 decision over San Francisco 49ers.

In the American League, Dallas Texans took over first place in the West from Denver Broncos by whipping Houston 31-7 while Buffalo Billsbeat the Broncos 45-38. The Oilers' loss dropped them from a first-place tie with Boston in the East. New York Titans belted San Diego Chargers 23-3 in the other game played.

Snead struck for four touchdown passes—including 44 and 80-yarders to Mitchell — and scored once, but it wasn't enough once Tittle got the Giants rolling in the third quarter.

Whip Chatham, Sarnia

Dogs, Tigers Win Openers

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

If there is any truth to the old saying that 'nothing is worth two goals to a hockey team, Windsor Bulldogs and Kitchener-Waterloo Tigers could be powers in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series this season.

Both teams won their opening games Sunday, both by 7-3 scores, and both away from home.

The Bulldogs rapped Chatham Maroons at Chatham and the Tigers spoiled the home opener of Sarnia Rams.

Windsor and Chatham were tied 4-4 going into the third period at Chatham, but the Bulldogs dominated the play in the final 20 minutes.

Newcomer Derek Holmes paced the winners with three goals and two assists. Veterans Wally Pawlychenko and Irwin Zaleski and Jack Roberts and Tom Mallaliff scored one apiece.

For Chatham, George Aitken, George Uzitalo, Elmer Skov and Ted Power were the marksmen.

STAR PERFORMER

Kitchener-Waterloo, with an almost completely new look this season, came up with a powerhouse.

Sarnia took an early 2-0 lead but Tigers 3-2 before the first period ended.

Two newcomers, Lou Angotti and Sonny Osborne, scored two goals apiece for the Tigers. Ted Hodgson, a former Galt Terrier, Mac Dubois and Bill Kennedy scored the others.

Willie Menard scored twice for the Rams and Reg Mulholland, Dawson Schreader and Bruce Jones scored one goal apiece.

The Rams lost forward Bob Keating in the first minutes of the second period with an eye injury.

EKYS SIGNS CONTRACT

EDMONTON (CP) — Eagle Keys has signed a new two-year contract to coach Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Football Conference, club president Hastings (Red) Mcmahon announced Saturday. Salary terms were not revealed.

Keys, 38-year-old native of Tompkinsville, Ky., is in his 11th season with Eskimos, four as head coach. He joined the Eskimos as a centre in 1952 after service with Montreal Alouettes of the Eastern Conference.

Davis Cup Round To Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Rafael Osuna defeated Jan Erik Lundquist in five sets Sunday and gave Mexico a 3-2 victory over Sweden in the Davis Cup interzone tennis semi-finals and an almost certain shot at Australia in the challenge round.

The scores were 3-6, 6-4, 6-3, 1-6, 6-3.

Mexico now goes against India in the interzone final, with the survivor qualifying to challenge Australia for the historic cup in Brisbane, Dec. 26-28. The Mexicans are overwhelming favorites against the Indians.

The United States was beaten by Mexico in the American zone finals.

Sweden, down 2-1 after the first two singles and the doubles match, forced the interzone semi-final with the final match when Ulf Schmidt of Sweden beat Mexico's Antonio Palafox 12-9, 3-6, 6-3, 4-6, 6-1 in the first two singles matches Sunday.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"This club," said "Turk" Barclay, the neophyte coach of the Belleville junior "B" orphans, "may not win any group or Ontario championships, but the other clubs will know they've been in a hockey circuit before the season is wrapped up."

I dub them "orphans" because they've got no Papa or Mama Sponsor to guide 'em, and are under the adopted wing of the Booster Club.

"If spirit and desire are the requisites of a good club then we've got one," Turk told me after the gruelling practice session in Memorial Arena yesterday afternoon.

Out of the thirty-five youthful aspirants that turned out to the initial practice, twenty-five are left to bid for the club's roster. Manager Mel Richards and "Turk" put the squad to that number yesterday, dropping five players prior to practice time.

"TURK" BARCLAY

Further cuts will be made possibly this week until the team has its quota of players allowed under OHA regulations. At the moment the club has four playing lines, six defencemen and two goalies with a smattering of extras.

Turk in his initial effort of coaching has his own code of rules. Youngsters trying out for the club are required to give all they've got. There is no horseplay or hogging shines on the daily practice sessions. He has impressed upon his youthful proteges, "veterans" included, if they want to be on the line-up they have to make it the hard way.

That was evident yesterday as it watched the squad go through its training hoops under the watchful eye—and whistle of Turk. Barclay plays no favorites. A boy in a uniform is just another hockey player out there trying to "make the grade."

"There are quite a few good prospects out there," commented Turk from the sidelines. "Of course the big test will be the first league outing which will answer a lot of questions.

Barclay, with quite a few years of hockey experience in minor and senior competition, has taken to the new job of coaching with all the aplomb and enthusiasm of a veteran mentor returning to the hockey wars.

There is nothing amateurish or crude about his methods. He absorbed a lot of coaching know-how in his years as a player, trainer, dry nurse to temperamental seniors, and general dressing-room factotum. And it shows in his inaugural effort as a club lecturer, mentor.

Turk, like a number of his proteges, has yet to come under the guns of actual league combat. What he will or can do under fire remains to be seen. Again, I believe his many years' experience in all brackets of hockey will stand him in good stead. He has been in a position to observe the work of many coaches, some good, some not so good.

And his first year as a coach could have been made a lot easier had circumstances been different. It must be remembered that he did not take over a club that was more or less intact from a previous season. He was faced with the task of building a club with a nucleus of but a few of last season's stalwarts. He has to weld material that he has to develop potentials. Not to mention his own.

From what I saw yesterday he is doing a good job. He has, it appeared to me, to have the confidence of his players. He has confidence himself.

Oh, he will have critics, all right. Leave that to the rinkside referees and arm-chair coaches. And there are a lot of people who believe the "Turk" will come through. I don't believe he will produce a league winner with the material he has. Nor does the Turk. But I think he will bring out the best in what the hockey gods have provided. More power to his whistle.

Ohio State Defeats Wisconsin

NEW YORK (AP)—Alabama and a pair of teams pointing to the Rose Bowl—Northwestern and Southern California—emerged Saturday as the big three in the constantly-changing battle for U.S. college football win over Wisconsin, Texas, holder of the No. 1 ranking for the last two weeks, and two other members of the top ten in the Associated Press poll, Wisconsin and Washington, were caught in the weekend touch grinder which left only eight of the country's major ...ms with perfect records.

Texas was tied 14-14 at Houston by Rice which capitalized on a late pass from Randall Barlow to Ron Graham. Previously unbeaten Wisconsin, No. 4, bowed to twice-licked Ohio State 14-7 while Washington, No. 8, was tied by Oregon 21-21.

These developments left the following teams among the unbeaten-untied marks: Alabama (6-0), Northwestern (5-0), Southern California (5-0), Mississippi (5-0), Auburn (5-0), Nebraska (6-0), Dartmouth (5-0), Tulane University (4-0).

BREAKS OWN RECORD

MELBOURNE (AP) — Dawn Fraser, a strapping 25-year-old Australian swim star, Saturday night became the first woman in history to better one minute for the 100-metre free style.

Swimming in the packed Olympic Stadium where she won her first Olympic Gold Medal in 1956, Miss Fraser stormed over the 110 yards in 58.9 seconds—a tenth of a second faster than the world record she established last Tuesday night.

T.D. Straw Saves Clutching Argos

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

If popularity had anything to do with it, Toronto Argonauts would likely win the Grey Cup. Everybody, it seems, wants to see Argos make the Eastern Football Conference playoffs.

The team that started the season with five consecutive losses—agonizing losses—which hasn't looked much better since—finds itself in a position of having to win only one game to finish third.

Hamilton Tiger - Cats gave Argos a helping hand Saturday when they edged Montreal Alouettes 24-20 at Montreal.

And Ottawa Rough Riders fumbled in the dying minutes of the game at Toronto Sunday to give Argos a chance to win 23-22. Argos, who usually blow the big opportunities, scored the tying touchdown 10 seconds before the final gun.

The topsy-turvy situation has boiled down to this: Montreal is in third place with a one-point lead over Toronto and only one game remaining in the schedule. That one game is a dilly. It pits Argos against Als next Saturday at Montreal.

Dick Shatto scored the tying touchdown for Toronto Sunday, the first player Argos recovered a Ron Stewart's fumble on the Riders' four-yard line.

Bill Mitchell, Argos' place kicker, calmly kicked the winning convert to send 20,822 fans—or a portion who stayed to the bitter end—into a frenzy.

Shatto scored two touchdowns for Argos, Mitchell kicked two field goals and two converts, Matte booted a single as an 85-yard quick kick, and Argos scored a safety touch.

Ottawa's Whit Tucker intercepted a Tobin Rote pass and ran 25 yards for a touchdown. Dick Cobes picked up a fumble by Argos' Joe Hernandez and ran six yards for another, and quarterback Russ Jackson scored a touchdown. Moe Racine kicked all three converts but managed only one single on three field goal attempts.

FIRST PLACE CLINCHER

Hamilton clinched first place with the win Saturday but lost manoeuvrer fullback C. R. Roberts with a broken ankle early in the game.

Coach Jim Trimble again used the shuttle system with quarterbacks Joe Zagar and Frank Cosentino, each of whom threw a touchdown pass and had one intercepted.

Kicker Don Sutherin was the Hamilton hero with three field goals—30, 31 and 33 yards—one convert and two singles. Zagar passed seven yards to Dick Easterly for a touchdown and Cosentino threw to Gaskey Hensley, a standout again, on a flying play which covered 63 yards.

Rouble quarterback Sandy Stephens paused to George Dixon for two touchdowns, kicked two converts and two field goals, but didn't impress coach Perry Moss. Moss said he wasn't satisfied with Stephens' play.

Hawks Tie Flyers

Baby Habs Blank Petes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A sensational performance by rookie goalie Jocelyn Cardinal gives him his second shutout Sunday in the young Ontario Hockey Association junior season.

Cardinal, who hasn't been scored on this season on home ice, helped Fireplace Montreal to a 3-0 win over Peterborough Petes.

In other league action, fourth-place St. Catharines Black Hawks staged a third-period rally for a 5-5 tie with third-spot Niagara Falls Flyers Saturday night.

In Montreal, the first and winning goal of the game came late in the second period when right winger Ron Ernston of Montreal caught Peterborough goalie Chuck Goddard off balance.

Left winger Bob Charlebois scored both the other goals 28 seconds apart in the third period. Goddard had a busy night, kicking out 42 shots.

At St. Catharines, Terry Crisp scored two goals and Ron Hengel, Don Arvers, Gary Doan Hoefer and Ron Schock one each for Niagara Falls.

Jim Gribben scored two for the Hawks with Dennis Hull, Fred Gordon, Jim Powell and Don snider getting the single goals.

Flyers led 3-2 after the first and increased the margin to 6-4 going into the third. Two Black Hawk goals scored with Scott knotted the game.

Rookie Niagara Falls goaltender Gregor Gardner was cut by a stick during a second-period scramble.

In Metro Junior A action, Toronto Marlboros took over first place by earning a 6-6 tie with Whitby Dunlops. In the first game of the double-bill at Toronto, Oshawa Gens edged Toronto Neil McNeil Maroons 5-2.

WARNED OF CUBA

BONN (AP)—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer Friday night called the Cuban crisis the worst threat to world peace since 1945. He warned Germany no easing of tension is visible at this time. The 86-year-old chancellor pledged his country's full support to the United States.

Kingston Whips Tired Wolves

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Boosters of the Eastern Professional Hockey League say it is a training ground—a league in which young players will mature.

Terry Cheevers, youthful goaltender of the Sudbury Wolves, may be very mature if he has many weaknesses like the one he just finished.

He might even become old before his years.

Cheevers handled almost 100 shots in two weekend games as Wolves were frubbed 8-2 by Kingston Frontenacs and tied Syracuse Braves 3-3.

The teary Wolves had three games in three nights. Friday night they whipped the powerful Hull-Ottawa Canadiens 4-2 at Hull, Saturday they were in Kingston and Sunday in Syracuse.

Frontenacs took advantage of their weariness and completely overpowered the Sudbury team —pouring 57 shots at Cheevers as they rolled up the score.

Beau Purple Breaks Record

Kelso, Carry Back Beaten

NEW YORK (AP) — Hobeau farm's Beau Purple smashed the Belmont Park course record and blurred the championship ambitions of Kelso and Carry Back Saturday, leading all the way to capture the $114,600 Man O' War Stakes in a major upset.

Jockey Bill Boland took Beau Purple to the lead at once and they stood off the challenge of 9-211 rivals for the mile to beat favored Kelso from the Bohemia Stable by two lengths. Greentree Stable's The Axe II was third.

Beau Purple, a 20-to-1 shot was unchallenged in the early grass course and was timed in two minutes, 26 seconds. He paid $43.30, $16 and $8.70. Kelso returned $3.80 and $2.70 while The Axe II paid $5.20.

First money was $74,620. It was Beau Purple's fourth victory in a $100,000 plus prize. He had beaten Kelso and Carry Back in the Suburban Handicap and later took the measure of Carry Back in the Brooklyn Handicap.

WINS GARDENIA

In Cherry Hill, N.J., Fred W. Hooper's 12-to-1 outsider, Main Snap, won the $15,000 Garden State Park Stakes before the favorite, Smart Deb, bolted to the outside in the stretch with a three-length lead.

Main Snap, ridden by Braulio Baeza, had to go all out to edge the fast recovering Smart Deb by a half-length. Mrs. Katherine Raible's Nalee was third.

Smart Deb, ridden by Manuel Ycaza, bolted and threatened to a stop as the field of nine two-year-old fillies swept into the stretch. Smart Deb appeared an easy winner until she swerved.

Main Snap earned the $95,597 first money and returned $27.20, $8.60 and $3.80 across the board in the 1 1-16-mile race.

Main Snap's time was a comparatively slow 1:43 2-5.

Mrs. R. L. Reineman's favorite returned $3.20 and $3.; Nalee paid $6.60 for place.

In Camden, S.C., a young jockey was thrown from his mount and killed Saturday after winning a race at Hilltop Race Track.

Alfred Travis Branham, 24, of Camden, died in hospital. Witnesses said Branham crossed the finish line as winner of a race and rode on several hundred feet beyond the wire. His mount apparently snapped and he was reportedly trying to free himself from the broken stirrup when he was thrown from the horse.

Western Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

When rookie goaltender Gillles Villemure of Vancouver Canucks does things in the Western Hockey League, he does them with a flair.

He was sensational in Vancouver's six straight victories. But Portland Buckaroos apparently found his secret and downed the Canucks 7-1 Sunday night although Villemure made 41 saves. recorded with Don Head's 16 in the Buckaroo net.

It was the Canucks' first defeat of the season and left them still atop the Northern Division race with 10 points, four ahead of the second-place Edmonton Flyers. Seattle Totems and Calgary Stampeders share third spot with six points apiece.

The win pushed the Bucks, defending champions in the Southern Division, into a three-way tie with Los Angeles Blades and San Francisco Seals, each with eight points. Spokane Comets trail, six points back.

The Vancouver - Portland game was the league's only battle Sunday night. Villemure was the star attraction as the Canucks walloped the Totems 7-1. Calgary beat Spokane 4-2 and Edmonton defeated San Francisco 5-3.

GAME ENDS IN FIGHT

SAIGON (AP) — A soccer game between teams from Thailand and South Viet Nam broke up in a free-for-all Sunday, with players and spectators slugging it out on the field before soldiers and police restored order. At least two Thai players were badly injured. Players of both teams and many spectators were roughed up. Thailand immediately withdrew from a four-nation tournament under way here.

Yankees, Dodgers Dominate

Major Leagues All-Stars

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Four New York Yankees were named to the American League all-star team picked by The Sporting News Sunday and three Los Angeles Dodgers made the baseball paper's National League squad.

The teams were selected by a poll of members of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Second baseman Bobby Richardson, shortstop Tom Tresh, centre fielder Mickey Mantle and pitcher Ralph Terry were the Yankees chosen for the American League squad.

Shortstop Maury Wills, pitcher Don Drysdale, and left fielder Tommy Davis were the Dodgers who made the National League honor team.

MAYS ON TEAM

The National League pennant winning San Francisco Giants placed first baseman Orlando Cepeda and centre fielder Willie Mays on the National League team.

Second baseman Bill Mazeroski of the Pirates; third baseman Ken Boyer of the Cardinals; right fielder Frank Robinson of the Reds; catcher Del Crandall of the Braves and pitcher Bob Purkey of Cincinnati make up the rest of the national all-star team.

Other American League spots went to first baseman Norm Siebern of the Athletics; third baseman Brooks Robinson of the Orioles; left fielder Leon Wagner of the Angels; right fielder Al Kaline of the Tigers; catcher Earl Battey of the Twins and pitcher Dick Donovan of the Indians.

Mantle was the favorite in the American League poll collecting 99 votes. Drysdale had 116 votes, one short of being unanimous in the National League. Mays had 110 votes in the National.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Winesten and riding sensation Ron Turcotte won the $11,815 Sandown Stakes by 2¼ lengths over Wings of Flight at Old Woodbine Saturday afternoon.

Amber Morn was third. The 5-5 favorite, First Minister, had to be pulled up before the finish because of a broken blood vessel.

For her fifth victory of the season, Winesten picked up $20,-660. She went off at 17-1.

Tony Lemo Beats Rosburg

COSTA MESA, Calif. (AP)—Tony Lema sank an 11-foot birdie putt on the third hole of a sudden death playoff against Bob Rosburg Sunday to win the $22,500 Orange County open.

Lema, 28, and Rosburg went into the overtime struggle after tying at 287.

Lema, who held a two-shot lead over Rosburg heading into Sunday's final round, shot 35-34—69 Sunday while Rosburg had a four-under-par 67.

Rosburg, former PGA champion, and Lema, both birdied the par five 478-yard first hole of the overtime. They also halved the 345-yard second hole with par fours. Then on the par three, 182-yard third hole, officials had to measure to see who was away. It was Lema and he promptly sank his 11-foot putt, the ball rimming the hole and toppling in. Rosburg's ball hit the flagstick at the hole but refused to fall in.

Defending champion Bob Mc-Call also was tied for third with George Bayer at 289.

McCallister shot a 32-35—66, despite two three-putt greens, while Bayer had a 67.

Thb,win for Lema was worth $2,800. Rosburg got $1,900.

Al Johnston of Montreal shot a 69 Sunday for a four-round score of 72-72-70-69—283 and George Knudson of Toronto failed to make the cut-off after the second round.

AT THE BELLE — Judy Garland returns in a highly dramatic role, as Irene Hoffman, unhappy witness, in Stanley Kramer's seven favorite star, two Academy Award Winner, "Judgment at Nuremberg", continuing for a few days in two-showing a day engagement at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

Win Eastern Judo Titles

MONTREAL (CP)—Rene Lalonde of Montreal won the contested Black Belt title Saturday night for the third consecutive year in the 10th annual Eastern Canadian judo championships.

Lalonde pinned Don Nilya of Montreal's Seido Kwai club with an arm lock in overtime to retain his crown.

About 200 of Canada's best judo men competed in the one-day event.

The powerful Hatashita Club of Toronto won the five-man team competition, edging a Niagara Falls, Ont., team by 10 points. The Niagara Falls team also belongs to the Ontario-wide Hatashita organization.

D. Sallazie of Oshawa, Ont., walked off with the title in the non-Black Belt series by overcoming Jr. Harvey of Toronto Hatashita with a strangle hold.

There were 165 individuals entered in the non-Black Belt competition and 30 in the Black Belt. Twenty teams competed.

Protection For Engine Important

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

Because summer overheating and winter freeze-ups are fairly familiar troubles, a few car owners will completely ignore cooling system service. But many do not have a clear understanding of all that is involved, and thus are a bit inadequate in the care they provide. Thinking of the cooling system in terms of the radiator, they seem to overlook the fact that the engine is part of the system, to. in fact, the threat of rust and or corrosion formation in the engine water passages should be the major incentive for regular cooling system service.

Engine, more than radiator protection is vital to car life. It's the principal reason for the regular emphasis on draining, flushing, and 'renewing inhibitors at intervals as are recommended by the experts. The type of care which keeps the engine free and clear will certainly do the same for the radiator.

F. L. asks: "What forces oil up into the distributor?"

(A) A clogged crankcase ventilating system or combustion gases blowing by worn piston rings can build up enough oil around the distributor.

From E.R.: "As a garage attendant, I often wonder how some people get licenses to drive. Three mornings this week I've had road service calls, and in each case the only trouble was a flooded engine."

(A) It's a pretty common fault, especially at this time of year. When a cold engine doesn't start on the first try, there's a tendency to pump the pedal frantically, floodig the engine and running down the battery too.

* * *

I.W. writes: "Last week I hit a bad road hole and broke a rear leaf spring. My dealer says there's no sense replacing the spring unles I replace the shocks, too. Is this needed? If so, why both rear shocks?"

(a) It is necessary if a defective shock absorber was actually responsible for the spring breakage. Shocks are usually replaced in pairs in order to maintain a properly balanced suspension.

* * *

P.H. asks: "Should the thermostat be put back in the cooling system before average season temperatures drop to near-freezing?"

(A) The thermostat should be in the system all year 'round. As emphasized many times, if your engine warms-up, gets er wear, less gas mileage are invited when you leave it out.

Kidd Breaks Own Record

BUFFALO (AP)—Bruce Kidd of Toronto cracked his own course record Saturday as he ran away with Canisius College's invitation cross-country run and paced the University of Toronto to the team championship in the event.

Kidd's time over the 4.7-mile Delaware Park course was 22:14.5, bettering the record 22:34.1 he set last year. Kidd set the pace all the way and finished more than 400 yards ahead of Ed Winrow of Buffalo State.

Bob Buchanan of Toronto was third, Tim Burns of Buffalo State fourth and Bill Mills of Toronto fifth.

Toronto's Doug MacDougall and Bob Kail were 18th and 20th, respectively, giving the U. of T. the team title (with 41 points—accumulated by totalling the standing of its top five finishers.

Buffalo State was second with 87 points and Roberts Wesleyan, from Rochester, finished third with 153.

A total of 140 starters were entered by the 21 schools.

Buffalo Unbeaten, Whip Aces

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's early yet, but Buffalo Bisons seem intent on breaking the Western Division race wide open before the American Hockey League season is more than a few weeks old.

The undefeated Bisons blanked Quebec Aces, the Eastern Division leaders, 2-0 Sunday night.

The victory was Buffalo's fifth straight and opened a four-point lead over runner-up Rochester Americans. Dejordy, who chalked up his second shutout, has limited the opposition to six goals in five games. He had 33 saves. Art Stratton and Doug Robinson were the Bison marksmen.

In other games Sunday night, Springfield Indians beat Hershey Bears 6-2 and Providence Reds whipped Rochester 3-1.

In Saturday action, Quebec edged Hershey 3-2, Pittsburgh Hornets 6-4 and Cleveland Barons 7-4, Rochester shaded Baltimore Clippers 5 - 4 and Springfield belted Providence 5-2.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

Astrological Forecast

For October 28
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Look to new horizons. Begin planning ways to make life better. Strive for self-satisfaction. Develop creative abilities. Raise eyes above immediate material sights.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Be willing to give in a little to gain a great deal. Day features thoughtfulness on part of close associate. Reciprocate. Tonight enhance knowledge through reading.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Better to wait than to rush into areas which are unknown. In other words, stick with what you already possess. Associate who "sweet-talks" you may have ulterior motive.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) Get best work in early. Tonight better for meeting with friends, for discussing ways of adding greater beauty to daily living. Fine for short trips, sales ideas, writing.

Leo (July 22 to August 21) Some of recent pressure, including financial, begins to lift. Could be delightful day, practical dine out tonight. Be entertained and enjoy it. Let relaxation take effect.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Take initiative. Be original, independent. Break from old trends including habits which see you bearing emotional, financial burdens not your own. Strive for greater freedom of thought, action.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Emphasis on "collecting." Means activity in connection with hobby. But also has to do with sense of security, money and love. Clarify thinking. Let Libra brilliance shine through.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Cycle once more near the top. Avoid tendency toward reckless spending. Be practical. But continue to seek quality over so-called bargains. Excellent shopping day.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Cycle moving up. Means now you are able to spotlight accomplishment. Projects which in recent past, were just talk, now move into high gear. Attend to details first.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Like Aries, refuse to be "closed in." Explor various possibilities. Improve relations with those at work. Strive for greater domestic harmony. Get ready for some exciting times ahead.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Business activity spotlighted. Stick to facts. Keep bargains. Let others know your word is your bond. Very good for activity in connection with community project.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Be discreet. Do not close to you may reveal confidence. Could involve conflict of interest. Better not to take sides. Tonight, relax. Idea which solves recent dilemma comes from reading.

If today is your birthday you constantly strive to present the truth as you see it. This policy often brings its rewards.

GENERAL TENDENCIES:—Cycle up for Scorpio, Sagittarius, Capricorn. Special word to Gemini: Getting off by yourself for some relaxation, reading and old-fashioned soul-searching provides needed tonic.

NOTICE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Corporation of the City of Belleville will apply to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario at its next Session for special legislation to provide:

1. In this Act, "dwelling" means any building or part of a building, tent, trailer or other covering or any vehicle or part of a vehicle, whether or not it is movable or was designed or built for human habitation, which has been used, is used or is capable of being used for the purpose of human habitation, with the land and other appurtenances thereto and all outbuildings, fences or erections thereon or therewith.

2. Upon the expiration of one year following the closing of any dwelling unit by an order made under The Public Health Act as unfit for human habitation or dangerous to health and upon the report of the medical officer of health that such dwelling is unfit for human habitation or dangerous to health, the Council of the Corporation may, by By-Law passed by not less than two-thirds of the vote of three-fourths of all members of Council, order the demolition or removal of such dwelling.

3. Notice of the By-law shall include a copy of the by-law and shall set out the reasons for and for appealing from the decision of the Council of the Corporation.

4. Unless Notice of an Appeal is served by the Owner to the Corporation within the time stated in the By-law, the decision of the Council of the Corporation to remove or demolish the dwelling shall be carried out forthwith by the City Engineer on behalf of the Corporation and for the purpose the Corporation with its servants and agents may enter upon the lands of the owner, but the Corporation is not liable to compensate the owner or any other person by reason of anything done by or on behalf of the Corporation under the authority of this section.

5. The Corporation has a lien for the amount expended by or on behalf of the Corporation in connection with the demolition of the dwelling and the removal of the debris and the certificate of the Clerk of the Corporation as to the amount so expended is final, and such amount shall be added to the collector's roll as taxes for the current year and collected in the same manner and with the same remedies as real property taxes.

6. If the decision of the Council of the Corporation is appealed, the Council of the Corporation shall obtain a decision of the Court before the hearing of the appeal by the Court of the Council of Hastings and shall give no-ice thereof by such means and to such persons as the Judge may require.

7. At the hearing all persons who attend on the appeal, the Judge may confirm the decision of the Council of the Corporation and dismiss the appeal in which case the Corporation may proceed with the removal or demolition of the dwelling or the Judge may make such other order as he deems advisable under the circumstances.

Record of 7 Days That Shook World

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

This is the record of seven days that shook the world.

It began with President Kennedy's announcing a "quarantine" on the shipment of Soviet missiles to Cuba, and it reached a second climax when Premier Khrushchev announced his order to de-fang the weapons and ship them back to Russia.

Here is the chronology:

Monday — After 24 hours of feverish, and highly secret, activity in Washington, President Kennedy announced the "quarantine." He said Soviet missiles, already at the United States, were mounted on launchers in Cuba. Further shipments of offensive weapons, he said, would be intercepted and prevented from reaching the island.

Tuesday — U.S. war ships moved into position around Cuba. U.S. forces around the world were placed on the alert. Air surveillance was stepped up over Cuba. Kennedy form-ly signed the blockade proclamation.

Wednesday — The Pentagon said Communist soldiers were approaching Cuban waters. It ordered American warships to intercept the vessels at 10 a.m. Later, the Pentagon said some of the 25 appeared to have altered course to avoid interception. Khrushchev, in a letter to Britain's philosopher Bertrand Russell, said he would not take any "rash action" in the Cuban crisis and suggested a summit meeting to avoid war. In Havana, Premier Castro ordered up all Cuban forces and said anyone preparing to invade Cuba "had better come ready for combat."

Thursday—A Soviet oil tanker the Bucharest, was the first intercepted. The ship did not board her. She was allowed to proceed after it was ascertained that she was not carrying petroleum. Kennedy and Khrushchev both agreed to talks with U Thant, acting UN secretary-general, as a preliminary to negotiations on the crisis.

AMERICANS

adversary's conciliatory tone, Kennedy issued a public statement praising Khrushchev's decision as "statesmanlike," and as "an important and constructive contribution to peace." In a quick reply Kennedy said Khrushchev had made possible the "a step back from danger."

This historic exchange climaxed a week of tense, dramatic events. The first step was Kennedy's announcement last Monday night that he was ordering a "quarantine" of offensive arms shipments to Cuba. If Russia refused to abide by the blockade the cold war could turn hot.

Ships reported to be carrying offensive weapons to Cuba turned around. On Saturday Khrushchev offered to eliminate Soviet nuclear missiles in Cuba if the United States would withdraw its missiles from Turkey, a U.S. ally which borders Russia. The president rejected this proposal.

STICKS TO POINT

Kennedy stuck to his main point — the nuclear missile buildup in Cuba would have to be removed before there could be "sensible negotiation" on a peaceful settlement of the crisis.

Defence Secretary Robert McNamara announced that more than 14,000 air force reservists, mostly in units used to airlift troops for combat, would be called to active duty. McNamara's announcement Saturday night followed a Pentagon report that an unarmed U.S. reconnaissance plane was missing as a result of Cuban anti-aircraft fire.

The mission - filled week was climaxed with Khrushchev's latest letter, meeting the basic U.S. demand for suggesting UN supervision. The Soviet leader also proposed a discussion on arms reductions, including armaments of the rival North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Communist Warsaw pact group, and talks on easing other cold war tensions. He omitted any mention of a deal involving Turkey.

Pending solid evidence that the missile bases will be torn down, the aerial surveillance of Cuba continued. "There has been no order, at this time, for any relaxation of the activities that we have been carrying on," a Pentagon spokesman said Sunday. And there was no relaxation of the blockade.

STILL UNSOLVED

Among the many unsolved problems connected with Cuba is Castro's acceptance of UN inspection on his soil and what the United States might do about Castro's activities hereafter.

Castro issued a five-point series of demands Sunday, including U.S. withdrawal from the Guantanamo base in Guantanamo in eastern Cuba. U.S. authorities repeated their past position that the United States will not intend to give up the base.

FIFTY FIGHT BLAZE

TORONTO (CP) — Firemen battled all Saturday night to prevent a $60,000 restaurant fire in west - end Toronto from spreading to an adjoining filling station. More than 50 firemen fought the blaze in the two-storey building.

open, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said. In the past India has insisted on paying for weapons but now there is no cash and a desperate need for arms.

A small shipment of British weapons already has arrived and France and Canada also have been asked to supply arms, but the feeling here is that only the United States can provide the amount of weapons needed.

Galbraith delivered to Nehru a letter from President Kennedy expressing sympathy for India in its present emergency and "something more tangible," the spokesman said. In response Nehru made the first direct request for U.S. arms.

Details of weapons needed are being discussed with Indian military men, the spokesman said.

Defence Minister V. K. Krishna Menon said today India already has received arms from abroad and would be getting more. He said the India ruling Congress party's executive the government had implemented civil defence measures to protect bridges, vital installations and communications in India.

Ontario R.C. Bishops Seeking Better Deals for Separate School System

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's Roman Catholic bishops, concerned over what the separate school financial situation might do to the quality of Catholic education, are seeking a better deal.

A brief, signed by the bishops and made public Sunday, was forwarded to the government by the English Catholic Education Association of Ontario.

It says:

"There can be no question of our desire to meet the highest conceivable standards. Our financial ability to do so may soon be called into question if we do not receive the financial assistance in the same proportion as that which is given to the secular public schools."

ASKS FOR REVIEW

Arguing with documentation of legal decisions that "the Roman Catholic school is as much of a public school as the secular school," the brief asks for a review of the separate school system and suggests:

1. Possible establishment of Roman Catholic teachers' colleges;

2. A study of government policy toward Catholic secondary schools;

3. A review of corporation tax distribution to schools;

4. Consultation of Roman Catholic experts on textbooks for separate schools; and

5. Greater freedom of action in framing the curriculum of separate schools.

QUESTIONS EQUALITY

"Does equality of opportunity in education apply to all citizens or only to those who are willing to accept non-religious public education?" the bishops ask.

Copies of the brief were sent to all members of the legislature, an unusual step. Normally briefs are first presented in person to the cabinet or a cabinet committee, or to the heads of a department.

There was no immediate reaction to the brief. Premier Robarts had not yet seen it and William G. Davis, Ontario's new minister of education, was not available for comment.

Discussing a "misconception" of the nature of separate schools, the brief says:

"It is felt that the separate school which . . . is maintained by Roman Catholics is . . . not entitled to progress, grow, develop and expand in the same manner as and in equal step with the secular public schools. Nothing is farther from the truth.

"Even a cursory examination of the legislative history of separate schools shows that the Roman Catholic Separate School is as much a public school as the secular school."

CITED RULINGS

Citing legal rulings which they say have supported the theory that separate schools are public schools, the bishops say Catholic schools "are entitled not to be confined in a legislative strait-jacket but to develop in the same manner as the secular public school, the sole distinction between the two being that the Roman Catholic Separate school shall be conducted in accordance with Roman Catholic exigencies." To do otherwise would be "discrimination."

. . . We urge most strongly that the provincial government . . . afford the separate schools both urban and rural the same advantages, the same rights and the same opportunity to grow as is enjoyed by their secular counterparts. . . . We must respectfully request a re-examination of all the problems of financial help to separate public schools . . ."

Quoting official statistics for 1961 as showing 1,979,914 Catholics in Ontario (over 30 per cent), "the largest of any religious denominational group," the brief says:

"The principle that these Catholics have the right to their own schools is already beyond question. What remains to be settled is whether Catholic children are to have equal opportunity with the other children of this province.

DENIED OF SHARE

"The outstanding aspect of the taxation for education purposes at the present moment is the growing emphasis on corporation taxes. This is well known to all and requires no elaboration. What is equally well known is that to date we have been denied our fair share of these corporation taxes. As a result our financial disability is rapidly reaching the point where there is no species of equality."

Last year, the Public School Trustees' Association submitted a brief to the provincial government which claimed in part that Catholic schools were receiving a larger share of provincial grants than their percentage of the school population warranted. Association officials say no action on the brief has been made public so far.

Present training of Catholic teachers, who must learn a Catholic philosophy of life, was not satisfactory, the Catholic brief says. The best solution might be the establishment of Catholic teachers' colleges but the bishops did not want to take up a definite position yet.

"We do not eschew this possibility as a solution. But we prefer to propose to the authorities in general terms the study of a form of teachers' college in which Catholic teachers could be adequately prepared to teach according to Catholic principles.

FACILITIES INADEQUATE

"Certainly our present facilities for educating even in religious knowledge, are inadequate."

Roman Catholics paid for the support of public secondary schools, but Catholic secondary schools were shortchanged on tax support and no federal grants went to Catholic institutions. A fundamental change of policy towards Catholic secondary schools was overdue.

"We suggest a thorough study of the whole matter. . . ."

The brief urged for "greater freedom of action in the framing of the curriculum which is used in the separate public schools and contribution in this matter . . ."

The present situation did not leave sufficient scope for the development of a true Catholic philosophy of life.

"We would also like to have Catholic experts consulted in the choice of a number of text books and encouraged to make submissions which might be adopted for the use of the separate public schools when deemed advisable."

CLAIMS INJUSTICE

The brief concludes:

"We are wholly convinced that the present situation of the separate public schools in the province of Ontario constitutes a situation of injustice and that it is within our strict rights to require the necessary readjustments. The government must be the servant of all the people and it would be inconceivable that the legitimate rights and aspirations of almost one-third the population should continue in any way neglected or unappreciated.

"We respectfully request the government of Ontario to remedy this situation in accordance with the requirements of justice and of the best interests of the whole community."

High School News

By PAULINE JANITCH

It has been a busy three weeks, football, cheering, and other extra - curricular activities consuming most of our time.

Our senior football team is well on the road to success in C.O.S.S.A., claiming victories from Trenton, Brighton, and Picton. Due to the illegal but accidental entry of a player, the latter game was defaulted to Picton.

Despite their potential, inexperience is laying claim to our young junior team so far all games have been relinquished to Picton, Brighton, Napanee and Trenton respectively.

Commencement this year was certainly one to be proud of. Outstanding contributors to its success were Dr. Barlow, the guest speaker, and Howard Nemtin, the valedictorian. Dr. Barlow stressed the importance of a good education needed in a world that is so materialistically ahead but so morally behind, while Howard Nemtin laid emphasis on the importance of a good environment, a great part of which is school itself.

Our congratulations go out to Betty-Anne Forte and Leonard Trudeau, the recipients of approximately $200 in scholastic awards.

Our prefects for this year, Shirley Chisholm, Dave Minion, Deidra Dopp, George-Anne McBrien, Dave Glen, John Walsh, Forest Smith, Bill Finkle, Richard Dixon and Claus Denczyna, were introduced and presented with the principal's award.

After the ceremonies, a graduation dance was held in the gymnatorium which was transformed by the Keyettes with richly colored foliage.

Assemblies are on the indefinable edge of returning to last year's stagnancy or of turning toward new spirited efforts. Since student parliament elections we have been entertained by the occasional appearances of the cheerleaders who tried to indoctrinate more enthusiasm into the crowd. Alan Don Ailis presented an interesting dialogue and colorful films of his trip to California last summer with the Key Club. Last Wednesday, four students debated the pros and cons of the results of the efforts of the United Nations.

Although both sides presented valid arguments, the negative side won. Following this Forest Smith and Betty - Anne (Forte) gave a most informative account of their three-day trip to United Nations seminar in Kingston.

OATS

To the unmarred record of of boy cheerleader's who not only contribute to the vocal support of the crowd, but also to the pep.

To Q.S.S. for an excellent edition of the Quintaitler.

To the unmarred record of our soccer team which is tried for first place with Quinte.

SPURS

While the first edition of Motzambler ran into technical difficulties, we anticipate another publication in the near future. Let's hope for even bigger and better things.

PCs Think Chances Better In Newfoundland Election If Vote Delayed Awhile

OTTAWA (CP) — A considerable battle appears to be shaping up involving the House of Commons vacancy created last Thursday when a Newfoundland court voided the election of Liberal Richard Cashin in St. John's West.

The argument is over whether the byelection should be called as soon as possible, or after a long cooling-off period.

Mr. Cashin, 29, who defeated former solicitor-general William J. Browne in the June 18 general election on the strength of the armed forces vote, says he intends to hit the campaign trail immediately.

He wants the byelection called as soon as possible because, he says, he hasn't the money to campaign for a long period of time. A fledgling lawyer, he wants to devote his time to politics but would have to go about building a law practice if the byelection doesn't come quickly. However, in St. John's the Cashin family is not regarded as impecunious.

DELAY ADVANTAGE?

Mr. Browne appears destined to be the Conservative candidate seeking his old place in the House of Commons again. But Conservative strategists here believe that his chances of victory may be greater if the byelection is delayed.

The former solicitor-general, now 65, is a formidable campaigner on the hustings and all things being equal the renewed Cashin - Browne contest promises to be a hot one when it comes.

However, two factors are being given special attention in consideration of the byelection date.

One is Mr. Cashin's youth and the fact that he has demonstrated a certain giant-killer ability. This tends to build up sympathy support for him, the Conservatives acknowledge.

The other is the current provincial general election and its probably outcome Nov. 19. The Conservatives say their Newfoundland cohorts under the leadership of James Greene have a major war with innumerable battles on their hands in the fight with Premier Smallwood's Liberals.

If the Conservatives do not make a good showing provincially, the Liberal tide would tend to add weight to Mr. Cashin's election hopes, the Conservatives say.

So, they believe, time—and lots of it—will work to their advantage.

The St. John's West seat will be officially declared vacant Nov. 5, if the statutory time limits run their course. The government then has 180 days to set the date for a byelection, but it can set the date for any time in the future.

WHOOPS, WRONG DOOR — A fourth entrance to a three-car garage in Point Anne suddenly appeared Sunday afternoon when Mrs. Hannah Hull, holder of a beginner's permit, lost control of her car when the gas pedal stuck and plowed through the side of the building. The first stall in the garage was empty but the side of a car in the centre space was bashed in. Picture shows the Hull car as it was pulled from the wrecked garage. Mrs. Hull escaped with a bump on the head.

U.S. LIFTS BLOCKADE FOR TWO DAYS

Indian Troops Launch Sharp Attacks

Artillery, Mortar Fire Hurled At Red Positions

Weapons From West Arriving at Front

CP from AP-Reuters

NEW DELHI—Indian forces have moved to the offensive along the northeastern frontier, launching artillery and mortar attacks on Chinese Communist positions, a defence ministry spokesman announced today.

His announcement was the first government reference to Indian offensive action since the heavy Indian - Chinese border fighting erupted earlier this month.

The spokesman said Indian troops were pushing forward with artillery attacks on a Chinese position east of Tawang on the northeastern frontier.

He said the Indian forces also had launched an artillery attack on Chinese strongholds on the outskirts of the village of Walong, about 15 miles from the Burma border.

But to the west, in the central region of the northeastern frontier, Indian troops were forced to withdraw from a border base under heavy attack by the Chinese, the spokesman said, adding that Indian forces earlier had repulsed two Chinese attacks.

On the western front, the spokesman said, there was no change in the situation since the Chinese forces captured the post of Demchok in the Ladakh region of Kashmir.

The Indian Army had strengthened its position earlier today against further Chinese attacks.

The first trickle of the expected flood of Western weapons started arriving.

Major Chinese drives at either end of India's northeast frontier paused while both sides began reinforcements. Observers looked for some heavy fighting about 12 miles southeast of Towang and/or Walong, near the Burma border.

An Indian spokesman estimated 2,000 to 3,500 Indians were killed or missing through Sunday in fighting in the northeast and in Ladakh, at the western end of the Himalayan battle line. He said Chinese casualties had been higher.

The Chinese captured Dembok and moved on Jen Pass in southern Ladakh Saturday, the Indian government announced.

They have been reported to the troops fighting about three

FOUR ELDERLY PEOPLE PERISH IN CALGARY FIRE

Four Others Severely Burned

CALGARY (CP)—Fire raced through an old apartment building in downtown Calgary Monday night, killing four persons and injuring four others. Firemen were searching the ruins for more bodies.

The blaze, of unknown origin, struck the three - storey brick building while many of the tenants were in, or preparing for, bed.

An early report placed the number of dead at five. But it was later learned that firemen had recovered four bodies.

One of the dead was identified as Miss Mary McKie, about 50, owner of the building. She had turned down $100,000 for her property a couple of years ago.

The other three bodies were burned beyond recognition, but police tentatively identified one man as Robert Sheridon of Drumheller, Alta.

The injured:

William Anderson, who suffered burns to his right arm and chest; George Raitray, 72, burns to his face, hands and neck; Dick Ross, an elderly man who suffered leg lacerations when he leaped from a second - storey window, and Charles Carter, suffering shock and bruises.

STARTED NEAR TOP

A woman tenant who escaped from the flames said the trouble apparently started on the upper floors of the apartment block, the Belmont Apartments at 409 2nd St. Southwest.

Smoke, steam and flame spurted from the building as firemen battled to bring the blaze in check. Soot and smoke billowed across the city's business section.

It was not known how many

AUTO INDUSTRY CHALLENGED TO EXPORT MORE

If Not to Waive Tariff Concessions

By ARCH MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP)—The government challenged the American dominated Canadian auto industry Monday to export more or waive some tariff concessions.

Finance Minister Nowlan told the Commons, in a statement aimed at Canada's Ontario-centred and second-largest manufacturing industry, that tariff concessions would be given on imported automatic transmissions and some engines.

This would apply only if the importing companies sold abroad an equal value of auto parts. The scheme is for one year, initially.

The statement was the second implementation of some of the packaged recommendations announced 14½ years ago. They were compiled by Dean Vincent Bladen of the University of Toronto as a one-man royal commission examining the Canadian automotive industry.

The first immediate step was the elimination of the excise tax of 7½ per cent. A good portion of the Bladen recommendations remain to be acted on—including a suggested 10-per-cent duty on British autos which continue to enter Canada duty free.

Said Mr. Nowlan:

"These measures will make clear to any Canadian automotive industry the determination of this government to reduce the imbalance in the automobile sector of our trade (about $500,000,000 deficit last year) and to do this by reducing costs through increasing production for export rather than by increasing protection at the expense of the Canadian consumer."

His announcement smacked somewhat of the national oil policy enunciated under somewhat similar circumstances in February, 1961.

Western evils were being generated well below capacity while imports were substantial in Ontario.

The American - dominated industry in Canada was told then to beef up its production to 800,000 barrels daily in 1963 or face tariff-import quotas.

There was also the implied threat of a second crude oil pipeline to Montreal from the prairies. The 2-year-speed imports lessened and the target now is considered within reach.

The Canadian industry, once a leading exporter, had been faced in recent years by

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Canada has offered to assist in any United Nations inspection team sent to Cuba.

Liberal Leader Pearson said a careful study of Cuban crisis is a great relief but cautioned against over-optimism.

The Tories (SC—Fraser Valley) congratulated the government on keeping Parliament informed of crisis developments.

H. W. Herridge (NDP—Kootenay West) said "brinkmanship" must be replaced by negotiations under the UN.

Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Laurier) termed the Social Credit MPs "traditional Tories."

Pre-Election Exchange Fund Statements Again Attacked

OTTAWA (CP)—It's against the rules to call an MP a liar in Parliament but the submission can be plainted under a variety of guises.

The Liberals illustrated two methods Monday with national leader Pearson and Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Laurier) assailing Finance Minister Fleming.

Mr. Pearson and Mr. Fleming both have denied that the decline in Canada's foreign exchange reserves was serious up to June 14. On that date in a television broadcast, the prime minister made no mention of foreign exchange. He said later heavy pressure began building up June 15.

The Liberals pursued the point and at their request the government tabled in Parliament last Friday a list of the daily foreign exchange losses or gains between April 2 and June 22.

With this list as evidence, Mr. Pearson charged, toward a statement, read into the Commons record later by Mr. Chevrier, in which he said Mr. Fleming did not tell the truth Oct. 1 when he told reporters in Toronto audience that only in the third week of June had foreign exchange losses become serious. He also assailed Mr. Diefenbaker's version.

Under the government's figures, Mr. Pearson and Mr. Chevrier pointed to foreign exchange fund payments—to bolster the dollar—of $50,000,000 in the three successive business days May 31, June 1 and June 4; others of $35,300,000 June 12; $17,400,000 June 13; $17,000,000 June 14 for a total of almost $67,000,000 in the three days before Mr. Diefenbaker's final election camp'gn broadcast the night of June 14.

"In fact," they said, "the loss on June 15, when the prime minister said the loss 'started in earnest', was not as great as it was on June 12.

"In other words, the government tried to conceal the facts of the crisis from the people before the election and from Parliament afterwards."

Nobody called anyone a liar in the House or outside, but in saying Mr. Fleming didn't tell the truth and by citing figures against Mr. Diefenbaker, the Liberals came as close as parliamentary rulebook.

Ottawa Poses Own Question What Will Mr. K. Do Next?

OTTAWA (CP)—There was a mood of uneasiness in the capital Monday night despite the damping down of the Cuban situation.

Foremost in many minds was the question: What will Soviet Premier Khrushchev do next?

It was recalled that six years ago in Hungary the Russians gave way momentarily to the Western fighters, then returned savagely with tanks to blot out the revolt.

Another official here, even pretended to know what Khrushchev might try as a counter-move to the promised dismantling of Soviet missile bases in Cuba under United Nations supervision.

But there was a disquieting feeling that Cuba may be only the first of a series of crises which might erupt in a number of other world trouble spots.

In a Commons statement Monday Prime Minister Diefenbaker took pains to caution any optimists.

"I think it is worth while warning again that none of us should take anything for granted in this tense situation as there still remain a number of potential hurdles."

Officials said the aim now should be to press home the temporary advantage of the apparent Cuban settlement with Soviet-Bloc negotiations on a host of differences besetting the immediate recovering of the 18-nation disarmament conference at Geneva.

Canada has again promised to assist a UN peace-preserving undertaking, this time in Cuba.

There now are Canadians in such UN jobs under the pax Congo, Jerusalem, Kashmir, Korea and New Guines. Under the Cuban arrangement, the advisory Commission, not part of the UN, there are other Canadians in Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia.

Some officials here maintain that such tasks present the Canadian armed forces with their only meaningful role.

U.N. REJECTS RED CHINA MEMBER BID

Bigger Margin Than Year Ago

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The United Nations General Assembly defeated a renewed bid for Communist Chinese UN membership today—by a greater margin than last year's defeat.

The main switch from last year's vote was among some of the new African members.

The vote: 42 in favor, 56 against and 12 abstentions; in 1961 the vote was: 36 in favor, 48 against and 20 abstentions.

The vote was seen as a major victory for the Western powers who strongly opposed the seating of Communist China. They argued that the Red Chinese Army's military action against India demonstrated its unfitness for membership.

At the last minute, some of the African countries came out for a "two-China" plan, under which both Communist China and the Chinese Nationalists would get UN seats. They declined, however, to make a formal proposal to this effect.

The vote was on a Soviet resolution calling for the ouster of the Chinese Nationalist delegations from all UN organs and the seating of delegations representing Communist China.

India, as expected, voted for the Soviet resolution in spite of Indian charges that the Chinese communists were carrying out premeditated aggression against Indian territory.

India's delegation argued that the Chinese attack demonstrated precisely why the Peking regime should be brought into the UN without delay.

External Affairs Minister Howard Green, on a brief visit to the UN, told reporters emphatically Monday night Canada would vote against Red China's entry since it "still insists it plans to take over Formosa."

Asked whether the Canadian policy would not rule out the often-mentioned "two China's" solution for the deadlock Green answered in the affirmative but he appeared to dislike the term.

A better way to put it, he said was that "as long as mainland China insists they must take over Formosa, we are not interested in the admission to membership in the United Nations."

Canada noted in debate last year that Formosa, with a population of 11,000,000, is bigger than many UN members.

When Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin opened the China argument Oct. 22 he made no mention whatever of the Chinese-Indian fighting and

U Thant, Castro Discuss Measures For Crisis End

Approval Sought For U.N. Inspection

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Acting Secretary General U Thant was scheduled to fly to Havana today to discuss with Premier Fidel Castro measures for ending the Cuban crisis.

Thant's principal aides on the crucial mission were: Brig. Indar Jit Rikhye of India, his military adviser; Omar Loutfi of the United Arab Republic, undersecretary for special political affairs; and Dr. Hernane Tavares de Sa of Brazil, undersecretary for public information.

The United States handed the secretary general a boost in prestige on the eve of his departure when it acceded to his request that its arms blockade of Cuba be lifted for two days, beginning this morning. Earlier the U.S. insisted the blockade would not be eased until Soviet missiles in Cuba were dismantled.

STRENGTHENS THANT

The gesture was regarded as an important step in strengthening U Thant's position as he is scheduled to open negotiations with Castro, who has been very sensitive where Cuba's sovereignty is concerned at UN intervention.

That's plans for the trip—he is expected to return in two or three days—was a chartered jet from Brazil's Varig Airlines and besides the automatic staff he was accompanied by: Maj. Yilma Alemi of Ethiopia, his military aide; Lt. - Col. Dag Stiernspetz of Sweden, the Swedish delegation's military advisor; and Raul Primelles, deputy chief of Cuba's UN mission.

The 52-year-old Burmese diplomat put in a strenuous day of conferences Monday, including one with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily Kuznetsov, sent by Premier Khrushchev to negotiate on Cuba affairs.

Thant also saw Ambassador Adlai Stevenson of the United States. UN officials described the talks with both men and the American respectively as "constructive" and "useful."

Thant released a statement he sent Khrushchev Sunday expressing his belief that a situation in the Caribbean would be "normalized" when the missiles are pulled out and the bases dismantled.

Thant still faced the ticklish job of winning Castro's approval for UN inspection procedure on which he worked here in conjunction with U.S. and Soviet officials.

TRUST GOVERNMENT

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) Stories about the presence of radioactive fallout contaminating milk have not adversely affected milk sales, the Milk Industry Foundation was told Monday night. Norman Hayden of Washington, D.C., foundation public relations director, said the public appears confident that U.S. government will ban its sale if milk drinking becomes hazardous.

Priest Shoots Knife-Waving Thug After Woman Killed, Sister Hurt

CHICAGO (AP) — A knife-wielding burglar was shot by a priest early today in the rectory of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church after, police said, he fatally stabbed the housekeeper and seriously wounded her sister.

After shooting the burglar, the priest, Rev. Stephen O'Donnell, 49, tackled him and held him to the floor until police arrived.

Police identified the burglar as Larry Vernon, 22, of San Antonio, Tex. They said he broke into the rectory and invaded the first-floor room where two sisters, Betty Walsh, 44, and Peggy, 38, a cook at the rectory, were asleep.

The sisters ran from the bedroom and shouted to awaken Father O'Donnell and Rev. Daniel Holihan, asleep on the second floor.

Vernon, carrying two knives, stabbed the older sister twice and slashed at the younger woman. Betty Walsh fell dead at the foot of the rectory stairs and her sister collapsed on the stairway as she ran toward the second floor.

Father O'Donnell, who had obtained a pistol when he heard the screams, fired once, hitting Vernon in the left leg.

Queen Laughs at Bob Hope Quips, Comic Tosses Fun at Kennedys

LONDON (AP)—"We don't have titles in the United States," Bob Hope said Monday night his eyes avoiding the royal box at the Palladium.

A faint smile flickered over Queen Elizabeth's face.

"No, sir," Hope continued, "in America we have just two classes—the people and the Kennedys."

The Queen glanced at her husband, Prince Philip, and smiled.

"And there are more Kennedys than people," Hope continued. The Queen threw back her head and laughed out loud.

On one occasion was the annual Royal Variety Performance which raised $126,000, for the Variety Artistes Benevolent fund.

The Queen appeared just as amused by Hope's quips.

"President Kennedy's from Massachusetts, you know. He's going to split it two years —High Mass and Low Mass."

The evening's most controversial triumph for 78-year-old Sophie Tucker, who starred in the first Royal Variety Performance in 1934 before Queen Elizabeth's grandparents, King George V and Queen Mary.

After 10 minutes of such standbys are Life Begins at 40, After You've Gone and Some of These Days, the audience gave her one of the loudest and longest ovations in the history of the annual vaudeville event.

"I was thrilled," Queen Elizabeth told Miss Tucker afterward. "You were wonderful."

Boy Scouts Association Re-Elects 1962 Officers

The annual meeting of the Belleville District Council of the Boy Scouts Association was held Monday evening at the Kinsmen Centre with members present for the year being presented and a new slate of officers elected.

All of this year's officers were re-elected with the post of an additional vice president being made. Guest speaker for the evening was Lew Griffiths, regional commissioner.

Officers named included F. W. Pickering as president with L. & L. Lewis and Dr. R. W. Allore as vice presidents; W. O. Walters is secretary and L. F. Andrews, treasurer.

Executive committee members are Dr. D. Arnott Q. C., Doug McBride, G. R. Bailey, Mrs. P. C. Geisthorpe, Gordon Locklin, Andre Marsley, F. J. Lancaster, W. J. Devine; L. E. Morrison, D. C. Owens and A. E. Robb, Dan Stewart, H. E. Osborne, Alex Glover, Bruce E. Thompson, W. Watson, Cecil Izard, and Al Glover.

Padres are Rev. Archdeacon R. McConnell and Father Peter McCormack.

Murray G. Maw was renamed as district commissioner.

Regional Commissioner Lew Griffiths called for more flexibility in programming of scouting activities and said that the national council was going to treat lengths to determine why the older boys are dropping out of scouting.

District president F. W. Pickering told the annual meeting that the Belleville scouting family was made up of 29 groups who were responsible for 30 Wolf Cub Packs, 23 Scout Troops and one Senior group. During the coming year additional cub packs and scouting groups would be formed as leaders were found.

It was also anticipated that at least one additional Rover crew would be formed in the near future to help in extending scouting facilities for older boys.

Camp Sagonaska at the Col. Vanderwater Recreation Area at Thomasburg had filled a long felt need Increased use of the doors activities for scouting. Plans were to double the number of campers days at the camp during the coming summer.

To further encourage camping at Thomasburg, plans were to improve the swimming area, clear additional space for camp sites and build a permanent display shelter. The building would permit Cubs to make toilet use of the camp washroom facilities in the disappointment due to inclement weather.

Mr. Pickering paid tribute to the many scouting leaders for their outstanding efforts.

"Scouting is a volunteer organization and all have worked long hours with their only compensation being the satisfaction of a job well done," he said.

Statistics given by the District Commissioner showed that 1,376 boys and 171 leaders were engaged in scouting activities in the Belleville district during the past year.

It was noted that some groups had lost ground in numbers but it was stated this was due to lack of qualified leaders. Two new groups were mentioned during the year by the Belleville Association for the Canadian Legion and the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Badges and awards were honored during the year by being named Queen's Scouts.

Scout renaming will get underway at the "r" on November 10th, it was reported by the meeting.

And the meeting was advised that there was money in the budget to pay the way for a boy scout to attend the big Jamboree in Greece next year.

Two City Men Are Remanded

Two Belleville men, Robert Thomas Bennett, 18, and Leonard Clifford Lafferty, 20, appeared in city court here this morning.

Bennett has been charged with breaking, entering and theft of $2,500 worth of goods on Bridge Street, early Monday morning, October 29, and a similar offence at C. C. Hyde Plumbing on Front St.

Lafferty was charged with theft of $2,000 worth of goods from the same premises.

The matter is still under investigation by city detectives.

Both men were remanded until Friday without bail, as he was further remanded on $2,500 bail surety bail in connection with the safe robbery at Booth Radio and Television on Front St. last May.

Wood, in addition to appearing on a charge of breaking, entering and theft at Lafferty's pool room, will face three similar offences.

He has been remanded until Friday on $2,000 bail.

The matter is still under investigation by police.

Traffic Men Meet in City

The Golden Triangle district of The Canadian Industrial Traffic League held its October meeting in the city as guests of Belleville Traffic Managers.

The meeting featured an address given by Wm. Gall, program co-ordinator of the Model Secretaries Institute, Evansville, Indiana.

Mr. Gall gave a talk on "Complacency — A Business Cancer."

Several instances were cited where well-known firms grew successfully into industrial giants only to be brought to their knees by complacent management. He pointed out that when the management was replaced, these firms usually progressed to greater success.

Mr. Gall stressed the fact that when management and supervision did not find their jobs challenging or when they not maintain their initiative and self-drive that complacency, just as cancer, would spread to all the firm's employees.

Those wishing to move up through the ranks of management should not be complacent but must keep informed, as well read, be curious, enquire, forward ideas from others and above all maintain their initiative and be progressive the speaker concluded.

Mr. Gall was introduced by John Harma, Mead Johnson of Canada and thanked by Mr. Ralph Plumpton, traffic manager, H. Corby Distillery.

The meeting was chaired by Mr. Ralph Plumpton. The new officers are chairman, H. F. Hynes, supervisor, traffic and purchasing, Brockville Chemicals; vice-president, Ralph Plumpton of the secretary-treasurer, K. M. Kitchen, traffic and customs supervisor, Parke, Davis and Company, Brockville.

Kingston Man Found Dead In Parked Car

KINGSTON (CP) — John White, 23, of Kingston, was found dead in his parked car Monday and police believe the death was due to carbon monoxide poisoning.

Wanda Allair told police she accompanied Mr. White to a drive-in movie Sunday night, after which they had a meal.

The woman said they then parked on a deserted street and she woke up about 10:30 a.m., discovered her companion was dead, walked to a nearby service station, and telephoned police.

Sunday Entertainment Put In Hands of the Voters

TRENTON — Trenton voters will get a chance to decide their own fate, on the subject of Sunday entertainment.

At a brief session of town council last night, the councillors conceded that the 833 names, placed at the bottom of a petition, asking that the voting public be allowed to decide whether or not Sunday movies should be held locally, (afternoon), were more than the 1961 figure and constituted over 20 per cent of the town's eligible voters. Last figure on the sum total of Trenton's citizens eligible to vote is 7,000, and this is the 1961 figure, Clerk-comptroller O. W. Larry said that he would have the 1962 total in his hands this week, but for last night's purposes, the 1961 figure was good enough as he thought it unconceivable that the 1962 eligible voters would have been added to the list since last year. A spokesman for the 833 eligible voters must sign the petition and this is the requirement, although it had been reported, unofficially, as such at the meeting.

Hence, voters will be asked to effect their wishes on the moving pictures being shown locally, on Sunday afternoons?" The question or a "Business Cancer."

Several instances were cited where well-known firms grew successfully into industrial giants only to be brought to their knees by complacent management. He pointed out that when the management was replaced, these firms usually progressed to greater success.

"It's the ratepayers who are interested in the welfare of the town, they wouldn't come for fore council to embarrass us," averred Councillor Ed. Todd, "they'll be voting fair to council. All they've done all year is embarrass us. I don't blame the two men who came before council but I do blame the two or three people behind the lines of the scene, the men who come here only know about the questions on the paper they bring. They don't know about any of the sidelines brought up and I see by the paper that the ratepayers did people out to their last meeting. Well, that's a small representation from the town's ratepayers. I don't worry about them."

Mr. Larry told council that an answer to a query from ratepayers representatives had been received, the group that they were free to bring questions to council during the meeting and that the answers might be presented in writing.

Council eventually agreed that the ratepayers did have that privilege.

Council also agreed to put a sign up for sale a piece of land, adjacent to the Queen Elizabeth School ground.

some months, negotiations between council and the local school board have been going on regarding this land. The school board wanted the piece of land for additional playground space. What it didn't want was to pay for it, but council was asking price. Last week, the two boards arranged to buy an alternate piece of land, at what one board member said was a "fair price" than the town was asking for the land. Presumably, the board has now received it in the town's land, although it may make an offer to buy along with other corners.

"Survival" Meeting Set For Tonight

TRENTON — Tonight, starting at 8 p.m. — a meeting at which area plans for personal, family and community survival in the event of a nuclear attack on Canada, will be held in the auditorium at Trenton High School.

Col. Angus Duffy, Quinte area civil defence co-ordinator; Sgt. W. K. Brown of the RCAF and of the local civil defence instructor and Mr. W. G. Turpel, director of health for the Quinte area Emergency Measures Organization, will take part in a panel discussion on the nuclear aspect of any possible attack, as it applies to communities such as Trenton, which will be attended by experts to be outside the immediate target range. A fourth member of the panel has yet to be named.

The public has been urged to attend tonight's meeting. Time is 8 o'clock; place is Trenton High School and the subject to be discussed is survival under a nuclear attack on Canada.

Firm History Told Rotary

TRENTON — At last night's meeting of the Trenton Rotary Club, H. E. Bearne, manager of OMC plant, a division of Outboard Marine Corporation of Canada, told Trenton, gave the club members a outline of company operations and progress since it was formed in 1922. The parent plant at Peterborough is a manufactured wooden boats in a building known as "the great white ships," which became the original manufacturer, called Lockport, set off a chain-reaction of failure for any other manufacturer brave enough to occupy the building. Outboard Marine, however, flourished, and, started out with 30,000 square feet of plant floor, now has close to half a million square feet of factory manufacturing and shipping space, and 1,200 employees.

The Trenton division has expanded from 55,000 square feet of space to 114,000 square feet, and Mr. Bearne says he expects that more building will be done within the next three years.

IN MEMORIAM

STEWART — In loving memory of a dear daughter and sister, Dorothy, who left us suddenly, October 30th, 1961.

The last good night was said,
The last kiss was given,
The last sad tear was shed,
And we were left to mourn.
And we think loved you most of all.
Sadly missed by Mother, Sisters and Brothers.

STEWART — In loving memory of a dear daughter and sister, Dorothy, who passed away October 30th, 1961.

Time can pass, we smile, no tongue can tell
My sad and bitter loss.
But God alone knows how I've cried,
Dear Dorothy, I miss you so.
Sadly missed by Mother, Sisters and Brothers.

MILLER — In loving memory of a dear son, Donald, who died October 30th, 1961.

Sadly lost our soul's companion,
At 3.30 in the afternoon,
Our hearts lay deep in pain,
As I lay by him alone.
Always remembered by wife and children.

Regular Visits Of Veterinary Are Advocated

Dr. Jack Cote, Ontario Veterinary College, was the guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Quinte District Veterinary Association held recently in Laithmer's Town Room.

Dr. Cote confined his remarks to preventive veterinary medicine and programmed contract practice. He suggested that the animal owners should be convinced that regularly scheduled visits by a veterinarian as his premises consitutes a form of insurance. He said that the veterinarian can examine management practices and correct bad ones, can institute a program of sanitation that will help minimize the disease program, can advise on genetic programs, can establish the immunizing programs required and can determine the need for parasite control.

Dr. Cote stressed that a programmed veterinary practice is aimed at eliminating waste for the farmer. Examples are — decreasing the calving intervals, decreasing the number of services per conception, decreasing mastitis and lost milk production and keeping better cows in the herd longer.

He also emphasized that by eliminating waste the veterinarian can reduce the farmer's production costs and increase his profits. Few farmers are aware of the actual production costs in livestock farming. Programmed veterinary service can appreciably reduce these costs on most farms.

The speaker outlined to the group the system of records, the mastitis program and the fertility program as practised by the ambeflory clinic at the Ontario Veterinary College. He stated that this program, which commenced two years ago with two farmers, has now expanded to over twenty farms. He commented that there is an ever increasing trend towards this type of veterinary service to the livestock owner in Canada and the United States.

The election of officers for Quinte District Veterinary Association for 1963 resulted as follows — president — Dr. K. Esler, Picton; past pres. — Dr. K. Harrison, Roslin; sec.-treas. —Dr. J. R. Parlimeur, Belleville; director of public relations — Dr. H. W. Burns, Belleville and directors — Dr. P. Foster, Belleville, Dr. R. Julian, Brighton and Dr. M. Mills, Napanee.

LACK SOME WEAPONS

"The government has conceded, however, that the troops lack sufficient rapid - firing weapons to repel the Chinese attacks.

Two planeloads of such weapons have arrived from Britain as the beginning of a purchased order. It is from the United States that the India Army is expecting the large supplies it needs.

Prime Minister Nehru asked U.S. Ambassador John Kenneth Galbraith Monday for arms. Galbraith assured him they would be sent.

Informed sources expected the additional artillery weapons to begin arriving here by the end of this week. Larger scale deliveries of heavier weapons and the terms on which they are being supplied will be discussed when Canada also is presented to provide military supplies to India. France has been asked but its response has not yet been reported.

ASK MENON RESIGN

The inadequacy of the military equipment for the troops provoked new demands for the resignation of Defence Minister V. K. Krishna Menon. Opposition to him is becoming so strong within Nehru's Congress Party that some observers think the prime minister might give in to it soon.

So far Nehru has left Krishna Menon in the defence job but has removed most of his duties, pushing the minister toward the background.

The Hindustan Times says Congress party members made a "concerted demand" to Nehru to take over the defence portfolio himself before Parliament meets Nov. 8.

The Times says: "Some members are understood to have charged the defence minister with negligence and indifference."

Two other New Delhi newspapers say editorially Menon should resign.

The Tribune of Ambala says Indian soldiers had "fought to the last shot and even with their bare hands" when they found themselves lacked weapons, adding it was time for Nehru to drop Menon.

Plans Completed For Armistice Day Parade

At a special meeting, plans were completed for the Remembrance Day banquet and parade. A number of distinguished guests are being invited with Lt. Col. Angus D. Duffy as the guest speaker of the evening at the banquet. As the number of seats are limited, members are advised to get their tickets early and avoid being disappointed.

President Cec Brown is looking for a large turnout on Remembrance Day Parade and anticipates one of the largest parades in Belleville history. All unaffiliated veterans, who wish to parade will be heartily welcome to join with ANAF (Unit 201) to march to the Cenotaph for the service and laying of wreaths in honor of departed comrades.

Friday evening, Comrade Stan Melbourne presented the ANAF (Unit 201) Scholarship Grant to Robert Burr, a veteran's son, who had high standing in nine Grade XIII papers and who plans to continue his formal education. The presentation was made at the BCIVS graduation exercises.

Also, on Friday evening, a Halloween Dance was held in the club's auditorium at which a number of members and their guests thoroughly enjoyed themselves. The costumes were interesting and varied and numerous prizes were awarded to the participants. During the intermission the dancers were entertained by Harry Reynolds and an old favorite of the club, Frank High, who received an enthusiastic welcome. The Ladies' Aux. provided a beanfeed, which the crowd really appreciated. Dancing then continued until the evening ended and a happy group left for home after enjoying another very pleasant evening at the ANAF semi-monthly dance.

Hunters Can Assist in Survey Work

Ontario veterinarians have expressed extreme concern over the spread of a disease known as leptospirosis amongst domestic cattle in Southern Ontario, especially in the counties of Hastings, Northumberland, Lennox and Addington, Frontenac and Durham.

This disease, which may cause jaundice, mastitis, abortion and general ill health among cattle, is also capable of being brought into these areas by wildlife such as deer or moose.

A survey which requires the co-operation of hunters in the area is being conducted by the division of zoonoses and diseases of wildlife of the Ontario Veterinary College.

A sample of blood and, where possible, a fresh kidney from each kill by hunters is requested to conduct this survey successfully. Bottles for the blood and plastic bags for the kidney may be obtained from one's local veterinarian, the office of regional veterinary laboratory director or one of the Department of Lands and Forests conservation offices at Tweed, Kemptville, Kingston or Sibling. If a hunter is not able to obtain these any clean, dry bottle or plastic bag will do.

It is requested that kidney specimens be given to any of the above offices the same day the animal is shot so that a valid analysis may be made of it. Blood samples should be turned in within 48 to 72 hours.

The following information is requested: the area or township where animal is shot; date shot; whether male or moose and whether young or mature animal; whether in good or poor condition and whether or not there is evidence of disease.

By analyzing the results of specimens sent in by hunters the veterinary service hopes to establish whether or not there is a possibility that the areas of spread of the disease leptospirosis and the movements of deer and moose in the area.

No Property Damage to Be Tolerated Hallowe'en Night

The sky is the limit for hoping fun—but keep it innocent.

That is the Hallowe'en advice to local kiddies and young people from city police chief Walter Probert, who today warned that absolutely no property damage will be tolerated and a full force of police personnel will be on hand to make sure the youngsters don't overstep.

"Our officers will keep a close check and any offenders will be severely dealt with," the chief said.

At the same time Chief Probert asked motorists to take special care and be on the lookout for kiddies who, in the spirit of Hallowe'en might be a bit careless and recklessly expose themselves to danger on the streets.

"Keep away from and discourage in proper place so they don't obstruct vision," was the chief's advice to the kiddies.

Club 39 Holds Opening Dance

Close to 100 persons turned out for the inaugural "Club 39" dance held at the Recreation Centre Saturday evening. James Ketcheson acted as master of ceremonies. Mrs. Ellen Edwards on behalf of the Belleville club welcomed the members of the visiting Kingston Club, numbering about 40.

Mrs. Roberta Holmes, president of Kingston Club 39 gave a short address, outlining the function of their club. The Belleville club plastic bag will do monthly or semi-monthly meetings, but are presently looking for a hall.

100 Mile-an-Hour Police Chase Ends With One Dead, Four Injured

PICTON (Special) — A Picton district youth was killed and four other youths were seriously injured last night when their car failed to make a curve on the Black Creek Road and rolled over several times before coming to a hydro pole.

The accident occurred about two miles south of Picton as the car was being chased by a Picton police cruiser.

Killed was Gregory Williams, aged 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Williams, R.R. 1, Bloomfield, who was found pinned underneath the car which he had been driving.

Seriously injured in the accident were Archie Welden, fractured shoulder blade and ribs; Gerald Williams, brother of the dead youth, possible internal injuries, skull fracture; Raymond Lalonde, head injuries possible fractured right leg and lacerations, and Lyle Lalonde, injured left leg, forehead lacerations and fractured jaw.

The LaLonde youth was the only one not thrown from the rolling car.

All were from the Picton district.

The chase by Picton police resulted following investigation of a disturbance on Picton's Main Street.

Constable Cecil Barrington was in charge of investigate and followed the Williams' car down Rita street. It failed to stop at a stop street and went off down the Black Creek Road at a high rate of speed.

It was later reported the Williams car attained speeds up to 100 miles per hour out distancing the Picton police cruiser.

The cruiser was some distance behind when the accident occurred.

It was the second traffic death in the Williams family in little more than a year. During the summer of 1961 a brother, Forrest Williams, was killed in an accident on No. 2 highway east of Belleville.

The funeral for the Williams' youth will be held Thursday from the Whattam Funeral Home with interment in Orser Cemetery near the Williams' home.

other Communist-bloc speakers were equally circumspect until Monday when Albania took the rostrum.

Ambassador Halim Budo of Albania, closest of the Communist countries to Peking in ideology, stung Indian Ambassador B. K. Nehru heavily with the charge that New Delhi provoked China into military action.

"There has been no offensive action by Indian forces," Chakravarty told the 104-member assembly, contending that the retreat of Indian troops proves his country did not prepare and is not preparing offensive moves.

Chakravarty, former ambassador to Canada, delivered his policy speech last Friday, saying that which in happier years submitted resolutions urging Peking's entry—would again support the admission of Red China despite the "raw and naked aggression." He added: "The only effective way to check Chinese military adventurism is to make her accept her responsibilities as a member of the world organization and thereby be subjected to the views and discipline of this august body."

Ghosts and Goblins on the Prowl Armouries Spot for Annual Howl

Tomorrow night is the night for witches, ghosts and goblins to be on the prowl, but it is expected that close to 1,000 of them will turn up at the Belleville Armouries where the 6th annual Hallowe'en Howl is being held.

Sponsors of the Hallowe'en Howl are the Belleville Recreation Committee, the secondary schools and the Belleville Police Department.

Last year the event drew over two-thirds costumed people. Attendance has been gradually growing during the past five years and it is hoped the 1,000 mark will be reached this year.

Dancing starts at 8.00 and will continue until 11.00. During the evening, through the courtesy of the merchants, prizes will be offered for the best-dressed girl, best-dressed boy, best-dressed couple, most original, and funniest.

Admission is only 25c and the receipts will go to a cause that has made a significant effort to help overseas children UNICEF.

So, if you want, to please your "ghoul friend," tell her you'll take her to the Hallowe'en Howl, Wednesday night, at the Belleville Armouries.

Voters' Lists Posted in City

With municipal elections now only little more than a month away, the election wheels at city hall have already begun to roll and with last week seeing the posting of the voters' lists.

The list included those entitled to vote at municipal elections and also the list of persons entitled to vote under the municipal franchise extension act.

Nomination day this year is scheduled for November 21st with election day on December 3rd.

In addition to the vote for city council, school boards and public utility, city residents this year will be asked to say whether they wish fluoridation of the city water supply.

Zwick's Island Development Outlined at Rotary Club

Local Rotarians expressed great interest in the proposed development of Zwick's Island in a city park, offering a sand beach and bathing, boating and picnic facilities. The plan was outlined by Bill Hurst, chairman of the Belleville Parks Board.

Mr. Hurst explained that the 47-acres now in use at Zwick's Island had reached their ultimate development with a ball diamond, parking facilities, a roadway and some picnic tables. The complete future development is the installation of power and water and the sanitation facilities required by the Board of Health, he said.

Following this, a canteen, extended picnic facilities, a sand beach, both houses and so on can be erected and the value of the park greatly enhanced for the extended use of the citizens of the community, Mr. Hurst explained.

Such a project, which is considered by the Parks Board as the development of Zwick's Island into the recreational showplace of the city, requires the assistance of the community through its public-spirited citizens and service clubs, the speaker said.

He suggested that the club give its representation to some part of the initial phase of development as a club community project. Consideration is now being given to the financial scope of the parks board which also has to provide for other work as the maintenance and provision of playground equipment for the many parks throughout the city; the maintenance and development of these other parks, of which there are 13 in number; the care of the school grounds throughout the city the provision of open air rinks during winter time and the raising of flowers for the various floral decorations to be found about the city's parks and premises.

GREAT NEED FOR CITY

The development of Zwick's Island was described as being a great need for the city due to its increasing population and need for adequate recreational facilities by the speaker. He also emphasized the fact that there was no sand beach bathing and swimming facilities or sandy beach for Belleville's citizens despite the great length of waterfront which was available in the city.

Mr. Hurst also mentioned the second phase of the development project which would extend to that new area which had resulted from the sanitary land fill project. This phase calls for the provision of such facilities as a bandshell, a football field with spectator facilities and a community centre building.

Following his address Mr. Hurst and members of the Parks Board held an informal discussion and question and answer session around the two displays of plans and architects' drawing of the proposed projects for the Zwick's Island Park.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Rowena Dobson and thanked by club member Bob Tyffe.

The guest student for the meeting was Peter Carver, of BCIVS. Club members honored the natal day of Commodore Fred Yealland. The meeting was conducted by president Dr. Harry Burns.

Quintebelles In Attendance At Toronto

The first "International" International Convention of Sweet Adelines Incorporated took place in Toronto at the Royal York Hotel from October 17th to 20th. This year's International convention to be held by Sweet Adelines and the very first one to be held in Canada. Those attending from The Quintebelles Chapter of Belleville were: Misses Katharine Bird, Doris Lloyd, Muriel Jobson and Mesdames Edith Anderson Norn Weber, Elspeth Ann Allen Adams, Rita Stubbert, Phyllis Chambers and Andrene Moorman.

One of the highlights of the convention was the Quartet competitions held in Massey Hall with forty quartets competing. There were girls from almost every state in the United States as well as Canadians from Montreal to Vancouver. The winning quartet, crowned "The Queens of Harmony", were the Sea-Aires from Seattle, Washington. The Toronto Chapter is to be congratulated for hostessing this grand event.

Where Now?

The Russian Premier's decision to dismantle the missile bases and take back to Russia those weapons with the American president finds offensive is a welcome and, we hope, final step as far as the Cuban situation is concerned.

Much has been said about Mr. Khrushchev losing face and Mr. Kennedy gaining strength as far as future negotiations concerning other questions concerning the world situation. Although we have expressed our belief that no free nation can allow itself to be pushed about on a power play by those who seek a totalitarian state we still hold out hope that the other side can claim the good.

Mr. Khrushchev's decision to withdraw his military advantage in Cuba can be interpreted in two ways. Either he does not consider the USSR to be ready for possible total war at the present moment and was, therefore, required to indulge in that tactic known as a strategic withdrawal, or he was interested in preserving the peace.

It is difficult to say at the present which way the Russian premier's thinking was slanted. It could be that it is still subject to a pre-occupation with the Pavlov findings about inducing psychological confusion in people.

In this case it can only be that the current withdrawal is to raise the hopes of the eternal optimists that this is a magnificent step towards peace for all. In this event, we can expect another power play by the Russians in the not too distant future, perhaps when Khrushchev pays a visit to the United Nations or meets with President Kennedy at a summit conference.

The current easing of international tension could be nothing more than the action of a shrewd fighter who suggests that both parties remove their jackets before fighting and then belts his adversary in the stomach when the latter's arms are entangled with his jacket at half-mast.

On the other hand there is the remote possibility that Khrushchev is quite serious about easing off international tensions all around. If this is the case, having been caught with his finger in the pie and way off base on the Cuban situation, the Russian leader could right the situation by proposing a proportionate decrease in military advantage or satellite occupancy elsewhere in the world. This proposal would have to involve some portion of the status quo which has existed for some time in order to be fair to both sides.

If there is to be some semblance of an attempt to bring about peace and harmony in the world the initiative will have to come from the Russians. This is because they are at a disadvantage since for too many years past they have used deceit and secrecy as their guideposts and duplicity and doubletalk as their tools.

This is a handicap which is hard, but not impossible, to overcome. Unfortunately, for Mr. Khrushchev, overcome it must as the world places him at a disadvantage. Whatever might be the state of internal politics in the USSR he will possibly find it hard to convince the militarists that world conquest and revolution is not to be.

The Russian premier's position is not an easy one from which to move. An advance internationally in order to appease domestic factions will not be made with solid opposition as witnessed by the Cuban quarantine. Any advance to gain the support of international factions is bound to engender domestic difficulties.

If there is one question which worries both the Russian premier and the rest of the world at the present moment it undoubtedly must be the query "Where now?"

Second Front

Whilst North Americans, and a goodly part of the world, are paying close attention to the Cuban situation we should not forget that a second front, possibly equally dangerous to world peace is being developed in Asia.

The Chinese invasion of India, an unprovoked assault by a jingoistic military power upon what can only be termed as the leading pacifist of the modern world, is a second front in the communist assault.

To date the Chinese have made repeated successful advances and the Indians have been steadily falling back deeper into their own territory. It is interesting to note that even Indian's presumed staunch ally, Russia, has adopted a hands off policy except to suggest that Mr. Nehru and his government come to terms with the Chinese.

It would appear communist proclamations of peace and goodwill notwithstanding, that the real move has started towards the aim of communistic world domination.

Quick Wit, Timing Make Fisher Speech a Masterpiece

By RICHARD JACKSON

(From The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — One of the brighter minds in this particular Parliament of bright minds, Douglas Fisher, the New Democrat from Port Arthur, has been turning out to be something of a showman.

He has been collecting bouquets for what generally was admitted to be the best — in terms of audience enjoyment — speech so far of the current Session.

And while the Commons hears a lot of bad speeches, it hears some pretty good ones, too, so the ease who sit and listen are perhaps the best position of anyone in the country to pass judgment.

This judgment would seem to have been that the Lakehead's debonair Fisher turned politician topped 'em all in sheer intertainment.

What made Fisher's contribution to the Commons such a hit was his almost professional sense of timing.

He was speaking from a desk full of notes, and recalled what, an embarrassing and even dangerous pause there would be.

"I remember the first time I spoke in this House, I had my resignation ready in my desk. It was from notes piled all over my desk.

JIMMY'S DARLING

"Now, there were some quite sharp people in that Parliament, including Finance Minister Jimmy Gardiner.

"As I say, the words at end of my speech I had my notes all mixed up. So I paused, and was searching for my notes, when suddenly came Jimmy's darling voice from the back row, crying for, boy! The Regina Manifesto!"

Here, Mr. Fisher paused to confess that the Hon. James Garfield Gardiner had somewhat shaken him with that, for since it was now more than five years ago, he had almost recovered from the embarrassment.

Continuing, Fisher turned over another page of his notes, and there he was, back where he had been, but with his speech mixed up again, and a page missing.

So, hurriedly he shuffled through them, searching as he had done in his earlier speech five years ago, for the strayed page.

"What," asked James Byrne, the Kootenay East Liberal, "are you looking for, Douglas?"

"I'm not looking for the Regina," replied Mr. Fisher, shandoning the effort, to dig out the missing page.

It was all so neat, it could almost have been rehearsed.

But there was better still to come.

With nice timing, a nifty change of pace, Mr. Fisher recovered professionally with a political anecdote that was made to measure for the situation.

"I am reminded," he beamed, "of an incident that occurred during last Spring's election campaign.

START WITH A LAUGH

"There was a big rally held in a city not far from here which the Leader of the Liberal Party (Mike Pearson) was to address.

"A friend of mine was there who said they had a tremendous crowd, and before Mr. Pearson's performance, the constituency candidate was speaking.

"He, too, was reading from notes and had reached the point where he said, 'And Chairman, there is one thing I have found as I go about knocking on doors and meeting people in this riding — there is one thing you need above all else' — (and here he lost his page) — 'there is one thing you need above all' — frantically shuffling through his notes, he finally found the missing page) — and blurted out 'Patience.'"

The crowd, of course, roared.

The mood was set.

Mr. Pearson came on to a warm reception.

"It was," reported Mr. Fisher, "the best introduction that the Leader of the Opposition enjoyed during the whole campaign."

And in just the same way — the quick-witted facility to exploit accident and convert error into advantage — Mr. Fisher had treated the Commons to the most nimble-thinking speech of the Session.

Peacetime Bomb Shelters

By I. NORMAN SMITH In the Ottawa Journal

They say in Montreal that the city has a new heart — a steel and glass and stone affair called Place Ville Marie.

My own guess is rather that the city is losing its heart.

There was a time, many about the old Montreal, an atmosphere both metropolitan and habitant. A fellow prospected the nuts and lumberman's shirt could have had there, and even the cops on St. James Street without looking too amiss.

Now the business barons have gashed into the Dorchester district and the old heart of Toronto out of it, boasting even that it is newer than New York and Chicago.

This Place Ville Marie development is a big thing, a general rush of modernity which has transformed the heart of Montreal. Actually a score of company has joined in the march of steel about the old Windsor Dorchester, and the end is not yet.

Maybe I am a bit old fashioned, or just old. But it gives me the chills. The architect's assert this bunching together of the city carcasses, restaurants, banks and offices in the core, and removing the sluggish, nerve-racking, ugly confusion of the old down-town way of life. They used these words. They also say Place Ville Marie has been designed the ancient dialogue between the City and Mount Royal.

It is a dialogue and a way of life that is strange to the ears and eyes of old Montreal. Les Canadiens ne sont pas la.

We can see the scramble down the street to the grocer for a bit of cheese, and to the wine merchant for a bottle of Beaujolais — not if the city is as large as Montreal. It seems to me, though, the tumbling of old stuff together in a vast tin container, with escalators and food automats, and hermetically sealed air-conditioned rooms whose windows cannot be opened — it seems to me this is but forcing on the peacetime the bomb-shelter life we anticipate in wartime.

So a man can go by train or car to his office "complex" and remain untouched by weather or a human greeting other than that hurled from a passing escalator. Just to show how far we've gone in this madness let me observe that the Manager of the Royal Montreal main branch of the Royal Bank of Canada has an office entirely tucked away in the heart of this mausoleum, nothing but panelled walls and limpid air and artificial light. There is not a window in his office! He has rather be a pen-wiper in the branch bank at Tompkins Corners than crouch all day long in the crypt of the boss of the bank that had the highest office building in the British Commonwealth.

But then, nobody has asked me to boss that bank, so maybe we're all happy.

• • •

But watch it, warn, watch it. For this package-deal system is spreading. The men who made gardens are now also making office buildings and hotels. In the Montreal Hotel Last week I slept under only a sheet and sweated all night, though it was 45 or 50 outside.

No sir, we have no rooms with windows that open. No sir, we can't further adjust the air-conditioning in your room."

Hell, they've already levelled over to the office of one of the Vice-Presidents of CNR to keep an appointment. There he was high in the air over Montreal, in the new CNR headquarters building, a grand view from the window, but he could not open it to let in a breath of the fresh Autumn air, he couldn't open it even to jump out of.

Samuel Butler, thou shouldst be living at this hour. "O God: O Montreal!"

CLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

October 30th, 1943

Indicative of the splendid work being done in the present war by the members of the Order of the Eastern Star in this city and district, are two Mobile Canteens bought and equipped by funds raised by the lodge organizations here and presented to Britain through Canadian representatives in the United Kingdom. The first canteen, which was built with funds raised by the district, was presented to the Gordon Smith Institute for Seamen, Liverpool, recently and the second canteen, provided by the efforts of Bell-ville and Minerva Chapter, O. E. S. of Belleville is now in England and will be presented shortly.

A meeting of the retiring circles was evident here on Saturday when a heavily laden motor truck and trailer was brought to the offices of this newspaper. The berries were the property of Rockdale and were of good size and fair quality.

Mischievous and destructive teen-aged lads were apprehended in the city over the week-end following reports that window panes were being broken at a vacant house on East Dundas Street. The boys were inside the house armed with an air rifle. Several windows were broken and other damage was also reported. The names and addresses of the destructive lads were obtained and charges in juvenile court are pending.

30 YEARS AGO

October 30th, 1923

Mrs. Robert Hope, who is leaving shortly to reside in Lindsay, was presented with a pair of lovely silver bud vases by the Women of the Manse to which organization she has been an enthusiastic member.

At Queen Alexandra School yesterday the presentation of the St. Julien Chapter I.O.D.E. prize to the student attaining second highest standing in the entrance examinations in the high school was made to the winner, Miss Vera Mason who will leave shortly to join her parents to resire in St. Catharines.

Mr. Grant W. Proctor, for some time with the Bell Telephone Company in Kingston, has been appointed manager of the Bell Telephone Company in this city and district. He succeeds Mr. Jas. A. Coker who retires shortly, after forty four years service with the company, thirteen years of which he spent in this City.

Messrs. Wm. Arthur Waudby and Harry Smith, for some time residents of this city, sailed recently from Montreal on the steamship Duchess of Bedford for their homes in England.

40 YEARS AGO

October 30th, 1922

At a meeting of the city council the question of establishing a by-law to the electors with regards to the appointing of a city manager was discussed at some length and the motion when presented was defeated. The motion was presented by Ald. Ostrom and seconded by Ald. Ostrom. Ald. Greenley was the only member to vote in favor of the motion, in addition to the mover and seconder. Ald. Donohoe, French, Foster and Thompson voted against the motion.

At a meeting of the Belleville Medical Association the following officers were elected: President — Dr. Connor; vice-president — Dr. Faulkner; secretary — Dr. Hill.

Mr. John Care of this city has been appointed Harbor Master to succeed Mr. Captain Dulmage who is retiring after discharging the duties of the office satisfactorily for the past eleven years.

50 YEARS AGO

October 30th, 1913

A meeting of the newly formed Belleville Lacrosse Association was held in the police court room and was well attended. It was decided to hold a poultry show here for three days in January. Mr. W. Thompson is secretary and Mr. W. Sullivan is treasurer of the association.

The Y.M.C.A. basketball club has been organized for the season. Mr. George Aylesworth is chairman, and Mr. William Pickle is secretary-treasurer of the club.

Mr. Henry Moorman of the second concession of Thurlow township has purchased the fine residence of Mr. E. Bonisteel on Olive Street and will take up residence in the city shortly.

A choral club under the direction of Mr. F. S. Rockwell has been organized in connection with the Tabernacle Church.

Rather Teach Says Leader

Ottawa Journal

President Eamon de Valera said on his 80th birthday that if he had his life to live over he would be a teacher.

This is a change from the usual observation that a man would not wish for anything better than the life he had, with or without smoking.

Eamon de Valera has known plots and counter-plots, gunfire in the night and a prison cell, the sacrifices and disappointments of a leader of a country. Looking back, he feels it would have been splendid "to get to know things yourself and then teach them to other people."

Adventure is not only in conquests, accomplishment is more than success in public life. The President could have quoted Cicero who added what he might still could be offered a nation that is to teach and instruct its youth.

Pep Pills Can be Very Dangerous if Abused

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Some young man at the office takes a little of the contents of these tablets, swallows it, drinks a cup of coffee, and then work without getting tired.

What is the harm in this? I've afraid of it but would like to get to back me up with some facts. What makes them have so much energy? — M.D.S.

The basic drug involved is some form of the amphetamines or "pep pills," and they can be dangerous.

They come in various forms of tablets, sniffers and whatnot, and there are numerous chemical variations — all powerful stimulants.

Like their opposite, the barbiturates (sedatives), these drugs can be extremely useful, but they do an immense amount of harm when abused.

It is easy for a person to start taking too much of them. He tries it, gets a sudden "lift," feels wide awake and full of energy.

Yet the drugs don't add a particle of real energy to the system. They only make you use it up faster. It's a good deal like using a bellows to make a fire burn faster — you can make a small fire give more heat, but it is wiser to build a larger but slower-burning one.

The person who keeps going by use of amphetamines still has to get adequate rest eventually, or collapses. There have been cases reported of people who got into a vicious cycle of taking amphetamines to pep them up, then taking a few then taking sedatives so they could sleep at night — and amphetamines again the next morning to shake off the lethargy. Unless the individual manages to break loose from this merry-go-round, disaster of one sort or another is inevitable. There is never serious poisoning from overdose, physical exhaustion, mental nervous breakdown.

Of course people always are "sure that it won't happen to them; they never let the drug become such a habit. But some of them do, just like people who insist that they can't drink or let it alone.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes fever blisters on the lip and what will keep them from coming back? — W.G.B.

They are caused by a virus, herpes simplex, and medical studies believe that the virus, once present, never leaves, but breaks out into a blister or "cold sore" whenever your resistance sags, such as when you get a cold or some other form of infection.

I do not know of a sure-fire remedy. Sometimes, oddly, a new smallpox vaccination stops the trouble. Sometimes ointments like camphor ice or spirits of camphor, help heal them.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: I've been confronted with some food fallacies. I'll be interested over:

1 — Breakfast cereals have little or no food value.

2 — Skim milk is better for you than whole or homogenized milk.

3 — Potatoes with green spots should not be eaten. — V.D.

All these fallacies. Breakfast cereals — of which we need some daily. Skim is better only for people who have to cut down calories but still need the calcium that it contains. And I've eaten plenty of potatoes with green spots.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In the bay window of a friend's house I was helping him watch November coming nigh, and our attention was drawn to the house directly across the street where a man came out the front door carrying two large two-dozen pint cartons, obviously empty. Behind him came a woman in a fancy hat, smoking a cigarette. She ran ahead, and opened the door of a sporty looking car to allow the beer cartons to be put in the back seat.

"Now you see the house next door," my friend said, "is right. It is occupied by a very strict family, great church-goers None of them, adult or young, smokes. They walk upright. It is a fine thing to see them heading off for church on Sunday, their prayer book under their arms."

"I said, "I suppose there is enmity between those two families born."

On the contrary," said my friend. "They are performing the kindest service neighbors can offer one another. They are making each other feel superior. The upright family feels scorn at its superior in the horse-racing, night-clubbing pair next door, whose feeling of superiority to the upright ones is tinged with pity. They are ideal neighbors."

Right Time Hard to Find Today

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The strange, nightmarish quality of living in the world today comes from the odd juxtaposition of two kinds of time. For we are living both in "real" time and in "psychological" time.

In terms of "real" time, we are living on a globe no bigger than a man can walk, just as easy to crack. Or, to change the metaphor, modern science has packed all life in a tiny rowboat in the middle of a large sea, and a hole drilled under anybody's seat will drown us all.

But in terms of "psychological" time, most of us are still living in centuries past, stirred by ancient grudges, controlled by obsolete prejudices, driven by buried fears.

What brought this shocking contrast most vividly to mind was a recent item in the newspapers about riots between the Flemings and the Walloons in Belgium. When I read the item I felt rather like Mark Twain's Yankee pulled back abruptly into King Arthur's Court.

This bitter dispute between the Belgians of Flemish ancestry and those of French descent becomes as unreal and irrelevant as the fight between the Capulets and the Ghibellines, or the Yorkists and the Lancastrians.

In "real" time, it is not only far too late to be a Fleming or a Walloon except on commemorative occasions, but it is too late to be a Belgian: it is almost too late to be merely a European — and Europe is just getting around to that idea in psychological time.

In an article not long ago, a scientist remarked that he had been accidentally locked up all night in a museum room with exhibits of dead crabs and lobsters. The experience so unnerved him that when the guard opened the door in the morning, the scientist greeted him, saying, "Thank God you don't know how good it is to be back in the world of time."

It is too late to be anything but vertebrates, but members of a species that walks upright — the only species that seems bent upon its own destruction. We have the tools to do what no other living creatures have ever been able to do before: arrange our own extinction.

This is the prime face of "real" time today, in the light of which, the rioting Flemings and Walloons seem as anachronistic as the battle of the Frogs and Mice. Mankind is haunted by the terrible fixed in an attitude of childish antagonism — living compulsively in psychological time, when the only real time is fast running out on all of us.

STOCK QUOTATIONS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market eased moderately amid light morning trading today. Industrials were hit by slight profit-taking.

Losses in a ¼ to ½ range went to Interprovincial Pipe Line, Abitibi, Dominion Foundries and Steel and Algoma Steel. Aluminium, Steel Company of Canada and Atlas Steel declined ¼.

Gainers included Canadian Oil, ahead ¾, Imperial Oil and Shawinigan, both up ¼, and Bell Telephone and Distillers Seagrams, each ahead ⅛. Toronto-Dominion Bank advanced ¼.

On the exchange index, industrials fell 3.08 to 531.90 and base metals .24 at 172.82. Golds rose .24 to 88.53 and western oils .36 at 111.62. The 11 a.m. volume was 642,000 shares compared with 1,532,000 at the same time Monday.

Among base metals, International Nickel declined ⅛ and Consolidated Mining and Smelting ⅛. Speculatives saw Paramaque Mines drop four cents to 21½ cents on a turnover topping 71,000 shares.

In oils, Pacific Petroleum gained ¼. Devon-Palmer advanced two cents to a 1962 high of 85 cents on heavy turnover. The market climbed sharply Monday.

Industrials jumped almost seven points on index in the first hour of trading, then maintained their position throughout the day. Base metals and western oils both climbed about two points.

In the main list, gains of a point or more went to Alberta Gas Treating, Distillers and Distillers Seagrams. Interprovincial Pipe Line climbed 2¼ to 73½ while International Nickel bolstered both industrials and base metals with a gain of ¾.

Banks were ahead in a solid line. Nova Scotia advanced 1½, Toronto-Dominion ⅛ and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce one point. Montreal and Royal, both trading exdividend, gained ¾ and 1¼ respectively.

On the exchange index, industrials rose 6.73 to 532.98, base metals 1.88 at 172.06 and western oils 1.97 at 111.28. Golds dipped .14 to 88.79. Closing volume was 3,402,000 shares compared with 2,082,000 Friday.

Among base metals, Falconbridge Nickel, International Nickel, Mining and Smelting ¼ and Hudson Bay Mining ½.

Sheriff Robson Chief Speaker

Last week the Sidney Junior Farmers held a very successful meeting in the form of "Farmer's Night" at which Sheriff Roscoe Robson was the guest speaker. Sheriff Robson spoke briefly on administration of law and justice in Hastings County and included such interesting and as legal documents and procedure within the scope of his address.

A smorgasbord was held, led by Beverley Clapp, while Rosemary Bush read a paper. The recreational activities for the evening were led by Joan Vandervoort and Mary Wilson.

Blueprint for Survival To Counteract Fallout

(Article 4)

Your limited supply of water must be rationed and used only for essential purposes. If you have enough warning time, fill your bathtub, buckets, and pans with water. Drinking water will not be exposed to fallout. And remember, there is an emergency supply in your water tank. Don't forget this if in peacetime your water supply has been temporarily disrupted.)

The problem of garbage and human waste disposal can be solved even if fallout keeps you in the shelter. Put all your garbage in tightly covered garbage pails. After unity your emergency toilet, human waste should be tied in heavy duty plastic bags and put in the garbage pail. Store a two week supply of plastic bags.

After the second day in shelter there is no risk in leaving it for a few seconds for essential tasks in the basement. Therefore, when your garbage container is filled, move it out of the shelter and into the basement.

Keep a soft broom in the shelter to keep it tidy.

Remember personal cleanliness in crowded shelter conditions is important to you and your family.

If your area is free of fallout but is without water and sewage service, bury human waste and garbage in the ground. Dig the pit deep enough so that the waster will be covered by at least two feet of earth.

TO REMOVE FALLOUT DUST

In step 2, fallout was described as "snow". To remove the danger, remove the "snow". If you suspect that your clothes have fallout on them, remove your outer clothing before you come inside the house or shelter.

Don't shake these clothes inside the house or shelter. You would only scatter fallout dust and create unnecessary danger to others. If you have water, wash thoroughly, particularly any exposed skin and hair. But do not scrub your skin so that might rub radioactive particles into your skin.

Exposure to fallout does not make you radioactive. Even if you are stricken with radiation sickness, this sickness is not catching. But fallout on your clothing or body would expose you and those close to you to radiation. If you suspect you have been exposed to fallout, you will not be a danger to others if you carefully get rid of your outer clothes and wash.

FOOD AND WATER.

Since most of your food will be in tightly covered containers (cans, bottles, plastic or boxes), it will all be safe to eat if you dust or wash the containers. Food, whether in containers or not, provided it was in undamaged and closed cupboards, operating refrigerators and deep freezes, would also be safe to eat.

To be sure about fruits, Le., apples, oranges, grapefruit, bananas, wash first and peel carefully. The same applies to vegetables.

Water will be safe if it is in containers tightly covered. It has come from covered wells, or undamaged water systems.

If you are unsure of a particular food, or source of water, do not use it. But do not starve or die of thirst just because you think it is contaminated.

LEARN MUNICIPAL PLAN.

It is important that your local municipality have a plan for a war emergency. And it is just as important that you know that plan. Your municipality is likely to be a target area. What does your local municipal authority want you to do in an emergency operations? How will your welfare, police, fire and health services operate?

If you do not live in a likely target area, your chances of survival are best. If you do not try to evacuate on your own. Failing so you may eventually arrive in another area more seriously affected by fallout. Remember protection against fallout is simple. If you prepare your own personal survival plan, in your own home, your chances for survival are excellent.

Municipalities must also develop plans that will assist individuals.

Communities which are not likely target areas must develop plans for the reception of evacuees and casualties. They must also develop plans that will establish fallout will be monitored so that information about the fallout can be given to the population. Plans must also be developed to evacuate a community should the danger of radioactive fall-out be too much to permit persons to resume normal activities.

There are many other things municipalities must do to develop comprehensive municipal emergency plans. The provincial and federal authorities provide advice and assistance as to how these plans should be developed.

HAVE A FAMILY PLAN

If you know all the information in the first nine steps, and you know your municipal plan you will be prepared to somehow make your personal survival plan. The success of your plan will depend on how many of the recommendations, suggested in this brief, you carry out.

If you leave things to the last minute you will not have time to get ready. Your chances of survival increase as you carry out each recommendation. The remainder of this brief will deal out some important questions and advice to persons living in areas not likely to be attacked but which may come under radioactive fallout. The answers you give will guide you in completing your plan.

YOUR KNOW HOW

When you learn of the Alert Warning go to the nearest radio and listen for instructions. Because it will take the fallout some time to reach your community, a half hour or more, you will have time to carry out last minute preparations. Your chances of survival are best if you stay put in your community. Even if you hear over the radio that your community is in the path of fallout don't assume that other areas are going to be free of the danger. Later attacks, changes in wind directions, may bring fallout down on areas you thought might be safe.

If you have not provided your family with a fallout shelter improvisations can be carried out. Keep listening to the radio.

You will be told by the authorities when the fallout is expected to arrive. With the time you will have a type of survey out the following.

a. Check your fallout shelter and its equipment.

b. If you do not have a fallout shelter read 2, 3, 4 and 5 under the heading of the Ontario Intelligencer, "Improvised Protection Against Fallout".

c. Check your supplies of food, water, and first aid equipment.

d. Make sure the basement windows are blocked.

e. Check your battery operated radio and spare batteries.

f. Gather your family together if possible.

g. Follow any instructions issued by the authorities.

Following nuclear attacks specially trained and equipped survival teams for radiation control will measure the radioactivity. When it has been measured the authorities will advise those who are in safe areas that they can come out of their fallout shelters. Because of the danger in other areas instructions may be issued to some that they will have to remain in shelter for periods up to 14 days. Some areas might have such dangerous levels of radioactivity that even after people had been in shelter for seven days, it may be unsafe for them to remain in these areas.

Instructions may then be given that persons in these areas should evacuate to areas known to be safe but that is hard. The importance of having a battery operated radio cannot be overstressed because of you.

If you are told that your area will be evacuated because of the radioactive fallout then you will be advised of the time you should leave, what routes you will travel, what items of your emergency supplies you take with you. Follow whatever instructions are given impolicity. Your life will depend on your action.

CONCLUSION

You should now be ready to complete your family survival plan. It will be based on:

a. Having a shelter;

b. Knowing the warning signals;

c. Knowing what you and your family are to do when an alert warning is given;

d. Having a battery operated radio, water and food;

e. Assigning each member of your family a job in putting the plan into action.

When you and your family are satisfied that the plan is complete, write it down on paper. Every month review it with all members of the family so they all learn what they may have to do. Put it to a test by having each member of the family carry out his job.

And finally keep reviewing this article.

Hope and pray that you will never have to put your family plan into actual action. But if you do, remember that your chances of survival are much better than if you had done nothing.

This is the conclusion of a series of four articles of which the information was taken from the pamphlet, "Seven Steps To Survival," issued by the Emergency Measures Organization and authorized by the Federal Government.

Note: This article, and previous articles, should be clipped and saved for future reference.

Workshop Held In Toronto

Delegates representing 23 district associations attended a provincial workshop on Professional Development on October 27th, in Toronto. Sponsored by the Ontario English Catholic Teachers' Association, Harry Sisk, Director, S.P. of St. Peter's School, Trenton, attended the one-day workshop, as a representative of O.E.C.T.A. District No. 4, Belleville.

Encouraging its members to improve their academic and professional qualifications has been a major project of the Ontario English Catholic Teachers' Association for some years. Through the provincial professional development committee the Association has carried on a province-wide program of assistance to local groups who have initiated inservice courses in all kinds.

Reverend E. L. Bader, C.S.P., Catholic Information Centre, Toronto, gave the opening address — Forming Attitudes Towards Professionalism. In a panel, with Reverend Ernest St. John of Valencia, C.N.D., community supervisor, Ottawa, as moderator discussed various approaches to professional development. Panelists were: Reverend Mother St. Philomena, D.S.H., Reverend Mother M. Theodore, O.S.U. and Reverend Sister Stanislaus, C.S.J.

In the afternoon the delegates heard an inspiring address on Professional Literature for Teachers by Mr. R. J. Stewart, Assistant Superintendent of Professional Development, Ontario Department of Education.

Reverend Sister M. Aloysia, supervising principal, Windsor, is chairman of the Provincial Committee and presided at the Workshop.

Contributions From Helen

by Mary Moore

In July of this year I met, at a beautiful veneered picnic table made by George, on the front lawn of their home and ate my lunch. This was no ordinary lunch for Helen had prepared it and many precious big and little members of my family were present.

Helen had made a casserole which she had been saving to make when I would be there. This was a big success with me for it was a brand new day and this casserole stayed hot even for second servings.

There is a section of this audience who will clip this at once for their casserole files if they know a good thing when they see it, for Helen is an imaginative and wonderful cook.

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

Meat Balls on Spaghetti with Italian Tomato Sauce; Savoy Cabbage and Red Italian Onion Salad with Italian French Dressing; Ripe Dessert Pears; Crackers and Gorgonzola Cheese; Tea.

TURKEY CRUNCH CASSEROLE (Serves 6 to 8):

2 cups diced cooked turkey or chicken, 1 can cream of mushroom soup (undiluted), 1 cup rich milk, 2 cups coarsely crushed potato chips, 2 tablespoons shredded cheese paprika.

Combine turkey or chicken, soup, and milk. Heat. Place 2 cups crushed potato chips in a 2-quart casserole. Pour the creamed mixture evenly on top. Cover with remaining potato chips. Top with cheese and sprinkle with paprika. Bake at 350 deg. F.for. about 20 to 30 minutes.

If you are patient and roll them thin the ginger snaps which result from the following recipe are highly professional looking wafery, crisp and spicy. Now do your best with this and do not overflour your board when you roll them out.

CINNAMON SNAPS (courtesy Helen F.):

1 cup granulated sugar, ½ cup shortening (Helen uses best quality), ½ cup crude blackstrap molasses, 2 tablespoons soda, 1 tablespoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon ginger, ½ teaspoon salt, 5½ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 8 tablespoons warm water.

Cream sugar with shortening, add molasses; then add soda dissolved in warm water. Sift dry ingredients and add to first mixture, mixing well. Roll out very thin on slightly floured board. Cut in desired shapes with lightly floured cutter and bake 8 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr. Remove at once to cooling racks.

My thanks to Helen for the dependable and generous help she gives to this column.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Celebrates 79th Year

IVANHOE.— St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, West Hemmington, celebrated the 79th anniversary last Sunday, with fine weather, large congregations and special music, under the direction of choir leader Mrs. John McInroy, which included:

Morning worship— anthem, "The Wisdom of Prayer," with the solo part taken by Mrs. A. Hassall, and the duet part by Mrs. Hassall and Mrs. William Donnan.

Evening— Beulah United Church Junior choir, directed by Mrs. Keith Bray, favored with the anthems, "Come Unto Me" and "Holy is the Lord."

Mr. John Haggerty of Stirling, president of the Council of his Lowery organ for both services.

Baskets of bronze and yellow mums were placed in the church by Mrs. J. C. Sills and family in loving memory of John Chester Sills.

Mr. Dodds chose for his morning message, "That Rock Was Christ," The Church's Matt. 16: 18, "And I say unto thee, that thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it."

Paul writes: "It was by God's grace that like a rock I laid a foundation which will endure. It is upon Jesus Christ that all who are being, ing will base their work. There is no question about the foundation, but let builders be sure of their material and build only that will endure.

The church of Jesus Christ is built on a solid foundation by your ancestors who honored the Lord and the Sabbath day. These true and faithful men and women who gave you your Christian heritage are long since called to rest. You are entrusted to carry on their work." What kind of material are you going to use, solid rock or sinking sand?"

EVENING:

Text: Deut. 19; 14 — "Thou shalt not remove thy neighbor's landmark, which they of old time have set in thine inheritance, which thou shalt inherit in the land that the Lord thy God giveth thee to possess it."

"No encroachments on private property are allowed; the boundaries of which are historically far back.

"Land throughout Deuteronomy is God given. That is what we forget to realize as we in this present modern day.

"His man the right to remove what God has created?

"Man has no right or privilege to remove the ancient landmark of the church of Jesus Christ. The head of the church is Christ. The church is on the earth and of the earth, yet she on earth hath union with God the three in one."

"Who will, become the ancient landmark of the church of Jesus Christ? Will it be God's grace that like a rock I laid a foundation which will endure. It is upon Jesus Christ that all who are being, ing will base their work. There is no question about the foundation, but let builders be sure of their material and build only that will endure.

GIRL GUIDE, BROWNIE NEWS

Belleville South East District

The bowmies of Pack 1, Point Anne recently held an enrolment ceremony, at which their mothers and the District commissioner were guests.

District Commissioner, Mrs. T. Colden, assisted also brownies after which the brownies entertained with songs and games.

Captain Mrs. M. Airey and some of the brownies served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

LOCAL ASSOCIATION MEETING

The Local Association of Guide and Brownie mothers met on October 17 at the home of District Commissioner, Mrs. T. Colden. Mrs. A. Lamb, the recording secretary read the minutes of the last meeting, with a brief resume of all the winter and spring's work.

Mrs. R. Bailey, the treasurer, gave the financial report. She stated that assistance had been given to seven new Guiders to help them purchase uniforms, and also assistance was given to the newly formed Company 19.

A tent was purchased in June by the local association and sent over to the camp at Waupoos.

The results of the telephone bridge held in May were read, and the proceeds were given to Mrs. Cheryl Drysdale, to help with the cost of her trip to Great Britain, with other guides from the province.

The commissioner read a list of all meetings in each company and pack in the district, and gave a brief talk on guides and brownies stressing the importance of wearing correct uniforms to the meetings, and also the help that mothers could give to their brownies and guides and their guiders.

Mrs. B. Walton agreed to be the social representative of this association to the Division.

Mrs. W. Pearson, new district secretary, was introduced.

It was decided that a uniform sale would be held at the Kit wanis Centre next Saturday morning, at which time, any one wishing to sell a uniform, might turn it in and uniforms would then be resold, the local association charging a small fee for handling them. Mrs. M. Stier volunteered to convene it assisted by Mrs. J. Field.

Coffee was served by the commissioner at the close of the meeting.

Question: I wonder if you could settle an argument for me. I got into a discussion with friends yesterday about the correct wine to serve with fish and chicken. The others maintain that only a dry, white wine may be served with both, a prefer rose, and find it goes well with most fish and chicken dishes. Is it permissible to serve another wine with these foods or is white wine considered the only "proper" accompaniment?—H.S., New York City.

Answer: A dry, white wine usually is served with fish and chicken because the flavors are delicate and uniquely agreeable. However, what's in a particular dish has to be taken into consideration, and often another type of wine is called for. For instance, Chicken Cacciatore often has red wine cooked in the sauce, so red wine is the more natural choice with this dish than a white wine. The same applies to Coq au Vin. Red wine is the backbone of these recipes, and is the wine that best accompanies it. Some high-fly-flavored fish casseroles also call for something more robust than a delicate white wine, and many people prefer to accompany this type of fish dish with a light red wine or a Rose. So you can see that what wine to serve is not just a matter of tradition. The type of dish—whether it's mild or spicy—and the ingredients used first its special character, actually determine the type of wine that is "correct" and compatible.

Question: My husband and I are taking a trip to California soon, and it will be the first time I've stayed in a hotel in ten years. I've told my friends I intend to have breakfast in bed at least once while I'm there, but one friend said that no one ever does this any more, and that I'd feel foolish asking for this type of service. Is she correct in saying this?—Mrs. M.F., Trenton, N.J.

Answer: Your friend may have read the same survey I did recently, which stated that a poll of hotels from coast to coast indicated that breakfast in bed has gone out of style, and rarely does anyone order it, a person who is ill, request it. Generally, hotel guests prefer to don dressing gown and slippers and have breakfast served at a table set up in their room.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mrs. H.P.: They won't have to break up their home.

William G.: How can Ginny ever take charge again?

* * *

Mrs. H.P.: I'm trying to prevent my brother-in-law from doing anything rash and premature about my sister's illness. Ginny is in the hospital now following a stroke, and from a future is a wheelchair. I'm taking care of Billy, their 9-year-boy.

* * *

I know my sister. I know she's a battler and she'll do her darndest to hold her home and family together. She's ready to begin special training for cooking and cleaning, despite disabilities. And, with a little help from Bill and me, she feels she can watch over Billy too.

But Bill feels it's hopeless. I beg him not to convey his defeatism to Ginny. It would crush her.

William G.: I'm grateful enough that Ginny is alive. I'm not going to tempt fate by expecting her to try to resume "business as usual." While I haven't discussed this with Ginny, I feel our best bet is to break up the home, sell the house and move in with my relative who can make room for the three of us. I don't expect this will be a matter of hand shaking. But I'm sure we can work over the hump.

Mrs. H.P.: Ginny's not going to accept this easily. She has her own hands full. We'll need a solution — even if we have to rend up in a hurry.

How can Ginny dream of handling all the details of running a home? I've been trying to do it since her illness, and even with two good legs I can hardly keep up with the laundry, meals, dusting and shopping. As for Billy, he's at the age where there's no sitting still.

The Council: Whenever The Council presents a debate concerning a "strapped parent," especially when one party claims "it can't be done," we receive a slue of mail bearing witness to the miracles of resourcefulness that take place all around us. Nowadays, the disabled proceed by the philosophy of the pioneering engineer who advertised, "We can do the difficult. We can do the impossible, too, only it takes a little longer."

The best pay readers to the punch by saying, in so to do, G.: Don't break up your home. Your sons and Ginny's and young Billy's grow have been disrupted enough by her illness. Minimize the upset, now that she is recovering, by gathering the threads at the smooth part and binding them together again in as many spots as possible. And, with all the special equipment and housekeeping tricks developed by rehabilitation centers, very little is "impossible." What is can be licked, too, but may — as suggested above — take more time.

With her sister, Mrs. P., rooting for her, and with her husband and little boy acting as though she's back where she belongs, Ginny can make rapid strides toward taking over again. The toughest problems, says Dr. Elizabeth Eckhardt May, Dean of Home Economics at the Univ. of Connecticut, will be in the areas of child care. In a study of 100 disabled mothers of pre-school children, Dr. May found that they mastered other housekeeping problems smoothly through training in work efficiency, with

Mother of Three Wants French Taught in Separate School

STONEY CREEK, Ont. (CP)— Mrs. Noel Guillemette, 32-year-old mother of three, Monday night launched a campaign for lessons to be conducted in French as well as English at St. Francis Xavier Separate School.

Mrs. Guillemette, a native of Rouyn, Que., appeared in company with a lawyer and a petition bearing 35 names, before a special meeting of the school board asking that bilingual education begin at the school in September, 1963.

In a brief, Ryan Paquette, counsel for Mrs. Guillemette, said French - speaking parents have a right to expect bilingual education for their children. He said the idea was to have everything from religion to mathematics taught in English and French so a bilingual education could be available to any child whose parents desire it.

The brief said French-speaking parents, after a survey in Stoney Hamilton suburb discovered 77 French-speaking pupils are, attending the school now and Mrs. Guillemette later said the figure was closer to 100.

WANT TO ATTEND

"These pupils are very desirous to attend a bilingual school," the brief said.

Mrs. Guillemette said after the meeting with the board that she felt French should be taught at the public-school level where it would be easier for children to learn.

She said she was sure Rev. C. R. Warren, head of the three-man school board, would never agree to bilingualism in St. Francis Xavier School and as a result she and her husband are supporting a public school rather than the separate school.

Mrs. Guillemette said they will send their daughter, Michelle, 6, to Mountainview Public School next fall where some French will be taught.

"While we may get our French lessons there," she said, "our children will not get the training in their religion. However, I want them to learn French. Everybody should know a second language."

Curling Club Ladies Hold Dessert Bridge

The annual Curling Club dessert bridge was held recently at the Curling Club. The guests were received by Mrs. G. Wambold, president, assisted by Mrs. E. Cowell, wife of the president of the Men's Section and Mrs. P. Loder, who convened.

The Club rooms were beautifully decorated in a fall motif with red and gold sprays of leaves predominating. The centerpiece of sprayed golden fruit and candles put the finishing touches to a tasteful setting of many lovely desserts. Mrs. Bixley was in charge of decorations with Mrs. W. Gault and Mrs. M. White assisting.

Winners of the bridge were: Mesdames Jean Adams, Thelma Smith and Jean Smith. Door prizes were won by Agatha Gray, Vera Graham, Edyth Yarcoe and Shirley Martin.

Anniversary Services Held At Carmel

Successful anniversary services were held in Carmel Church on Sunday last. There was a large congregation in the morning and a good attendance at the evening service.

The pulpit was occupied at both services by the guest minister, Rev. George Amesbury, of Queensboro.

The choir under the leadership of Mrs. Clare Horton with Miss Judy Dafoe at the organ rendered anthems at both services. A junior mixed quartet and a duet also contributed to the inspiration of the services.

The floral decorations consisted of potted yellow mums, orange marigolds, and a basket of mixed dahlias.

The Rev. and Mrs. George Amesbury and little son, Phillip, were entertained at dinner and tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Seldon Homan. Other dinner guests at the same home were: Mr. and Mrs. John Plumpton, Belleville and Miss R. Parvainan, Kingston.

FEAR 50 DROWN

LAGOS (AP)—Radio Nigeria reported Monday that about 50 children were feared drowned in Niger River floods in eastern Nigeria.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Ed Logan is attending a conference at Toronto Lord Simcoe Hotel which is being held Tuesday and Wednesday for convenors of Women's Services Canadian Cancer Society, Ontario Division and will be a guest at the Lieutenant - Governor's reception at Queen's Park on Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

At the recent tea and bazaar sponsored by the U.C.W. of Centre Street United Church, Mrs. C. Bailey officially opened the event.

U.S. Evangelist Speaker at C.A. Meeting

FRANKFORD — Frankford C.A.'s met last Friday evening with vice-president Miss Connie Wood in charge of the meeting.

Song leader Alex Nyrssonen of EPBC, Peterborough, led in the singing of hymns.

Mrs. Fred Wood led in prayer.

Ushers Calvin Watson and Richard Patrick received the evening offering, following a prayer. Rev. P. Spring and C.A. leader Keith Helm gave the announcements. Miss G. Reilly sang a solo, "Christ Christ the Saviour Came."

Evangelist Miss Betty Freeman of Wayne, Michigan, was the guest speaker, speaking on "Proving God's Love in Your Heart and Life," taken from St. Matthew 22: 34-40.

Following the singing of a chorus, the service closed with a time of prayer.

Marie Arnaud Rising Star

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters) — A rising star in the Paris fashion firmament is Marie Helene Arnaud, former model and internationally known cover girl.

Marie Helene is the second famed model to switch from modelling to designing. She follows Bettina, the late Ali Khan's fiancee, who designs a collection of sweaters and knitwear which are featured in leading Paris stores.

The Marie Helene Arnaud collection is being shown and sold in a new boutique in the Grand Maison de Blanc, the well-known department store opposite the Paris opera house.

This glamorous, red - haired former model has designed everything sold in the boutique which bears her name. Every coat, suit, hat, shoe, handbag, necklace and scarf on sale is the smart gold and white Louis XVI salon has been created by the ex-cover girl.

MASS PRODUCTION

Miss Arnaud's salon is another example of the growing tendency to bring high fashion or a ranking creator's specific style into mass production, for sale at reasonable prices.

Miss Arnaud received her fashion training from Gabrielle Chanel, where she was the star model for five years, a special protege and the personal assistant of "la grande mademoiselle."

Her first collection emphatically reflects Chanel's style and taste.

Coats are cut on young, high-waisted, redingote lines, often with small collars and cuffs of such expensive fur as mink or sable. Jewelry trends feature the same bulky pearl necklaces which have become a time-honored Chanel trademark, or multi-strand narrow gold chains.

The big difference is that Marie Helene Arnaud's clothes are ready made, and cost about one-quarter the price of an original Chanel model. Suits, for example, range from about $80 to $180. Coats cost about $170. Fur trimmings are extra.

WEDDINGS

SHAW — SAGER

QUEENSBORO — On September 15th, at 11.00 a.m., a lovely fall wedding was solemnized in Queensboro United Church, by Rev. George Amsbury, when Isabella Ella Maye Sager, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan R. Sager, Mc. doc R.R. 2, was united in marriage to Cyril Glenn Shaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hedley Shaw, Eldorado, in a double-ring ceremony.

Baskets of ferns and pink and white gladioli and carnations adorned the altar, while white satin bows centred with red roses designated the guest pews.

Mrs. Fred Bailey rendered the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. C. Tanner, Madoc R.R. 2, as she sang "The Wedding Prayer" and "O Perfect Love."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a full length bridal gown of white lace over taffeta, fashioned with Sabrina neckline, edged with seed pearls and crystals with cap sleeves. Her headdress was a tiara of pearls and crystals and crystals holding in place a finger tip veil of silk illusion tulle. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

Miss Elizabeth Sager, Toronto, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, dressed in a waist-length gown of yellow silk organza over taffeta, with a bolero jacket. She wore a rhinestone tiara and net headdress.

The bridesmaids were Miss Lynda Taylor, Picton, and Miss Patricia Blakely, Eldorado, and were dressed identically in champagne and blue waltz-length dresses of silk organza over taffeta with embroidered bodices.

All three carried bouquets of yellow carnations. They wore matching necklaces and earrings, gifts of the bride.

Mr. Cecil Broadwerth, Trenton, was groomsman, while Robert Sager, Madoc, brother of the bride, and Mr. Glenn Gryce, Belleville, acted as ushers.

The reception was held in Queensboro Orange hall, where the bride's table was centred with wedding cake, flanked by the bridal bouquets.

The guests were received by the bride's mother, attired in teal blue, lace over taffeta dress and matching accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother, who assisted in the receiving line, was gowned in blue crepe and matching accessories with corsage of yellow roses.

For the honeymoon to the west coast, the bride wore a blue sheath dress with matching hat and accessories and corsage of red roses. Upon return Mr. and Mrs. Shaw will reside at Eldorado.

Guests were present from Eldorado, Madoc, Queensboro, Picton, Belleville, Trenton, Cooper, Claremont, Toronto, Bannockburn, Brooklin, Oshawa, Stirling, Timmins, Frankford.

Among those attending were the bride's grandmothers, Mrs. M. A. Sager and Mrs. W. Holmes, St. Queensboro, and her great-grandmother, Mrs. George Geddes, Toronto, who is 93 years of age.

A miscellaneous shower was given by nursing friends in Belleville, and a miscellaneous shower was given at the home of Mrs. O'Rorke by her hometown friends.

KLEINSTEUBER — BILBAM

WHITE'S DISTRICT — A pretty double-ring ceremony was solemnized at Carrying Place United Church on Saturday, October 20th, at 2 p.m., by the Reverend Donald Pipe, when Miss Sylvia Ann Bilham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Bilham of Bayside, became the bride of Mr. Morris Ross Kleinsteuber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Kleinsteuber of Carrying Place.

The church was tastefully decorated with fall flowers when the bride, who looked lovely in a white French lace over blue taffeta gown, ballerina style with scalloped sleeves and skirt, blue linen pumps, blue feather-ed hat and pearl necklace and carrying a bouquet of deep pink carnations, was given in marriage by her father.

The bridesmaid, Miss Linda Dusenbury of Brighton, was gowned in a red velvet with white nylon gown, banded with red velvet and white accessories, and carried a bouquet of white carnations.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. William Hendricks of Carrying Place, who also sang "Simply to Thy Cross I Cling", during the signing of the register.

The groomsman was Mr. Allan Soles of R. R. 4, Trenton and the ushers were Mr. Gary Hunter of Ottawa and Mr. Victor Samuels of Trenton, both nephews of the bridegroom.

For the reception which was held in the hall of the Carrying Place United Church, the bride's mother wore a blue flowered amel jersey with black and white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore navy printed silk with lime green accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

For the wedding trip to Peterborough, and points north the bride wore a light blue silk brocade with royal blue coat and blue accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Kleinsteuber are residing at Carrying Place.

Guests were present from Bayside, Trenton, Belleville, Brighton, Carrying Place and Ottawa.

S. S. Teachers Hold Meet

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Mrs. Lawrence Dafoe was hostess to the teachers of White's Church Sunday School on Wednesday afternoon for an executive meeting.

The superintendent, Mrs. Albert Jones opened the meeting by all reading "Psalm. "Teach Me the Way of Thy Statutes", followed by prayer in unison.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. George Bilham. It was decided to continue the presentation of attendance pins. A combined teachers' book will be in use at the beginning of the year.

The hostess served lunch and a social time was enjoyed.

Takes Full-Time Job After Family Grows Up

MONTREAL (CP) — Mrs. Jeannette Boisseau didn't tackle a full-time job until her family of five had grown up and she was a grandmother. That was five years ago.

On Oct. 1, she became the new director of the eastend women's jail on Fullum Street, which usually contains 50 to 60 prisoners.

"I always felt I wanted to do something after my family grew up," she says.

Her interest in penology began when she got the job as secretary to the governor of the Bordeaux Jail in the north end. Although only a secretary, she found it difficult to "remain neutral" about what was going on around her.

It became increasingly involved in all human aspects of prison life," she said in an interview. "The cause of crime, the discipline of the prisoner, his medical attention, his rehabilitation. . . .

To learn more, she enrolled in a four-year night course on criminology at the University of Montreal. Her academic studies and her experience in administration qualified her for the director's job, a prison official said.

Mrs. Boisseau says one of her first big tasks will be to supervise the transfer of the women's jail to new quarters next year adjacent to Bordeaux.

"At that time, we hope to be able to make greater use of the services available at Bordeaux, and we hope to expand our own services as well," she says.

Although she expects to be a disciplinarian, "you must always remember to treat the prisoner as you would treat a person on the outside . . . she is a human being too.

Most of the Fullum Street prisoners were sent there on charges of prostitution or vagrancy. Many of them, says Mrs. Boisseau, don't have skills or families.

"How does her husband, Fernand Boisseau, secretary to the Historical Monuments Commission for Quebec, feel about her new job?

"My husband is not the kind of man to keep me from doing something interesting and worthwhile.

"But my father, he wouldn't approve at all."

Couple Marks 25th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Elliott of Rollomby celebrated their silver wedding anniversary recently.

They spent the weekend with their son Fred who is a second year student at the London Bible College, also with friends at West Hill.

On Tuesday evening, October 23rd, their wedding day, their family surprised them by a get-together at their home.

During the evening they were presented with a pair of lovely table lamps.

Refreshments were served including a beautifully decorated anniversary cake and all enjoyed a social hour.

Tolling Bell on Monastery Wakens Roosters and Calls 72 Monks to Another Day

By GERRY McNEIL

ST. BENOIT-DU-LAC, Que. (CP)—Deep in the black October night a tolling church bell wakens the roosters on neighboring farms and calls 72 men to another day in the life of a Benedictine monk.

It is 4:30 a.m., early even for the Magog country farmers, but each day of the year the bell calls the monks to their life of prayer, work and obedience.

Twenty minutes after it tolls, they file off to mass in their black robes and cowls, some with shaven heads, others with less monastic brush cuts.

As the sun colors Mount Orford and Owl's Head Mountain down Lake Memphremagog near the Vermont border, the monks are churning their cheese, feeding their 400 pigs and doing the other chores on the 600-acre property of the Abbey of St.-Benoit-du-Lac.

By 8 a.m., when they finally sit down to eat, the day is fully under way. It isn't one for a man who is cranky before breakfast.

Yet by monastic standards, it isn't particularly spartan. The Trappists, another Roman Catholic order, rise at 2:15 a.m. and carefully avoid unnecessary talk.

CHANT IN FIELDS

The Rule of St. Benedict, which governs the order, warns against too much small talk, complaining and laughter, tavern-style. But there's nothing in the rule book about cheerful work.

The busy Benedictines often break into Gregorian chant as they work in the orchards, fields or sugar woods around their baroque brick abbey 70 miles southeast of Montreal.

When they aren't printing Christmas cards, raising pork or making the blue cheese Quebeckers love, they can usually be found in their chapel, chanting the mass or the psalms in Latin.

The order has made Gregorian chant, official liturgical music of the Roman Catholic church, an art for the last 1,600 years. The abbey choir has published several long-playing records of it.

All this activity allows the monks to support themselves.

They also take turns at kitchen duty, policing the grounds and other menial tasks.

A French monk established the order here in 1912, the first members living in a small farmhouse overlooking the lake. Two were drowned going up to Magog by boat for supplies.

PROTESTANTS WELCOME

Now a good paved road leads here and for the last 23 years a towering four-story abbey designed by Paul Bellot, a Benedictine known as "the poet of brick," has been under construction.

The guest room looks like a Tudor hall, with a great fireplace and high-beamed ceiling, but there are Spanish and Asian influences in the octagonal towers and cloisters.

The white brick of the exterior looks as if it had been placed there by accident since it gets whiter with the years and was especially chosen for this quality.

The hallmark of the Benedictines is hospitality and the hotel section of the abbey rests among the first parts completed.

Benedictine tradition says each guest must be welcomed as if he were Christ himself. This goes for the Protestant minister and his parishioners who make an annual retreat here as well as the Roman Catholics who visit.

At one time, the monks washed the feet of guests but now the abbot washes their hands as they enter the dining room for their first meal at the abbey.

DON'T PROSELYTIZE

No one has to pay, though donations of the guests have helped build the abbey. Students from Sherbrooke, 30 miles west, may pay $2 for a weekend of cramming while businessmen in the mauve quarter pay much more for the peace of the abbey.

The Benedictines make it a point not to proselytize, taking instead a friendly interest in the beliefs of non - Catholic guests.

Strangely enough, the tolerant, democratic traditions of the order were established in the 6th century by a Roman ascetic who entered higher education as a short cut to hell and went off to live as a hermit.

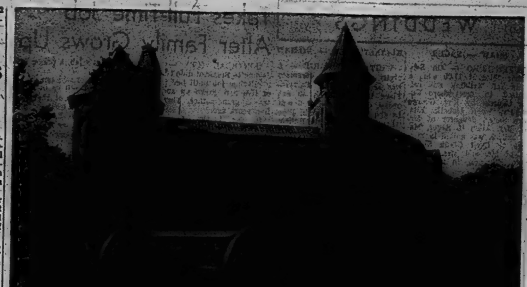
St. Benedict, Benoit in French, left his cave on Monte Cassino when monks in the area begged him to become their abbott. He agreed reluctantly and under his iron discipline, as he predicted, there soon was rebellion in the ranks.

"Perhaps this experience helped the saint...when he laid down the rules of a new monastic order. It took from account human frailty, warning against a scrupulous rather than contemplative life.

It cautioned the monks against "murmuring" — backbiting and complaining — and their abbott about undue severity or lenience in his judgments.

MONKS MAY SMOKE

Though written in stangy, ungrammatical Latin — the language was dying then—the rule has proved durable and still governs much of the conduct of the order, though some paragraphs have gone out of date.



Knives are no longer worn, so there is no need to remove them before going to bed—a piece of advice St. Benedict aimed at preventing injury.

Another paragraph reads: "We do, indeed, read that wine is no fit drink for monks, but since nowadays monks cannot be persuaded of this, let us at least agree upon this, to drink temperately and not to satiety..."

The spirit of this rule is applied to cigarettes. The monks aren't allowed to buy them—the abbey estimated it would cost $3,000 a year if they all smoked — but they may have one if a guest offers it. Most don't smoke anyway.

Though the rule goes into detail on such living habits, the monks find themselves in anything but a rut. One explained that monastic life removes all the economic and other motivations that have in the modern mind.

"I don't have to worry about possessions, bills, food, clothes, shelter," said one. "They could take away my typewriter and it wouldn't bother me. My mind would still be free."

Santa Claus Will Arrive By Helicopter

PICTON — When Santa Claus comes to Picton in November, he will arrive by one of the most modern modes of transportation — a helicopter.

At a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Santa Committee on Monday, chairman Jack Colden said a special collection for this event will not be made. An increase in membership fees this year, will cover the cost.

The use of the helicopter is being checked by Sam Gentile and Jack Fowler. It will land on the flat roof of Gentile's supermarket.

Treats will be distributed to the children and later there will be free skating at the County Centre at the Fairgrounds. Phil Dodds was named to secure the treats.

The committee is requesting merchants to decorate early and to urge all citizens to help make the town attractive.

Garden Notes

Still Time for Lawn Repairs

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

There is still time to do some lawn repairs. Mowing can be suspended and the roller should not be used at this time of year. If moss was troublesome this damp summer now is the time to rake it out with a spring tooth rake. Some grass will come too but that can be repaired later. After raking make holes in the soil to let air in. Air is necessary for healthy root growth. There are special perforating tools for this or a garden fork will do. Top dress the area with five pounds per square yard of good top soil. Apply when grass is dry and spread evenly with the back of a rake. Bare places can be mended with new sods. Take these from the back garden.

If you have not dug your dahlias, cannas and gladiolus label them before digging. A colored piece of yarn or thick thread tied at the base of the stock will stay in place through digging, drying and storing. After digging the plant, colors tend to get mixed, and there is the danger of discarding or giving away the ones you want to keep.

DUG FOR STORAGE

Late carrots, parsnips and beets can be dug for storage now. Celery can stay in the ground for a while longer if given a light mulch of evergreen boughs, or hard wood leaves. Weigh the leaves down with bare branches you have pruned from shrubs or trees, or use chicken wire. Parsley and endive will last until the ground freezes if you will turn a bushel basket over the plants and anchor it down with forked sticks through the handles.

Trim back ragged perennials. There is still time to divide such hardy plants as

Fears for Run-Away Daughter

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—Towards the end of June my daughter, who is only fourteen, ran away and there has been no word of her or from her since that day. I don't think I can go on much longer wondering what has become of her. My days and nights are haunted by all the thing that may happen to her.

I know she had been mixing with a bad crowd and had once been in trouble with the police. She knew we were concerned about her and had even been seeing the police social worker herself.

Later we discovered that she had been associating with a much older group, and was rarely with the friends with whom she had left the home.

For the sake of the other children we have tried to live as normally as possible, but each day it becomes more difficult.

The police have been unable to find her. The Salvation Army has also failed. The social worker that I have been seeing at the clinic has been marvellous through all this, and I can never repay her for the kindness and understanding which she has given me.

Do you have any ideas as to any other means we could take to find her? Whatever she has done she is our daughter and we want her back.—DESPERATE MOTHER.

DEAR DESPERATE:—Such terrible anxiety is well-nigh unendurable.

When your daughter revolts against her present companions—as I believe she will—any child care agency or children's aid service will give her the helping hand she needs to get back home again.

Keep hope alive for her—and yourselves. You have notified police, and all other possible sources of help, and I am making enquiries too. Now you can only wait. Which is hardest of all.

the mother plant. Leave them undisturbed and they will give you early bloom next year. The delphiniums can be transplanted in the spring.

Gravel and crushed stone walks or paths can be repaired now. Straighten the edges and add a thin new layer to all surfaces to improve their appearance.

When renewing sod beside a path or walk see that the final level is above that of the walk to allow ease in mowing.

Newly painted trees should be well anchored for a year or two until they have a chance to make new roots. See that the ties are adequate and that they do not cut into the bark. Fruit trees and bush fruit can still be planted until the ground freezes as long as the soil is not too wet.

See that the leaves are raked out of corners where they may pile up and smother valuable plants.

Do not allow weeds to go to seed. This will save much time next year.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

When the rumors of a new 6,000-capacity million-dollar arena to be built on the outskirts of the city were flying around town a year ago, there was considerable headscratching and conjecture in various places.

High in the top runner brackets were stories of a professional team locating here or perhaps a junior "A" club. Would it be the Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds or the St. Catharines Teepees?

I don't doubt for a minute that certain professional interests were trying to get a toehold here, consistent, of course, on the construction of the new million-dollar ice palace. However, Item One didn't materialize. Item Two hasn't and don't hold your breath until it does.

When the cracker-barrel panels exhausted the topics of top hockey possibilities, some of them turned to a more practical theme. What, if the 401 Ice Taj Mahal become a reality, would become of the creaky bones of Old Lady of Market Street?

Some "well-informed" sources had it that a supermarket chain was ready to take over the House of Home and utilize it as a groceries' warehouse. Others had it the Arena Commission would cut off the annual eleago problem, demolish the "House of World Champions" and use the space as a parking lot, with meters.

But a group of sane-thinking men with an eye to an inevitable necessity of the future, in fact the present time, secretly nursed the idea that would solve a big problem, one that grows bigger each year.

They were the officials of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association, who have been faced with the facilities troubles since the half-pints were brought in off the wide sweeps of the bay and the other outdoor playing spots to play organized hockey under a roof.

If the new arena materialized it would accommodate the city's topbrackets hockey. This, they felt, would leave the venerable Market Street structure available for other leaguegates and open a new vista of much-needed facilities for the hockey-playing subjects of their organization.

But, "the well-laid plans . . . ", as the rumor boys had it, went agley. The new has not materialized and about the only thing that hasn't changed, and never will change, is the annual increase in the ranks of minor players.

Man can build arenas; bring down mountains; erect huge skyscrapers and bridges, but he cannot readblock the inevitable course of Nature. Each year, as Time marches on, sees a more substantial upsurge in the number of youngsters graduating to hockey-playing age.

But while Time and Nature march on, ice facilities for the new generations are standing still. And if this city is to continue its interest in providing hockey outlets for its youngsters, something should be done about it.

The Arena Commission is doing its best with its ice-time provisions for the kiddies. Other organizations and people are entitled to arena privileges, too. They cannot be given the cold shoulder.

Well over 1,000 youngsters have been organized into hockey teams and leagues here this season. The majority of the teams are packed with some 23 players. This, with limited ice-time, does not give each youngster the opportunity to play that he should get. Don't blame the coaches, managers or the RMHA. It is simply a matter of not enough ice time available to the organization.

Other cities, like Oshawa and Peterborough, apart from the metropolitan centres, have separate arenas for minor hockey alone.

Unless something is done about it, or minor hockey is dropped, the situation here will worsen with the years. A new arena may be out of the question, but open-air city-operated rinks are not beyond possibility. Better yet, cover them with artificial ice plants.

Other centres of comparable size have them.

Deal Turley For Bo?, Angels Say No

NEW YORK (AP)—Have the world champion New York Yankees entered the Bo Belinsky sweepstakes by shipping veteran Bob Turley to Los Angeles Angels?

That was the first question that popped to mind in baseball circles Monday after the Yankees sent Turley, outstanding hurler in the majors four years ago, to the Angels on a conditional basis.

Is Belinsky involved?

No, says Belinsky. "I'd think they'd make a better deal."

No, says an Angel spokesman. "Bo Belinsky won't be in the deal."

HANEY DENIES

"Everybody's going to think it's Belinsky," another Angel spokesman told Los Angeles general manager Fred Haney when he was notified of Turley's acquisition. And Haney replied: "It is not Belinsky."

Belinsky, 25 - year - old lefthander who made up his first season with the Angels in a considerable amount of hot water, is expected to be packaged for a shipment sometime before the 1963 season gets under way.

Belinsky broke into baseball with a bang, pitching a no-hitter in the early part of the 1962 season. He became involved in a trade rumor after some late-night escapades that angered Angel officials and earned him the tag Bright Lights.

Now, despite the protests, he may figure in the Turley deal.

The deal was conditional. General manager Roy Hamey of the Yankees said Monday the Yankees will give New York a mutually satisfactory player at opening day, 1963, if Turley is retained by Los Angeles. The veteran right-hander developed bone chips early in the 1961 campaign and has worked infrequently since. He underwent elbow surgery last fall.

Turley, who pitched only one complete game in the last two seasons, had a 13 record in 1962. He also won three games in 1961. He now is player-manager of the San Juan team in the Puerto Rican winter league.

Turley was the ace of the Yankee pitching staff in 1958 when he won 21 games, and was named winner of the Cy Young Award as the top American league pitcher. He also paced the Yankees to World Series triumph that year, winning one game and saving another in relief as New York beat Milwaukee Braves.

Enters Hospital Today

Mystery Test For Willie

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Willie Mays, the San Francisco Giants' centre fielder, entered Mount Zion Hospital today to begin a series of physical tests.

His doctor, Harold Rosenblum, said results of the tests will be known by Friday or Saturday.

Chub Feeney, Giants' vice president, said Monday night the announcement took him by surprise since Willie had been in his office earlier in the day and had not said anything about it.

What's wrong with Mays?

"Nothing," Feeney said. "I'm sure these tests are just precautionary."

During a late season road trip to Cincinnati, Mays collapsed in the dugout and was unconscious for several minutes. He was in hospital for three days before rejoining the team.

Manager Alvin Dark said Mays was a victim of mental and physical exhaustion. "You would have to be a baseball player to know what a strain a pennant drive can be," Dark said.

The Giants went on to win the National League flag in a playoff with Los Angeles Dodgers but lost the World Series to New York Yankees.

Mays, the majors' home run leader with 49, was one of two Giants to schedule a visit with Dr. Rosenblum. Orlando Cepeda would get a thorough examination to see how his right eye has a cataract.

Cepeda said last week he flunked a driver's test and an eye specialist subsequently told him he had a cataract on his right eye.

He returned from a weekend trip today and was ordered by the Giants to see Dr. Rosenblum, ophthalmologist, Jr. George Campion.

Pender, Torres Bout Off

BOSTON (AP)—A heavy cold suffered by challenger Jose Torres today wrote a new chapter in the tortuous trail of title defenses by pursuit middleweight boxing champion Paul Pender.

Pender, who had been scheduled to risk his version of the 160-pound crown Friday night at Boston Garden against the unbeaten Puerto Rican, now must wait until Nov. 15, a date set by promoter Sam Silverman after conferences with both camps. It was the 10th time a title fight involving Pender had been postponed.

While Torres' cold was the official reason given for the postponement, Silverman revealed another. On Nov. 15, the Pender-Torres fight, scheduled at 9 p.m., will be followed by a closed-circuit showing of the Archie Moore - Cassius Clay heavyweight bout in Los Angeles.

With that combination the promoter hopes to gain a bigger box office figure for a fight which lost some of its luster after the Dick Tiger-Gene Fullmer brawl in which Tiger won Fullmer's World-Boxing Association title.

Pender, 31, recognized as champ in two states and Europe, reluctantly agreed to the delay.

Torres's camp said the unbeaten former Olympic king, who claims 20 knockouts in 26 pro starts, was anxious to follow his training program since last Wednesday due to the cold.

Palmer Tops Golf Loot List

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—Arnold Palmer continues to lead professional golfers in total money earned on the tournament circuit this year, but Gene Littler is rapidly becoming a threat to his crown.

Palmer's unrelated title the last two months, having played 21 tournaments, winning seven for $61,461.

The top 10: Palmer $61,445, Littler $56,200, Bill Casper $51,-942, Jack Nicklaus $51,315, Bob Goalby $46,025, Gary Player $45,528, Doug Sanders $39,269, Bob Nichols $32,187, Phil Rodgers $32,181, Billy Maxwell $31,-234.

Rickey A 'Miracle Man'?

Question Not When But Where

CALGARY (CP) — The first Western Football Conference playoff game between Calgary Stampeders and Saskatchewan Roughriders will take place Nov. 10 but the site will depend on the outcome of the Saskatchewan-British Columbia game Saturday.

Calgary now is in second place but a Saskatchewan victory at Vancouver would mean the two clubs would end the season with identical records. The Riders would have the choice of venue for the playoff game because they have the best-for-and-against record against Calgary.

The Nov. 10 game and the second playoff encounter on Nov. 12 both will be afternoon games.

WITHDRAWS FROM TEAM

MONTREAL (CP) — Marcel Bellefeuille has withdrawn from Canada's British Empire Games boxing team because of an eye injury and may be forced to retire from boxing, it was learned Monday.

The 21 - year - old Montreal featherweight hurt his left eye while sparring, leaving his vision impaired. He was told by doctors to give up training for at least six months.

Bellefeuille was a member of Canada's 1960 Olympic team.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Branch Rickey rejoined St. Louis Cardinals Monday after separation of 20 years and announced it would take a miracle for the baseball club to win the pennant next year.

The husky-browed, 80-year-old Rickey sat in an office at Busch Stadium and said his new job is the production and development of players.

"This club can't be traded into a pennant," Rickey said. "There aren't that many players around for trade. The players have got to be developed."

When told that a new baseball stadium is scheduled for construction in St. Louis in 1964, Rickey said "It would be a great thing if the team could be a contender by then."

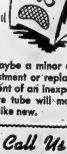
Rickey said he looks upon St. Louis as home. He worked as field manager, business manager and vice-president from 1917 until 1942.

Two of Rickey's most noteworthy contributions to baseball were the development of the farm system and the bringing of Negroes into the major leagues.

'Cookie' Nearing Rush Mark

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Star fullback Cookie Gilchrist of Buffalo Bills not only lengthened his lead in rushing last week but moved closer to an American Football League ground-gaining record.

The powerman of the Bills picked up 89 yards against Denver Broncos, raising his season total to 618. He needs to average 55 yards a game the rest of the way to crack the record of 948 set last year by Billy Cannon of Houston Oilers.



League statistics released today also show Gilchrist, formerly of Toronto Argonauts in the Eastern Conference, in fourth place in the scoring race with 60 points on nine touchdowns and two field goals. Gene Mingo of Denver leads the pack with 64 points on four touchdowns, 30 converts and 18 field goals.

Punch Mum On Injury To Arm

TORONTO (CP)—Punch Imlach is still wearing a cast on his left arm, but he isn't saying why.

The manager-coach of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League said Monday night the injury has nothing to do with hockey.

He missed practices last week and showed up at Maple Leaf Gardens Saturday night with the cast.

"I'm not saying anything on it," said Imlach Monday night. "They've all asked me about it, but it has nothing to do with hockey.

"It's just an arm injury. It happened last week."

Frank Ryan To Quarter For Browns

CLEVELAND (AP)—Quarterback Frank Ryan, five-year veteran of the National Football League who has spent most of his time watching from the bench, will carry Cleveland's offensive load now that the Browns have lost No. 1 signal-caller Jim Ninowski for the rest of the season.

"It gives me a good feeling to have the responsibility, although I'm sorry I had to get it through an injury to Jim," Ryan said Monday.

Ninowski was hurt Sunday in the second quarter of a game against Pittsburgh Steelers and Ryan came on to lead the Browns to a 41-14 triumph. The win gave a 4-3 won-lost record in the Eastern Conference race.

Ninowski is out with a dislocated left shoulder and fractured collarbone.

His loss was the second major blow to the Browns, who had counted on his passing and the running of Jimmy Brown and rookie Ernie Davis to carry them to the eastern crown. Davis was lost for the season with leukemia.

Argos Rote Passes -- Out Of Game

TORONTO (CP)—Even if Zo-Rote fails the sport upset of the year by leading Toronto Argonauts to the Grey Cup, he won't be coming back to the Canadian Football League next season.

"There's no way I'll play here next year," he said in an interview Monday night. "They could offer me $40,000 and it wouldn't make any difference."

The 34-year-old passing great, in his third year with Argos after an 11-year stay in the National Football League, has decided to call it quits.

Rote owns a concrete conduit business at Detroit and plans to expand it next year.

He wasn't always popular in Toronto. But the veteran quarterback had one of his good days here Sunday when he led Argos to a 23-22 win over Ottawa Rough Riders.

The win kept Argos' playoff hopes alive and the fans gave him a hero's ovation.

Rote emerged from Sunday's game with a charley-horse in his left leg and an injured hand which someone had stepped on.

Argos, who have a final-game showdown for a playoff spot with Montreal Alouettes next Saturday at Montreal, were worried about his condition.

But Rote said his leg is loosening up and the injured hand is his left one—not his passing hand.

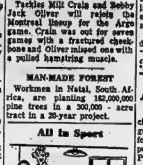
Minor Players Must Register By Friday

Boys with the exception of juvenile players wishing to play Minor Hockey must be registered not later than Friday, November 2nd. Registrations received after this date will not be allowed to a team until December 1st.

Paquette Back With Alouettes

MONTREAL (CP) — Defensive end Don Paquette, sidelined a month ago with a twisted knee, has returned to the Montreal active list, the Alouettes announced Monday.

But Ron Brewer, a corner linebacker, was placed back on the injury reserve list for a 15-day extension. He suffered a broken ankle a month ago.



The club said it still has no word on the condition of centre Joe Stracina who reinjured his knee against Hamilton here Saturday. It was not known whether Stracina would be able to dress for the game with Toronto Argonauts here next Saturday.

Tackles Milt Crain and Bobby Jack Oliver will rejoin the Montreal lineup for the Argo game. Crain was out for seven games with a fractured cheekbone and Oliver missed one with a pulled hamstring muscle.

Vote $1,000 To Junior Club

Boosters Elect Officers

The Belleville Booster Club voted a grant of $1,000 in support of this city's entry in the OHA Eastern Junior Hockey League last night.

A motion, passed in October of 1961, placing $3,000 of the Booster Club's money in a trust fund, was rescinded last night.

The release of this $3,000 gave the Boosters a savings account of $3,200, and from this came the $1,000 for the juniors.

Gordie Bell, president of the Belleville Junior "B" Hockey Club, thanked the Boosters for the $1,000 contribution.

Twenty persons attended the meeting at City Cafe and near the end of the 2½ hour meeting, named a new Booster Club executive for the 1962-63 season.

Replacing three-year President Jim Matthews was Len Mason, one of the original members of the club.

Joining President Mason on the executive proper were Clayton French, as vice-president, Mary Garvin, returning once again as secretary, and Jack Begley, as treasurer.

Peter Brinkman, although not present, was named membership chairman, while other executive appointments are scheduled for the next meeting, to be held sometime next week.

Booster membership tickets, expected to go on sale by the end of this week, will be sold for $1 each this season. A Booster membership card will give the holder the right to secure the same seat for each of the Juniors' games this season. Half of the price of each membership card will go to the hockey team.

Navy Trick Play Clicks

NEW YORK (AP)—An official said Monday Navy was not guilty Saturday of violating football ethics in a trick play pulled in a 32-9 victory over Pittsburgh.

The play—a variation of the old-fashioned "sleeper" — had Navy's Bill Elliott crossing the goal line from Pitt coach John Michelosen.

"The play was perfectly legitimate," Irwin Weiss, the game's umpire, told a meeting of the New York football writers.

Early in the game, Jim Stewart, a halfback, feigned a knee injury and limped toward the sideline. The Navy player lined up quickly, instead of going to the bench, Stewart shot down the field, took a pass and went a 69-yard touchdown.

"Take a look at the code of ethics and see if it doesn't say somewhere about a tendency to deceive," Michelosen said.

Weiss said Navy coaches had told him of the play before the game and there was no violation.

"By feeling is that a team must always be alert to everybody on the field," he added.

Wanted! Juvenile Players

Wanted — Juvenile hockey players!

The Belleville Minor Hockey Association, with its squirt, peewee, bantam and midget hockey leagues all set to go, is working on a "juvenile set-up.

President Ross Soule says he is hoping to obtain at least three juvenile teams but at the present time there are only about 20 players registered.

Registration forms are put out in the schools but many juvenile-age players do not go to school, thus did not receive these player forms.

Any boy of juvenile age, wishing to play hockey, is asked to be at Memorial Arena on Sunday, November 11. Juvenile play will get under way that day at five o'clock and the division will still be open for registration.

You can also pick up registration forms at the present time, or any time for that matter, at the Recreation Centre on Pinnacle Street.

From here on in it is up to the boys. If you want to play juvenile, better let the BMHA know about it.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—Coup d'Etat, striving to win a race for the last seven months, finally made it Monday at Old Woodbine, just a fifth of a second off the track record for seven furlongs.

Coup d'Etat was ridden by the Ontario riding sensation, Ross Turcotte, the first time the two had been united.

Coup d'Etat, a 4-5 favorite, covered the distance in 1.24 3-5, with Basra and Kentucky Warbler a head-to-head chase three lengths back, and paid $3.60.

A 16-to-1 outsider, Snow Lane, won the first race on a $40 payoff. Kings Heart was the $6 winner of the second, and the two were worth $172.80 in the daily double.

U.S. INVESTMENT

Total United States investment in Western Europe in 1962 was estimated at $6,600,000,000 with about half of it in Britain.

LIKES MODERN GAME — Eddie Emerson, who played his first football game with Ottawa Rough Riders in 1909, and who set a durability record by not retiring until 1937, chats with fullback Dave Thelen of the 1962 Riders. Emerson, now 75, is a director of the club. He says the modern game is better in every respect that it was when he played. (CP Wirephoto)

Terriers Shade Woodstock

GALT (CP) — Galt Terriers emerged with a 2-1 victory from a duel between goaltenders Monday night as they nipped Woodstock Athletics in the opening game of the Ontario Association Senior A season for both clubs.

An estimated 500 fans watched Woodstock's Ron Sailer and Galt's Dave Dryden stage a tight contest before right winger Andy McDougall broke it up at 10:15 of the final period. Ron Brain scored Galt's other goal and Neil Cockburn hit for the losers.

Dryden, one of the 10 new Terriers for their opening night lineup, made 30 stops, one more than Sailer.

Cockburn gave the Athletics the lead at 7:40 of the first period. Brain tied it midway in the second period, assisting in on Frank Carroll's pass.

BARONS GET FORWARD

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League announced Monday the acquisition of Wayne Fetlaz, 26-year-old rightwinger with Hull-Ottawa of the Eastern Professional Hockey League from Montreal Canadiens, with whom the Barons have a working agreement.

Mancuso played in the major leagues from 1926 to 1945 on several National League teams.

Stamps Hit By Injury Gremlin

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders lost more than the game to Saskatchewan Roughriders Saturday night in Western Football Conference play.

While Saskatchewan suffered no injuries other than the usual scrapes and bruises in their 23-15 victory at Calgary, all-star Stampeders guard Tony Pajarcowski is being treated for a badly-sprained ankle.

Coach Bobby Dobbs said Monday the injury suffered when Pajarcowski was making a block in the last half of the game, makes him a doubtful starter in the first semi-final game against Saskatchewan Nov. 10.

Calgary linebacker Henry Huth, hit on the knee in Saturday's action, is to undergo surgery Wednesday to correct ligament damage.

Defensive end John Caldrese and Jim Dillard also hurt their ankles, but are expected to be ready for the playoffs.

21 BRIDGE ST. EAST WO 8-8535

ONE DOOR EAST OF THE 4 CORNERS

Canadian span of the $20 million international bridge linking Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, and Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan. In the distance, the American Span and the American Soo, on the opposite side of the St. Mary's River. Officiating at the opening on October 31 will be Prime Minister Robarts and Governor John B. Swainson of Michigan.

Three-Span $20 Million International Bridge at Soo To Be Opened Wednesday

The $20 million Sault Ste. Marie International Bridge will be officially opened October 31 by Provincial Treasurer James N. Allan and Michigan Governor James B. Swainson, accompanying Mr. Allan will be the Hon. Charles S. MacNaught, newly appointed Minister of Highways; Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, former Minister of Highways and now Minister without Portfolio; other cabinet ministers and the Hon. Leslie M. Frost, former prime minister.

Over-all length of the construction being opened, including the Canadian and American approaches is 2¾ miles, of which more than two miles is represented by the three spans, one Canadian and two on the American side.

A round trip over the new bridge by automobile, regardless of number of passengers, will cost $1.80, payable in either Canadian or American money. Cars of more axles travelling together this represents a saving over the present ferry charges. A condition of the financing of the $20 million bridge undertaking was that the ferry service between the Canadian and American Soo would be terminated when the bridge was opened to traffic.

Key to financing of the project, construction of which began in September, 1960, was the decision of the Government of Ontario to purchase outright all of the $7,850,000 issue of Series "B" bonds, bearing interest at 4½ per cent. At the time of the precedent-making announcement a spokesman for one of the financial houses which later participated in the sale of the $3,400,000 issue of Series "A" bonds sold to private investors remarked, "For three years we have been trying to arrange this financing. Now the Province of Ontario has provided the impetus." From that date forward definite plans for a beginning of construction picked up momentum.

The two bond issues represent a total of $16,250,000 toward the cost of the $20,000,000 project. An additional $4,000,000 required for the Michigan approaches, was provided jointly by the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads and the Michigan State Highway Department under the federal program of assistance for highway construction.

The Province of Ontario made another singular contribution toward transforming the "dream" of a bridge to link the Canadian and American Soo into a possibility by purchasing outright in June, 1960, the International Transit Company, which operates the three ferry boats plying the St. Mary's River at Sault Ste. Marie. By doing so, and further agreeing to operate the ferry company until the bridge was opened — at which time the ferry service would be discontinued — Ontario cleared away another serious obstacle to sale of the $6,400,000 Series "A" bonds, placed mainly in the U.S.A.

All work on the Canadian section was carried out by Canadian contractors, using Canadian labor and materials.

"The determination," said the Premier "of the Government of Ontario to see a bridge built at Sault Ste. Marie — a resolve backed with an investment of $7,850,000 bridge bonds — was based upon a master plan of development for Northern Ontario through the expansion of its highway system in all directions from Sault Ste. Marie.

"Apart from plan, the Soo bridge was a keystone."

Mr. Robarts remarked that the enthusiasm of his predecessor for the bridge venture was from the outset, shared by Provincial Treasurer James N. Allan and former Highways Minister Cass, both of whom were instrumental in the complicated and time-consuming negotiations to be expected in the case of international bridges financed by a combination of government and private investment.

"The opening of the $100,000,000 Straits of Mackinac Bridge in November, 1957, followed by completion of the Trans-Canada Highway between Sault Ste. Marie and Marathon in September, 1960, have also contributed to greatly increased traffic across the St. Mary's River which separates the Canadian and American Soo. The heavier flow of traffic has applied over as far easterly as Sudbury and beyond and to the north and west, particularly around Lake Superior, through the Canadian Lakehead, south of Pigeon River on the international border between Ontario and Minnesota.

While traffic will be able to flow out of Ontario over the great new bridge just as easily as traffic coming in from the U.S.A., the net flow, via the ferry, has been in Ontario's favor. This year the ferry service was unable to keep up with the demands made upon it in the peak tourist period. Up until the end of September this year, the ferries had transported more than 1,271,000 passengers, and more than 353,000 vehicles.

One person who will be missed at the opening ceremonies on October 31 is the late Harry Lyons, M.P.P. for the riding of Sault Ste. Marie continuously from 1951 until his death in September of this year. Mr. Lyons had, from the beginning, vigorously and enthusiastically promoted the idea of a bridge to link his native city of Sault Ste. Marie with its namesake opposite on the Michigan side of the St. Mary's River.

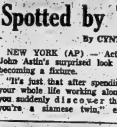
NEW YORK (AP) — Actor John Astin's surprised look is becoming a fixture.

"It's just that after spending your whole life working alone, you suddenly discover that you're a siamese twin," explained the first half of ABC's new comedy series, I'm Dickens . . . he's Fenster.

Astin is an actor whose talent for playing comedy was spotted by Tony Randall. His new partner in television is a comic, Marty Ingels, cut in the pattern of Jerry Lewis. Two more different personalities it would be hard to find.

Mobile-faced, nervous Ingels — who looks a bit like both Red Skelton and Danny Thomas and is always "on," sees the series as a springboard to stand-up comedy glory. Quiet, intense Astin, with his eye on Broadway and motion picture dramatic roles, feels differently.



"I'm glad to be in the series — even if it does nothing else, it will give me a chance to make a name for myself. And maybe open some new doors."

According to the most recent estimate, there are no television sets in 59,000,000 U.S. homes—91 per cent of all homes. It is an impressive figure when one realizes that 13 years ago fewer than 1,000,000 living rooms contained sets.

The Television Bureau of Advertising also estimates that, counting hotels, restaurants, and homes with more than one, the total number of sets in use now has reached 59,000,000.

BABY OF THE WEEK

This little girl with the sparkling eyes is 8-months-old Debbie, the wee daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Thomson of Belleville. They say that a portrait is a treasure that is precious beyond price and especially in the case of children it is so true! How else can these wonderful childhood expressions be preserved forever! A portrait of your child by Lambers Studio will be a possession you will be proud to show to your friends or give to relatives at Christmas. Phone Lambers Studio at WO 2-5064 and make your Christmas appointment now.

Harrison to Repeat in Film Version of My Fair Lady

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Rex Harrison is all set to repeat as Professor Higgins in the film version of My Fair Lady and it seems in retrospect insane to have considered anyone else. Richard Burton was mentioned. But Higgins is supposed to be a woman-hater and even Burton's considerable talent could not effect that characterization. With Harrison and Audrey Hepburn as stars, it now appears possible that Stanley Holloway will recreate his original role as Doolittle.

Frank Sinatra is building a 250-room addition to his Cal-Neva Lodge at Lake Tahoe. "We'll go from a four-month to a nine-month operation," said the crooner - turned - tycoon. "There is too much overhead to operate only in the summer. Now we can draw from the skiing crowd at Squaw Valley."

Hugh O'Brian is back from his travels briefly and is doing an Alfred Hitchcock hour. He reports that the film he made in Europe has a new title: it has gone from Champagne Flight to The Friendliest Girls in the World to Come Fly with Me. He says the film is a winner, despite the flighty titling.

Sam Benedict is the latest of the television hours to plan a two-parter, aimed at release overseas as a feature. . . Stunt man Bob Morgan plans a suit over the How the West was Won train accident that cost him a leg. . . Good news on the local production scene: Shooting starts this week on The Greatest Story Ever Told.

"Lifeguard! Whore's the lifeguard?"

Astrological Forecast

For October 31

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Your own ingenuity, ability and originality win the day. Time to permit Aries fire and enthusiasm to come roaring to forefront. Make others aware that you are vital, creative being!

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Very good for taking an "inward" look at yourself. Follow through on convictions. Day to "back the underdog." Permit Taurus determination to lead way.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Trying to push aside personal responsibility is not the wise course. Make this a banner day by challenging opposition to show its hand. By so doing, you display a strong position, cpurage!

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Take the initiative. Be confident. Strive for originality. Forget the old. Aim for the new Be Independent in thought, action. No time for ultra-conservatism.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): You can accomplish much. But you must concentrate. Expecting others to take care of details leads to disappointment. Favorable lunar aspect encourages attention to opposite sex.

Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22): Think about change. Be alert to possibilities for improvement. Trying to change views of others could be frustrating. Instead, make your own changes.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23): Take events as they come. Apt to be day when others, no matter how sincere for the moment, prove less than stable. Rely upon your own resources. Take promises with "grain of salt."

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Plan better methods for dealing with public. Stress your abilities. Show others that you are capable of much more than current indications. Day to make valuable contacts.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Cycle at peak; means best on your own abilities. Judgment apt to be correct. Move with smooth rhythm of confidence. One born in June may attract you.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Answer to question concerning domestic problem is basically simple. Apply common sense. Treat others as you wish to be treated. This simple procedure can clear the air.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Gains made at social affair for fellow workers proves valuable. Day to be diplomatic. Stay out of arguments. Express views. But show you are interested in what others say, too.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Take "established" route. Key is to be conservative while keeping eyes open for new methods. Gradual change favored over radical moves. Advance career by offering constructive suggestion.

The Trots

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Speeding up from eighth place in the backstretch, Dapper Grattan crowned by Reg Rollason of Strathroy, Ont., Monday night stormed the wire a neck ahead of Sully's Boy to win the featured $2,500 Middlesex County pace for two-year-olds at Western Fair Raceway.

Reined by Marshall Moore, Dapper Grattan, lapped behind as the leaders changed places until the three-quarter mile pole. Taking the lead 10 yards from the wire, he staved off a late rush by Sully's Boy, owned by Fred Sullivan of Dorwich, Ont., and piloted by Fred Gosaki.

Dapper Grattan paced the mile in 2:11 2-5, paying $5.10 to win.

Princine Hanover came in third.

Driver Fred Hill of Oshweken, Ont., collected his first win of the season, guiding home Maggie Spangler, five-year-old mare owned by Clifford Slade of St. Catharines, for a longshot payoff of $34.30 in the time of 2:15 3-5.

With Hallowe'en coming, it's the time for choosing pumpkins. Eight-year-old Gary Vader, of Cherry Valley, found this one at Belleville market, but it looks as though he may need help to get it home.

Batawa

BATAWA — Best wishes are extended to Mr. and Mrs. John Forbes on the birth of a son, Friday, October 26th, in Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Ladies of the C.W.L. were invited to the home of Mrs. S. Pospisil to prepare pumpkins for Hallowe'en decorations, Wednesday and Thursday.

Award presentations were made at the Monday meeting of Sacred Heart Home and School Association.

Mr. Arthur Duncan was the guest speaker at the Milk Producers' Association at Cherry Valley on Friday evening.

Action Follows Protest Over Army Setbacks

By PETER JACKSON

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Prime Minister Nehru tonight took over the defence ministry post from V. K. Krishna Menon amid growing protest over Indian setbacks in the border war with Communist China.

Menon was appointed minister in charge of defence production and will continue as a cabinet member.

Menon's replacement was demanded by a section of Nehru's ruling Congress party that claimed he had failed to build up Indian defences to meet the massive assaults by Chinese forces.

His replacement came amid reports of a new Indian offensive in the eastern sector of the 2,500-mile Chinese-Indian frontier.

An Indian defence ministry spokesman said Indian forces Tuesday bombarded Chinese positions near Jang, east of Tawang which was "captured by the Chinese earlier this week.

RUSSIA HELPS

The spokesman also disclosed that Russia is continuing to deliver military equipment to India.

The spokesman said the Soviet military equipment was ordered before the heavy border fighting broke out earlier this month but was being delivered according to schedule.

However, he declined to discuss details of whether Russia would supply India with Soviet MIG fighter planes. India has negotiated with Russia for the planes but no purchase agreement was believed to have been made.

The Indian attack on Jang, which was made with the support of artillery fire, marked the second day in which Indian forces have moved to the offensive.

The Indians were pressing their assaults with support from Indian reinforcements from the Pakistani border, reliable sources said.

Reliable sources said the reinforcements, supported by artillery, were moving from Tezpur to Bomdi La, a reference to Senator M. Wallace McCutcheon.

TEZPUR, India (AP) — The Chinese Communists are throwing masses of troops at Indian outposts — some even without weapons, a front line report said Tuesday.

An Indian major's account from the battle front said some of the Chinese soldiers in the followup waves waited for their comrades to fall dead or wounded and then picked up their rifles and sub - machine guns to charge on.

The major told of a Chinese onslaught that overran a lightly defended Indian outpost in the Dhola sector near the Tibetan border.

The major's report, which reached reporters here via a Scottish tea planter, was one of the first eyewitness accounts of the battle.

Only severely wounded troops have been brought back from the mountains and correspondents have been barred from going up there for interviews.

Peace Knocking 'At the Door' Says Pope John

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John said today "peace is knocking at the door" of a world "which is weary of anxiety and uncertainties."

The pontiff made his remarks in addressing the usual Wednesday mid-day general audience.

"A cloud seems on the horizon this vision of peace we are happy and we thank God," the Pope said.

"One hears the voices of diplomats and of representatives of states which have different ideas and different behavior.

"But we hope all these will go ahead properly in the honest search of the real basis of justice, propriety and brotherhood."

Big Ben Chimes Are Condemned To Dusk-to-Dawn Silence by Law

TORONTO (CP) — Big Ben's was a little fast Tuesday in sounding its 8 p.m. chimes over the traffic jammed in downtown Toronto.

It was also condemned to dusk-to-dawn silence by a city bylaw.

At 2:56 p.m. three loudspeakers strung on buildings above the street crackled and boomed out three magnificent, prerecture chimes—recordings of the London original.

The faith, however, was rendered for Big Ben's 4 p.m. performance.

But there was nothing to be done about the bylaw—an antinoise restriction forbids Big Ben's caliber after 7 p.m. five nights a week and after 7 p.m. on Thursdays and Fridays, late shopping nights.

Big Ben's chimes are a promotion stunt by British Week, a bid by the British Travel Association to lure more Torontonians to the Old Country. After an ostentatious opening Monday, the festivities simmered down Tuesday.

One of the most popular features of the publicity campaign, a red double-decker London transport bus which gave 10-minute rides around the city Monday, was out of action Tuesday. It returns to its until further route Friday and Saturday.

Cockney town crier Alfie Howard, 42, left off his news-bulletin tour at noon at Toronto streets and took his bell 100 miles south west to London, Ont., for Visit London (Eng.) celebrations there.

A crowd of Torontonians sampled free English tea at a local tea merchant's store and attended a continuous showing of British travel films.

British master chef Ben Bigg will light the fire tonight under a 1,000-pound ox, to be barbecued for a civic dinner Thursday.

Chef Bigg will stay just long enough to sample his meal before flying back to London to prepare the annual lord mayor's banquet Friday night.

DOUGLAS FISHER SAYS CANADA NEEDS NEW PM

Once Thought Dief 'Prairie Lincoln'

By JACK BEST

OTTAWA (CP) — The New Democratic Party's Douglas Fisher says that Prime Minister Diefenbaker, whom he once looked upon as a potential "Prairie Lincoln," has let Canada down and should be replaced.

The big, blunt-spoken member for Port Arthur told the Commons Tuesday he feels that the country "very badly" needs a new prime minister.

Mr. Fisher, speaking towards the tag end of a wide-ranging economic debate, said that in the last Parliament he probably said more flattering things about the prime minister than any opposition MP.

"I thought that he showed prospects when he came to power of being some kind of Prairie Lincoln, but I have been much disappointed," said Mr. Fisher. "In my opinion, despite the best intentions in the world, he has let the country down and should be replaced."

LISTS 'SHORTCOMINGS'

The Lakehead member listed what he considered some of the prime ministry's major shortcomings:

His failure to establish a basis of trust with his own administrators and his own administration. He tended to be antagonistic toward "the administrators he was left with," but lacked the drive or energy to dismiss some of them so he could feel surrounded by loyal officials.

A strong suspicion of intellectuals, an unwillingness to listen to experts in problems in depth." Mr. Fisher said he has been to most of the universities in Canada and found that most of the "eggheads" there, who he believed had to contribution to make—"I know that President Kennedy has found that they have" — supported either the Liberals or the New Democratic Party.

His slowness in regard to administration. "The prime minister has had a profound distrust of the business community in Canada and as a consequence has never tried to tap or really get in touch with the abilities that lie within the corporate structure of Canada."

CITES APPOINTMENT

Mr. Fisher suggested that the appointment of the "senator from Bay Street"—a reference to Senator M. Wallace McCutcheon.

TUESDAY, Oct. 30, 1962

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said he has suggested a meeting of Indian and Canadian experts to discuss arms for India.

Liberal Leader Pearson called for "most generous consideration" of Canadian military equipment to India.

Antoine Belanger (SC—Charlebois) said he will urge Quebec Social Credit to back separatism if the English press keeps joking about the party.

David Lewis (NDP—York South) criticized cuts in public spending and said a "stupid" approach to the nation's problems.

Jean-Louis Frenette (SC—Portneuf) warned that the minority government must pay heed to Social Credit ideas if it wants to survive.

Soviet Submarine Fleet Believed Larger Than U.S.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet submarine fleet, estimated at 430 ships, is believed to be larger than the United States', but Western experts agree generally that United States outnumbers Russia in far-ranging nuclear-powered submarines by at least 3 to 2.

Soviet Fleet Admiral Sergei Gorshkov, the navy's commander-in-chief, reiterated today Soviet claims of superiority in rocket - firing nuclear submarines.

He asserted:

"Our nuclear-powered submarines can rapidly and unexpectedly appear at any point in the world's oceans and destroy any target on the sea or on the shores of any aggressor."

His statement, published in Krashnaya Zvezda (Red Star), did not give the number of such submarines or those armed with nuclear rocket weapons.

Jane's fighting ships, the authoritative British manual of naval strength, estimates the number of Soviet nuclear-powered submarines at six to 12 completed or nearing completion. The Soviet Union is believed to have also 18 conventionally powered submarines armed with rockets.

The United States has launched its 33rd atomic sub, Polaris - firing submarines are deployed in the Atlantic and Pacific.

Western experts have reported that submarines are the strongest arm of the Soviet fleet in a naval reorientation that puts heavy emphasis also on surface vessels converted into guided - missile carriers—everything from destroyers to patrol boats.

But Western appraisals do not give the edge in strength to the Soviet Union.

Kennedy Invasion Pledge Does Not Rule Out Force

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's pledge not to invade Cuba if Soviet missile sites there are dismantled does not rule out forces should Cuba—in American eyes—pose a major new military threat to the hemisphere, U.S. officials said today.

U.S. policy toward Fidel Castro's government will remain as it was before Soviet missiles arrived on the Caribbean island, they said.

Thus Washington's efforts to isolate the Havana regime and to prevent it from spreading communism in the Americas will continue. If Cuba brandishes what the U.S. feels is another major threat at the Americans, the Kennedy administration remains committed to defensive measures including use of force.

This interpretation of Kennedy's "assurances against an invasion of Cuba," given Saturday by Soviet Premier Khrushchev, was supplied by high ranking U.S. authorities. Kennedy is expected to say more about it at his press conference Thursday at 4 p.m. EST.

The president's guarantee does not take effect unless Khrushchev goes through with his part of the agreement—to withdraw nuclear - capable Soviet weapons from Cuba. But questions about Kennedy's commitment already are being raised.

SATELLITE WILL MEASURE SIZE, SHAPE OF EARTH

Could Produce More Accurate World Map

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A flashing light Firefly satellite soared into orbit today to measure the size and shape of the earth in an experiment that could produce more accurate world maps and establish guide lines for tracking men to the moon.

The 355-pound satellite rocket rose from Cape Canaveral at 3:06 a.m. EST atop a Thor-Able-Star booster. An hour later the defence department announced it was in a successful orbit about 700 miles above the earth.

The first stage pushed the package to the edge of space. The second fired for two minutes, then shut down and coasted for 25 minutes before restarting its engine to eject the satellite into orbit high above Ethiopia at a speed of nearly 18,000 miles an hour.

Officials reported that clear signals were being received from the payload.

TOWARD RUSSIA

Because the rocket was fired on a northeast heading in the direction of Russia, the defence department announced time and direction of launching in advance. Sources said this was done to alert the Soviet Union in order that the Russians would not mistake the rocket for a hostile missile.

Official name of the satellite is Anna 1-B, with the letters standing for Army, Navy, NASA and Air force, the participating agencies. NASA is the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. The Firefly nickname derives from four high-intensity

But Thant Says First Meeting "Very Useful"

Cuban Insists U.S. Give Up Guantanamo

HAVANA (AP)—Acting Secretary-General U Thant scheduled a second meeting with Prime Minister Fidel Castro today to try to win agreement for UN verification of Moscow's promises to remove its missiles from Cuba.

An initial two-hour, 10-minute session between Thant and the bearded Cuban leader made no headway Tuesday, Thant informed said, Castro was reported to have stuck to such demands as by the United States of its Guantanamo naval base in southeastern Cuba.

The United States already has rejected Castro's demands, made last weekend. He also demanded lifting of all economic measures against his regime and guarantees against hit-run raids and invasion preparations.

Despite the reported lack of progress at the first session, a spokesman for Thant called the meeting "very useful." A communique issued afterward said "Cuba fixed her position and viewpoints with clarity," which informants said meant Castro was unyielding in his demands.

President Osvaldo Dorticos took part in the meeting.

BLOCKADE RESTS

The U.S. naval blockade remained in suspension as Thant and Castro prepared for their second session. Thant asked that the blockade of arms shipments to Cuba be lifted before he began his Havana discussions.

(Moscow radio, in a Spanish-language broadcast beamed to Cuba, said it was impossible to say the Cuban crisis was "definitely over." The radio said the Soviet Union in its non-aggression pledge to Cuba left United Nations before the crisis will be solved.

Thant's visit was front-page news here. The newspaper Revolucion asserted in its editorial that Thant "comes to negotiate, not to inspect."

Washington, informants said that although the blockade was suspended, the quarantine against arms shipments into a more compact patrol area. The original patrol started as far as 400 or 700 miles off Cuba.

SUSPENDS AIR LOOKS

The United States also suspended its aerial surveillance of Cuba to ease the atmosphere for the Thant-Castro meeting.

Havana radio said Castro will speak on radio and television today, "to explain all the problems of the trans-oceanic moment in which the country is living."

Thant is scheduled to return late today to New York, and negotiations will resume if the missiles are expected to open as soon as he gets back.

Moscow radio remained conciliatory in tone, repeating that Premier Khrushchev has said he has faith in President Kennedy's guarantees.

Bandits Escape With $4,000 At Port Lambton

PORT LAMBTON, Ont. (CP) Two hooded bandits armed with a shotgun and a pistol today held up the sub-branch of the Royal Bank of Canada in this village 20 miles south of Sarnia and escaped with $4,000 in cash.

The men, who apparently had broken into the bank through a front window, surprised two bank employees as they arrived to unlock the front door at 10 a.m.

John Fantin, 21, who comes 10 miles from Wallaceburg three days a week to operate the bank's sub-branch here, was accompanied today by clerk Peter Burtch, 18, a native of Wallaceburg.

The two bandits, wearing white cloth hoods over nylon-stocking underhoods, escaped from behind the door as the two bank employees entered.

Mr. Fantin was ordered to unlock the cash box he carried, and placed the $4,000 it contained in a paper bag.

He and Mr. Burtch were ordered against a wall while the robbers removed their hoods and escaped in a two-tone 1955-model car. Mr. Fantin described the car's license number and told police he believed the bandits were in their early 20s.

Signs of New Trouble in Mississippi

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—Amid signs of new trouble, the justice department sent Burke Marshall, assistant attorney general, flew in from Washington in the wake of a firecracker barrage on Meredith's dormitory Monday night.

L. L. Love, dean of students, later told a group of students Marshall had announced that anyone arrested in future disturbances will be charged with violation of federal court order.

Even as Katzenbach flew in, trouble flared anew.

Somebody threw a soft drink bottle crashed through a circuit window. The glass showered Meredith, riding between two marshals in the back seat.

Legalized Sweepstakes Crusader Met With 'Overwhelming Support'

CALGARY (CP)—Mrs. Mary English, back from a 10,000-mile campaign jaunt across the country, says she has the names of 300,000 Canadians who want legalized sweepstakes.

The dynamic, 52 - year - old housewife who left here six weeks ago with $25, said Wednesday night she found overwhelming support for the project, backed by an organization called Operation Sweepstake.

"In Ottawa, especially, I was practically run off my feet."

Mrs. English collected about 100,000 signatures for a petition to go before the House of Commons. Newspapers in Montreal and Quebec City collected 200,000 in a sweepstakes poll last year.

"The newspaper poll found only about 150 names again idea of legal sweepstakes for each 100,000 in favor," she said. "I believe the ratio is about the same across Canada."

The organization says thousands of dollars leave Canada each year in support of foreign sweepstakes and that the money could be well spent in this country.

Art Smith, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Calgary South, has introduced a private bill in the Commons urging a Canadian sweepstakes.

Mrs. English travelled about 18,000 miles since July, most of it by car, alone in her car. The only mishap occurred last week when the car skidded into a ditch near Parry Sound, Ont.

Tributes Paid In Senate to W. A. Fraser

OTTAWA (CP)—Tributes were spoken in the Senate Tuesday night for Senator W. A. Fraser (L—Ontario) who died Friday at his home in Trenton, Ont.

Senator Lionel Choquette, acting government leader in the Senate, said Senator Fraser's "wise counsel will be very much missed."

Opposition leader Senator W. Ross Macdonald said the late senator was a man of strong views.

"He never took a middle course. He was never on the fence. We always knew where he stood, and that applied also to his political views."

Other tributes were spoken by Senator Jean-Francois Pouliot (L—Quebec) and Senator Harry A. Willis (PC—Ontario).

Car Crash Kills Pastor, Wife Injured

A 74-year-old Bloomfield man, Rev. Stanley Ross, one and a half miles north of Camden East on Highway Road No. 4, about 2:35 p.m. Tuesday.

Mr. Oldford, driver, was pronounced dead at the scene of the accident by Coroner Dr. J. Faidre of Newburgh.

Camden East is 15 miles north of Napanee.

Mr. Ross, 70-year-old wife, Addia, is reported in satisfactory condition in Kingston General Hospital, believed to be suffering head injuries.

Driver of second vehicle involved in the accident, 24-year-old Miss Allan Gordon of Kingston, was also taken to Kingston General with minor injuries.

Police say Rev. and Mrs. Oldford were proceeding north on County Road No. 4 when they collided head-on at the crest of a hill with a south bound vehicle being driven by Mr. Gordon.

Damage to the Gordon vehicle, owned by the Swift Canadian Co. of Toronto, was estimated at $2,000. Approximately $1,500 damages was caused to the Oldford car.

Police say charges are pending and unknown if an inquest will be held.

HOT PLANET

Recent radio telescopic observations indicate Venus' surface temperature may be as high as 575 degrees.

Vertical integration and the weeding out of inefficient growers has reduced membership in the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association to 5,000 from a peak of 11,000 a few years ago, but despite reduced acreage over-all production has been increased.

This is the story which members of the Hastings County Vegetable Growers heard at their annual meeting in the Foxboro op Monday evening.

Through vertical integration big processors were now growing much of their own produce without contracting with growers, a move which more efficient growing methods. Inefficient operators were being squeezed out of the picture.

PRESIDENT RE-ELECTED

Roy Sills of Thurlow township, president of the county growers' group, and agricultural zone director for Hastings and Lennox and Addington, was re-named to his position, as were other county officials.

Elgin Meyers of Sidney township is vice-president and Clayton Ritz of Corbyville, secretary.

All county directors were re-elected for the year with Marcel Lalleree of Thomasburg, being named to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Gordon Countryman.

Provincial Board chairman Ed Rutherun of Port Hope, told of his trip earlier this year to the Holland Bulb Growers' district and spoke of the market potential in the United Kingdom for Canadian products.

"They like our products, they like us and they want our produce," he said.

He reported on the year's activity on the provincial board and said there had been a big crop of all canning factory produce across the province.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED

Jim Dick of Wallington, provincial director for Zone 4 in Prince Edward county, spoke briefly to the meeting, as did Lowe Butler, Ontario Department of Agriculture canning crops specialist.

A number of resolutions were passed and will be placed before the province's delegates at its annual meeting in Hamilton on December 5th and 6th.

The meeting also set up a local committee to investigate the feasibility of co-operative canning factories in this area.

DOUGLAS FISHER

chosen minister without portfolio in the government confirmed this point.

Tuesday's budget debate—slated by continue today—was kept going by a succession of NDP and Social Credit speakers, with but one Liberal and one Conservative contributing.

The notable aspect was that the New Democrats concentrated as much of their fire on Social Credit as on the government.

This gave rise at many points to fragmentary type debate, as Social Credit MPs—seated directly across from the New Democrats—shouted a series of interjections.

One such crossfire occurred when David Lewis (NDP — York South) attacked at some length Social Credit monetary policy, all the while being heckled by Deputy Social Credit Leader Real Caouette.

Mr. Lewis said that some time ago the Social Credit party had "a glimmer of truth" in the fact that it was possible to expand the money supply without causing inflationary charges, placing money in the hands of consumers to permit consumption and investment.

That glimmer of truth has so blinded them that they have been unable to see anything else ever since," said Mr. Lewis.

Retorted Mr. Caouette: "You are wrong from A to Z."

Mr. Lewis said it was only because Social Credit had been elected that Mr. Caouette could "feel proud" about a letter he had received from Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, the Nazi economic servant of "that most cruel dictatorship."

Sets No Date For Sentence On Two Charges

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—Joseph (Newsboy) Moriarty, who pleaded guilty to federal gambling stamp and failing to pay the federal 10 per cent tax on gross receipts from a numbers game operation in June, 1961.

On a third charge, accusing Moriarty of trying to bribe two federal agents, the jury deadlocked and Judge Thomas F. Meaney declared a mistrial. He set no date for sentencing on the two charges.

Moriarty could receive up to five years in prison and a fine of $1,000 to $5,000 on the gambling stamp conviction, and a $10,000 fine on failing to pay the tax.

Moriarty, who has been in Trenton State Prison since March serving a one-to-three year sentence on a numbers conviction in Hudson County, was released on $50,000 bail pending trial.

The cases were not connected with the multi - million dollar fortune linked to him.

Last July 31 Moriarty was in prison, two caches of money —one exceeding $2,400,000 and the other at $188,000 — were found in Jersey City garages. Police said the money belonged to the imprisoned, lone-wolf numbers man.

Moriarty has refused to discuss the loot.

Ballet Espanol Well Received by Audience

BY EUGENE LANG

The Belleville Community Concert Association inaugurated its 1962-63 season last evening in the Collegiate Auditorium before a large number of members, both old and new by presenting the Ballet Espanol de Roberto Ximenez and Manolo Vargas in their debut appearance before local audiences.

This group of a baker's dozen of dancers, singers and musicians have won high praise in previous performances throughout this continent since their first tour in 1960 and previously had been that of the leading dance festivals at Jacobs Pillow, San Diego and Edmonton receiving accolades from critics and public alike.

The diverse productions given last evening were not regimented as to any one district of Spain or to any individual era but encompassed not only many diversified aspects of the dance and theatre of the theatre-loving Spanish but also selections featuring the colorful music and rhythms of Mexico, Peru and Argentina.

Words cannot truly give meaning to the grace and flexibility as each member of the audience visualized and comprehended the various moods with his own perspective as to its appeal to his individual artistic and artistic taste. In this instance what could be one man's dream could be another man's poison. Prosaic poison this was not but mood was set by the many facets of expression.

BRILLIANT COSTUMES

The incisive stamp of the feet, the sinuous flexibility of the senoritas, the brittle rattlings of the castanets, the tantalizing timbres of the guitars showered on naughty alcoholics of the senors, and the stirring rhythmic beat of the singers, all this combined with the background accompaniments, now a floating shawl then of rythmic guitar gave credence to the brilliant hues of the costumes in their colorful Spanish attire as worn by all the cast.

The three featured dancers, Roberto Ximenez, Manolo Vargas and Maria Alba live up to their high reputations accorded on them in their many dances devised. Guitarists Emilio Bonet and Pedro Melle added the true Spanish flavor in their accompaniments, with exceptional guitar additives by Carlos Rauch. Flamenco singer Chirlo Triana supplied the vocal wailings of native origin.

Summing up: An unusual attraction that will either gain more adherents to the true Spanish cause, or on the other hand, popularize in Belleville more Spanish dances and customs. Morish cuisine

French style of Spanish music of that color was never heard at Spain, George's Steak and his ever popular "Carmen."

Move to Have Napanee Liquor Vote Set Aside

Leave to make application requesting that the September third liquor vote plebiscite be set aside on the grounds of irregularities and breaches of principle, is being asked today at Napanee.

The request for the grant of the fiat is being made by local solicitor Kenneth H. Rose on behalf of local realtor, Gordon Hutchison, proprietor of the Hutchison Hotel at Napanee.

Both questions on the referendum for cocktail and dining lounges were defeated in the Napanee vote.

Lake, River Levels in Area Now Quite High

TRADE WITH RUSSIA UP—Canada's exports to Russia increased sharply during 1961 while Russian exports to Canada dropped.

Canada exported goods worth $24,278,544 to Russia while purchases from Russia totalled $2,740,727.

The two countries in mid-1960 signed a trade agreement granting Russia the right to buy up to $25,000,000 worth of Canadian goods a year. Canada agreed to buy Russian goods up to half the value of Russian purchases. (CP Newsmap).

Heavier than usual autumn rains in the Bay of Quinte district have made for substantial progression on lake levels in the Moira Valley with a corresponding improvement in the river flow.

Stanley Chubb, field officer for the Moira Conservation Authority, said today that the river flow at the end of October is better than for several years.

The level of Moira Lake, best south at Madoc, has increased 1.13 feet since late September while Stoco Lake at Tweed has risen 1.05 feet since early in September.

The increased river flow is particularly noticeable at Deseronto's Rapids, where at one point during the summer the flow had dried to a trickle.

To aid the overall river flow Chubb said 20 cubic feet of water per second is still being drawn from the Langhan Reservoir on the Black River, north of Madoc, a tributary of the Moira.

From August until the last of September 85 cubic feet per second was being drawn from the lake.

As of October 25th, approximately 15 per cent of the total lake volume remained as this is the level is gradually being increased.

Scout Troop Honors Rector

On Sunday evening, September 30th, the 2nd Belleville Cubs, Scouts, members of the Parent Boy Group committee, attended Evening Service at Christ Church, to hear the Rev. Archdeacon Cooper, R. B. Creegzan, preach his farewell sermon before moving to Lindsay.

After the service and following the reception in the Parish Hall, the group committee, Doug. McBride, on behalf of the scout group, presented Mr. Creegzan with walnut bookends suitably inscribed. Mr. Creegzan has for banked the group for its thoughtfulness.

Attended by the boys' parents and others interested in scouting, a Going-up Ceremony was held October 3rd, when Gordon Melle added the true Spanish flavor in their accompaniments, with exceptional guitar additives by Carlos Rauch. Flamenco singer Chirlo Triana supplied the vocal wailings of native origin.

Summing up: An unusual attraction that will either gain more adherents to the true Spanish cause, or on the other hand, popularize in Belleville more Spanish dances and customs.

Youth Gets Two Years

An 18-year-old Belleville youth, Robert Clapp, was sentenced to two years in Kingston penitentiary on a charge of breaking and entering the Club Canada last month, when he appeared before His Honor Judge J. C. Anderson in County Court Judge's Criminal Court here Tuesday.

Clapp appeared in city magistrate's court here two weeks ago before Magistrate T. Y. Wills. Clapp elected trial by judge and jury and was at that time committed for trial.

At the same time, Henry Keck, 19, also of Belleville, was sentenced to six months for the break-in.

trating on quality rather than quantity in building its fleet.

The construction of large cruisers is believed to have been halted.

The British manual lists some 3,000 ships in the Soviet fleet. They include an estimated 25 cruisers and 163 destroyers, 500 motor torpedo boats and a host of such lesser craft as tugs and training ships.

The U.S. Navy has about 860 ships of all types in commission, about 200 of them classed as obsolete.

Airline Hostess Special Speaker At Kiwanis Club

Over 100 showed up for the annual father and son banquet dinner held by the local Kiwanians yesterday afternoon at the Belleville Armouries and a popular event, this year's attendance surpassed previous years and the quality of the meeting was extremely high.

A uniformed Trans Canada Airline hostess was the special speaker for the occasion. She gave a very thorough talk on operation of airlines, qualifications or hostess, including such points as qualifications required to become a TCA hostess, the training program which candidates underwent in Montreal, and the advantages of being a hostess in Canada's national airline.

Some of the interesting human factors were covered when the speaker discussed some of the experiences she had had whilst flying and some of the humorous anecdotes when she had met in the course of her work.

The ladies present were feted with special favors and prizes. President George Hums reminded everyone that next week's meeting would be "past presidents' day" with the president under the direction of a famous Wooler impresario.

OSD Wins At Volleyball

The Ontario School for the Deaf acquired their first win of Quinte volleyball tournament held last week, defeating Picton by a 21-18 count in the final game.

All teams in the turney were well matched but OSD went through the double elimination play without a defeat. M. Hickory marked the school's eighth since the competition began.

OSD will go to London, Ontario, on November 24 to compete in the C.P.S.A.A. tournament. The school won this tournament three years in a row prior to losing last fall.

Pilot Shortage, Storms Tie up Canal Traffic

PORT WELLER, Ont. (CP)—Storms and a shortage of pilots are tying up traffic on the Welland Canal, a 27½-mile waterway that carries ships from Lake Ontario to Lake Erie.

A dozen ships are waiting off the Lake Ontario entrance to the canal and a spokesman for the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority here said there was no indication when they would be able to start through.

Suggesting that more pilots be hired to eliminate the risk of tieups, Capt. Sebastian Sisty, president of the Port Weller-Sarnia Pilots Association, said Tuesday night many of the 60 pilots are working 16- to 20-hour shifts instead of the usual 12 hours.

The bottleneck developed during the weekend when high winds and heavy seas forced 18 upbound ships to lie off the Lake Ontario entrance here.

Divorce Rate Rises Sharply In Dominion

OTTAWA (CP)—The number of divorced Canadians is rising sharply but still accounts for less than 1 percent of the population, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics indicated today.

A report issued in 1961 census showed that the number of divorced persons who have not remarried rose to 53,622 from 36,788 five years earlier and 31,998 in the 1951 census.

The figure climbed sharply with totals of 661 divorced persons in 1901 and 7,447 in 1931. Divorcees made up 0.5 per cent of the total population, up from 0.2 per cent in 1956.

Divorced women again outnumbered men, 30,495 to 22,097.

Ontario had the largest divorce population, with 21,776 British Columbia and Alberta followed with 11,552 and 3,900 respectively. Quebec was next with 3,242.

Married persons totalled 8,224,304, or 44 per cent of the population. He was down from 44.7 per cent in 1951 and up fro 34.1. per cent in 1901.

MOST MAJOR FIRES

Ontario had 12 major fires—each more than $250,000 in damage—in 1961, more than any other province.

IN MEMORIAM

COX — In loving memory of Pauline Cox, who passed away October 31, 1959.

Oft we think of you Pauline,
And our hearts are filled with pain
For the one we loved so dearly
Never more your voice again.
Three years have passed and memories linger yet.
But still we don't forget.
For in the hearts we loved you best
Dear,
Your memory lingers yet.
—Lovingly missed and always remembered by Mother, Dad, Sister, Grandma Alley, Don and Eileen.

KENNEDY

Doctrine was announced Tuesday night by Eddie Rickenbaker, chairman of Eastern Air Lines.

The committee's declaration charges that the Kennedy-Khrushchev terms are contrary to the Monroe Doctrine in that it "would appear to amount to a guarantee that Cuba will, without forcible interference by the United States, be permitted to remain as a Communist colony and therefore as a base for the continued political and psychological subversion of other nations in this hemisphere."

The New York Times says the committee hopes to make a national issue of the assurances to Khrushchev.

Four Republican senators cautioned Tuesday against any agreement that might provide a permanent haven for communism in Cuba and protect Castro from western hemisphere harassment.

An exile group, the Cuban Revolutionary Council announced in Miami it would proceed with armed action against Castro no matter what settlement Acting UN Secretary-General U Thant may bring about.

Flight Lieutenant Don Lindsay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Lindsay of Northport, Ontario, is congratulated by Air Vice Marshal Larry E. Wray, on receiving the first clasp to the Canadian Forces Decoration. The presentation was made by A/V-M Wray, Air Officer Commanding Canada's Air Division in Europe, and the award, representing 22 years of service, was made at Metz, France, during ceremonial parade commemorating the Royal Canadian Air Force tenth anniversary in Europe. F/L Lindsay is married to former Marguerite Houle of Deseronto, and their daughter, Donna, is a student of the University of Nancy, France.

Liberals Will Have Candidates In All Ridings

QUEBEC (CP) — Nomination of candidates in Quebec's general election Nov. 14 will close at 3 p.m. EST today, with the expectation that only the Liberal party will have a candidate in all 95 constituencies.

Until early Today, the Union Nationale had listed 94 candidates and the opposition party was not expected to enter a standard - bearer in Montreal Westmount-St. George.

The west-central city riding was represented in the last legislative by Speaker Richard Hyde, a Liberal. His only announced opponent is Independent, Richard B. Holden, 31, a lawyer who is running on a platform of opposition to expropriation of power companies — the issue on which the government called the snap election.

Tuesday, Premier Lesage campaigned in Nicolet and Trois - Rivieres constituencies, securing the Union Nationale of using "trickery to betray the trust of the people."

Meanwhile, Union Nationale Leader Daniel Johnson appealed for the support of the Italian community, most of which lives in the Montreal Laurier riding of ex-secretary of state Rene Levesque.

Mr. Johnson spoke briefly in Italian at the special meeting and then said in French: "I speak Italian like Mr. Diefenbaker (the prime minister) speaks French."

Later, during a television and press conference of the CBC French network, Mr. Johnson said he has agreed to meet Mr. Lesage in a 90-minute television debate Sunday, Nov. 11— three days before the election. It will be carried from 8:30 to 10 p.m. EST on the CBC French network.

Mr. Johnson earlier had held out for another date but Mr. Lesage said that Nov. 11 was "the only date that he could fit into his campaign schedule." Mr. Johnson will be in the Ahitibi area today.

tillery, have been moved from the Punjab border opposite Pakistan because of an easing of tension between India and Pakistan.

The troop movement came amid reports of Indian counter-attacks at several points along the 2,500-mile Himalayan border.

A defence ministry spokesman said Tuesday Indian forces are "probing forward" with artillery attacks on a Chinese position east of the key Indian administrative centre of Tezgn.

The spokesman said the Indian forces also launched an artillery attack on Chinese positions built near the village of Wasong, about 15 miles from the Burmese border.

FIRST OFFENSIVE

It was the first government reference to offensive action by India since heavy fighting broke out along the border earlier this month.

In Peking, the New China news agency reported Chinese troops "removed" more than a dozen Indian "aggressive strong points" after more fierce fighting on the western sector of the border).

In another development, about 2,000 Chinese nationals living in Bombay were ordered not to leave the area and not be absent more than 24 hours from their registered address. Breach of the order is punishable by five years in prison.

In Rawalpindi, Pakistan Foreign Minister Mohammed Ali said Pakistan was disturbed over the western military aid to India but added "if we also get the same aid and assistance so that the balance of power remains unchanged we will have no gripe against our allies."

15-Man Crew Safe After Vessel Sinks

HALIFAX (CP) — RCAF search and rescue headquarters reported the French fishing vessel Gallantry sank today about 200 miles south of Newfoundland and her 15-man crew was safe aboard another fishing vessel.

A spokesman here said the Gallantry radioed shortly after midnight she was sinking and asked for assistance. There were no details of what caused the sinking.

The Gallantry, a 110-foot vessel, is out of the French islands of St. Pierre-Miquelon south of Newfoundland.

The vessel Blue Spray, 45 miles from the Gallantry at the time of the distress signal, took the Gallantry's crew aboard and advised search and rescue the vessel had gone down.

MOSCOW. (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev talked Tuesday with a visiting Communist party delegation headed by Czechoslovak President Antonin Novotny, the Soviet news agency Tass reported. Khrushchev gave a Kremlin dinner for the visitors. It was attended by most of the Soviet party presidium and Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, the report said.

Castro Sending Top Diplomats To Assembly

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Fidel Castro is sending two top diplomats to bolster his UN team, rousing speculation that he expects to have a strong voice in any settlement of the Cuban crisis.

Diplomats at UN headquarters were surprised by the announcement from Havana that Castro had assigned Foreign Minister Raul Roa and Carlos Lechuga, ambassador to Mexico, to his delegation in New York.

Roa is considered that Roa, a veteran UN bargainer, would speak for Castro when the United States and the Soviet Union try to negotiate a Cuban solution.

But word that Lechuga was accompanying Roa touched off rumors that Castro might pull out Ambassador Mario Garcia-Inchaustegui, his delegation chief who has echoed Cuba's harsh anti-American line here for the last two years.

Garcia told reporters he knew nothing about reports that he might be reassigned. But Cuban sources here said it seemed unlikely that both he and Lechuga would serve at the delegation.

RESPECTED BY DIPLOMATS

Lechuga served as Cuban envoy to the Organization of American States before Cuba was drummed out of the OAS. Some diplomats felt that Lechuga's assignment to the UN might mean Castro hopes to better relations with the Latin American bloc which has frozen Cuba out of its deliberations here for the last three years.

Lechuga is said to have the respect of a number of Latin American diplomats.

Others contended that Garcia, having insisted that Cuba would never let in UN observers, was too closely linked to the position Castro had before Soviet Premier Khrushchev changed the signals.

R.N.A.O. Holds Dinner Meet

The semi-annual dinner meeting of the R.N.A.O. (Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario) District No. 6 was held in Belleville at "Ye C.N.R.A. Hall, October 24th. There were 75 nurses present, from the three chapters, Quinte Chapter, Kawartha Chapter and Northumberland and Durham Chapter.

Mrs. Olive May, district president, presided.

The bursary committee reported two student nurses receiving assistance.

Miss Doris Smith, director of nursing — Belleville General Hospital, Miss Marion Gomme, R.G.N., first vice-president of No. 6 District and Miss Gloria Townsend, student nurse from R.G.H., gave reports on the Canadian Nurses' Association convention held in Vancouver in June.

Survival Personal Business Col. Angus Duffy Tells Meet

TRENTON — "Don't let George do it. Survival is your own personal business, not George's," was the way Colonel Angus Duffy summed up his attitude to civil defence last night. The Quinte Emergency Measures Organization Co-Ordinator spoke to about 65 persons at a meeting in Trenton High School. It was the second such meeting to be held in the district since last week's Cuban crisis. The first was in Stirling on Sunday.

Trenton Clerk-Comptroller O. W. Larry, who opened the proceedings, said Col. Duffy had told him if the Cuban crisis had continued, the high school auditorium probably would have been filled. "And he's probably right," observed Mr. Larry.

Col. Duffy compared civil defence with an insurance policy —something one may never need but good to get out and look at once a year.

"Civil defence is a 'continuing process,'" he said. "It will probably be with us for a long time to come. But we can learn about it and be prepared.

"The danger was not last week when the United States and Russia were pointing rockets and guns at one another. Wars don't start when people point guns at each other. Wars always start when one side is ready and the other is not.

"But what would happen if a bomb went off with the lack of knowledge we have?" asked the co-ordinator.

Sergeant W. K. Owens of the RCAF, a nuclear defence instructor, then outlined some of the known facts concerning various type of nuclear bombs, their possible use, and the types of effects to be expected if one or more were to explode.

"The most important thing, he stressed. "Radiation from fallout can be beat," he said. "Any time you live in an apartment building use the corridors or basemen. as a means of shelter. If it better to use any kind of building as a shelter rather than stay outside following an explosion."

Sergeant Owens said the West is far ahead of Russia in every aspect of nuclear warfare. "Russia exploded just one week we exploded in 1955", he said.

Colonel Duffy said that heavy clothing, time and distance materials largely determine the safety of Trentonians following a nuclear explosion in Toronto. "Distance is the most important enough to waste a bomb on", he said.

He urged home owners to take positive steps to ensure their families are not without protection if a bomb should fall. He said families should be ready to shield themselves behind thick layers of earth, brick or concrete, and should be prepared to improvise on such things as clothing, food and water.

Colonel Duffy said that with the instructions being received by civic officials throughout Ontario and the rest of Canada, the country now continues to function effectively if any of the senior governments fell during a nuclear attack. Ontario is split into nine zones, each with a committee responsible for deciding policy and seeing that it is executed in accordance with principles laid down by the federal government. The Quinte District constitutes zone four, taking in Hastings and Prince Edward Counties. Police Chief F. J. Taylor, Trenton would be responsible for police protection in the two counties during an emergency, while fire protection would come under Fire Chief Gerald Vance of Belleville.

"Two giant nations are locked in an ideological battle", said Colonel Duffy. "Occasionally tension erupts and we get a situation like Korea or Cuba last week. Our government has decided that it's worthwhile spending a lot of money on an unpopular subject like civil defence. And if they think it worthwhile, surely you should. It would be ridiculous to build shelters for everyone in Canada, but any individual should decide for himself that 'I'm going to prepare for it'".

Impressive Tributes Paid To Memory of Sen. Fraser

TRENTON — Yesterday, local, provincial and national political figures joined with Trenton citizens from every walk of life to pay their last respects to Senator William Alexander Fraser, a native of Trenton, who had become a legend in his time. Senator Fraser died at Kingston General Hospital last Saturday. He was 78.

Funeral services, set for two o'clock, were held in the century-old St. George's Anglican Church in east Trenton and well before 1.30, the church had started to fill up. By the time of the service, every seat was filled, and many were standing in the church vestibule or outside in the rain. The whole town knew that yesterday it would say a last farewell to "Mr. Trenton," the man who, over a span of 50 years, had served his country and his community in an outstanding way.

The main service was conducted by Canon K. F. Blachford and Commissioner W. Wycliffe Rich of the Toronto Salvation Army Division, read the lesson. Senator Fraser had devoted much of his time and his material wealth to the Salvation Army during his lifetime.

Active Pallbearers were Eben James, Fraser James, Donald Fraser, Courtland Onet, Mc-Rae Danford and Robbin Fraser, all nephews.

Honorary bearers, many of them flying in from points as parts of Canada to be present, were the Hon. A. J. McLean, L. G. Ogilvie, C. E. Pickering, J. C. Udd, Hon. Robert Winters, John Wilson, Senator A. A. McLean Haig of Belleville, O. G. Alyea, J. S. Coleman, Lt.-Col. M. Flannigan, Judge J. C. Anderson, Allan Ramsay, Howard Graham, Air Commodore R. J. Lane, Group Captain D. J. Williams, Dr. C. K. Hertz, Mayor Harvey McFarland of Picton, Mayor James MacDonald of Trenton, the Hon. Paul Hellyer, representing Mr. Lester Pearson, and Senators Davis, Taylor and Woodrow from Ottawa.

Representing various public bodies in Trenton were: L. G. Phinney, Bd. of Education; Frank Barry, representing Dr. J. V. Byrne, chairman of the Trenton Estevan School Board; George Williamson, representing James Cox, chairman of the Trenton Library Board; E. M. Parker Jr., Trenton Board of Police Management; Dr. W. A. L. McDonald, chairman of the Trenton and Suburban Planning Board; Dr. Frank Sagar, Trenton Recreation Committee; J. C. Gillan, Trenton Housing Authority; Police Chief F. J. Taylor; Police Commission, Magistrate T. V. Wills; Fire Chief Cecil Ellis; Robert Baker, Trenton Memorial Hospital Board of Directors; Robert Barlow, president of the Trenton YCW branch; George Kempf, president of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce; H. B. Pane, chairman of the Trenton Board of Health; Clerk-Comptroller O. W. Larry; Councillors Ed. Todd, James Duncan, Duncan McDonald, Ross, Burtt and Claude Graham and town engineer Eric Aldersey.

Also at the service were Reeve Dustin McMaster of Murray Township, Edward Solomon, representing Brighton village; Robert Carlow, representing Trenton Township; W. A. Goodfellow, MP; Elmer Sandercock, MLA; Hastings Clerk Lee Grills, MP Hastings South; Robert Temple; Roy Sills, chairman of the Hastings Soldiers' Aid Association.

The service was under the direction of the Weaver Funeral Home in Trenton.

xenon gas lights designed to be photographed against a background of stars as they flashed on and off at designed times.

The blinking beacons — plus other precise radio, navigation and tracking instruments—were to help ground stations calculate distances on the globe and the general shape of the earth's surface and strength of its gravitational field with accuracy not possible before.

MUST USE BINOCULARS

Officials said the flashes would not be visible with the naked eye but that anyone with binoculars would be able to spot them if he knew where and when to look.

The light beacons were to be activated by a code beamed at intervals from the ground.

Several nations over which the satellite was to pass, including Russia, were invited to participate in the experiment.

RACIAL ZONING ENDS

ZOMBA (Reuters) — Regulations zoning residential areas in Nyasaland on racial basis have been abolished, Internal Affairs Minister A. W. Bwanausi announced today. People of all races now will be free to apply to build anywhere, provided construction conforms to the type of development approved for the area.

India Pledged Support of Many Nations

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Asian and Middle East nations today were lining up behind India in its border struggle with Communist China.

Philippine President Diosdado Macapagal told a press conference in Manila he sent a letter to Prime Minister Nehru assuring India of full Philippine sympathy and support.

Cypriot President Archbishop Makarios said on his arrival in New Delhi for a two-week state visit that India's struggle against China was the struggle of all freedom-loving countries.

Japan and South Korea in separate statements disclosed that Nehru has asked for their support in the border struggle.

In the last week India has received pledges of military aid from the United States, Britain and Canada.

Of Books and Critics

John Steinbeck, the 50-year-old Californian writer of "The Grapes of Wrath" and "Mice and Men" has been awarded the Nobel Prize for literature this year. Steinbeck fans are not surprised at the choice of author, but that the winning book should be "The Winter of Our Discontent" will be a shock to some. Critics have described this book as "a return, after more than two decades, to the high standard Mr. Steinbeck had set with "The Grapes of Wrath."

The surprise is that, from a Steinbeck point of view, neither "The Grapes of Wrath" or "The Winter of Our Discontent" is among his best, or even his better works. The third book in the same mood, "East of Eden" rests in the relative obscurity to which it belongs. They are all good books, but they are not good Steinbeck.

Of the "real" Steinbeck, only "Of Mice and Men" has ever reached nearly the height of popularity that it deserves. Others, such as "The Moon is Down" and "Cannery Row," "Tortilla Flat" and "The Short Reign of Pippin IV" have been nearly ignored.

Perhaps it all goes to show the difference in attitude between the professional critic and the person who reads books for their own sake. The Steinbeck "masterpieces" accepted by the critics are massive tomes, obviously the result of a lot of work and a lot of research.

The "little books" are small, quickly read, and give the impression that they flowed onto the paper by themselves. They are so facile, so effortless, so hot work they could not possibly interest a pedantic critic. But people who want to study the work of this year's Nobel Prize winner would be well advised to pay just as much attention to the more obscure "little books" as they do to the "masterpieces."

Empty Threats

Canada's Air Force, according to some military experts, would be grounded in case of a "shooting war." The reason is that Canadian interceptors, because exact copies of the American aircraft, will not carry the nuclear arms for which they were designed. Because of this, they could do little good in their intended role, and might "get in the way" of the more effective American planes.

Canada will be involved in the next war with or without nuclear weapons. According to present government policy, it will be without. But as long as the present situation exists, our money has been wasted on the so-called defensive aircraft now spread across the country, and in Europe.

Without discussing the morality or otherwise of nuclear anti-aircraft weapons, one might point out that this position is absurd. If Canadian aircraft are to use them, they should be supplied before the fighting starts, not after. If Canada is not to use them, Canadian fighting aircraft will not be sent into battle and the money spent on them will have been wasted.

If the government intends that Canadian aircraft will not carry nuclear weapons into battle, then the Canadian government should discontinue the defensive arm of the RCAF, and sell its equipment to a friendly country. The money could then be used to bolster the Air Transport Command, which is of use during peace or war, without nuclear weapons.

The Candid Mr. Caouette

Certainly there is one thing of which the second in command of the Social Credit Party in Parliament cannot be accused. That is subtlety.

He recently spoke to about 1,700 University of Toronto students, the majority of whom were hecklers, according to the reports received. After the formal speeches and turmoil were over a smaller group gathered about him to engage in a bit more direct repartee.

One asked: "If I went to Rouyn would you give me a discount on a new car?"

"You'll get it as soon as you vote for Social Credit," replied the candid Mr. Caouette.

There's nothing like a straight-speaking politician to make people sit up and take notice.

Confusion, of which there is always a fair supply on Parliament Hill, may explain why the front cover of October 19th's House of Commons debate read "Friday, October 18." Inside an M.P. corrected the previous day's report of a speech to substitute "payments on par" for "payments on a car." If only all parliamentary errors were so small.—Brantford Expositor.

Food intake, it's advised, should be reduced one per cent annually after age 25. That also could ensure that if you reach the age of 125 you'll not live past it.—(Windsor Star.)

Letter To The Editor

Praises Action Of Students

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

This week at Quinte Secondary School an event took place which I think is not only newsworthy, but also should be acknowledged and praised.

The pupils of Class 10D have been asking the Principal and teachers regarding extra classes. This in itself is not remarkable, but they are the top academic class in tenth grade in the school. They have debated that by having one another they will be each helping themselves and they hope to have in 1961 the greatest number of Ontario scholars ever produced in one school in one graduating class. This was their own idea and they brought it to the attention of the teachers. They met with the warmest reception and offers for help in any way shape or form from all the teachers.

As a parent, I am extremely proud of my daughter. I am greatly encouraged and as a citizen of Belleville I wish to have their fine young people congratulated for their industrious-ness, and to commend the teachers and members of the community for having produced these youngsters.

Mrs. C. B. Gardner,
R. R. 2, Hallowell.

Just Dial Winnip Egg

Stratford Beacon-Herald

Winnipeg is having trouble with spelling.

In company with Ottawa, Toronto, Riviera de Champ and Melcine Hat, it is one of the Canadian cities which have names distinctively Canadian, rooted in our own history or geography but as will be seen when translitera-ted from Indian languages, Winnipeg gets a variety of spellings. Anyone is entitled to an opinion about the best way to represent Indian in the Schetter English alphabet, Indian sounds for which there is no exact English equivalent.

During a recent study of long-distance toll rates, conducted by a group of Western telephone companies, a measure were required to send in cancelled toll tickets for calls to or from Winnipeg. Many of the tickets were being sorted and analyzed, the study revealed a variety of opinions about the best way to spell the word Winnipeg.

It is from a Cree word, which sounds, when pronounced by a Cree, approximately like winnipp or winnipee. It means murky water. The telephone operators made a murky matter of the spelling. The spelling Winipeg three times; Winnepeg and Winnipeg, each twice; Winnypeg, Winnepeg, Winnipeg, Winnipeg and Winnipeg, each once. The prize should go to the operator who rendered it as Winnip Egg.

Here in Stratford, we have some faint shadow of claim to serve as an authority, or umpire, in discussions of the way to spell Winnipeg.

The use of the name, for the city in Manitoba, is said to date from 1808, when it was first appeared in print, in a newspaper edited by John Norquay.

The Nor-Wester was a real pioneer among newspapers; it was published at Fort Garry on the site of the present-day Winnipeg (Pop. 500,000), at a time when the settlement had less than 200 people. The founder of the Nor-Wester was William Buckingham and William Caldwell, who suggested the name Winnipeg for the infant community, and first used it in their infant newspaper.

It was the same William Buckingham, who was born 1863 to 1873, proprietor of the Stratford Beacon. He sold the Beacon, in 1873, to Alexander Matheson, when William Buckingham was appointed private secretary to the prime minister of Canada, Hon. Alexander Mackenzie.

It was a Stratford newspaperman, therefore, who had an editorial hand in establishing on Manitoba's capital city the Cree name for murky water. Stratford had the same firmly established in spelling usage and on the map, years before William Buckingham arrived here, so he had no chance to confer on us a name which could be rendered as something like Winnip Egg.

The Buckingham-Coldwell paper, in 1864, spelled it Winnipeg. Perhaps the maps should be revised.

Martin Luther, the reformer and Bible translator, nailed his 95 theses on the church door at Wittenberg Castle 445 years ago today —in 1517. His original theses protested against sale of indulgences by the Dominican monk Johann Tetzel were taken as a "call to arms." Translations spread through Germany like wildfire. Religion Not Voting Guide

Toronto Star

A U.S. sociologist's report that Canadians are more prone than most to vote along religious lines should be taken with a grain of salt.

The sociologist, Robert R. Alford of the University of Wisconsin, examined voting patterns in his own country, Canada, Great Britain and Australia. In Canada, he found, "there is shown little evidence of "class" voting - voters grouping together according to their earnings, occupations and education. But he believed he found a considerable amount of regional and religious voting.

We don't know what criteria the professor used but there would seem to be too many exceptions to justify his conclusions. Canadians may not be class voters—the limited appeal of the CCF and New Democratic parties is proof—but religion is evidence of this. But we doubt that religion is a decisive factor either.

What role, we wonder, did religion play in MacKenzie King's decisions? King, for one, was not a Roman Catholic yet he consistently ran up solid majorities in predominantly Catholic Quebec. Was religious voting responsible for Conservative Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent's popularity outside Quebec in 1949 and his defeat in 1957? The present prime minister, a non-Catholic, won a solid majority in Quebec in 1958 lost it in 1962.

And closer to home, traditionally a hockey town, Belleville last winter, is now residing in Prescott and likely will play with the Prescott team. Arnott was Eddie Thomas' scoring ace last winter and bagged most of the goals for the Belleville team.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Northrup, who spent the summer at their home here on North Front Street, have left for Ottawa where they have purchased a house.

Win for Ted Blow to JFK?

Richmond, Va., Times-Dispatch

A victory for Ted Kennedy in November over George Cabot Lodge for the seat in the U.S. Senate from Massachusetts could be a heavy blow to his brother, President—paradoxical as that may seem.

Such a victory appears to be in prospect, as the Gallup Poll and Ted's astonishing landslide.

Already the Kennedy dynasty argument has developed. Student Kennedy's prestige. A third Kennedy in high public office in Washington is bound to rile a lot of Americans. There has been nothing quite comparable to it in our history.

If Ted can win anything whatever for the United States Senate, it could at least be argued that he is entitled to a seat on that basis.

But his landslide over dons one thing to give him a claim to this office. His total experience has consisted of service as a volunteer assistant district attorney in Boston for a short time to campaigning for his older brother, and travelling abroad on his father's generous loans.

It is no secret that Democratic leaders throughout the country are trying to hold the party over Kennedy—otherwise —and to increase it, if possible in the November elections.

They are worried by the independent candidacy of Stuart Hughes, the scientist son of Mrs. Evans Hughes who got some 118,000 signatures on the petition. If these people vote for Hughes in the election and if most of them would otherwise have gone for Kennedy, Lodge might squeeze by.

But it seems probable that this won't be enough to defeat Kennedy, with the White House actively behind him, and an unlimited campaign fund to draw from.

Chances are we're stuck with Teddy for the indefinite future.

To Your Good Health

There Are Three Different Types of Blood Diseases

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is the difference between mononucleosis, anemia and leukemia? I know that all have something to do with the blood. If I had a check-up and a blood count, how long can you rely on the results? — W.B.

They all are blood diseases and they are detected by different types of tests. Blood may be tested for many single purpose, or it may undergo a variety of tests, so the last question you ask is unanswerable without knowing whether you had a simple or an elaborate examination.

Mononucleosis, which has no relation to anemia or leukemia, is an infectious disease which reflects itself in a predominance of a type of white cell called a monocyte. A fast called a "heterophile reaction" is used, and it has a high quotient of accuracy.

Anemia, on the other hand, may be a deficiency in iron — the red cell does not have enough of it, or there may be a deficiency of red cells. Pernicious anemia, for example, is caused because not enough red cells are being formed; hemolytic anemia means red cells are being destroyed too rapidly, or that some toxic blood loss can be draining cells away.

Determining the presence of anemia is a simple enough test. Determining exactly what type of it is present requires more elaborate tests.

"Leukemia, unlike anemia, is a disease of the white cells. The cells increase in number all out of proportion. Again there are different types: acute or chronic or involving certain types of white cells, as in lymphatic cells.

Here once more the routine blood count, plus other symptoms, give a clue to the trouble, but special examinations are required to pin down the precise nature.

Oh, another point which may be bothering you: In certain phases of leukemia, the red cells can become abnormal. Called a type of anemia, but it is a byproduct of the disease, not basic.

Dear Dr. Molner: Does tea, either iced or hot, make arthritis worse? — Mrs. Z.B.

No, but it seems to me to meddle on how many fool things people say are "good" or "bad" for arthritis. Pay no attention to these folklore notions. These folklore notions.

Dear Doctor: Is eating before going swimming a cause of drowning or cramps? I've heard these old wives' tale. — I.S.D.

The danger is very real, and not all old wives' tales are old wives. It holds true whether you are swimming indoors or outdoors, but is perhaps some what more dangerous in cold water.

The areas in which your blood circulates are not the same at all times. After eating, your system automatically increases circulation in the blood vessels associated with the digestive tract.

This shift in circulation can leave you more subject to cramps — and drowning. Cramps can be disabling enough to cause drowning.

I'll point out that if, caught with cramps while swimming, you don't keep your head, but simply paddle gently, just enough to keep yourself afloat while you call for help, you may well save your life.

But it's far better to wait for an hour and preferably longer after eating before going swimming.

Strictly Personal

Deliberate Cheerfulness Dangerous

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Our test today, dear friends, is taken from the Old Testament Proverbs 17:16 "Is there any use that plesheth his friend with a loud voice, rising early in the morning and shall be counted a curse to him."

I have in mind a particular woman — though nearly every town has a legion — who strides through our village on summer mornings, apparently nearly by the will to all the inhabitants. She is so resolutely cheerful that she makes the birds seem glum and downcast by contrast.

To me, there has always been something hysterical in the nature of such determined cheerfulness; I find it quite as aggressive as the chronic grumpiness of the village malcontent.

Clinically speaking, in fact, the person who rises with the dawn and sets forth to inflict his high spirits upon the multitude is much more likely to crack up than the old grouch who asks only to be let alone in his encrusted way of life.

Before I go any further let me avow my loud laughter that often passages a plunge into deep and permanent melancholy; a certain kind of isn't-everything-just - marvelous attitude that has become hysterically on the edge of mania.

It was no accident that the most pathologically optimistic writer of the 20th century — H.G. Wells — turned into a raving misanthrope toward the end of his life; in scores of books, Wells had been a propagator of the faith that man could rise by his own powers, by reason, by education, by political action, by sharing the ideas and principles of H.G. Wells.

But, however, mankind was plunged into the fierce barbarity of Hitlerism and the Second World War when all the bright and "rational" values Wells had defended were swept into the discard of civilization.

He simply collapsed, and wrote his last books out of sorrow, such hate, such disappointment such lunatic rage that no longbreaking pessimist could ever equal.

The thousands of cases of acute depression that result from the fleers from life in one form or another — these are almost the norm, rather than under the dreadful burden of their perpetual cheerfulness. For such people spirits, not despair, precipate need to rise early in the morning and bless us with a loud voice, coocal more than they express.

We may conceal, of course, is the normal anger, the doubt, the fear, the aggression that is present in all of us, and that must be allowed to trickle out in safe and steady form. The person who rises with the village may cut her throat some fine morning — or her husband.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A book that seems to me to belong on the shelves of every Canadian is "The Voyageurs", by Grace Nute, published first in 1955 by the Minnesota Historical Society in St. Paul. The author, a professor of history, presents a documented picture of the French-Canadian fur trade, a handful of them, but thousands of them, who actually peopled the land, have never stopped to think of as the unexplored wilderness of the Canadian West and North a century before the namely explorers of the late seventeen hundreds and early eighteen hundreds made their historic journeys.

History as well as fiction has accustomed us to the "coureur da bois". Professor Nute quietly points out that many were not class citizens. The true occupiers of the wilderness of the late 1600 and early 1700s were the voyageurs. By the time Wolfe led his 4,800 soldiers up the cliff, there were in the neighborhood of 5,000 voyageurs plying the solid packed trails of northern and western Canada that were well established as were the railroads and highways in due course. Thousands of French Canadians hintered all over the Great Lakes and the Mississippi watershed. In "The Voyageurs", we have countless Canadians who outdavy all the Davy Crockets and Daniel Boones in their sheer romance and inspiration. What do you suppose is the reason English speaking Canadian readers have been deprived of the facts and figures available to Professor Nute?

STOCK QUOTATIONS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market inched ahead in sluggish morning trading today.

All index changes were fractional, with base metals, western oils and industrials showing plus signs.

Gains in a ¼ to ⅝ range went to Abitibi, Massey-Ferguson, Consolidated Paper, Canadian Oil and Interprovincial Pipe Line.

Atlas Steel, Calgary Power, Bank of Montreal and Toronto-Dominion Bank declined ¼, while Bell Telephone, Shawinigan and Royal Bank dipped ⅛.

On the exchange index, industrials rose .90 to 535.52, base metals .10 at 172.83 and western oils .85 at 112.13. Golds dipped .27 at 88.85. The 11 a.m. volume was 563,060 shares compared with 642,000 at the same time Tuesday.

Among base metals, International Nickel advanced ½. Hudson Bay Mining and Consolidated Mining and Smelting declined ⅛ and ¼ respectively. Lake Dufault paced sporting issues, gaining 10 cents to $4.50.

In western oils, Calgary and Edmonton and Rimrock B both rose ⅛. Devon-Palmer advanced one cent to 38 cents on a volume of more than 109,000 shares. Devon-Palmer received a weekend takeover offer from Triad Oil, amounting to 90 cents a share. Devon-Palmer officials have advised shareholders to defer their acceptance of the offer.

The market moved hesitantly higher Tuesday.

Industrials opened on a weak note, falling more than a point on index in the first hour. They trimmed near noon and climbed ahead two points by mid-afternoon, only to ease slightly near the close.

The official spiel will be a familiar one as all five listed issues — Montreal, Nova Scotia, Toronto-Dominion, Royal and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce — showed gains ranging to ⅜.

Canadian Oil, on heavy turnover of 13,000 shares, climbed gained ½. Bell Telephone, Abitibi, CPR, Consumers' Gas, Steel Corporation and Shawinigan all advanced in a ¼ to ½ range.

Among base metals, Noranda gained ½, Falconbridge ¼ and Rio Algom ¼. Hudson Bay Mining dipped ⅛.

Eight Injured As Bus Hits Big Transport

CHALK RIVER, Ont. (CP)—Eight people were injured today when a bus carrying employees to the Atomic Energy of Canada plant here collided with a transport truck.

The extent of their injuries was not immediately known.

The collision occurred about two miles east of this town about 110 miles northwest of Ottawa, as the bus was carrying the workers to their jobs.

Seven of the injured, none of them identified, were taken to hospital at Deep River, a few miles west of here. The eighth, Norman Achtemberg of Pembroke, was taken to hospital in Pembroke. His condition is not serious.

Around The Tee

The members of the Quinte Curling Club, both men and women, are getting ready to start another season of their favorite pastime. For the past week, the new icemaker, Jack Clearwater, with the ice chairman, Everett Black, have been busy preparing the ice sheets and from the looks of them in the initial stage the curlers are going to have real fast ice this winter.

The official spiel will be a busy one as all the committees in charge has gone to great length to even out the teams so that competition will be stiff. It is not expected that the curlers will be in their best stride for the first few games but there is no doubt that when the playoffs start, there will be excellent curling and some outstanding shots made. The spiel will open on Monday evening and continue until Saturday, when the eight top teams enter a one-game playoff. The games will be followed by a buffet lunch and dance and at that time the players can argue and comment on how they won or lost a particular game. There will be 36 rinks in the competition and there will be two draws an evening, at 7 and nine o'clock, with eight ends being played in each draw. The composition of the rinks is as follows:

Rink 1 — Lead — Peter Wamboldt; Second — Evelyn Fairman; Vice — Vera Fairman; Skip — Gil Wamboldt.
2 Gladys Duffy, Ken Pinder, Kae Pinder, Dave Duffy.
3 Gwen Mouncey, Monnie Louise Johnson, Murray Johnson.

The first draw will be held at seven o'clock on Monday evening, providing the ice is ready and rink number one will play rink number two, three will play four, five will play six, and seven will play eight. On the nine o'clock draw nine will play ten, 11 will play 12, 13 will play 14, and 15 will play 16.

On Tuesday there will be three draws at five o'clock, seven o'clock and at nine o'clock and the three-game draw will continue until Friday night. Space will not permit the full draw being published but the draw will be posted and the information above contains the start of the 'spiel,' with the hope everyone will get a real good time for the first week of curling.

No doubt the inside skips will be but in full force and there is a possibility that an election will be held early to fill the vasancy left by Jack McArthur, who was recognized as chairman of the inside Skips' Corporation. The members of Bob Alexander's Club are not eligible for election in this corporation.

Underwater Robot Shown For First Time

PORT HUENEME, Calif. (AP)—The first of an army of underwater robots—capable of opening to exploration the mysterious world now hidden by water—has gone to work.

Shown publicly for the first time Tuesday, Shell Oil Company's mechanical roustabout is a remote - controlled $250,000 gadget that swims, sees, hears and has an arm to turn valves and wield tools.

Designed to help in the drilling and maintenance of oil fields hundreds of feet below the ocean's surface, the robot was hailed by company spokesmen as holding the key to vast oil reserves beyond the reach of conventional methods.

Dr. J. W. Clark of Hughes Aircraft Company, which built the robot for Shell, said deep water drilling is just one of many uses ahead for these mechanical men.

"Man at last has a way of tapping the wealth of the ocean," said Dr. Clark. "Underwater mines, to supplement dwindling surface resources, and underwater stockyards to feed our exploding population, are made now possible on a vast scale."

The 10-foot-tall robot has photocells on opposite sides to enable it to maneuver in the water, a television camera so his shipboard operator can see what it is doing, and arms which can be equipped with socket wrench or claw, and sonar to locate lost tools or wellheads, the capped pipes which extend above the surface of wells.

Hooded Thugs Raid Banker's Home Tie, Gag Family, Total Haul $12

ROCKYFORD, Alta. (CP) — Dad we had robbers," said 17 - year - old Bill O'Connor. "Nothing ever happens in this town."

The eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. O'Connor spoke Tuesday night of an attempted holdup at the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce here, of which his father is manager. Rockyford is 45 miles northeast of Calgary.

Four men with silk stockings pulled over their faces left eight persons bound and gagged with adhesive tape and light rope Monday.

The men escaped with $12 in "pin money," taken from Mr. O'Connor's pockets.

The O'Connors were watching television in their suite above the bank when there was a knock on the door. Six-year-old Tim answered it and a minute later the father was leading four masked men into the living room.

"I was like a Hitlower-en visit," said Mrs. O'Connor. "I thought it was that at first. But one man grabbed me and took all the time and I was afraid he'd pull the trigger."

Mrs. O'Connor said the men sat with the family watching a mystery show on television—"a prison thing that they liked very well."

They fumbled with the family for Bill O'Connor to show up. He came in about 10:15 p.m.

The night clerk, the bank manager to telephone his accountant, David Elder, and tell him to come to the suite. They bound and gagged Elder, Mrs. O'Connor and four of her five children. The sixth was asleep.

After forcing Elder to reveal his part of the combination to the bank vault, the men forced O'Connor downstairs.

Teller James L. Scatheth, 18, was working overtime and when the men couldn't open the boxes inside the vault they escorted him and the manager outside where both were bound.

Then everyone was tied together on the living-room floor. Their eyes and mouths were covered with adhesive tape.

O'Connor said the men were "polite and not at all brutal." He said he was in the bank with them about 30 minutes. He wriggled out of the rope in a few minutes and called police.

Fluoridation Debated by Two Experts

TORONTO (CP) — A University of Toronto chemist says it is impossible as yet to determine whether dental disease is produced by fluoridation of water supplies.

Dr. James L. Rae, associate professor of chemistry, said no reputable medical or dental body has gone on record as guaranteeing the harmlessness and safety of fluoridation because none of the experiments in artificial fluorides has gone on long enough.

He said "it is important to realize that no proof of harm is not the same as proof of no harm."

Dr. Rae and Dr. A. E. Berry, general manager of the Ontario Water Resources Commission, were debating the merits of fluoridation at a meeting Tuesday of the Chemical Institute of Canada.

"Fluoridation of water does protect against dental caries," said Dr. Berry. "This has been established beyond any shadow of doubt."

FOLLOW PATTERN

He said leading experts in many fields have voiced their support for fluoridation. He said arguments against fluoridation are following the same pattern as those p a i n s t vaccination, chlorination of water and pasteurization of milk.

Dr. Rae said fluorides are deadly poisons and when taken into the body accumulate in the bones, teeth and other organs.

"The fact that fluoride at one part per million does not cause acute poisoning does not alter the fact that eventually chronic intoxication will occur."

Cannifton U.C.W. Sponsor Attractive Tea and Bazaar

The Cannifton United Church Women held a most successful tea and bazaar recently in the Sunday School rooms, when the president, Mrs. D. Brenton warmly welcomed the patrons at the door. Mrs. H. Farnham played soft music at the piano.

In the absence of the minister's wife, Mrs. Dawson, the guests were welcomed by Mrs. F. Furmidge who officially declared the bazaar open for business.

The color scheme throughout was in soft autumn colors of brown and gold. The C.G.I.T. booth in charge of Mrs. D. Milton was most attractive with its numerous handicraft articles made by the girls and their leaders. The apron booth was as colorful as a spring garden and offered for sale many aprons large and small; mother and daughter sets; all in lovely colors and styles which was in charge of Mrs. Roy Pound and Mrs. George Lywood. Next was the touch and take table and adjacent to this the delicious homemade candy displayed in colorfully wrapped packages. This was in charge of Mrs. F. Putman and Mrs. Amab Akey.

DELICIOUS HOMECOOKING

The homebaking table was most tempting with its array of pies; cakes; assorted cookies; pickles; fruit; and eggs and this was soon sold out by those in charge, Mrs. T. Howard, Mrs. H. Brenton, Mrs. J. Botting and Mrs. Earl Anderson.

The evening group with Mrs. Dawson in charge had an attractive booth of different sizes of lovely colored vases and artificial flowers, which was convened by Mrs. Gordon McPherson. The fancy work booth offered for sale lovely homecraft articles such as home knit socks; mittens, crocheted doilies, cushions, tea towels, pillow cases, jewellery and books; also three well-made quilts. Mrs. W. Brenton and Mrs. Billings-Steele convened this display.

The flower and vegetable table was laden with African violets and small plants; ivy and bitter sweet; and a variety of vegetables with Mrs. H. Pound and Mrs. Roy Pound in charge. The fish pond always a great delight to children was sold out in no time and this was taken care of by Mrs. Ralph Plumpton.

PRETTY TEA ROOM

Mrs. Bruce Walsh warmly welcomed the guests to the tea room. Placed at pleasing intervals around the room were Hallowe'en masks and a lovely arrangement of autumn blooms adorned the piano. The tea table with its lovely lace tablecloth showing yellow through the design was centred with a large silver bowl filled with yellow and bronze 'mums, flanked by tall bronze tapers in silver candelabra and at each end was the gleaming silver tea service. Plates of small cakes and cookies and a variety of dainty sandwiches gave a most appetizing appearance.

Those pouring tea were: Mrs. H. Empson, Mrs. A. Boyd, Mrs. W. Cole and Mrs. Farnham. The small guest tables were covered with white luncheon cloths and centred with small figurines filled with orange and yellow flowers. Those serving here were; Mrs. D. Graham, Mrs. M. Mitchell, Mrs. Joy, Mrs. F. Bird, Mrs. H. Putman, Mrs. F. Holgate, Mrs. R. Putman and Mrs. Reed, and those replenishing were: Mrs. D. Collett and Mrs. F. Furmidge Sr. Mrs. Cole and Mrs. C. Bird made a delicious cup of tea. Mrs. F. Windsor and Mrs. A. Holgate were the treasurers for the afternoon.

Many thanks are due to Mrs. B. Walsh and her committees and to all who helped in any way.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS BY PATRICIA LEWIS

IS HOSTESS OBLIGED TO CONSIDER DIETERS?

Since practically everyone's on some kind of diet, a hostess and her guests, unless they're extremely polite about it, conceivably might be pulling in different directions at a dinner party.

For her part, the hostess values her cuisine, and doesn't, of course, want to see how many calories she bakes into it, as long as the meat is tender and juicy and the gravy is smooth and rich.

The fairly typical guest, though, puts more stock in his waistline, and, while he may indulge himself a bit more than usual on a special occasion, he doesn't care to surrender his calorie count without putting up some show of resistance.

The problem always becomes more acute this time of the year. There are more parties to go to, and hostesses tend to be more lavish with their menus.

Actually, though, things work out quite well at both ends of the scale when both parties to this congenial tug-of-war adopt a gallant attitude toward it. Here are some tips on how both sides may come to terms graciously:

While the particularly polite guest could sample a bit of every food that's offered, it's still possible to indicate small portions when the food is passed — or take just a sampling of each, if he's in a position to help himself.

High-calorie gravies and sauces may be declined as a matter of course, whether the host and hostess do the serving or the food is presented on platters by a waitress.

Before-dinner cocktails may be passed up in favor of something more compatible with his dietary tastes. The same holds true for wine served with dinner. A guest may feel free to answer in the negative when the brew is passed in his direction. The hostess, on the other hand, has the exercise control in another direction. Often when a guest refuses a before-dinner drink or begs off trying her home-made pate, the impulse is to offer a mild insistance. When a guest declines, it's up to the hostess to smilingly ignore the refusal. The prospect without causing the guest to unmask his motive or — worse yet — to haplessly take something for which he has no appetite.

For just such emergencies, the perfect hostess makes sure that a low-calorie punch or her calorie-conscious guests. Juice is available, so that the non-imbibing guest can quench his thirst without going down for a calorie count.

Who preparing the food for service, a smart hostess sees to it that portions are small. This is satisfactory to low-calorie guests, while those with a higher intake can take seconds or thirds if they wish. She also asks each guest if he wants a particular gravy or sauce, instead of ladling it on as she serves.

It's this sort of give-and-take that makes any dinner party successful for both hostess and her calorie-conscious guests.

St. Columba Church Holds Fine Harvest Tea, Bazaar

St. Columba Presbyterian Church was gaily decorated in keeping with the harvest theme in autumn colors of red, gold, green and brown for the Harvest Tea and bazaar held at the church last Saturday afternoon.

The event under the co-convenorship of Mrs. A. Dunsmore and Mrs. J. Hayman was officially opened by the Rev. Norman Hutchinson, minister of the church. Mrs. N. Hutchinson and Mrs. J. Hayman presidents of the two women's organizations in the church, warmly welcomed the many patrons at the door.

The tea room which was tastefully decorated in keeping with the theme, with sprays of golden and white flowers and colorful scarecrows lining the walls, was convened by Mrs. R. Blatchford. Here, the tea table was most attractive, centred with a tray laden with harvest fruits and vegetables and flanked with yellow and golden candles set in green squash candle holders. Inviting the guests to the tea room where each of the guest tables was centred with a golden cornucopia set on a golden sprayed wooden base, and holding a luscious bunch of grapes, were Mrs. J. R. Morrison and Mrs. E. J. McLaughlin.

The ladies who poured tea during the afternoon were: Mesdames A. Cathcart; Fyfe; R. G. McKay; C. Ryan; G. Miller and A. Dunsmore. Those serving were: Mesdames C. Rendell; R. Simmons; M. Gara; P. Tyrrell; L. Johnston; C. Adamson, and Riley; also the Misses Anne Morrison; Mary Killeen; Marianne Baker; Louise Fisher; Karen Somers; Sharon Mulholland; Nancy Howell and Linda Whitman. Replenishing the plates of goodies were: Mesdames A. Olavson; W. Willis; R. Alexander and Misses Joan Ward and those who attended the necessary kitchen duties were: Mesdames F. Baldwin; D. Pollard; R. Mc-Donald; K. D. Taylor; A. Turrbull; W. Royle; M. Duesberry; W. Ashley and C. Rendell. The treasurer for the afternoon was Mrs. J. Fullerton.

The numerous sales booths were also appropriately decorated in keeping with the harvest color scheme.

C.G.I.T. BOOTH

The C.G.I.T. felt booth in charge of Mrs. M. Shotesbury and Mrs. N. Mabood had for sale a grand array of felt items such as bertels, book marks, placques, purses, little boy's ties, needle holders and a colorful braided rug. The C.G.I.T. members who also assisted were: Susan Kilpatrick; Sherrill Taylor; Nancy Howell; Sharon Mulholland; Karen Lloyd; Karen Somers and Linda Whitman.

The choir, with Mrs. R. Brain in charge, was responsible for the one large booth which was actually three booths in one. The first, a white elephant table, had a good supply of miscellaneous items including jewelry, puzzles, books, lamp shades and many other articles. The toy table was next which was a delight to the youngsters with its variety of brightly-colored wooden trains, cowboy hats, hair bows, batons and doll beds. The candy table was especially enticing with boxes of home-made chocolates, suckers dressed as little girls with dresses on and a variety of maple creame and fudges. The children were particularly interested in this triple table as items were most reasonably priced with some at five and ten cents each. Those who assisted at this table were all members of the junior choir and were as follows: Gayle Hayman Barbara Hayman, Marlene Adamson, Brian Mahood, Wayne Fyffe, Rhonda Alexander, Suzanne Alexander, Mary Lu Taylor, Susan Rendell, Mi-d McLaughlin, Cathy MacDonald, Kathy Phillips, Polly Pleschken, Debbie Broad, Gail Simmons, Marney Simmons and Jody Farmer.

The homecooking, as usual, was a popular drawing card with a grand assortment of delicacies including pumpkin, lemon and apple pies, date and banana loaves, brownies, many tarts, and home-made bre-d. This was convened by Mrs. J. Bakker, assisted by Mrs. G. Ward and Mrs. A. Dunsmore.

Mrs. R. Scott was the convene- of the doll and baby booth which had a generous supply of items including baby knitted suits, bonnets, bootees, baby bibs, pyjamas, dolls' dresses, hats and mittens. Assisting here were Mrs. J. Cathcart and Mrs. R. MacDonald.

MANY APRONS

The apron booth convened by Mrs. G. Devolin was laden with a fine assortment of aprons in many colors, styles and materials—some mother and daughter sets, the cocktail variety, tea aprons, overall aprons, all so suitable for gift giving. Mrs. S. Mulholland also assisted at this table.

One of the most popular booths where purchases could be made for a quarter was the parcel post for those liking to "take a chance" there was a wide choice of items. Mrs. A. Dunsmore was the convener and she was assisted by Stephen Dunsmore.

The men's booth in charge of Mr. W. Willis was not to be outdone and had a wide range of objects for sale including gaily printed beach boats, trays, nursery plaques, paintings, large bouquets of mums, apples, potatoes, onions, pumpkins, and various house plants. Lorne and Jim Blatchford and Stephen Boyle assisted the convener.

Much credit is due the co-conveners for the overwhelming success of this special event.

Teen-Agers Are Praised For Work

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. C. W. Sheridan of Ottawa, president of the Women's Hospital Auxiliaries Association of Ontario, praised teen-agers Monday for their work in hospitals.

She spoke to 500 delegates at the opening session of the three-day WHAA meeting, being held in conjunction with the Ontario Hospital Association Convention.

"We have well over 1,000 teen-agers assisting 33 auxiliaries and hospitals throughout the province, including a few b oys volunteers," Mrs. Sheridan said.

She also reported that nine auxiliaries have enlisted the aid of 169 men volunteers.

Mrs. George H. Raymond of Brockville, public relations director, reported 15 new auxiliaries and a total of 200 affiliated auxiliaries serving 183 Ontario hospitals.

She said that of the $1,119,245 raised by members, $754,644 was given to hospitals to purchase everything from an incubator to full equipment for an operating room.

Gamma Mu Honors Four New Pledges

Gamma Mu honored its new pledges last evening by holding a Hallowe'en costume party at the home of Mrs. Roy Jeffrey. The new pledges are: Mrs. James Clary; Mrs. M. Sweezey, Mrs. Dean Broadfoot, and Mrs. Paul Kelly.

First prize for the best costume was won by Mrs. Paul Kelly, who was dressed as a Spanish dancer. Other prizes for costumes were won by Mrs. Dean Broadfoot and Mrs. Helen Woodland.

Games enjoyed by all were organized by Mrs. William Heaven, and Miss Elizabeth Black. Everyone then popped popcorn, and Mrs. A. Hall gave a demonstration on how to make Christmas tags.

It was also announced that president, Mrs. Roy Jeffrey, had presented a Beta Sigma Phi scholarship to Miss Mary Montgomery at the recent Belleville Collegiate commencement.

Members of the social committee, Mrs. Kenneth Ross, Miss Judith Klein and Mrs. Doreen Greer, served refreshments.

Young Couple Feted With Gifts, Money

FRANKFORD — A miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mrs. Sam Barkman on Saturday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Spong (nee Beverley Reilly.)

Moving pictures included the wedding ceremony, were shown during the evening.

Chairman Paul Spurrell presented the bride and bridegroom with several lovely gifts and also a gift of money from Emmanuel Gospel Sunday School.

Ted and Beverley thanked their many friends for their kindnesses.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Sam Barkman and Mrs. Gordon Orr assisting.

Christ Church C.C. Members Entertain

On Monday evening members of the Contact Club of Christ Church were pleased to be hostesses to their husbands and also to the Reverend and Mrs. Fleming.

The program was directed by Barbara Janes and her group, and everyone joined in the games and fun.

A "Relay" game kept everyone busy drawing pictures and guessing what it could be.

Following this bowling was enjoyed as well as ping-pong, bean-bag and a game of ring toss.

In the small hall, card tables were set up and you could choose your own game from Chinese checkers, Sorry, rake cards and many others with prizes galore.

Orange and black was the color decor appropriately chosen for this season of the year. The Hallowe'en theme was carried out in the table decorations with orange candles and a huge Jack-o-lantern.

A buffet lunch was served topped off with pumpkin cakes made by Trudy Sands.

As the evening drew to a close Les Lennox expressed the thanks of the husbands to their wives for the enjoyable time the evening had provided.

On November 4, the club is having corporate Communion at 8.00 a.m. The members are reminded of this special occasion and the breakfast afterwards.

WEDDING

GALPIN — WESTFALL

Multi-colored gladioli formed a lovely setting in St. Joseph's Catholic Church for the recent marriage of Sandra Joan Westfall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Westfall, Belleville, to Ronald Edgar Galpin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Galpin, Belleville, with the Rev. Father Buckley officiating.

Traditional wedding music was rendered by Mr. Ed Brown which included the "Wedding March," "O Gloriosa Virginum" and "Panis Angelicus."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a floor-length bridal gown fashioned with a rose-pattern design over the entire gown and featuring a round scoop neckline with long pointed sleeves. Her headdress, a round tiara of sparkling rhinestones, held in place her waist-length veil of white net and she carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses interminged with white stephanotis.

Miss Gale Westfall, Belleville, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, wearing a pink chiffon street-length dress with pink accessories and carried a bouquet of pink carnations and white mums. The bridesmaids, Miss Nancy Dorland and Miss Elva Asselstine, both of Belleville, were similarly gowned in mint green chiffon accented by scoop necklines, short cap sleeves and featuring a panel down the front. They wore matching mint green hats with short veils.

Mr. Nelson Patterson, Belleville attended the bridegroom while Mr. Stephen Galpin, Belleville and Mr. Dennis Galpin, Toronto, were ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Club Canara where the bridal table was prettily appointed with white cloth and decorations and an assortment of artificial flowers and centred with a pink tier wedding cake. The bride's mother received the guests wearing a medium brown crepe dress featuring a scoop neckline with brown and beige accessories and a corsage of yellow mums. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who wore a two-piece medium green silk dress, white accessories, and a corsage of yellow mums.

For the wedding trip to Ottawa, Niagara Falls, Kitchener, London, Windsor and Detroit the bride chose a three-piece beige and brown English wool suit, beige velvet and net hat, beige and brown accessories and a corsage of yellow and white baby mums.

Guests were present from London, Trenton, Oshawa, Desoronto and Belleville.

On the Wednesday previous to the wedding a shower was held at the home of a great aunt of the bridegroom, Mrs. Lena Carson.

Mr. and Mrs. Galpin will reside at 23 Greenlawn Avenue, Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs.—Ronald Edgar Galpin, Belleville, are shown cutting the wedding cake at the reception following their recent marriage in St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church, Belleville. The bride is the former Sandra Joan Westfall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Westfall, Belleville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Galpin, Belleville.

Check Family Diet First Before Buying Vitamins

By PATRICIA RURAK

TORONTO (CP)—The word "vitamins" seems to mean the same thing to consumers as "deodorant" — buy, buy, buy. But next time you are tempted by those shiny bottles lining drug store shelves go home and check the family diet first.

"All the vitamins a person needs, except perhaps for vitamin D, are supplied by a normal, healthy diet," says Marjorie Phillips, an assistant professor in the faculty of household science, University of Toronto.

Vitamin D, however, active in building tissues but not abundant in foods, must often be taken in concentrated form by growing children, pregnant women and older people who seldom get out into the sunshine.

The healthy daily diet, as described by the federal department of health and welfare, consists of milk, fruit (citrus or tomatoes or their juices and another fresh fruit), vegetables (one serving of potatoes and another of leafy green, yellow or raw), whole grain cereal, bread, eggs and meat, poultry or fish.

NOT TOO FATTENING

"Eating each of these foods every day does not mean that one will needs to be heavy." Those who are reducing can eat a portion of all of them and still keep their diet under 1,000 calories a day, says Miss Phillips.

"The most common fallacy in buying vitamins is that you should try to get the most for your money." For example, if one label says 2,000 units of vitamin A while another reads 5,000 units, the consumer will probably buy the latter thinking she is getting more for her money.

"She forgets that if she serves one-half a cantelope to each member of her family they will get all the vitamin A they need for that day."

And it is ridiculous to take pills containing 10 milligrams of thiamine when the daily requirement is one milligram, says Miss Phillips.

The daily requirement of vitamins A, B (thiamine, riboflavin and niacin), C and D is quite small, says Miss Phillips.

"There is no evidence that if you have more vitamins than you need that you'll get additional pep over and above that which you would have if you followed a normal diet and were in good health."

And a massive overdose of vitamins, for example 75,000 units of vitamin A for several months, can often have harmful effects. An overdose of vitamin A could result in dullness of the skin, nausea and general loss of appetite, and an overdose of vitamin D could lead to bone damage.

Miss Phillips now is studying the effects of excess B vitamins on growing rats, a beginning to learning how excess B vitamins might affect the human body processes. She has found that under certain conditions, there are harmful effects.

"There are legitimate reasons when massive doses of vitamins are necessary for certain illnesses, but then a doctor should prescribe the appropriate vitamin and dosage."

Wedding Ring Club Visits County Home

The Wedding Ring Club of College Hill United Church met recently in the church hall with a large number of couples in attendance.

After the reading of the minutes and the treasurer's report a request for donations to the Cake and Bowls rummage sale was made. Articles for same would be greatly appreciated. Ron MacDonald enquired in regards to the availability of a trunk for Scouting equipment which was urgently needed. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis McMillin are to fill in as group leaders in the place of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Moyer who expect to leave the community soon.

The ladies of group two under in charge of the devotional and Mesdames Moyer, McMullen, Waite, Vessey, Belcour and Mason took part in prayer, worship and Scripture reading. Lela Belcour read a story of a person who wanted to be a good king. He remembered the time is now to help others in need and Mrs. Vessey led in prayer. The Bible study was taken in three groups and was from Isaiah. After a brief discussion Vera Moyer read an explanation of the Scripture which was a most interesting study period.

Monty Moorcroft was in charge of the recreational portion and this was in the form of a rehearsal for the entertainment of the residents of the County Home. After a period of musical enjoyment in which many talents were displayed a bountiful lunch was served by Group 2.

Last Wednesday evening the Club visited Hastings County Home where they put on a fine program with the residents joining in with some parts of the entertainment. Monty Moorcroft was master of ceremonies for this event. A double quartet consisting of Muriel and Don Dafoe, June and Boyd Moorcroft, Ralph and Vera Moyer, Art Greenwood, Monty Moorcroft and Orford Lott were sang "The Royal Telephone" accompanied at the piano by Nellie Greenwood. Florence Watson with Annis Dickens assisting performed a magical mind reading act which demonstrated thought, inspiration and tricky telepathy with the residents participating in various parts. This was well received and provided much merriment as well as mystery. Ralph Moyer in his inimitable comic manner rendered "The Little White Duck" and also a favorite "My Two Front Teeth," confirmed in a little boy's outfit and was accompanied at the piano by Vera Moyer. The choral group rendered several numbers with the men singing "Neath the Crust of the Old Apple Pie" and the ladies garbed in gay bonnets and blue plastic ribbons sang "Put on Your Old Gray Bonnet." They also sang "Let the Rest of the World Go By." Bill McIlquham and daughter Judy played a duet and Art Greenwood reminisced about an event which happened many years ago. To close the fine program Annis Dickens read a short program.

Mrs. Yorke expressed sincere appreciation to the Club and hoped they could return again in the near future to entertain the residents.

A social hour followed when ice cream and cookies, were served and a time of fellowship was enjoyed by all.

W. I. Meet Based on Hist. Research

MELROSE — The October meeting of Melrose W.I. took place at Melrose Community Hall with Mrs. H. McCracken and Mrs. T. Howard as hostesses.

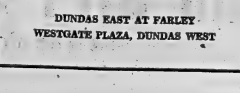
The president, Mrs. M. Lester welcomed all and conducted the opening exercises.

A short business session followed with the secretary, Mrs. R. McLaren reading an interesting letter from the mother of "Sung Soon Sim," the young girl in Korea whom the Institute has adopted. She is in 1st Grade and has two brothers. It was decided to forward a substantial sum of money as a Christmas gift rather than send a parcel as the postage is excessive. Mrs. T. Howard and Mrs. Don McLaren, leaders of the Girls' Club attended the Training School at Stirling and the subject was "Separates for Summer." Their report greater interest in this worthwhile project.

Mrs. S. Geneja, convener of historical research presented the topic, "McKenzie Rebellion in the Light of Today's Freedom," assisted by Mrs. C. Weese and Mrs. C. Bates, Jr. She had given this subject much study and thought regarding her information from the library and other authentic sources, emphasizing that there is a tremendous history behind so each should refresh their memories along this line to impress the great heritage of forming one's own opinions. Wm. Lyon McKenzie was most energetic, daring and emotional, fiery and willing to defend himself and the rights of others. She traced the growth of Canada from its infancy and vividly pictured the country as it broadened out to the great Dominion.

A sketch entitled "The Rebel's Grandson," read by Mrs. C. Bates revealed that after the Rebellion of 1837 he fled to the United States but when his rebellion succeeded in a slow peaceful process of evolution to responsible government he returned to Toronto and was elected to the new Parliament and died quietly at home.

Hidden from him, the century ahead held another career and the work of his grandson, Wm. Lyon McKenzie King played a strong part in it. His mother whose character was a rare fusion of gentleness and strength influenced and stimulated him greatly as he listened to her tale of exile and the story of the Rebellion. Her extraordinary influence and guidance filled him with zeal and was most powerful in influencing his life. Canadians will long argue the success and failures of his years in office but no one who has studied them can fail to see that they were inspired throughout by the Rebel.



Mrs. C. Weese read the "Canadian Bill of Rights," which was passed in 1960 by the Diefenbaker administration which makes one indeed proud of one's country and its freedom.

Mrs. Geneja summarized and urged members to take more interest in what is taking place in the nation and as mothers to take inventory and the great role mothers play in this capacity.

A lively "quiz" along historical facts brought this evening to a close and the president thanked Mrs. Geneja for her thought - provoking program after which a delicious lunch was served.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Jerome N.: He's making a mistake to move down town.

Henry N.: I'm tired of keeping up a front for show.

Jerome N.: Before Henry signs on the dotted line and there's no turning back I want him to see clearly what he's doing. He's in the advertising business where the so-called superficias are important. By living in the right part of town, he's been able to entertain easily. His apartment on The Avenue is easy to get to, safe to leave in the wee hours. In addition, his prestige address gives him a head start, an immediate "in" with new contacts.

He's lived in the same place for 30 years. In that time his business has flourished. Now he wants to move to a downtown middle-income housing development. It's in a crowded east section, unattractive to visitors. I'm a chemist and in my line of work I can live where I want. In Henry's, he can't.

Henry N.: I think what's really bothering my brother is that he will no longer be able to brag about his "brother on The Avenue." He and his wife have enjoyed bringing the visiting firemen, friends and relations for a view of the park and lake from our penthouse.

My wife and I have reached a point where we wish to live simply and honestly. The truth is, my business didn't maintain the scale of living we assumed. My wife's job took up the slack. But now we plan to live on what I make. The clients who like me for the quality of my work will follow me no matter where I live. The ones who hired me for my status address can find someone else. I'll manage. The big advantage is that I'll be living within my means, not keeping up a rich front. At this point, I seek authenticity.

The Council: Things are so dim what they seem, skim milk masquerades as cream," observed Mr. Gilbert to the tune of Mr. Sullivan's "Pinafore" score.

Well, Henry is after that elusive "seldom." He wants a few things that are what they seem, ills contentment and comfort. Some people go after those from the start. Others are willing to give them up indefinitely in the interests of keeping up a front and getting ahead. But Henry feels he's served his time as a perfect model of a model Madison Avenue and that the gray flannel suit itches. He's ready to shed the costume, the scenery and the labels.

His brother makes the mistake of measuring what Henry's giving up and what Henry's gaining, on the cold scales of former values, former goals. But Henry has scrapped them. He now seeks to get down to the essentials — a loaf of bread (okay, enriched!), a jug of wine (plain domestic) and over his head a roof whose rental can be met each month with a shrug instead of a wrench.

The old order changeth, Jerome. Henry has reached a stage of life where pretense isn't fun any more, and its returns don't pay in emotional terms, even if they do financially. The new order, with its hobest address and its modest budget, relieves him of a 20-year-old burden — that of pretending he's someone he isn't — a big-money executive. At last he can be a "miner" executive, living on whatever comes in.

Psychologists have isolated one basic fear which is, perhaps the most pervasive in our society today, namely the fear of being found out. It assails everyone who dissembles, fakes, oversells, exaggerates. It may well be responsible for the vast use of tranquillizers, anxiety-quieters.

Henry has turned to the best tranquilizer of all — the simple, solvent life. The "disadvantages" his brother warns against don't register with him — or us.

U.C.W. Plan Workshop Program

The Leadership Development Committee of the Belleville Presbyterial United Church Women met recently at the home of the chairman, Mrs. George Carlisle, Stirling. Workshop program was fully discussed and workshops have been arranged in Bancroft on Tuesday afternoon and Newburgh, November 8th; Bloomfield, Wednesday afternoon and Trenton King St. United Church, the evening of Nov. 7th.

Miss Beatrice Wilson, assistant secretary of the Board of Women of the United Church of Canada will give a full hour demonstration on study group at each meeting.

These workshops are placed at strategic centres for the convenience of personnel and all United Church Women in the Belleville Presbyterial are invited to attend.

Community Honors Couple At Shower

Friends, neighbors and relatives gathered Saturday evening at the Plainfield Orange hall, where a community shower was held in honor of the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. John Hazard (nee Joan Dickey), of Belleville.

The Rev. Robert Nicholls acted as chairman for a short, but enjoyable program. Mr. Ray Dickey, Mrs. William Wickens of Belleville and Mrs. Raymond Godbout of Halloway gave musical selections.

Mr. Nicholls sang a solo, and Mrs. Harrison contributed several musical selections on the "electric organ." Mrs. Blanche Emerson gave readings, the first directed to the groom, the second to the bride, and the third "Warnings to Both."

The happy couple were given seats of honor and an address was read on behalf of the community by Mrs. Harold Treverton. The presentation of a beautiful walnut finished buffet was made by Jack Hall, Harry Reid, Howard Elliott and Harold Treverton.

John and Joan expressed their sincere thanks and gratitude to everyone assembled for their thoughtfulness and efforts to make this evening a success. They also extended an invitation to visit them in their home in Belleville.

Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

Rice Pudding Promoted

by Mary Moore

Enthusiasts often bear down on me after they have been dining out and tell me about the wonderful dishes they have tasted.

This is fine and I expect my friends and relatives to let me know what they have eaten that has been exceptionally good. But when the trial time arrives to reproduce this remembered treasure, doubts creep in.

But I have a sister who is a trusted taster and tester and she was the enthusiast who returned from a posh luncheon at a private club, exclaiming over a delicate rice pudding she had been served. I said, "That's fine. Will you experiment with it and when you have successfully reproduced it, let me taste it?"

WEDNESDAY
(Hallowe'en)
Dinner Menu

Jack-O-Lantern Burgers (see Monday) or Turkey (or Chicken) Crunch Casserole (see Tuesday); Dills; Corn (on the Cob if available); Sliced Tomatoes on Lettuce; Orange Sherbet; Cinnamon Snaps (see Tuesday); Coffee.

She did just that but her measure is always piled up and running over for she brought two full-sized rice puddings for dessert for a dinner party I was giving.

RICE PUDDING No. 1

(Double Boiler.) In top of double boiler cook together ½ cup raw long-grain rice, 4 cups homogenized milk and ½ teaspoon salt for about 2 hours until rice is tender, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat and add 16 (or 18) large marshmallows (or 2 cups, packed, miniature marshmallows) cut small and stir. Also add 1 20-oz. can well-drained pineapple chunks and when almost cool stir in another 1 cup chopped or miniature marshmallows. Chill overnight. Serve in stemmed glasses. Delicate, popular and easy.

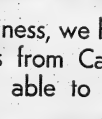
RICE PUDDING No. 2

(Baked—with Pineapple or Raisins.) 5 cups milk (1 quart), 2-3 cups uncooked raw long-grain rice, ½ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 1 can pineapple chunks, drained, or 1 to 1½ cups raisins, Sultanas or fat seeded.

Mix milk, rice, sugar and salt in baking dish and cook for 2½ hours at 300 deg. Fahr. Stir occasionally to keep rice from settling and also to keep skin from forming on surface. Beat eggs slightly, add a little of the hot mixture to the eggs. Then return to casserole, and add drained pineapple chunks (or diced pineapple) or raisins, and bake one-half hour longer.

Serve hot or cold with whole milk or pouring cream.

When rice pudding was on the luncheon menu three out of four men dining at a private club selected it.



Serve to your family one of the rice puddings Mary Moore gives today and watch their eyes light up.

In-Law-to-Be Meddles in Marriage

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—My brother-in-law's girl friend is our only problem. You see, before I met my husband she always used to arrange for him to date her girl friends. Any other girl that he dated, and brought home, she soon fixed it so that girl never came around.

Well, it didn't work with me. All this over and done with, but now that we are married, she's bringing around a girl he had an affair with before. This girl plays up to him and calls him "Honey" and when I'm there, or when I find out, well I feel like smacking her one.

My brother-in-law's girl friend knows I dislike her, but I don't think she knows what happened between them. My mother-in-law knows all this too, but hates for me to say anything since she will marry my husband's brother some day, and she doesn't want fighting in the family. Well, neither do I.

My husband was going to tell his brother's girl just what this girl was like, but it would only cause trouble and she wouldn't listen anyway. I know his brother's girl is trying to break up our marriage.—MRS. C. B.

DEAR MRS. C. B.—Just present a united front. Your siren will sooner or later grasp the idea that she is getting nowhere with her erstwhile boy friend. Then the in-law-to-be will have to give up matchmaking for keeps.

• • •

DEAR DORIS—Here is my problem: There will be three dances in my home town and Mom won't even let me go to one of them just for a little while. There is no trouble of how to go or how to come back; we are in town.

I am thirteen. I know I am still young, but it is so rarely we have dances here, but it's no use asking her. She tells me definitely not. Some of the girls go around that age. Is Mom right? I will take your advice. Thank you. —EMBARRASSED.

DEAR EMBARRASSED—I am afraid I agree with your mother this time. I cannot see a young lady of thirteen going unescorted to a dance.

• • •

DEAR DORIS—I have been divorced for three years and going steady with another man. I love him very much, but I am not sure if he loves me. His actions and thoughts tell me he does. But since the notice of his divorce, he has been quite upset and nervous. Do you think he still loves his wife and doesn't want to tell me in case he hurts me?

He has told his friends he has gained more in life with me than he ever did. I don't want to make another mistake in life. When he takes a few drinks he tells me he loves me; but never otherwise.

I'm very good to him, although he knows I don't make much money. Any spare time he has he spends with me, but he is very quiet—MIXED UP.

• • •

DEAR MIXED UP—My guess is he loves you but loves freedom too. Once bitten twice shy. He doesn't want to make a second mistake any more than you do. When all the upset of divorce is over, ask him what his intentions are.

(For a boost in morale, write to Doris. Be sure to enclose that stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

MADOC—The Oct. meeting of the Madoc Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. R. O'Riordan Sr. with 22 members and four visitors present and Mrs. Warren Hill, the president, opened the meeting.

Minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. George McCrimmon. The report on the Fair was given by the treasurer, Mrs. Bailey which was most encouraging and everyone was thanked for their help. During the business session it was decided to take a bus trip to the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto. A donation will be given to the Junior Institute for their Hallowe'en party which is to be held in Madoc. A donation of $50 was given to the rink committee to help toward remodelling the Madoc skating rink. All members were asked to bring something to the next meeting in November which will be auctioned off at this meeting, which will be held at the home of Mrs. K. Nicol.

Mrs. E Moore gave a report on the Consumers News telling the ladies not to be misled by the packaging but to read the small print on the package. Mrs. Kernohan gave the motto which was "Do we appreciate our autumn trees in color?"

Mrs. K. Nicol, convener of Canadian industries was in charge of the program and gave the early history of Algonquin Provincial Park. She also showed coloured slides of the park and explained that as far back as 4000 years ago the Algonquins visited Algonquin highlands. The white men came along and tried logging and farming, but all these were transient operations. The interior continued to resist the inroads of civilization; so to insure that it would never be permanently settled it was set aside as a wilderness reservation by the Algonquin Park Act of 1893. Algonquin Park is now the largest Provincial Park in Ontario and contains 2910 square miles of forests, lakes and streams. There are many facilities available along Highway 60 which stretches for 35 and one half miles through the southern portion of the Park. The slides shown were of campsites, the museum, pioneer logging exhibits, the entrance gates, animals at the Wildlife Research Station and the colorful autumn trees.

Mrs. H. Snapp expressed appreciative thanks to Mrs. O'Riordan and to all those who had contributed to the program.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

U.C.W. Meetings

WHITE'S U.C.W.

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Mrs. Clayton Sickels opened her home on Thursday evening for the regular meeting of the White's United Church Women with the president, Mrs. T. F. Townsend, and nine members present. The theme of the meeting was "Thoughtfulness and Thankfulness."

The devotional service was taken by Mrs. W. Jeffery who read Matthew 6:25-34. Mrs. W. Yaleman read "In Defence of Wastefulness." All joined in singing, "Take My Life and Let It Be" followed by prayer by the Rev. Townsend. Mrs. Jerwyn Palmer read "Words of a Wise Woman."

It was decided to cater to the Centenary A.T.O.S. Club in December. The minutes of September meeting were read and approved. Mrs. R. Ketcheson read, "Forgive Me When I Whine." Mrs. J. Palmer thanked the ladies for cards sent when she was ill.

Mrs. Townsend read from the Study Book, "When Papa reads the Bible."

A letter was read regarding the U.C.W. workshop to be held in King St. United Church on November 7th with Miss Beatrice Wilson in charge.

The hostess served a refreshments and a social time was enjoyed

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the hostess.

Neighborettes Honor Couple At Presentation

WELLINGTON — The Consecon Street Neighborettes met recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ott Bowerman on the occasion of a party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. David Pritz, recent newlyweds.

There were several tables of crokinole enjoyed with their prizes going to Clayton Cruickshank, men's high; Mrs. Ann Herridge, ladies' high; Mrs. Grace Couperus, playing on a man's ticket, men's low, and Mrs. Diane Pritz, ladies' low.

Mrs. Clayton Cruickshank read an address written for the occasion by Mrs. Wilfred Burrus and the happy couple were seated with a rose-colored wool blanket.

Both expressed warm thanks to the Neighborettes and invited them to their home in Belleville in the near future. Refreshments were served by the ladies, climaxing an enjoyable evening.

Vancouver Artist Always Wanted to Go to Hawaii

By JIM PEACOCK

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver artist Joe Caros remembers that even as a child she wanted to go to Hawaii.

A year ago she made her first visit there in search of Oriental and Eurasian beauties she loves to paint. She found the beauties and was convinced the islands are the Pacific paradise she always imagined.

Now she has left for Honolulu where, she says, "I'm going to open an art shop in a grass shack with 1,000 square feet of floor space."

"When I get the shop established, I'll go to the Coco Palms resort on Kauai Island and paint. The natives who work there model for me in the daytime, and my, what models! They're so beautiful."

Mrs. Caros, wife of a Vancouver policeman and mother of three children, the oldest 10, does much of her painting on black velvet. Her style now sells at between $125 and $800 a painting. A year ago it fetched $30 to $50.

HUSBAND TO FOLLOW

Her husband will follow her to Hawaii as soon as her shop is established, she said.

Born in Trail, B.C., and brought up in Vancouver, Mrs. Caros has been painting full time for about six years. She has developed a technique with oils on velvet which she says others have offered large sums to learn, but she's keeping it secret to herself.

Her works, on sale in art shops and department stores across Canada and in the United States, will continue to be available in Canada. She plans a tour of the country from March to May next year with a display of portraits of "children of the world."

"The move to Hawaii has been in my mind since my first trip there last year," she said in an interview before her departure. "I've always wanted to live there. It's a paradise. The people are so nice — different than any I've ever met. And I don't have to sew models there. They're everywhere."

POPULATION GROWTH

West Germany had a 25 per cent population increase since 1939 and East Germany 5 per cent.

North American Lawyer For SIU May Pull Union Out of Federal Inquiry

MONTREAL (CP)—The Seafarers' International Union of North America may pull out of the federal investigation into labor violence and shipping disruptions on the Great Lakes.

The threat was voiced Tuesday by Victor Hanson, general counsel for the SIU of North America, with which the SIU of Canada is affiliated as an autonomous union.

Mr. Hanson told a reporter after Tuesday's public hearing that he is considering withdrawal of the SIU's American witnesses — presumably the SIU's North American chief, Paul Hall, who also heads the powerful AFL - CIO maritime trades department, an alliance of some 30 unions in the marine field.

Mr. Hall, an American unionist, cannot be subpoened to testify before the federal inquiry being conducted by Mr. Justice T. G. Norris of the British Columbia Court of Appeals. He has indicated, however, that he plans to appear voluntarily while the inquiry is underway in Montreal.

OTHERS INVITED

Mr. Justice Norris has also invited other prominent American trade union leaders to testify voluntarily, including AFL-CIO President George Meany.

The inquiry was ordered by the federal government after shipping was disrupted this summer by American lakeports and the St. Lawrence Seaway in a violent dispute between the SIU and the rival Canadian Maritime Union for supremacy among 7,000 lake sailors.

After hearings in Toronto, St. Catharines and Ottawa, the inquiry opened in Montreal to hear the SIU's side of the disputes on the lakes.

On Tuesday, SIU counsel Joseph Nuss made a formal bid for records and reports from Upper Lakes Shipping Company of Toronto on its use of private detectives in the labor dispute.

As he was making his request, a summary of his remarks, plus photostatic copies of newspaper clippings, were handed to reporters.

When Mr. Justice Norris saw the press documents, he blasted the SIU for handing out propaganda in direct violation of his edict against such activities.

COUNSEL KNOWS

He asked all SIU lawyers—including Mr. Hanson—whether this document was given to reporters with their knowledge. They disclaimed such knowledge.

Mr. Hanson was cut off when he said other parties were in violation of the ruling, citing a pamphlet on the inquiry proceedings recently distributed by the Upper Lakes Line.

At the end of Tuesday's session — which was frequently marked by bitter clashes between SIU lawyers and the Vancouver jurist—SIU lawyer Nuss asked if Mr. Hanson would be allowed to address the hearing.

As far as counsel knew, he had been allowed to sit with other SIU lawyers but had been barred from direct participation in the hearings.

Mr. Justice Norris refused to allow Mr. Hanson to speak.

After the adjournment, Mr. Hanson told a reporter about the possibility of pulling out all American SIU witnesses.

Fewer, Briefer Oral Questions Being Asked

OTTAWA (CP) — Speaker Marcel Lambert's campaign to get MPs to follow the rules more strictly in the Commons daily question period seems to be paying off in fewer and briefer oral questions.

But it also appears to be contributing to a potential record number of written questions. Already these questions exceed the number submitted in the whole of the previous session and seem certain to soar to the mark of 600 which is remembered as top for written questions in past sessions.

Speaker Lambert began his speakership by colliding daily with opposition MPs over their verbal exercises in cabinet ministers. He stuck firmly to a strict interpretation of the rules, sometimes ruling out of order more questions than were answered verbally.

MPs seems to have got his message after his rulings were sustained by a couple of formal votes. They are now asking fewer questions and placing more of them in written form on the order paper, as suggested by the Speaker.

From a 60-minute average in the first few weeks of the session, the oral question period has dwindled to between five and 10 minutes.

Although there still are almost 100 questions running half a dozen or more individual queries, have been filed by members in 23 sitting days.

The last session lasted 65 sitting days and there were 463 written questions.

Board Hears Development Bank Called Laggard and Operations Meagre, Paltry

OTTAWA (CP) — The Industrial Development Bank has been caught in a dilemma of conflicting complaints about its operations as a federal-agency in the field of small-business finance.

The royal commission on banking and finance has heard some witnesses call the IDB a laggard, while others say it is competing unfairly with private enterprise which can do the same job.

The Ontario government and its economics minister, Hon. Bob. Macaulay, said Tuesday the IDB has "outbanked the bankers in caution" and described the agency's operations as meagre, paltry and grossly inadequate.

Less than a week ago, the executive council of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce suggested that the IDB would be a good starting point for a special review of government financial operations to eliminate those in areas already served by private business.

Earlier Ed Bewry, one finance company — Industrial Acceptance Corporation — complained vigorously that the IDB was overstepped its original functions. The company said it had lost $1,300,000 to established accounts to IDB and another $1,000,000 in prospective business.

So far there has been no public defence of the IDB, a subsidiary of the Bank of Canada. Governor Louis Rasminsky will weary his IDB bat when he appears before the commission next January.

However, the commission is believed to have this subject on the agenda for a closed hearing today of former central banker Graham Towers. Ex-governor James E. Coyne met the commissioners last week, also in private.

DEFINITION DIFFICULT

Commissioner W. Thomas Brown, Vancouver investment dealer, said Tuesday the main difficulty seems to be varying interpretations of the bank's purpose in lending money—as the act says—that is otherwise not available on "reasonable terms and conditions."

Mr. Brown asked if it would be reasonable for the IDB to lend at 6½ per cent if someone else was prepared to make the same loan at nine per cent.

Mr. Macaulay did not reply directly. However, he noted that the Ontario government now is considering the establishment of its own development fund for small businesses, in which case interest rates probably would be "slightly higher" than those available elsewhere.

Mr. Macaulay said proof that the IDB is not doing the job expected of it lies in the fact that six other provinces have set up their own funds for this purpose.

Referendum Brings Closer What Gen. Tried to Avoid

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The French referendum solves nothing. If anything, it brings closer exactly the kind of situation President de Gaulle was trying to avoid.

It means that the old leaders of the Fourth Republic are still lurking on the darkened stage of French political life, all set to steal some of the spotlight from de Gaulle when the national elections are held late in November.

None of this was in the president's script. In appealing to the people over the heads of parliament, de Gaulle hoped to build executive power permanently beyond the grasp of the political parties.

TRY NEW WAY

He was right in the crowd: All right, we've let this crowd run things for the last 100 years, and see what a mess they've made. So let's have the people elect our heads of state, the most decisive of all democratic countries, and let the political parties play their entire little games all by themselves.

To this appeal, less than half the nation responded. True, 61.75 per cent of the votes cast were affirmative, but the total represented only 45.53 of the registered voters.

And it is widely agreed that this feeble, half-audible "oui" was achieved for mainly negative reasons — simply because people would rather have de Gaulle than nobody at all.

The referendum seems unlikely to add much to de Gaulle's reputation. As many observers, there was something rather unpleasant in the way his supporters carried around, using the state monopoly of television and radio — one of the few remaining props of the regime—to solicit the desired verdict.

CHIEF CUT OFF

Despite de Gaulle's towering reputation abroad, despite his popularity at home, it is sad to see a great man widening the void around him by his own acts.

In his vendetta against the parties, he has driven nearly every articulate voice in France into outright opposition—not out of tenderness for the politicians, whose past errors and excesses everyone deplores, but simply because imperfect democracy is instinctively felt to be better than the best-intentioned dictatorship, especially if the dictatorship is permanent.

All France's real problems remain. De Gaulle's "dialogue with the people" will not resolve the difficulties of a nation that excludes certain classes from its flourishing prosperity, and malcontents, as disgusted Algerians, paid advertisers and provincial nobles resenting lost status, will push people de Gaulle by force if they can and assert their own brand of autocratic rule, aided perhaps by a rulers' army nursing a 20-year record of defeat and frustration.

Says Smoking Rarely Causes Lung Cancer

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A San Francisco radiologist testified in U.S. District Court here that cigarette smoking rarely causes cancer.

Dr. Leo M. Garland, clinical professor of radiology at the University of California, said statistics showing medical authority could say with reasonable certainty that smoking caused lung cancer in Otto Pritchard.

Garland, 54, carpenter, is suing the Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company because he says smoking Chesterfield cigarettes gave him lung cancer.

Dr. Garland, appearing as a defence witness, disputed Pritchard's contention when questioned by William H. Eckert, counsel for Liggett and Myers.

"In the case of people who inhale, the concentration of cigarette smoke particles must be thousands of times greater in the mouth, throat, vocal chords and trachea than it is in the lungs," Dr. Garland said.

Asked how, if smoking is the cause of lung cancer, why on earth isn't it a cause of tracheal cancer and mouth cancer?" he asked. "The frequency of trachea cancer is perhaps one in 500 compared to lung cancer and most lung cancer starts in the outer parts of the lung where the concentration of cigarette smoke is still lower."

MECHANIC KILLED

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Sydney Chaunce, 37, of nearby Lakefield was killed Tuesday when the car he was working on slipped off a single jack in the service garage he operated nine miles north of here.

With a block of wood and a pocket-knife, Percy Peterborough of Belleville retires to an old rocking chair in his basement for some whittling, after a hard day's work. His current project might be described as a sort of jointed totem pole.

'Whittling' Provides Hobby For Chas. Morton, Turns Out Many Decorative Objects

A pocket knife and a piece of wood add up to relaxation for Charles Morton, of 36 Bonaview Ave., Belleville. Mr. Morton is one of an unknown number of residents who carve wood. (Mr. Morton calls it whittling) as a hobby. His projects are usually decorative, sometimes useful, always undertaken because he likes carving wood.

Charles Morton was born in Bruce County, and lived in Owen Sound in his early life. Since then has lived throughout most of northern Ontario, working for the Ontario Hydro, and he came to Belleville about eight years ago. He is married, and has one married daughter, living in Belleville.

He took up whittling as a boy, in camp, but did not attempt difficult projects until he moved to Belleville. Although his most important tool is a pocketknife, he has a complete set of hobbyists' knives, with interchange blades. Or the set he uses only four blades for most work, and he maintains that all the work could be done with the one pocket knife. At one time, he bought a special knife use in an electric drill, but found that mechanization spoiled the fun of the hobby.

USES WHITE BIRCH

His usual material is white birch, but he suggests pine as a good wood for the beginner. Birch, is harder to cut, but is the less strength to hold fine detail without breaking. Mr. Morton buys his own wood supply at short logs, from a farm woodpile, and cuts the pieces required on a table saw. Most lumber yards can supply small pieces of wood on demand.

For a first project, he says, a wooden chain is a good, and popular choice. The end result is impressive, the work is not exceptionally difficult for anyone interested in taking the time to do it properly, and it provides practice in most phases of the work. The 'chain' for the beginner is one with links about one inch wide, and two to three inches long.

RELIES ON IMAGINATION

For more advanced projects, Mr. Morton relies on his imagination. There are some standard items, balls enclosed in cages and the like, and some interlocking free form designs, less standard. Lately he has been concentrating on human figures, many in the style of the French Canadian woodcarvers.

For the human figures, he draws a side view of the intended figure on his material, then cuts this two dimensional pattern out. Commercial woodcarvers, and some hobbyists, use a jigsaw or bandsaw for this operation, but Mr. Morton prefers to do it by hand, with a knife. The front and back views of the pattern are then drawn on the partially shaped block, and the detailed work begins. Techniques vary with the project, but one general rule according to Mr. Morton, is that it is dangerous to allow material for more width than the subject requires. He has found it easier to maintain proportions if no waste material is left in place, to be trimmed off later.

MUST PLEASE SELF

Wood carving, as a hobby, probably has as many different techniques as it has proponents, but the hobbyist has only himself to please; and there is no greater authority than individual taste to judge the results. Finishes, for example, range from colored paints, through colorless waxes, to surfaces left rough and most hobbyists have tried them all. Forms and materials are also completely optional. This absolute freedom of choice, many find, is one of the more attractive aspects of wood carving as a hobby.

But to the converted and convinced hobbyist, the most attractive feature is the freedom to retire to a quiet corner with a pocketknife and a piece of wood, sit in a rocking chair, and forget the problems of everyday life.

2 East German Seamen Jump Ship in Nfld.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—The news says two East German seamen jumped ship last night and requested political asylum in Canada.

The newspaper identified them as Wilfried Pohl and Dieter Hostman, both 23, members of the East German fishing factory ship Elchweinert.

H. F. Bragg, assistant inspector of the immigration department here, said "We haven't interviewed or seen them yet." He did not deny the men were in St. John's. RCMP declined comment.

Guard Slashed By Prisoner Loses Eye

MONTREAL (CP)—A guard at St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary was slashed across the face by a prisoner wielding a makeshift hockey stick and had to remove his left eye by surgery.

The guard was identified as Laurier Roussel, 33.

His assailant, Gilles Warden Michel LeCorre, was Jacques (Tarzan) Laplante, serving 12 years for manslaughter, assault and rape.

The attack occurred as Roussel was escorting a group of prisoners back to cells following mealtime.

LeCorre said the prisoner held Roussel hostage for 10 minutes before slashing him and only agreed to release the guard under guarantee.

Authorities acceded to Laplante's request to be transferred to provincial police cells in downtown Montreal.

Laplante was to be arraigned today on a charge of grievous assault.

What sparked the attack was not known.

Strathroy Mayor Promises Quick End to Vandalism

STRATHROY, Ont. (CP)—Mayor Ralph Westgate promised Tuesday to call in the militia if the town's four-man police force cannot put an end to vandalism and fire-setting by youth gangs.

Gangs of more than 30 youths have been terrorizing the town.

Fires have been set in the main street, stones hurled through windows and for the last two weeks the fire department in this town of 4,900 has been called out to false alarms a night.

Volunteer firemen have become tired from the constant calls, which usually come between 9 p.m. and 1 a.m.

For the last 11 nights the fire siren has not been sounded because, says Fire Chief Harold Frank, "we've got to let the residents get some sleep too."

Residents of Strathroy, about 20 miles west of London, expect the gangs will reach a peak tonight—Hallowe'en.

Mayor Westgate said in an interview that it is "time we did not end the vandalism after tonight he will call in the militia to clean up the town."

Chief Constable George T. Tanton promised that those responsible will be brought to justice.

So far no arrests have been made in connection with the incidents.

"We want to catch a few of them and make an example of them," Chief Tanton said. "And I promise, they'll be dealt with most severely."

The chief complained that local residents are not co-operating.

"Some of them know who's responsible for all these carryings-on, but they won't speak they're afraid of something," he said.

Mayor Westgate said the terrorism is the fault of the police department, which has been under investigation by town officials for the last year and by the provincial police for the last three months.

"These kids have no respect for the police, they're not tough enough," the mayor said. "Why, the other night one of our constables was walking down the street when he was stopped by a gang of these kids and they—

"A fat kid walked up to the constable and bumped bellies with him and said something to the effect of 'what are you going to do about it?' I guess the policemen was scared because he just stepped around the boy and walked away.

"What he should have done is clouted him a good one and dragged him off, but our department isn't like that."

DIES OF INJURIES

NEWMARKET, Ont. (CP)— Cyril Ireland, 52, of Keswick, Ont., died in hospital of injuries suffered Tuesday in a two-car collision on Highway 11 earlier this town about 30 miles north of Toronto.

Strict Control Of Hospitals By Govt. Coming

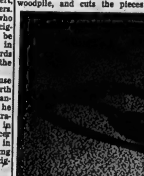
TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario hospital services commission is not dedicated to controlling hospitals and with rising hospital costs there will be almost surely a stricter government control, Health Minister Matthew B. Dymond of Ontario said Tuesday.

Speaking to the Ontario Hospital Association, Dr. Dymond said the government can only go so far and asked hospital trustees to control more strictly their cost structure.

"I am moved to wonder sometimes if we make our hospitals too inviting, to be quite candid and too desirable," he said. "All this is good but is it necessary to good patient care?"

He said that since hospital insurance, first introduced a four years ago by Ontario, the number of beds has increased by 17 per cent, construction grants have increased, capital cost has been reduced by $20,000,000 and Ontario hospitals show a surplus of almost $12,000,000.

Dr. F. Burns Roth, head of the hospital administration department at the University of Toronto, suggested a program of recruiting and training hospital personnel.



Three Hunters Still Missing In Dense Bush

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP)—About 40 experienced hunters, exhausted and wet from a second unsuccessful day of search for three hunters missing near here since Sunday, all returned safely Tuesday night.

A search party will be right in the open for the lost men and police feared they might be weakened by exposure to freezing temperatures.

The search party is looking for Toronto police constables Michael Bliss, 31, and Gary Lock, 22, and a Kirkland Lake man, Sheldon Joy, 30, who were on a moose hunting trip. Snow and sleet falling steadily since the men were reported missing.

Some members of the search party said they believe the three men may be in the safety of an abandoned saw mill at the tip of Little Sarsfield Lake near here, an area not yet covered by the search. They said they heard two shots from the area shortly after noon but thought it was probably a signal to the search party. They hope to investigate the area today.

Cross-Canada Survey

Tax Increases and Higher Provincial Markups Cause Of Soaring Cost of Liquor

By ALEXANDER FARRELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadians are paying more for their drinks these days than ever before.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press showed that, in the last year alone, there have been price increases on domestic spirits in five provinces: Newfoundland, Quebec, Ontario, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Liquor prices all across the country are substantially higher than they were 10 years ago, largely as a result of tax increases and higher provincial markups.

Imported spirits got a fresh price boost this year as a result of the dollar devaluation and the federal levy of a 15-per-cent tariff surcharge. They have less than one-fifth of the Canadian market, however, the Association of Canadian Distillers estimates.

The association blames the soaring cost of drinking largely on price increases on domestic liquor.

In a report for the association, Montreal economist J. R. Petrie says the distilling industry is caught in a squeeze—between increased taxes and provincial markups on one side, and increased costs of labor, raw materials and equipment on the other.

FEAR PRICE BOOST

He says the industry cannot solve its problem by boosting wholesale prices, because taxes and provincial markups have made tall prices so high "that the distiller is constantly aware of pricing himself out of a competitive market . . ."

On the home market Canada's 27 distilling firms sell practically all their product to just 10 customers: the provincial governments. These customers, by the extent of their markup over the distiller's price and the federal excise duty, determine the retail price to the general public.

Liquor prices vary considerably from province to province, mostly because of differences in the provincial markup.

Canadian whisky is by far the biggest seller among distilled beverages in this country, its sales volume being roughly equal to that of all other spirits combined. Here is what a popular brand of Canadian whisky (Seagram's V.O.) costs the public for a 25-ounce bottle in each province, with 1962 retail prices in brackets:

Newfoundland, $9.50 ($5.00); Nova Scotia, $5.75 ($4.80); Prince Edward Island, $5.50 ($4.73); New Brunswick, $5.95 ($5.25); Quebec, $5.40 ($4.50); Ontario, $4.90 ($4.25); Manitoba, $5.35 ($4.80); Saskatchewan, $5.85 ($5.10); Alberta, $5.75 ($4.95); British Columbia, $5.20 ($4.50).

MAJOR REVENUE SOURCE

The distiller of this particular brand gets $1.18 from each bottle now and got $1.09 in 1952, the association estimates. The federal government gets $1.70 now, compared with $1.50 in 1952.

Freight costs eat up another few cents and the rest is provincial earnings, partly through taxes but mostly through liquor board markups.

Current provincial earnings on each bottle of this brand are estimated at: Newfoundland, $2.57; Nova Scotia, $2.51; Prince Edward Island, $2.57; New Brunswick, $3.01; Quebec, $3.52; Ontario, $2.03; Manitoba, $3.37; Saskatchewan, $3.77; Alberta, $2.70; British Columbia, $2.45; Yukon, $3.45.

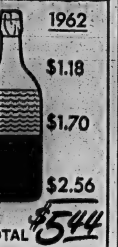
Operating costs of provincial liquor boards have to be met out of these earnings, of course, but the net revenues from alcoholic beverages account for roughly one-tenth of all provincial income.

In some provinces these revenues would be even more important, were it not for grants and other payments to the provinces by Ottawa.

In 1960, the last year for which complete figures are available, Nova Scotia, for example, had total revenues of $46,000,000 from all sources except Ottawa. Of that sum, almost $13,000,000 was realized from sales of alcoholic beverages.

Manitoba, to take another example, had revenues of $56,900,000 collected in the province, of which alcoholic beverages provided almost $13,000,000.

In the last 10 years total net revenues of all provinces from alcoholic beverages have climbed to more than $235,000,000 from $150,000,000.



The federal government's specified revenues, approximately $180,000,000 a decade ago, have reached the same level and they do not include sales tax earnings, which come from a wide range of goods and are not broken down in detail.

The federal government's new import surcharges and dollar devaluation were not slow in taking effect on retail prices of imported spirits.

One brand of Scotch whisky (Black and White), for example has gone up in price in every province this year except Prince Edward Island. Most of the increases have taken place since June 34, when the surcharge was announced, and were attributed to the federal measures.

Following are the current retail prices of this brand, for a 26 2/3-ounce bottle, in each province, with last year's prices in brackets:

Newfoundland, $6.15 ($5.70); Nova Scotia, $6.50 ($6.05); Prince Edward Island, $6.36); New Brunswick, $6.40 ($6.10); Quebec, $6.20 ($6); Ontario, $5.95 ($5.65); Manitoba, $5.90 ($5.40); Saskatchewan $6.35 ($5.95); Alberta, $6.15 ($5.45); and British Columbia, $6.15 ($5.45).

DRINKS COST MORE—Canadians are paying more for domestic liquor now than they did 10 years ago. Graph shows breakdown in the national average price of a 25-ounce bottle of a well known whisky (Seagram's V.O.) Total cost increased 63 cents in the 10-year period. (CP Newsmap.)

Halifax Symphony Emerges To Fill Vital Musical Role In the Atlantic Provinces

By DAVE NICHOLSON

HALIFAX (CP)—The Halifax Symphony is rapidly coming of age—a development reflected as much in its growing reputation as in its hefty money problem.

From its small beginnings 10 years ago, the symphony has emerged to fill a vital musical role in the Atlantic provinces.

An unusual set of circumstances set the stage for its founding. The Nova Scotia Opera Association found, to its surprise, that in 1951 it had a substantial bank surplus.

It used the money to establish a symphonette of string players that performed in four concerts its first year in a Halifax hotel.

In the next few years wind instruments, percussion and more strings were added until the present complement of 32 full-time players was reached.

The early years were the easiest financially. The symphony operated on a budget of only $30,000. Government grants, CBC help and private donations supplemented the money received from subscription concerts.

LOSING MONEY

As the symphony grew, the problem of finances grew, too. Today the executive is struggling to wipe out a large deficit.

Now operating on an annual budget of about $100,000, the orchestra still gets money from the provincial government and the city of Halifax as well as the CBC. The Canada Council has also given it grants each year.

The deficit has arisen from the widening of the orchestra's horizons. It has toured Newfoundland several times and has given concerts in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island as well as Nova Scotia.

One of the most important phases of its operations is its extensive program of school concerts. More than 40,000 students have heard the orchestra since it started such concerts in 1958.

The provincial education department helps by paying two-thirds of the cost of each student concert. The schools also contribute and most school officials regard it as a worthwhile investment for the musical interest it instils in children.

MUSICIANS SCARCE

One big difficulty has been getting enough musicians. Although it tries to hire local musicians whenever possible, it is often forced to recruit its members from Europe and the United States.

"There just aren't enough local professionals to make up the full orchestra," says Dr. Margaret Gosse, executive president.

Back to direct the symphony for the fifth year is Vienna-born Leo Mueller. There's a new concert master, Sergi Bezkorvani of Toronto, as well as a new assistant conductor.

There's usually a full house at concerts and, as with most orchestras, it has few complaints that not enough contemporary works are performed while others say there aren't enough 17th and 18th century classical pieces.

Among guest artists to appear with the symphony during its five-month season will be British pianist Kendall Taylor, Nova Scotia-born Ruth Ann Morse, a mezzo - soprano, and Gordon MacPherson, a Halifax pianist.

THERE'S NO EQUAL TO OLDSMOBILE!

Super 88 Holiday Sedan

Whitewall tires optional at extra cost.

Year after year, Oldsmobile's special brand of quality is taken for granted—by everybody except Olds. And here for '63, Oldsmobile has again allowed no compromise. The wheelbase is a full size 123" (126" in the Ninety-Eight)—the interiors are, as always, truly luxurious in room and appointments—the ride and response even more dramatic. Experience the result—you'll agree no car offering less can truly be called a "luxurious", "big" or even a "generous" automobile.

NEW "TILT-AWAY" WHEEL ADJUSTS TO 7 POSITIONS*

The flick of a lever—and Oldsmobile's new "Tilt-Away" steering wheel swings up for easier entry and exit. Even while driving, you select the wheel position that suits you best—could anything be more comfortable?

NEW SELF-ADJUSTING BRAKES GIVE SMOOTH, SAFE STOPS

Oldsmobile's efficient brakes make their own adjustment in 1963. Back up—stop—and there you are! Extra convenience. Increased safety . . . that's the '63 Olds.

MORE ROOM WITH NEW FLATTER FLOOR

Oldsmobile's new flatter floor makes more room for the man in the middle (thanks to a 44 per cent smaller transmission tunnel!) Olds demonstrates what "legroom" really means.

NEW DELCOTRON GENERATOR KEEPS BATTERY FULLY CHARGED

Even at idling speeds, the new Delcotron Generator charges the battery. Keeps it fully charged for those mist-start mornings—and prolongs battery life, too!

*Optional at extra cost

NEW EXTENDED-LIFE EXHAUST SYSTEM RESISTS CORROSION

Excess heat and corrosive acids can cut down your muffler life. Olds does something about it with special aluminizing of muffler parts plus a heavier gauge steel in the tailpipe.

GUARD-BEAM FRAME ENSURES QUIET, SMOOTH RIDE

Oldsmobile's famous ride doesn't just happen. It's built on a solid foundation provided by the Guard-Beam frame—with the help of Vibra-Tuned Body Mountings at over 90 locations.

More than ever, there's "something extra" about owning an Olds.

WON'T DISCLOSE

OTTAWA (CP)—The government declined Monday to disclose whether the RCMP has maintained security files on or conducted security investigations of any MPs in the last five years. Thomas Bell, parliamentary secretary to Justice Minister Fleming, said in reply to John R. Matheson (L—Leeds) that all RCMP files are confidential and many secret. It would be "contrary to the public interest" to give an answer to the question.

26 VCs LIVING

Veterans Minister Churchill reported that of the 94 Canadians awarded the Victoria Cross, 26 still are living—18 winners from the First World War and eight from the Second World War. He informed Arnold Peters (NDP — Timiskaming) that the former receive annuities from the British government, the latter an equity of $200 from the Canadian government.

MILK USE DOWN

Annual per capita consumption of fluid milk and butter decreased in Canada between 1951 and 1961 but increased for cheese, the trade department informed John R. Matheson (L—Leeds). It dropped from 419.53 pounds to 383.27 for fluid milk and from 28.13 pounds to 18.43 for butter while increasing to 7.36 pounds from 5.93 for cheese.

PLAN FOR CENTENARY

The government is considering making appointments to a national centennial administration at a very early date, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said. The National Centennial Act, passed by Parliament in 1961, provided for such an administration to direct planning for Canada's centenary in 1967.

ACTS AS STUDENT — Rena Berzin takes a lesson in French from Prof. Jean-Paul Vinay in the CBC television program Speaking French, broadcast each Sunday on the national network. Rena, 18-year-old Montreal high school student, won the audition for the part over 21 other girls, some of them professional models. (CP Photo).

18-Year-Old Girl Went To Show Play to Producer And Got Part in Program

By BRUCE STOVEL

MONTREAL (CP) — Two months ago Rena Berzin, an 18 year-old high school girl, sought out the CBC Montreal studios with a play under her arm.

"I put everything into it—love, passion, death, everything," said the pert, slim teen-ager.

"I'd never written anything much before. Naturally, the producer I went to see told me he couldn't use it. He did show me the script of a play he thought was well-written.

"I started reading it and blurted out, 'I want to play the female lead.'

"So he told me I would have to go to the casting office. I went.

"When I got there I found they were holding an audition for this program Speaking French. So I got myself ready and went in and auditioned."

The same enthusiastic impulsiveness that led her to the CBC won her the part.

She acts as the student for Professor Jean-Paul Vinay in the half-hour French instruction program on the CBC national TV network every Sunday afternoon.

SCARED STIFF

"I was scared stiff at the audition," she recalled. "There were 21 girls there, some of them professional models.

"I was trying to look my most sophisticated.

"But I didn't know they were basically looking for somebody as different as possible from Phyllis Clapperton, who had been the pupil for the show. She was beautiful and sophisticated.

"They made us do odd things, like open our purses and describe in French what was in them. My French is only so-so in school and of course the only thing I had in my purse was yards and yards of hankies. I still don't know how you're supposed to say that in French.

"So in the end it turned out the very element I was trying to hide got me the part. My face gave me away.

"They wanted somebody spontaneous. And somebody whose French wasn't that good, so the viewers could identify. As a matter of fact, they love it when I make mistakes."

Rena had no acting experience at the time, though half of a modelling course she took a couple of years ago gives her poise in front of the cameras.

FORGETS CAMERA

"I know I stand and sit properly, and as long as I keep my face toward the camera I forget all about it and follow Professor Vinay around like a little monkey. He's so interesting I usually forget myself.

"For example, last week I was blindfolded and I had to guess the French names of what he handed me. I never even thought about the camera, the monitor and all that."

Rena reacts to most things with the same intensity, be it mathematics—"once I'm out of high school I'll refuse to have anything to do with it"—or hypnotism, her latest enthusiasm.

She enjoys pencil etching, and likes the solid beat of rock 'n' roll, at least compared to jazz, which she says she can't figure out.

Boys and dating are lots of fun, she says, and so is reading a book you can't bear to stop reading until you've finished.

She came here nine years ago from Israel, though she was born in Russia and lived in Poland and Germany in her young years.

What does her new career mean?

"Well, at least now my mother will have something to talk about," she replied.

Big Satellites To Be Launched Is Prediction

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. John J. Green predicted Monday that 10-ton satellites will be launched in 1964 and satellites weighing 100 to 200 tons might be in orbit by 1970.

Dr. Green, chief superintendent of the Canadian Armament Research and Development Establishment, told the Canadian Club of Toronto space research can yield tremendous benefits to industry.

Space programs are creating demands for new techniques, materials and capabilities that will vastly increase the competence of participating industries, he said.

Consumer goods are beginning to incorporate some of the improvements, he said. Immediate dividends include new equipment and techniques to assist the surgeon improved x-ray devices and new hearing aids.

"There is no doubt that such instances of valuable dividends for the sick and infirm will multiply," Dr. Green said.

Entire Village Disappeared Into the Sea

BANGKOK, Thailand (Reuters)—An entire Thai village and its population of 500 disappeared into the sea during the storms which ravaged southern Thailand last week, it was learned here today.

The governor of Nakorn Srithamraj province said the village was on a tiny finger of land jutting into the Gulf of Thailand, centre of the storm area.

Interior Minister Gen. Prapas Charusithien said 900 people were known to have died in this province alone.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Sometime last summer the Ontario Hockey Association announced with a more or less fanfare of trumpets (the music written by Windsor and Chatham improvisation), that it would return to the operation of senior "A" hockey.

The lyric was a re-write of the score of the golden, glamorous fifties, albeit on a modified scale. Top talent, such as it was, would be obtained. Clubs would ditch the recently-adopted share-the-wealth policy and revert to the salary-paid player.

The move appeared to create the impression that the deplorable lack of fan interest the past two years was due to the mediocre type of hockey played by the unreconcilable factionites of the great teams of the Golden Fifties.

It goes without saying that the OHA in that remarkable decade produced the finest senior "A" clubs not only in it, but the country as a whole, ever cheered to a world championship.

The Kitchener Dutchmen, representing one of Canada's greatest hotbeds of senior "A" hockey; the Cinderella "Johnnies-Come-Lately" Whitby Dunlops and the Belleville McFarlands, swept aside all opposition to enter world tournament lists.

The Dunlops, rated in some quarters as the best senior club to represent Canada abroad, bearded the Western Outwits lions in their den in 1958, made them roll over and say "Uncle" and went on to a world title.

Close on their heels, in 1959, the McFarlands emulated the feat of the Dunlops, at considerable expense, and brought home the global hockey bacon from Prague.

But that was the end. Professional hockey cast covetous eyes on the supposedly fertile fields of the amateur Fonderosa stretching from Cornwall to Windsor.

The Quebec League was skidding towards the brink of the grave. The pro interests, apparently unable to build or rebuild, sought a replacement. Eastern Ontario senior hockey was dumped there and then. The "conspirators" got in their work and the Eastern Professional Hockey League was born.

The rest is history. It enjoyed a brief taunve of popularity, then it too headed for oblivion. Fan interest in three centres flickered and went out. Sponsoring National League clubs took a financial beating. The league survived but is now composed of four clubs, one an American entry.

What I am trying to say is that if the Eastern Pro League type of hockey—and it was supposed to be much superior to the 1950's brand of senior "A"—did not have sufficient box-office appeal, how does a reinvented senior "A" circuit expect to entice the turnstile shekels?

True, they are not operating on a $130,000 budget as did the Eastern pros, but I'm told their outlay will approximate $50,000. As Popeye's horse said when it saw the spinach, "That ain't hay, brother."

But the die is cast. Four imported coaches are in action and the teams have rebuilt with outside players, many of whom do not ring the memory bell.

The new pack left the barrier this week. The figures speak for themselves. Galt Terriers opened before a home crowd of 986. Sarnia in its senior "A" debut, attricted 600 home-towners.

But May Be Trade Bait

Cepeda's Eye Said OK

SAN FRANCISCO (CP)—First baseman Orlando Cepeda of San Francisco Giants learned Tuesday after a 1½-hour eye examination that he does not have a vision-impeding cataract over his right eye as he had feared.

As soon as Cepeda was ruled free of eye trouble, his name re-entered the winter trade rumor derby. He is said to be San Francisco's chief bait for an established starting pitcher.

Giants' ophthalmologist, Dr. George Campion examined Cepeda and said his right eye has normal 20-20 vision and his "superb left eye" is 20-15.

The discovery apparently rules out eye trouble as a cause of Cepeda's dismal hitting in the final two months of the National League season. Although he finished with a .306 average, Cepeda had been above .350 for the first two months of the season.

Club Vice - President Chub Feeney conceded that the Giants would listen to offers for Cepeda, but was noncommittal beyond that. Two pitchers mentioned frequently are Art Ma-

'Mik And Mac' Hawks Shooting Stars

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chicago's scooter line is scooting at high speed.

The line, with Ab McDonald on left wing, Stan Mikita at centre and Ken Wharram on right wing, had a hand in all five goals Thursday night as the Hawks defeated New York Rangers 5-3 in the only National Hockey League game scheduled.

McDonald, who wasn't good enough for Montreal Canadiens two years ago, chalked up two goals and assisted on another to jump into first place in the NHL scoring race with five goals and six assists for 11 points.

The Hawks haven't lost a game since the return of Mikita, who was injured in pre-season play and came back four games ago. The smooth all-star scored six goal and assisted on two others against the Rangers.

Al McNeil gave the Hawks the lead at 8:23 of the first period assisted by Wharram and Mikita. Wharram made the score 2-0 at 6:31 of the second period on a pass from McDonald.

New York scored their first goal at 9:56 of the third period when Ted Hampson fired his second of the season while his team was shorthanded.

Mikita counted his third goal of the season at 2:19 in the third period, making it 3-1 for the Hawks.

McDonald scored his first goal of the game when Mikita set him up at 4:47 of the third period.

Dean Prentice added the second goal for New York at 8:05 after stickhandling the length of the ice. But McDonald countered when he fired home a pass from Wharram at 11:04.

Earl Ingarfield of the Rangers wound up the scoring by tallying on passes from Doug Harvey and Prentice at 16:15.

The victory moved the Hawks to within a point of the league-leading Detroit Red Wings. The Wings have 13 points to Chicago's 11.

"Semi-Bandits" Own Baseball

Chandler Blasts Majors

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Former baseball commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler said Tuesday the major leagues control the minors "and they're almost run the minors out of business."

Chandler, twice governor of Kentucky, twice a United States senator, and baseball commissioner in 1945-51, said in an interview during a golfing vacation here that baseball Commissioner Ford Frick "has sided over the liquidation of the minor leagues."

"They've had it on television and radio but that's not the reason. It's just selfishness and greed of the majors."

Chandler said the minors reached an all-time high while he was commissioner. In 1948 there were 488 clubs in 59 leagues and total attendance was 41,982,239. Last year minor leagues had dwindled to 147 clubs in 22 leagues and total attendance plummeted to 10, 974,084.

Major league club-owners did not re-elect Chandler as commissioner in 1951, naming Frick as successor.

"I thought baseball was a game when I was becoming commissioner," said Chandler.

"I thought the people owned the national pastime. I found out I was mistaken. The semi-bandits own it. I thought the commissioner's job was to represent the players, umpires and the people. But I was wrong. The club-owners just want a stooge to front for them."

Guelph Wins, Hawks Tie

Petes Whip Red Wings

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Guelph Royals can thank heaven for Oscar Allen and Andy Brown.

The two of them combined Tuesday night to give the Royals a 5-0 victory over Niagara Falls Flyers in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A game.

It was the Flyers' first defeat of the season after a win and a tie.

Allen, a right winger, scored four goals. But his efforts might have been to no avail if the rookie goaltender Brown had not stopped 41 Niagara Falls shots.

It was Royal's first win this season after two losses and left them tied for fifth place in the six-team league with St. Catharines Black Hawks, who battled to a 3-3 tie with first-place Montreal Canadiens.

Peterborough Petes tallied a 5-3 victory over the second-place Hamilton Red Wings to go into a third-place tie with Niagara Falls.

At Guelph, Gary Sabourin scored the fifth goal for Royals, late in the second period. Allen scored once in the first, twice in the second, and once in the third period.

St. Catharines, playing at home, had to come from behind twice to gain the third straight riod to salvage the tie after being badly outplayed in the first period. Ronald Callander and Jim Keough kept the Black Hawks in the game and John Greenwood with his second goal of the game, and rookie Don Selder scored to give them the tie.

Norm Dennis scored two goals and Bill Inglis one for the Canadiens.

Tom Carty made the difference for Petes, scoring two goals before a hometown crowd of 1,430. His goals in the second period gave the Petes a 2-0 lead going into the final period and Jim Paterson of Peterborough and Paul Henderson of Hamilton traded goals in the last period.

In Metro Toronto Junior A games, Toronto Marlboros whipped Oshawa Generals 13-3 and Knob Hill and Whitby battled to a 2-2 draw.

Johnson New Quarterback

Cards Put "The Rifle" On Rack

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The thin line of young football quarterbacks challenging the old guard has won another battle in St. Louis, where Charley Johnson has replaced Sam Etcheverry as the No. 1 boy with the Cardinals.

Johnson, 23, is a budding chemical engineer struggling with a course at Washington University here.

When the Cards lost three of their first four games in the National Football League this season, coach Wally Lemm called on Johnson to take over from Etcheverry, who moved here 2½ years ago after a brilliant career with Montreal Alouettes of the Eastern Conference.

Despite a few moments of indecision, Johnson has the Cardinals playing .500 ball under him. They beat Dallas Cowboys, tied Cleveland Browns and lost to Washington Redskins.

"I never expected to be starting this year," Johnson said in an interview Tuesday. "I thought if the breaks went right I might make it by next season."

Etcheverry, 32, was bothered by arm trouble most of last season and couldn't seem to get the club rolling this year.

In recent games the Cardinals have used Etcheverry as a punter or to hold the ball on conversions.

Johnson and Etcheverry are roommates on the road. Apparently there is no bitterness.

"Sam has helped me a lot," said Johnson. "He doesn't hold back anything."

Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Left-winger Ab McDonald of Chicago Black Hawks took over leadership of the National Hockey League scoring race Tuesday night by scoring two goals and one assist as Chicago defeated New York Rangers 5-3.

McDonald now has five goals and six assists for 11 points, one more than Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard of Montreal Canadiens, Alex Delvecchio of Detroit, and Cliff Pennington of Boston all tied for second place.

Centre Stan Mikita, of Chicago, who has only played five games this season also picked up three points to move into a three-way tie for sixth place with Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion of Montreal and Murray Oliver of Boston. Each has eight points.

The leaders:

	G	A	Pts.
McDonald, Chicago	5	6	11
Richard, Montreal	5	5	10
Delvecchio, Detroit	3	7	10
Pennington, Boston	3	7	10

Snow Stops Track Card

OTTAWA (CP) — Tuesday night's card at Rideau Carleton Raceway was cancelled because the horses weren't properly shod to handle the snow-covered track.

An official said earlier that racing would be held as scheduled despite a day-long rain of wet, heavy snow, but it was found later that some of the horses had not been fitted with special cork shoes.

Patrons were given "rain checks" and racing will resume today.

Earlier Tuesday, the club announced the early snow would force it to end its season Nov. 10 instead of Nov. 21 as planned.

Think No. 13 Black Cats Luck Charms

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Black cats and No. 13 present no fear to the brawny boys on the University of Louisville football team. It's the reverse.

They're counting on the cats and 13 to beat a jinx.

Louisville has lost 12 straight games to Xavier of Cincinnati. They clash in the 13th battle Saturday and anyone who logs a black cat into the stadium will be admitted free.

There will also be a can of cat food for each owner and a kitty-sitting service operated by the school's veterinary staff.

Says Lex Wilson, director of public relations at Louisville: "We want to take the X out of our hex—Xavier."

But Watch Him Next Season

Stephens Had So-and-So First Year

By MARVEN MOSS

MONTREAL (CP) — Sandy Stephens' rookie quarterback year in Canadian football has been erratic.

But the people who should know about these things say the kid has all the stuff to make it big next season.

At times the heavy-set 22-year-old from Minnesota Gophers has looked absolutely great, his work snappy and authoritative, in other games, he was obviously unable to move the club.

Among football people, the consensus is that Stephens has done perhaps a shade better than might be expected from a first-year man.

"You've got to expect mistakes with a rookie," says M. E. (Ted) Workman, the president of Montreal Alouettes, a serious-minded young man at 28.

"But you just watch us next year."

MUST BEAT ARGOS

In the meantime the Als are struggling to maintain a playoff berth in the Eastern Football Conference. They hold down third spot with a record of three wins, seven losses and three ties. But they must beat Toronto Argonauts here Saturday in the final game of the schedule for both clubs to qualify for post-season play and a shot at the Grey Cup.

Stephens, the son of an undertaker - taxi official in the Pennsylvania coal-mining community of Uniontown, has handled the quarterback slot for Montreal pretty much all season.

For two games or so, coach Perry Moss of the Als experimented with a twin-quarterback system, pairing Stephens with Hamilton-born Joe Zuanich, a former Green Bay Packer. Sandy would go in motion just before the ball was snapped. But Moss elected to abandon the innovation, although it seemed to work out well.

Stephens has worked mainly from a basic T-formation and Moss has given him rein to call his own plays for the most part.

NO HIP WIGGLER

At 224 pounds, Sandy has shown himself a fine yard-gainer on roll-out options, particularly when he puts his head down and drives. He has more or less rid himself of a habit he had earlier in the season of trying to deke tacklers by wiggling his hips. They nailed him every time.

His rushing average nonetheless is a respectable 8.5 yards on 66 carries, good enough for eighth spot in the league. Seven of his runs were touchdowns.

Despite Sandy's insistence that his passing arm is up to big league standards, he has, however, been inconsistent at best.

He has had 22 throws intercepted, more than any other EFC quarterback and his percentage of passes completed is 48, again a league low. In 218 attempts, he hit on 102.

City Hockey League

"Away and Running"

The City Hockey League drafted and approved a 15-game schedule, which opens November 7 and closes February 13, at a short league meeting last night.

If the schedule runs as smoothly as the loop's organization has run over the past few meetings, the newly-formed group should be assured of success.

The opening games, one week from tonight, will pit Wellbanks Motors against the Joyce-Rollins Combines in the 7.45 game while Trudeau Motors and Pepsi's play the nightcap at 8.35.

Arrangements were completed last night for referees and timekeepers and it was again stressed that all players must be signed and their certificates in the hands of the league executive before they can play in any game.

All teams were represented last night and the managers reported that their teams were "hard at practice and raring to get going" next week.

The league schedule appears elsewhere on today's sport pages.

Woodstock Trims Tigers

Chatham Nips Rams 7-5

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Loss of most of its players in the off-season should be damaging to an amateur hockey team. But Woodstock Athletics of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series seem determined to prove otherwise.

The Athletics, who opened the season on a humdrum note with a 3-1 loss to last year's champions, Galt Terriers, Tuesday night bounced back with a 6-5 shellacking of Kitchener-Waterloo Tigers in their home debut.

A new man, Neil Cockburn, paced the Athletics with two goals and an assist while Roy Land, Carl Hymers, Art Sullivan and Gerry Stringle got a goal apiece.

Don McGregor spelled Salter's shutout bid with a goal midway through the third period.

In the only other game Tuesday night, Chatham Maroons scored their first win of the young season with a 7-5 decision over Sarnia Rams before 830 fans in Sarnia. It was Rams' second straight 7-5 loss.

TIE IT UP

Chatham led 3-2 into the second period but Sarnia tied it in the second and went ahead 5-3 in the third frame before George Ustiak tied the game with two goals. Joe Main made it 6-5 for Maroons and Ustiak wrapped things up with his third goal of the night.

Coach Gus Mortson scored two for the winners and assisted on two other goals. George Allkan got the other marker tally.

The five Sarnia goals were shared by Tommy Clark, Willie Menard, Reg Mulholland, Jerry Marr, and Gord Maldy, a former Windsor Bulldog.

SIGNS CONTRACT

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Veteran right-hander Bob Shaw, who posted a 2.80 earned run average in his National League debut after several years in the American League, returned his signed 1963 contract to Milwaukee Braves Tuesday. The 29-year-old Shaw had a 15-8 record until stricken with arm trouble during the 1962 campaign. He failed to win a game after Aug. 17.

The Trots

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—In her first race since early September, Flicka Lee copped the featured $600 Colt pace at Western Fair Raceway Tuesday night, beating four other good horses in 2:14 4-5, fastest time of the night, over a soggy track.

Reinsman Dusk Campbell brought Flicka Lee from third place at the head of the stretch to register a half-length victory over Dancer, owned by Harold Berry of Caledon, Ont. Jimmy Patch C, owned by Dr. J. E. Ferguson of Chatham, came in third.

Flicka Lee, owned by three Londoners, paid $5.20 to win.

Campbell also clicked in the seventh race with Timber Hal, four-year-old mare owned by Robert Livesey of Woodstock. Timber Hall's time was 2:18 4-5, paying $5.80.

N.H.L. Stars

Ab McDonald, Black Hawks, who counted two goals and an assist as Chicago defeated New York Rangers 5-3.

Four Teams Form Circuit

Hoop Loop Organized

The district's basketball league officially adopted the name "Bay of Quinte Basketball Association" last night and announced a four-team grouping for the 1962-63 season.

Last year's champion, Belleville Crawford Metals, plus Trenton Wilson Concrete, Belleville Lightfoots and the RCAF Flyers will make up the four-team loop. Picton and Northern Electric, of last season, have withdrawn.

The league will play an 18-game schedule, opening the week of November 12.

The opening game will be in the form of a double-header, at the Belleville team's home court, Moira Secondary School, pitting RCAF vs Crawfords at 7.15 and Wilsons vs Lightfoots at 8.30, on Monday, November 12. One other game that week has the Crawfords at Trenton Wilson's on Wednesday, at eight o'clock.

The Wilson's home games will be played at the Trenton High School while the Flyers have the RCAF court on the south station as home grounds. Both teams' home games will start at 8.00 p.m.

An attempt is being made to organize a referees' association and the league has been assured of improved officiating for the new season.

Ontario Amateur Basketball Association rules have been adopted for all games, with certain league additions. Each team will be allowed to sign 15 players and the signing deadline is January 15.

Ernie Miller, the loop's new president, stressed more co-operation with the press and radio at last night's meeting, and also offered a strong league constitution for approval and passing.

A complete schedule will be published shortly.

Paul Denies Radio Story

Brown To Coach Rams?

DETROIT (AP)—Sport Editor Bob Reynolds of WJR-Detroit said on his sports show Tuesday that "while it probably will be denied both in Cleveland and and on the West Coast, Cleveland's Paul Brown will be the new coach and general manager of Los Angeles Rams next season."

Reynolds said "the Rams present head coach, Bob Waterfield, will survive the rest of this National Football League season."

Reynolds said Brown will not go to the Rams unless their ownership fight is resolved, but added, "my information is that this will be done by Jan. 1."

Brown now is coach and general manager of the Cleveland Browns.

In Cleveland, Brown denied the report, saying he has never thought about such a switch "and never talked to anyone about it."

He said he planned to fulfill his Cleveland contract, which has six years to go.

"This (Cleveland) is my home, and my only interest is here," Brown declared.

Y.A. First To Pitch Ball Mile

NEW YORK (AP)—Veteran Y. A. Tittle of New York Giants, who gained 305 yards in the air against Washington Redskins last Sunday, is the first National Football League quarterback this season to pitch the ball more than a mile.

Tittle's performance Sunday, in which he tied a league record with seven touchdown passes during a 49-34 New York victory, sent him to second place from fifth among the NFL's top passers.

Eddie Lebaron of Dallas Cowboys is No. 1, based on a formula including completions, touchdown passes, interceptions and average yards gained.

Lebaron, formerly of Calgary Stampeders of the Western Conference, has completed 68 of 107 passes for 1,050 yards and 11 touchdowns.

League statistics released today show Tittle, 36, has clicked on 118 of 208 throws for 1,944 yards and 18 touchdowns.

SIGHT SNOW GEESE

QUEBEC (CP) — A photographable survey made last week indicates a flock of about 42,000 snow geese on the St. Lawrence capes and islands northeast of here, the department of game and fisheries said Tuesday. Dr. Louis Lemieux, director of Quebec's fish and wildlife management service, said the low figure was surprising in view of the number of young birds in this year's flock.

Western Hockey

VANCOUVER (CP) — Roddy Boone's second goal of the night pulled Vancouver Canucks to a comeback 5-4 victory over San Francisco Seals Tuesday night in a Western Hockey League game before 3,000 fans.

The play made it seven wins in eight games for Canucks, who moved to a six-point lead on top of Northern Division standings. Seals remained tied with Los Angeles and Portland for first place in the south.

Vancouver's other scorers were Jim Baird, George Ford and newcomer Bob Kabel. Nick Mickoski scored twice in less than four minutes of the first period for San Francisco and Orland Kurtenbach and Len Haley picked up later Seals goals.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—Pat Remillard, 56, the oldest active jockey on the continent, brought home Vase in Tuesday's featured Sweepstaff Purse at Old Woodbine.

The one-mile Sweepstaff was run on a sea of mud.

Blondell, ridden by leading rider Ron Turcotte, was second, a head behind Vase.

Vase, a daughter of Native Dancer, out of a Gallant Fox mare Vashti, has won two stakes races this year in her five victories. She returned $3.40 for $2 Tuesday.

ATTRACTS ATTENTION — Gilles Villemure, 22-year-old rookie netminder in the Western Hockey League, kicks clear a shot in a manner that explains one reason Vancouver Canucks are in first place in the league. Gilles (pronounced Jeal), from Trois Rivieres, Que., won his first two pro games by shutouts and allowed only two goals in each of the first two Canuck victories this year. — (CP Photo).

Sports Snapshots

By BRUCE LEVETT

VANCOUVER (CP)—Around his home in Trois Rivieres, Que., during the summer Gilles Villemure is a rookie harness race driver. There he drives standardbreds from the seat of a bicycle-wheeled sulky.

But during the winter he is a rookie hockey player and he drives Western League forwards nuts from a hunched-over position in goal for Vancouver Canucks.

Villemure originally was a big disappointment to Canucks coach Max McNab, who wailed in pre - season interviews that New York Rangers weren't coming through with the player help he needed.

Jack McCartan and Marcel Paille attended the joint Rangers-Canucks camp, but McCartan was tabbed for Los Angeles and Paille for Baltimore.

That left Vancouver with the 22-year-old rookie who toiled last year with Long Island of the Eastern Amateur League.

GREAT START

Villemure looked great in exhibition games. He even shut out Seattle Totems 2-0 in the three-game pre-season series.

When he did it again—by an identical score—in the Canucks' home opener, the announcers began to look up the proper pronunciation of Gilles—it's Jeal.

The next game was against Spokane Comets. Villemure shut them out 4-0.

"The Comets came out hitting and they came out shooting," McNab said after that game. "It was their home opener and they were after us.

"Gilles played the angles well all game and made some fine reflex stops, particularly when Spokane's big line of Max Mehlok, Gerry Brisson and Bev Bell really tested him in the first period."

That line was the highest-scoring group in the WHL last season with 253 goals. Mckilok won the scoring title with 36 goals and 61 assists.

By then, Villemure had put his name into the WHL records with Lucien Dechene, Hank Bassen and Glenn Hall, all of whom scored two consecutive shut-outs. Nobody in the WHL has ever hit three in a row.

CALM CUSTOMER

Going into the third game against San Francisco Seals—Villemure was besieged. How did it feel to be going after No. 3?

"I feel nothing," he said. "All I want is for us to win. If the score is 10-9 I am happy—if we have the 10."

It didn't come out that way. The score was 3-2, but Gilles was happy.

"We got the three."

Then Gilles made it four straight, beating Los Angeles 6-2.

Villemure signed with the Rangers chain at 18.

"Too young," he says today. "They offer $100 a year until I turn pro, a bonus when I sign my first pro contract, and they name my first year's pro salary. It sounds pretty good at the time, but when you start to work and see what the other guys are getting . . . boy!"

Babe Pratt, once a pretty hot defenceman in the big league, says of Villemure:

"He looks like money in the bank. He is quick and plays the angles like a seasoned pro. He's a holler guy who keeps his defencemen on their toes. He's a fine skater . . . he stops pucks that are going behind his net and sets up the play for his defencemen."

Pratt compared him with Dave Kerr, former New York Rangers star.

But off the ice, Gilles would as soon talk harness racing as hockey.

"It's a great hobby with me. I used to go to the track when I was young and I drove my first race three years ago."

He entered 50 races this season. He totalled 40 in his first two years. He has won 10, five this year.

"I think I'll get serious about the racing game when I retire from hockey," he says.

Tiger-Cats Recall Tom Decker

HAMILTON (CP)—Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Eastern Football Conference have recalled Tom Decker, a backfielder who wasn't good enough to make the team at the start of the season, from semi pro ranks.

Coach Jim Trimble, who recalled Dick Easterly recently with successful results, wants Decker as a replacement for fullback C. R. Roberts, who broke his leg during Saturday's game at Montreal.

Ticats, with first place clinched, meet Ottawa Rough Riders here Sunday in a game which will have no effect on the final standings.

Doubtful starters for Hamilton will be Bobby Kuntz and Hal Patterson, both of whom have been slow recovering from injuries.

Name Tiger Fighter Of Month

NEW YORK (AP)—Dick Tiger of Nigeria, newly crowned middleweight champion of the World Boxing Association, was named Fighter of the Month Tuesday by Ring magazine.

Ring, however, rated Paul Pender of Brookline, Mass., as the middleweight champ, placing Tiger in the No. 1 contender position, followed by Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, who was dethroned by Tiger.

The new flyweight-champion, 19-year-old Masahiko (Fighting) Harada of Japan, was ballot for the ratings for his success in stopping Pone Kingpetch of Thailand. Kingpetch, now the No. 1 contender, will get a chance to regain the title Jan. 12 at Bangkok.

There were no changes in the heavyweight division ruled by Sonny Liston.

Willie Davis Top Sophomore

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Davis of Los Angeles Dodgers won the 1962 National League sophomore-of-the-year honors in the annual Associated Press poll.

The speedy centre-fielder collected 23 of the 107 votes cast by members of the baseball writing association participating in the balloting.

PSI to Increase Rates 20 P.C. On January 1

TORONTO (CP)—Physicians' Services Incorporated (PSI) will increase its rates by about 20 per cent from Jan. 1, next, it was announced Monday.

The increase affects nearly 900,000 Ontario residents and will cost families registered on a non-group basis about $24 more annually.

Three-fifths of the increase was attributed to higher fees for doctors and 2-10 has been earmarked for improvements to the present service.

The remaining 1-10 will replenish PSI services, depleted by about $3,000,000 since the new Ontario Medical Association fees came into effect in February.

Service improvements which will accompany the new rates are:

Extension of the "blue plan," which affects the biggest group of subscribers, to include specialists fees under most circumstances, care of newborn babies in hospital and 10 baby checks over five years. The plan also be extended to cover [illegible] in hospitals, homes and

Optional enrolment regardless of age in the personal protection plan for in-hospital care for those not in blue plans.

Less extra billing from specialists. Eighty per cent of specialists and general practitioners now are enrolled in PSI.

Elimination of third party liability clauses restricting subscribers carrying duplicate coverage under other plans.

Donald C. MacDonald, Ontario New Democratic Party leader, said in a statement the increase limits "special urgency" to his party's demands for a comprehensive, publicly operated provincial medicare scheme.

GIMBY AND HIT TUNE — Bobby Gimby, Canadian musician turned public relations officer, holds a record of Malaysia Forever, the song he composed while in Malaya. The song, currently No. 1 on the Malayan hit parade, has been adopted as almost a national anthem. Gimby, who hopes to find a market for his ditty, was best known in Canada when he played on the CBC's Happy Gang radio show. (CP Photo).

Former Member Happy Gang Composed Song on Malayan Hit Parade While Shaving

By ALAN WALKER

LONDON (CP) — Canadian Bobby Gimby was shaving in Singapore when he composed the current No. 1 song on the Malaya hit parade.

"I did it sort of for something to do," Gimby said in an interview as the recorded voices of 24 teen-aged Malayan girls flooded the room with Malaysia Forever, the world's first national pop anthem. Then the whole thing effervesced."

After Tunku Abdul Rahman prime minister of the Federation of Malaya, personally praised his song Gimby, 29-year-old public relations officer from Cabri, Sask., breezed into London to negotiate a Canadian and British market for the ditty.

"The Pied Piper of Canada," as Gimby is known in Malaya, worked in Canadian radio and television for years and is best known for his role in the CBC's Happy Gang radio show, discontinued in 1957.

He was in Malaya on a special assignment for a cigarette company shortly before the referendum on the Malaysia federation was held.

"Funnily enough, the song is a commercial," he said. "I've been writing advertising jingles for a long time, but this is the first one I've done trying to sell people on the idea of a united nation."

The Reverend Mother of the Marymount Vocational School supplied the choir.

"These young girls loved the song and sang their hearts out," Gimby said. "Then they started twisting to it. That killed me. But the Mother Superior said 'after all, this is 1962,' so I pulled out my horn and jived with it."

Government officials, expecting opposition to the move to unite the southeast Asian countries, realized the propaganda value of "Malaysia Forever" ("land of the free, marching as one, united for liberty, let's get it done") and it was played over Malayan radio constantly until the Sept. 1 referendum.

"Kids sang it in the streets," said the composer.

The vote favored the government's proposal for federation. The Tunku's announcement of the result was followed by the playing of Gimby's song.

"Your noble gesture in dedicating this tune to the new nation is most praiseworthy," the Tunku later wrote to Gimby. "It's a beautiful tune."

Gimby, here with his wife and 19-year-old daughter, said all profits from the recording will go to children's charities in Malaysia.

TAKES MEDICAL TESTS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Willie Mays entered Mount Zion Hospital Tuesday for several days of medical tests, but said that "right now I feel fine."

The $90,000-a-year San Francisco Giants outfielder is taking the tests to try to learn why he collapsed during a September game in Cincinnati. He was in hospital for three days after the collapse.

Giants manager Alvin Dark has said that Mays collapsed simply because of mental exhaustion.

"You've got to be a ball player to know what kind of strain a pennant drive is," Dark has said, "especially for a player like Willie who always goes all out."

"The Student Prince," starring Ann Blyth, Edmund Purdom and the singing voice of Mario Lanza.

"The Student Prince," one of the world's most famous operettas, is one of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's most memorable CinemaScope and color musicals.

Ann Blyth, Edmund Purdom and the singing voice of Mario Lanza are the stars of this tune-filled tale of a handsome, young prince who, because of his impending bankruptcy of his country, is made party to an "arranged marriage" to a wealthy princess. As it turns out however, the princess finds her suitor somewhat less ardent than she had hoped for, in order to "humanize" him he is sent to Heidelberg University in the thought that the influence of his fellow students will take some of the stuffiness out of him. It works out all right, except that the princess who humanizes the prince is Kathie, the innkeeper's pretty niece. Forgetting his royal obligations the heir apparent is swept off his feet by Kathie, when unexpected complications arise.

Entertainment highlights include a glittering ball at the royal court and such colorful activities at Heidelberg as student rallies, a duelling scene to uphold the honor of an aristocratic student society, romantic moments against woodland settings, and a gala costume carnival.

There is hardly a moment in which a lilting Sigmund Romberg song doesn't add a lift to the action, among them the immortal "Deep In My Heart, Dear," "Golden Days," "Come Boys, Let's All Be Gay Boys," "Serenade" and the stirring "Drink, Drink, Drink" Also in the score are a number of traditional German songs and three numbers of Nicholas Brodsky and Paul Francis Webster — "Summer in Heidelberg," "I'll Walk With God" and "Endeared."

John Ericson, Louis Calhern, Edmund Gwenn and S. C. (Cuddles) Sakall have prominent roles with the stars of "The Student Prince."

JUNGLE ADVENTURE IN COLOR

Something has been added in the exhibition of Jungle Adventure in Technicolor and Cinemascope on the same program.

AT THE PARK — Jack Mahoney, as the screen's newest Tarzan, and Jai the Elephant Boy, join forces against a band of renegade white men determined to wipe out the beasts of the jungle in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Tarzan Goes to India" opening Thursday at the Park Theatre. Filmed in CinemaScope and Metrocolor, the picture was photographed entirely on location in India.

Minor Corrective Surgery To Take Burr Out of Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Necessity may prove to be the mother of welcome dramatic invention as far as CBS' Perry Mason show is concerned.

Raymond Burr, who has played Erle Stanley Gardner's indomitable trial lawyer for five seasons, will enter a Los Angeles hospital for minor corrective surgery in December, the network announced. As a result, the company must make several shows during his convalescence without the star.

According to present plans, Paisano Productions which makes the weekly courtroom drama plans to sign big name guest stars, including Bette Davis, to substitute.

The unavoidable absence of Burr could have a salutary effect of boosting the program out of the format to which it has adhered through the years, including that weekly courtroom confession by the murderer—usually from a spectator's seat.

KEEP COMPATIBLE

Mrs. Gail Patrick Jackson, executive producer of the show, explained that the series is written in its unchanging form "to keep the characters and the stories as compatible as possible with the books."

"After all," she added, "Erle Stanley Gardner is still writing Mason books and they are enormously popular."

But without Perry in the show, there's the point in protecting Gardner's special who-dunit approach, and the writers might experiment. And the change should act as a tonic to the show's ratings, future shows —with Burr back in his role— might have a broader, less predictable base.

Deafness Helped Make Good Actor of Michael Anderson

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What makes an actor?

In the case of Michael Anderson Jr. deafness helped.

Mike, 19, seems to be well on his way. He's the lad who played the son of Deborah Kerr and Robert Mitchum in The Sundowners, one of the best—and most underrated—films in the last five years.

He'll be seen this winter as Hayley Mills' romance in Disney's new epic in Search of the Castaways. And he is leaving shortly for the Utah plains to play the young Saint James in The Greatest Story Ever Told.

Mike was totally deaf at 12. "It came on gradually," he recalled.

"People kept talking more and more quietly and I had to ask them to speak a little louder. It was always their fault, not mine.

"I finally realized that I was getting deaf when I was away at school. We used to have a lady read stories to us at bedtime. At first I sat on the opposite bed. Then I had to move to the end of the bed where she was sitting so I could hear her—then next to her. Once she spoke directly to me, and I heard nothing. That's when I realized what was happening."

BAD MASTOID CONDITION

Mike still wouldn't admit his infirmity. His mother found out about it when she found him listening to television with the sound turned high.

The boy was found to have a mastoid condition and an operation started him on the road back to normal hearing.

"But I had learned to get along in a silent world," he remarked.

"Deafness also taught me something I find of value in acting. Being unable to hear people speak, I had to judge them on their facial characteristics and how they moved.

He is the son of Michael Anderson, the British director of Around the World in 80 Days."

Deafness proved an asset for him as an actor but it also brought a drawback.

"My speech had gotten lazy, because I couldn't hear myself talk," he said. "I had to take lessons to improve my diction."

LISTENS TO PROBLEMS—Rev. Frederick W. Metzger, Presbyterian padre of Vancouver's Central City Mission, listens to problems of a man who has come for help. The mission, an interdenominational centre established by businessmen, provides meals, clothes, a bed, advice and religious counsel for up to 90 persons a day. (CP Photo).

City Mission on Skid Road Helps the Hungry, Jobless

VANCOUVER (CP)—The interdenominational Central City Mission on Vancouver's Skid Road is unique in North America in its work for the hungry, jobless and friendless.

Established by city businessmen many years ago, it provides meals, clothes, a bed and advice but does not push religion down the throats of those seeking help.

Rev. Frederick W. Metzger, the mission's Presbyterian padre, hears the problems of up to 90 persons a day and deals with such diverse needs as a jacket for a man just out of jail to a vocational course for a teen-ager.

The mission has a week-long series of concerts, speakers and entertainment and various ministers and songsters at Sunday services.

It provides a "real possibility of a living encounter with Christ," says Mr. Metzger. "We don't push religion down their throats but it is there if they want it and a real help."

The major part of Padre Metzger's work is counselling men who come to him from all parts of Canada.

They are not alcoholics.

"They are hungry, jobless, friendless," he says. "So some of them drink. We don't solve all their problems, we channel them. Sure, some of them can be phonies but I give them all a hearing. I'm getting to know a lot of them too."

British Town Crier Shivers Way Through Downtown Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — The historic British cry of "oyes, oyes" struck through the chill air Monday as London's town crier Alfie Howard shivered his way through downtown Toronto.

Although complaining of the 40 - degree temperature and brisk gusts whipping around his thinly - stockinged legs, Alfie Kept a stiff upper lip in the best British tradition for the first day of the British Travel Association's "Visit Britain Week" celebrations.

With his century - old brass bell to attract listeners, the Cockney crier rattled off the news in a startling mixture of traditional and current.

An example: "Oyes, oyes . . . two Toronto men missed death last night . . . God save the Queen."

Alfie's 17th-century costume featured yellow knee - length breeches, wine - colored jacket with lace and frills at the cuffs and neck, buckle shoes and a tricorne hat.

Every 10 minutes a red double-decker bus imported from London rumbled past, packed with Torontonians enjoying a free view from an unusual angle.

During the lunch hour, the big bus became a little too popular and police were called in to control people crowding on for a downtown ride.

Also part of the celebrations was the afternoon opening of a "Soldiers of the Queen" exhibition by Canadian publisher Roy Thomson, wearing his kilt as honorary colonel of the Toronto Scottish Regiment.

And after hour on the hour, the resonant chimes of Westminster's Big Ben echoed hollowly and electronically through the city centre.

At noon, a parade led by girls in British national costume and frustration.

Padre Metzger is Hungarian-born and was chosen by the then Liberal minister, John Pickersgill, to go to Europe to screen Hungarian families coming to British Columbia after the 1956 uprising.

Crucial Battle for Control Of U.S. Congress Moving Into the Showdown Stage

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP)—A crucial battle for control of the United States Congress is moving into the showdown stage as American politicians step up their campaigns for a general election Nov. 6.

The presidency is not at stake in this off-year congressional election but the decisions of the estimated 85,000,000 U.S. voters Nov. 6 could drastically affect President Kennedy's own political strength, and perhaps his political future.

What the voters decide in electing a new House of Representatives and about one-third of the Senate could make or break Kennedy's legislative programs and plans in the final two years of his present term. In effect, the entire range of his domestic and foreign policies, including Cuba, will be on trial.

Up for election will be all 435 seats in the House and 39 of the 100 seats in the Senate as well as 36 of the 50 state governorships and hundreds of state offices ranging all the way down to dogcatcher. Congressmen are elected for two years. Senators are elected for six years, with one-third up for re-election every two years. State governors get either two years or four years, depending on state law.

Congressional elections are held every two years; presidential elections every four. Kennedy comes up for re-election in 1964.

BOOST CONTROL

As the president plunges into the campaign, his immediate hope is to increase his Democratic party's control over both congressional chambers and to retain and increase state party strength which could help put him back in the White House for a second term two years from now.

While it appears that Democrats will retain control of both Houses, their majorities are likely to be reduced. The one in this century—in 1934—that the president's party increased its majorities in an off-year election. Politser predictions lean to the possibility that Republicans will make modest gains.

This would add to Kennedy's troubles. With Democratic rule by 269 to 174 in the last House and by 64 to 36 in the last Senate, a coalition of southern conservative Democrats and right-wing Republicans has stalled or weakened many of Kennedy's most important legislative proposals. The 437 seats in the last House have been reduced to 435 by a redistribution of representation.

The president's decision to back integration of the University of Mississippi by sending troops into a bloody riot in Oxford, Miss., has not increased his popularity in the south and he now looks to the northern states to elect more Democrats to support his racial and other policies.

First Roman Catholic to hold the presidency, Kennedy has secured white personal acclaim, but controversy and bad luck dogged his first two years in office. At home, the economy stagnated. Abroad, Kennedy's prestige fell in the 1961 Cuban invasion fiasco.

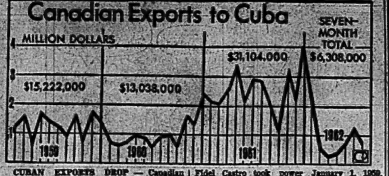
Foreign policy, particularly Cuba, is a major issue in campaign debate and Kennedy is being criticized on his handling of the Cuban problem. Democrats in home ridings have been forced on the defensive.

Adding to Democratic troubles are indications that voter apathy has set in. A big turnout usually is considered as meaning a heavy Democratic vote. A poor turnout means that low-wage earners, many of them Democrats, stayed home.

The U.S. about 113,000,000 Americans of voting age; but because of various state regulations and restrictions, the number eligible is estimated at about 85,000,000. Of these, perhaps about 47,500,000 may turn out at the polls, compared with 45,600,000 in the last off-year election in 1958.

Kennedy's campaign emphasis—not that of former Republican president Eisenhower—is on the big states with their heavy concentration of ridings where party control may be crucial in the 1964 presidential battle.

NIXON ATTACK



Out in California, Richard M. Nixon, former Republican vice-president; is using his old soft-on-communism attack in an attempt to grab the state governorship from Democrat Edmund G. (Pat) Brown. While California has more registered Democrats than Republicans, the trend indicates a stiff fight.

In Michigan, former automaker George Romney, a Republican making his debut in politics, is out to defeat State Governor John B. Swainson, native of Windsor, Ont., a decorated anti-tank veteran who is accused by Romney of lacking leadership qualities.

In Pennsylvania, another front-line state, Democrats are reported in trouble with Republican congressman William Scranton, scion of a pioneer family, matched against Philadelphia Mayor Richardson Dilworth, a Kennedy man, for the governorship. David Lawrence, the present governor, helped boost Kennedy into the party presidential nomination two years ago.

Biggest of all state contests is in New York where Republican Governor Nelson Rockefeller is considered a sure bet for re-election against Democrat Robert Morgenthau, son of Henry Morgenthau, Jr., U.S. secretary of the treasury under president Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Canadian Exports to Cuba

CUBAN EXPORTS DROP — Canadian sales of non-strategic goods to Cuba were in sharp decline for months before the current shipping quarantine imposed by the United States.

Graph traces monthly export trend since Fidel Castro took power January 1, 1959. Exports totalled a record $31,104,000 last year but dropped in the early months of this year.

From a December, 1961, high of about $4,000,000, the monthly total declined to $346,000 in March. (CP Newsmap.)
